

67a.3

THE
NEW AND COMPLETE DICTIONARY
OF THE
ENGLISH LANGUAGE.

IN WHICH

ALL THE WORDS are intro- duced, The DIFFERENT SPELLINGS preserved, The Sounds of the LETTERS occa- sionally distinguished,	The OBSOLETE and UNCOM- MON WORDS supported by AUTHORITIES, And the DIFFERENT CON- STRUCTION and USES illuf- trated by EXAMPLES.
---	---

TO WHICH IS PREFIXED,

A COMPREHENSIVE GRAMMAR.

By JOHN ASH, LL.D.

Author of GRAMMATICAL INSTITUTES; or, An EASY INTRODUC-TION to Dr. LOWTH'S ENGLISH GRAMMAR.

IN TWO VOLUMES.

VOL. II.

L O N D O N:
PRINTED FOR EDWARD AND CHARLES DILLY IN THE POULTRY; AND
R. BALDWIN IN PATER-NOSTER ROW.

MDCCLXXV.

[Price Twelve Shillings.]

THE
NEW AND COMPLETE DICTIONARY
OF THE
ENGLISH LANGUAGE

IN WHICH

ALL THE WORDS OF THE
ENGLISH LANGUAGE
ARE EXPLAINED
AND THE DIFFERENT SPELLINGS
OF THE SAME ARE SET DOWN WITH THE DIFFERENCE OF
THE SOUNDS
OF THE LETTERS
AND THE DIFFERENCE OF
THE SOUNDS
OF THE LETTERS

TO WHICH IS PREFIXED

A COMPLETE GRAMMAR

BY JOHN KILBY

Author of the Grammar of the English Language and the Grammar of the French Language

LONDON

1755

Printed for J. DODD

at the Sign of the Crown in St. Pauls Church-yard and at the Sign of the Anchor in the Strand

THE NEW AND COMPLETE DICTIONARY OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE.

N Æ V

N. (S.) The thirteenth letter and tenth consonant of the English alphabet; as a Latin numeral it stands for nine hundred, and with a dash over it for nine thousand.
a (adj. obsolete) No, none. Cbaucer.
a'am (s. a law term) A seizure of moveable goods, a distraint.
A'AMAN (s. from the Heb. signifying beautiful) A man's name.
A'AMATH (s. from the Heb.) The name of a place.
a'amathite (s. from Naamath) An inhabitant of Naamath.
a'amite (s. from Naaman) A descendent of Naaman.
A'ASHON (s. from the Heb. signifying one that foretells) A man's name.
AB (v. t. from the Swedish nappa, but used chiefly in low or droll style) To catch unexpectedly, to come upon at unawares.
ab (s. a cant word) A head, the head.
ab (v. t. a colloquial word) To bite, to bite with repeated quick but gentle motion.
A'BAL (s. from the Heb. signifying a fool) A man's name.
ab'bed (p. from nab) Caught unexpectedly; bitten.
ab'bing (p. a. from nab) Catching unexpectedly; biting.
ab'cheat (s. a cant word) A hat.
ab'girder (s. a cant word) A bridle.
A'BOB (s.) A viceroy or governor in one of the provinces of the empire of the Great Mogul; one who has acquired a large fortune in the East Indies.
ABONAS/SAR (s.) The name of a king of Babylon, famous for an æra or method of computing time which commenced with the beginning of his reign, in the seven hundred and forty seventh year before Christ.
A'BOTH (s. from the Heb. signifying a discourse) A man's name.
ac'ca (s. in old records) A yacht, a small ship.
ack'er (s. a different spelling) The naker, the mother of pearl. Scott.
AC'RE (s. a correct spelling, from the French) The mother of pearl. Bailey.
ad (v. t. obsolete) To be destitute of. Bailey.
A'DAB (s. from the Heb. signifying a free gift) A man's name.
A'DIR (s. in astronomy, from the Arabic) That point in the heavens which is directly opposite to the zenith; the point which is directly under our feet in the hemisphere below the horizon; that which has respect to something else as opposite to it. Saliculus.
Æ'NIA (s. from the Greek νῆνις) A lamentation, a song or tune anciently sung at funerals.
Æ'VI (s. plu. of nævus) The marks or impressions on the skin of an infant before its birth, made by the imagination of the mother.

N A I

NÆ'VOSE (adj. from nævus) Marked with spots or freckles.
NÆVOS'ITY (s. from nævose) The state of being marked with freckles.
NÆ'VUS (s. from the Lat.) A mole, a natural mark on the body.
Naf (s. a different spelling) A neif, a bond woman. Scott.
NAFT (s. in ornithology) The name of a tufted sea bird.
NAG (s. from the Dutch nagge) A small horse, a horse chiefly used for riding; a paramour.
Nag'al (s. a local word) A weight for wool containing seven pounds.
NAG'GE (s. from the Heb. signifying brightness) A man's name.
NAHA'RAN (s. from the Heb. signifying brightness) A man's name.
NA'HASH (s. from the Heb. signifying a serpent) A man's name.
NA'HOR (s. from the Heb. signifying hot) A man's name.
NA'HUM (s. from the Heb. signifying a comforter) A man's name, the title of one of the prophetic books of scripture.
NAI'AD (s. in heathen mythology, from the Greek ναῖα to flow) One of the fabulous nymphs haunting rivers and fountains.
Nai'ades (s. plu. from naiad) The nymphs supposed to haunt rivers and fountains.
NAI'ANT (adj. in heraldry, from the Lat. nato to swim) Drawn as swimming, drawn as fishes in a transverse direction.
Nai'ed (adj. obsolete) Denied, refused. Cbaucer.
Nai'eth (v. t. third pers.) Denieth. Cbaucer.
NA'JAS (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
NAIF (adj. with jewellers, from the French) Natural, having a quick natural appearance. Scott.
NAIL (s. from the Sax. noegi) The horny substance at the ends of the fingers and toes; the talons of a beast or bird; a spike or metal to fasten things together; a stud, a boss; a measure, the sixteenth part of a yard or ell.
Nail (v. t. from the sub.) To fasten with nails, to stud with nails. "On the nail," readily, immediately; bearing only on the nail.
Nail'ed (p. from nail) Fastened with nails, studded with nails.
Nail'er (s. from nail) A nail maker.
Nail'ing (p. a. from nail) Fastening with nails, studding with nails.
Nail'ing (s. from the part.) The act of fastening with nails, the act of making nails, the fastening effected by nails.

Nail'wort

N A P

Nailwort (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
NAIN (s. from the Heb. signifying beauty) The name of a town in the land of Israel.
NAI'OTH (s. from the Heb. signifying abodes) The name of a place. 1 Sam.
NAIRNE (s.) A borough and port town in Scotland, situate at the entrance of the Frith of Murray.
NAIS'SANT (adj. in heraldry) Issuing out of some ordinary or charge.
NA'KED (adj. from the Sax. nakad) Uncovered, bare, wanting clothes; unarmed, defenceless; plain, evident; mere, simple, abstracted.
Na'kedi (adv. from naked) Without covering, openly, evidently, simply, merely.
Na'kedness (s. from naked) The want of covering, the want of defence, plainness, want of concealment; poverty, meanness.
Na'ker (s. in ichthyology) The name of a sea fish.
NA'KIB (s.) The cadi, the deputy of Egypt.
Nak'id (p. obsolete) Stripped, deformed, made naked. C.
Na'koners (s. obsolete) Brazen horns, a kind of cymbals. C.
NA'KOUS (s.) A kind of musical instrument consisting of two brass plates suspended by a thread.
Nale (s. obsolete) An alehouse, Chaucer.
Nall (s. an uncommon spelling) An awl, an instrument for making holes used by collar makers. Tusser.
Nalle (s. an obsolete spelling) A nail. Chaucer.
NAME (s. from the Sax. nama) The distinguishing appellation of an individual, the term by which any kind of species is distinguished; a person, an individual; character, reputation; renown, fame; power, authority; delegated power, imputed character; an appearance, an assumed character; an opprobrious appellation.
Name (v. t. from the sub.) To distinguish by a particular appellation, to specify, to nominate, to utter, to mention; to give a name to.
Name (v. obsolete) Took, did take. Chaucer.
Na'med (p. from name) Mentioned by name, distinguished by a name.
Na'meless (adj. from name) Having no name, having no name mentioned.
Na'mely (adv. from name) Particularly, specially, as distinguished by name.
Na'mer (s. from name) One that gives a name, one that nominates.
Na'melake (s. from name, and fake) One that has the same name with another.
Na'miliche (adv. obsolete) Namely. Chaucer.
Na'mily (adv. obsolete) Namely. Chaucer.
Na'ming (p. a. from name) Giving a name, mentioning by name, nominating.
Na'ming (s. from the part.) The act or ceremony of giving a name.
NAMPT'WICH (s.) A town in Cheshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 161 miles from London.
Nampt'wich (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Namptwich, made at Namptwich.
NAN (s. in familiar sty.e) Ann, a woman's name.
NAN'CY (s. from Ann) A woman's name.
Nane (s. obsolete) None, no one. Chaucer.
Nan'ny (s. the diminutive of Ann) A woman's name.
NAO'MI (s. from the Heb. signifying beautiful) The name of a woman.
NAP (s. from the Sax. noeppen to sleep) A short sleep, a slumber.
NAP (s. from the Sax. knoppa) A kind of down, a roughness on the surface of cloth.
Nap (v. int. from the sub.) To sleep, to take a short sleep; to be drowsy, to be secure; to become soft with down.
Nap (v. t. from the sub.) To raise a kind of down on cloth.
NAPÆ'Æ (s. in beaten mythology, from the Greek νᾶρος a grove) The nymphs of the woods and mountains.
NAPE (s. of uncertain etymology) The joint of the neck behind.
NAPEL'LUS (s. in botany) The monkshood.
NAP'ERY (s. from the Italian naperia) Table linen.
NA'PHE (s. in botany, from the Lat. napus) A kind of turnep. Scott.
Naph'ew (s. in botany, a different spelling) The name of an herb. Johns.m.
NA'PHISH (s. from the Heb. signifying the foul) A man's name.
NAPH'TALI (s. from the Heb. signifying similitude) A man's name, one of the tribes of Israel.
NAPH'THA (s. in natural history) A kind of bitumen.
Na'priersbones, Napriersrods (s. from the name of their inventor, a Scotch nobleman) An instrument consisting of small rods to expedite arithmetical calculations.
NAP'KIN (s. the derivation is uncertain) A cloth used at table to wipe the hands; a handkerchief; but this sense is now obsolete or colloquial. Shakespeare.

N A R

NA'PLES (s. in geography) A kingdom in Italy, the capital of that kingdom.
Nap'less (adj. from nap) Having no nap, threadbare.
NAPP (v. int. from the Sax. knoeppen) To sleep, to be drowsy, to be careless or secure.
Nap'ped (p. from nap) Furnished with a nap or down.
Nap'piness (s. from nappy) The quality of having a nap or down on the surface.
Nap'ping (p. a. from nap) Sleeping by short intervals, indulging to ease; raising a nap or down on cloth.
Nap'pith (v. int. third perf. obsolete) Sleepeth. Chaucer.
Nap'py (adv. from nap) Frothy, spumy; covered with a nap or down.
Nap'pron (s. an obsolete spelling) An apron. Chaucer.
Nap'taking (s. from nap, and take) A seizure on a sudden, a surprise, an unexpected onset.
NA'PUS (s. in botany) The turnep, the rape, a species of the brassica.
Nar (adv. obsolete) Narrowly. Chaucer.
Nar (adj. obsolete) Near, nearer. Spenser.
NAR'BARTH (s.) A town in Pembrokehire; it has a market on Wednesday, and is 231 miles from London.
Nar'barth (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Narbarth, made at Narbarth.
Narcis'sine (adj. from narcissus) Belonging to the narcissus, like the white daffodil.
NARCIS'SUS (s. from the Greek) The name of a man. Id.
NARCIS'SUS (s. in botany) The white daffodil.
NARCO'SIS (s. with physicians, from the Greek) A privation of sense.
Narcot'ic (adj. from narcosis) Producing torpor, stupifying.
Narcot'ic (s. from the adj.) A medicine to take away the sense of pain, a kind of opiate.
Narcot'ical (adj. from narcotic) Depriving of sense, stupifying.
Narcot'icness (s. from narcotic) The quality which takes away the sense of pain. Scott.
NARD (s. from the Greek νάρδος) An odoriferous shrub, spikenard, a kind of ointment.
NAR'DOS (s. in botany and medicine) The nard.
NARE (s. from the Lat. naris, but not used) A nostril. Id.
NA'RES (s. from the Lat.) The nostrils.
Nar'rabile (adj. from the Lat. narro to tell) Capable of being told, fit to be related.
NARRAN'GIA (s. with the Arabs) A kind of divination drawn from the various appearances of the sun and moon.
NAR'RATE (v. t. from the Lat. narro to tell) To relate to tell.
Nar'rated (p. from narrate) Related, told.
Nar'rating (p. a. from narrate) Relating, telling.
Narra'tion (s. from narrate) A relation, a history of facts.
Nar'rative (adj. from narrate) Relating, giving a narration, telling a story.
Nar'rative (s. from the adj.) A relation, a story.
Nar'ratively (adv. from narrative) By way of narrative.
Narra'tor (s. from narrate) One that relates, one that gives a narration.
Nar'rel (s. not used) A nostril. Bailey.
Nar'rified (p. from narrify, but not used) Narrated, delivered in narrative.
NAR'RIFY (v. t. from the Lat. narro to relate, but not used of late) To narrate, to give an account of.
Nar'rifying (p. a. from narrify, but not used) Narrating, delivering in narrative.
NAR'ROW (adj. from the Sax. naara) Having a small distance from side to side, having little width compared with the length, having no great extent; near, within a small distance; close, vigilant; covetous, greedy.
Nar'row (s. from the adj.) A narrow passage, a strait.
Nar'row (v. t. from the adj.) To diminish in breadth, to confine, to limit; to contract, to bring into a smaller compass.
Nar'row (v. int. in the manage) To go with the legs too close together.
Nar'rowed (p. from narrow) Diminished in width, contracted, limited.
Nar'rower (adj. comp. of narrow) Narrow in a greater degree.
Nar'rowest (adj. sup. of narrow) Narrow in the greatest degree.
Nar'rowhearted (adj. from narrow, and heart) Contracted in sentiment, ungenerous.
Nar'rowing (p. a. from narrow) Diminishing in width, contracting, limiting.
Nar'rowing (s. from the part.) A narrow place, a narrow part.
Nar'rowly (adv. from narrow) With little breadth, with little extent; nearly, within a little; closely, vigilantly; sparingly, avaritiously.

N A T

Nar'rowness (s. from narrow) The want of breadth, the want of extent, the want of capacity; the want of generosity.

Nar'rowfouled (adj. from narrow, and foul) Contracted in sentiment, ungenerous.

Nar'rowspirited (adj. from narrow, and spirit) Contracted in sentiment, void of generosity.

NAR'VAL (s. in ichthyology) The unicorn fish.

Nar'we (adj. an obsolete spelling) Narrow. Chaucer.

Nar'whale (s. in ichthyology) A kind of whale.

Nas (v. t. third pers. obsolete) Has not, was not. Sp.

NA'SAL (adj. from the Lat. nasus the nose) Belonging to the nose.

NASA'LIA (s. with physicians) A form of medicine to be taken by the nose.

NASCA'LIA (s. with physicians) A form of medicine to be administered through the neck of the womb.

Nasda (s. in chymistry) A protuberance on the back. B.

Nash (adj. not so common a spelling) Nesh. Cole.

NA'SIAS (s. in anatomy) The thin bone which forms the upper part of the nose.

NASICOR'NOUS (adj. from the Lat. nasus a nose, and cornu a horn) Having a horn on the nose.

Nas'ie (adj. a local word) Drunken. Cole.

Nas'kin (s. a cant word) A jail, a bridewell. Cole.

NAST (s. from the German, but used only in colloquial style) Nastiness, dirt.

Nas'tier (adj. comp. of nasty) Nasty in a greater degree.

Nas'tiest (adj. sup. of nasty) Nasty in the greatest degree.

Nas'tily (adv. from nasty) Dirtily, filthily, obscenely.

Nas'tiness (s. from nasty) Dirtiness, filth, obscenity.

NASTUR'CES (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

NASTUR'TIUM (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

NASTY (adj. from the German nast wet) Dirty, filthy, sordid, polluted, obscene, lewd.

Nat (adv. an obsolete spelling) Not. Chaucer.

Nat (s. obsolete) Nought. Chaucer.

Nat (v. int. obsolete) To know not. Chaucer.

NA'TAL (adj. from the Lat. natalis) Native, belonging to nativity.

NATA'NIS (s. from the Lat.) A birth day, the feast held on the anniversary of the birth day.

NATALI'TIA (s. in Roman antiquity) Feasts celebrated in honour of the genii.

Natali'tious (adj. from natal) Belonging to nativity, belonging to a birth day.

NATA'TILE (adj. from the Lat. nato to swim) Swimming, able to swim. Bailey.

NATA'TION (s. from the Lat. nato to swim) The act of swimming.

NA'TES (s. in anatomy) The protuberances commonly called the buttocks.

Na'ted (adj. not used) Born, framed by nature. Cole.

Nath (v. t. third pers. obsolete) Has not. Chaucer.

NA'THAN (s. from the Heb. signifying a giver) A man's name.

NATHAN'AEL (s. from the Heb. signifying the gift of God) A man's name.

NA'THANME'LECH (s. from the Heb. signifying the gift of the king) A man's name.

Nath'less (adv. obsolete) Nevertheless. Milton.

Nath'more (adv. obsolete) Never the more. Spenser.

NA'TION (s. from the Lat. natio) The people of any particular country, generally distinguished from others by their language, customs and manners.

National (adj. from nation) Belonging to a nation, general, public; bigotted to one's own nation.

Nationally (adv. from national) With regard to the nation, in a manner comprising the whole nation.

Nationalness (s. from national) The state or quality of being national.

NA'TIVE (adj. from the Lat. nativus) Natural, produced by nature, relating to birth, conferred by birth; original.

Na'tive (s. from the adj.) One born in any place, an original inhabitant; an offspring.

Na'tiveness (s. from native) The state of being produced by nature.

Nativ'ity (s. from native) Birth, the time, place or manner of birth, the state or place of being born; the state of the heavens at one's birth, and the prognostics drawn from it by astrologers.

NATO'LIA (s. in geography) The modern name of the Lesser Asia.

NA'TRIX (s. in botany) The oronis.

NA'TRIX (s. in zoology) A species of serpents.

NA'TRON (s. in natural history) A kind of black salt imported from Egypt.

NA'TRUM (s. in natural history) The nitre of the ancients.

N A V

NAT'TA (s. in surgery) A large soft swelling without pain or inflammation, usually growing on the neck or shoulders.

Nat'ural (adj. from nature) Produced or effected by nature, bestowed by nature, consonant to nature, tender, affectionate in temper; unaffected, easy; illegitimate, base born.

Nat'ural (s. from the adj.) An idiot, a person void of understanding; a gift of nature, a native; but these last senses are now grown obsolete. Raleigh.

Nat'uralist (s. from natural) One who studies the productions of nature, a natural philosopher.

Naturaliza'tion (s. from naturalize) The act of investing a foreigner with the privileges of a native subject.

Nat'uralize (v. t. from natural) To make natural, to make easy like things natural; to adopt into a community, to invest a foreigner with the privileges of a native subject.

Nat'uralized (p. from naturalize) Made natural, invested with the privileges of a native subject.

Nat'uralizing (p. a. from naturalize) Making natural, investing a foreigner with the privileges of a native subject.

Nat'urally (adv. from natural) According to nature, spontaneously, unaffectedly.

Nat'urness (s. from natural) The state of being natural.

NA'TURE (s. from the Lat. natura) The state or operation of the natural world, the state or properties of any thing by which it may be distinguished from others; the constitution of the body or mind; the compass of natural existence; the science of natural things; a sort, a kind, a species.

Na'tured (adj. from nature, chiefly used in composition) Conditioned, disposed by nature.

Natur'ity (s. from nature, but now grown obsolete) The state of being produced by nature. Brown.

Nat'wilne (s. an old word) The want of desire, unwillingness. Cole.

NA'VAL (adj. from the Lat. navis a ship) Belonging to ships, consisting of ships.

Nau'cify (v. t. not authorized) To slight, to disesteem. Cole.

NAVE (s. from the Sax. naf) That part of a wheel in which the axle turns; the middle part of a church as distinguished from the aisles.

NA'VEL (s. from the Sax. nafela) The point in the middle of the belly; the middle, the interior part.

Na'veigall (s. from navel, and gall) A bruise or gall on the top of the back of a horse, in a point nearly opposite the navel.

Na'velstring (s. from navel, and string) The ligament by which an embryo communicates with the mother or dam.

Na'veltimbers (s. a sea term) The ribs of a ship.

Na'velwort (s. in botany) An herb.

Na'vew (s. in botany, from napus) A kind of turnep, a kind of rape, a species of brassica.

Nau'frage (s. from the Lat. naufragium) Shipwreck. Sc.

NAUGHT (s. from the Sax. naht) Nothing.

Naught (adj. from the sub.) Bad, corrupt, worthless.

Naught'ier (adj. comp. of naught) Naughty in a greater degree.

Naught'iest (adj. sup. of naught) Naughty in the greatest degree.

Naught'ily (adv. from naughty) Wickedly, corruptly.

Naught'iness (s. from naughty) Badness, wickedness.

Naught'y (adj. from naught, but now used chiefly in droll style) Bad, wicked, corrupt; censurable, blameworthy.

NAVIC'ULA (s. in old records) A small dish to hold frankincense before it was put into the censer; a small ship.

Navic'ular (adj. from navicula) Belonging to a small ship, resembling a small ship or boat.

NAVIC'ULAR (s. in anatomy) The third bone of the foot, lying between the astragalus and the cuneiformia.

NAVIGABLE (adj. from the Lat. navigo to navigate) Capable of being navigated, passible by ships or boats.

Nav'igableness (s. from navigable) The state of being navigable.

Nav'igate (v. t. from the Lat. navigo) To sail through, to pass by ships or boats.

Nav'igate (v. int.) To sail, to pass in ships or boats.

Navigated (p. from navigate) Passed by ships or boats.

Navigating (p. a. from navigate) Sailing, passing by ships or boats.

Naviga'tion (s. from navigate) The act of passing in ships ships or boats, the vessels which pass on any water, the property of a navigable river or canal; the act of directing the course of a ship.

N E A

NAVIGATOR (s. from navigate) A sailor, a seaman.

NAVIG'ER'OUS (adj. from the Lat. navis a ship, and fero to carry) Capable of bearing a ship or vessel. Scott.

NA'VIS (s. from the Lat.) A ship, or bark.

NA'VIS (s. in old records) The name of a church; a dish to hold frankincense before it was put into the censer.

NAVITY (s. from the Lat. navitas, but not used) Diligence. Bailey.

NAU'LAGE (s. from the Lat. nulum) The freight paid by passengers on board a ship; the money paid for freight on board a ship, money paid for water carriage.

NAU'LUM (s. in ancient customs) A piece of money which the ancient Greeks and Romans put into the mouth of a deceased person, to pay the supposed passage over the Stygian lake.

NA'UM (s. a different spelling) Nahum.

NAUMA'CHIA, NAU'MACHY (s. from the Greek nau a ship, and μαχη a fight) A sea fight, the representation of a sea fight.

NAU'SEA (s. from the Lat.) A sickness at the stomach.

NAU'SEABUND (adj. from the Lat. nauseabundus, but not used) Seafick. Bailey.

Nau'seate (v. t. from nausea) To loath, to strike with disgust, to reject with disgust.

Nau'seated (p. from nauseate) Rejected with disgust.

Nau'seating (p. a. from nauseate) Loathing, rejecting with disgust.

Nau'seative (adj. from nauseate, but not much used) Nauseous. Bailey.

Na'eous (adj. from nausea) Loathsome, disgusting, regarded with abhorrence.

Nau'seously (adv. from nauseous) Loathsomely, disgustfully.

Nau'seouness (s. from nauseous) Loathsomeness.

Naus'tible (s. not sufficiently authorized) A haven for ships. Cole.

NAU'TIC (adj. from the Lat. nauticus) Belonging to sailors.

Nau'tical (adj. from nautic) Nautic, belonging to sailors.

NAU'TICUS (s. in anatomy) The tibialis, a muscle of the tarsus.

NAU'TILUS (s. in ichthyology) A shell fish furnished with something analogous to oars and sails.

NAU'TILUS (s. in natural history) A petrified shell found in the earth resembling one found in the water.

NA'VY (s. from the Lat. navis a ship) A fleet, an assembly of ships, the naval force of a nation.

Nazare'an (adj. from Nazareth) Belonging to Nazareth.

Nazare'an (s. from the adj.) An inhabitant of Nazareth.

Nazare'ne (s. from Nazareth) An inhabitant of Nazareth, a native of Nazareth.

NAZ'ARETH (s. from the Heb. signifying a branch) A district in the land of Israel.

NAZ'ARITE (s. from the Heb. signifying a person separated) One of a strict sect among the Jews.

NAY (adv. from the Sax. na) No; not only so but more.

Nay (s. from the adv.) A denial, a refusal.

"He that will not when he may,
"When he will he shall have nay."

Nay'ward (s. from nay, and ward) A denial, the side of a denial. Shakespeare.

Nay'word (s. from nay, and word) A bye word, a proverbial reproach; a denial. Shakespeare.

NE (adv. from the Sax. but now grown obsolete) Not, neither. Spenser.

Neaf (s. retained in the Scotch dialect) A fist, the fist.

NEAL (s.) A man's name.

NEAL (v. t. from the Sax. anelan to kindle) To temper by a gradual and regular heat.

Neal (v. int.) To be tempered in the fire.

Neal'ed (p. from Neal) Tempered by a regular heat.

Neal'ed (adj. a sea term) Deep towards the shore, foul, oozy.

Neal'ing (p. a. from Neal) Tempering in a gentle heat.

Neal'ing (s. from the part.) The art or act of tempering in a gentle heat.

NEAP (adj. from the Sax. nepfod) Low, decreasing.

Neap (s. from the adj.) A low tide.

Neap'ed (adj. a sea term) Beneaped, wanting sufficient depth of water.

Neap'tide (s. from neap, and tide) A tide which happens at the first or last quarter of the moon, a low tide.

NEAP'OLIS (s. in ancient geography) A town in Greece.

N E C

Neapol'itan (adj. from Naples) Belonging to Naples.

Neapol'itan (s. from the sub.) A native of the kingdom of Naples.

NEAR (prep. from the Sax. ner) Nigh, at no great distance from.

Near (adv. from the prep.) Almost, within a little.

Near (adj. from the prep.) Placed at no great distance, close; intimate, familiar; sparing, parsimonious; standing in close relation; with of; as, "Near of kin." "Near hand," closely, almost. Bacon.

Near'er (adj. comp. of near) Near in a greater degree.

Near'est (adj. sup. of near) Near in the greatest degree.

Near'ly (adj. from near) At no great distance, closely, niggardly.

Near'ness (s. from near) Closeness, intimacy, a tendency to avarice.

NEAT (s. from the Sax.) A cow, an ox; black cattle.

Near's feet, the feet of black cattle. Near's leather, leather dressed from the hide of a bullock. Near's tongue, the tongue of an ox or cow.

NEAT (adj. from the Lat. nitidus) Elegant, cleanly, pure.

Neat'er (adj. comp. of neat) Neat in a greater degree.

Neat'est (adj. sup. of neat) Neat in the greatest degree.

NEATH (s.) A town in Glamorganshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 201 miles from London.

Neath (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Neath, made at Neath.

Neat'headed (adj. from neat, and hand) Cleanly, neat in dressing food.

Neat'herd (s. from neat, and herd) One who has the care of cattle, a cow keeper.

Neat'land (s. a law term) Land let out to the yeomanry.

Neat'ly (adj. from neat) Elegantly, sprucely; with cleanliness.

Neat'ness (s. from neat) Elegance, spruceness, cleanliness.

Neat'weight (s. in commerce) The weight of any commodity without the package or cask.

Neav'ing (s. a local word) Barm. Bailey.

NEB (s. from the Sax. nebbe) The nose, a mouth; the bill of a bird. Johnson.

NEBA'OTH (s. from the Heb. signifying words) A man's name.

NE'BAT (s. from the Heb. signifying a beholder) A man's name.

NE'BEL (s. in Jewish antiquity) The psalttery.

NE'BO (s. from the Heb. signifying one that speaks) A district, a mountain, a city in the land of Canaan.

NEB'UCHADNEZ'ZAR (s. from the Heb. signifying the fruits of judgment) A man's name.

NEB'ULA (s. from the Lat.) A cloud, an appearance like a cloud in the eye or any part of the body.

NEB'ULE, NEBULEE' (adj. in heraldry) Cloudy, representing clouds.

NEB'ULE (s. from the Lat. nebula) A cloud. Chaucer.

NEB'ULOSE (adj. from the Lat. nebulosus) Cloudy, misty.

NEB'ULOUS (adj. the more common spelling, from the Lat. nebulosus) Cloudy, misty.

NEB'ULY (adj. in heraldry) Cloudy, representing clouds.

NEB'UZARHAD'AN (s. from the Heb. signifying fruits of judgment) A man's name.

NECA'TION (s. from the Lat. neco to kill, but not used) The act of killing. Bailey.

Nece (s. an obsolete spelling) A niece. Chaucer.

Necessaries (s. seldom used in the singular) Things needful, things which come into daily use.

Necessarily (adv. from necessary) indispensably, by inevitable consequence.

Necessariness (s. from necessary) The state or quality of being necessary.

NECESSARY (adj. from the Lat. necessarius) Needful, indispensably requisite; conclusive, decisive by inevitable consequence; fatal, impelled by fate.

Necessaire (adj. an obsolete spelling) Necessary. Chaucer.

NECES'SITATE (v. t. from the Lat. ne not, and cedo to depart) To make necessary, to impell, to deprive of choice.

Neces'sitated (p. from necessitate) Made necessary, impelled, deprived of choice.

Neces'sitating (p. a. from necessitate) Making necessary, impelling, depriving of choice.

Necessita'tion (s. from necessitate) The act of making necessary, a fatal impulsion.

Neces'sited (adj. from necessitate, but not used) Compelled through want. Shakespeare.

Neces'sitous (adj. from necessity) Needy, pressed with poverty.

Neces'sitousness (s. from necessitous) Poverty, want, need.

NECES'SITUDE

NEE

NECES/SITUDE (s. from the Lat. necessitudo) Want, need, necessity; friendship. Hale.
Necessitu'dinary (adj. from necessitudo) Belonging to friendship. Bailey.
NECES/SITY (s. from the Lat. ne not, and cedo to depart) The state of being necessary, cogency, compulsion; want, poverty; inevitable consequence.
NE/CHO (s. from the Heb. signifying lame) A man's name.
NECK (s. from the Sax. kneca) The part which joins the head and the body; a long narrow part. "On the neck," immediately after. "To break the neck," to do more than half, to hinder from being done.
Neck/about (s. a local word) A neckcloth. Bailey.
Neck/atee (s. from neck) A gorget, a handkerchief for a woman's neck.
Neck/beef (s. from neck, and beef) A piece of beef cut out of the neck.
Neck/cloth (s. from neck, and cloth) A cravat, a piece of linen worn by men about the neck.
Neck/erchief (s. from neck, and kerchief) A handkerchief worn about a woman's neck.
Neck/handkerchief (s. from neck, and handkerchief) A handkerchief worn by women about the neck.
Neck/lace (s. from neck, and lace) An ornament string worn by women about their necks.
Neck/verse (s. in old customs) That part of a book which was to be read by those who had benefit of clergy.
Neck/weed (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
NECRO/LOGY (s. from the Greek νεκρος dead, and λογος a description) A book or register of benefactors to a church or monastery.
Nec/romancer (s. from necromancy) An inchanter, a conjurer, one who was supposed to converse with departed spirits.
NEC/ROMANCY (s. from the Greek νεκρος dead, and μαντεια magic) The supposed act of revealing future events by conversing with the dead, enchantment, conjuration.
Necroman/tic (adj. from necromancy) Belonging to necromancy, performed by conjuration.
NECRO/SIS (s. from the Greek) A mortification; the act of killing.
NEC/TAR (s. from the Greek) The supposed drink of the gods; a medical drink exceeding pleasant.
Nectar/ean (adj. from nectar) Belonging to nectar, consisting of nectar.
Nectared (adj. from nectar) Mingled with nectar, abounding with nectar. Milton.
Nectar/eous (adj. from nectar) Sweet as nectar, resembling nectar.
NECTA/RIA (s. in botany) The elecampane.
Nectarine (adj. from nectar) Nectareous, sweet as nectar.
Nectarine (s. in botany) A fruit of the plum kind, a peach with a smooth rind.
Nectarin/tree (s. in botany) The tree that produces the nectarine, a kind of peach tree.
NECYOMAN/TES (s. from the Greek, but not so common a word) A necromancer. Scott.
NED (s. for Edward) A man's name.
Ned/dre (s. obsolete) An adder, a snake. Chaucer.
Nede (s. an obsolete spelling) Need, business. Chaucer.
Ned/fully (adv. an obsolete spelling) Necessarily. Chaucer.
Ned/dely (adv. obsolete) Necessarily. Chaucer.
Ned/dily (adv. obsolete) Necessarily. Chaucer.
Ned/ir (s. an obsolete spelling) An adder, a snake, a serpent. Chaucer.
Neece (s. not so common a spelling) A niece, a brother's daughter. Ury.
NEED (s. from the Sax. nead) Want, necessity, exigency, the want of any thing for use.
Need (v. t. from the sub.) To want, to lack, to require.
Need (v. int.) To be in want, to have necessity.
Need'ed (p. from need) Wanted, required.
Need'er (s. from need) One that needs, one that is in want of any thing.
Need'ful (adj. from need) Necessary, wanting.
Need'fully (adv. from needful) Necessarily.
Need'fulness (s. from needful) Want, poverty.
NEED/HAM (s.) A town in Suffolk; it has a market on Wednesday, and is 73 miles from London.
Need'ham (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Needham, made at Needham.
Need'ier (adj. comp. of needy) Needy in a greater degree.
Need'iest (adj. sup. of needy) Needy in the greatest degree.
Need'ily (adv. from needy) In need, in poverty.
Need'iness (s. from needy) Want, poverty.
NEE/DLE (s. from the Sax. nadel) A small instrument to carry thread pointed at one end and perforated at the other; the small steel bar in the mariners compass which points north and south.

NEG

Need'lefish (s. in ichthyology) A very slender sea fish.
Need'lemaker (s. from needle, and maker) One who makes needles.
Need'ler (s. from needle) A needle maker.
Need'lessly (adv. a different spelling) Needlessly. Holder.
Need'less (adj. from need) Unnecessary, not wanted.
Need'lessly (adv. from needless) Unnecessarily.
Need'lessness (s. from needless) The state or quality of being needless.
Needlework (s. from needle, and work) The business of a sempstress, embroidery performed by the needle.
Need'ment (s. from need, but now grown obsolete) Something necessary. Spenser.
NEEDS (adv. from the Sax. nedes) Necessarily, indispensably.
Need'y (adj. from need) Necessitous, poor, distressed by poverty.
Neep (adj. not so common a spelling) Neap, low. Scott.
Neep (s. not so common a spelling) The neap, the low tide.
Neep'ed (adj. not so common a spelling) Neaped, wanting sufficient depth of water. Scott.
Neep'tide (s. not so common a spelling) The neaptide. Sc.
Ne'er (adv. a contraction from) Never, at no time; not; "Have but two legs and ne'er a tail." However; "Though ne'er so wise he is mistaken." But this sense and construction is now judged improper.
Neefe (v. int. from the Danish nyse) to sneeze. 2 Kings.
Neefe (s. an old word) A nose; a headland running out into the sea like a nose. Scott.
Nees'ing (p. a. from neefe) Sneezing.
Nees'ing (s. from the part.) The act of sneezing. Job 41.
Neetz'wort (s. in botany) The name of an herb. Bailey.
Nef (s. from nave) The body of a church, a nave. Ad.
NEFAN/DOUS (adj. from the Lat. nefandus but not much used) Unfit to be spoken, heinous, horrible. Scott.
Nefan'douless (s. from nefandous, but not much used) Wickedness beyond what is fit to be uttered. Scott.
NEFA/RIOUS (adj. from the Lat. nefarius) Wicked, abominable.
Ne'gar (s. not so common a spelling) A negro. Cole.
NEGA/TION (s. from the Lat. nego to deny) A denial, the contrary to affirmation; a description by negatives. Watts.
NEG'ATIVE (adj. from the Lat. negativus) Belonging to negation, implying a denial, implying the absence of something.
Neg'ative (s. from the adj.) A particle of denial, a proposition by which something is denied, a denial.
Neg'atively (adv. from negative) With denial, in a manner implying absence or denial.
Neg'atory (adj. not used) Belonging to denial, negative. Cole.
NEG/INAH (s. from the Heb.) A kind of musical instrument.
NEG/INOTH (s. from the Heb. signifying a pulsation) A kind of musical instrument.
NEGLE/CT (v. t. from the Lat. negligo) To omit by carelessness, to postpone, to treat with coldness.
Negle'ct (s. from the verb) An omission, an inattention; negligence; coldness, ungenerous treatment.
Negle'cted (p. from neglect) Omitted, treated with coldness or inattention.
Negle'cter (s. from neglect) One that neglects.
Negle'ctful (adj. from neglect) Heedless, careless, treating with indifference.
Negle'ctfully (adj. from neglectful) With heedless inattention, with careless indifference.
Negle'cting (p. a. from neglect) Omitting through carelessness, treating with neglect.
Negle'ction (s. from neglect) The state of being negligent.
Negle'ctive (adj. from neglect) Inattention, regardless; with of; as, "Neglective of the public peace."
Neglige'e (s. from negligent) An undress, a kind of sack sometime since much worn by the ladies.
Neg'lige'nce (s. from negligent) The state or habit of being negligent, an instance of neglect.
NEG/LIGENI (adj. from the Lat. negligo to neglect) Careless, heedless, inattentive; regardless, scornfully inattentive.
Neg'ligh'tly (adv. from negligent) Carelessly, inattentively, with scornful inattention.
NEGO/CE (s. from the French) Business, trade, management of affairs. Scott.
Nego'ciable (adj. from negoce) Capable of being negotiated.

N E M

Nego'ciatory (adj. from negoce) Used in business, used in trade. Scott.
Nego'tiable (adj. a different spelling) Capable of being negotiated.
NEGO'TIATE (v. t. from the Lat. negotium business) To transact business, to manage, to put forward in traffick.
NEGO'TIATE (v. int.) To have intercourse of business, to treat, to manage: with with; as, "Have you any commission from your lord to negotiate with any face."
Nego'tiated (p. from negotiate) Transacted, managed, circulated in trade.
Nego'tiating (p. a. from negotiate) Having intercourse in business, managing, transacting.
Negoti'ation (s. from negotiate) A treaty of business.
Negotia'tor (s. from negotiate) One who is employed in negotiation.
Negotia'trix (s. from negotiator) A female manager in any affair.
NEGO'TIOUS (adj. from the Lat. negotiosus, but not much used) Full of business. Bailey.
NE'GRO (s. from the Spanish) A black, a blackmoor, an inhabitant of Nigritia in Africa.
Ne'groland (s. from negro, and land) Nigritia, a country in Africa inhabited by negroes.
NEHE'LAMITE (s. from the Heb. signifying a dreamer) The cognomen of Shemaiah the false prophet. Jer.
NEHEMIAH (s. from the Heb. signifying consolation) A man's name; the title of one of the canonical books of the Old Testament.
NE'HILOTH (s. from the Heb. signifying to lead) A kind of musical instrument.
NEHUSHTA (s. from the Heb. signifying a snake) The name of a woman.
NEHUSHTAN (s. from the Heb. signifying brazen) The brazen serpent which Moses lifted up in the wilderness so called in contempt. 2 Kings.
NEIF (s. from the Islandick nef, still retained in the Scotch dialect) The fist. Shakespeare.
NEIF (s. an old word) A bond woman, a woman who held in villinage.
Neifty (s. from neif) The ancient claim of the lord of a manor on a woman who held in villinage for his wife.
NEIGH (v. int. from the Sax. knægan) To utter the voice as a horse or mare.
Neigh (s. from the verb) The voice of a horse or mare.
Neigh (v. t. obsolete) To draw near to, to approach. Ch.
Neighing (p. a. from neigh) Uttering the voice as a horse or mare.
Neighing (s. from the part.) The voice of a horse or mare.
NEIGH'BOUR (s. from the Sax. neghbur) One who lives near to another; an intimate, a confident; an expression of civility, a familiar appellation; any thing next or near; one entitled to kind offices.
Neigh'bour (v. t. from the Lat.) To adjoin, to make near to.
Neigh'bourhood (p. from neighbour) Made near to, adjoined; with by and to; as, "Neighboured by fruit of baefer quality." "And since so neighboured to his youth."
Neigh'bourhood (s. from neighbour) The places adjoining, the state of being near to each other, the people that live within reach of communication.
Neigh'bouring (p. a. from neighbour) Living near, situate in the neighbourhood.
Neigh'bourliness (s. from neighbourly) The state or quality of being neighbourly. Scott.
Neigh'bourly (adj. from neighbour) Becoming a neighbour; kind, civil.
Neigh'bourly (adv. from the adj.) With social civility.
Neigh'in (v. t. obsolete) To draw near to, to approach. Chaucer.
Neigh'lingbird (s. in ornithology) A small bird that imitates the neighing of a horse.
NEITHER (conj. from the Sax. nawther) Nor. nor any wife, nor even in that case.
Neither (pron. from ne not, and either) No one, no one of a number mentioned.
Neive (s. obsolete) The fist. Shakespeare.
NE'KER (s. with the Mahometans) The name of one of the two angels which are supposed to examine the souls of the departed.
Nelde (s. an obsolete spelling) A needle. Chaucer.
NELUM'BO (s. in botany) The nymphæa.
NEM'E'A (s. in geography) A town in Greece famous for the public games which were celebrated there every third year.

N E P

Nemæ'an (adj. from Nemæa) Belonging to Nemæa, belonging to the public games celebrated at Nemæa every third year.
Neme (v. t. obsolete) To name. Bailey.
Ne'men, Nem'ene (v. t. obsolete) To name, to tell. Ch.
NE'MESIS (s. in heathen mythology) The supposed goddess of punishment and revenge.
NEM'INECONTRADICEN'TE (adv. from the Lat. nemo no one, and contradico to gainsay) With general consent, without one dissenting voice.
NE'MORAL (adj. from the Lat. nemus a grove) Belonging to a grove. Scott.
NEMORIV'AGOUS (adj. from the Lat. nemus a grove, and vagor to wander) Wandering in woods, inhabiting groves. Scott.
NE'MOROSE (adj. from the Lat. nemus nemoris a grove) Full of woods, abounding with groves. Bailey.
Nemoros'ity (s. from nemorose) The state of abounding in groves. Scott.
NE'MOROUS (adj. from the Lat. nemus nemoris a grove) Full of woods, abounding with groves. Bailey.
Nempne (v. int. obsolete) To name, to tell. Chaucer.
Nemp'ned (p. obsolete) Named. Chaucer.
Nemp'el (p. obsolete) Named. Chaucer.
NEMU'EL (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.
Nemu'elite (s. from Nemuel) A descendent of Nemuel.
Nene (s. obsolete) Noon. Chaucer.
NE'NIA (s. in ancient poetry) A mournful tune, a funeral song.
NENU'FAR (s. in botany) The nymphæa, the water lily.
NENU'FARIM (s. with chymists) The spirits in the air. Scott.
NENU'THAR (s. in botany) The water lily.
NE'OGAMIST (s. from the Greek νεος νεω, and γαμος a marriage) One newly married.
NEOME'NIA (s. from the Greek) The new moon; the festival of the ancient Greeks at the new moon.
NE'OPHYTE (s. from the Greek νεος νεω, and φυτό to grow) A convert, a person regenerated.
Neopol'itan (adj. a different spelling) Neapolitan, belonging to Naples. Col.
NEOTE'RIC (adj. from the Greek νεωτεριος) Modern, late, novel.
Neote'ric (s. from the adj.) A young practitioner, a novice.
Neote'rique (adj. an antique spelling) Neoteric. Col.
NEOT'ROPHY (s. from the Greek νεος νεω, and τροφή to nourish) A house where young persons are brought up.
NEOT'TIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the birds nest.
NEP (s. in botany) The nepeta, the cat mint.
NE'PA (s. in botany) The small furz.
Nepe (s. a local word) A turnep. Bailey.
NEPEN'THE, NEPEN'THES (s. from the Greek νη νη, and πεινος pain) A drug which drives away pain, a powerful anodyne; a medicine to assuage grief.
NEPEN'THES (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
NE'PERSBONES, NE'PERSRODS (s. a different spelling) Neipersbones, an instrument consisting of divers bits of wood, marked with proper figures to expedite arithmetical calculations.
NEPE'TA (s. in botany) The cat mint.
NEPH'E/LÆ (s. from the Lat.) The white spots on the nails of the fingers.
NEPHA'LIA (s. from the Greek) A festival and sacrifice in which the Greeks offered a drink made of water and honey to the gods.
NEPHE'LIDES (s. with oculists) White specks in the eyes.
NEPH'EW (s. from the Lat. nepos) The son of a brother or sister; a descendant, a grandson; but this sense is now grown obsolete. Dryden.
NEPHRI'TIC (adj. from the Greek νεφρις a disease of the reins) Belonging to the reins, troubled with the stone in the bladder or kidneys, good against the stone.
Nephritic (s. from the adj.) A medicine for the stone.
NEPHRIT'ICUM LIG'NUM (s. in medicine) A kind of wood imported from New Spain, said to be good in diseases of the reins.
NEPHRIT'ICUS LA'PIS (s. in natural history and medicine) A kind of green stone brought from New Spain, said to be good in diseases of the reins.
NEPH'RITIS (s. from the Greek) A pain in the reins of kidneys.
NEPH'ROS (s. from the Greek) A kidney.
NEPHRO'TOMY (s. from the Greek νεφρος a kidney, and τέμνω to cut) The operation of opening the kidneys.

the operation of cutting for the stone or gravel in the kidneys.

NEPOTAL (adj. from the Lat. nepotalis, but not much used) Extravagant, luxurious. Bailey.

NEPOTATION (s. from the Lat. nepotor to be profuse, but not used) Extravagance, luxuriousness. Bailey.

Ne'potine (adj. from nepotal, but not used) Extravagant, riotous, luxurious. Bailey.

NEPOTISM (s. from the Lat. nepos) A fondness for nephews.

Neptuna'lia (s. from Neptune) The festivals celebrated by the ancients in honour of Neptune.

NEPTUNE (s. in heathen mythology) The supposed god of the sea.

Neptu'nian (adj. from Neptune, but not much used) Belonging to Neptune, belonging to the sea. Cole.

NEQUENT (adj. from the Lat. nequeo to be unable, but not used) Unable. Cole.

NER (s. from the Heb. signifying a lamp) A man's name. Chaucer.

Ner (adj. an obsolete spelling) Near. Chaucer.

Ne'reid (s. in heathen mythology) A sea nymph, one of the nymphs supposed to inhabit the sea. Chaucer.

Nere (adj. obsolete) Near. Chaucer.

NEREUS (s. in heathen mythology) One of the fabulous divinities of the sea. Romans.

NEREUS (s.) A man's name. Chaucer.

NERGAL (s. in antiquity) An idol of the sea worshipped in the form of a cock; the continual fire which the Persian magi preserved on the altar in honour of the sun.

NERI (s. from the Heb. signifying my light) A man's name.

NERIAH (s. from the Heb. signifying light) A man's name.

NERION (s. in botany) The rose laurel.

NERITES (s. in ichthyology) The mermaids trumpet, the name of a shell fish.

NEROLY (s. with perfumers) A kind of odoriferous essence usually drawn from the orange flower. Chaucer.

Nerthe (s. obsolete) A shepherd. Chaucer.

Ner'val (adj. in anatomy) Belonging to the bones of the hinder part of the head.

Nervation (s. from nerve) The act of joining firmly together as by nerves and sinews. Bailey.

NERVE (s. from the Lat. nervus) An organ of sensation passing from the brain to any part of the body; a tendon, a sinew.

Ner'veleis (adj. from nerve) Destitute of nerves, void of strength.

Nervines (s. with physicians) Medicines for the nerves. B.

Nervosity (s. from nervous, but not much used) Strength, vigor, nervousness. Bailey.

Nervous (adj. from nerve) Relating to the nerves, seated in the nerves; strong, vigorous, well strung.

Nervousness (s. from nervous) Strength, vigour, the state of being nervous. Bailey.

Ner'vy (adj. from nerve, but now grown obsolete) Nervous. Shakespeare.

Ner'ys (s. an old word) The reins. Bailey.

NE'SCIENCE (s. from the Lat. nescio to be ignorant of) Ignorance. Glanville.

NE'SCIOUS (adj. from the Lat. nescio to be ignorant, but not used) Ignorant, unknowing.

Nes'cock (s. a cant word) A tenderling, a fondling. Ba.

NESH (adj. from the Sax. nefe) Tender, soft, easily hurt.

Neshe (adj. an obsolete spelling) Nesh, nice, tender. Cb.

Nesh'er (adj. comp. of nesh) Nesh in a greater degree.

Nesh'est (adj. sup. of nesh) Nesh in the greatest degree.

Nefs (s. an old word) The nose; a promontory, a head of land running out into the sea like a nose.

NEST (s. from the Sax.) The bed formed by a bird to lay her eggs in and to bring up her young; a place where animals are produced; an abode, a habitation in contempt; a box of drawers or other little conveniences.

Nest (v. int. from the sub.) To build nests; with in or within; as, "The king of birds nested within his leaves."

Nest (adj. obsolete) Next. Chaucer.

Nest'cock (s. a local word) A fondling, one that has never been much from home.

Nest'egg (s. from nest, and egg) The egg left in the nest to keep the hen from forsaking it.

Nest'ing (p. a. from nest) Making a nest, sitting in a nest.

Nestle (v. int. from nest) To settle, to lie close and snug as a bird in a nest.

Nestle (v. int.) To house as in a nest, to cherish as a bird her young.

Nes'tled (p. from nestle) Housed as in a nest, cherished as in a nest.

Nest'ling (p. a. from nestle) Housing as in a nest, cherishing as a bird her young.

Nest'ling (s. from nest) A bird just taken out of the nest; one that has never been much from home.

NES'TOR (s.) A man's name.

NESTORIAN (s. in church history) One of a particular sect of Christians which arose in the fifth century, whose distinguishing tenet was, that there were two persons as well as two natures in Christ; this sect is still said to be very numerous in the East, and to celebrate the public services of religion in the Chaldee or Syriac language.

Nestor'ianism (s. from Nestorian) The doctrine or tenets of the Nestorians.

NET (s. from the Sax.) A texture woven with large interstices commonly used to catch animals.

Net (v. int. from the sub.) To form network.

Net (adj. obsolete) Clean. Spenser.

Nete (s. an obsolete spelling) Neat, black cattle. Chaucer.

NETEDIEZEUGMENON (s. in ancient music) The note answering to the E of the third octave.

NETHYPERBALÆON (s. in the ancient music of the Greeks) The highest note of the third octave, answering to A in the modern scale.

NETSYNEMME'NON (s. in ancient music) The highest note of the tetrachord of the Greek system.

NETH'ANEAL (s. from the Heb.) Nathanael, a man's name.

NETH'ANIAH (s. from the Heb. signifying the gift of God) A man's name.

NETH'ER (adj. from the Sax. neother) Lower, lower in degree; infernal.

Neth'ered (adj. a local word) Starved with cold.

Neth'ereft (adj. obsolete) Nethermost. Chaucer.

Neth'erlands (s. from nether, and land) The low countries, Holland and Flanders.

Neth'ermost (adj. sup. of nether) Lowest.

NETH'INIMS (s. from the Heb. signifying offered) The Gebeonites, those who succeeded in the service of the Gebeonites.

NETIRON'CHION (s. in surgery) An instrument sometimes used in extracting a dead child from the womb.

Net'masonry (s. in building) A particular way of making walls.

Net'ting (p. a. from net) Forming network.

Netting (s. from net) A piece of network.

Net'ting (s. a local word) Urine. Bailey.

Net'tings (s. on board a ship) Small ropes tied together so as to form a kind of net.

NET'TLE (s. in botany, from the Sax. netel) A genus of plant; the name of a very common and well known herb.

Nettle (v. t. from the sub.) To sting, to irritate, to provoke.

Net'tled (p. from nettle) Irritated, provoked; with at; as, "Nettled at the scandal."

Net'tletree (s. in botany) The celtis, a genus of plants.

Net'tling (p. a. from nettle) Irritating, provoking.

Net'work (s. from net, and work) Any thing resembling the work of a net.

Ne'ven (v. t. obsolete) To name. Chaucer.

NEVER (adv. from the Sax. næfre, much used in composition) At no time, in no degree; however: "Be it never so true." But this sense and construction though sufficiently authorized, is now judged to be improper.

Not, not so much as; "She answered him never a word." But this use of the word is likewise judged to be rather improper.

Ne'verblush'ing (adj. from never, and blush) Incapable of blushing, impudent.

Ne'verceasing (adj. from never and cease) Continual, having no intermission.

Ne'verend'ing (adj. from never, and ending) Having no end, continual, tedious.

Ne'verer'ring (adj. from never, and erring) Infallible, incapable of error.

Ne'verfa'ding (adj. from never, and fading) Unfading, retaining its vigour.

Ne'verfa'il'ing (adj. from never, and failing) Inexhaustible, incapable of failing.

Ne'vermean'ing (adj. from never, and meaning) Having no meaning, unmeaning. Swift.

Ne'vermore (adv. from never, and more) Never, at no time to come.

Ne'verthelater (adv. from never, the, and later, but now grown obsolete) Nevertheless. Chaucer.

Ne'vertheleis (adv. from never, the, and leis) However, notwithstanding that.

NEW

Newew (s. in botany) A kind of turnep, the napus.
New'ewe (s. an obsolete spelling) A nephew; a grandson.
New'in (v. t. obsolete) To name.
NEVO'SITY (s. from the Lat. nāvus a spot on the skin, but not used) The state of being freckled.
NEURO'DA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
NEUROCHON'DRODES (s. in anatomy, from the Greek νεύρον a nerve, and χονδρος a cartilage) A ligament partly membranous and partly cartilaginous.
NEURO'DES (s. with physicians) A nervous fever, a lingering fever.
NEUROGRAPHY (s. from the Greek νεύρον a nerve, and γραφω to write) A description of the nerves.
NEUROLOGY (s. from the Greek νεύρον a nerve, and λογος a description) A description of the nerves, a treatise on the nerves.
NEURO'TIC (adj. from the Greek νεύρον a nerve) Good for disorders of the nerves.
Neuro'tic (s. from the adj.) A remedy for disorders of the nerves.
Neuro'tomist (s. from neurotomy) One skilled in dissections of the nerves.
NEURO'TOMY (s. from the Greek νεύρον a nerve, and τέμνω to cut) The anatomy of the nerves.
NEU'TER (adj. from the Lat.) Indifferent, engaged to neither side; having neither sex, implying neither sex.
Neu'ter (s. from the adj.) One quite indifferent, one unengaged.
Neu'tral (adj. from neuter) Indifferent, acting on neither side, inclined to neither party, neither acid nor alkaline.
NEU'TRAL (s. from the adj.) One who is engaged to neither party.
Neutrality (s. from neutral) A state of indifference, a state between good and evil.
Neu'trally (adv. from neutral) Indifferently, on neither side.
Neu'tropassive (adj. in grammar) Belonging to verbs neuter, which have their preterperfect tenses formed of a passive participle.
NEW (adj. from the Sax. neow) Lately made, fresh; novel, modern; repaired, renovated; uncommon, unhacknied.
New (adv. from the adj. chiefly used in composition) Newly, lately.
Newadopted (adj. from new, and adopted) Newly adopted, lately adopted.
NEWARK (s.) A borough town in Nottinghamshire; it has a market on Wednesday, sends two members to parliament, and is 122 miles from London.
New'ark (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Newark, made at Newark.
New'blown (adj. from new, and blown) Newly blown, lately blown.
New'born (adj. from new, and horn) Newly born, lately born.
New'built (adj. from new, and built) Lately built.
NEW'BURGH (s.) A town in the isle of Anglesea; it has a market on Tuesday, and is 257 miles from London.
New'burgh (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Newburgh, made at Newburgh.
NEW'BURY (s.) A town in Berkshire; it has a market on Thursday, and is 56 miles from London.
New'bury (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Newbury, made at Newbury.
NEW'CAS'TLE (s.) A borough town in Northumberland; it is remarkable for the coal trade; has a market on Tuesday and Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 271 miles from London.
NEW'CAS'TLE (s.) A borough town in Staffordshire; it has a market on Monday, sends two members to parliament, and is 143 miles from London.
NEW'CASTLE (s.) A town in Caermarthenshire; it has a market on Friday, and is 220 miles from London.
New'castle (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Newcastle, brought from Newcastle, made at Newcastle.
Newcho'sen (adj. from new, and chosen) Newly chosen, lately chosen.
New'closing (adj. from new, and closing) Lately closing, newly healing.
Newco'me (adj. from new, and come) Newly come, lately come.
Newcom'er (s. from new, and comer) One newly come to any place.
Newcreat'ed (adj. from new, and created) Newly created, lately created.
Newdeliv'ered (adj. from new, and delivered) Newly delivered, lately brought to bed.

NEW

Newe (adv. obsolete) Now, lately.
NEW'EL (s. in architecture) The upright post in a staircase round which the steps are set; the compass round which the stairs are carried.
New'el (s. obsolete) Novelty.
Newelec'ted (adj. from new, and elected) Newly elected, lately chosen.
New'ell (s. obsolete) A novelty.
NEWENG'LAND (s. in geography) One of the colonies of North America subject to Great Britain.
Neweng'land (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to New-England, imported from New-England.
NEW'ENT (s.) A town in Gloucestershire; it has a market on Friday, and is 114 miles from London.
New'ent (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Newent, made at Newent.
Newentrust'ed (adj. from new, and intrusted) Lately intrusted.
New'er (adj. comp. of new) New in the greatest degree.
New'est (adj. sup. of new) New in the greatest degree.
New'et (s. a different spelling) A newt, a small kind of lizard.
New'fallen (adj. from new, and fallen) Newly fallen, lately fallen.
Newfan'gell (adj. an obsolete spelling) Newfangled.
Newfang'led (adj. from new, and fang'le) Formed with a foolish affectation of novelty.
Newfang'ledness (s. from newfangled) A vain and foolish affectation of novelty.
Newfan'glene's (s. a different spelling) Newfangledness, a vain and foolish affectation of novelty.
Newfash'ion (s. from new, and fashion) A fashion lately come up.
Newfash'ion (adj. from the sub.) Newfashioned, lately come into fashion.
Newfash'ioned (adj. from newfashion) Lately come into fashion, just come into fashion.
New'formed (adj. from new, and formed) Newly formed, lately formed.
New'found (adj. from new, and found) Lately found.
NEW'FOUNDLAND (s. in geography, from new, found, and land) An island in North America, famous for the cod fishery, subject to Great Britain.
New'foundland (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Newfoundland, brought from Newfoundland.
NEWGAL'LOWAY (s.) A parliament town in Scotland.
New'grown (adj. from new, and grown) Lately grown, lately sprung up.
Newheal'ed (adj. from new, and healed) Newly healed, lately healed.
New'ing (s. from new) Barm, yeast.
Newkind'led (adj. from new, and kindled) Newly lighted up, lately kindled.
New'laid (adj. from new, and laid) Newly laid, lately laid.
New'ly (adv. from new) Recently, lately.
New'lyche (adv. obsolete) Newly.
New'made (adj. from new, and made) Newly made, lately made.
NEWMAR'KET (s.) A town in Cambridgeshire; it has a market on Thursday and is 60 miles from London.
Newmar'ket (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Newmarket, made at Newmarket.
Newmar'ried (adj. from new, and married) Newly married, lately married.
Newmod'el (v. t. from new, and model) To make up anew, to make an old thing look like a new one.
Newmod'eled (p. from newmodel) Made up anew, dressed up in a new form.
Newmod'elling (p. a. from newmodel) Dressing up in a new form.
New'moon (s. from new, and moon) The state of the moon immediately after her conjunction with the sun, the state of the moon for a few days after her conjunction with the sun.
Newmoul'ded (adj. from new, and moulded) Newly moulded, lately made.
New'ness (s. from new) Novelty, the state of being new.
NEWN'HAM (s.) A town in Gloucestershire; it has a market on Friday, and is 114 miles from London.
Newn'ham (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Newnham, made at Newnham.
NEW'PORT (s.) A borough town in Hampshire; it is situate in the Isle of Wight, has a market on Wednesday, and Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 93 miles from London.
NEW'PORT (s.) A borough town in Cornwall; it has a market, sends two members to parliament, and is 21 miles from London.

NEW'PORT

NEWPORT (s.) A town in Pembrokehire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 236 miles from London.

NEWPORT (s.) A town in Shropshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 140 miles from London.

NEWPORT (s.) A town in Monmouthshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 153 miles from London.

Newport (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Newport, made at Newport.

NEWPORTPAGNEL (s.) A town in Buckinghamshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 52 miles from London.

NEWS (s. it has no singular, from new) A fresh account of any thing, something new; the public papers which give an account of present transactions.

News-gatherer (s. from news, and gather) One who collects news.

News-monger (s. from news, and monger) One who deals in news, one who makes it his employment to hear and tell news.

News-paper (s. from news, and paper) A paper published and dispersed with an account of present transactions.

News-paper (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to a paper published with an account of present transactions.

News-writer (s. from news, and writer) One who writes for the public papers, one who publishes a news paper.

NEWT (s. in zoology) An est, a small kind of lizard.

NEWTON (s.) A borough town in Lancashire; it has a small market on Saturdays, sends two members to parliament, and is 187 miles from London.

Newton (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Newton, made at Newton.

NEWTON (s.) A man's name, one of the greatest philosophers of the past age.

NEWTONBUSH (s.) A town in Devonshire; it has a market on Wednesday, and is 186 miles from London.

Newtonian (adj. from Sir Isaac Newton) Belonging to the philosophy taught by Sir Isaac Newton.

NEWTOWN (s.) A borough town in Hampshire; it is situate in the Isle of Wight, has no market, sends two members to parliament, and is 94 miles from London.

Newtown (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Newtown, made at Newtown.

New-year (s. from new, and year) The year recently commenced.

New-year-gift (s. from new, year, and gift) A present at the commencement of the year.

NEXIBLE (adj. from the Lat. nexibilis, but not used) Capable of being knit together. Cole.

NEXILITY (s. from the Lat. nexilitas, but not used) Closeness, compactness of style. Bailey.

NEXT (adj. from the Sax.) Nearest in place, immediately succeeding; nearest in any gradation; with to, "The next man to the king."

Next (s. from the adj.) The nearest in place, the person or thing that immediately succeeds.

Next (adv. from the adj.) At the turn immediately succeeding, at the time immediately succeeding.

Nexte (s. obsolete) The last foregoing. Chaucer.

NEYLAND (s.) A town in Suffolk; it has a market on Friday, and is 57 miles from London.

Neyland (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Neyland, made at Neyland.

NAGARA (s. in geography) A prodigious cataract in North America.

NIAISERY (s. from the French niais silly, but not used) Simplicity, childishness. Cole.

NIAS (adj. from the French niais) Silly, foolish, simple; just taken from the nest. "A nias barok."

NIB (s. from the Sax. neb) The beak of a bird, the point of a pen, the extreme point of any thing resembling the beak of a bird.

nibbed (adj. from nib) Having a nib.

nibble (v. t. from nib) To bite by little at a time.

nibble (v. int.) To bite at; to find fault, to be disposed to little ill natured criticisms; with at: as, "And fain would nibble at your grandames gold."

nibbled (p. from nibble) Eaten away by little at a time.

nibbler (s. from nibble) One that nibbles, one that acts the part of a little ill natured critic.

nibbling (p. a. from nibble) Biting by little at a time; acting the part of a little ill natured critic.

NIBHAZ (s. from the Heb. signifying one that makes fruitful) One of the idols worshipped in Samaria.

NICANOR (s. from the Greek νικανω to conquer) The name of a man.

NICE (adj. from the Sax. nefe) Exact, accurate; delicate, scrupulous; refined, subtle; squeamish, finical, proud.

Nice (adj. obsolete) Simple, filly, ignorant. Chaucer.

NICE (s.) A city in Bithynia famous for the first general council.

Nice (s. not so common a spelling) A niche. Bailey.

Nice'an (adj. from Nice) Nice. Cole.

NICEPHORIA (s. from the Greek νικη a victory, and φερω to bear) A rejoicing or triumph on account of a victory. Scott.

Nicely (adj. from nice) Accurately, minutely; delicately, finically.

Nice'ne (adj. from Nice) Belonging to Nice, belonging to the famous general council held at Nice, in the year of Christ 325.

Nice'ness (s. from nice) Accuracy, minute exactness; exactness beyond what is necessary; delicacy, delicacy beyond necessity.

Nic'er (adj. comp. of nice) Nice in a greater degree.

Nic'est (adj. sup. of nice) Nice in the greatest degree.

Nicete' (s. not used) Simplicity, idleness. Cole.

Nice'ties (s. plu. of nicety, not much used in the singular) Dainties, delicacies in eating.

Nicety (s. from nice) Minute exactness, delicacy, effeminate softness, cautious treatment, delicate management.

NICHAR (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

NICHE (s. in architecture, from the French) A hollow or cavity in the thickness of a wall.

Niched (adj. from niche) Placed in a niche.

Nich'ls (s. a law term) Issues on debts which are worth nothing, on account of the insolvency of the party from whom they are due.

NICHOLA'ITAN (s. in ecclesiastical history) One of a very ancient sect, who held that married women should be common in order to prevent jealousy.

NICHOLAS (s.) A man's name.

NICIA (s.) The name of a woman.

Nicite (s. an obsolete spelling) Nicety, coyness, folly. Ch.

NICK (s. from the Teutonic nicke, the twinkling of an eye) An exact point of time suiting some special convenience; a notch cut in any thing; a score, a reckoning; a winning throw.

Nick (v. t. from the sub.) To hit, to touch luckily; to cut in notches, to suit, to tally; to defeat, to trick, to disappoint by some unexpected turn.

NICK (s. from Nicholas) A man's name, Nicholas in familiar style.

Nick'd (p. from nick) Cut in notches, cheated, tricked.

Nick'ing (p. a. from nick) Cutting in notches, disappointing, tricking.

Nick'ing (s. from the part.) The lucky performance of any business, the act of cutting in notches, the state of being cut in notches.

Nick'name (s. from nick, and name) A name given in contempt, a term of derision.

Nick'name (v. t. from the sub.) To give a name to any thing in derision, to call by an opprobrious name.

Nick'named (p. from nickname) Called by an opprobrious name.

Nick'nam'ing (p. a. from nickname) Giving a name in reproach, calling by an opprobrious name.

Nick'umpoop (s. a cant word) A blockhead, a dull stupid fellow. Scott.

Nicode'mite (s. from Nicodemus) One of a sect in Switzerland who professed faith in private.

NICODE'MUS (s. from the Greek) A man's name.

Nicola'itan (s. a different spelling) A Nicholaitan, one of the sect who held the community of wives.

NICOLAS (s. a different spelling) Nicholas, A man's name.

NICOPOLIS (s. from the Greek) The name of a city. Titus.

NICOTIA'NA (s.) Tobacco so called from the name of a Portuguese merchant who first sent it into France.

NICTA'RIA (s. from the Greek νικη a victory) A festival and sacrifice on obtaining a victory.

NIC'TATE (v. int. from the Lat. nicto) To wink.

Nic'tating (p. a. from the verb) Winking. Ray.

Nic'tation (s. from nictate) The act of winking. Cole.

Nic'titating (adj. from nictate) Winking; belonging to a thin membrane chiefly found in birds and fishes, which serves on occasion to defend the eye, without a total obstruction of vision.

NIDE (s. from the Lat. nidus a nest) A brood as of pheasants.

Nid'erling (s. an old word) A niget, a coward. Bailey.

Nid'geries (s. not used) Trifles, fooleries. Bailey.

Nid'get (s. an old word) A coward, a dastard, one who retired

- refused to come to the royal standard in times of exigency.
- Nidg'ing (s. an old word) A coward. Scott.
- Nidification (s. from nidify) The act of building a nest. Derham,
- Nid'ifice (s. from nidify) A nest, a bird's nest. Cole.
- NID'IFY (v. int. from the Lat. nidus a nest, and facio to make, but not used) To make a nest. Cole.
- Nid'ing (adj. an old word) Abject, base minded, cowardly. Carew.
- Nid'ing (s. an old word) A coward, a nidget.
- NIDOR (s. from the Lat. but not used) The smell of any thing burnt; splendor, brightness. Cole.
- Ni'dorose (adj. from nidor) Resembling the smell of roasted fat.
- Nidoros'ity (s. from nidorose) An eruption with the taste of undigested roast meat.
- Ni'dorous (adj. from nidor) Resembling the smell of roasted fat.
- NID'ULATE (v. int. from the Lat. nidulor) To make a nest, to build a nest. Bailey.
- Nidula'tion (s. from nidulate) The time of remaining in the nest. Brown.
- NIECE (s. from the Lat. neptis) The daughter of a brother or sister.
- Ni'fle (s. an old word) A toy, a thing of no value.
- Ni'fle (v. int. a local word) To trifle, to spend time to little purpose.
- Ni'fing (p. a. from nifle, a local word) Trifling, spending time to little purpose.
- Nig, Nigg (s. a contraction from niggard) A niggard, a covetous fellow.
- Nig'ardie (s. obsolete) Niggardliness. Chaucer.
- NIGEL'LA (s. in botany) The fennel flower.
- Nig'leon (s. an old word) An idiot, a fool. Cole.
- Ni'geot (s. an old word) An idiot, a fool. Cole.
- Ni'GER (s. from the Lat.) A man's name.
- NIG'GARD (s. from the Islandick nygr) A miser, a fordid covetous fellow.
- Nig'gard (adj. from the sub.) Sordid, avaricious; sparing, wary.
- Nig'gard (v. t. from the sub.) To flint, to shut up in narrow bounds. Shakespeare.
- Nig'gardish (adj. from niggard) Avaricious, tending to avarice.
- Nig'gardly (adj. from niggard) Sordid, avaricious; sparing, wary.
- Nig'gardly (adv. from the sub.) Sparingly, fordidly.
- Nig'gardness (s. from niggard) Sordidness, avarice.
- Nig'ges (s. obsolete) Niggards. Chaucer.
- NIGH (prep. from the Sax. nyh) In a place near to.
- Nigh (adv. from the prep.) At no great distance, nearly, to a place near.
- Nigh (adj. from the adv.) Near, nearly allied.
- Nigh (v. int. obsolete) To approach, to draw near. Spem.
- Nigh'in (v. int. obsolete) To draw near. Chaucer.
- Nigh'ing (p. a. from nigh, obsolete) Drawing near, approaching. Spenser.
- Nigh'ly (adv. from nigh) Nearly, within a little distance.
- Nigh'ness (s. from nigh) Nearness, proximity.
- NIGHT (s. from the Sax. night) The time of darkness, the time in which the sun is below the horizon, gloominess, a state of darkness.
- Night'bird (s. from night, and bird) A bird that seeks its prey in the night.
- Night'brawler (s. from night, and brawler) One who makes a disturbance in the night.
- Night'cap (s. from night, and cap) A cap worn in bed, a cap worn in undress.
- Night'crow (s. in ornithology) The name of a nightbird.
- Night'dew (s. from night, and dew) The dew that falls in the night.
- Night'dog (s. from night, and dog) A dog that hunts in the night, a dog used by deerstealers.
- Night'dress (s. from night, and dress) The dress worn at night.
- Night'ed (adj. from night) Black, clouded, darkened. Sh.
- Night'e'rtale (adv. obsolete) By night, in the night time. Chaucer.
- Night'faring (adj. from night, and faring) Travelling in the night.
- Night'fire (s. from night, and fire) The ignis fatuus.
- Night'fly (s. from night, and fly) A moth that flies about in the night.
- Night'founded (adj. from night, and founded) Lost in the night, distressed in the night.
- Night'gown (s. from night, and gown) A loose gown used for an undress.
- Night'hag (s. from night, and hag) A witch supposed to wander in the night.
- Night'hawk (s. from night, and hawk) A kind of hawk that seeks its prey in the night.
- Night'ingale (s. in ornithology) A small bird that frequently sings in the night with remarkable melody; a term of endearment; "My nightingale!"
- Night'ly (adj. from night) Done by night, acting by night, happening every night.
- Night'man (s. from night, and man) One who carries away ordure in the night time.
- Night'magistrate (s. a cant word) A constable. Scott.
- Night'mare (s. from night, and mare) A morbid oppression in the night, the incubus.
- Night'piece (s. from night, and piece) A picture so drawn as to appear as though viewed in the night.
- Night'rail (s. from night, and the Sax. regl a robe) A loose kind of garment to be thrown over a night dress.
- Night'raven (s. from night, and raven) A kind of night bird.
- Night'robber (s. from night, and robber) One who robs in the night.
- Night'rule (s. from night, and rule) A tumult in the night. Shakespeare.
- Night'shade (s. in botany) The solanum, a genus of plants.
- Night'shining (adj. from night, and shining) Shining in the night.
- Night'shriek (s. from night, and shriek) A cry in the night.
- Night'spell (s. from night, and spell) A prayer or spell against the nightmare. Chaucer.
- Night'tripping (adj. from night, and tripping) Going lightly in the night.
- Night'walk (s. from night, and walk) A walk in the night.
- Night'walker (s. from nightwalk) One who roves in the night with some ill design.
- Night'warbling (adj. from night, and warbling) Singing in the night.
- Night'ward (adj. from night, and ward) Approaching to night. Milton.
- Night'watch (s. from night and watch) A period or portion of the night, as distinguished by the charge of the watch.
- Nig'on (s. obsolete) A niggard. Chaucer.
- NIGREFACT'ION (s. from the Lat. niger black, and facio to make, but not much used) The act of making black. Bailey.
- Nig'refy (v. t. a different spelling) Nigrify, to make black.
- Nig'refying (p. a. from nigrefy) Making black. Cole.
- NIGRES'CENT (adj. from the Lat. nigresco to grow black) Approaching to blackness, growing black.
- Nigrifac'tion (s. from nigrefy) The act of making black.
- Nigrifac'tion (s. from nigrefy) The act of making black. St.
- NIG'RIFY (v. t. from the Lat. niger black, and facio to make, but not used) To make black. Bailey.
- NIGRI'TIA (s. in geography) A country in Africa, the country inhabited by the negroes.
- Nig'romancy (s. not a common spelling) Necromancy, a kind of witchcraft. Cole.
- NIHIL'IFY (v. t. from the Lat. nihil nothing, and facio to make) To slight, to account as nothing. Cole.
- NIHIL'ITY (s. from the Lat. nihil nothing) Nothingness, a state of nonentity.
- Ni'hils (s. a law term) Issues or debts worth nothing, on account of the insufficiency of the person from whom they are due.
- NILE (s. in geography) A great river in Egypt which generally overflows the country once a year.
- NILL (v. t. from the Sax. nillon) To reject by an act of the will, to refuse, not to will.
- NILL (s. the derivation is not noted) The shining particles or ashes which proceed from brais melted and tried in a furnace.
- Ni'lling (p. a. from nill) Rejecting by an act of the will.
- Ni'lling (s. from the part.) The act of refusing performed by the will.
- Ni'lling (adj. not used) Unwilling. Bailey.
- NILOM'ETER (s. from Nile, and the Greek μέτρον to measure) An instrument by which the ancients measured the height of the water in the river Nile.
- NIL'UFAR (s. in botany) The water lily.
- NI'LUS (s. from the Lat.) The Nile.
- Nilt (v. int. second person sing. obsolete) Wilt not. Ch.
- NIM (v. t. from the Dutch nimen) To take, to steal. Hud.
- NIMBIF'EROUS (adj. from the Lat. nimbus a storm, and fero to bring) Producing storms. Bailey.
- NIM'BLE (adj. from the Sax. numan) Quick, active, ready; speedy, expeditious.
- Nim'blefooted (adj. from nimble, and foot) Speedy, nimble on foot.

NIP

Nimb'leness (s. from nimble) Quickness, activity, agility, speed.
Nimb'ler (adj. comp. of nimble) Nimble in a greater degree.
Nimb'less (s. not so common a spelling) Nimbleness. Spem.
Nimb'lest (adj. sup. of nimble) Nimble in the greatest degree.
Nimb'lewitted (adj. from nimble, and wit) Quick, eager to speak.
Nimb'ly (adv. from nimble) Quickly, speedily; with activity.
NIM'BOSE (adj. from the Lat. nimbosus stormy, but not much used) Tempestuous, stormy.
Nimbos'ity (s. from nimbose) Storminess. Bailey.
Nim'bot (s. an old word) A dwarf. Cole.
NIM'BUS (s. from the Lat.) A kind of cloud or circle round the head as on some ancient medals.
NIMETUL'ABITE (s. with the muffled men) One of a particular sect among the Turks, who meet every Monday night, to sing hymns to God.
NIM'ETTY (s. from the school Lat. nimietas) The state of being too much.
NIM'IOUS (adj. from the Lat. nimius) Excessive, being too much. Bailey.
Nim'mer (s. from nim) A thief, a pilferer. Johnson.
Nim'ming (p. a. from nim) Taking, stealing. L'Estran.
NIM'RIM (s. from the Heb. signifying a leopard) The name of a place. Isaiah.
NIM'ROD (s. from the Heb. signifying a ruler) A man's name.
NIM'SHI (s. from the Heb. signifying rescued from danger) A man's name.
Nin'compoop (s. a kind of cant word, supposed to be from the Lat. non not, and compos rational) A trifter, a fool. Addison.
Nin'compoop (s. a different spelling) A ninecompoop. Bai.
NIND'SIN (s. in botany) A species of fum.
NINE (adj. from the Sax. nigon) Five and four, next in order below ten.
Nine (s. from the adj.) The number or figure representing five and four, the next in order below ten.
Ninefold (adj. from nine, and fold) Repeated nine times.
Ninefold (adv. from the adj.) With the same number or quantity nines time repeated. "Immures us round ninefold." Milton.
Ninepence (s. from nine, and pence) A sum of money to the value of thirty-six farthings; a silver coin in value thirty-six farthings.
Ninepins (s. from nine, and pins) A play in which nine pieces of wood are set up to be thrown down by a bowl.
Nine score (adj. from nine, and score) Twenty nine times repeated.
Nine score (s. from the adj.) The number consisting of twenty nine times repeated.
Nineteen (adj. from nine, and ten) Consisting of ten and nine.
Nineteen (s. from the adj.) The number consisting of ten and nine.
Nineteenth (adj. from nineteen) Next in order below twenty.
Nineteenth (s. from the adj.) The next in order below twenty.
Nineteieth (adj. from ninety) Next in order to the eighty-ninth.
Nineteieth (s. from the adj.) The next in order to the eighty-ninth.
Ninety (adj. from nine) Consisting of the number ten nine times repeated.
Ninety (s. from the adj.) The number ten nine times repeated.
NINEVEH (s. from the Heb. signifying a dwelling) A very large and populous city, once the capital of the Assyrian empire.
Ninevite (s. from Nineveh) An inhabitant of Nineveh.
NIN'GID (adj. from the Lat. ningo to snow) Snowy. Ba.
Ninthe (adj. an obsolete spelling) Ninth. Chaucer.
NINNY (s. from the Spanish ninno a child) A simpleton, a silly fellow.
Ninnyhammer (s. from ninny, and hammer) A simpleton, a silly fellow. Addison.
Nin'si (s. in botany) The panix.
Ninth (adj. from nine) Next in order below ten, next in order to the eighth.
Ninth (s. from the adj.) The next in order to the eighth.
Ninthly (adv. from ninth) In the ninth place.
Nineth (adj. a different spelling) Ninetieth. Scott.
NIP (v. t. from the Dutch nypen) To pinch off with the nails of the fingers, to bite with the teeth; to blast, to destroy; to vex, to satirize.

NOB

Nip (s. from the verb) A pinch, a small cut, a blast, a farcasm.
Nip'ped (p. from nip) Pinched off, blasted, destroyed, vexed, treated with farcasm.
Nip'per (s. from nip, but now grown out of use) A satirist. Afcham.
Nip'pers (s. from nip) Small pinchers.
Nip'ping (p. a. from nip) Pinching off, blasting, satirizing.
Nip'pingly (adv. from nipping) With bitter farcasm.
NIP'PLE (s. from the Sax. nypele) That part of the breast at which the infant sucks, a dug; the orifice at which any animal juice is separated. "The nipple of the oil bag." Derham.
Nip'plewort (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
Nipt (v. pret. of nip) Nipped, did nip.
Nipt (p. from nip) Nipped. Shakespeare.
NIRURI (s. in botany) The phyllanthus.
Nis (v. neut. obsolete) Is not. Chaucer.
NISAN (s. from the Heb. signifying a fight) The first month of the Jews answering to the moon of our March.
Nise (adj. an obsolete spelling) Nice. Chaucer.
NI'SEY (s. from the French niais) A silly fellow. Scott.
NI'SIPRI'US (s. a law term, from the Lat.) The writ by which a judge and jury are empowered to try and determine civil causes.
Ni'sipri'us (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the place where civil causes are tried, belonging to the persons concerned in trying civil causes.
NIS'ROCK (s. from the Heb. signifying flight) The name of an idol. Isaiah.
Nist (v. int. obsolete, from ne, and wist) Wist not, knew not. Chaucer.
Nist'est (v. int. second person sing. obsolete) Wistest not, knewest not. Chaucer.
NIT (s. from the Sax. knitu) The egg of a louse, the egg of any small animal.
NI'TENCY (s. from the Lat. niteo to shine) Lustre, clear brightness.
NI'TENCY (s. from the Lat. nitor to endeavour) An endeavour, a tendency to expand itself.
Nith'ing (s. an old word) A coward.
Nith'ing (adj. a local word) Sparing of, parsimonious. Bailey.
NITHS'DALE (s.) A county of Scotland.
NI'TID (adj. from the Lat. nitidus) Bright, shining, lustrous.
Nitid'ity (s. from nitid) Splendor, brightness. Bailey.
Ni'tirtale (adv. obsolete) By night, in the night time. C.
NI'TRE (s. from the Lat. nitrum) Saltpetre.
Ni'trous (adj. from nitre) Impregnated with nitre, consisting of nitre.
Ni'try (adj. from nitre) Nitrous.
Nit'tily (adv. from nit) Lousily.
Nit'tle (adj. a local word) Near, lying at hand. Bailey.
Nit'ty (adj. from nit) abounding with nits.
NI'VAL (adj. from the Lat. nivalis) Abounding with snow. Johnson.
NIV'EOUS (adj. from the Lat. niveus) Snowy. Brown.
NIXID'II (s. in heathen mythology) The gods who were supposed to preside over women in child-birth.
Nixte (adj. obsolete) Next, nearest. Chaucer.
NO (adv. from the Sax. na) Not, not indeed, not even.
NO (s. from the adv.) A denial, the word of denial.
NO (adj. from the adv.) None, not any.
NO (s. from the Heb. signifying forbidding) The name of a place, the people inhabiting the place. Nabum.
NOADI'AH (s. from the Heb. signifying a witness) A man's name.
NO'AH (s. from the Heb. signifying rest) A man's name; the name of a woman. Numbers.
NOB (s. from the Heb. signifying prophesy) The name of a city in the land of Israel.
NO'BAH (s. from the Heb. signifying one that barks) The name of a city. Numbers.
NOBIL'ITATE (v. t. from the Lat. nobilito) To ennoble, to make noble.
Nobil'itated (p. from nobilitate) Ennobled.
Nobil'itating (p. a. from nobilitate, but not used) Ennobling, raising to nobility.
Nobility (s. from nobilitate) Antiquity of family; a high rank or dignity conferred by sovereigns; persons of rank above the commons; dignity, grandeur.
Nob'lay (s. obsolete) Nobility, pomp, grandeur. Chau.
NO'BLE (adj. from the Lat. nobilis) Descended of an ancient or splendid family; raised to a degree above the commons; commons; great, worthy, exalted; magnificent, stately, generous, free; principal, capital.

N O D

No'ble (s. from the adj.) One of the nobility, one of high rank; a coin rated at six shillings and eight-pence.
No'bleman (s. from noble, and man) One of the nobility, one who is ennobled.
No'bleness (s. from noble) Greatness, worth, dignity; splendor of descent, lustre of pedigree.
No'bler (adj. comp. of noble) Noble in a greater degree.
No'blest (s. from noble, but now grown obsolete) Dignity, greatness, nobility, the nobility. Shakespeare.
No'blest (adj. sup. of noble) Noble in the greatest degree.
No'bleye (s. obsolete) Nobility. Chaucer.
No'bly (s. obsolete) Nobility. Chaucer.
No'bly (adv. from noble) From an ancient family, greatly, splendidly.
No'hly (s. obsolete) Nobility. Chaucer.
No'hody (s. from no, and body) No one, not any one.
No'CENT (adj. from the Lat. noceo to hurt) Hurtful, mischievous; guilty, criminal.
No'CIVE (adj. from the Lat. noceo to hurt) Hurtful, nocent. Bailey.
Nock (s. from the Italian) A slit, a notch; the aperture of the fundament.
Nock (v. t. a local word) To perform the act of generation on a female.
Nock'id (adj. obsolete) Notched. Chaucer.
Noctambulation (s. from noctambulo) The act of walking in sleep. Bailey.
NOCTAM'BULI (s. plu. from the Lat.) People who walk in their sleep. Dict. of Arts.
Noctambulist (s. from noctambulo) One who walks in his sleep.
NOCTAM'BULO (s. from the Lat. nox night, and ambulo to walk) One that walks in his sleep.
NOCTID'IAL (adj. from the Lat. nox night, and dies a day) Comprizing a night and a day.
NOCTIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. nox night, and fero to bring) Bringing night. Bailey.
NOCTILUCA, NOCTILUCE (s. from the Lat. nox night, and luceo to shine) Any thing that shines in the night; a kind of phosphorus..
NOCTIV'AGANT (adj. from the Lat. nox night, and vagor to wander) Wandering in the night. Bailey.
NOCTUA (s. in ornithology) An owl.
Noctuary (s. from the Lat. nox night) An account or journal of what passes in the night.
NOCTUM (adj. from nox night, but not much used) Belonging to the night, nightly. Bailey.
NOCTURLABE (s. in astronomy) An instrument to find the motion of the polar star.
Nocturn (s. from the adj.) An office of devotion performed in the night.
Nocturnal (adj. from nocturn) Belonging to the night, nightly.
Nocturnal (s. from the adj.) The nocturn, an office of devotion performed in the night.
Nocturnalous (adj. from nocturn) Belonging to the night. Scott.
NOCUMENT (s. from the Lat. nocumentum, but not used) A damage, a hurt. Bailey.
NOCUOUS (adj. from the Lat. noceo to hurt) Hurtful. Bailey.
NOD (v. int. supposed to be from the Lat. nuto) To decline the head with a motion, to bend downwards with quick motion; to give a gentle blow; to be drowsy.
Nod (s. from the verb) A quick decline of the head, a quick declination of the body; the motion of the head in drowsiness, a slight obeisance.
NOD (s. from the Heb. signifying vagabond) The name of a country. Genesis.
Noda'tion (s. from node) The state of being knotted, the act of knotting.
Nod'der (s. from nod) One that nods.
Nod'ding (p. a. from nod) Reclining the head with a quick motion; reclining the head in drowsiness, sleeping by short naps.
Nod'ding (s. from the part.) The act of reclining the head with a quick motion, the act of sleeping by short naps.
NOD'DLE (s. from the Sax. knol) The head in contempt.
Nod'dle (v. int. from the sub. a colloquial word) To move the head with a tremulous kind of motion.
Nod'dling (p. a. from noddle, a colloquial word) Moving the head with a tremulous motion.
NOD'DY (s. from the French naudin) A simpleton, a silly fellow.

N O M

NODE (s. from the Lat. nodus) A knot, a knob; a swelling on a bone; an interfection.
No'dole (adj. from node) Knotty, full of knobs.
Nodos'ity (s. from nodose) A complication, the state of being nodous.
No'dous (adj. from node) Full of knots.
No'dull (s. from node) A small lump.
NO'DULUS (s. with physicians) A small bag of ingredients put into any liquor to give it a tincture.
NO'DUS (s. with physicians) The nodulus.
NOE (s. a different spelling) Noah, a man's name. Mat.
NOEL (s.) A man's name.
NOE'TIANS (s. in church history) A sect who allowed but of one person in the Godhead.
No'fus (s. in old records) A coffin made of wood.
NOG'GEN (adj. the derivation is not noted) Hard, rough, harsh. Johnson.
NOG'GIN (s. from the German nassel) A measure containing a quarter of a pint, a small mug.
Noi'ance (s. not so common a word) An annoyance. Tusser.
Noie (v. t. an old word) To annoy. Tusser.
Noie (s. obsolete) Harm, hurt, trouble. Chaucer.
Noi'en (v. t. obsolete) To hurt, to annoy. Chaucer.
Noi'er (s. from noie obsolete) One who hurts, one who annoys. Tusser.
Noi'ful (adj. from noie, obsolete) Hurtful. Chaucer.
Noi'ous (adj. from noie, obsolete) Hurtful, mischievous. Sp.
NOISE (s. from the French) A sound, an outcry, a clamour, an occasion of much talk.
Noise (v. t. from the sub.) To report, to spread by rumour.
Noise (v. int.) To sound loud, to make a troublesome kind of sound.
Nois'ed (p. from noise) Reported, spread by rumour; with abroad, and about; as, "It may soon be noised about the city."
Nois'eful (adj. from noise) Loud, clamorous. Dryden.
Nois'efess (adj. from noise) Silent, making no noise. Dry.
Noisemaker (s. from noise, and maker) One that makes a noise, one that makes an outcry.
Nois'en (v. int. obsolete) To make a noise. Chaucer.
Nois'ier (adj. comp. of noisy) Noisy in a greater degree.
Nois'iest (adj. sup. of noisy) Noisy in the greatest degree.
Nois'iness (s. from noise) Loudness of sound, importunity of clamour.
NOISOME (adj. supposed to be from the Lat. noxa a hurt) Offensive, disgusting; noxious, unwholesome.
Nois'omely (adv. from noisome) With an unwholesome stench, offensively.
Nois'omeness (s. from noisome) Offensiveness, the state or quality of being noisome.
Nois'y (adj. from noise) Sounding loud, clamorous, turbulent.
Nold, Nolde (v. int. obsolete) Would not. Chaucer.
NO'LENS (adj. from the Lat. but not much used) Unwilling. Bailey.
NO'LENSVO'LENS (adv. from the Lat.) At all adventures, whether willing or not willing. Bailey.
NO'LIMITAN'GERE (s. in surgery, from the Lat. touch me not) A kind of cancerous swelling apt to be much exasperated by applications.
NO'LIMITAN'GERE (s. in botany) The name of a plant remarkable for a property of darting out its feelers on the first approach of the hand to touch its pods.
NOLI'TION (s. from the Lat. nolo to be unwilling) Unwillingness, the contrary to volition.
NOLL (s. from the Sax. knol) A head, a noddle. Shakespeare.
Nom (p. obsolete from nim) Took, taken. Chaucer.
NOMADES (s. in antiquity) A people who had no fixed abode, but frequently shifted their habitations for the convenience of pasturage.
NO'MÆ (s. in surgery) Deep ulcers in the mouth.
NO'MANCY (s. from the Lat. nomen a name, and the Greek μαγεία magic) A kind of divination drawn from the letters of a person's name.
NO'MARCH, NOMAR'CHA (s. from the Greek νόμος law, and αρχος a chief) An Egyptian magistrate, one who has the pre-eminence in the administration of justice.
No'marchy (s. from nomarch) The district of the nomarch.
NO'MAS (s. in surgery) A corroding kind of ulcer.
Nom'bir (s. an obsolete spelling) A number. Chaucer.
Nom'bles (s. a different spelling) The mumbles, the trails of a deer. Philly.
Nom'bre (s. an obsolete spelling) A number. Chaucer.
NOM'BRIL (s. in heraldry) The division of an escutcheon next below the fess. Nom'bril

Non'bril (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to that division of an escutcheon next below the fess.

NOME (s. in Egyptian antiquity, from the Greek νομος a law) the district of the nomarch, one of the governments or divisions of Egypt. Dict. of Arts.

NOME (s. in algebra, from the Lat. nomen) A simple quantity affixed to some other quantity by its proper sign. Nome, Nomen (p. obsolete from nim) Took, taken. Ch.

NO'MEN (s. from the Lat.) A name, a noun.

NOMENCLA'TOR (s. from the Lat. nomenclatura) One who calls persons or things by their proper names.

NOMENCLA'TURE (s. from the Lat. nomenclatura) The act of naming; a dictionary, a vocabulary.

Nom'inal (adj. from nomen) Relating to names, consisting in name only, titular.

NOMINA'LIA (s. from the Lat.) The festivals celebrated by the Romans when they gave names to their children.

Nom'inalist (s. from nominal) One of a sect of school philosophers who held that words or names only were to be attended to in all logical disquisitions.

Nom'inally (adv. from nominal) By name, in name only, titularly.

Nom'inals (s. from nominal) The nominalists.

NOM'INATE (v. t. from the Lat. nomen a name) To name, to mention by name, to entitle, to set down or appoint by name.

Nom'inated (p. from nominate) Named, mentioned by name, set down or appointed by name.

Nom'inating (p. a. from nominate) Naming, setting down or appointing by name.

Nomina'tion (s. from nominate) The act of mentioning by name, the power of appointing.

Nom'ivative (adj. from nominate) Naming, belonging to that case of a noun in which it stands as the agent or subject of a verb.

Nom'ivative (s. from the adj.) That case of a noun in which it stands as the agent or subject of a verb.

Nom'inee (s. from nomen) One named or appointed to any office.

NO'MOCANON (s. from the Greek νομος a law, and κανων a rule) A collection of rules or canons.

Nomog'rapher (s. from nomography) one who writes on the subject of laws.

NOMOG'GRAPHY (s. from the Greek νομος a law, and γραφω to write) A treatise or description of laws.

NOMOTH'ESY (s. from the Greek νομος a law, and τιθημι to put, but not much used) The institution of laws, the publication of laws. Cole.

NOMOTHE'TA (s. from the Greek νομος a law, and τιθημι to put) A lawgiver. Bailey.

Nomothet'ical (adj. from nomotheta) Belonging to a lawgiver, belonging to the institution of laws. Cole.

Nompareil (s. a different spelling) Nonpareil, one of the least sorts of printing letters. Scott.

Nom'pere (s. obsolete) An umpire or arbitrator. Chaucer.

NON (s. from the Lat. seldom or never used, but in composition) Not.

Nonabil'ity (s. from non and ability) Inability; a legal exception against a person.

Nonaccept'ance (s. from non and acceptance) The refusal of acceptance.

NONACES'SIS (s. in antiquity) A Roman coin in value about five shillings and seven-pence.

Non'act (s. from non and act) A forbearance from action, the contrary to act. Ayliffe.

Nonadmis'sion (s. from non, and admission) A refusal of admittance. Ayliffe.

Non'age (s. from non and age) Minority, the time of life before a person comes to age.

NONAGES'IMAL (adj. in astronomy) Belonging to the ninetyeth or highest degree in the ecliptic.

NO'NAGON (s. in geometry) A plain figure with nine sides and angles.

Nonappear'ance (s. from non and appearance) The omission of timely and proper appearance, a failure of appearance.

NONASSUMP'SIT (s. a law term) A general plea by which a person denies that he has made any promise.

NONASPH'E'RA (s. in the old astronomy) The ninth sphere, the primum mobile.

Nonatten'tion (s. from non and attention) The want of proper and timely attention.

NONCE (s. the derivation is uncertain and the word is now nearly obsolete) Purpose, intent, design. Shak.

Noncer'tain (s. obsolete) Uncertain. Chaucer.

Non'claim (s. a law term) An omission of claim within the time specified by law.

NON COMPOS MEN'TIS (adj. from the Lat.) Destitute of the proper exercise of reason, incapable of performing a legal act.

Nonconcur'ence (s. from non and concurrence) A refusal of concurrence.

Nonconfor'mist (s. from non and conformist) One who does not conform to the ritual of the church of England, a dissenter, one who cannot in conscience commune with the established church, one who does not conform to a general custom.

Nonconfor'mity (s. from non and conformity) A refusal to join with the established religion; a refusal of compliance.

NON'DEScript (adj. from the Lat. non not, and describo to describe) Undescribed, mentioned but not described.

Non'descript (s. from the adj.) A plant or other natural production, which has been mentioned but not described.

NONE (adj. generally used without the sub. from the Sax. non) Not any, no other.

None (s. from the adj.) No one, no one of any number, no part of any quantity. "Israel would none of me."

NONE (s. from the Lat. nonus the ninth) One of the canonical hours in the Roman church answering to three o'clock in the afternoon.

Nonen'tity (s. from non and entity) Non-existence, a thing not existing.

NONES (s. in the Roman calendar) the fifth day of January, February, April, June, August, September, November, and December; the seventh day of March, July, and October: the ninth day before the ides.

No'nesuch (s. from none, and such, a cant word frequently used ironically) An extraordinary person, any thing that excels.

No'nesuch (s. in botany) The name of a flower.

Nonexis'tence (s. from non and existence) The state of not existing.

Nonju'rer (s. a different spelling) A nonjuror.

Nonju'ring (adj. from nonjuror) Refusing to swear allegiance to the Hanoverian family.

NONJU'ROR (s. from the Lat. non not, and juro to swear) One who supposing James the second to have been unjustly deposed refuses to swear allegiance to those who have succeeded him.

Nonnatural (s. with physicians, generally used in the plu. from non and natural) Any thing which is not naturally, but by accident or abuse, the cause of disease: the nonnaturals have been usually ranged under six heads, air, diet, sleep, exercise, passion, and excretion.

Nonne (s. an obsolete spelling) A nun. Chaucer.

NONOB'STANT (adv. from the Lat. non not, and obisto to binder) Notwithstanding, notwithstanding any thing to the contrary. Chaucer.

NONOBSTAN'TE (adv. from the Lat. a law term) Notwithstanding any thing to the contrary.

Nonobstan'te (s. from the adv.) A licence from the king to do that which could not be lawfully done without it.

Nonorgan'ical (adj. from non and organical) Having no organs, destitute of organs or instruments of motion.

NONPARE'IL (s. from the French) An unequalled excellence; a kind of apple; a small size of printing letter.

Non'plevin (s. a law term) A default in not replevying land in due time.

NON'PLUS (s. from the Lat. non not and plus more, used rather in low or droll style) A puzzle, an inability to proceed. Locke.

Non'plus (v. t. from the sub.) To confound, to puzzle, to put to a stand.

Non'plused (p. from nonplus) Confounded, put to a stand.

Non'plusing (p. a. from nonplus) Confounding, puzzling, putting to a stand.

Non'plust (v. t. pret. of nonplus) Nonplused, did nonplus.

Non'plust (p. from nonplus) Nonplused. Dryden.

Non'power (s. from non and power) Impotence. Chaucer.

Nonproficiency (s. from non, and proficiency) The neglect or improvement. Bailey.

Nonregard'ance (s. from non and regardance) The want of proper regard. Shakespeare.

Nonres'idence (s. from non and residence) A failure of residence.

Nonres'ident (adj. from non, and resident) Omitting residence, not residing at the proper place.

Nonres'ident (s. from the adj.) One who does not reside at the proper place.

Nonresistance (s. from non, and resistance) Ready or implicit obedience to a superior, the principle of not opposing the king.

Nonresistance (s. a different spelling) Nonresistance. Scott.

Non'sense (s. from non, and sense) Unmeaning words ungrammatical ungrammatical language; trifles, things of no importance.

NOR

Nonfens'ical (adj. from nonsense) Unmeaning, foolish.

Nonfens'ically (adv. from nonfensical) Unmeaningly, foolishly.

Nonfens'icalness (s. from nonsense) Ungrammatical jargon, trifling absurdity.

Nonfol'vent (adj. from non and solvent) Unable to pay debts.

Nonfol'vent (s. from the adj.) One who is not able to pay his debts.

Nonfol'ution (s. from non and solution) A failure of solution.

Nonfaring (adj. from non and sparing) Mergiless, sparing none.

Nonfuit (s. from non and fuit, a law term) A renunciation of a fuit by one of the parties; a failure in the management of a fuit which sets aside the trial.

Nonfuit (v. t. from the sub.) To deprive of a legal process by some defect in the proceedings.

Nonfuit (p. from nonfuit) Deprived of a legal process by some defect in the proceedings.

Nonfuiting (p. a. from nonfuit) Depriving of the benefit of a legal determination by some defect in management.

Nonten'ure (s. from non and tenure) A plea of exemption from the jurisdiction of a court.

Non'term (s. from non and term) The vacation between the terms.

NONU'PLA (s. in music) A quick time suited to jiggs.

Noo'die (s. from noddie) A simpleton, a silly fellow.

NOOK (s. from the German, eenhoek) A corner, a covert, formed by an intersection; the fourth part of a yard land.

NOON (s. from the Sax. non) The middle of the day, the point of time when the sun crosses the meridian, mid-day.

Noon (adj. an obsolete spelling) None. Dryden.

Noon'day (s. from noon and day) Noon, the middle of the day. Chaucer.

Noon'day (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the middle of the day, meridional.

Noon'ing (s. from noon) A nap in the middle of the day, a repose at noon.

Noon'tide (s. from noon and tide) The time of noon, midday.

Noon'tide (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the middle of the day, meridional.

NOOSE (s. probably from the Lat. nodus a knot) A kind of running knot, a knot the more it is drawn the faster it grows.

Noose (v. t. from the Lat.) To tie in a running knot, to catch, to entrap.

Noosed (p. from noose) Tied with a running knot, caught as in a noose.

Noo'fing (p. a. from noose) Catching in a noose, tying in a noose.

NOP, NOPE (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird, the bullfinch.

NOPH (s. from the Heb. signifying a honeycomb) The name of a country. Isaiah.

NOR (conj. from the Lat. ne) Neither.

Nore (s. obsolete) Comfort, nourishment. Chaucer.

NOR'FOLK (s.) A county of England situate on the sea coast of the German ocean; the air is salubrious, and the soil for the most part fruitful; it contains one city, and thirty two market towns; and sends twelve members to parliament, two for the county, two for the city of Norwich, and two for each of the boroughs Lynnregis, Great Yarmouth, Thetford, and Castlerising.

Norfolk (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the county of Norfolk, produced in the county of Norfolk.

Nor'ice (s. obsolete) A nurse. Chaucer.

Nor'ie (s. obsolete) A foster child. Chaucer.

Nor'is (s. an old spelling) A nurse. Chaucer.

Nor'iture (s. an obsolete spelling) Nurture. Chaucer.

Nor'mal (adj. in geometry) Perpendicular, forming a right angle.

Nor'man (s. a sea term) A short wooden bar to be put into the windlafs.

Nor'man (s. an old word) A Norwegian, an inhabitant of the north west part of Europe.

Nor'man (adj. from Normandy) Belonging to Normandy.

Nor'man (s. from the adj.) A native of Normandy.

NOR'MANDY (s. in geography) A province of France famous in the history of England as the patrimony of William the conqueror.

Norman'ic (adj. from Norman) Belonging to Normandy. Urry.

NOR

NOR'REY (s.) One of the heralds at arms, a king at arms whose office lies on the north side of the river Trent.

NOR'ROY (s. from north, and roy, a different spelling) Norrey, one of the heralds.

NORTH (s. from the Sax. north) The point of the heavens opposite to the south, the point of the horizon opposite to the sun at noon.

North (adj. from the sub.) Northern, situate towards that point which is opposite to the sun at noon.

NORTHAL'LERTON (s.) a borough town in Yorkshire; it has a market on Wednesday, sends two members to parliament, and is 224 miles from London.

Northal'lerton (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Northallerton, made at Northallerton.

NORTHAMP'TON (s.) a large town the capital of Northamptonshire; it has a market on Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 62 miles from London.

Northamp'ton (s. from the sub.) Belonging to Northampton, made at Northampton.

Northamp'tonshire (adj. from Northampton) One of the inland counties of England; it is near the centre of the kingdom, the air is accounted exceedingly salubrious, and the soil very fruitful in corn and pasture; and it sends nine members to parliament, two for the shire and two for each of the boroughs Northampton, Peterborough, and Brackley, and one for Highamferris.

Northamp'tonshire (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the county of Northampton, produced in the county of Northampton.

NORTHCUR'RY (s.) A town in Somersetshire; it has a market on Tuesday and Saturday, and is 139 miles from London.

Northcur'ry (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Northcurry, made at Northcurry.

Northea'st (s. from north and east) The middle point between the north and the east.

Northea'st (adj. from the sub.) Lying between the north and the east.

North'erly (adj. from north) Lying towards the north.

North'ern (adj. from north) Lying towards the north, northerly.

North'ing (s. a sea term from north) The difference of latitude which a ship makes in her course.

NORTH'LECH (s.) A town in Gloucestershire; it has a small market on Wednesday, and is 88 miles from London.

North'lech (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Northlech, made at Northlech.

North'light (s. from north and light) The northern light, the aurora borealis.

North'in (adj. an old spelling) Northern. Chaucer.

North'star (s. from north and star) The star nearest to the northpole. Shakespeare.

NORTHUM'BERLAND (s.) The most northern county in England; it is mountainous and barren, abounds with coal more than any county and sends eight members to parliament, two for the county, and two for each of the boroughs Morpeth, Newcastle, and Berwick upon Tweed.

Northum'berland (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Northumberland, produced in the county of Northumberland.

North'ward (adj. from north) Lying towards the north.

North'ward, North'wards (adv. from the adj.) Towards the north.

Northwest (s. from north and west) The point between the north and west.

Northwest (adj. from the sub.) Lying between the north and west.

NORTH'WICH (s.) A town in Cheshire; it has a market on Friday, and is 172 miles from London.

North'wich (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Northwich, made at Northwich.

North'wind (s. from north and wind) The wind that blows from the north.

Nor'tilry, Nor'terly (s. obsolete) Nurture, the act of nursing or bringing up children. Chaucer.

Nor'tory (s. an obsolete spelling) Nurture, the act of nursing children. Chaucer.

Nor'tury (s. obsolete) Nurture. Chaucer.

NOR'WAY (s. in geography) A cold barren country lying between Sweden and the north-east part of the Atlantic ocean.

Norway (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Norway, imported from Norway.

Norwe'gian (adj. from Norway) Belonging to Norway.

Norwe'gian (s. from the adj.) A native of Norway.

NOR'WICH (s.) A large and populous city of Norfolk famous for the manufacture of crapes and other stuffs; it is the see of a bishop, has a market on Wednesday, Friday,

NOT

Friday, and Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 109 miles from London.
Notwich (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Norwich, made at Norwich.
Nurse (s. an old word) A nurse. Bailey.
Nursey (s. an old word) A foster child. Bailey.
Nose (s. from the Sax. nose) The prominence on the middle of the face which is the organ of smelling; the end of any thing; scent, sagacity. "To lead by the nose," to lead blindly, to drag by force. "To thrust the nose into," to be meddling. "To put the nose out of joint," to supplant in the affections of another.
Nose (v. t. from the sub.) To scent, to smell; to face, to oppose.
Nose (v. int.) To bluster, to look big.
Nosmell (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
Nosed (p. from nose) Scented; opposed.
Nogay (s. from nose, and gay) A bunch of flowers, a posy.
Noisels (adj. from nose) Having no nose, destitute of a nose.
Noisemart (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
Noising (p. a. from nose) Scenting, smelling; facing, opposing, looking big.
Noising (s. from the part.) The act of taking by the nose; that which is put on at the end of any thing resembling a nose.
Noisle (s. from nose) The end of any thing.
NOOCOMIUM (s. from the Greek νοκος a disease, and νοκος to cure) An infirmary, an hospital for the cure of poor people. Phillips.
NOOLOGY (s. from the Greek νοκος a disease, and νοκος a description) The doctrine of diseases.
NOOPOETIC (adj. from the Greek νοκος a disease, and νοκος to make) Producing diseases. Arbutnot.
NOSTRIL (s. from the Sax. nota a nose, and thyril a hole) The cavity of the nose.
NOSTRUM (s. from the Lat.) A medicine not yet made public; a quack medicine.
NOT (adv. from the Sax. ne aught) In no wise, on no terms; in the state of the dead, out of existence.
NOT (v. int. a contraction from ne not) Know not. Cb.
NOTA (s. from the Lat.) A note, a character. Bailey.
NOTABLE (s. obsolete) A remark, a notable thing. Cb.
Notability (s. in droll style, from notable) Notableness.
Notable (adj. from note) Capable of being noted, fit to be noted, remarkable; industrious, careful, bustling.
Notableness (s. from notable) The state or quality of being notable; an appearance of business; importance in ironical or droll style.
Notably (adv. from notable) Remarkably, with a shew of importance, importantly in droll or ironical style.
NOTÆ MATERNE (s. from the Lat. nota a note, and mater a mother) The navi, the marks which are impressed on a child before it is born by the imagination of the mother.
Notarial (adj. from notary) Taken by a notary. Ayliffe.
NOTARICON (s. in antiquity) The third part of the Jewish cabbalat.
Notary (s. from note) An officer whose business it is to take notes of any thing which may concern the public.
Notary public (s. from notary and public) A notary, one whose business it is to take notes of any thing that may concern the public.
Notation (s. from nota) The act of recording any thing, the act of noting any thing; a meaning, a signification.
Notch (s. from the Italian nocchia) A nick, a hollow cut in any thing.
Notch (v. t. from the sub.) To cut in small hollows.
Notched (p. from notch) Cutting in notches, cut in small hollows.
Notching (p. a. from notch) Cutting in notches.
Notch (v. t. pret. of notch) Notched, did notch. Shake.
Notch (p. from notch) Notched, cut in notches.
Notchweed (s. in botany) The vetch.
NOTE (s. from the Lat. nota) A mark, a token; an abbreviation, a symbol; notice, heed; reputation, consequence; a short hint, a small paper; a paper given as an acknowledgement of a debt; a short explanation, a brief comment; a voice, a tune, a single sound in music; business. Chaucer.
Note (v. t. from the sub.) To observe, to remark; to record, to set down; to put down the notes of a tune; to charge with a crime. Dryden.
Note (v. t. contracted from ne not) To be ignorant of, to know not. Chaucer.
Notebook (s. from note, and book) A memorandum-book, a book in which notes and memorandums are set down.
Noted (p. from note) Remarked, observed, set down.

NOV

No'ted (adj. from note) Famous, eminent, remarkable.
No'tefull (adj. obsolete, from note) Notable, remarkable. Cb.
No'teherd (s. an old word) A neat herd. Bailey.
No'ter (s. from note) One that notes, one who takes notice.
NO'THÆ COS'TÆ (s. in anatomy) The short ribs.
Noth'er, No'thir (conj. obsolete) Nor, neither. Chaucer.
Noth'ing (s. from no, and thing) A nonentity, that which has no existence; a thing of no value, a trifle; a very small matter, a thing of no consequence. "To make nothing of," to do with ease, to make no difficulty of; to fail in an attempt, to do ineffectually.
Noth'ing (adv. from the sub.) In no degree, in no measure. "But Adam with such counsel nothing swayed."
Noth'ingness (s. from nothing) The state of being nothing, nihility; nothing, a thing of no value.
NO'THUS (s. with physicians) A disease which goes beyond the ordinary or common rule.
No'tice (s. from note) Observation, regard; information, intelligence.
No'tice (v. t. from the sub. but not much used) To observe, to note.
No'ticed (p. from notice) Noted, observed.
No'ticing (p. a. from notice, but not much used) Noting, observing.
Notifica'tion (s. from notify) The act of making known, a representation by marks and symbols.
Notified (p. from notify) Made known, published.
NOTIFY (v. t. from the Lat. nota a note, and facio to make) To make known, to declare, to publish.
NOTIFYING (p. a. from notify) Making known, declaring, publishing.
NOTION (s. from the Lat. nosco to know) Thought, representation formed in the mind; an opinion, an idea; sense, understanding. Shakespeare.
Notional (adj. from notion) Imaginary, ideal, consisting in opinion.
Notional'ity (s. from notional but not used) An empty ungrounded opinion. Glanville.
Notionally (adv. from notional) In idea, mentally, in conception.
No'tis (s. an obsolete spelling) Nuts. Chaucer.
NOTONÆ'TA (s. in the history of insects) A kind of small beetles living in the water and swimming on their backs. Phillips.
Notori'ety (s. from notorious) The state of being publicly known.
NOTORIOUS (adj. from the Lat. notorius) Public, known to all; known to disadvantage.
Notori'ously (adv. from notorious) Publicly, evidently, openly.
Notori'ousness (s. from notorious) The state of being notorious.
NOTOZEPHY'RUS (s. from notus, and zephyrus) The southwest wind.
Nott (v. t. perhaps from not) To shear, to crop. Ains.
Nott (adj. from the verb) Shorn, cropped, having no horns.
Nor'ted (p. from nott) Shorn, cropped.
Not'ting (p. a. from nott) Shearing, cropping.
NOTTINGHAM (s.) The county town of Nottinghamshire; it is famous for the manufacture of stockings, is a county of itself, has a market on Wednesday and Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 124 miles from London.
Not'tingham (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Nottingham, made at Nottingham.
Not'tinghamshire (s. from Nottingham) one of the inland counties of England; it contains nine market towns and one hundred and sixty eight parishes, and sends eight members to parliament, two for the county, two for the town of Nottingham, and two for each of the boroughs East Retford, and Newark.
Not'tinghamshire (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the county of Nottingham, produced in the county of Nottingham.
NO'TUS (s. from the Lat.) The southwind.
Not'wheat (s. from not, and wheat) A kind of unbearded wheat. Carew.
Notwithstand'ing (conj. from not and withstanding) Nevertheless, however; though, although. "Notwithstanding it will weaken him for a time." But this sense and construction are judged by some to be improper. Add.
Notwithstanding (adv. from not, and withstanding) In spite of, without regarding. "I will do it notwithstanding your prohibition." This is judged the most proper sense and construction of the word.
No'tvale (s. an old word) Fresh land ploughed up for tillage; land ploughed up for fallow. NO'VASCO'TIA

NOU

NO/VASCO/TIA (s.) New Scotland, one of the colonies in North America subject to Great Britain.

NOVA/TIAN (s. from the Lat.) A man's name.

NOVA'TIAN (s. from the foregoing, in church history) One of a sect of Christians which arose in the third century, and accused the church of too great lenity in receiving into her communion on a profession of repentance, those who had denied the faith under the persecution of Decius the Roman emperor; they likewise affirmed, that the church had no power to remit mortal sins, and condemned second marriages.

NOVA/TOR (s. from the Lat. nova new) An innovator, an usurper.

NOV'EL (adj. from the French nouvelle) New, having a late date, later, unusual.

Nov'el (s. from the adj.) A small tale, a love tale; a law annexed to the code.

Nov'el'ist (s. from novel) A writer of novels, an innovator, one who asserts a novelty.

Nov'ellerie (s. obsolete) Novelty. Chaucer.

Nov'elness (s. from novel) The state of being new, novelty.

Nov'elrie, Nov'elry (s. an obsolete spelling) Novelty. Ch.

Nov'elty (s. from novel) The state of being novel, newness.

NOVEM/BER (s. from the Lat.) The eleventh month of the year, the ninth month from March which was formerly reckoned the first.

NOVEMD/ALE (s. from the Lat. novem nine, and dies a day) A religious solemnity upon particular occasions among the Romans continued for nine days.

NOVEM/SILES (s. in Roman mythology) The gods of the Sabines; heroes lately received into the number of the gods.

NOVEMVIRI (s. from the Lat. novem nine, and vir a man) The archons, the nine magistrates of Athens.

NOVEN'ARY (s. from the Lat. novenarius) The number nine, a number or collection consisting of nine.

Noven'ary (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the number nine. Phillips.

NOVEN/DIALE (s. a different spelling) The novemdiale.

NOVEN/NIAL (adj. from the Lat. novem nine, and annus a year) Containing the space of nine years, continuing for the space of nine years. Phillips.

NOVER/CA (s. from the Lat.) A mother-in-law.

Nover'cal (adj. from noverca) Belonging to a mother-in-law, becoming a step mother.

Nought (s. from the Sax. ne auht) Nothing, "To set at nought," to slight, to disregard.

Nought (adv. obsolete) Not. Chaucer.

Nought (conj. obsolete) Nor. Chaucer.

Noughtie (adj. obsolete) Naughty, nasty. Chaucer.

NOV'ICE (s. from the Lat. novitius) One who is in the rudiments of any knowledge, a fresh man; one who has entered a religious house but not taken the vow.

Nov'iceship (s. from novice) The state of a novice. Scott.

Novic'iate (s. from novice) The state of being a novice, the state of one in a religious house who has not yet taken the vow, the place where novices are instructed. Scott.

NOVILU'NIUM (s. from the Lat. novus new, and luna the moon) The new moon, the space of time in which the moon is invisible.

Novit'iate (s. a different spelling) The noviciate, the state of a novice. Johnson.

NOVITY (s. from the Lat. novitas, but not much used) Newness, novelty. Brown.

Noul (s.) The crown of the head. Spenser.

Nould (v. int. obsolete, from ne would) Would not. Sp.

NOUN (s. from the Lat. nomen) One of the parts of speech in grammar, a name.

Nou'rice (s. obsolete) A pupil. Chaucer.

Nou'rie (s. obsolete) A pupil. Chaucer.

NOU'RISH (v. t. from the Lat. nutrio) To support by food, to increase or support by aliment; to support, to maintain; to encourage, to foment; to train, to educate; to strengthen and refresh as food.

Nour'ish (v. int.) To gain nourishment. Bacon.

Nour'ishable (adj. from nourish) Capable of being nourished.

Nour'ished (p. from nourish) Supported, cherished by food, encouraged, educated.

Nour'isher (s. from nourish) One that nourishes, any thing that nourishes.

Nour'ishing (p. a. from nourish) Affording nourishment, supporting, encouraging.

Nour'ishment (s. from nourish) That which nourishes, food, sustenance.

Nour'iture (s. an obsolete spelling) Nurture, education. Sp.

Nours'ling (s. from nurse) A nurse, a nursing. Spenser.

Nous'el (v. t. the derivation is uncertain) To nurse up. Sp.

NUC

Nous'el (v. t. from noose) To entrap, to confine with a noose. Johnson.

Nouth (v. third pers. sing. obsolete) Knoweth. Chaucer.

NOW (adv. from the Sax. na) At this time, at some point of time lately passed, at one time, at another time. "Now and then," at one time and another.

Now (conj.) And, but, therefore. "Now Barabbas" "was a murderer."

Now (s. from the adv.) The time present, the present moment. "One eternal now."

Now'adays (adv. from now, and day) At the present time, in the present times.

No'ways (adv. an incorrect spelling) Nowise.

NOW'ED (adj. from the French noue) Knotted, inwreathed. Brown.

Now'ell (s. an old word) Christmas. Chaucer.

Nowes (s. obsolete) The marriage knot.

No'where (adv. from no, and where) In no place.

No'wife (adv. from no, and wife) In no degree, by no means.

Nowl (s. a different spelling) The noll, the top of the head. Chaucer.

Now'ther (conj. obsolete) Nor, neither.

NOX (s. from the Lat.) Night.

NOX'IOUS (adj. from the Lat. noceo to hurt) Hurtful, pernicious, unwholesome; guilty, criminal.

Nox'iously (adv. from noxious) Hurtful, perniciously.

Nox'iousness (s. from noxious) Hurtfulness, unwholesomeness.

Noy'ances (s. obsolete) Nufances, troubles. Chaucer.

Noye (s. obsolete) Harm, hurt, trouble. Chaucer.

Noy'ed (adj. obsolete) Perplexed, annoyed. Spenser.

Noy'ous (adj. obsolete) Hurtful. Spenser.

Noy'sance (s. obsolete) A nuisance. Chaucer.

Noz'le (s. from nose) The nose, the snout, the end of any thing.

Nub (s. a local word) The neck. Bailey.

Nub'bing (s. a cant word) The act of hanging. Bailey.

Nub'bingcheat (s. a cant word) The gallows.

Nub'bingcove (s. a cant word) A hangman. Bailey.

Nub'bingken (s. a cant word) The sessions house. Bailey.

Nub'ble (v. t. perhaps from knob) To beat, to bruise. Ainsworth.

Nub'bled (p. from nubble) Beaten, bruised with the fist.

Nub'bling (p. a. from nubble) Beating, bruising.

NUBEC'ULA (s. in surgery) A distemper of the eye, the luecoma.

NU'BIA (s. in geography) A country in Africa.

Nu'b'ian (adj. from Nubia) Belonging to Nubia.

NUBIC'ULÆ (s. with physicians) The small cloudlike appearances in urine.

NUBIF'EROUS (adj. from the Lat. nubes a cloud, and fero to bring) Producing clouds.

NUBIG'ENOUS (adj. from the Lat. nubes a cloud, and gigno to beget) Produced by clouds.

NUBIG'EROUS (adj. from the Lat. nubes a cloud, and gero to carry) Bringing clouds.

NU'BILATE (v. t. from the Lat. nubes a cloud, but not much used) To cloud. Johnson.

Nu'b'liated (p. from nubilare, but not much used) Clouded.

Nu'b'liating (p. a. from nubilare, but not much used) Clouding.

NU'BILE (adj. from the Lat. nubilis) Marriageable, fit for marriage.

NU'BILOSE (adj. from the Lat. nubes a cloud) Cloudy.

NU'BILOUS (adj. from the Lat. nubilis) Cloudy. Bailey.

NUCAMEN'TUM (s. in botany) The julus, the catkin.

NU'CEOUS (adj. from nux a nut) Made of nuts, consisting of nuts. Bailey.

NU'CHA (s. in anatomy) The hinder part of the neck. Dict. of Arts.

NUCIF'EROUS (adj. from the Lat. nux a nut, and fero to bear) Producing nuts.

NUCIF'RAGA (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird, the nutcracker.

NUCIPR'UNUM (s. in botany) A plum grafted on the hazle.

Nuck'ian (adj. in anatomy) Belonging to certain glands seated near the eye, and first discovered by doct.

Nuck a physician in Holland.

NUCKIANÆ (s. plu. with physicians) Certain glands seated near the eye and first discovered by doct.

Nuck a physician in Holland.

NU'CLEUS (s. from the Lat.) A kernel, any thing included in something else as a kernel; the middle part of a floor formed after the manner of the ancients; the head of a comet, the middle part of a planet. Nuda'tion.

NUM

NUR

Nuda'tion (s. from nude) The act of laying bare, the act of making naked.

Nud'dle (v. int. a colloquial word) To go carelessly, to go on in haste without much consideration.

Nud'dling (p. a. from nuddle) To go on carelessly, to proceed in haste, and without much consideration.

NUDE (adj. from the Lat. nudus) Naked, bare; having no leaves, having no seed vessel.

NU'DIL (s. in surgery) A kind of pledget dipped in ointment and used in diseases or ulcerations of the mouth.

Nu'dity (s. from nude) Nakedness, a naked part, a part of a drawing or picture not covered with drapery; a picture representing a naked person.

Nu'el (s. in architecture, a different spelling) A newel, the upright post in a staircase.

Nugacity (s. from the Lat. nugax trifling) The act of trifling, futility.

Nugal'ity (s. not so common a word) Nugacity. Scott.

NUGA'TION (s. from the Lat. nugor to trifle) The act of trifling.

NU'GATORY (adj. from the Lat. nugatorius) Trifling, insignificant.

NU'SANCE (s. from the French) Something offensive, something hurtful; something that incommodes a neighbourhood.

NUKE (s. from the Italian. nuca) The hinder part of the head, the noddle. Scott.

NULL (adj. from the Lat. nullus) Void, of no force, ineffectual.

Null (v. t. from the adj.) To annul, to deprive of efficacy, to annihilate.

Null (s. from the adj.) A cipher, a thing of no power, something that has no meaning. Bacon.

Null'd (p. from null) Made void, rendered ineffectual.

NULLIB'ETY (s. from the Lat. nullibi nowhere) The state of being nowhere. Johnson.

Null'ity (s. from null) A nullity, nothingness. Scott.

NULLIFID'IAN (s. from the Lat. nullus none, and fides faith) A person destitute of faith. Phillips.

Nullified (p. from nullify) Made void.

NUL'LIFY (v. t. from the Lat. nullus no one, and facio to make) To annul, to make void. Johnson.

Nullifying (p. a. from nullify) Making void.

Null'ing (p. a. from null) Making void, rendering ineffectual.

Null'ity (s. from null) The want of efficacy, the want of existence.

Null'o (s. not much used) A cipher. Phillips.

NUMB (v. t. from the Sax. benumen) To make torpid, to stupify.

Numb (adj. from the verb) Torpid, deprived in a great measure of motion and sensation, producing numbness.

Numb'd (p. from numb) Rendered torpid, deprived of sensation.

Numb'dness (s. from numbed) A torpor, an interruption of motion or feeling.

NUMBER (s. from the Lat. numerus) A mark or character distinguishing how many, an aggregate of individuals, many individuals, a multitude; the variation of a word in grammar signifying one or more; verse, poetry, harmony.

Number (v. t. from the sub.) To reckon how many, to count; to reckon as one of the same kind.

Numbered (p. from number) Reckoned, counted.

Numberer (s. from number) One that numbers.

Numbering (p. a. from number) Reckoning, counting how many.

Numberless (adj. from number) Innumerable, more than can be numbered.

Numbers (s. from number) The title of the fourth book of Moses; poetic lines.

Num'bles (s. a hunting term) The entrails of the deer kind.

Numb'ness (s. from numb) A torpor, an interruption of motion or sensation.

NUMENIUS (s.) A man's name. Apoc.

NUMERABLE (adj. from the Lat. numero to number) Capable of being numbered.

NUMERAL (adj. from the Lat. numerus) Pertaining to number, consisting of numbers.

Numerally (adv. from numeral) According to number.

NUMERARY (adj. from the Lat. numerus a number) Belonging to a particular number. Ayliffe.

NUMERATION (s. from the Lat. numero to number) The act of numbering, the art of numbering; the first rule in arithmetic teaching the notation of numbers.

NUMERA'TOR (s. from numeration) One that numbers; that number which serves as a common measure of others, that number which stands above the line in a vulgar fraction.

NUMERICAL (adj. from the Lat. numero to number) Belonging to number, denoting number; denoting sameness in species and number.

Numer'ically (adv. from numerical) With respect to sameness in number.

NUMERIST (s. from the Lat. numerus a number) One skilled in numbers, one that deals in numbers.

Nu'mero (s. in commerce) The figures or mark by which any number of things are distinguished.

Numeros'ity (s. from numerous) The state of being numerous, the flow of numbers, harmony.

NUMEROUS (adj. from the Lat. numerus a number) Containing many, consisting of a great number; musical, harmonious.

Nu'merousness (s. from numerous) The state or quality of being numerous.

NUMID'IA (s. in geography) The ancient name of a large country in Africa.

Numid'ian (adj. from Numidia) Belonging to Numidia.

NUMID'ICA (s. in ornithology) The turkey hen.

NUMID'ICUSLAPIS (s. in natural history, from the Lat.) A kind of African marble.

NUMISMATOGRAPH'IA (s. from the Lat. numisma a piece of money, and the Greek γραφω to describe) A description of ancient coins and medals. Dict. of Arts.

NUMMARY (adj. from the Lat. nummus money) Belonging to money.

NUMMULAR (adj. from the Lat. nummus money) Belonging to money.

NUMMULA'RIA (s. in botany) The moneywort.

Num'skull (s. from numb, and skull) A blockhead, a dunce; the head in droll style.

Num'skull'd (adj. from numskull) Dull, blockish, stupid.

NUN (s. supposed to be from the Lat. non not, and nupta married) A woman secluded in a cloister and debarred by a vow from the converse of men.

Nun (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird, the tit-mouse.

NUN (s. from the Heb. signifying posterity) A man's name.

Nun'chion (s. a colloquial word) A piece of victuals eaten between meals. Hudibras.

NUNCIATURE (s. from the Lat. nuncio to declare) The state or office of a nuncio.

NUN'CIO (s. from the Lat. nuncio to tell) A messenger, one that brings tidings; a kind of spiritual envoy from the pope.

NUN'CIUS (s. from the Lat.) A messenger, an apparitor, a beadle.

Nuncupation (s. obsolete) The act of naming. Cba.

NUNCUPATIVE (adj. from the Lat. nuncupatus) Verbally pronounced, solemnly declaratory.

NUNCUPATORY (adj. from the Lat. nuncupatus) Nuncupative.

NUNDINA (s. in beaten mythology) The goddess who was supposed to preside over the lustrations or purifications of infants.

NUNDINÆ (s. from the Lat.) A mart, a fair.

NUN'DINAL (adj. from nundinæ) Belonging to fairs or markets.

Nun'dinary (adj. from nundinæ) Nundinal, belonging to fairs or markets.

NUNEATON (s.) A town in Warwickshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 98 miles from London.

Nuneaton (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Nuneaton, made at Nuneaton.

Nun'ery (s. from nun) The house or habitation of nuns.

NUP'TIAL (adj. from the Lat. nuptiæ, a marriage) Belonging to marriage, constituting marriage.

Nup'tial (s. from the adj. but little used in the singular) A marriage, nuptials. Shakespeare.

Nuptials (s. from nuptial) A marriage, marriage solemnities.

NUP'TUAL (adj. from the Lat. nuptus, married, but not a common spelling) Nuptial. Scott.

Nup'tuals (s. not a common spelling) Nuptials. Scott.

Nup'tualist (s. from nuptual) One who makes matches, a bride, a bridegroom. Scott.

Nurse (s. from nourish) A woman who suckles a child, a woman who takes care of a child; any thing that breeds or protects; one who waits on sick people; an old woman; the state of being nursed.

Nurse (v. t. from the sub.) To bring up a child, to bring up another person's child; to bring up any thing young, to feed, to maintain; to take care of the sick; to pamper, to cherish, to soiten.

Nurse

Nurse (adj. mostly used in composition) Belonging to one that nurses, belonging to that which cherishes any thing young.

Nursed (p. from nurse) Brought up as a child, tended as a sick person, cherished, maintained.

Nur/semaid (s. from nurse, and maid) A woman servant employed in nursing children.

Nur/sepond (s. from nurse, and pond) A pond for young fish. Walton.

Nurser (s. from nurse) One that nurses; one that supports.

Nurs'ery (s. from nurse) The act of nursing, the object of a nurse's care; the place where young children are nursed and brought up, the place where any thing is fostered and brought up; a plantation of young trees.

Nurs'ing (p. a. from nurse) Bringing up a child, feeding, nourishing; waiting on sick people.

Nurs'ing (s. from the part.) The act of bringing up any thing young; the care to be taken of the sick.

Nurs'le (v. t. from nurse) To fondle, to cherish. John.

Nurs'led (p. from nurse) Fondled, cherished.

Nurs'ling (p. a. from nurse) Fondling, cherishing.

Nurs'ling (s. from nurse) A fondling, one brought up with more than common tenderness.

Nursus'ly (s. in botany) The narcissus.

NUR/TURE (s. from the French nourriture) Food, diet; education, institution.

Nur'ture (v. t. from the sub.) To train up, to educate, to bring up with care and food to a state of maturity.

Nur'tured (p. from nurture) Trained up, educated, cherished.

Nur'turing (p. a. from nurture) Training up, educating.

Nur'sance (s. not so common a spelling) A nuisance. Scott.

Nursh'd (adj. a local word) Starved, having the growth spoiled for want of care in bringing up. Bailey.

Nur'stle (v. t. from nurse) To fondle, to cherish. Ains.

Nur'stled (p. from nurse) Fondled, cherished.

Nur'sling (p. a. from nurse) Fondling, cherishing.

NUT (s. from the Lat. nux) A fruit inclosed in a shell, a kernel covered with a hard shell; a gland, the glands, a small protuberance with indentures answering to the teeth of a wheel.

NUTATION (s. from the Lat. nuto to nod) A kind of tremulous motion of the earth's axis.

Nut/brown (s. from nut, and brown) Brown, having the colour of a ripe nut.

Nut/cracker (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird, the nuthatch.

Nut/crackers (s. from nut, and crack) An instrument to crack nuts.

Nut/crook (s. from nut, and crook) A long stick with a hook at the end, used in gathering nuts.

Nut/gall (s. from nut, and gall) The excrescence of an oak.

Nut/hatch (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird, the nutcracker.

Nut/hook (s. from nut, and hook) A nutcrack.

Nut/jobber (s. in ornithology) The nuthatch.

NUT/MEG (s. in botany) The musked nut, a kind of spice imported from the East Indies.

Nut/peach (s. in botany) A kind of peach, a kind of fruit.

Nut/pecker (s. in ornithology) The nuthatch.

NUTRICATION (s. from the Lat. nutrico to nurse) A manner of feeding, the manner of being fed.

NUTRIMENT (s. from the Lat. nutrimentum) Nutrition, nourishment, food.

Nutrimen'tal (adj. from nutriment) Affording-nourishment, alimental.

NUTRITION (s. from the Lat. nutrio to nourish) The act or quality of nourishing, nourishment.

Nutrit'ious (adj. from nutrition) Having the quality of nourishing.

NU/TRITIVE (adj. from the Lat. nutrio to nourish) Tending to nourishment, affording nourishment.

NU/TRITURE (s. from the Lat. nutrio to nourish) Nutriment, the power of nourishing.

Nut/shell (s. from nut, and shell) The hard substance inclosing the kernel of a nut.

Nut/tree (s. from nut, and tree) The hazle, the tree that bears nuts.

NUX (s. from the Lat.) A nut; any fruit with a hard kernel; the walnuttree, the juglans.

Nuz'zle (v. int. from nozzle) To go with the nose downwards like a hog.

Nuz'zle (v. t.) To nurse, to foster. Johnson.

Nuz'zled (p. from nuzzle) Nursed, fostered. Sidney.

Nuz'zling (p. a. from nuzzle) Going with the nose downwards; nursing, fostering.

NYCTHEMERON (s. from the Greek νύξ night, and μερον a day) A natural day, the space of twenty-four hours.

Ny/cite (s. an obsolete spelling) Coyness, folly. Chaucer.

NYCTALOPIA (s. from the Greek νύξ night, αλωπη blind, and οψ an eye) A disease of the eye, a dimness of sight either in the night more than in the day, or in the day more than in the night.

Nyctalops (s. from nyctalopia) One that is purblind, one who sees best in the night. Col.

NYCTHAN'THES (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

Nycthe'mer (s. from nycthemeron) A natural day, the space of twenty-four hours.

NYCTERIS (s. in zoology) The bat, the rearmouse.

NYCTICORAX (s. in ornithology) A bird of the heron kind, the night raven.

Nye (s. a different spelling) A nide, a brood as of pheasants.

Nye (adj. an obsolete spelling) Nigh, near. Chaucer.

Nygh'tertale (adv. obsolete) By night, in the night time. Chaucer.

Ny'gromance, Ni'gromancy (s. an obsolete spelling) Necromancy. Chaucer.

NYMPH (s. from the Greek νύμφη) A supposed goddess of the woods, meadows, and waters; a woman, a lady, a young woman in polite language.

Nymph'a (s. from nymph) The embryo of an insect, the first transformation or change of the eruca; the hollownefs or void space in the nether lip.

NYMPH'Æ (s. in anatomy) The two spongy substances situate one on either side just within the lips of the uterus.

NYMPH'Æ/A (s. in botany) The water lily.

NYMPH'Æ/UM (s. from the Greek νύμφη a bride) A public hall among the ancients richly adorned in which those who had not conveniences at home used to hold their marriages.

Nymph'al (adj. from nymph) Belonging to the nymphs.

NYMPH'AS (s. from the Greek) A man's name.

Nymph'et (s. from nymph) A little nymph. Col.

NYMPHOIDES (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the menyantes.

NYMPHOMANIA (s. from the Greek νύμφη a bride, and mania madness) A disease or inflammation of the nymphæ which provokes the patient to transgress the bounds of modesty in a manner bordering on madness.

NYMPHOTO'MIA, NYMPHOT'OMY (s. from the Greek νύμφη the nymphæ, and τεμνω to cut) The operation of cutting the nymphæ when too protuberant.

Nymph'ous (adj. from nymph) Belonging to the nymphs. Col.

Nys (v. neut. obsolete, from ne is) Is not, is none. Sp.

NYS'SA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

Nything (adj. a local word) Sparing. Col.

O.

O, (s.) The fourteenth letter, and fourth vowel of the English alphabet; as an old numeral stands for eleven, and, with a dash over it, for eleven thousand; a cypher which signifies nothing by itself, but when subjoined to another figure increases its value ten fold; a circle, an oval. "Within the wooden O."

O (interj.) Denoting an exclamation, implying desire.

O (adj. obsolete) One. Chaucer.

Oaf (s. prob. from oaf a fairy) A changeling, a child supposed to be left by fairies; a blockhead, an idiot.

Oaf'ish (adj. from oaf) Stupid, dull, foolish.

Oaf'ishness (s. from oaf'ish) Stupidity, dullness.

OAK (s. from the Sax. ac) A well known timber tree, the wood of the oaktree.

Oak (adj. from the sub. sometimes used in composition) Made of oak, oaken.

Oak'am (s. a different spelling) Oakum. Scott.

Oak'apple (s. from oak, and apple) A kind of spongy excrescence growing on the oak.

Oak'berry (s. from oak, and berry) A kind of small excrescence sticking close to the body of the oak.

Oak'en (adj. from oak) Made of oak, gathered from the oak.

Oak'empin (s.) The name of a very hard apple.

Oak'leaf (s. from oak, and leaf) The leaf of the oak.

Oak'leaves (s. plur. of oakleaf) The leaves of the oak.

Oak'nut (s. from oak, and nut) A kind of inflammable excrescence growing on the oak. Oak'tree

Oak'tree (s. from oak, and tree) A well known timber tree.

Oak'um (s. the derivation is not noted) The hemp of old untwisted cords.

OAR (s. from the Sax. are) A long pole with a broad end by which vessels are moved in the water.

Oar (v. t. from the sub.) To row, to move by rowing. Shakespeare.

Oar (v. int.) To row. Pope.

Oar (s. not so common a spelling) Ore. Scott.

Oar'ed (p. from oar) Moved by oars.

Oar'fined (adj. from oar, and fin) Having oars, furnished with oars as a fish with fins. Denham.

Oar'ing (p. a. from oar) Rowing.

Oar'y (adj. from oar) Having the form of oars, having the use of oars.

Oast (s. obsolete) A kiln. Mortimer.

OAT (s. from the Sax. etain to eat) A well known sort of grain; a genus of plants.

Oat'cake (s. from oat, and cake) A cake made of the meal of oats.

Oat'en (adj. from oat) Belonging to oats, made of oatmeal, bearing oats.

OATH (s. from the Sax. oth) A solemn attestation, the form of attestation before a magistrate; an appeal to the Divine Being by the mention of something sacred; a prophane recital of a sacred name.

Oath'able (adj. from oath, but now grown obsolete) Capable of having an oath administered. Shakespeare.

Oath'breaking (s. from oath, and break) Perjury, the violation of an oath. Shakespeare.

Oat'malt (s. from oat, and malt) Malt made of oats.

Oat'meal (s. from oat, and meal) The meal of oats.

Oat'meal (s. in botany) The name of an herb. Ains.

Oats (s. plu. of oat) A well known kind of grain.

Oat'thistle (s. in botany) The name of an herb.

Oaz'inefs (s. a different spelling) Oozinefs. Scott.

Oaz'y (adj. a different spelling) Oozy. Scott.

OBAC'ERATE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and cera-trum chaff, but not used) To stop the mouth of any one before he has told his tale quite out. Cole.

OBADI'AH (s. from the Heb. signifying the servant of the Lord) A man's name.

OBAL (s. from the Heb. signifying the infirmity of old age) A man's name.

OBAMBULATE (v. int. from the Lat. ob against, and ambulo to walk, but not used) To walk abroad, to walk about. Cole.

OBAMBULA'TION (s. from obambulate, but not much used) The act of walking about.

OBARMA'TION (s. from the Lat. ob against, and arma, but not used) The act of arming against an enemy. Cole.

Obay (v. t. obsolete) To abide, to suffer. Chaucer.

OBDUCE (v. t. from the Lat. ob upon, and duco to lead) To draw over as a covering.

Obdu'ced (p. from obduce) Drawn over as a covering.

Obdu'cing (p. a. from obduce) Drawing over as a covering.

Obduction (s. from obduce) The act of covering, the act of drawing any thing over as a covering.

Obdu'racy (s. from obdurate) Hardness, hardness of heart, inflexible wickedness.

BDURATE (adj. from the Lat. ob against, and duro to harden) Hardened, impenitent; stubborn, rugged.

Obdu'rately (adv. from obdurate) Stubbornly, inflexibly, impenitently.

Obdu'rateness (s. from obdurate) Stubbornness, hardness, impenitence.

Obdura'tion (s. from obdurate) Hardness of heart, stubbornness, impenitence.

Obdu'red (adj. from obdurate) Hardened, inflexible, impenitent. Milton.

OBED (s. from the Heb. signifying a servant) A man's name.

BEDEDOM (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.

Ob'dience (s. from obedient) A submission to authority, compliance with command, obsequiousness.

Ob'diencer (adj. obsolete) Obedient, subject. Chaucer.

Ob'dient (adj. from the Lat. obedio to obey) Submissive to authority, compliant with command, obsequious.

Ob'dient'ial (adj. from obedient) Observing the rules of obedience.

Ob'diently (adv. from obedient) With obedience, with obsequiousness.

Ob'dientness (s. from obedient) The state or quality of being obedient. Scott.

OBESANCE (s. from the French) A bow, a courtesy, an act of reverence.

OBEI'SANT (adj. from the French obéissant) Reverent, making a reverence. Scott.

Obei'saunce (s. an obsolete spelling) An obeisance. Ch.

Obei'sin (v. t. obsolete) To obey. Chaucer.

Obei'sing, Obeis'ing (adj. obsolete) Obedient, obeying. Chaucer.

Obeis'ing (s. obsolete) Obedience. Chaucer.

OBELÆ'A (s. in anatomy) One of the futures of the skull.

OBELISCOTHE'CA (s. in botany) The rudbeckia.

Obeli'se (v. t. not used) to blot out. Cole.

OB'ELISK (s. from the Lat. obeliscus) A kind of magnificent pillar of solid marble or stone; a note (†) generally referring to something in the margin.

OBEQUITATE (v. int. from the Lat ob against, and equito to ride, but not much used) To ride about. Cole.

Obequita'tion (s. from obequitate) The act of riding about.

OBERRA'TION (s. from the Lat. ob against, and erro to err) The act of wandering about.

OBE'SE (adj. from the Lat. obesus) Fat, laden with flesh.

Obes'eness (s. from obese) Fatness, fatness occasioned by a morbid habit, incumbrance of flesh.

Obes'ity (s. from obese) Fatness occasioned by the smallness of the veins or an ill habit of body. Greav.

OBE'Y (v. t. from the Lat. obedio) To pay submission to, to comply with, to observe, to do; with to: as, "To whom ye obey." But this construction is now grown obsolete.

Obey'ed (p. from obey) submitted to, observed, done.

Obey'ing (p. a. from obey) Paying obedience, observing, doing.

Obeys'ing (s. an old word) Obedience. Cole.

OB'JECT (s. from the Lat. objectum) Something presented to the senses, that about which any power or faculty is employed; the word or sentence which receives the force or impression of the verb.

OB'JECT (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and jaceo to throw) To oppose, to propose by way of opposition; with to or against: as, "I have one thing to object against him; there was but this single fault that Erasmus thought an enemy could object to him."

Objecta'tor (s. from object) An objector. Cole.

Object'ed (p. from object) Opposed, proposed by way of opposition.

Object'glass (s. from object, and glass) That glass in an optical instrument which is next to the object.

Object'ing (p. a. from object) Opposing, proposing by way of opposition.

Object'ion (s. from object) The act of presenting any thing in opposition, an adverse argument, a criminal charge, a fault proposed; with to: as, "He made that objection to him."

Object'ive (adj. from object) Belonging to the object, contained in the object, proposed as an object.

Object'ively (adv. from objective) In the manner of an object, in the state of opposition.

Object'iveness (s. from objective) The state of being in objection. Hale.

Object'or (s. from object) One who offers an objection, one who starts a difficulty.

Object'plate (s. from object, and plate) The plate in an optical instrument in which the object is placed.

O'BIL (s. from the Heb. signifying one that weeps) A man's name.

O'BIT (s. from the Lat. obiit he died) A funeral song, an office for the dead performed annually in the Roman church, a day set apart for the commemoration of the dead, obsequies.

Obit'uary (s. from obit) A register of the dead.

OBJUR'GATE (v. t. from the Lat. objurgo) To chide, to upbraid.

Objur'gated (p. from objurgate) Reproved, reprimanded.

Objur'gating (p. a. from objurgate) Chiding, reproofing.

Objurga'tion (s. from objurgate) A reproof, a reprehension.

Objur'gatory (adj. from objurgate) Conveying reproof, chiding.

Ob'lat (s. from the Lat. oblatum) An oblate, one of the oblats. Cole.

OBLA'TÆ (s. in the Roman church) Consecrated bits of wafers distributed to the communicants in the mass.

Ob'late (s. from oblat) A layman admitted into a religious house, one of the oblats.

OBLA'TE (adj. from the Lat. oblatum) Spheroidal, flattened at the poles.

OBLA'TI

- OBLA'TI (s. in church history from the Lat. oblatus) The seculars who devoted themselves and estates to some monastery; the lay monks who were placed in a religious house by a mandate from the king and were generally disabled soldiers.
- OBLA'TION (s. from the Lat. offero oblatum to offer) An offering, a sacrifice, that which is offered as an act of worship or reverence.
- OBLAT'RATE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and latro to bark but not used) To bark at, to rail at. Bailey.
- Oblat'ra'tion (s. from oblatrate) The act of barking at, the act of railing at any one. Cole.
- OBL'ECTA'TION (s. from the Lat. oblecto to please) A delight, pleasure.
- OBL'ES'SION (s. from the Lat. ob against, and lædo to hurt, but not much used) An injury. Bailey.
- OBL'IGATE (v. t. from the Lat. obligo to bind) To oblige, to lay under an obligation.
- Obl'igated (p. from obligate) Obliged, laid under an obligation.
- Obl'igating (p. a. from obligate) Laying under an obligation.
- Obliga'tion (s. from obligate) The binding power of an oath, an act which binds to performance; a contract, a bond; a favour by which one is bound to gratitude; duty.
- Obligatoriness (s. from obligatory) The state or quality which imposes an obligation. Scott.
- Obligatory (adj. from obligate) Binding, having a coercive power, imposing an obligation; with to or on: as, "Whether it be not obligatory to Christian princes." This patent is obligatory on them.
- OBL'IGE (v. t. from the Lat. ob on, and ligo to bind) To bind, to impose an obligation, to compel, to bind to gratitude, to gratify, to please.
- Obl'iged (p. from oblige) Laid under an obligation, bound in duty or gratitude, gratified, pleased.
- Obligee' (s. a law term from oblige) A person bound by a legal covenant, the person that gives a bond.
- Obl'igement (s. from oblige) An obligation. Milton.
- Oblig'eor (s. a law term from oblige) An obliger, the person to whom a bond is given.
- Obl'iger (s. from oblige) One who binds by contract.
- Oblig'ing (p. a. from oblige) Binding, laying under an obligation.
- Oblig'ing (adj. from oblige) Respectful, complaisant, civil.
- Obl'igingly (adv. from obliging) In an obliging manner, with complaisance.
- Obl'igingness (s. from obliging) Civility, complaisance; the force of obligation.
- OBL'IGURATE (v. int. from the Lat. obligurio, but not used) To spend all on the belly. Bailey.
- OBLIMA'TION (s. from the Lat. ob against, and limo to smear, but not used) The act of daubing over, the act of plastering. Bailey.
- Obl'iqua'tion (s. from oblique) Obliquity, the state of being oblique.
- OBLI'QUE (adj. from the Lat. obliquus) Deviating from a direct line, contrary to that which is direct; belonging to any case except the nominative.
- Obl'ique'ly (adv. from oblique) In an oblique direction, sideways; in a manner different from the direct meaning.
- Obl'ique'ness (s. from oblique) Obliquity, a deviation from rectitude.
- OBLI'QUER (adj. comp. of oblique) Oblique in a greater degree. Prior.
- Obl'iquity (s. from oblique) The state of being oblique, the want of rectitude.
- OBLI'QUUS (s. in anatomy, from the Lat.) An oblique muscle generally distinguished by the part of the body in which it is situate.
- OBLIT'ERATE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and litera a letter) To blot out, to efface any writing; to wear out, to destroy.
- Oblit'erated (p. from obliterate) Blotted out, defaced, worn out, destroyed.
- Oblit'erating (p. a. from obliterate) Blotting out, defacing, wearing out, destroying.
- Obliteration (s. from obliterate) The act of blotting out, the act of defacing, that which is defaced, that which is blotted out.
- Obliv'ial (adj. from oblivion) Causing oblivion, tending to forgetfulness. Bailey.
- OBLIVION (s. from the Lat. oblivio) Forgetfulness, a failure of remembrance; an amnesty, a general pardon of crimes in a state.
- Obliv'ious (adj. from oblivion) Causing forgetfulness.
- OBLOCU'TION (s. from the Lat. ob against, and loquor to speak) Obloquy, ill report.
- OB'LONG (adj. from the Lat. oblongus) Longer than broad, having the form of a parallelogram.
- Ob'long (s. from the adj.) A parallelogram.
- Ob'longly (adv. from oblong) In the form of an oblong, in an oblong direction.
- Ob'longness (s. from oblong) The state of being oblong.
- OB'LOQUY (s. from the Lat. ob against, and loquor to speak) Reproach, slander, a censorious speech, the cause of reproach, disgrace: but this sense is judged improper. Shakespeare.
- OBMUTESC'ENCE (s. from the Lat. ob against, and mutus dumb, but not much used) The act of holding one's peace, silence. Bailey.
- OBNEC'TION (s. from the Lat. ob against, and neco to knit, but not used) The act of knitting together. Cole.
- OBNOXI'ETY (s. from the Lat. obnoxious, but not used) Obnoxiousness. Bailey.
- OBNOX'IOUS (adj. from the Lat. ob against, and nocco to hurt) Liable to punishment, subject to, exposed; with to: as, "Obnoxious to their particular laws." offensive, odious; but this sense is colloquial.
- Obnox'iously (adv. from obnoxious) In a state of subjection, in a manner liable to punishment.
- Obnox'iousness (s. from obnoxious) The state of being exposed, the state or circumstance of being liable to punishment.
- OBNU'BILATE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and nubila a cloud) To cloud, to obscure.
- Obnu'bilated (p. from obnubilate) Clouded, obscured.
- Obnu'bilating (p. a. from obnubilate) Clouding, obscuring.
- Obnubila'tion (s. from obnubilate) The act of darkening with clouds. Bailey.
- OBNU'CIATE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and nuncio to shew, but not used) To foretell some unfortunate event. Cole.
- Obnuncia'tion (s. from obnunciate) The act of dissolving an assembly on presumption of ill success. Cole.
- O'boe (s. an incorrect spelling) A hautboy.
- OB'OLE (s. from the Lat. obolus, with physicians) The weight of twelve grains.
- OB'OLUS (s. from the Greek ὀβολός) A small coin of the ancients; a half-penny; the half of a whole coin.
- Obom'brid (adj. obsolete) Overshadowed. Chaucer.
- O'boy (s. an incorrect spelling) A hautboy. Bailey.
- OBREP'TION (s. from the Lat. ob against, and repo to creep) The act of creeping on. Johnson.
- OB'ROGATE (v. t. from the Lat. obrogo, but not common a word) To abrogate, to annul.
- OB'RUPT'ENT (adj. from the Lat. ob against, and rumpo to break, but not used) Breaking. Cole.
- OBSCE'NE (adj. from the Lat. obscenus) Immodest, exciting lewdness; offensive, disgusting; inauspicious, ill omened. Pope.
- Obsce'nely (adv. from obscene) With lewdness.
- Obsce'neness (s. from obscene) Lewdness, obscenity.
- Obsce'nity (s. from obscene) Lewdness, immodesty.
- Obscura'tion (s. from obscure) The act of darkening, the state of being darkened.
- OBSCU'RE (adj. from the Lat. obscurus) Dark, unlightened, gloomy; living in the dark, unobserved, abstruse, difficult.
- Obscu're (v. t. from the adj.) To darken, to make dark, to make less visible, to make less noted, to make less intelligible.
- Obscu're'd (p. from obscure) Darkened, rendered less intelligible, rendered less illustrious.
- Obscu'rely (adv. from obscure) With obscurity.
- Obscu'reness (s. from obscure) Obscurity, darkness, want of lustre, privacy.
- Obscu'rer (adj. comp. of obscure) Obscure in a greater degree.
- Obscu'rest (adj. sup. of obscure) Obscure in the greatest degree.
- Obscu'ring (p. a. from obscure) Making obscure, darkening, rendering less intelligible.
- Obscu'rity (s. from obscure) Darkness, want of light, privacy, unintelligibility.
- OBSCU'RO (s. with painters) A proper disposition of shade in a picture.
- OB'SECRATE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and sacro sacred) To supplicate with earnestness. Cole.
- Obsecra'tion (s. from obsecrate) Supplication, entreaty.
- OB'SEQUIBLE (adj. from the Lat. obsequibilis, but not used) Obedient, ready at command. Bailey.
- Ob'sequi'

OBS

Obsequies (s. plu. of obsequy) Funeral rites, funeral solemnities.

OBSEQUIOUS (adj. from the Lat. obsequium obedience) Complaisant, obedient, ready at command; belonging to funeral rites. Shakespeare.

Obsequiously (adv. from obsequious) With complaisance, with ready obedience; in a manner suited to the solemnities of a funeral. Shakespeare.

Obsequiousness (s. from obsequious) Complaisance, ready obedience.

OBSEQUY (s. from the Lat. obsequium, more frequently used in the plural) A funeral solemnity. Milton.

OBSERVATION (s. from the Lat. ob against, and sera a halt, but not much used) The act of securing with a halt or lock. Bailey.

OBSERVABLE (adj. from the Lat. observe to observe) Remarkable, deserving notice.

Observableness (s. from observable) The state of being observable.

Observably (adv. from observable) In a manner worthy of observation.

Observance (s. from observe) Respect, ceremonial reverence; attention, observation; a rule of practice, a religious rite.

Observances (s. plu. of observance) The rules of a monastery.

Observant (adj. from observe) Attentive, diligent, watchful; obedient, respectful; submissive, servile; with of; as, "Observant of the parting ray."

Observant (s. from the adj. sometimes accented on the first syllable) A servile attendant. Shakespeare.

Observantines (s. in church history) A particular order of the Franciscans. Bailey.

Observation (s. from observe) The act of observing, a remark, an animadversion.

Observer (s. from observe) One that observes, one that remarks.

Observatory (s. from observator) A place where astronomical observations are made.

OBSERVE (v. t. from the Lat. ob over, and servo to preserve) To watch, to regard attentively, to remark, to note; to regard with religious attention; to obey, to follow.

Observe (v. int.) To give attention, to make a remark.

Observe (v. t. obsolete) To countenance, to favour. Ch.

Observed (p. from observe) Watched, attended, noted, remarked; obeyed, followed.

Observer (s. from observe) One that observes, one that makes remarks, a spectator, one who adheres to any law or custom.

Observing (p. a. from observe) Watching, attending, remarking, obeying; with upon; as, "Observing upon it." Pope.

Observing (adj. from observe) Attentive, watchful.

Observingly (adv. from observing) Attentively, carefully.

OBSESSED (adj. from the Lat. obsessus, but not much used) Haunted by an evil spirit. Bailey.

OBSESSION (s. from the Lat. ob against, and sedeo to sit down) The act of besieging; the first attack of Satan antecedent to possession. Johnson.

OBSEST (adj. from the Lat. ob against, and sedeo to sit, but not much used) Haunted by an evil spirit. Cole.

OBSIBULATE (v. int. from the Lat. ob against, and sibilo to hiss) To hiss against. Cole.

Obsidianstone (s. in natural history) A kind of precious stone mentioned by Pliny. Cole.

OBSIDIONAL (adj. from the Lat. obsidionalis, but not much used) Belonging to a siege. Johnson.

OBSIGILLATION (s. from the Lat. ob against, and sigillum a seal) The act of sealing up. Cole.

OBSOLETE (adj. from the Lat. ob against, and soleo to be accustomed) Disused, old fashioned, grown out of use.

Obsolescence (s. from obsolete) The state of being unfashionable, the state of being out of use.

OBSTACLE (s. from the Lat. obstaculum) An obstruction, an hinderance.

Obstant (adj. obsolete) Hindering, obstructing. Chau.

OBSTETRIC (adj. from the Lat. ob against, and suto to stand) Doing the office of a midwife, befitting a midwife.

Obstetrical (adj. from obstetric) Belonging to midwifery, befitting a midwife.

OBSTETRICAL (v. int. from the Lat. obstetrix a midwife) To act the part of a midwife. Cole.

Obstetrication (s. from obstetric) The office of a midwife.

Obstetricious (adj. from obstetricate) Obstetric. Cole.

Obstinacy (s. from obstinate) Stubbornness, contumacy, pertinacity.

OBT

OBSTINATE (adj. from the Lat. ob against, and sto to stand) Stubborn, contumacious, fixed in resolution.

Obstinately (adj. from obstinate) Stubbornly, inflexibly.

Obstinateness (s. from obstinate) Stubbornness.

OBSTIPATE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and stipa to stuff) To fill up, to fill up chinks. Bailey.

Obstipation (s. from obstipate) The act of stopping up any passage.

OBSTREPEROUS (adj. from the Lat. ob against, and streperus noisy) Loud, clamorous, noisy.

Obstreperously (adv. from obstreperous) Loudly, clamorously.

Obstreperousness (s. from obstreperous) Loudness, clamour, noise.

OBSTRICITION (s. from the Lat. ob against, and stringo to bind) A bond, an obligation. Milton.

OBSTRUCT (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and struo to build up) To block up, to hinder; to oppose, to retard.

Obstructed (p. from obstruct) Blocked up, hindered, opposed, retarded.

Obstructor (s. from obstruct) One that obstructs.

Obstructing (p. a. from obstruct) Blocking up, hindering, opposing, retarding.

Obstruction (s. from obstruct) A hinderance, an impediment.

Obstructive (adj. from obstruct) Causing impediment, hindering.

Obstructive (s. from the adj.) An impediment, a hinderance.

Obstructiveness (s. from obstructive) The quality which tends to obstruction.

OBSTRUENT (adj. from the Lat. ob against, and struo to build up) Blocking up, hindering.

Obstruentia (s. from obstruent) Medicines which have a tendency to close up the passages. Scott.

Obstupefaction (s. from obtusify) The act of inducing stupidity, an interception of the exercise of the mental powers.

Obstupefactive (adj. from obtusification) Stupifying, obstructing the exercise of the mental powers.

OBSTUPEFY (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, stupidus stupid, and facio to make) To stupify. Cole.

OBTAIN (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and teneo to hold) To gain, to acquire, to procure.

Obtain (v. int.) To prevail, to be established, to continue in use.

Obtainable (adj. from obtain) Capable of being obtained.

Obtained (p. from obtain) Gained, acquired, procured.

Obtainer (s. from obtain) One who obtains.

Obtaining (p. a. from obtain) Gaining, procuring, prevailing.

OBTEMPERATE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and tempero to temper, but not much used) To obey.

Obtemperat'ion (s. from obtemperate) The act of obeying. Cole.

OBTE'ND (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and tendo to stretch out) To oppose, to hold out in opposition; to pretend, to offer as a reason.

Obtend'ed (p. from obtend) Opposed, offered as a reason.

Obtend'ing (p. a. from obtend) Opposing, offering as a reason.

OBTENE'BRATE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and tenebræ darkness) To darken, to obscure. Cole.

Obtenebrat'ion (s. from obtenebrate) The act of darkening, darkness, obscurity. Bacon.

Obtension (s. from obtend) The act of opposing by way of argument. Dryden.

OBTE'ST (v. t. from the Lat. obtestor) To beseech, to supplicate.

OBTESTATION (s. from obtest) A supplication, an intreaty.

OBTIC'ENCE (s. from the Lat. ob against, and taceo to be silent, but not used) The act of keeping silence.

OBTOR'TED (adj. from the Lat. ob against, and torto to wreath, but not much used) Wreathed, wrested. Co.

OBTRACTATION (s. from the Lat. ob against, and tracto to handle) Detraction, slander.

OBTRI'TE (adj. from the Lat. ob against, and tero to wear, but not much used) Worn, bruised, trampled under foot. Cole.

Obtrition (s. from obtrite) The act of bruising or wearing away by friction. Cole.

OBTRUDE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and trudo to thrust) To thrust into any place or state with fraud or violence, to offer with unreasonable importunity.

Obtruded (p. from obtrude) Forced upon, urged with unreasonable importunity; with on or upon; as "Obtruded on God and his church."

Obtruder (s. from obtrude) One that obtrudes.

Obtruding (p. a. from obtrude) Imposing, thrusting into any place or office, offering with unreasonable importunity.

Obtrusion (s. from obtrude) The act of obtruding, a kind of imposition or force upon others.

Obtrusive (adj. from obtrude) Inclined to force one's self or any thing else on others.

OBTUND (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and tundo to blunt) To deaden, to dull, to quell.

Obtund'ed (p. from obtund) Blunted, deadened, quelled.

Obtund'ing (p. a. from obtund) Blunting, deadening, quelling.

OBTURA'TION (s. from the Lat. obturatus stopped up) The act of stopping up with something smeared over.

OBTURBA'TION (s. from the Lat. ob against, and turbo to trouble) The act of troubling.

OBTURBA'TOR (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the thigh.

Obtusangular (adj. from obtuse, and angular) Having an angle larger than ninety degrees.

OBTU'SE (adj. from the Lat. obtusus blunt) Containing more than ninety degrees; blunt, having no sharp points; dull, stupid, flat, dull in sound.

Obtusely (adv. from obtuse) Without a point, dully, stupidly.

Obtuseness (s. from obtuse) Bluntness, dullness.

Obtus'ion (s. from obtuse) The act of blunting, the state of being blunted.

OBVALLA'TION (s. from the Lat. ob against, and vallum a trench) The act of encompassing with a trench, an intrenchment.

OBVARICA'TION (s. from the Lat. ob against, and varico to straddle, but not used) The act of hindering one's passage.

OBVENT'ION (s. from the Lat. ob against, and venio to come) That which comes without regularity, an incidental advantage.

Obvent'ions (s. plu. of obvention) Offerings, spiritual revenues.

OBVE'RT (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and verito to turn) To turn upwards.

Obvert'ed (p. from obvert) Turned upwards; with to and towards; as, "Obverted to the air." "If the haze be obverted towards us."

Obverting (p. a. from obvert) Turning up.

OB'VIATE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and via a way) To meet in the way, to prevent.

Obviated (p. from obviate) Met in the way, prevented.

Ob'viating (p. a. from obviate) Meeting in the way, preventing.

Ob'vious (adj. from the Lat. ob against, and via a way) Meeting in the way, opposed in front; open, exposed to view; plain, easy, evident, clear.

Ob'viously (adv. from obvious) Evidently, apparently.

Ob'viousness (s. from obvious) The state of being obvious.

OBULA'RIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

OBUMBRATE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and umbro to shadow) To shade, to cloud.

Obumbrated (p. from obumbrate) Shaded, clouded, obscured.

Obumbrating (p. a. from obumbrate) Shading, clouding, obscuring.

Obumbration (s. from obumbrate) The act of darkening as with clouds.

OBUN'COUS (adj. from the Lat. ob against, and un-cus hooked) Very crooked.

OBUNDA'TION (s. from the Lat. ob against, and unda a wave) The act of flowing against.

OBVOLATE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and volo to fly, but not much used) To fly against.

OBVOLVE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and volvo to turn, but not much used) To turn about.

Obvolution (s. from obvolve) The act of turning about.

OCCASIO (s. in old law books) A tribute imposed on the vassals of a lordship on some urgent occasion.

OCCA'SION (s. from the Lat. ob on, and cado to fall) A casualty, an incident; an opportunity, a convenience; an incidental need, a casual exigency.

Occasion (v. t. from the sub.) To cause, to produce, to influence.

Occasional (adj. from occasion) Incidental, casual, producing by accident, produced as occasion may require.

Occasionally (adv. from occasional) As occasion may require, incidentally.

Occasioned (p. from occasion) Caused, produced.

Occasioner (s. from occasion) One that occasions.

Occasioning (p. a. from occasion) Causing, producing.

OCCA'tion (s. in old records) The breaking of clods, an offence committed in a forest by rooting up trees, or any thing that grows in it.

OCCECA'TION (s. from the Lat. ob on, and cæco to blind) The act of making blind.

Oc'cian (s. obsolete) The ocean.

OC'CIDENT (s. from the Lat. occidens) The west.

Oc'cident (adj. from the sub.) Western.

Occident'al (adj. from occident) Western.

OCCID'UOUS (adj. from the Lat. occidens) Western.

Occip'ital (adj. from occiput) Placed in the hinder part of the head.

OCCIPITA'LIS (s. in anatomy) A broad muscle placed on the occiput.

OC'CIPUT (s. from the Lat.) The hinder part of the head.

Oc'cifer (s. obsolete) A murderer.

OCCIS'ION (s. from the Lat. occido to kill) The act of killing.

OCCLU'DE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and cludo to shut) To shut against, to shut up.

Occlud'ed (p. from occlude) Shut up.

Occlud'ing (p. a. from occlude) Shutting up.

Occlu'se (adj. from occlude) Closed, shut up.

Occlu'sion (s. from occlude) The act of shutting up.

OCCE'cate (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and cæco to blind, but not used) To blind, to spoil the sight.

Occeca'tion (s. from occecate) The act of spoiling the sight.

Oc'cular (adj. not so correct a spelling) Ocular.

OC'CULCA'TION (s. from the Lat. ob against, and calco to tread, but not used) The act of trampling upon any thing.

OCCU'LT (adj. from the Lat. occulto to cover in the earth) Hidden, secret, unknown.

Occulta'tion (s. in astronomy, from occult) The time that a star or planet is hid from our sight by the interposition of the moon or some other planet.

Occult'ness (s. from occult) The state of being hid.

Oc'cupancy (s. from occupant) The act of taking possession.

OC'CUPANT (s. from the Lat. occupans) One that takes possession, one that occupies.

OC'CUPATE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and capio to take) To possess, to hold.

Oc'cupat'ile (adj. a law term) Belonging to that which has been left by the right owner and is now possessed by another.

Occupat'ion (s. from occupate) The act of taking possession, the act of possessing; a trade, a calling, an employment.

Oc'cupative (adj. from occupate) Possessed, used, employed.

Oc'cupied (p. from occupy) Possessed, held, used, employed; with in; as, "And is occupied in meditation." Sometimes with for or about: as, "All the gold occupied for the work."

Oc'cupier (s. from occupy) One that occupies.

OC'CUPY (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and capio to take) To possess, to keep, to hold; to use, to expend; to busy, to employ, to follow as a business.

Oc'cupy (v. int.) To trade, to follow business.

Oc'cupying (p. a. from occupy) Possessing, holding, using, enjoying.

OCCU'R (v. int. from the Lat. ob against, and curro to run) To appear, to come to pass, to arise to the memory; with to; as, "It occurred to me." To clash, to meet; to make opposition to; "I must occur to one specious objection." But these last senses are scarcely English.

Occur'rence (s. from occur) An incident, an occasional presentation.

Occur'rent (adj. from occur) Incidental, coming in the way.

Occur'rent (s. from the adj.) An incidence, an occurrence.

Occur'ring (p. a. from occur) Appearing, coming to pass, arising to memory.

Occur'sion (s. from occur) A clash, a mutual blow, a collision.

O'CEAN (s. from the Lat. oceanus) The sea, the main sea, an immense expanse.

O'cean (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the main sea. "The ocean wave."

Ocean'ic (adj. from ocean) Belonging to the ocean.

Ocea'no's

OCT

Oceanous (adj. from ocean, but not much used) Oceanic. Bailey.

OCEANUS (s. in heathen mythology) The supposed god of the ocean.

OCEANUS (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the ocean. Sc.

OCELLATED (adj. from the Lat. ocellatus) Marked with eyes, resembling the eye.

OCEMA (s. from the Greek οχημα a vehicle) The vehicle of a medicine, the substance in which the principal ingredients of a medicine are conveyed.

OCHIMY (s. from alchimy) A mixed base metal.

OCHLOCRACY (s. from the Greek οχλος a multitude, and κρατος power) A form of government in which the common people have the chief power.

OCHLOCRATIA (s. a different spelling) An ochlocracy.

OCHNA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

OCHRE (s. in natural history) A kind of earth slightly coherent and easily dissolved in water.

OCHREOUS (adj. from ochre) Consisting of ochre.

OCHREY (adj. from ochre) Consisting of ochre.

OCHROPS (s. in ornithology) A kind of moor hen.

OCHRUS (s. in botany) A kind of pea.

OCHTHODES (s. in surgery) A callous kind of tumour. Scott.

OCTNUM (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

OCTIOUS (adj. from the Lat. ociosus; but not used) Idle, indispensed for labour. Bailey.

OCTHUM (s. a different spelling) Oakum. Cole.

OCTOMY (s. a different spelling) Ochimy. Bailey.

OCTAN (s. from the Heb. signifying a disturber) A man's name.

OCTAE'DRON (s. in geometry, from the Greek οκτω eight, and εδρα a base) A regular body consisting of eight triangular sides.

OCTAETERIDES (s. in chronology) A circle of eight years used among the Greeks before the discovery of the golden number.

OCTAGON (s. in geometry, from the Greek οκτω eight, and γωνια a corner) A plain figure consisting of eight equal sides and angles.

OCTAGONAL (adj. from octagon) Having eight equal sides and angles.

OCTAE'DRON (s. a different spelling) The octaedron.

OCTANDRIA (s. in botany, from the Greek οκτω eight, and ανδρ a male) A genus of plants comprehending all that have hermaphrodite flowers with eight stamina.

OCTANGULAR (adj. from the Lat. octo eight, and angulus a corner) Having eight angles.

OCTANGULARNESS (s. from octangular) The quality or circumstance of having eight angles.

OCTANT (adj. in astronomy, from the Lat. octo eight) Having the distance of the eight part of the heavens, distant from each other forty five degrees.

OCTANT (s. from the adj.) That aspect which includes an eighth part of the heavens.

OCTAPLA (s. from the Greek οκτω eight, and πλατος a side) A kind of polyglot bible consisting of eight columns.

OCTASTYLE (s. in architecture) A building with eight pillars in front.

OCTATEUCH (s. from the Greek οκτω eight, and τευχος a book) The eight first books of the Old Testament.

OCTAVE (s. from the Lat. octavus eight) The eighth day after a feast, the eight days together after a feast; an interval in music of eight notes.

OCTAVO (s. from the Lat. octavus) A sheet of paper folded into eight leaves, a book in which each sheet is folded into eight leaves.

OCTENNAL (adj. from the Lat. octo eight, and annus a year) Lasting eight years, happening every eighth year.

OCTILE (adj. from the Lat. octo eight) Distant one eighth part of the heavens.

OCTILE (s. from the adj.) That aspect in astronomical observations which includes one eighth part of the heavens.

OCTOBER (s. from the Lat.) The eighth month from March, the tenth month of the year.

OCTOEDRAL (adj. from octaedron) Belonging to the octaedron. Scott.

OCTOEDRON (s. a different spelling) The octaedron.

OCTOGENARY (adj. from the Lat. octogenarius) Having the age of eight years. Scott.

OCTOGON (s. a different spelling) An octagon. Cole.

OCTOHEDRAL (adj. from octohedron) Belonging to the octaedron.

OCTOHEDRON (s. a different spelling) The octaedron.

OCTONARY (s. from the Lat. octo eight) An octave. Co.

OCTONARY (s. from the sub.) Belonging to the number eight. Scott.

ODO

OCTONOCULAR (adj. from the Lat. octo eight, and oculus an eye) Having eight eyes.

OCTOPET'ALOUS (adj. in botany, from the Greek οκτω eight, and πεταλον a flower leaf) Having eight flower leaves.

OCTOSTIC (s. from the Greek οκτω eight, and στιχος a verse) A stanza consisting of eight lines. Cole.

OCTOSTYLE (s. in architecture, from the Greek οκτω eight, and στυλος a pillar) A building ornamented with eight pillars in front.

OCTULAR (adj. from the Lat. oculus an eye) Known by the eye, depending on the eye.

OCTULARLY (adv. from ocular) To the observation of the eye.

OCTULATE (adj. from the Lat. oculus the eye) Having eyes, knowing by the eye.

OCTULIST (s. from oculus) One who professes to cure distempers of the eyes.

OCTULUS (s. from the Lat.) The eye, the organ of sight.

OCTULUSBE'LI (s. in natural history) A precious stone, a kind of agate.

OCTULUSCA'TI (s. in natural history) A kind of precious stone.

OCTULUSCHRIS'TI (s. in botany) The wild clary.

OCTULUSLEPORI'NUS (s. in surgery) A disease of the eyes, a contraction of the eyelids which prevents their closing.

OCTULUSMUN'DI (s. in natural history) A kind of precious stone.

OCTY (s. obsolete) The note of the nightingale. Chau.

OCTY (s. int. an old word) To wish, I wish. Bailey.

OCTYMAS'TRUM (s. in botany) The water betony.

OCTYMUM (s. in botany) The ocimum, a genus of plants.

OCTYPE'TE (s. in heathen mythology) The name of one of the Harpies.

ODA (s. in the seraglio of the Grand Signor) A class, an order.

ODABACHI (s. among the Turks) An officer equivalent to a corporal. Dict. of Arts.

ODABASSI (s. a different spelling) An officer among the Turks. Scott.

ODADA'SA (s. a different spelling) The odabassi. Bailey.

ODAXISMUS (s. from the Greek ωδαξισμος, but not used) The itching of the gums. Bailey.

ODD (adj. from the Swedish uddo) Incapable of being divided into equal numbers, uneven; unheeded, left out of the common account; strange, uncommon, uncouth, unlucky, improper.

ODDER (adj. comp. of odd) Odd in a greater degree.

ODDEST (adj. sup. of odd) Odd in the greatest degree.

ODDLY (adv. from odd) Unevenly, in a manner not to be equally divided; strangely, uncouthly.

ODDNESS (s. from odd) The state of being odd.

ODDS (s. from odd) Inequality, more than an even wager, advantage, superiority; a dispute, a variance; generally with at before it: "At odds with the morning."

ODE (s. from the Greek ωδη a song) A poem, a poem written to be sung.

ODED (s. from the Heb. signifying to hold) A man's name.

ODELET (s. from ode) A little ode, a short ode. Bailey.

ODEL (adj. an old word) Other.

ODEUM (s. in Grecian antiquity) A kind of magnificent theatre.

ODIAM (s.) A town in Hampshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 41 miles from London.

ODIAM (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Odiam, made at Odiam.

ODIBLE (adj. from the Lat. odi to hate) Hateful. John.

ODIOUS (adj. from the Lat. odiosus) Hateful, detestable, abominable; exposed to hate, causing hate.

ODIOUSLY (adv. from odious) Hateful, abominably, invidiously.

ODIOUSNESS (s. from odious) Hatefulness, the state of being detested.

ODIUM (s. from the Lat.) A cause of hatred, a disgrace, invidiousness.

ODOLUM (s. from the Heb.) The name of a city. 2 Mac.

ODONTAG'RA, ODONTAG'OGOS (s. in surgery) An instrument for drawing teeth.

ODONTAL'GIA (s. from the Greek οδης a tooth, and αλγια pain) The toothach.

ODONTAL'GIC (adj. from odontalgia) Belonging to the toothach.

ODONTICK (adj. from the Greek οδης a tooth) Belonging to the teeth. Cole.

ODONTIASIS

ODON'TIASIS (s. from the Greek) The breeding of the teeth.
ODON'TICS (s. from the Greek ὀδὸς a tooth) Medicines for the teeth.
ODON'TITIS (s. in botany) The eyebright.
ODONTOIDE (s. in anatomy, from the Greek ὀδὸς a tooth, and εἶδος a shape) The process of the second vertebra so called from its resemblance to a tooth.
ODONTOLITHOS (s. from the Greek ὀδὸς a tooth, and λίθος a stone) The stony concretion that grows on the teeth.
ODONTOPHYIA (s. from the Greek) The breeding of the teeth.
ODONTOTRIMMA (s. from the Greek) A medicine to rub the teeth.
O'DOR (s. the modern and correct spelling, from the Lat.) A sweet scent, fragrance, perfume; a smell.
ODORAMENTUM (s. from the Lat.) A perfume, a medicine designed to operate by its smell.
Odoraminous (adj. from odor, but not used) Odoriferous.
O'dorate (adj. from odor) Scented, perfumed, having a strong smell.
Odora'tion (s. from odorate) The act or sense of smelling.
ODORA'TUS (s. from the Lat.) The act of smelling, the sense of smelling.
ODORIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. odor a smell, and fero to bring) Fragrant, sending forth a sweet smell.
Odoriferousness (s. from odoriferous) Fragrance, sweetness of smell.
O'dorous (adj. from odor) Fragrant, sweet of scent, perfumed.
O'DOUR (s. the more common spelling, from the French odeur) Odor.
OD'YSSE (s. from the Greek Ὀδυσσεύς) A celebrated epic poem of Homer in which he relates the adventures of Ulysses in his return from the Trojan war. Scott.
Od'ysee (s. a different spelling) The Odyssey. Dict. of A.
Od'ysey (s. a different spelling) The Odyssey. Scott.
CECONOM'IC (adj. from the Greek οἶκος a house, and νέμω to distribute) Belonging to the management of household affairs, conducting the affairs of a family.
Ceconom'ica (s. from ceconomic) That part of moral philosophy which treats on the regulation of the passions.
Ceconom'ical (adj. from ceconomic) Relating to the management of household affairs.
Ceconom'ics (s. from ceconomic) The management of household affairs; that part of moral philosophy which treats on the regulation of the passions.
Ceconomist (s. from ceconomy) A good manager of domestic affairs, one that observes the rules of ceconomy.
CECONOMY (s. from the Greek οἶκος a house, and νέμω to distribute) The management of household affairs, proper management of domestic concerns, frugality; method, contrivance, harmony.
CECUMENICAL (adj. from the Greek οἰκουμένη the whole world) Universal, respecting the whole habitable world.
CEAS'TINE (adj. from the Greek εἶδω to know, and σῆμα to appoint) Skilful in weights and measures. Cole.
CEDE'MA (s. from the Greek οἰδεῖν to swell) A kind of swelling or tumour proceeding from cold and aqueous humours common to hydropic subjects.
Cedemat'ic (adj. from cedema) Pertaining to an cedema, tending to an cedema.
Cede'matous (adj. from cedema) Belonging to an cedema, tending to an cedema.
Cede'me, Cede'my (s. from cedema) The cedema. Cole.
CE'LIAD (s. from the French ceil) A glance, a wink, a token of the eye. Shakespeare.
CENAN'THE (s. in botany) The dropwort, a genus of plants.
CENAN'THE (s. in ornithology) A species of motacilla.
CENAS (s. in ornithology) The wood pigeon, the rock pigeon.
CENELÆON (s. in pharmacy) A mixture of wine and oil.
CENOGA'LA (s. in pharmacy) A mixture of wine and milk. Phillips.
CENOM'SLUM (s. in pharmacy) A mixture of wine and honey. Phillips.
CENOPOLIST (s. from the Greek οἶνος wine, and πωλεῖν to sell) A vintner, one that sells wine. Bailey.
CENOP'TÆ (s. in Grecian antiquity, from οἶνος wine, and πτερόν bow much) The officers who presided over and regulated public entertainments.

CENGTHE'RA (s. in botany) The primrose, a genus of plants.
O'er (prep. a contraction of) Over.
O'er (adv. a contraction of) Over.
O'erthro'w (adj. obsolete) Overthrown, overwhelmed. Chaucer.
CE'SOPHAGE'US (s. in anatomy) One of the muscles of the pharynx.
CE'SOPHAGUS (s. in anatomy, from the Greek οἶσος a wicker, and φάγω to eat) The gullet, the pipe or tube that reaches from the mouth to the stomach.
CE'STRUM (s. in anatomy) The clitoris. Dict. of Arts.
CE'STRUS (s. in the history of insects) A genus of two winged flies.
CESY'PUS (s. from the Greek οἶστρος) The oily substance found about the flanks of a sheep.
CEUF (s. in architecture) An ornament of a pillar.
OF (prep. from the Sax.) Belonging to, from, out of, concerning, among, according to; by, in. "Left a more honourable man be bidden of him." "What a friend I have of this man." But these senses and forms of construction are now grown out of use. "Of late;" lately.
OFF (adv. from the Dutch af) From, at a distance. "Off hand," not studied.
Off (prep.) From.
Off (v. int. used only in the imp. mode) Be gone, depart, keep off.
Offa (s. from the Lat.) A kind of pudding, a kind of paste with which fowls are fed.
OFFA (s. from the Sax.) A man's name.
Off'al (s. from offa) Waste meat, that which is not eaten at table; coarse flesh, refuse, carrion; any thing of no great value.
OFFEN'CE (s. from the Lat. ob against, and fendo to provoke) A crime, a transgression, an injury, an affront, a conceived displeasure.
Offen'ceful (adj. from offence) Giving offences, injurious.
Offen'celess (adj. from offence) Inoffensive, innocent.
OFFE'ND (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and fendo to provoke) To transgress, to violate; to affront, to make angry; to injure, to assail.
Offe'nd (v. int.) To commit a transgression, to cause anger.
Offend'ed (p. from offend) Provoked, affronted, injured, hurt.
Offend'er (s. from offend) One who offends, a criminal, one who has done an injury.
Offend'id (p. obsolete) Hurt. Chaucer.
Offend'ing (p. a. from offend) Transgressing, affronting, injuring.
Offend'ers (s. from offender) A woman who offends.
Offen'sion (s. obsolete) An offence. Chaucer.
Offen'sive (adj. from offence) Displeasing, disgusting, injurious, assailing.
Offen'sively (adv. from offensive) With offences, in an offensive manner.
Offen'siveness (s. from offensive) The state or quality of being offensive.
Offen'sion (s. obsolete) An offence. Bailey.
OF'FER (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and fero to bring) To present to, to exhibit; to sacrifice, to present as an act of worship; to propose, to set forth, to attempt, to commence; to bid, to propose a price.
Offer (v. int.) To present itself, to make an attempt; with at: as, "I should offer at a new thing."
Offer (s. from the verb) A proposal, a first advance; an attempt, an endeavour; that which is proposed, a price offered.
Offer'ed (p. from offer) Proposed, presented; sacrificed.
Offer'er (s. from offer) One that offers.
Offer'ing (p. a. from offer) Presenting, proposing, sacrificing.
Offer'ing (s. from the part.) A sacrifice, that which is offered.
Offer'torie (s. from offer, obsolete) An anthem sung during the time of sacrificing. Chaucer.
Offer'torium (s. in old customs) A piece of fine silk or linen in which occasional offerings were presented.
Offer'tory (s. from offer) The act of offering, the thing offered. Bacon.
Offer'ture (s. from offer, but now grown obsolete) An offer, a proposal of kindness.
OFFICE (s. from the Lat. officium) A public charge, a public employment; a business, an agency; an act, an act of worship, a formulary of devotions; a place where business is transacted, a room in a house appropriated to particular business.

Office (v. t. from the sub.) To perform, to discharge, to do. "And angels officed all." Shakespeare.
Office (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to an office, issued from a public office. "An office copy."
Officelound (s. a law term) An official inquisition made to the use of the king in cases of forfeiture.
Officer (s. from office) A man in office, a commander in an army, one who has a power of apprehending criminals.
Officered (adj. from officer) Supplied with officers, commanded. Addison.
Official (adj. from office) Pertaining to a public office or charge; appropriated, conducive; with to or unto; as, "Official unto nutrition." Brown.
Official (s. from the adj.) The person to whom the cognizance of causes ecclesiastical are committed.
Officiality (s. from official) The charge of an official.
Officiate (v. t. from office) To give in consequence of office. Milton.
Officiate (v. int.) To discharge an office, to perform an office for another.
Officiating (p. a. from officiate) Performing the duties of an office; performing an office for another.
OFFICIAL (adj. from the Lat. officina a shop) Used in the shops.
Officinal (s. from the adj.) A plant or drug used in the shops.
OFFICINA/TOR (s. from the Lat. officina a shop) An artificer, one who superintends the work of artisans. Cole.
OFFICINE (s. from the Lat. officina a shop) A shop, a workhouse. Cole.
Officiosity (s. from officious) Officiousness. Bailey.
OFFICIOUS (adj. from the Lat. officiosus) Doing good offices, kind; importunately forward, over forward.
Officiously (adv. from officious) With kindness unsolicited, with too great forwardness.
Officiousness (s. from officious) The state or quality of being officious.
Offin (s. a sea term, not so common a spelling) The offing.
Offing (s. from off) The act of steering to a distance from the land, that part of the sea which is a good distance from the shore, and where there is deep water.
Offscouring (s. from off, and scour) That which is rubbed off in cleaning any thing, refuse, recrement.
Offset (s. from off, and set) A shoot of a plant, a sprout; a perpendicular from the principal line measured to the hedge or extent of the ground in surveying.
Offspring (s. from off, and spring) Children, descendants; propagation, generation; a production, the thing propagated.
OFFUSCATE (v. int. from the Lat. ob against, and fuco to darken) To cloud, to dim, to darken.
Offuscated (p. from offuscate) Darkened, dimmed.
Offuscating (p. a. from offuscate) Dimming, clouding.
Offuscation (s. from offuscate) The act of darkening, dimness.
Offward (adv. a sea term) From the shore.
Offward (adj. from off, and ward) Leaning from the shore.
OFT (adv. from the Sax.) Often, frequently.
Oft (adv. from oft) Oft, frequently, many times.
Oft (adj. from oft, but now nearly obsolete) Frequent, "Thy oft infirmities."
Oftener (adv. from often) More frequently.
Ofteneft (adv. from often) Most frequently.
Oftentimes (adv. from often, and time) Frequently, often.
Ofter (adv. from oft) Oftener. Chaucer.
Oftithes (adv. obsolete) Oftentimes. Chaucer.
Ofttimes (adv. from oft, and time) Oftentimes, frequently.
OG (s. from the Heb. signifying a cake) A man's name.
OGDAS/TICH (s. from the Greek ογδοος eight, and σιχος a verse) An epigram or stanza of eight lines.
Ogdastick (s. not so common a spelling) An ogdastich.
Oglee (s. in architecture, from O, and G) A kind of moulding consisting of a round and a hollow.
Ogive (s. in architecture, not so common a spelling) An ogee.
O'GLE (v. t. from the Dutch oogh an eye) To view as with a side glance, to view in fondness and with a design not to be observed.
O'gled (v. int.) To cast a side look.
O'gled (p. from ogle) Viewed with a side glance.
O'gler (s. from ogle) One that ogles.
O'gling (p. a. from ogle) Viewing with a side glance, viewing in fondness and with a design not to be observed.

O'gling (s. from the part.) The act of viewing with a side glance.
OGL'IO (s. in cookery, from the Spanish olla) A kind of hotchpotch.
OGRES/SES (s. in heraldry) Pellets, the representation of small round balls.
OH (interj. from O) Denoting pain, sorrow or surprize.
O'HEL (s. from the Heb. signifying a tent) A man's name.
OIKO'SPY (s. from the Greek οικος a house, and σκοπω to view) A prediction of future events from accidents happening at home.
OIL (s. from the Lat. oleum) The expressed juice of olives, the juice of certain vegetables, any thin fat, any unctuous matter.
Oil (v. t. from the sub.) To supple with oil, to lubricate.
Oil'bag (s. from oil, and bag) The gland or vessel in birds containing the oily substance with which they prune their feathers.
Oil'beetle (s. from oil, and beetle) The name of an insect which sweats a kind of oily substance.
Oil'clack (s. in the history of insects) The oil beetle.
Oil'colour (s. from oil, and colour) Colour ground up with oil for painting.
Oil'ed (p. from oil) Supplied with oil, lubricated with oil.
OIL'ET (s. from the French œillet an eye) A hole in a garment into which a point is to be put.
Oil'ethole (s. from oillet, and hole) The hole in a garment into which a point is to be put; a kind of needle work.
Oil'iness (s. from oily) The state of being oily.
Oil'ing (p. a. from oil) Supplying with oil.
Oil'man (s. from oil, and man) One who deals in oil.
Oil'shop (s. from oil, and shop) A shop where oil and pickles are sold.
Oil'vet (s. an obsolete spelling) Olivet, a mount near to Jerusalem. Chaucer.
Oily (adj. from oil) Consisting of oil, having the qualities of oil; fat, greasy.
Oilygrain (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
Oilypalm (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
OINT (v. t. from the French) To anoint, to smear with some glutinous matter. Dryden.
Oint'ed (p. from oint) Anointed. Dryden.
Oint'ment (s. from oint) An unguent, the unctuous matter with which any thing is anointed.
OINOM'ANCY (s. from the Greek οινος wine, and μαντεια magic) A prediction from the appearances of wine poured out in libations.
OIONISM (s. from the Greek οιωνος a bird) The art of divination by birds.
OIONIST (s. from the Greek οιωνιστης) An augur.
OIS'TER (s. from the Lat. ostrum) A well known shell fish.
Ois'tergreen (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
Ois'terloit (s. in botany) The snakeweed.
Ois'tersauce (s. from oister, and sauce) Sauce in which the principal ingredient is oysters.
Ois'terwench (s. from oister, and wench) An oister-woman, a young woman who sells oysters; a scold.
Ois'terwoman (s. from oister, and woman) A woman who sells oysters, a notable scold.
OK'AM (s. a different spelling) Oakum. Scott.
OKE (s. in commerce) A weight used in Smyrna; a measure in Turkey.
O'KEHAM (s.) A town in Rutlandshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 95 miles from London.
Ok'eham (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Okeham, made at Okeham.
O'ker (s. a different spelling) Ochre. Scott.
OKEHAMPTON (s.) A town in Devonshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 193 miles from London.
Okeham'pton (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Okehampton, made at Okehampton.
O'KINGHAM (s.) A town in Berkshire; it has a market on Tuesday, and is 32 miles from London.
O'kingham (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Okingham, made at Okingham.
O'kum (s. a different spelling) Oakum. Cole.
OLD (adj. from the Sax eald) Ancient, begun long ago, subsisting for a considerable time backwards, past the middle stage of life, far advanced in years, long practised; more than enough in burlesque language. "We shall have old work." Of old, long ago.
Old'en (adj. obsolete) Old. Shakespeare.
Older

Old'er (adj. comp. of old) Old in a greater degree.
 Old'est (adj. sup. of old) Old in the greatest degree.
 Oldfash'ion (adj. from old, and fashion) Old fashioned.
 Oldfash'ioned (adj. from old and fashion) Formed according to an obsolete custom.
 Old'ish (adj. from old) Tending to old age, growing old.
 Old'ness (s. from old) Old age, antiquity, the state of being old.
 OLE'A (s. in botany) The olivetree.
 Oleag'inous (adj. from olea) Oily, unctuous.
 Oleag'inousness (s. from oleaginous) Oiliness.
 OLE'ANDER (s. in botany) The rosebay.
 OLE'ASTER (s. in botany) The wild olive.
 OLECRANIUM (s. in anatomy) The large process of the first bone of the arm.
 Ole'ity (s. an old word) The time of gathering olives. Cole.
 OLE'NE (s. in anatomy) The cubit.
 Ole'ose (adj. from olea) Oily.
 Ole'ous (adj. from olea) Oily. Floyer.
 OLERON (s. in geography) An island on the coast of France famous for the maritime laws made there by Richard the first.
 Ole'ronlaws (s. from Oleron, and laws) The maritime laws which were made by Richard the first in the isle of Oleron.
 OLE'UM (s. from the Lat.) Oil.
 OLFA'CT (v. t. from the Lat. oleo to send forth a smell, and facio to mak, a burlesque word) To smell.
 Olfact'ory (adj. from olfact) Having the sense of smelling.
 Olfact'ory (s. from the adj.) The power of smelling.
 Oliba'ne (s. from olibanum) The frankincense. Chaucer.
 OLIBA'NUM (s. from the Greek ολίσανος) The frankincense.
 O'LID (adj. from the Lat. oleo to send forth a smell) Having a strong scent. Boyle.
 Olid'ity (s. from olid) A strong smell, a rank smell. Scott.
 O'LIDOUS (adj. from the Lat. oleo to send forth a smell) Having a strong smell. Brown.
 Ol'ifaunte (s. an obsolete spelling) An elephant. Chaucer.
 Oligar'chical (adj. from oligarchy) Pertaining to an oligarchy.
 OLIGAR'CHY (s. from the Greek ολιγος a few, and αρχη dominion) That form of government in which the supreme power is placed in the hands of a few, an aristocracy.
 Oligot'rophous (adj. from oligotrophy) Nourishing but little, having little nourishment.
 OLIGOT'ROPHY (s. from the Greek ολιγος small, and τροφω to nourish) A small degree of nourishment, a decrease of nourishment.
 Olim'piad (s. a different spelling) The olympiad. Cole.
 OL'IO (s. from the Spanish olla) A savory kind of dish consisting of many ingredients, a mixture, a medley. Congreve.
 OLISTHA'MA (s. from the Greek) A luxation in which the end of the bone is quite out of the socket.
 O'LITORY (s. from the Lat. olitorius) A garden of herbs, a kitchen garden.
 O'litory (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the kitchen garden.
 OL'IVA (s. in botany) The olivetree, the fruit of the olivetree.
 OLIVA'RIA (s. in anatomy) The two protuberances of the nether part of the brain, so called from their resemblance to the olive.
 OLIVAS'TER (s. in botany) The wild olive.
 Olivas'ter (adj. from the sub.) Tawny, darkly, brown.
 OL'IVE (s. in botany) The olea, the plant which produces the sweet oil, and is used as the emblem of peace; the fruit of the olivetree.
 Ol'ive (adj. from the sub.) Brown tending to a yellowish green.
 Ol'ive (s. from the adj.) A brown colour tending to a yellowish green.
 Ol'ive (adj. from the sub. sometimes used in composition) Belonging to the olivetree.
 Ol'ivebearing (adj. from olive, and bear) Bearing olives.
 Ol'ivebit (s. in the manage) A kind of bitmouth.
 Ol'ivebranch (s. from olive, and branch) A branch of the olivetree.
 Ol'ivecolour (s. from olive, and colour) The colour which resembles that of the olive; a kind of brown colour tending to a yellowish green.
 OL'IVER (s.) A man's name.
 Oliveres (s. obsolete) Olivetrees. Chaucer.
 Olive'rian (adj. from Oliver) Belonging to the party which opposed the usurpations of Charles the first.
 Olive'rian (s. from the adj.) One of the partisans of Oliver Cromwell who opposed the usurpations of Charles the first.

 OLiveris (s. obsolete) Olivetrees. Chaucer.
 OL'IVET (s.) The name of a mount near to Jerusalem.
 Oli'vetree (s. in botany) The tree that produces the olives.
 Ol'iveyard (s. from olive, and yard) The inclosure where olives are cultivated.
 OLIVIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. olea an olive, and fero to bear) Bearing olives, producing olives. Cole.
 Oliv'ity (s. from olive) The time of gathering olives. Cole.
 OL'LA (s. in cookery) A kind of hotch potch.
 Ol'la (s. in old records) A pot, a flaggon.
 Ol'let (s. a local word) Fewel. Bailey.
 Ol'meres (s. obsolete) Elms. Cole.
 OL'OFERNES (s.) A man's name. Apo.
 OLOL'YZON (s. in zoology) The male frog.
 O'LOR (s. in ornithology) The swan.
 O'LUS (s. in botany) Any kind of potherbs.
 OLUSA'TRUM (s. in botany) The lovage.
 OLUS'CULUM (s. in botany) Herbs used in sallet.
 OLYMP'AS (s. from the Greek) A man's name.
 OLYMP'IA (s. in geography) A city of Greece famous for the public games which were celebrated every fifth year in the environs of this city.
 Olymp'iad (s. from Olympia) The space of four years, a method of computing time among the Greeks which took its rise from the olympic games instituted in the year 766, before the birth of Christ.
 OLYMP'IAS (s. from the Greek) The name of a woman.
 Olym'pic (adj. from Olympia) Belonging to the public games celebrated in honour of Jupiter near the city of Olympia.
 OLYMPIA'NICES (s. from the Greek ολυμπιας an olympiad, and νικω to overcome) The victor at the olympic games.
 OLYM'PUS (s. from the Greek) A high hill in Greece whose top pierced the clouds; poetically, heaven, the seat of the Gods.
 OMAG'RA (s. from the Greek ωμος the shoulder, and αγρα a seizure) The gout in the shoulder.
 O'MAR (s. from the Heb. signifying a speaker) A man's name.
 OMA'SUM (s. from the Lat.) The thick fat part of the belly of an ox, fat tripe. Phillips.
 Om'ber (s. not so common a spelling) Ombre, a particular kind of game at cards.
 Om'brage (s. an old spelling) An umbrage, a shadow. Cole.
 OM'BRE (s. from the Spanish) A particular kind of game at cards; the name of a fish, the grailing.
 OME'GA (s. from the Greek) The last letter in the Greek alphabet; the last. "I am Alpha and Omega."
 OM'ELET (s. in cookery) A kind of pancake.
 O'MEN (s. from the Lat.) A sign, a prognostic.
 O'mened (adj. from omen) Containing prognostics, having omens.
 OMEN'TUM (s. in anatomy) The cawl, the double membrane spread over the intrails.
 O'MER (s. from the Heb.) A Hebrew measure containing about three pints and a half; a large measure containing about seventy-six gallons. Taylor.
 O'miland (s. a local word) Mellow land. Bailey.
 Om'inate (v. int. from omen) To shew beforehand, to shew prognostics. Decay of Piety.
 Omination (s. from ominate) A prognostic.
 Om'inous (adj. from omen) Inauspicious, foreboding; exhibiting prognostics.
 Om'inously (adv. from ominous) With bad omens, with good omens.
 Om'inousness (s. from ominous) The state or quality of being ominous.
 Omis'sion (s. from omit) A neglect, a neglect of duty.
 OMIT (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and mitto to send) To leave out, to neglect.
 Omit'tance (s. from omit) A forbearance. Shakespeare.
 Omit'ted (p. from omit) Left out, neglected to be done.
 Omit'ting (p. a. from omit) Leaving out, neglecting to do.
 OM'NE (s. from the Lat. with logicians) A whole, a genus.
 OMNE'ITY (s. from the Lat. omnis all, but not used) The state of containing all things. Cole.
 OMNIFA'RIOUS (adj. from the Lat. omnis all, and fari to speak) Comprising all varieties.
 OMNIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. omnis all, and fero to bear) Bearing all things, producing all things.
 OMNIFIC (adj. from the Lat. omnis all, and facio to do) Doing all things, creating all things.
 OM'NIFORM

OMNIFORM (adj. from the Lat. omnis all, and forma a form) Having every shape.
OMNIGENOUS (adj. from the Lat. omnis all, and genus a kind) Consisting of all kinds.
OMNIMODE (adj. from the Lat. omnis all, and modus a manner, but not much used) Consisting of all fashions. Cole.
Omnimodous (adj. from omnimode) Containing all modes. Scott.
OMNIPARIENT (adj. from the Lat. omnis all, and pario to bring forth, but not much used) Bringing forth all things, producing all things. Scott.
OMNIPERCIPIENCE (s. from the Lat. omnis all, and percipio to perceive, but not used) The perception of all things.
Omnipotence (s. from omnipotent) Almighty power, unlimited power.
Omnipotency (s. not so common a word) Omnipotence.
OMNIPOTENT (adj. from the Lat. omnis all, and potens powerful) Almighty, having unlimited power.
Omnipotent (s. from the adj.) The Almighty.
Omnipresence (s. from omnipresent) The state of being every where present.
OMNIPRESENT (adj. from the Lat. omnis all, and præsens present) Present in every place.
OMNIREGENCY (s. from the Lat. omnis all, and rego to rule, but not much used) Universal dominion. Cole.
Omniscience (s. from omniscient) Infinite wisdom, unbounded knowledge.
Omniscience (s. not so common a word) Omniscience.
OMNISCIENT (adj. from the Lat. omnis all, and scio to know) Knowing all things, infinite in knowledge.
OMNISCIOUS (adj. from the Lat. omnis all, and scio to know) Knowing all things, omniscient. Hake.
OMNITENT (adj. from the Lat. omnis all, and teneo to hold, but not much used) Holding all things. Cole.
Omnitinerant (adj. from the Lat. omnis all, and iter a journey, but not much used) Travelling every where. Cole.
OMNIVAGANT (adj. from the Lat. omnis all, and vagor to wander) Wandering every where.
OMNIVALENT (adj. from the Lat. omnis all, and valeo to be able, but not much used) Able to do all things. Co.
OMNIVOLENT (adj. from the Lat. omnis all, and volo to be willing, but not much used) Willing all things. Co.
OMNIVOROUS (adj. from the Lat. omnis all, and voro to devour, but little used) Devouring all things.
OMOCOTYLE (s. in anatomy, from the Greek) The acetabulum of the shoulder blade.
Omogra (s. a different spelling) The Omagra. Scott.
Omological (adj. from omology) Agreeable to, corresponding, having proportion.
OMOLOGY (s. from the Greek ὁμος like, and λογος proportion) Agreement, suitableness, proportion. Scott.
OMOPANORATE (s.) A priest in the island of Madagascar.
OMOPHAGIA (s. in antiquity) One of the mad feasts of Bacchus in which goats were eaten alive.
OMOPHORUM (s. in antiquity, from the Greek ὠμος a shoulder, and φορέω to bear) A short cloak worn by bishops.
OMOPLATA, OMOPLETE (s. in anatomy, from the Greek ὠμος a shoulder, and πλατύς broad) The shoulder-blade.
Omphacine (s. a different spelling) The omphacium, verjuice.
OMPHACIUM (s. in pharmacy) The juice of unripe grapes; a kind of oil; verjuice.
Omphacy (s. a different spelling) The omphacium. Cole.
Omphallo (s. from omphalos) The coat or membrane in some brutes which contains the fœtus and terminates in the mesentery.
OMPHALOCÉLE (s. from the Greek ὀμφαλός the navel, and κλήη a swelling) A kind of tumour or rupture in the navel.
OMPHALODES (s. in botany) The cynoglossum.
OMPHALOPTIC (s. in optics) A lens convex on both sides.
OMPHALOS (s. in anatomy, from the Greek) The navel.
OMRI (s. from the Heb. signifying a thief) A man's name.
Omy (adj. a local word) Mellow as applied to land. Co.
ON (prep. from the German an) Upon.
On (adv. from the prep.) Forward, in succession, in progression, in continuance; upon the body; not off.
On (v. int. used only in the imp. mode) Go on, advance.
On (adj. obsolete) One. Chaucer.
On (s. from the Heb. signifying pain) The name of a man; the name of an idol.

O/NAGER (s. in zoology) The wild ass.
ONAGRÀ (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the primrose.
Onagre (s. a different spelling) The onager, the wild ass. Cole.
O/NAN (s. from the Heb. signifying pain) A man's name.
ONANDA'GOES (s. in geography) A tribe of the Iroquois in North America.
ONAN'IA (s. from Onan) The act of self pollution.
O'naniism (s. from Onan) Self pollution.
Onbi'de (v. int. obsolete) To abide, to continue. Chau.
Once (adv. from one) At one time, at a single time; at the same time, at the instant of time, at some time, formerly.
Onde (s. obsolete) Breath, fury. Chaucer.
ONDEE' (adj. in heraldry) Wavy.
Ondo' (v. t. obsolete) To undo. Chaucer.
ONE (adj. from the Sax. oene) Single, denoted by a unit; any, some; different, diverse in opposition to another.
One (s. from the adj.) A single person, a single thing, the same thing, the first hour; a unit; any person, some person.
One (adv. obsolete) Alone. Chaucer.
O'neberry (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
O'neblade (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
O'neder (s. a local word) The afternoon.
O'neyed (adj. from one, and eye) Having but one eye.
O'nehed (s. obsolete) Unity, oneness. Chaucer.
ONEIREG'MOS (s. from the Greek) Nocturnal pollution.
ONEIROCRA'TIA (s. from the Greek ὄνειρος a dream, and κρατος power) The power of explaining dreams.
ONEIROCRIT'IC (s. from the Greek ὄνειρος a dream, and κριτικός a critic) An interpreter of dreams.
Oneirocrit'ic (adj. from the sub.) Interpretative of dreams.
Oneirocrit'ical (adj. from oneirocritic) Belonging to the interpretation of dreams.
Oneirocrit'ist (s. from oneirocritic) An interpreter of dreams.
ONEIROSCOP'IST (s. from the Greek ὄνειρος a dream, and σκοπεῖν to view) One that inquires into the meaning of dreams.
O'nely (adj. a different spelling) Only, singular. Bailey.
O'neis (s. from one) Unity, the state of being one.
ONERARY (adj. from the Lat. onus oneris a burden) Fitted for the carriage of burdens.
ONERATE (v. int. from the Lat. onero to load) To burden.
Onerated (p. from onerate, not much used) Laden, burdened.
On'erating (p. a. from onerate, not much used) Loading, burdening.
Oneration (s. from onerate, but not much used) The act of loading.
ONEROSE (adj. from the Lat. onerofus) Onerous, burdensome.
Onerosity (s. from onerose) The state of being burdensome. Scott.
ONEROUS (adj. from the Lat. onerofus) Burdensome, oppressive. Bailey.
Ones (adv. an obsolete spelling) Once. Ayliffe.
ONESIMUS (s. from the Greek) A man's name.
ONESIPH'ORUS (s. from the Greek) A man's name.
ONGLE' ONGLEE' (adj. in heraldry) Having the claws of a different tincture.
Onhief (adv. a local word) On haste. Bailey.
ONIAS (s.) A man's name. Apec.
O'nid (adj. obsolete) United. Chaucer.
O'nily (adv. an obsolete spelling) Only. Chaucer.
ON'ION (s. in botany, from the French oignon) A well known herb with a bulbous root, the root of the herb.
On'ion (adj. from the sub. sometimes used in composition) Belonging to onions, made of onions.
On'ionbroth (s. from onion, and broth) Broth in which onions make a principal ingredient. Chaucer.
O'nis (adv. an obsolete spelling) Once.
ONIS/CUS (s. in the history of insects) The woodlouse.
O'NITIS (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
ONKOT'OMY (s. from the Greek ογκος a tumor, and τεμνω to cut) The operation of laying open a tumor or abscess.
On'ly (adv. from one) Simply, singly, merely, barely; so and no otherwise.
On'ly (adj. from one) Single, one and no more; one eminently.
ONOBRY'CHIS (s. in botany) The cockhead.
ONOCEN'TAUR (s. in heathen mythology) A fabulous monster having the upper part like a man, and the lower like an ass.

ONOCHEILES, ONOCHEOLUS (s. in botany) The name of an herb, the alkanot.

ONOCROTALUS (s. in ornithology) The pelican. D. of A.

ONOCROTAL (s. a different spelling) The onochrotalus. Co.

ONOCROTALUS (s. a different spelling) The onochrotalus, a kind of pelican. Pbillips.

ONOL'OGY (s. from the Greek onos an ass, and logos a word, but not much used) A foolish way of talking. Co.

ONOM'AMANCY (s. a different spelling) Onomancy. D. of A.

ONOM'ANCY (s. from the Greek onoma a name, and manteia magic) A kind of divination drawn from the letters of a name.

Onomant'ic (adj. from onomancy) Predicting by the letters of a name.

Onomant'ical (adj. from onomantic) Belonging to onomancy. Camden.

ONOMATECH'NY (s. from the Greek onoma a name, and techne art) The supposed art of prognostication from the letters of a name. Bailey.

Onomatop'eous (adj. from onomatopoeia) Having a sound corresponding to the thing expressed. Cole.

ONOMATOPE'IA (s. in rhetoric, from the Greek onoma a name, and poiein to do) A figure in which the name or word is made to correspond with the thing expressed.

Onomatopy (s. from onomatopoeia) The onomatopoeia. Cole.

ONONIS (s. in botany) The anonis.

ONOPOR'DON (s. in botany) The name of an herb.

ONOPOR'DUM (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the cotton-thistle.

ONOPY'ROS (s. in botany) The name of an herb.

O'NOS (s. in ichthyology) The haddock.

ONOS'MA (s. in botany) The bugloss.

ONOS'MUS (s. in botany) The bugloss.

On'preis (adv. an old word) Downwards. Bailey.

On'set (s. from on, and set) An attack; that which is set on by way of ornament.

On'set (v. t. from the sub.) To begin, to set upon.

On'set'ted (p. from onset) Set upon. Carew.

On'slaught (s. from on, and slay) An onset, an attack. Hudibras.

Onto'logist (s. from ontology) One skilled in ontology, a metaphysician.

ONTOL'OGY (s. from the Greek onontos being, and logos a discourse) The science of being, metaphysics.

ONTOSOPHY (s. from the Greek onontos being, and sophia wisdom) Ontology, the science which considers the various distinctions and affections of being. D. of A.

On'ward (adv. from on, and ward) Forward, in a state of advance.

ONY'CHA (s. in natural history) The onyx; an odorous kind of shell.

ONYCHIPUN'CTA (s. in natural history) A kind of jasper.

ONY'CHITES (s. in natural history) A sort of marble, the alabaster.

ONY'CHITIS (s. in medicine) A kind of crust sticking to the sides of furnaces in which brass ore has been melted.

ONYCHOM'ANCY (s. from the Greek onyx onyxos a nail, and manteia magic) A kind of divination drawn from the appearances on the nails viewed by reflection from the sun.

Onychom'ancy (s. a different spelling) The onychomancy. Diff. of Arts.

Ony'mancy (s. a different spelling) The onychomancy. Sc.

O'nyng (adj. obsolete) Uniting in one. Fortescue.

O'NYX (s. in natural history) The name of a precious stone, a kind of beautiful agate.

O'NYX (s. from the Greek) The nail of the finger or toe; the hoof of a beast; a fore under the horny coat of the eye.

O'o (adj. obsolete) One; united, agreed. Chaucer.

O'o (s. from the adj. obsolete) A word formerly used in proclamations, O yes. Chaucer.

O'on (adj. an obsolete spelling) One. Chaucer.

O'on (s. from the adj. obsolete) A proclamation, an O yes. Chaucer.

OOS'COPY (s. from the Greek oon an egg, and skopein to view) The supposed art of telling future events from the insertion of an egg.

Oost (s. a local word) A kiln for drying hops. D. of A.

Ooste (s. an obsolete spelling) An host. Chaucer.

OOZE (s. supposed to be from the French eaux water) Soft mud, slime at the bottom of water; the liquor of a tanner's vat; a soft flow, a spring.

Ooze (v. int. from the sub.) To run gently, to drain off by slow degrees.

Ooz'ing (p. a. from ooze) Flowing gently, running off by slow degrees.

Ooz'y (adj. from ooze) Muddy, slimy.

OPA'CATE (v. t. from the Lat. opaco) To shade, to cloud, to darken. Boyle.

Opa'cated (p. from opacate, but not much used) Darkened, clouded.

Opa'cating (p. a. from opacate, but not much used) Shaving, darkening.

Opac'ity (s. from opacous) The want of transparency, cloudiness.

OPA'COUS (adj. from the Lat. opacus) Dark, cloudy, obscure, not transparent.

Opa'coufness (s. from opacous) The state of being opaque, the want of transparency.

O'PAL (s. in natural history) A precious stone of various colours.

OPA'LIA (s. from Ops) The festivity celebrated by the Romans in honour of the goddess Ops.

OPA'QUE (adj. from the Lat. opacus) Opacous, dark, cloudy.

Opas'sum (s. a different spelling) The opossum.

OPE (v. t. from open, used only by poets) To open.

Ope (v. int.) To open itself; to bark.

Ope (p. from the verb) Opened.

O'peland (s. a local word) Ground plowed up every year, land in constant tillage.

O'PEN (v. t. from the Sax.) To uncloze, to unlock; to shew, to discover; to divide, to break; to explain, to disclose; to begin.

O'pen (v. int.) To unfold itself; to bark as a dog in the chace.

O'pen (adj. from the verb) Unclosed, unlocked; uncovered; exposed; plain, apparent, undisguised; clear, unclosed; attentive.

O'penarfe (s. in botany) The medlar. Scott.

O'pened (p. from open) Unclosed, unlocked; exposed; begun.

O'pener (s. from open) One that opens.

O'pener (adj. comp. of open) open in a greater degree.

O'penest (adj. sup. of open) Open in the greatest degree.

Openey'ed (adj. from open, and eye) Vigilant, watchful.

Openhand'ed (adj. from open, and hand) Generous, liberal.

Openheart'ed (adj. from open, and heart) Generous, candid.

Openheart'edness (s. from openhearted) Liberality, generosity.

O'penhead (adj. an old word) Bareheaded. Bailey.

O'pening (p. a. from open) Laying open, unlocking, setting open, exposing; beginning; barking as a dog in the chace.

O'pening (s. from the part.) An aperture, a breach; a discovery, a dawn; a way, a place for reception.

O'penly (adv. from open) Publicly, without disguise, plainly, evidently.

Openmouth'ed (adj. from open, and mouth) Having the mouth open, greedy, ravenous.

O'penness (s. from open) Plainness, clearness; freedom from disguise.

O'pentheft (s. an old law term) Plain theft.

OP'ERA (s. from the Italian) A poetical tale set to music and performed on the stage.

OP'ERABLE (adj. from the Lat. opus operis work) Practicable, capable of being done. Brown.

OP'ERANT (adj. from the Lat. opero to work, but not used) Active, having power to produce effects. Shakes.

Opera'rii (s. an old law term) The tenants who held small portions of land on the performance of servile work for the lord.

OP'ERATE (v. int. from the Lat. opero) To act, to have agency, to produce effects.

Operat'ical (adj. from opera) Belonging to an opera.

Operat'ing (p. a. from operate) Acting, producing effects.

Opera'tio (s. in old records) A day's work.

Opera'tion (s. from operate) An action, an agency; an effect, an act in surgery performed by instruments.

Operative (adj. from operate) Having the power of action, tending to produce its effect.

Operativeness (s. from operate) A tendency to operate, suitableness to produce its effect.

Opera'tor (s. from operate) One that performs any thing by the hand, one that produces an effect.

OPER'ULATE (adj. from the Lat. operculum a cover, but not much used) Covered, close covered. Cole.

OP'EROSE (adj. from the Lat. opus operis a work) Laborious, requiring great labour, tedious, troublesome.

Operosity (s. from operose) Great labour, the state of being operose. Bailey.

OPERTA'NEOUS (adj. from the Lat. opertaneus) Secret, done in private. Cole.

O P I

OPHA/LIA (s. in Roman antiquity) The festivals celebrated in honour of the goddess Ops.

O'PHEL (s. from the Heb. signifying acceleration) The name of a tower or high wall in Jerusalem.

OPHI'ASIS (s. from the Greek) A disease in which the hair grows thin and falls off.

OPHI'DION (s. in ichthyology) A kind of sea fish resembling a serpent.

OPHI'OG/ENES (s. from the Greek) A man's name.

OPHI'OGLOS/SUM (s. in botany) The adder's tongue.

OPHIOMACH'US (s. in the history of insects) A kind of naked locust; the lizard which is supposed to fight with serpents.

OPHIOMORPHITES (s. in natural history, from the Greek οφις a serpent, and μορφη a form) The snakestone.

OPH'ION (s. in zoology) A beast resembling a hart.

OPHIOPHA'GOUS (adj. from the Greek οφις a serpent, and φαγω to eat) Feeding on serpents, eating serpents.

OPHIOSTOPH'YLUS (s. in botany) The white vine, the briony.

O'PHIR (s. from the Heb. signifying ashes) The name of a country.

O'PHITES (s. in church history, from οφις a serpent) A sect in the second century who paid a superstitious regard to serpents.

OPH'ITES (s. in natural history) A kind of dusky stone with spots of light green.

OPH'UICOS (s. in astronomy) A constellation of the northern hemisphere; a star of the first magnitude in that constellation.

OPH'RAH (s. from the Heb. signifying dust) The name of a city.

OPH'RIS, OPH'RYS (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

OPHTHAL'MIA (s. from the Greek οφθαλμος the eye) An inflammation in the coats of the eye.

OPHTHAL'MIAS (s. in ichthyology) A sea fish with great eyes.

OPHTHAL'MIC (adj. from the Greek οφθαλμος the eye) Belonging to the eye.

Ophthal'mic (s. from the adj.) A medicine for the eyes.

OPHTHALMOG'RAPHY (s. from the Greek οφθαλμος the eye, and γραφω to write) A minute description of the eye.

OPHTHALMOS/COPY (s. from the Greek οφθαλμος the eye, and σκοπεω to view) That branch of cosmography which respects the eye.

OPH'THALMY (s. from the Greek οφθαλμος the eye) The ophthalmia, an inflammation of the coats of the eye.

O'piate (s. from opium) A medicine to promote sleep.

O'piate (adj. from the sub.) Soporiferous, causing sleep.

OPICOUSI'VA (s. in Roman antiquity) The festivals which were celebrated at noon in honour of the goddess Ops.

O'pie (s. an obsolete spelling) Opium. Chaucer.

OPIF'EROUS (adj. from the Lat. opus help, and fero to bring, but not much used) Bringing help. Bailey.

OP'IFICE (s. from the Lat. opificium, but not much used) Workmanship, handiwork.

Op'ificer (s. from opifice, but not sufficiently authorized) An artist. Bentley.

O'pimous (adj. from the Lat. opimus, but not used) Fat, wealthy. Cole.

Opinability (s. from opinable) The state or quality of being opinable. Bailey.

Opinable (adj. from opine, but not much used) Capable of being thought.

Opination (s. from opine, but not much used) Notion, opinion.

Opina'tor (s. from opine, but not much used) One who holds an opinion. Haie.

OP'INE (v. int. from the Lat. opinor) To think, to judge, to have an opinion. Pope.

Opin'iater (s. a different spelling) An opiniator. Bailey.

Opin'iative (adj. from opine) Wedded to an opinion, adhering to a particular notion; imagined, consisting in opinion.

Opin'iator (s. from opine) One fond of his own opinion.

OPINIA'TRE (adj. from the French) Opin'iative, obstinate, stubborn. Locke.

Opinia'trety (s. from opiniatre, but not much used) Obstinacy, stubbornness. Woodward.

Opin'iatory (s. a different spelling) Opiniatrety, obstinacy.

OPIN'ION (s. from the Lat. opinor to think) A persuasion of mind, a notion, a sentiment; a favourable judgment.

Opinion (v. t. from the sub. but not used) To think. Br.

Opin'ionate (adj. from opinion, but not much used) Wedded to an opinion, stubborn. Bailey.

O P R

Opin'ionate (adj. from opinion) Wedded to an opinion, on, stubborn, obstinate.

Opin'ionative (adj. from opinion) Wedded to an opinion, obstinate in opinion.

Opin'ionatively (adv. from opinionative) Stubbornly, obstinately.

Opin'ionativeness (s. from opinionative) Obstinacy, stubbornness in opinion.

Opin'ionist (s. from opinion) One fond of his own opinion; one of a sect who professed poverty.

OPIOL'OGY (s. from the Greek οπιον opium, and λογος a description) A description or treatise on opium. Sc.

OPIP'AROUS (adj. from the Lat. opiparus, but not much used) Sumptuous. Johnson.

OPISTHOCYPH'OSIS (s. from the Greek) A gibbosity of the back bone. Scott.

OPISTHODO'MOS (s. in architecture) A postern, a back gate.

OPISTHOGRAPH (s. from the Greek οπισθεν backward, and γραφω to write) A paper or instrument written on both sides. Cole.

OPISTHOGRAPH'ICAL (adj. from opisthograph) Written on both sides. Cole.

OPISTHOTO'NUS (s. from the Greek οπισθεν backwards, and τονος a tone) A kind of cramp in the neck which bends it backwards.

OPIT'ULATE (v. t. from the Lat. opitular to help, but not used) To aid, to assist. Cole.

Opitulation (s. from opitulate) A help, an aid, the act of helping. Bailey.

OP'IMUM (s. from the Greek οπιον) A juice distilled from the heads of poppies, the inspissated juice of poppies much used in medicines to promote sleep.

O'PLE (s. in botany) The waterelder.

O'pletree (s. in botany) A kind of tree, the witch-hazel. Ainsworth.

OPOBALSA'MUM (s. in medicine) The balsam.

OPO'PANAX (s. in medicine) A kind of gum or resin brought from the east.

OPPICA'TION (s. from the Lat. oppico to smear over with pitch) The act of covering over with pitch. Co.

OP'PIDAN (s. from the Lat. oppidanus) A townsman, an inhabitant of a town.

OPPIC'NORATE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and pignus a pawn) To pledge, to pawn.

Oppig'norated (p. from oppignorare) Pledged, pawned; with to; as, "Oppignorated to them." Bacon.

Oppig'norating (p. a. from oppignorare) Pledging, pawning.

OP'PILATE (v. t. a physical term, from the Lat. oppilo) To raise obstructions, to heap up obstructions, to hinder by heaping up something in the way.

Oppilated (p. from oppilate, but not much used) Obstructed.

Oppilating (p. a. from oppilate, but not much used) Obstructing, heaping up obstructions.

Oppilation (s. from oppilate) An obstruction, a mass of matter obstructing a passage. Harvey.

Oppilative (adj. from oppilate) Obstructive, causing obstructions.

Oppilativeness (s. from oppilative) A tending to cause obstructions.

OPPLE'TE (adj. from the Lat. ob against, and pletus full) Full, crowded. Bailey.

Oppletted (adj. from opplete) Filled, crowded. John.

Opple'tion (s. from oppiete) The act of filling up, fullness.

OPPO'NE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and pono to place) To oppose. Bailey.

Oppo'nency (s. from oppone) The act of opposing, the act of maintaining an opposite argument. Bailey.

Oppo'nent (adj. from oppone) Opposite, adverse, opposing.

Oppo'nent (s. from the adj.) One that opposes, one who begins a dispute, an antagonist.

Opportu'ne (adj. from the Lat. opportunus) Seasonable, fit, convenient, proper, well timed.

Opportu'nely (adv. from opportune) Seasonably, conveniently, with seasonable circumstances of time and place.

Opportu'neness (s. from opportune) Seasonableness, the state of being opportune.

Opportu'nity (s. from opportune) Fitness of time or place, convenience, suitableness.

OPPO'SE (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and pono to place) To act against, to resist, to hinder; to place as an obstacle, to place in front.

Oppo'se (v. int.) To act adversely, to object in a dispute; with against; as, "A servant opposed against the act." Shakespeare.

Opposed

OPT

Opposed (p. from oppose) Acted against, resisted, hindered, placed in front; with to; as, "Opposed to him the other warrior stood."

Opposable (adj. from oppose) Incapable of being opposed, irresistible.

Opposer (s. from oppose) One that opposes, a rival, an antagonist.

Opposing (p. a. from oppose) Acting adversely, resisting; offering objections; placing in front.

OPPOSITE (adj. from the Lat. ob against, and positus placed) Placed in front, facing each other; adverse, repugnant, contrary; with to; as, "Opposite to that which is defined."

Opposite (s. from the adj.) An opponent, an adversary, an enemy; that which is opposed to another.

Oppositely (adv. from opposite) In an opposite direction, adversely.

Oppositeness (s. from opposite) The state of being opposite.

Oppositive (adj. an old word) Opposite. Chaucer.

Opposition (s. from opposite) The state of being opposite, resistance, contrariety.

OPPRESS (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and premo to press) To injure by unreasonable severity, to overpower, to subdue.

Oppress (v. t. obsolete) To ravish. Chaucer.

Oppressed (p. from oppress) Injured by unreasonable severity, overpowered, subdued.

Oppressing (p. a. from oppress) Injuring by unreasonable severity, overpowering, subduing.

Oppression (s. from oppress) The act of oppressing, cruelty, severity; hardship, calamity; a lassitude of body, dullness of spirits.

Oppressive (adj. from oppress) Cruel, inhuman, unjustly severe; heavy, overwhelming.

Oppressiveness (s. from oppressive) The quality of being oppressive.

Oppressor (s. from oppress) One that oppresses.

Opprest (v. t. pret. of oppress) Oppressed, did oppress.

Opprest (p. from oppress, but not so much used) Oppressed; with of; as,
"Alas! a mortal most opprest of those "Whom fate has loaded with a weight of woes." Po.

Opprist (adj. obsolete) Uprisen. Cole.

OPPROBRIOUS (adj. from the Lat. opprobrium a reproach) Reproachful, scurrilous.

Opprobriously (adv. from opprobrious) Reproachfully, disgracefully, scurrilously.

Opprobriousness (s. from opprobrious) Reproachfulness, scurrility.

OPPROBRIUM (s. from the Lat.) Disgrace, infamy.

OPPUGN (v. t. from the Lat. ob against, and pugno to fight) To oppose, to attack, to resist.

Oppugnancy (s. from oppugn) Opposition, resistance.

Oppugned (p. from oppugn) Opposed, resisted.

Oppugner (s. from oppugn) One who opposes, an opponent.

Oppugning (p. a. from oppugn) Opposing, resisting.

OPS (s. in heathen mythology) Cybele, the supposed mother of the gods.

OPSIMATHY (s. from the Greek $\omega\sigma\tau\epsilon$ late, and $\mu\alpha\upsilon\theta\alpha\upsilon\alpha$ to learn) An education begun late in life. Johnson.

OPSONATION (s. from the Greek $\omega\sigma\tau\iota\omega\upsilon$ food, but not much used) The act of buying victuals, the office of a caterer.

OPSONATOR (s. from the Lat. but not much used) A caterer. Cole.

OPTABLE (adj. from the Lat. opto to desire) Desirable, fit to be desired.

Optableness (s. from optable) The state or quality of being desirable. Scott.

OPTATIVE (adj. from the Lat. opto to desire) Expressing desire, belonging to that mode of a verb which expresses desire.

OPTERIA (s. in antiquity) The presents received by a bride when first conducted to the bridegroom.

OPTIC (adj. from the Greek $\omega\phi$ an eye) Belonging to the sight, visional; relating to the science of vision.

Optic (s. from the adj.) An instrument of vision, the organ of sight.

Optica (s. from optic) Medicines for the eyes.

Optical (adj. from optic) Belonging to the science of optics.

Optician (s. from optic) One skilled in optics, one who deals in optical instruments.

Optics (s. plu. from optic, not much used in the singular) The science of vision.

OPTIMACY (s. from the Lat. optimus best) The nobility, the body of nobles. Howel.

ORA

OPTIMATES (s. in Roman antiquity) The best citizens, or those who desired to be approved by the better sort.

Optim'ity (s. from the Lat. optimus best) The state of being best. Johnson.

OPTION (s. from the Lat. opto to desire) A choice, an election.

Opulence (s. from opulent) Wealth, affluence, riches.

Opulency (s. from opulence) Opulence. Clarendon.

OPULENT (adj. from the Lat. opes riches) Rich, wealthy, affluent.

Opulently (adv. from opulent) Richly, with opulence, with splendor.

Opulentness (s. from opulent) Opulence, wealth. Scott.

OPULUS (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the water-elder.

OPUNTIA (s. in botany) A species of Indian fig, a kind of cactus, the plant on which the insect feeds, which produces the dye called cochineal.

Opuntica (s. in botany, a different spelling) The opuntia. Phillips.

OPUNTIOIDES (s. in botany) The fertularia.

OPUSCLE (s. from the Lat. opusculum) A small work.

OR (conj. from the Sax. other) Otherwise, either.

OR (adv. from the Sax. cere) Before, etc. "Or ever, be was aware." "Or we go to the declaration of this Psalm, it would be convenient to them who did write this Psalm." But this last sense and construction are now grown obsolete.

OR (s. in heraldry) The gold colour.

Or (adj. in heraldry) Having a gold or yellow tincture.

ORA (s.) A Saxon coin of the value of sixteen-pence.

O'RACH (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

ORACLE (s. from the Lat. ora moutbs, or oro to entreat) An instruction delivered by supernatural wisdom, the place where supernatural instructions were sought for or received; a person famed for wisdom, any thing famed for truth and regularity.

Oracle (v. int. from the sub. but not received) To utter oracles.

Orac'ing (p. a. from oracle) Uttering oracles. Milton.

Oracular (adj. from oracle) Uttering oracles, resembling oracles.

Oracularness (s. from oracular) The state of being oracular. Scott.

Orac'ulous (adj. from oracle) Uttering oracles, resembling oracles.

Orac'ulously (adv. from oraculous) In the manner of an oracle.

Orac'ulousness (s. from oraculous) The state of being oracular.

Or'aison (s. a different spelling) An orison, a prayer. Sc.

ORAL (adj. from the Lat. os oris the mouth) Delivered by the mouth, verbal, not committed to writing.

O'rally (adv. from oral) By mouth, verbally.

ORANGE (s. in botany, from the French) The orange-tree, the fruit of the orangetree.

Orange (s. from the foregoing) The colour which resembles that of an orange.

Orange (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to an orange, cultivated for oranges.

Orangeade (s. from orange) A drink made of orange juice, sugar and water.

Orangecolour (s. from orange, and colour) A colour resembling that of an orange.

Orangery (s. from orange) A plantation for oranges.

Orangemusk (s. in botany) A species of pear.

Orangepeel (s. from orange and peel) The rind of an orange.

Orangewench (s. from orange, and wench) A girl who sells oranges.

Orangewife (s. from orange, and wife) A woman who sells oranges.

Orangewoman (s. from orange, and woman) A woman who sells oranges.

ORANVEO (s. in commerce) A kind of tobacco.

Orarium (s. in old records) The hem of a garment; a kind of vestment worn by the priests.

ORATION (s. from the Lat. os oris the mouth) An harangue, a declaration, a speech made according to the laws of rhetoric.

ORATOR (s. the modern and correct spelling, from the Lat.) A public speaker, a man of eloquence; a petitioner.

Oratorian (s. in church history) An order of regular priests so called from the place where they met together to pray.

Oratorical (adj. from orator) Rhetorical, befitting an orator.

ORATORIO

ORD

ORATORIO (s. from the Italian) A kind of sacred drama, a kind of dramatic composition generally taken from the scriptures, and set to the finest music.

ORATORY (s. from orator) Eloquence, the exercise of eloquence; a place devoted to prayer, a place to pray in.

ORATOIR (s. the less modern spelling, from the French orateur) An orator.

ORB (s. from the Lat. orbis a circle) A sphere, an orbicular body, the line or circle in which a planet performs its revolutions; a circle, a period; a sphere of action; the eye. Milton.

ORBITATION (s. from the Lat. orbatus deprived) A privation, the loss of parents, the loss of children.

Orb'd (adj. from orb) Orbicular, round, rounded, formed into a circle.

Orbical (adj. from orb, but not used) Orbicular. Cole.

ORBICULAR (adj. from the Lat. orbiculatus) Spherical, circular.

Orbicularly (adv. from orbicular) Spherically, circularly.

Orbicularness (s. from orbicular) The state of being orbicular.

ORBICULATED (adj. from the Lat. orbiculatus) Formed into an orb.

ORBIT (s. from the Lat.) An orb, a circle.

Orbit (s. from orb) The line described by the revolution of a planet; the cavity in which the eye is placed.

Orbiter (s. from orbit, in anatomy) A perforation in the cheekbone a little below the orbit.

ORBITY (s. from the Lat. orbis destitute) Loss, the want of parents, the want of children.

ORC (s. in ichthyology) A kind of sea fish.

Orca (s. a different spelling) The orc, a monstrous fish. Phillips.

ORCADES (s. in geography) The islands of Orkney.

Orch (s. a different spelling) An ork, a hulk. Cole.

ORCHAL (s. in natural history) A kind of mineral stone not unlike allum.

ORCHANET (s. in botany) The bugloss. Ainsworth.

ORCHARD (s. from the Sax. ortgeard) An inclosure for fruit trees.

Orch'd (s. a different spelling) The orchal. Scott.

ORCHESOGRAHY (s. from the Greek χορηγία a dance, and γραφή to write) A treatise on dancing, a book of dances.

ORCHESTRA, ORCHESTRE (s. from the Greek ορχήστρα) The place where the music sits at a public show.

ORCHIS (s. in botany) The bugloss.

ORCHOTOMY (s. from the Greek ορχή a testicle, and τομή to cut) The act of cutting off the testicles.

ORCIO (s. in commerce) A measure at Florence containing eight gallons and one quart.

Ord (s. an old word) A beginning; sharpness, an edge. Johnson.

ORDAIN (v. t. from the Lat. ordino) To appoint, to decree; to establish, to settle; to set in an office; to invest with the sacerdotal function; to set apart a minister to the cure of a dissenting congregation.

Ordain'd (p. from ordain) Appointed, decreed, settled, set apart to an office, invested with ministerial functions.

Ordainer (s. from ordain) One who ordains.

Ordaining (p. a. from ordain) Appointing, decreeing, settling, setting apart to an office in the church.

Ordal (s. an old spelling) The ordeal. Chaucer.

Ordalian (adj. from ordeal) Belonging to the ordeal.

Orde (s. obsolete) A point, a beginning. Chaucer.

ORDEAL (s. from the Sax. ordal) A trial in doubtful cases by fire or water, or some other means, by which the person accused made a kind of appeal to heaven, exposing himself to manifest danger or hazard, in which, if he came off unhurt, he was judged to be innocent. This method of trial ceased with the reign of king John.

Ordeal (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the method of trial explained in the foregoing article. "Their 'ordal laws'."

Ordeff (s. an old word) A bed of ore lying under ground; the right which a man had to the ore found in his own ground.

Ordeinly (adv. obsolete) Orderly, in good order. Chau.

Ordelie (s. an old word) The ordeff, ore which lay under ground; the right which a man had to the ore found in his own ground. Phillips.

ORDER (s. from the Lat. ordo) A method, a regular disposition, an established process; a rule, a regulation; a rank, a class; a religious fraternity, a society of dignified persons; a mandate, a precept, a command; means, measures; a system of members, ornaments and proportions of columns and pilasters in architecture.

ORF

Order (v. t. from the sub.) To regulate, to adjust; to methodise, to dispose fitly; to manage, to direct, to command; to ordain, to set apart to a sacerdotal function. Whitegift.

Or'der'd (p. from order) Regulated, adjusted, managed, directed, commanded; set apart to sacerdotal functions. Whitegift.

Or'der'r (s. from order) One that orders.

Or'der'ing (p. a. from order) Regulating, adjusting, managing, directing.

Or'der'ing (s. from the part.) A disposition, a managing, a direction.

Or'derit (adj. obsolete) Ordained, invested with sacerdotal functions. Chaucer.

Or'derless (adj. from order) Void of order, irregular.

Or'derlinefs (s. from orderly) Regularity, method.

Or'derly (adj. from order) Regularly, methodically, according to order, according to rule.

Or'ders (s. plu. of order) The hierarchy of the church, the state of the clergy.

Or'dinable (adj. obsolete) Capable of being ordered. Ch.

OR'DINAL (adj. from the Lat. ordinalis) Denoting order.

Or'dinal (s. from the adj.) That which denotes order; a ritual, a book containing orders.

OR'DINANCE (s. from the Lat. ordino to set in order) A law, a rule, a precept; an appointment, a commanded observance, a holy rite; a canon, a great gun: but this is an old spelling. Johnson.

Or'dinarily (adv. from ordinary) Commonly, usually, according to settled rule.

OR'DINARY (adj. from the Lat. ordinarius) Established, regular; common, usual; mean, low, uncomely, unhandsome.

Or'dinary (s. from the adj.) A settled establishment, an established judge of ecclesiastical causes; a constant office; the place of eating at a certain price, the regular price of a meal; one of the most usual bearings in a coat armorial.

OR'DINATE (v. t. from the Lat. ordino) To appoint. Daniel.

Or'dinate (adj. from the verb) Regular, methodical.

OR'DINATE (s. in geography) A line drawn perpendicular to the axis of a curve, and terminating the curvilinear space.

Ordination (s. from ordain) An established order; the act of investing with sacerdotal functions, the act or solemnity of setting apart a minister to the care of a dissenting congregation.

Or'dinaunce (s. an obsolete spelling) An ordinance. Ch.

OR'DINES (s. an old law term) A chapter, a solemn meeting of the religious of any particular order. Bai.

OR'DLE (s. an old word) An ordeal, the right of administering oaths in order to the ordeal in a particular district.

Ord'nance (s. from ordinance, for the sake of distinction) A cannon, a great gun.

ORDONNANCE (s. from the French) The disposition of parts or figures in a picture; the proportions of a building or order in architecture.

Or'dour (s. an obsolete spelling) Ordure. Chaucer.

Or'dre (s. obsolete) A point, a beginning. Chaucer.

OR'DURE (s. from the French) The dung of an animal.

ORE (s. from the Sax.) Metal unrefined, metal in a mineral state; metal. Milton.

Ore (s. obsolete) Gore, blood; it was used in the form of an orb. Chaucer.

Ore (s. an old word) The outward part of any thing; an old gold coin of about six-pence value. Cole.

O'READES (s. in heathen mythology) The nymphs of the mountains.

O'REB (s. from the Heb. signifying a raven) The name of a man, the name of a rock.

O'redelph (s. a different spelling) The ordelfe. Cole.

O'reloop (s. a sea term) The orlop. Hayward.

O'reon (s. in botany) A kind of knot-grass.

O'RESEL'INON (s. in botany) The wild parsley.

Ore'top (v. t. from overtop) To exceed. Ainsworth.

O'reum (s. in old records) A barn full of corn.

O'reweed (s. from ore, and weed) Sea weed.

O'rewood (s. from ore, and wood) The weeds or plants thrown up by the agitation of the sea, ooze.

O'REX'IS (s. from the Greek) An appetite for food. Scott.

O'reild (s. an old word, from the Sax.) A restitution of cattle, a restitution made by the county or hundred for any wrong done to a man in pledge.

OR'FORD (s.) A borough town in Suffolk; it has a market market on Monday, sends two members to parliament, and is 88 miles from London.

ORI

Orford (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Orford, made at Orford.

Orfraies, Orfraies, Orfraves (s. an old word) A kind of frized cloth of gold heretofore much worn by kings and noblemen.

Orfire't (adj. obsolete) Overspread. Chaucer.

Orft (s. in ichthyology) A kind of chub. Bailey.

ORFUS (s. in ichthyology) A kind of chub. Scott.

Orgain (s. a different spelling) The organ. Bailey.

Orgal (s. a different spelling) The argol, the lees of wine. Ainsworth.

ORGAN (s. from the Greek ὄργανον an instrument) A natural instrument; an instrument of music.

Organbuilder (s. from organ, and build) One whose business it is to construct organs.

Organic (adj. from organ) Belonging to an organ, instrumental, consisting of divers parts acting together.

Organical (adj. from organ) Consisting of various parts acting together, organic.

Organically (adv. from organical) By means of organs, by an organical disposition of parts.

Organicalness (s. from organical) The state of being organical.

Organism (s. from organ) An organization, an organical structure.

Organist (s. from organ) One who plays on the organ.

Organization (s. from organize) An organical construction.

Organize (v. int. from organ) To form organically, to construct so that one part may cooperate with another.

Organized (p. from organize) Formed organically, constructed so that one part may cooperate with another.

Organizing (p. a. from organize) Forming organically.

Organling (s. in ichthyology) The large kind of ling.

Organloft (s. from organ, and loft) The gallery or loft where the organ stands.

ORGANO (s. from the Italian) An organ, an instrument of music.

Organpipe (s. from organ, and pipe) The pipe or tube of an organ.

ORGANY (s. in botany, from the Lat. organum) The name of a well known herb.

ORGASM (s. from the Greek ὄργασμος) A sudden and violent exertion.

ORGASMUS (s. a different spelling) An orgasm, violence, force, an onset.

ORGEIS (s. in ichthyology) The large kind of ling. Ain.

Orges (s. a different spelling) The larger kind of ling. Ba.

ORGIA (s. from the Greek) The mad feasts and sacrifices of Bacchus.

Orgies (s. from orgia) The drunken feasts of Bacchus.

Orgil'ous (adj. not used) Proud, haughty. Shakef.

ORGUES (s. a military term) Long pieces of wood shod or pointed with iron; a machine composed of musketbarrels set in a row in a wooden case to be discharged at once or separately.

ORGYA (s. in antiquity) A Grecian measure of length containing two yards.

Orichalc (s. from orichalchum) Brass.

ORICHALCHUM (s. from the Lat.) Brass, a fictitious metal.

ORIENT (adj. from the Lat. orior to rise) Rising; eastern; bright, shining.

O'rient (s. from the adj.) The east, that part of the heavens in which the sun rises.

Orien'tal (adj. from orient) Eastern, proceeding from the east.

Orien'tal (s. from the adj.) An inhabitant of the eastern parts of the world.

Orien'talism (s. from oriental) An eastern mode of speech, an idiom of the eastern languages.

Oriental'ity (s. from oriental) The state of being oriental.

ORIFICE (s. from the Lat. orificium) An opening, a perforation, the mouth of a wound.

Oriflama, Oriflame (s. a different spelling) The oriflamb, a golden standard.

ORIFLAMB (s. from the Lat. aurum gold, and flamma a flame) The royal standard of the ancient kings of Rome, so called from its being embroidered with flames of gold.

O'rgan (s. a different spelling) The organ. Spenser.

ORIGANUM (s. in botany, from the Lat.) Organy.

ORIGEN (s.) A man's name, one of the fathers of the christian church.

Origenian (s. in church history) One of an ancient sect little known. Bailey.

ORN

O'rogenism (s. from Origen) The doctrines of Origen.

O'rogenist (s. from Origen) A follower of Origen.

O'RIGIN (s. from the Lat. origo) A beginning, a first existence, a fountain, a source, a first copy, the from which any thing is transcribed; a derivation, a descent.

Orig'inal (s. from origin) An origin, a fountain, a source, a derivation.

Orig'inal (adj. from the sub.) First, primitive, belonging to the first copy.

Original'ia (s. a law term) Original transcripts.

Orig'inally (adv. from original) Primarily, at first, the first author.

Originalness (s. from original) The state or quality of being original.

Originary (adj. from origin) Primitive, productive, causing existence. Sandys.

Orig'inate (v. t. from origin) To bring into existence. Johnston.

Orig'inate (v. int.) To arise as from an origin; within, or from; as, "It originated in sentiment." "It originated from pride."

Orig'inated (p. from originate) Brought into existence.

Orig'inating (p. a. from originate) Bringing into existence, arising as from an origin.

Origina'tion (s. from originate) A first production, the act of bringing into existence.

ORIL'ON (s. in fortification) A small rounding of earth faced with a wall.

O'riol (s.) A little room next the hall. Cole.

ORION (s. in astronomy) A constellation of the southern hemisphere.

O'ripæ (s. in the history of insects) The snowflies.

ORIPELAR'GUS (s. in ornithology) A kind of vulture.

OR'ISON (s. sometimes accented on the second syllable, and mostly used in the plu. from the French) A prayer, supplication.

Or'ison (s. an obsolete spelling) The horizon.

Or'ison (s. an obsolete spelling) An orison. Chaucer.

Ork (s. a different spelling) The orc, a monstrous fish.

Ork (s. in commerce) A kind of hulk; a cask for wine or figs.

ORKNEY (s.) An island on the coast of Scotland, which with Zetland, sends one member to parliament.

Ork'ney (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Orkney.

Ork'neyling (s. in ichthyology) The organling, the large ling caught off the isle of Orkney.

ORLAN'DO (s.) A man's name.

ORLE (s. in heraldry) An ordinary in form of a fillet drawn round the shield near the edge.

ORLE (s. in architecture) The plinth, the cincture.

OR'LEANOIS (s. in geography) A government or province of France.

OR'LEANS (s.) The chief city of the Orleanois; an island and town in the river St. Lawrence.

Or'leans (s. from the foregoing) A kind of plum.

OR'LO (s. in architecture) The orle, the plinth.

Or'loge (s. an obsolete spelling) The horologe. Chaucer.

OR'LOP (s. a sea term) The middle deck. Johnston.

Or'lope (s. a different spelling) The orlop.

OR'MOND (s.) The north division of the county of Tipperary in Ireland.

ORMSKIRK (s.) A town in Lancashire; it has a market on Tuesday, and is 205 miles from London.

Orms'kirk (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Ormskirk, made at Ormskirk.

ORNAMENT (s. from the Lat. ornamentum) An embellishment, a decoration; honour, that which confers dignity.

Or'nament (v. t. from the sub.) To embellish, to decorate.

Ornament'al (adj. from ornament) Serving for decoration, giving an embellishment.

Ornament'ally (adv. from ornamental) In an ornamental manner, with ornament.

Ornament'alness (s. from ornament) The state or quality of being ornamental.

Ornamented (p. from ornament) Embellished, decorated.

Ornamenting (p. a. from ornament) Embellishing, decorating.

OR'NAN (s. from the Heb. signifying one that rejoices) A man's name.

OR'NATE (adj. from the Lat. ornatus) Decorated, fine, gay. Milton.

Or'nateness (s. from ornate) The state of being embellished, finery.

Or'nature (s. from ornate) Decoration, finery. Ains.

Orn'dorns (s. a local word) Drinking bouts after dinner. Bailey.

ORNISCOPUS

ORNISOPHICS (s. from the Greek opis a bird, and σκοπεω to view) The omens or predictions drawn from the observation of birds.

ORNISOPHIST (s. from the Greek opis a bird, and σκοπεω to view) An augur, one who draws predictions from the observation of birds.

ORNI'THIAS (s.) The western wind which generally blew at the time when swallows made their first appearance. Phillips.

ORNI'THOGA'LE (s. a different spelling) The ornithogalum.

ORNI'THOGA'LUM (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the star of Bethlehem.

ORNI'THOGLOS'SUM (s. in botany) The keys of the ash.

ORNI'THOL'OGIST (s. from ornithology) A describer of birds, one skilled in ornithology.

ORNI'THOL'OGY (s. from the Greek opis a bird, and λογος a description) The science of birds, a minute description of birds.

ORNI'THOM'ANCY (s. from the Greek opis a bird, and μαντεια magic) Divination by means of birds.

ORNI'THOPO'DIUM (s. in botany) The birdsfoot, a genus of plants.

ORNI'THO'PUS (s. in botany) The ornithopodium.

ORNI'THOT'ROPHY (s. from the Greek opis a bird, and τροφω to nourish) A place in which birds are fed.

ORBAN'CHE (s. in botany) A genus of plants; the broom rape.

ORBANCHOIDES (s. in botany) The monotropa.

OR'BIA (s. from the Greek ορεος a vetch) The grains of frankincense.

ORBOIDES (s. with physicians) A settlement in urine like vetches.

OR'BUS (s. in botany) The bitter vetch, a genus of plants.

ROMA'ZES (s. in the beaten mythology) The first of the three principal divinities worshipped by the Persians. Bailey.

OR'PHA (s. from the Heb. signifying the neck) The name of a woman.

OR'PHAN (s. from the Greek ορφανος) A child who has lost father or mother, a fatherless or motherless child.

Orphan (adj. from the sub.) Bereft of parents.

Orphanage (s. from orphan) The state of an orphan.

Orphanism (s. from orphan) Orphanage.

ORPHANOT'ROPHY (s. from the Greek ορφανος an orphan, and τροφω to nourish) An orphan house, an hospital where orphans are brought up.

Orphean (adj. from Orpheus) Belonging to Orpheus.

Orphelin (s. obsolete) An orphan. Chaucer.

OR'PHEUS (s.) A man's name, a famous poet whose harp was said to have attracted beings animate and inanimate.

OR'PHUS (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish, the sea rough.

OR'PIMENT (s. in natural history) A kind of mineral, the yellow arsenic.

OR'PIN (s. in botany) The name of an herb.

OR'PINE (s. in botany, a different spelling) The orpin.

OR'QUE (s. a different spelling) An ork, a hulk. Cole.

OR'ACH (s. in botany, a different spelling) The orach. Sc.

OR'AGE (s. not so common a spelling) The orach. Ainsw.

OR'ERY (s. in mathematics) A late invented machine representing the solar system.

ORHOPY'GIUM (s. from the Greek ορροπυγεον) The hump of a beast, the hump of a bird. Phillips.

OR'IS (s. a different spelling) The orrife, the iris.

OR'IS (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the name of a flower; the iris.

OR'IS (s. in commerce) A kind of gold and silver lace.

OSODACH'NÆ (s. in the history of insects) The earwig.

OS'T (s. not much used in the singular, from the Sax. ord the beginning) The refuse, that which is left.

OS'tell (s. in fortification) The berm.

OS'telli (s. in the forest law) The claws of a dogs foot.

OS'THAMPELOS (s. in botany) A kind of vine capable of supporting itself.

OS'THOCO'LON (s. from the Greek) The preternatural brightness of a joint.

OS'THODORON (s. from the Greek) An ancient measure of length shorter by a fingers breadth than the span or greater palm.

OS'THODOX (adj. from the Greek ορθος right, and δοξω to perceive) Sound in opinion, sound in doctrine, right in sentiments of religion.

Orthodoxly (adv. from orthodox) With soundness of opinion, with right sentiments in religion.

Orthodoxy (s. from orthodox) The state of being orthodox. Scott.

Orthodoxy (s. from orthodox) Soundness of opinion, right sentiments in religion.

ORTHODROMIC (adj. from the Greek ορθος right, and δρομος a course) Sailing on the arch of a great circle, sailing the most direct course.

Orthodromics (s. from orthodromic) The art of sailing on the arch of a great circle.

ORTHODROMY (s. from the Greek ορθος right, and δρομος a course) The act of sailing in a direct course, sailing on the arch of a great circle.

ORTHOGON (s. from the Greek ορθος right, and γωνια an angle) A rectangular figure.

Orthogonal (adj. from orthogon) Rectangular.

Orthographer (s. from orthography) One who spells according to the rules of grammar, one who spells right.

Orthographic (adj. from orthography) Belonging to the rules of orthography, relating to right spelling.

Orthographical (adj. from orthographic) Relating to the rules for right spelling; delineated according to the elevation, shewing the elevation.

Orthographically (adv. from orthographical) According to the rules of spelling, according to the elevation.

Orthographist (s. from orthography) An orthographer. Cole.

Orthographize (v. int. from orthography) To practice the rules of orthography. Cole.

Orthographizing (p. a. from orthographize) Practising the rules of orthography.

ORTHOGRAPHY (s. from the Greek ορθος right, and γραφω to write) That part of grammar which teaches how words should be written, the art or practice of spelling; the elevation of a building properly delineated.

ORTHOMAS'TICA (s. in botany) A kind of fruit, the breast apple.

ORTHOP'NOEA (s. from the Greek ορθος right, and πνεω to breathe) A disorder of the lungs in which respiration can only be performed in an upright posture.

ORTHOSTATÆ (s. in architecture) The supporters of a building, pilasters, buttresses. Bailey.

OR'TIVE (adj. from the Lat. ortivus) Rising, relating to the rising of a star or planet.

OR'TOLAN (s. in ornithology, from the French) A small bird accounted exceedingly delicate.

OR'TON (s.) A town in Westmoreland; it has a market on Wednesday, and is 171 miles from London.

Or'ton (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Orton, made at Orton.

Orts (s. plu. from ort, more used than the singular) Refuse, that which is left.

Ort'yard (s.) an orchard. Bailey.

OR'VAL (s. in botany) The clary.

ORVA'LA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

ORVI'ETAN (s. from the Italian) An antidote, a medicine to expel poison.

ORVETO'NUM (s. a different spelling) The orvietan, a celebrated antidote against poison. Diet. of Arts.

OR'US (s. in beaten mythology) The last of the three principal divinities worshipped by the Egyptians.

Orwhel'd (adj. obsolete) Overwhelmed. Chaucer.

O'ryal (s. an old word) A cloister, a porch.

O'ryen (adj. an old word) Occasional, emergent. Cole.

O'RYX (s. in zoology) A kind of African wild goat.

ORY'ZA (s. in commerce) The rice, a genus of plants.

OS (s. in anatomy, from the Lat.) A bone.

O'sanna (s. an incorrect spelling) Hosanna. Cole.

OS'BERT (s.) A man's name.

OS'BORN (s.) A man's name.

OSCHEO'JELE (s. from the Greek οσχον the scrotum, and κηλη a rupture) A kind of hernia in which the intestines break into the scrotum.

OSCHOPHO'RIA (s. in Grecian antiquity) An Athenian festival to commemorate the destruction of the Minotaur.

Oschophorion (s. from oschophoria) The end of the race which made one principal exercise in the oschophoria.

Os'cianplay (s. in antiquity) A light Roman sport. Cole.

OSCIL'LA (s. in antiquity) The small images of men or women consecrated to Saturn in order to render him propitious.

O'SCILLANCY (s. from the Lat. os the mouth, and cilleo to move) The state of being moved to and fro, a saw kind of motion. Scott.

OSCILLA'TION (s. from the Lat. oscillatio) The act of moving backwards and forwards like a pendulum, a vibration; a sacred rite among the Romans in which the figures of men were made to vibrate in the air.

OSCIL'LATORY (adj. from the Lat. os a mouth, and cilleo to move) Vibrating, moving backwards and forwards like the pendulum of a clock.

OST

OS'CINES (s. in antiquity) The birds from whose notes the augurs predicated future events.

OS'CITANCY (s. from oscitant) The act of yawning, negligence, stupidity.

OS'CITANT (adj. from the Lat. oscito to yawn) Yawning, sleepy, dull, stupid. Hooker.

OS'cita'tion (s. from oscitant) The act of yawning.

OSCOPHO'RIA (s. a different spelling) The ophophoria.

OS'CU'LA (s. in anatomy) The inosculations of the vessels.

Osculato'rius (s. in anatomy) The muscle that draws the lips together, the kissing muscle.

OSE'A (s.) A man's name. Apoc.

OSE'AS (s.) A man's name. Apoc.

OS'IA (s. in botany) A kind of willow, the willow of which baskets are made.

OS'IRIS (s. in beaten mythology) An antient king of Egypt worshipped in the form of an ox.

Os'ken (s. a local word) The oxgang, a certain portion of land. Bailey.

OS'MOND (s.) a man's name.

OS'MOND (s. in botany) The name of a medical plant.

OS'NABURG (s. in geography) A German bishoprick, the capital of that bishoprick.

OS'PRAY (s. in ornithology) The sea eagle.

Os'prey (s. a different spelling) The ospray. Bailey.

OS'SA (s. in anatomy, the plu. of os) Bones.

Os'sacle (s. not so common a spelling) An ossicle. Scott.

Os'se (v. int. a local word) To offer to do. Bailey.

OS'SELET (s. from the French) A little bone, a little hard substance arising on the inside of a horse's knee.

OS'SEOUS (adj. from the Lat. osseus) Boney, resembling a bone; having a stony fruit.

Os'sicle (s. from ossiculum) A small bone.

OSSIC'ULUM (s. from the Lat.) A small bone; the stone of fruit.

Ossif'ic (adj. from ossify) Having the power of making bones, changing to a bony substance.

Ossifica'tion (s. from ossify) The change of any carneous, or cartilaginous, into a bony substance.

Ossified (p. from ossify) Turned into bone.

OS'SIFRAGE (s. in ornithology) A kind of eagle so called because it breaks the bones of animals to come at the marrow.

OSSIF'RAGOUS (adj. from the Lat. os a bone, and frango to break) Breaking the bones.

OSSIFRAN'GENT (adj. from the Lat. os a bone, and frango to break) Breaking the bones.

OS'SIFY (v. t. from the Lat. os a bone, and facio to make) To change to bone.

Os'sified (p. from ossify) Turned into bone. Sharp.

Os'sifying (p. a. from ossify) Turning into bone; changing to bone.

OSSIV'OROUS (adj. from the Lat. os a bone, and voro to devour) Devouring bones.

OS'SORY (s.) The west division of Queen's county in Ireland.

OS'SUARY (s. from the Lat. ossuarium) A charnel house, the place where the bones of the dead are kept. Jo.

OST (s. perhaps from ustus burnt) A kiln or vessel for drying malt or hops. Johnson.

OSTA'GA (s. in surgery) The ostagra. Phillips.

OSTAG'RA (s. from the Greek osteon a bone, and arx a capture) A kind of forceps with which surgeons draw out small pieces of bones.

OSTEN'SIBLE (adj. from the Lat. ostendo to shew) Held forth to view, apparent.

OSTEN'SIVE (adj. from the Lat. ostendo to shew) Shewing, betokening.

OSTE'NT (s. from the Lat. ostendo to shew) An appearance, a manner, a shew, a token; a prodigy. Dr.

Ostenta'tion (s. from ostent) Outward shew, appearance, a vain shew, an ambitious display; a spectacle: but this sense is not in use. Shakespeare.

Ostenta'tious (adj. from ostent) Boastful, fond of shew, vain, ambitious of being observed.

Ostenta'tiously (adv. from ostentatious) Vainly, boastfully, with ostentation.

Ostenta'tiousness (s. from ostentatious) Vanity, boastfulness.

Ostenta'tious (adj. from ostent) Ostentatious. Cole.

Ostentative (adj. from ostent) Apt to boast, ostentatious. Phillips.

Ostenta'tor (s. from ostent) An ostentatious person, a boaster.

OSTENTA'TOUR (s. from the French ostentateur) An ostentator, an ostentatious person.

OSTENTIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. ostentum a prodigy, and fero to bring) Producing omens, bringing prodigies.

OTH

Osten'tional (s. from ostent) A soldier attending a prize at public shews.

OSTEOCOL'LA (s. in natural history) A kind of spar.

OS'TEOCOPE (s. from the Greek osteon a bone, and scopos to cut) The aking of the bones. Johnson.

OSTEOCO'POS (s. a different spelling) The osteocope. Dict. of Arts.

Osteo'logist (s. from osteology) An anatomist, one skilled in osteology.

OSTEO'LOGY (s. from the Greek osteon a bone, and logos a description) A description of the bones, the science of the bones in a human body.

OS'TEON (s. in anatomy) A bone. Phillips.

OSTEOPTERU'GIUS (s. in ichthyology, from the Greek osteon a bone, and pteron a fin) Having bones in the fins.

OS'TIARY (s. from the Lat. ostium a door) The opening at which the river disembogues itself; a door-keeper.

OS'TIGO (s. in farriery) A kind of scab which affects the mouth and lips incident to lambs and kids.

OSTINE'Æ (s. in anatomy) The entrance into the cavity of the matrix.

OST'LER (s. from the French hostelier) The man who takes care of horses at an inn.

Os'lery (s. from ostler) The place or apartment belonging to the ostler.

OSTRA'CIAS (s. in natural history) A kind of precious stone resembling an oyster shell.

OSTRA'CION (s. in ichthyology) A genus of fishes.

OSTRACISM (s. from the Greek ostracismus) A manner of passing sentence in which the note of acquittal or condemnation was marked on a shell and thrown into a box or vessel; public censure; punishment.

OSTRACITES (s. in natural history) The petrified oyster.

OSTRACITIS (s. from the Greek) A kind of crust the sticks to the sides of furnaces where bras are melted.

OSTRACODER'MATA (s. in natural history) Any kind of testaceous shell.

Ostra'tion (s. not used) The state of abounding with shells.

OSTREA (s. in ichthyology) The oyster.

Os'trenger, Os'tringere (s. an old word) An eastern falconer.

OS'TRICH (s. in ornithology) The name of a very large bird.

Os'tridge (s. not a common spelling) The ostrich. Ph.

OSTRI'FEROUS (adj. from the Lat. ostrea an oyster, and fero to bear) Producing oysters, bearing oysters.

Os'tringer (s. a different spelling) A falconer who keeps gothawks. Johnson.

OST'ROGOTHS (s. in geography) The eastern Goths.

OSTRUM (s. in ichthyology) The fish from which the purple or scarlet dye was procured; the dye or colour procured from the fish.

OSTRU'TIUM (s. in botany) The pellitory of Spain.

OS'TRYA (s. in botany) The carpinus, the hornbeam.

O'strye (s. obsolete) A lodging. Claudian.

OS'WESTRY (s.) A town in Shropshire; it has a market on Wednesday, and is 171 miles from London.

Os'westry (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Oswestry.

OS'WALD, OS'WOLD (s. from the Sax.) A man's name.

OS'WY (s. from the Sax.) A man's name.

OSY'RIS (s. in beaten mythology) The first of the three principal Divinities worshipped by the Egyptians. Holman.

OSY'RIS (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the toothwort.

OTACOUS'TIC (adj. from the Greek otis ears, and akous to hear) Belonging to the sense of hearing.

Ota'coustic (s. from the adj.) A medicine to improve hearing, an instrument to facilitate hearing.

Ota'coustica (s. plu. of otacoustic) Instruments to aid the sense of hearing.

Ota'cousticon (s. from otacoustic) An instrument to aid the hearing.

OTAL'GIA (s. from the Greek otis ears, and algos pain) A pain in the ear, the earach.

OTENCHY'TA, OTENCHY'TES (s. from the Greek, the ear, en in, and xow to pour) A form of medicine to be injected into the ear, a syringe to inject medicines into the ear.

OTH'ER (pron. from the Sax.) Different, diverse, contrary, next.

Oth'er (s. from the pron.) Another person, another thing; a different person, a different thing. Oth.

OVE

Oth'er (conj. obsolete) Or. Chaucer.
 Oth'ergate (adv. obsolete) Otherwise. Chaucer.
 Oth'ergates (adv. from other, and gate) Otherwise, in another manner. Shakespeare.
 Oth'ergues (adj. a corruption of otherwise, and not used by correct writers) Being of a different kind.
 Oth'erguise (adj. from other, and guise) Being of another kind.
 Oth'erwhere (adv. from other, and where) In another place.
 Oth'erwhile (adv. from other, and while) At other times.
 Oth'erwise (adv. from other, and wise) In a different manner, by other causes, in other respects.
 Oth'erwised (adj. obsolete) Fallen out in a manner different from what was expected. Chaucer.
 Oth'ir (conj. obsolete) Or, otherwise. Chaucer.
 OTH'NI (s. from the Heb. signifying my time) A man's name.
 OTHNI'EL (s. from the Heb. signifying the time of God) A man's name.
 OTH'O (s.) A man's name, a coin of the emperor Otho.
 Oth'oman (adj. a correct but not so common a spelling) Othoman, belonging to the Turks. Dict. of Arts.
 OTHOMAN'NUS (s.) A man's name, the first emperor of Turkey of the present reigning family.
 O'THON (s. in beaten mythology) The first of the three principal divinities worshipped by the native Americans.
 OTHON'NA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 O'TICA (s. from the Greek) Medicines for the ear.
 O'TIS (s. in ornithology) The bustard, a distinct genus of birds having three claws on each foot all turned forward.
 OT'LEY (s.) A town in Yorkshire; it has a market on Tuesday, and is 207 miles from London.
 Otley (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Otley, made at Otley.
 O'TOORACKS (s. in Turkey, signifying to set down) The superannuated Janizaries. Phillips.
 O'TRAQUE (s.) A kind of drink made of a nut in the East Indies.
 OTTADI'NI (s. in ancient geography) The people who inhabited that part of England which is now called Northumberland.
 OTTA'VA (s. from the Italian) An octave, an interval of eight sounds. Bailey.
 OT'TER (s. in zoology) An amphibious animal that preys on fish.
 Otterhunting (s. from otter, and hunt) The diversion of hunting the otter.
 Otterpike (s. in ichthyology) A species of trachinus, the weaver.
 OT'TERY (s.) A town in Devonshire; it has a market on Tuesday, and is 160 miles from London.
 Ot'tery (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Ottery, made at Ottery.
 OT'TO (s. not so common a spelling) Otho, a man's name.
 OT'TOMAN (adj. from Othomannus, the first emperor of Turkey of the present family) Belonging to the Turkish empire, belonging to the present reigning family in Turkey.
 Ot'toman (s. from the adj.) A native of Turkey, the Grand Seigneur.
 O'VA (s. from the Lat. ovum) An egg; an ovary.
 O'VAL (adj. from the Lat. ovum an egg) Oblong, resembling the longitudinal section of an egg, elliptical.
 O'val (s. from the adj.) An elliptical figure, an ellipsis; a plain figure representing the longitudinal section of an egg.
 O'vally (adv. from oval) In the manner of an oval.
 Ova'rious (adj. from ova) Consisting of eggs.
 O'vary (s. from ova) That part in which impregnation is performed; that part of a flower which becomes the fruit.
 O'vated (adj. from the Lat. ovum an egg) Made in the form of an egg, oval.
 OVA'TION (s. from the Lat. ovatio) The lesser kind of triumph.
 OU'BAT (s. in the history of insects) A kind of caterpillar.
 Ou'bust, Ou'but (s. different spellings) The oubat.
 OUCH (s. probably from the French ouchet to cut) An ornament of jewels on gold. Bacon.
 Ouch (s.) The blow given by the tusk of a boar. Ain.
 Ouche (s.) A kind of collar of gold. Chaucer.
 Ovelty (a law term) A kind of equality of service in subordinate tenures.
 O'VEN (s. from the Sax. ofen) An arched cavity in which any thing is baked.

OVE

O'ver (prep. from the Sax. ofre) Above, upon, across, through; before; "Over night, the night before."
 O'ver (adv. from the prep.) Above the top, from side to side, from one to another, throughout, on the surface, with repetition, in a great degree, in too great a quantity. Over and above, besides, beyond what was at first supposed. Over against, opposite.
 O'ver (adj. from the adv.) Gone, past, abated; "The beat of passion being over."
 O'ver (adj. obsolete) Upper, uppermost. Chaucer.
 O'verabound (v. int. from over, and abound) To abound more than enough.
 O'verabounding (p. a. from overabound) Abounding more than enough.
 O'veract (v. t. from over, and act) To act more than enough.
 O'veracted (p. from overact) Acted more than enough.
 O'veracting (p. a. from overact) Acting more than enough.
 O'veranxious (adj. from over, and anxious) Overcareful, too anxious.
 O'veranxiously (adv. from overanxious) With too great anxiety.
 O'verarch (v. t. from over, and arch) To cover as with an arch.
 O'verarched (p. from overarch) Covered as with an arch.
 O'verarching (p. a. from overarch) Covering as with an arch.
 O'verawe (v. t. from over, and awe) To keep in awe by a superior influence.
 O'veraxed (p. from overawe) Kept in awe by superior influence.
 O'verawing (p. a. from overawe) Keeping in awe by superior influence.
 O'verbalance (v. t. from over, and balance) To outweigh, to bear down.
 O'verbalance (s. from the verb) That which outweighs, that which is more than equivalent.
 O'verbalanced (p. from overbalance) Born down.
 O'verbalancing (p. a. from overbalance) Outweighing, bearing down.
 O'verbalancing (s. from the part.) An overbalance, that which has a power to outweigh. King Charles.
 O'verbattle (adj. from over, and battle) Exuberant, too rich. Hooker.
 O'verbear (v. t. from over, and bear) To repress, to subdue, to keep under.
 O'verbearing (p. a. from overbear) Bearing down, using undue influence, domineering.
 O'verbid (v. t. from over, and bid) To bid too much, to offer more than an equivalent.
 O'verbid (v. t. pret. from the pres.) Did overbid, did offer more than equivalent.
 O'verblow (v. int. from over, and blow) To blow over, to pass away.
 O'verblown (p. from overblow) Blown over, passed away.
 O'verboard (adv. from over, and board) Off the ship, out of the ship.
 O'verboil (v. t. from over, and boil) To boil too much.
 O'verboiled (p. from overboil) Boiled too much.
 O'verboiling (p. a. from overboil) Boiling too much.
 O'verbold (adj. from over, and bold) Too bold, impudent.
 O'verboldly (adv. from overbold) With too much boldness, with impudence.
 O'verborn, O'verborne (p. from overbear) Born down, kept down by superior influence.
 O'verbought (p. from overbuy) Bought at too dear a rate.
 O'verbulk (v. t. from over, and bulk) To oppress by bulk. Shakespeare.
 O'verburden (v. t. from over, and burden) To load with too much weight.
 O'verburdened (p. from overburden) Loaded with too much weight; with with; as, "He was overburdened with his armour."
 O'verburdening (p. a. from overburden) Loading with too much weight.
 O'verburn (v. t. from over, and burn) To burn too much.
 O'verburned (p. from over, and burn) Burned too much.
 O'verburning (p. a. from overburn) Burning too much.
 O'verburthen (v. t. from over, and burthen) To overburden. Sidney.
 O'verburthened (p. from overburthen) Overburdened. Sidney.
 O'verbusy (adj. from over, and busy) Too busy, officious.

OVE

O'verbuy (v. t. from over, and buy) To buy too dear.
 O'vercame (p. from overcome) Subdued, vanquished.
 O'vercare (s. from over, and care) Sollicitude, too great care.
 O'vercareful (adj. from over, and careful) Too careful.
 O'vercarried (p. from overcarry) Hurried too far. Hay.
 O'vercarry (v. t. from over, and carry) To hurry too far.
 O'vercast (v. t. from over, and cast) To cloud, to darken, to cover with gloom; to cover, to turn over with a kind of needlework; to rate too high in computation, to make the sum more than it is.
 O'vercast (p. from the verb.) Clouded, darkened, covered, turned over with a kind of needlework, rated too high, made more than it is.
 O'vercasting (p. a. from overcast) Covering, covering with a kind of needlework, computing at too high a rate.
 O'vercasting (s. from the part.) A kind of needlework.
 O'vercastiott (s. with shipwrights) A scale or measure to determine the different curvatures of the timbers.
 O'vercautious (adj. from over, and cautious) Too cautious.
 O'vercharge (v. t. from over, and charge) To oppress, to cloy, to harden, to fill too full, to rate too high, to load with too great a charge.
 O'vercharged (p. from overcharge) Oppressed, cloyed, rated too high, loaded with too great a charge.
 O'vercharging (p. a. from overcharge) Oppressing, cloying, rating too high, filling too full.
 O'vercloud (v. t. from over, and cloud) To cover with clouds.
 O'verclouded (p. from overcloud) Covered with clouds.
 O'verclouding (p. a. from overcloud) Covering with clouds.
 O'vercloy (v. t. from over, and cloy) To fill beyond satiety.
 O'vercloyed (p. from overcloy) Filled beyond satiety.
 O'vercloying (p. a. from overcloy) Filling beyond satiety.
 O'vercold (adj. from over, and cold) Too cold, rather too cold.
 O'vercome (v. t. from over, and come) To subdue, to vanquish, to conquer; to overflow, to come upon; but these last senses are now grown obsolete.
 O'vercome (v. int.) To gain the superiority.
 O'vercome (p. from the verb) Subdued, vanquished.
 O'Overcomer (s. from overcome) One who overcomes.
 O'Overcoming (p. a. from overcome) Subduing, vanquishing.
 O'Overcommen (v. t. obsolete) To overcome. Spenser.
 O'Overcommen (p. from the verb obsolete) Overcome, subdued. Spenser.
 O'Overconfidence (s. from over, and confidence) Too great confidence, presumption.
 O'Overconfident (adj. from over, and confident) Too confident, presumptuous.
 O'Overconfidently (adv. from overconfident) With too great confidence, presumptuously.
 O'Overcover (v. t. from over, and cover) To cover completely.
 O'Overcovered (p. from overcover) Covered all over; with with; as, "Overcovered quite with dead men's bones."
 O'Overcovering (p. a. from overcover) Covering all over.
 O'Overcount (v. t. from over, and count) To rate above the real value.
 O'Overcounted (p. from overcount) Rated above the true value.
 O'Overcounting (p. a. from overcount) Rating above the true value.
 O'Overcrow (v. t. obsolete) To overcrow. Spenser.
 O'Overcredulous (adj. from over, and credulous) Too credulous, too apt to believe.
 O'Overcrow (v. t. from over, and crow) To crow over as in triumph. Spenser.
 O'Overcyned (adj. old law term) Convicted of a crime. B.
 O'Overdid (v. t. pret. of overdo) Did over do.
 O'Overdigestion (s. from over, and digestion) The state of having the digestive faculties too powerful. Floy.
 O'Overdiligent (adj. from over, and diligent) Rather too diligent.
 O'Overdiligently (adv. from overdiligent) With too great diligence.
 O'Overdo (v. t. from over, and do) To do more than enough, to do too much.
 O'Overdoing (p. a. from overdo) Doing more than enough.
 O'Overdone (p. from overdo) Done more than enough, done too much.

OVE

O'verdofe (v. t. from over, and dose) To load with too large a dose.
 O'verdofe (s. from the verb) A dose larger than it ought to be.
 O'verdosed (p. from overdose) Loaded with too large a dose.
 O'verdosing (p. a. from overdose) Administering too large a portion.
 O'verdrefs (v. t. from over, and drefs) To drefs lavishly, to adorn lavishly.
 O'verdressed (p. from overdrefs) Dressed too much, adorned lavishly.
 O'verdressing (p. a. from overdrefs) Dressing too much, adorning lavishly.
 O'Overdrive (v. t. from over, and drive) To drive too fast, to drive too hard.
 O'Overdriven (p. from overdrive) Driven too hard.
 O'Overdriving (p. a. from overdrive) Driving too fast.
 O'Overdue (adj. from over, and due) Past the time of being due.
 O'Overeat (v. int. from over, and eat) To eat too much.
 O'Overeat (v. t. used with the reciprocal pronoun) To disorder by eating too much. "He overeats himself."
 O'Overeating (p. a. from overeat) Eating to excess.
 O'Overempty (v. t. from over, and empty) To make too empty. Chaucer.
 O'Overest (adj. obsolete) Uppermost. Cole.
 O'Overeye (v. t. from over, and eye) To oversee, to superintend.
 O'Overeyed (p. from overeye) Observed, overlooked.
 O'Overeying (p. a. from overeye) Observing, superintending.
 O'Overfal (s. from over, and fall) A fall of water, a cataract.
 O'Overfatigue (v. t. from over, and fatigue) To fatigue too much, to weary too much.
 O'Overfatigued (p. from overfatigue) Wearied too much.
 O'Overfatiguing (p. a. from overfatigue) Fatiguing too much.
 O'Overfed (p. from overfeed) Fed more than enough.
 O'Overfeed (v. t. from over, and feed) To feed more than enough. Dryden.
 O'Overfeeding (p. a. from overfeed) Feeding too much.
 O'Overfermentation (s. from over, and fermentation) A fermentation executed to too great a degree. Wise man.
 O'Overfill (v. t. from over, and fill) To fill more than enough.
 O'Overfilled (p. from overfill) Filled more than enough.
 O'Overfilling (p. a. from overfill) Filling more than enough.
 O'Overfloat (v. int. from over, and float) To swim, to float; with with; as, "Overfloats with a red deluge." Dryden.
 O'Overflourish (v. t. from over, and flourish) To flourish more than enough, to set off with too great advantage. Collier.
 O'Overflow (v. t. from over, and flow) To deluge, to drown, to overflow.
 O'Overflow (s. from the verb) An inundation, an exuberance.
 O'Overflowed (p. from overflow) Deluged, drowned, overpowered.
 O'Overflowing (p. a. from overflow) Deluging, drowning, overpowering.
 O'Overflowing (s. from the part.) An exuberance, a copiousness.
 O'Overflowingly (adv. from overflowing, but now grown obsolete) Exuberantly, in abundance. Egyle.
 O'Overflown (p. from overflow) Overflowed, deluged.
 O'Overfly (v. t. from over, and fly) To cross by flight. Dr.
 O'Overfond (adj. from over, and fond) Too fond.
 O'Overfondness (s. from overfond) Too great fondness.
 O'Overforward (adj. from over, and forward) Too forward, officious.
 O'Overforwardness (s. from overforward) Too great readiness, too great quickness.
 O'Overfraught (p. from overfreight) Loaded too heavily, overfreighted.
 O'Overfraught (v. t. pret. from overfreight) Did overfreight, overfreighted.
 O'Overfree (adj. from over, and free) Too free, too generous, too familiar.
 O'Overfreight (v. t. from over, and freight) To load too heavily, to load too deep.
 O'Overfreighted (p. from overfreight) Loaded too heavily, loaded too deep.
 O'Overfreighting (p. a. from overfreight) Loading too heavily.
 O'Overfret (adj. an old word) Overspread. Cole.
 O'Overget

OVE

O'verget (v. t. from over, and get) To overtake, to reach, to come up with.
O'vergetting (p. a. from overget) Overtaking, coming up with.
O'verglance (v. t. from over, and glance) To look hastily over. Shakespeare.
O'vergo (v. t. from over, and go) To surpass, to excel.
O'vergoing (p. a. from overgo) Surpassing, excelling.
O'vergorge (v. t. from over, and gorge) To gorge too much; to give too much.
O'vergorged (p. from overgorge) overcharged, gorged too much.
O'vergorging (p. a. from overgorge) Gorging too much, giving too much.
O'vergot (v. t. pret. of overget) Did overget.
O'vergotten (p. from overget) Overtaken.
O'vergraft (adj. from over, and graft) Grown over with grafts. Shakespeare.
O'vergreat (adj. from over, and great) Too great.
O'vergreedy (adj. from over, and greedy) Too greedy, too close.
O'vergrow (v. t. from over, and grow) To cover with growth, to rise above.
O'vergrowing (p. a. from overgrow) Covering with growth, rising above.
O'vergrown (p. from overgrow) Covered with growth, overtopped; large, bulky; rich, opulent.
O'vergrowth (s. from over, and growth) An exuberant growth.
O'verhale (v. t. from over, and hale) To spread over, to reexamine. Spenser.
O'verhale (v. t. a sea term) To loosen a rope when it is drawn too tight.
O'verhaled (p. from overhale) Spread over, reexamined; loosened.
O'verhaling (p. a. from overhale) Spreading over, reexamining, loosening the tackle of a ship.
O'verhang (v. t. from over, and hang) To jut over, to hang over.
O'verhang (v. int.) To project, to jut out.
O'verhang (p. a. from overhang) Jutting out, projecting, hanging over.
O'verhard (adj. from over, and hard) Rather too hard, harder than it ought to be.
O'verhard (v. t. from over, and hard) To make too hard.
O'verhardened (p. from overharden) Made too hard.
O'verhardening (p. a. from overharden) Making too hard.
O'verhafty (adj. from over, and hafty) Rather too hafty, precipitate.
O'verhaul (v. t. a sea term) To unfold or loosen an assemblage of tackle.
O'verhailed (p. from overhaul) Unfolded, loosened as an assemblage of tackle.
O'verhauling (p. a. from overhaul) Unfolding, loosening an assemblage of tackle.
O'verhauling (s. from the part.) The act of opening or extending the parts of a tackle.
O'verhead (adv. from over, and head) Aloft, above, in the ceiling, in the zenith, in the heavens.
O'verhear (v. t. from over, and hear) To hear what is not designed to be heard.
O'verheard (p. from overhear) Heard by those who were not expected to hear.
O'verhearing (p. a. from overhear) Hearing what was not intended to be heard.
O'verheat (v. t. from over, and heat) To heat too much.
O'verheated (p. from overhear) Heated too much.
O'verheating (p. a. from overhear) Heating too much.
O'verhend (v. t. from over, and hend) To overtake, to reach. Spenser.
O'verhent (p. from overhend) Overtaken. Spenser.
O'verhent (v. t. pret. of overhend) Overtook, did overtake. Spenser.
O'verhernefs (s. an old word) Disobedience, contumacy. Bailey.
O'verhipped (v. t. pret. obsolete) Did leap over.
O'verhipped (p. from the verb, obsolete) Overleapt. Co.
O'verhung (v. t. pret. from overhang) Did overhang.
O'verhung (p. from overhang) Hung in such a manner as to project over something else.
O'verjoy (v. t. from over, and joy) To fill with joy, to ravish with joy.
O'verjoy (s. from the verb) A transport of joy, an ecstasy.
O'verjoyed (p. from overjoy) Filled with a transport of joy.

OVE

O'verjoying (p. a. from overjoy) Filling with joy.
O'verjst (adj. obsolete) Uppermost. Chaucer.
O'verkerveth (v. t. obsolete) Cutteth, divideth. Chau.
O'verlabour (v. t. from over, and labour) To perform with too much labour.
O'verlaboured (p. from overlabour) Performed with too much labour, overdone with labour. Dryden.
O'verlade (v. t. from over, and lade) To overburden.
O'verladen (p. from overlade) Burdened, overburdened.
O'verlading (p. a. from overlade) Overburdening.
O'verlaid (p. from overlay) Oppressed with too much weight, covered with something superficially, joined by something laid over, smothered, smothered by too much covering.
O'verlarge (adj. from over, and large) Rather too large, larger than enough.
O'verlash (v. int. from over, and lash) To strike the hinder feet against the fore feet as a horse in going.
O'verlash (p. a. from overlash) Striking the hinder feet against the fore feet as a horse in going.
O'verlashingly (adv. from over, and lash, but not used) Extravagantly. Brerewood.
O'verlay' (v. t. from over, and lay) To cover superficially, to smother, smothered as a child by being laid on in the night.
O'verlaying (p. a. from overlay) Covering superficially, smothering, oppressing by too much weight.
O'verlaying (s. from the part.) A superficial covering, that which is laid on by way of superficial covering.
O'verleap (v. t. from over, and leap) To pass by a leap.
O'verleap'ing (p. a. from overleap) passing by a leap.
O'verleath'er (s. from over, and leather) The upper-leather. Shakespeare.
O'verlei'de (p. obsolete) Imposed upon, overpowered. Ch.
O'verlei'n (p. obsolete) Covered, laid over. Chaucer.
O'verleppe (s. obsolete) The upper lip. Chaucer.
O'verlept (v. t. pret. of overleap) Did overleap.
O'verlept (p. from overleap) Passed by a leap.
O'verligh't (s. from over, and light) Too strong a light. Bacon.
O'verlive (v. t. from over, and live) To survive, to outlive.
O'verlive (v. int.) To live too long.
O'verlived (p. from overlive) Outlived, survived.
O'verliver (s. from overlive) A survivor, one who outlives another.
O'verliving (p. a. from overlive) Surviving, outliving.
O'verload (v. t. from over, and load) To burden with too great a weight, to put on too much.
O'verload'ed (p. from overload) Burdened with too much weight.
O'verload'ing (p. a. from overload) Burdening by too much weight, putting on too much.
O'verlong (adj. from over, and long) Too long.
O'verlook'k (v. t. from over, and look) To view from a higher place; to peruse, to reexamine; to superintend, to oversee; to pass by negligently, to neglect, to slight.
O'verlook'ed (p. from overlook) Viewed from a higher place, superintended, neglected.
O'verlook'er (s. from overlook) One who overlooks.
O'verlook'ing (p. a. from overlook) Viewing from a higher station, superintending, neglecting.
O'verloop (s. a sea term) The orlop.
O'verlo'w (adj. from over, and low) Too low. Chaucer.
O'verly (adv. obsolete) Utterly. Bailey.
O'verma'f'd (adj. from over, and maft) Having too much maft.
O'verma'f'er (v. t. from over, and mafter) To subdue, to govern.
O'verma'f'ered (p. from overmafter) Subdued, governed; with with; as, "Overmastered with a score of drunkards."
O'verma'f'ering (p. a. from overmafter) Subduing, governing.
O'verma'f'ch (v. t. from over, and match) To conquer, to master by superior force.
O'verma'tch (s. from the verb) One of superior power, one that is more than a match.
O'vermatch'ed (p. from overmatch) Conquered, oppressed by superior force.
O'vermatch'ing (p. a. from over, and match) Conquering, oppressing by superior force.
O'vermea'sure (s. from over, and measure) Something given over the due measure.
O'vermix (v. t. from over, and mix) To mix with too much.
O'vermix'ed (p. from overmix) Mixed with too much. Overmix'ing

OVE

Overmix'ing (p. a. from overmix) Mixing with too much.

Overmix't (p. from overmix) Mixed with too much, overmixed; with with; as, "Little pleasure over-mix't with zooe."

O'vermost (adj. from over, and most) Highest, having authority over the rest. Ainsworth.

Overmuch (adj. from over, and much) More than enough.

vermuch'ness (s. from overmuch) Superabundance, exuberance.

Overna'me (v. t. from over, and name) To name in a series, to call over by name.

Overnam'ed (p. from overname) Called over in a series, called over by name.

Overna'ming (p. a. from overname) Calling over by name.

Overnig'ht (s. from over, and night) The time of the past night before going to bed.

Overnig'ht (adv. from over, and night) On the evening before, at night before bed time.

Overoff'ice (v. int. from over, and office) To act a lordly part by virtue of an office. Shakespeare.

Overoff'icious (adj. from over, and officious) Too officious.

Overpai'd (p. from overpay) Paid more than due.

Overpa's (v. t. from over, and pass) To cross, to pass with disregard, to omit.

Overpas'sed (p. from overpass) Crossed, passed with disregard, omitted.

Overpas'sing (p. a. from overpass) Crossing, passing with disregard, omitting.

Overpa'st (p. from overpass) Overpassed. Hooker.

Overpa'y (v. t. from over, and pay) To pay beyond demand, to pay more than is due.

Overpay'ing (p. a. from overpay) Paying more than due.

Overper'ch (v. t. from over, and perch) To fly over. Sh.

Overpeer'r (v. t. from over, and peer, but now grown obsolete) To overlook, to hover above. Shakespeare.

Overpeer'ing (p. a. from overpeer) Overlooking. Shak.

O'verplus (s. from over, and plus) The surplus, what remains more than sufficient.

Overply' (v. t. from over, and ply) To ply too closely.

Overply'ed (p. from overply) Plyed too closely.

Overply'ing (p. a. from overply) Plying too closely.

Overpois'e (v. t. from over, and poise) To outweigh.

Overpois'ed (p. from overpoise) Outweighed.

Overpois'ing (p. a. from overpoise) Outweighing.

Overpow'er (v. t. from over, and power) To oppress by superiority, to bear down by superior power.

Overpow'ered (p. from overpower) Born down by superior power.

Overpow'ering (p. a. from overpower) Bearing down by superior power.

Overpres's (v. t. from over, and press) To overwhelm, to crush by superior weight.

Overpres'sed (p. from overpress) Pressed down by superior weight, overwhelmed.

Overpres'sing (p. a. from overpress) Pressing down with superior force, overwhelming.

Overpri'ze (v. t. from over, and prize) To prize too highly.

Overpri'zed (p. from overprize) Prized at too high a rate.

Overpri'zing (p. a. from overprize) Valuing at too high a rate.

Overra'ke (v. t. a sea term) To break in as waves on a ship from head to stern. Bailey.

Overra'n (v. t. pret. of overrun) Did overrun.

O'verrank (adj. from over, and rank) Too rank.

Overra'te (v. t. from over, and rate) To rate too highly.

Overra'ted (p. from overrate) Rated too high.

Overra'ting (p. a. from overrate) Rating too high.

Overrea'ch (v. t. from over, and reach) To deceive, to go beyond; to rise above.

Overrea'ch (v. int.) To bring the hinder feet too far forward as a horse in going so as to strike against the fore feet.

Overreach'ed (p. from overreach) Deceived, circumvented.

Overreach'er (s. from overreach) One that overreaches.

Overreach'ing (p. a. from overreach) Deceiving, circumventing.

Overrea'd (v. t. from over, and read) To peruse, to read over. Shakespeare.

Overrec'kon (v. t. from over, and reckon) To reckon too much.

Overrec'koned (p. from overreckon) Reckoned too much.

Overrec'koning (p. a. from overreckon) Reckoning too much.

OVE

Overred (v. t. from over, and red) To smear with something red. Shakespeare.

Overri'de (v. t. from over, and ride) To overdo with riding.

Overri'ding (p. a. from override) Riding too much, riding a horse beyond its strength.

Overri'ding (s. from the part.) The act of riding a horse beyond its strength. Dict. of Arts.

O'verrigid (adj. from over, and rigid) Too rigid.

O'verripe (adj. from over, and ripe) Too ripe.

O'verripen (v. t. from over, and ripen) To make too ripe.

Overri'pened (p. from overripen) Made too ripe.

O'verripening (p. a. from overripen) Making too ripe, getting too ripe.

O'verroast (v. t. from over, and roast) To roast too much.

O'verroasted (p. from overroast) Roasted too much.

O'verroasting (p. a. from overroast) Roasting too much.

Overro'de (v. t. pret. of override) Did override.

Overro'de (p. from override) Overdone with riding.

Overru'le (v. t. from over, and rule) To govern with high authority, to influence with superior power, to supercede.

Overru'led (p. from overrule) Governed with high authority, influenced by a superior power, superseded.

Overru'ling (p. a. from overrule) Governing with high authority, influencing with superior power, superseding.

Overru'n (v. t. from over, and run) To overspread, to cover all over, to ravage, to run over in a hostile manner, to outrun; to injure by treading down; to change the disposition of the lines and words in printing by reason of insertions.

Overru'n (v. int.) To overflow, to be more than full.

Overru'n (p. from the verb) Covered all over, spoiled by hostile incursions, injured by being trod down; changed in the disposition of the lines and words in printing.

Overrun'ning (p. a. from overrun) Spreading all over, outrunning, ravaging, injuring by treading down, changing the disposition of the lines and words in printing.

Overfames'fa (s. an old law term) A fine imposed on those who refused to follow a thief or murderer.

Overfee' (v. t. from over, and fee) To overlook, to superintend; to omit, to pass by without taking notice.

Overfee'ing (p. a. from oversee) Overlooking, superintending, omitting, passing by without taking notice.

Overfee'n (p. from oversee) Deceived, mistaken.

Overfee'r (s. from oversee) One who superintends, an officer who has the care of the parochial provision for the poor, an officer who superintends the repairs of roads in a parish.

Overfet (v. t. from over, and set) To turn the bottom upwards, to throw out of regularity.

Overfet (v. int.) To turn the bottom upwards, to fall off the basis.

Overfet (v. t. pret. from the foregoing) Did overfet.

Overfet (p. from the verb) Turned bottom upwards, fallen off the basis.

Overfet'ting (p. a. from overfet) Turning the bottom upwards, falling off the basis.

Overfet'ting (s. from the part.) The act of turning the bottom upwards.

Oversha'de (v. t. from over, and shade) To cover with a shade, to cover with darkness.

Oversha'ded (p. from overshade) Covered with the shade of any thing.

Oversha'ding (p. a. from overshade) Covering with any thing that causes darkness.

Oversha'dow (v. t. from over, and shadow) To throw shadow over any thing, to shelter, to protect.

Oversha'dowed (p. from overshadow) Covered with a shadow, protected, sheltered.

Oversha'dowing (p. a. from overshadow) Covering with a shadow, sheltering, protecting.

Overshoo't (v. t. from over, and shoot) To shoot beyond the mark; to venture too far, to assert too much.

Overshoo'ting (p. a. from overshoot) Shooting beyond the mark, venturing too far.

Oversho't (v. t. pret. of overshoot) Did overshoot.

O'versight (s. from over, and sight) A superintendence, an inspection; a mistake, an error.

Overf'ize (v. t. from over, and fize) To surpass in size, to plaster over with fize.

Overf'ized (p. from overfize) Smeared over as with fize.

OVE

size; with with; as, "He thus o'erfized with coa"gulated gore." Shakespeare.
overfizing (p. a. from overfize) Excelling in bulk, smearing over as with fize.
overski'p (v. t. from over, and skip) To pass by leaping, to pass over, to escape.
overskip'ping (p. a. from overskip) Passing by leaps, passing over, escaping.
overslee'p (v. t. from over, and sleep) To indulge too much in sleep.
overslee'ping (p. a. from oversleep) Indulging too much in sleep.
oversle'pt (v. t. pret. of oversleep) Did oversleep.
oversli'p (v. t. from over, and slip) To pass over, to neglect.
overslip'ped (p. from overslip) Passed over, neglected.
overslip'ping (p. a. from overslip) Passing over, neglecting.
oversno'w (v. t. from over, and snow) To cover with snow, to make white as with snow.
oversnow'ed (p. from oversnow) Covered with snow, made white as with snow.
oversnow'ing (p. a. from oversnow) Covering with snow, making white as with snow.
overfo'ld (p. from overfell) Sold at too high a price.
overfo'o'n (adv. from over, and soon) Too soon.
overspe'nd (v. t. from over, and spend, but not used)
To weary, to harass: Johnson.
overspe'nt (p. from overspend) Wearied, harassed.
oversprea'd (v. t. from over, and spread) To cover over, to spread over.
oversprea'd (v. t. pret. of the foregoing) Did over-spread.
oversprea'd (p. from the verb) Covered over, overrun.
oversprea'd'ing (p. a. from overspread) Covering over,
spreading over.
oversta'nd (v. t. from over, and stand) To stand too long, to stand too much upon conditions.
oversta're (v. t. from over, and stare) To stare wildly.
oversta'ring (p. a. from overstare) Staring too much, staring wildly.
oversto'ck (v. t. from over, and stock) To crowd, to fill too full.
overstock'ed (p. from overstock) Crowded, filled too full;
with with; as, "We should have been overstocked
"with medals of this nature."
overstock'ing (p. a. from overstock) Crowding, filling too full.
oversto're (v. t. from over, and store) To store with too much.
oversto're'd (p. from overstore) Stored with too much;
with with; as, "Overstrored with f/b." oversto'ring (p. a. from overstore) Storing with too much.
overstrai'n (v. t. from over, and strain) To strain too much.
overstrai'n (v. int.) To make too violent efforts.
overstrained (p. from overstrain) Strained too tight.
overstrain'ing (p. a. from overstrain) Straining too much, making too violent efforts.
oversway' (v. t. from over, and sway) To overrule, to bear down.
oversway'ed (p. from oversway) Overruled, born down.
oversway'ing (p. a. from oversway) Overruling, bearing down.
overwe'll (v. t. from over, and swell) To rise above.
overwell'ed (p. from overswell) Overtopped, overflowed.
overwell'ing (p. a. from overswell) Rising above, overflowing.
overwit'cht (adj. a local word) Void of chastity, made a whore of. Bailey.
O'VeRT (adj. from the French ouvert) Open, public, apparent.
O'vert (s. from the adj.) An open place on the top of a house. Cole.
Overta'ke (v. t. from over, and take) To come up to,
to catch any thing by pursuit, to take by surprise.
Overta'ken (p. from overtake) Caught by pursuit, come up to, taken by surprise.
Overta'king (p. a. from overtake) Catching by pursuit, coming up to, taking by surprise.
Overta'sk (v. t. from over, and task) To burden with too much duty, to impose too much labour.
Overtask'ed (p. from overtask) Burdened with too much duty, overdone with labour.
Overtask'ing (p. a. from overtask) Burdening with too much duty, imposing too much labour.

OVE

Overta'x (v. t. from over, and tax) To tax too heavy.
Overtax'ed (p. from overtax) Overdone with taxes.
Overtax'ing (p. a. from overtax) Taxing too heavy.
Overthink'eth (v. t. obsolete) Grieveth. Chaucer.
Overthre'w (v. t. pret. of overthrow) Did overthrow.
Overthrow' (v. t. from over, and throw) To turn upside down, to throw down; to defeat, to conquer, to ruin, to destroy.
O'verthrow (s. from the verb) The state of being turned upside down; a degradation; a defeat, a ruin, a destruction.
Overthrow'er (s. from overthrow) One that overthrows.
Overthrow'in (adj. obsolete) Headlong, precipitate. Cb.
Overthrow'ing (p. a. from overthrow) Turning upside down, defeating, destroying.
Overthrow'ing (adj. obsolete) Headlong, precipitate. Cb.
Overthro'wn (p. from overthrow) Turned upside down, defeated, destroyed.
Overthwa'rt (adj. from over, and thwart) Opposite, contrary, adverse, crossing or perpendicular. Dryden.
Overthwart'ly (adv. from overthwart) Across, adversely, untowardly, perversely. Peacocks.
Overthwart'ness (s. from overthwart) Perverseness. Job.
Overti'meliche (adj. obsolete) Unseasonable. Chaucer.
Overtook' (v. t. pret. of overtake) Did overtake.
Overtop (v. t. from over, and top) To rise above; to exert, to surpass, to obscure, to make less important.
Overtop'ped (p. from overtop) Overgrown, excelled, rendered less important.
Overtop'ping (p. a. from overtop) Rising above, excelling, rendering less important.
Overtop't (v. t. pret. of overtop) Did overtop, overtopped.
Overtop't (p. from overtop) Overtopped. Swift.
Overtrip'p (v. t. from over, and trip) To trip over, to walk lightly over.
Overtrip'ped (p. from overtrip) Tripped over, walked lightly over.
Overtrip'ping (p. a. from overtrip) Tripping over, walking lightly over.
O'VeRTURE (s. from the French) A proposal, something offered to consideration; a disclosure, an opening; a flourish before the scenes are opened in a play.
Overtu'rn (v. t. from over, and turn) To throw down, to subvert, to ruin, to overthrow, to conquer.
Overturn'ed (p. from overturn) Thrown down, subverted, conquered.
Overturn'er (s. from overturn) One that overturns.
Overturn'ing (p. a. from overturn) Throwing down, subverting, conquering.
Overva'lue (v. t. from over, and value) To rate at too high a price.
Overval'ued (p. from overvalue) Valued at too high a rate.
Overval'uing (p. a. from overvalue) Valuing at too high a rate.
Overvei'l (v. t. from over, and veil) To cover, to cover
as with a veil.
Overveil'ed (p. from overveil) Covered, covered as with a veil.
Overveil'ing (p. a. from overveil) Covering, covering
as with a veil.
Overvo'te (v. t. from over, and vote) To conquer by a majority of votes.
Overvo'ted (p. from overvote) Conquered by a majority of votes.
Overvo'ting (p. a. from overvote) Conquering by a majority of votes.
Overwa'tch (v. t. from over, and watch) To subdue with long want of rest.
Overwatch'ed (p. from overwatch) Tired with too much watching. Sidney.
Overwatch'ing (p. a. from overwatch) Subduing with long want of rest, watching too much.
Overwea'k (adj. from over, and weak) Too weak.
Overwea'ried (p. from overweary) Subdued with fatigue.
Overwea'ry (v. t. from over, and weary) To subdue with fatigue.
Overwea'rying (p. a. from overweary) Subduing with fatigue.
Overweath'er (v. t. from over, and weather) To batter with violence of weather.
Overweath'erd (p. from overweather) Battered by violence of weather.
Overweath'ering (p. a. from overweather) Battering
with violence of weather.
Overwee'n (v. int. from over, and ween) To think too fondly, to think too highly.
Overween'ing

Overween'ing (p. a. from overween) Thinking too fondly, thinking too highly.
Overween'ing (s. from the part.) The act of thinking too fondly.
Overween'ingly (adv. from overweening) With too high an opinion, with arrogance.
Overweigh (v. t. from over, and weigh) To outweigh.
Overweigh'ed (p. from over, and weigh) Outweighed, preponderated.
Overweigh'ing (p. a. from overweigh) Outweighing.
Overweight (s. from overweigh) A preponderance.
Overwent (adj. obsolete) Overwhelmed. Spenser.
Overwhel'm (v. t. from over, and overwhelm) To crush beneath something violent and weighty.
Overwhelm'ed (p. from overwhelm) Crushed beneath something violent and weighty, subdued with distress; with with; as, "I am overwhelmed with grief."
Overwhelm'ing (p. a. from overwhelm) Crushing beneath something violent and weighty.
Overwhelm'ingly (adv. from overwhelming) In such a manner as to overwhelm. Hooker.
Overwise (adv. from over, and wise) Too wise, wise to affectation.
Overwrou'ght (p. from over, and wrought) Too much laboured, worked all over; with with; as, "Overwrought with ornaments of barbarous pride."
Overwo'rn (p. from over, and worn) Worn out, subdued by toil, spoiled by time.
Overyear'ed (adj. from over, and year) Too old, too far advanced in years. Fairfax.
Overzeal'ous (adj. from over, and zealous) Too zealous.
Oughe (interj. obsolete) Oh. Chaucer.
Ought (v. t. pret. of owe) Did owe.
OUGHT (v. int. a sign of the potential mode) To be obliged to, to be bound in duty.
OUGHT (s. from the Sax. awhit, and more properly written) Aught, any thing.
O'VIACY (s. from the Lat. ovis a sheep, but not much used) A flock of sheep. Cole.
O'VIAL (s. from the Lat. ovis a sheep, but not much used) A sheepfold. Cole.
OVIC'ULA (s. from the Lat.) A little sheep.
OVIC'ULUM (s. in ancient architecture) A little ovum or egg.
OVIDUC'TUS (s. in anatomy, from the Lat. ovum an egg, and ductus a passage) The Fallopian tube.
OVIE'DA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
OVIFOR'M (adj. from the Lat. ovum an egg, and forma a form) Having the shape of an egg.
OVIL'IA (s. in Roman antiquity) The place where the people gave their suffrages for the choice of magistrates.
OVIPAROUS (adj. from the Lat. ovum an egg, and pario to bring forth) Bringing forth eggs, propagating by eggs.
O'vir (adj. obsolete) Upper, uppermost. Chaucer.
O'vircome (adj. obsolete) Come to pass. Chaucer.
O'virgo (v. t. obsolete) To pass over, to pass away; to overcome, to conquer, to cover over. Chaucer.
O'virgone (p. from ovirgo, obsolete) Passed over, covered over, conquered.
O'virlede (v. t. obsolete) To overload, to oppress. Chaucer.
O'virlive (v. t. obsolete) To outlive. Chaucer.
O'virpradde (p. obsolete) Overspread. Chaucer.
O'virprat (p. obsolete) Overspread. Chaucer.
O'virthwart (adj. obsolete) Laid across. Chaucer.
OVIS (s. in zoology, from the Lat.) The sheep.
OVIS'UGA (s. in the history of insects) The name of a fly which sucks eggs.
O'VIUM (s. not much used) A kind of pain in the head settled in one place about the bigness of an egg. Phil.
OUL'NEY (s.) A town in Buckinghamshire; it has a market on Monday, and is 58 miles from London.
Oul'ney (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Oulney, made at Oulney.
OUNCE (s. from the Lat. uncia) The sixteenth part of a pound in avoirdupois weight, the twelfth part of a pound in troy weight.
Ounce (s. in zoology) The lynx.
Ound'ing (adj. obsolete) Waving. Chaucer.
OUNDLE (s.) A town in Northamptonshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 76 miles from London.
Oun'dle (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Oundle, made at Oundle.
Oun'dy (adj. an old word) Streaked. Bailey.
OVI'OLO (s. in architecture) A kind of moulding so called, because when carved, it resembles a string of eggs.

Ouphe (s. from the Sax. awff) A fairy, a sprite.
Ouph'en (adj. from ouphe) Elfish, like an elfe or fairy.
Our (pron. from the Sax. ure) Pertaining to us, belonging to us.
Ourage (s. an old word) Work. Cole.
Ouranog'raphist (s. from ouranography) An astronomer, one who describes the heavens.
OURANOG'RAPHY (s. from the Greek $\alpha\upsilon\alpha\omicron\varsigma$ heaven, and $\gamma\alpha\phi\omega$ to describe) A description of the heavens.
Our'lop (s. in old customs) A fine paid to the lord of the manor by a tenant whose daughter had been debauched.
OUROLOG'Y (s. from the Greek $\alpha\upsilon\omicron\varsigma$ urine, and $\lambda\omicron\gamma\omicron\varsigma$ a description) A description or treatise on urine.
Ours (pron. used when placed without its substantive) Belonging to us. "The prize is ours."
Our'self (p. from our, and self, used in the royal style) Belonging to myself, myself. "Given by ourself."
Our'selves (pron. plus of ourself) We, us.
Ouse (s. the derivation is not noted) Tanner's bark.
OUSE (s. in geography) The name of a river in Yorkshire, the name of a river which takes its rise on the confines of Oxfordshire, and running by Buckingham, Bedford, Huntington and Ely, discharges itself into the German ocean.
OU'SEL (s. from the Sax. osle) The blackbird.
Ou'sen (s. plu. a local word) Oxen.
Oust (s.) The frame on which malt or hops are dried.
OUST (v. t. from the French ouster) To vacate, to take away.
Oust'ed (p. from oust) Put out of possession. Bacon.
OUSTER (s. a law term) A writ for the recovery of possession, a kind of plea for a man who is out of the kingdom.
OUT (adv. from the Sax. at) From within, from the place, at a distance from home, in a state of disclosure, in a state of extinction, in an exhausted state, beside the point, to the last, to the end, in an error, at a loss, in other hands than those of the owners, loudly, without restraint. "Out of," not in, from. "Out of band," immediately.
Out (v. t. from the adv.) To expel, to deprive.
Out (v. int. imp. mode) Be gone, leave the house.
Out (interj.) Expressive of abhorrence. "Out upon it, I have loved."
Out (s. from the adv.) The outside, that which is without. "The out of Indian figures stain." Prior.
OUTACAUSTICON (s. from the Greek $\alpha\upsilon\alpha\omicron\varsigma$ an ear, and $\alpha\upsilon\sigma\tau\omicron\varsigma$ to hear) An instrument to help the hearing.
Outa't (v. t. from out, and act) To do beyond, to excel another. Orator.
Outbalance (v. t. from out, and balance) To outweigh.
Outbal'anced (p. from outbalance) Outweighed.
Outbal'ancing (p. a. from outbalance) Outweighing.
Outba'r (v. t. from out, and bar) To shut out with fortifications.
Outba'r'ed (p. from outbar) Shut out as with fortifications.
Outba'r'ing (p. a. from outbar) Shutting out as with fortifications.
Outbi'd (v. t. from out, and bid) To outdo in bidding.
Outbi'd (v. t. pret. of the foregoing) Did outdo in bidding.
Outbi'd (p. from the verb.) Outdone in bidding.
Outbi'd'en (p. from outbid) Outdone in bidding.
Outbi'd'er (s. from outbid) One that outbids.
Outbi'd'ing (p. a. from outbid) Bidding a higher price than another.
Outblow'ed (adj. from out, and blow) Swollen with wind, inflated.
Out'born (adj. from out, and born) Foreign, born out of the land.
Out'borow (s. in old customs) The observation of those that passed out of England into Scotland.
Out'bound (adj. from out, and bound) Bound on a distant voyage.
Outbra've (v. t. from out, and brave) To bear down by more daring or splendid appearances.
Outbra'ved (p. from outbrave) Borne down by more daring or splendid appearances.
Outbra'ving (p. a. from outbrave) Bearing down by more daring or splendid appearances.
Outbra'zen (v. t. from out, and brazen) To bear down with superior impudence.
Outbra'zened (p. from outbrazen) Excelled in impudence.
Outbra'zening (p. a. from outbrazen) Exceeding in impudence.

Out'break

OUT

ut/break (s. from out, and break) That which breaks out, an eruption. Shakespeare.
 ut/brea/the (v. t. from out, and breathe) To weary by having little breath; to expire.
 ut/breath'ed (p. from outbreathe) Wearing by being put out of breath; expired, breathed out.
 ut/breath'ing (p. a. from outbreathe) Putting out of breath, expiring.
 ut/cast (s. from out, and cast) The refuse, that which is cast out; an exile, one expelled.
 ut/cast (adj. from out, and cast) Rejected, cast out.
 ut/craft (v. t. from out, and craft) To excel in cunning.
 ut/craft'ed (p. from outcraft) Excelled in cunning.
 ut/craft'ing (p. a. from outcraft) Excelling in craft.
 ut/cry (s. from out, and cry) A clamour, a cry of distress, a cry of detestation; a public sale, an auction. Ainsworth.
 ut/dare (v. t. from out, and dare) To venture beyond.
 ut/dare'd (p. from outdare) Exceeded in daring appearances.
 ut/dare'ing (p. a. from outdare) Going beyond in daring appearances.
 ut/date (v. t. from out, and date) To put out of date, to antiquate.
 ut/date'd (p. from outdate) Antiquated.
 ut/date'ing (p. a. from outdate) Antiquating.
 ut/do' (v. t. from out, and do) To excel, to surpass, to do beyond another.
 ut/do'ing (p. a. from outdo) Excelling, surpassing, doing beyond others.
 ut/do'ing (s. from the part.) The act of doing beyond others, that which is done beyond others.
 ut/dwell (v. t. from out, and dwell) To stay beyond its proper time. Shakespeare.
 ut/dwell'ing (p. a. from outdwell) Continuing beyond a proper time.
 ut/dwell'it (v. t. pret. of outdwell) Did outdwell.
 ut/dwell'it (p. from outdwell) Exceeded by the continuance of another.
 ut'ed (p. from out) Put out.
 ut'er (adj. from out) Remote, situate without.
 ut'erly (adv. from outer) Towards the outside.
 ut'ermost (adj. from outer, and most) Most remote from the middle, out farther than the rest.
 ut/face (v. t. from out, and face) To brave, to bear down with impudence, to bear down with flaring.
 ut/faced (p. from outface) Dared, born down by superior insolence.
 ut/fac'ing (p. a. from outface) Braving, bearing down with impudence.
 ut/fall (s. from out, and fall) A canal or ditch to carry off water. Scott.
 ut/fangthef (s. in old customs) The right or claim of the lord of a fee to try a felon in his own court.
 ut/faw'n (v. t. from out, and fawn) To excel in fawning.
 ut/faw'ned (p. from outfawn) Excelled in fawning.
 ut/faw'ning (p. a. from outfawn) Excelling in the act of fawning.
 ut/fit (s. from out, and fit) The act of fitting out a ship, the expence of fitting out a ship.
 ut/flew' (v. t. pret. of outfly) Did outfly.
 ut/fly' (v. t. from out, and fly) To leave behind in flight.
 ut/fly'ing (p. a. from outfly) Leaving behind in flight.
 ut/or'm (s. from out, and form) An external appearance.
 ut'forthe (adv. obsolete) Outwardly. Chaucer.
 ut/frown' (v. t. from out, and frown) To frown down, to overbear by frowns.
 ut/frown'ed (p. from outfrown) Born down by frowns, overborn by frowns.
 ut/frown'ing (p. a. from outfrown) Bearing down by frowns.
 ut/gate (s. from out, and gate, but now grown obsolete) An outlet, a passage outward, a place for escape. Dryden.
 ut/gave (v. t. pret. of outgive) Did outgive.
 ut/give (v. t. from out, and give) To surpass in giving.
 ut/giv'ing (p. a. from outgive) Surpassing in gifts.
 ut/go' (v. t. from out, and go) To go beyond, to leave behind in going; to surpass, to excel; to circumvent, to overreach.
 ut/go'ing (p. a. from outgo) Going beyond, excelling, overreaching.
 ut/go'ing (s. from the part.) The act of going out, the state of going forth.

OUT

Outgo'ne (p. from outgo) Left behind in going, excelled, overreached.
 Outgrow' (v. t. from out, and grow) To surpass in growth.
 Outgrow'ing (p. a. from outgrow) Surpassing in growth.
 Outgrow'n (p. from outgrow) Surpassed in growth.
 Out/guard (s. from out, and guard) The guard posted at a distance from the main body.
 Out/horn (s. from out, and horn) The act of summoning subjects to arms by the sound of the horn. Bailey.
 Out/host (s. from out, and host) The act of summoning subjects to arms.
 Out/house (s. from out, and house) A building somewhat detached from the dwelling-house; a kind of hovel.
 Out/jest (v. t. from out, and jest) To overpower by jesting.
 Out/jest'ed (p. from outjest) Outdone in jesting.
 Out/jest'ing (p. a. from outjest) Overpowering with jests.
 Out/in (adv. obsolete) Out. Chaucer.
 Out'ing (p. a. from out) Putting out, circumventing.
 Outkna've (v. t. from out, and knave) To outdo in knavery.
 Outkna'ved (p. from outkna've) Outdone in knavery.
 Outkna've'ing (p. a. from outkna've) Outdoing in knavery.
 Out/land (s. from out, and land) Land let out to tenants.
 Outland'ish (adj. from out, and land) Foreign, brought from another country.
 Outlast (v. t. from out, and last) To surpass in duration.
 Outlast'ing (p. a. from outlast) Surpassing in duration.
 Out/law (s. from out, and law) One excluded from the benefit of the law; a plunderer, a robber.
 Out/law (v. t. from out, and law) To deprive of the benefit of the law.
 Out/lawed (p. from outlaw) Deprived of the benefit of the law; with by, respecting the instrument, and from respecting the thing; as, "Outlawed by himself." "Outlawed from my blood."
 Out/law'ing (p. a. from outlaw) Depriving of the benefit of the laws.
 Out/lawry (s. from outlaw) The act or process by which a person is deprived of the benefit of the laws; the state of being declared an outlaw.
 Outleap (v. t. from out, and leap) To pass by leaping, to start beyond.
 Outleap (s. from the verb) A sally, a flight, an escape.
 Outleap'ed (p. from outleap) Passed by leaping, left behind in leaping.
 Outleap'ing (p. a. from outleap) Passing by a leap, starting beyond.
 Outleap'pt (v. t. pret. of outleap) Did outleap.
 Outleap'pt (p. from outleap) Outleaped.
 Outleap'rn (v. t. from out, and learn) To learn faster, to learn more than another.
 Outlearn'ed (p. from outlearn) Exceeded in learning, left behind in learning.
 Outlearn'ing (p. a. from outlearn) Learning faster, learning more than another.
 Outlearn'nt (v. t. pret. of outlearn) Did outlearn.
 Outlearn'nt (p. from outlearn) Outlearned.
 Out/let (s. from out, and let) A passage outwards, an egress; the yard, garden, or other little inclosures belonging to a house.
 Out/licker (s. a sea term) A small piece of timber fastened to the top of the poop.
 Out/line (s. from out, and line) The line by which any figure is defined, an extremity; the contour.
 Outliv'e (v. t. from out, and live) To survive, to live beyond.
 Outliv'ed (p. from outlive) Survived.
 Outliv'er (s. from outlive) A survivor.
 Outliv'ing (p. a. from outlive) Surviving, living beyond.
 Outlook'k (v. t. from out, and look) To face down, to browbeat.
 Outlook'ed (p. from outlook) Browbeaten, faced down.
 Outlook'ing (p. a. from outlook) Facing down, browbeating.
 Outlust're (v. t. from out, and lustre) To excel in brightness.
 Outlust're'd (p. from outlustre) Excelled in lustre.
 Outlust're'ing (p. a. from outlustre) Excelling in brightness.
 Out/lying (adj. from out, and lying) Lying out of the common order, removed from something else.
 Outmarch (v. t. from out, and march) To leave behind in marching.
 Outmarch'ed

OUT

Outmarch'ed (p. from outmarch) Left behind on a march.
Outmarch'ing (p. a. from outmarch) Leaving behind on a march.
Outmea'sure (v. t. from out, and measure) To exceed in measure.
Outmea'sured (p. from outmeasure) Exceeded in measure.
Outmea'suring (p. a. from outmeasure) Exceeding in measure.
Out'moft (adj. from out, and most) Remotest from the middle.
Outnum'ber (v. t. from out, and number) To exceed in number.
Outnum'bered (p. from outnumber) Exceeded in number.
Outnum'bering (p. a. from outnumber) Exceeding in number.
Outpa'ce (v. t. from out, and pace) To outgo, to leave behind in going.
Outpa'ced (p. from outpace) Left behind in going.
Outpa'cing (p. a. from outpace) Leaving behind.
Out'panthers (s. in Scotland) A kind of free-booters. Bai.
Out'parish (s. from out, and parish) A parish lying without the walls; that division of a parish which lies remote from the town.
Out'part (s. from out, and part) A part remote from the centre.
Out'parters (s. in Scotland) A kind of free-booters. Phil.
Outpa'ss (v. t. from out, and pass) To go beyond, to excel.
Outpas'sed (p. from outpass) Excelled, surpassed.
Outpas'sing (p. a. from outpass) Going beyond, surpassing.
Out'port (s. from out, and port) A port at some distance from the city of London.
Outpou'r (v. t. from out, and pour) To emit, to send forth in a stream.
Outpour'ed (p. from outpour) Poured out.
Outpour'ing (p. a. from outpour) Pouring out.
Out'prize (v. t. from out, and prize) To prize beyond the real value.
Outpri'zed (p. from outprize) Prized beyond the true value.
Outpri'zing (p. a. from outprize) Prizing beyond the real value.
Out'rage (s. from out, and rage) An open violence, a tumultuous assault; a commotion.
Out'rage (v. t. from out, and rage) To treat with violence, to treat with outrageous insult.
Out'rage (v. int.) To commit violence, to behave outrageously.
Out'raged (p. from outrage) Treated with outrage.
Outra'geous (adj. not so common a spelling) Outragious. B.
Out'raging (p. a. from outrage) Committing outrage.
Outra'gious (adj. from outrage) Violent, furious, excessive, enormous, atrocious.
Outra'giously (adv. from outrageous) With outrage.
Outra'gioufness (s. from outrageous) The state or quality of being outrageous.
Outrai'e (v. int. an old word) To run, to depart, to grow outrageous. Chaucer.
Outra'n (v. t. pret. of outrun) Did outrun.
Out'rance (s. an old word) Destruction, extremity.
Outray'en (v. int. obsolete) To grow outrageous. Chau.
Outrea'ch (v. t. from out, and reach) To go beyond, to exceed. Brown.
Outreach'ed (p. from outreach) Exceeded.
Outreach'ing (p. a. from outreach) Going beyond, exceeding.
Outre'de (v. t. obsolete) To give better advice. Chaucer.
Outre'n (v. t. obsolete) To outrun. Chaucer.
Outrid'den (p. from outride) Passed in riding, left behind in riding.
Outri'de (v. t. from out, and ride) To pass by riding, to leave behind in riding.
Out'ride (s. from the verb) A tradesman who rides for orders.
Outri'der (s. from outride) One of the bailiffs who is employed to summon the people to the county court; a tradesman who travels for orders.
Outri'ding (p. a. from outride) Leaving behind in riding, riding faster than another.
Out'riger (s. a sea term) A strong piece of timber fixed on the side of a ship to secure the mast in the act of careening; a small boom occasionally used on the tops.
Outri'ght (adv. from out, and right) Immediately, without delay; completely.
Outri'se (v. t. from out, and rise) To rise earlier than another. Scott.

OUT

Outri'sing (p. a. from outrise) Rising earlier than another.
Out'road (s. from out, and road) An incursion. Apoc.
Outroa'r (v. t. from out, and roar) To exceed in roaring.
Outroar'ed (p. from outroar) Exceeded in roaring.
Outroar'ing (p. a. from outroar) Exceeding another in roaring.
Outro'de (v. t. pret. of outride) Did outride.
Outroo't (v. t. from out, and root) To pluck up by the roots.
Outroo'ted (p. from outroot) Plucked up by the roots.
Outroo'ting (p. a. from outroot) Plucking up by the roots.
Outru'n (v. t. from out, and run) To leave behind in running, to run faster than another, to exceed.
Outru'n (p. from the verb) Outdone in running.
Outrun'ning (p. a. from outrun) Running faster than another, exceeding.
Outfail'l (v. t. from out, and fail) To fail faster, to leave behind in failing.
Outfail'ed (p. from outfail) Left behind in failing.
Outfail'ing (p. a. from outfail) Sailing faster than another.
Outfa't (v. t. pret. of outfit) Did outfit.
Outfa't (p. from outfit) Exceeded in fitting.
Outfo'rn (v. t. from out, and scorn) To bear down by contempt, to despise. Shakespeare.
Outfo'rn'ed (p. from outfo'rn) Borne down by contempt.
Outfo'rn'ing (p. a. from outfo'rn) Bearing down by contempt.
Outfel'l (v. t. from out, and sell) To sell at a higher rate than another, to gain a higher price.
Outfel'ling (p. a. from outfel) Selling at a higher price.
Outshi'ne (v. t. from out, and shine) To excel in lustre, to emit superior brightness.
Outshi'ned (p. from outshine) Excelled in brightness.
Outshi'ning (p. a. from outshine) Excelling in lustre.
Outsho'ne (v. t. pret. of outshine) Did outshine.
Outsho'ne (p. from outshine) Outshined.
Outsho'ot (v. t. from out, and shoot) To exceed in shooting, to shoot beyond.
Outsho'ot'ing (p. a. from outshoot) Shooting beyond.
Outsho't (v. t. pret. of outshoot) Did outshoot.
Out'side (s. from out, and side) The surface, the external part, the outer side; the superficial appearance of the outward man; the utmost; but this sense is reckoned a barbarous use of the word. Mortimer.
Out'side (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the superficies, consisting in shew.
Outfi't (v. t. from out, and fit) To fit beyond the time.
Outfi't'ing (p. a. from outfit) Sitting beyond the time.
Outlee'p (v. t. from out, and sleep) To sleep beyond.
Outsleep'ing (p. a. from outsleep) Sleeping beyond.
Outslee'pt (v. t. pret. of outsleep) Did outsleep.
Outslee'pt (p. from outsleep) Excelled in sleeping.
Outpa'ke (v. t. pret. of outpeak) Did outpeak.
Outpea'k (v. t. from out, and speak) To speak beyond, to exceed in speaking. Shakespeare.
Outpeaking (p. a. from outpeak) Speaking beyond.
Outpo'rt (v. t. from out, and sport) To sport beyond.
Outpo'rt'ed (p. from outpo'rt) Excelled in sporting.
Outpo'rt'ing (p. a. from outpo'rt) Sporting beyond.
Outsprea'd (v. t. from out, and spread) To extend, to diffuse.
Outsprea'd (v. t. pret. from the foregoing) Did outspread.
Outsprea'd (p. from the verb) Extended, diffused.
Outspread'ing (p. a. from outspread) Extending, diffusing.
Outstan'd (v. t. from out, and stand) To stand beyond, to stand out.
Outstan'd'ing (p. a. from outstand) Standing beyond, standing out as not yet got in.
Outsta're (v. t. from out, and stare) To face down, to browbeat.
Outsta're'd (p. from outstare) Faced down, browbeaten.
Outsta'ring (p. a. from outstare) Facing down, browbeating.
Outsto'o'd (v. t. pret. of outstand) Did outstand.
Outstood (p. from outstand) Excelled in standing, survived.
Outstau'ght (p. from outstretch, but now grown obsolete) Outstretched. Chaucer.
Out'street (s. from out, and street) A street in the extremities of a town.
Outstre'tch (v. t. from out, and stretch) To extend, to spread out.
Outstretch'ed (p. from outstretch) Stretched out. Outstretch'ed

OUT

OX

Outfretch'ing (p. a. from outfretch) Extending, stretching out.
 Outfretcht (p. from outfretch) Outfretched. Scott.
 Outfrip'p (v. t. from out, and strip) To outgo, to leave behind.
 Outfrip'ed (p. from outfrip) Left behind, outrun. Dr.
 Outfrip'ped (p. from outfrip, the analogical spelling) Left behind, excelled in running.
 Outfrip'ping (p. a. from outfrip) Leaving behind, outrunning.
 Outfrip't (v. t. pret. of outfrip) Did outfrip.
 Outfrip't (p. from outfrip) Outfrippied.
 Outfwear' (v. t. from out, and swear) To overpower by swearing.
 Outfwear'ing (p. a. from outfwear) Overpowering by oaths.
 Outweet'en (v. t. from out, and sweeten) To excel in sweetness.
 Outweet'ened (p. from outfweeten) Excelled in sweetness.
 Outsweet'ening (p. a. from outfweeten) Excelling in sweetness.
 Outwo're (v. t. pret. of outfwear) Did outfwear.
 Outwo'rn (p. from outfwear) Outdone in swearing.
 Outtake (v. t. from out, and take) To take out, to except. Chaucer.
 Outtalk (v. t. from out, and talk) To outdo in talking, to overpower with talking.
 Outtalk'ed (p. from outtalk) Overpowered in talking.
 Outtalk'ing (p. a. from outtalk) Exceeding in talk, overpowering with talk.
 Outtong'ue (v. t. from out, and tongue) To bear down by noise.
 Outtong'ued (p. from outtongue) Born down by noise.
 Outtong'uing (p. a. from outtongue) Bearing down by the noise of the tongue.
 Outval'ue (v. t. from out, and value) To transcend in value.
 Outval'ued (p. from outvalue) Transcended in value.
 Outval'uing (p. a. from outvalue) Exceeding in value.
 Outven'om (v. t. from out, and venom) To exceed in poison.
 Outven'omed (p. from outvenom) Exceeded in venom.
 Outven'oming (p. a. from outvenom) Exceeding in poison.
 Outvie' (v. t. from out, and vie) To exceed, to surpass.
 Outvie'd (p. from outvie) Exceeded, surpassed.
 Outvill'ain (v. t. from out, and villain) To exceed in villainy.
 Outvill'ained (p. from outvillain) Exceeded in villainy.
 Outvill'aining (p. a. from outvillain) Exceeding in villainy.
 Outvoic'e (v. t. from out, and voice) To out roar, to exceed in clamour.
 Outvoic'ed (p. from outvoice) Exceeded in clamour.
 Outvoic'ing (p. a. from outvoice) Exceeding in clamour.
 Outvote (v. t. from out, and vote) To conquer by a majority of votes.
 Outvoted (p. from outvote) Conquered by a majority of votes.
 Outvot'ing (p. a. from outvote) Conquering by a majority of votes.
 Outvy'ing (p. a. from outvie) Exceeding, surpassing.
 Outwaigoyng (adj. obsolete) Wandering, straying. Ch.
 Outwaile (s. an old word) A very sorrowful thing; an outcast, the refuse. Chaucer.
 Outwalk (v. t. from out, and walk) To leave behind in walking.
 Outwalk'ed (p. from outwalk) Left behind in walking.
 Outwalk'ing (p. a. from outwalk) Walking faster, leaving behind in walking.
 Out'wall (s. from out, and wall) The outward wall of a building, a superficial appearance. Shakespeare.
 OUTWARD (adj. from the Sax. outward) External, extrinsic, foreign, adventitious; tending to the external parts; carnal, corporeal.
 Out'ward (adv. from the adj.) To foreign parts, to the outer parts.
 Out'ward (s. from the adj.) The outside, the external form.
 Out'wardly (adv. from outward) Externally, in appearance.
 Out'wards (adj. from outward) Towards the out parts.
 Outwatch (v. t. from out, and watch) To watch beyond, to exceed in watching.
 Outwatch'ed (p. from outwatch) Exceeded in watching.
 Outwatch'ing (p. a. from outwatch) Watching beyond.
 Outwear' (v. t. from out, and wear) To wear longer, to pass tediously.

Outwear'ing (p. a. from outwear) Wearing longer, passing tediously.
 Outwee'd (v. t. from out, and weed) To pluck up as a weed. Spenser.
 Outweed'ing (p. a. from outweed) Plucking up as a weed.
 Outwei'gh (v. t. from out, and weigh) To exceed in weight, to preponderate, to excel in value or influence.
 Outweigh'ed (p. from outweigh) Exceeded in weight, exceeded in value or influence.
 Outweigh'ing (p. a. from outweigh) Exceeding in weight, preponderating.
 Outwell (v. t. from out, and well) To pour out as a well. Spenser.
 Outwell'ing (p. a. from outwell) Pouring out as a well.
 Outwit (v. t. from out, and wit) To cheat, to overcome by stratagem.
 Outwit'ted (p. from outwit) Cheated, conquered by stratagem.
 Outwit'ting (p. a. from outwit) Cheating, overcoming by stratagem.
 Out'work (s. from out, and work) That part of a fortification which is next the enemy.
 Outwor'n (p. from outwear) Consumed, destroyed by use.
 Outwor'th (v. t. from out, and worth) To exceed in value. Shakespeare.
 Outwrest (v. t. from out, and wrest) To extort, to procure by violence.
 Outwres'ted (p. from outwrest) Extorted, procured by violence.
 Outwres'ting (p. a. from outwrest) Extorting, procuring by violence.
 Outwrou'ght (adj. from out, and wrought) Outdone, exceeded in efficacy.
 Outwra'ngen (adj. obsolete) Wrung out, squeezed out. Chaucer.
 Out'vulture (s. a different spelling) An overture. Dict. of A.
 O'VUM (s. from the Lat.) An egg, any thing resembling an egg.
 Ooze (s. a different spelling) Ooze.
 Ouzel (s. a different spelling) The ouzel, the blackbird.
 Ouzy (adj. a different spelling) Oozy, moist, wet. Scott.
 O'wande (adj. obsolete) Owning. Chaucer.
 O'wches (s. a different spelling) Ouches, ornaments of gold.
 OWE (v. t. supposed to be from the Islandic, aa) To be indebted to, to be under an obligation, to pay to; to possess, to own; but this sense is now grown obsolete. Shakespeare.
 Ow'ed (p. from owe) Due, become payable.
 Ow'elty (s. a different spelling) Ovelty, an equality of services in feudal tenures.
 OW'EN (s.) A man's name.
 Ow'en (p. obsolete, from owe) Owed.
 Ow'her, O'where (adv. obsolete) Any where. Chaucer.
 Ow'in (v. t. obsolete) To own, to possess. Chaucer.
 Ow'ing (p. a. from owe) Being under an obligation to pay, being due; arising as consequential to some cause; with from and to; as, "The debt owing from one country to another cannot be paid without real effects." "This was owing to an indifference to the pleasures of life."
 OWL (s. in ornithology, from the Sax. ule) A well known bird that hoots and seeks his prey in the night.
 Owle (s. an old word) A hook. Cole.
 Owl'er (s. from owl) One who sculks about with contraband goods. Swift.
 Owl'et (s. from owl) An owl, a little owl. Shakespeare.
 OWN (s. from the Sax. ogen) The thing owned, the thing possessed.
 Own (adj. from the sub.) Owned, possessed.
 Own (v. t. from the sub.) To acknowledge, to avow for one's property, to claim, to possess.
 Own'did Own'die (adj. obsolete) Flowing, waving. Ch.
 Own'ed (p. from own) Acknowledged, confessed, claimed, possessed.
 Own'er (s. from own) A rightful possessor, the person that owns any thing.
 Own'ership (s. from owner) Property, rightful possession.
 OWR, OWRE (s. in zoology) A kind of wild bull.
 Owfe (s.) The bark of oak beaten small and used by tanners.
 Ow'fer (s. from owfe) The mixture of bark and water in a tanpit.
 Ow'thir (conj. obsolete) Or, either. Chaucer.
 OX (s. in zoology, from the Sax. oxa) A castrated bull.

OX (s.) A man's name. Apoc.
OXALIS (s. in botany) The sorrel.
OXALME (s. from the Greek) A mixture of brine and vinegar.
Ox'bane (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
Ox'boole (s. a local word) A stall for oxen.
Ox'bow (s. from ox, and bow) The yoke in which oxen are confined to labour.
Ox'cheek (s. from ox, and cheek) One half of an ox's head.
Ox'en (s. plu. of ox) More than one ox.
OX'ENFORD (s. obsolete) Oxford. Chaucer.
Ox'eye (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
Ox'eye (s. in ornithology) The name of a very small bird.
Ox'eye (s. a sea term) A violent storm which arises from a small cloud resembling an ox's eye.
Ox'fild (s. in old records) A restitution by the county for any injury done in it.
Ox'fly (s. in the history of insects) The name of a fly.
Ox'foot (s. in farriery) A clift or parting in the front of a horse's foot.
OX'FORD (s.) A city and university in Oxfordshire situate on the river Isis; it is the see of a bishop, has thirteen elegant parish churches besides the cathedral; twenty colleges, and five public halls, with every other accommodation for the instruction of youth; a plentiful market on Wednesday and Saturday; sends four members to parliament, two for the university and two for the city; and is 55 miles from London.
Ox'ford (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the city of Oxford, made in the city of Oxford, belonging to the university of Oxford, educated in the university of Oxford.
OX'FORDSHIRE (s.) One of the inland counties of England; it is about forty-two miles long, and twenty six broad; the air is sweet and healthy, and the soil fruitful both in corn and pasture; it contains one city and university, and fifteen market towns, and sends nine members to parliament, two for the county, two for the city of Oxford, two for the university, two for Woodstock, and one for Banbury.
Ox'fordshire (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the county of Oxford, produced in the county of Oxford.
Ox'gang (s. in old law books) As much land as was supposed a man could till with one yoke of oxen, twenty acres of land.
Ox'gate (s. an old word) The oxgang. Dict. of Arts.
Ox'goard (s. from ox, and goard) The pointed rod with which oxen are driven in their work.
Ox'heal (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
Ox'house (s. from ox, and house) A house or stall for oxen.
Ox'lip (s. in botany) The name of a flower, a species of cowslip.
OXOLÆ'UM (s. from the Greek οξος vinegar, and ελαιον oil) A mixture of vinegar and oil.
Ox'stall (s. from ox, and stall) The stall or place where oxen are kept.
Ox'ter (s. a local word) The armpit. Bailey.
Ox'tongue (s. in botany) The bugloss.
OXYACANTHA (s. in botany) The hawthorn; the barberrytree.
OXYCE'DROS (s. in botany) A kind of small cedar.
OXYCOC'CUS (s. in botany) A species of vaccinium.
Ox'YCRAT (s. in pharmacy) A mixture of fair water and vinegar. Phillips.
Ox'YCRATE (s. from the Greek οξος sharp, and κρηνη to mix) The oxycrate, a mixture of fair water and vinegar.
OXYCRO'CEUM (s. in surgery) A plaister of saffron, vinegar and other ingredients.
OXYDER'CIA (s. in pharmacy, from the Greek οξος sharp, and δεινω to see) Medicines to help the sight.
OXYGA'LA (s. from the Greek οξος sharp, and γαλα milk) Sour milk.
OXYGA'RUM (s. from the Greek) A kind of sharp pickle.
OXYGON (s. in geometry, from the Greek οξος sharp, and γωνια a corner) A triangle having three acute angles.
Oxygon'ial (adj. from oxygon) Belonging to the oxygon, having three acute angles.
Oxygo'nous (adj. from oxygon) Belonging to an oxygon, having three acute angles.
OXYLAP'ATHON (s. in botany, from the Greek) The sharp pointed dock.
OXYMEL (s. from the Greek οξος sharp, and μελι honey) A mixture of honey and vinegar.

OXYME'RON (s. from the Greek) A figure in rhetoric in which an adjective is used of a quite contrary signification to that of the substantive with which it is joined.
OXYMYR'SINE (s. in botany) The wild myrtle.
OXYNOSE'MA (s. from the Greek οξος sharp, and νοση a disease) An acute disease.
OXYOI'DES (s. in botany) A species of oxalis.
OXYPORAP'OLIST (s. from the Greek, but not used) One who sells meat cured in sharp pickle. Cole.
OXYPO'RIMUM (s. in pharmacy) A medicine causing a quick digestion.
OXYRAG'MIA (s. from the Greek) The rising of an acidity in the stomach.
OXYRIN'IUS (s. in ichthyology) The spitnose, a kind of fish.
OXYR'ODON (s. in medicine) A composition of vinegar, and oil of roses.
OXYR'RHODINE (s. in medicine) The oxyrodon. Floy.
OXYRRHO'DIUM (s. a different spelling) The oxyrodon. Dict. of Arts.
OXSAC'CHARUM (s. in medicine) A composition of vinegar, sugar and the juice of four pomegranates.
OXYTRIPHYL'LON (s. in botany) The trefoil with a pointed leaf.
OY'ER (s. from the old French oyer to bear) A court or place where causes are heard in order to their final determination.
OYE'S (s. from the French, oyez bear ye) The introduction to a proclamation made by a public cryer or herald.
Oy'let (s. a different spelling) An eyelet, a small hole to receive a point. Johnson.
Oy'lethole (s. a different spelling) An eyelethole. Prior.
OY'STER (s. from the Dutch oester) A well known shell fish.
Oy'ster (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to an oyster, used in conveying oysters, dealing in oysters.
Oys'terwench (s. from oyster, and wench) A woman who sells oysters.
Oys'terwoman (s. from oyster, and woman) A woman who sells oysters, a low noisy woman.
OZÆ'NA (s. from the Greek) A foetid kind of ulcer in the nose.
OZE (s. not much used) An offensive smell in the mouth. Bailey.
O'ZEM (s. from the Heb. signifying one that fasteth) A man's name.
OZE'NA (s. a different spelling) The ozæna.
OZ'ENITIS (s. in natural history) A kind of nard.
OZI'AS (s. from the Heb. signifying strength from the Lord) A man's name.
O'zier (s. a different spelling) The ofer, a kind of willow.
OZ'NI (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.
Oz'nite (s. from Ozni) A descendent of Ozni.

P.

P. (s.) The fifteenth letter and eleventh consonant of the English alphabet: as an old numeral it stands for one hundred; and with a dash over it, for one hundred thousand.
PAA'RAI (s. from the Heb. signifying open) A man's name.
Pa's (v. t. obsolete) To pass. Chaucer.
Pa's (s. obsolete) A pace, a step. Chaucer.
Pab'ular (adj. from pabulum) Affording aliment, proper for provender.
Pabula'tion (s. from pabulum) The act of feeding, the act of procuring provender.
PAB'ULATORY (adj. from the Lat. pabulator to feed, but not much used) Affording aliment, belonging to provender. Bailey.
Pab'ulous (adj. from pabulum) Affording aliment, proper for provender.
PAB'ULUM (s. from the Lat.) Aliment, that which affords nourishment, that which feeds.
PA'CAL (adj. from the Lat. pax pacis peace, but not much used) Bringing peace. Bailey.
PACA'LIA (s. in Roman antiquity) The festivals celebrated in honour of the supposed goddesses or patronesses of peace.
Paca're (v. t. in old records) To pay, to appease by payment.
PA'CATED (adj. from the Lat. pacatus) Appeased, pacified. Pacatio

PAD

Pacification (s. from the Lat. paco to appease, but not much used) The act of appeasing. Bailey.
PACE (s. from the French pas) A step, a single movement in walking; a gait, a manner of walking, a gradation, a degree; a measure of five feet; a particular movement to which a horse is sometimes trained.
Pace (v. t. from the sub.) To measure by steps, to teach a proper movement.
Pace (v. int.) To move on slowly, to move with an easy motion.
Pace (v. t. obsolete) To pass, to surpass; to appease. Cb.
Pa'ced (p. from pace) Taught a particular gait, having a particular kind of motion in walking.
Pa'cer (s. from pace) One that paces; a pad.
PACH'AMAC (s.) A famous temple in South America dedicated by the Indians to the Supreme Being.
PACHYN'TICA (s. with physicians) Medicines intended to enrich the blood.
PACIF'EROUS (adj. from the Lat. pax pacis peace, and fero to bring, but not much used) Producing peace. Co.
PACIF'IC (adj. from the Lat. pax pacis peace, and facio to make) Peace making, mild, gentle.
Pacification (s. from pacific) The act of making peace, the act of appeasing.
Pacificator (s. from pacific) A peace maker.
Pacificatory (adj. from pacific) Tending to make peace.
Pacificed (p. from pacify) Appeased, made easy.
Pacificer (s. from pacify) One who pacifies.
Pacificque (adj. an old spelling) Pacific. Cole.
PACIFY (v. t. from the Lat. pax pacis peace, and facio to make) To appease, to make easy.
Pacifying (p. a. from pacify) Appeasing, making easy.
Pa'cing (p. a. from pace) Directing to go, moving slowly.
Pa'cing (s. from the part.) The act of moving slowly and easily.
PACK (s. from the Dutch) A large bundle tied up for carriage; a burden, a load; a due number of cards; a number of people confederated in any base design.
Pack (v. t. from the sub.) To bind up for carriage, to send in a hurry; to sort the cards carefully; to unite persons in a bad design.
Pack (v. int.) To tie up goods, to go off in a hurry, to concert bad measures.
Pack'age (s. from pack) That in which any thing is packed up, a duty or charge for packing; a duty on some sorts of merchandise.
Pack'cloth (s. from pack, and cloth) A cloth in which goods are packed up, a large cloth for wool.
Pack'ed (p. from pack) Bound up for carriage, sent away in a hurry, united in some bad design.
Pack'er (s. from pack) One who binds up bales for carriage.
Pack'et (s. from pack) A small pack, a mail for letters; a small vessel used chiefly for intelligence.
Pack'et (v. t. from the sub.) To bind up in parcels.
Pack'etboat (s. from packet, and boat) An advice boat, a small vessel on a particular station for conveying intelligence.
Pack'eted (p. from packet) Bound up in parcels.
Pack'eting (p. a. from packet) Binding up in parcels.
Pack'horfe (s. from pack, and horfe) A horfe of burden, a horfe employed in carrying goods, a drudge, a slave.
Pack'ing (p. a. from pack) Binding up in packs, sending away in a hurry, moving off in haste, sorting cards unfairly, uniting in some bad design.
Pack'ingwhites (s. in commerce) A sort of cloths.
Pack'saddle (s. from pack, and saddle) A saddle on which packs are carried.
Pack'thread (s. from pack, and thread) Strong thread or small cord used in packing goods.
Pack'wax (s.) The aponeurosis or strong ligature on the sides of the neck in some brutes. Ray.
PA'COS (s. in zoology) A species of camel without any gibbosity.
Pa'quet (s. a different spelling) A packet. Bailey.
PACT (s. from the Lat. pactum) A bargain, a contract, a covenant.
Paction (s. from pact) A bargain, a covenant.
Pactitious (adj. from pact) Settled by covenant.
PAD (s. from the Sax. paad) The road, the foot path; an easy paced horfe; a robber that infests the road on foot, a low kind of soft saddle.
Pad (v. int. from the sub.) To travel slowly, to beat a way smooth and level, to rob on foot.
Pad (v. t.) To beat a way smooth and level, to stuff, to furnish with a pad.
PA'DANA'RAM (s. from the Heb.) The name of a country, Mesopotamia.

PAG

Pa'dar (s.) Coarse flour. Wotton.
PADARTH'ROCAE (s. in surgery) The joint evil, the decay of a bone in the joint.
Pad'der (s. from pad) A footpad, one that robs on foot.
PAD'DLE (s. from the Brit. pattal an oar) A kind of oar, an instrument to put a boat in motion; any thing with a broad end resembling an oar.
Pad'dle (v. int. from the sub.) To row, to beat the water as with an oar; to play in the water, to dabble.
Pad'dler (s. from paddle) One that paddles.
Paddle'staff (s. from paddle, and staff) A staff with a flattened iron at the end.
Pad'dling (p. a. from paddle) Rowing, playing in water, using a paddle.
PAD'DOCK (s. from the Sax. pada) A large frog, a toad.
Pad'dock (s. from parrach) A small inclosure adjoining to a house, a small inclosure for deer.
Pad'dockcourse (s. from paddock, and course) A place in a park paled in on either side for the convenience of training dogs to the chase.
Pad'dockstool (s. from paddock, and stool) A fungus, a mushroom. Ainsworth.
Pad'dowpipe (s. in botany, a different spelling) The pad-dowpipe, the name of an herb. Pbills.
PAD'E'LION (s. in botany) The lion's foot, the name of an herb.
PAD'ESOY (s. in commerce) A kind of silk; a kind of silk stuff.
Pad'lock (s.) A lock fastened with a staple and hasp.
Pad'lock (v. t. from the sub.) To fasten with a lock hung to a staple and hasp.
Pad'locked (p. from padlock) Fastened with a padlock.
Pad'locking (p. a. from padlock) Fastening with a padlock.
Pad'nage (s. an uncommon spelling) Pannage. Cole.
Pad'owpipe (s. in botany) The name of an herb. Ains.
PAD'STOW (s.) A town in Cornwall; it has a market on Saturday, and is 243 miles from London.
Pad'stow (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Padstow, made at Padstow.
PAD'UA (s.) A city in Italy.
PAD'UAN (s.) A province of Italy.
Pad'uan (s. with medals) A modern medal struck in imitation of the antique.
Pad'uantage (s. an old word) The common of pasture. C.
PA'DUS (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
PÆ'AN (s. from the Greek παῖν a song to Apollo) A triumphant song, a song of triumph, a foot in ancient poetry consisting of four syllables; one of the names of Apollo.
Pæ'on (s. a different spelling) A part in ancient poetry consisting of four feet, much used in the hymns sung to Apollo. Scott.
PÆ'DAGOGUE (s. a correct spelling) A pedagogue.
PÆDABAPTISM (s. from the Greek πᾶς an infant, and βαπτίζω to baptize) The baptism of infants.
Pædabaptist (s. from pædabaptism) One who promotes the baptism of infants.
PÆ'DEROS (s. in natural history) The opal, a precious stone.
PÆDERO'TA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
PÆDO'PEIA (s. from the Greek πᾶς a child) That part of physic which prescribes the proper management of children.
PÆDORTH'ROCAE (s. in surgery) The padarthrocæ, the decay of a bone in the joint.
PÆO'NIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants; the piony.
Pag'aments (s. in commerce) A kind of frized cloth. Co.
PA'GAN (s. supposed to be from the Lat. pagus a village, the villages continuing heathen after the cities were converted to christianity) A heathen, one who is not converted to christianity.
Pa'gan (adj. from the sub.) Heathenish, belonging to the heathen.
PAGANA'LIA (s. in Roman antiquity) The festivals which were celebrated in villages.
Pagana'lian (adj. from paganalia) Belonging to country wakes. Cole.
Pa'ganal (s. from paganalia) A country wake. Cole.
PAGANEL'LUS (s. in ichthyology) A kind of gobins, the sea gudgeon.
Pa'ganims (s. not so common a word) Painims, the heathen. Cole.
Pa'ganism (s. from pagan) Heathenism, the state of being pagan.
PAGE (s. from the French) One side of the leaf of a book; a young boy attendant on a person of distinction.
Page (v. t. from the sub.) To mark the pages of a book; to attend as a young boy on a person of distinction.
PAGEANT

P A I

PA'GEANT (s. of uncertain derivation) A statue in a public shew, any shew, a spectacle of entertainment.
Pa'geant (adj. from the sub.) Showy, superficial, pompous, ostentatious.
Pa'geant (v. t. from the sub.) To exhibit in show, to represent as in show. Shakespeare.
Pa'geantry (s. from Pageant) Pomp, show, outward show.
PAG'EL (s. from the Heb. signifying the prayer of God) A man's name.
PAG'IL (s. in botany) The cowslip. Johnson.
PAG'INAL (adj. from the Lat. pagina a page) Consisting of pages.
PA'GOD (s.) An Indian idol; the temple of an Indian idol.
Pago'da (s. a different spelling) A pagod. Dict. of Arts.
PA'GRUS (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish.
PAGU'RUS (s. in ichthyology) The pungen, a kind of crab fish.
Paid (p. from pay) Discharged as a debt, rewarded, recompensed, daubed over as the sides of a ship in order to preserve it.
Paid (v. t. pret. of pay) Did pay.
Paie (s. obsolete) Content, satisfaction. Chaucer.
Paig'les (s. in botany) The cowslip.
PAIL (s. from the Spanish paila) A wooden vessel to carry milk or water open at the top.
Pail'ful (s. from pail, and full) The quantity that a pail will hold.
Pail'lier (s. a different spelling) A pallier. Scott.
Pail'lardise (s. an old word) Whoredom. Cole.
PAIL'MAIL (adj. the derivation is not noted) Violent, boisterous. Digby.
PAIN (s. from the Lat. poena) A penalty, a punishment, a threatened punishment; a sensation of uneasiness, the want of ease, the contrary to ease; the throws of child birth; labour, work, toil; uneasiness of mind, trouble.
Pain (v. t. from the sub.) To afflict, to make uneasy; to strive with, to labour. "He pained himself to raise his note."
Paine (v. int. obsolete) To endeavour. Chaucer.
Paine (s. obsolete) An endeavour. Chaucer.
Pain'ed (p. from pain) Made uneasy, distressed.
Pain'emaine (s. an old word) A white loaf. Cole.
Pain'ems (s. obsolete) Pagans. Chaucer.
Pain'ful (adj. from pain, and full) Full of pain, uneasy; giving pain, afflictive, difficult, requiring labour, industrious, laborious; with to; as, "It was pain-ful to me."
Pain'fully (adv. from painful) With pain, with great affliction; laboriously, diligently.
Pain'fulness (s. from painful) Affliction, sorrow; industry, labour.
PAIN'IM (s. from the French payan) A pagan, an infidel. Peacham.
Pain'im (adj. from the sub.) Pagan, infidel.
Pain'lets (adj. from pain) Void of pain, void of trouble.
Pain'staker (s. from pain, and take) One that takes pains, a laborious person. Gay.
Pain'staking (adj. from pain, and take) Laborious, industrious.
PAINS'WICK (s.) A town in Gloucestershire; it has a market on Tuesday, and is 99 miles from London.
Pain'swick (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Painswick, made at Painswick.
PAINT (v. t. from the Lat. pingo) To represent by delineation and colours, to colour, to describe, to diversify, to deck with artificial colours.
Paint (v. int.) To lay colours on the face.
Paint (s. from the verb) The colour with which any thing is painted, the substance with which any thing is painted.
Paint'ed (p. from paint) Coloured with paint, represented, described in a striking and lively manner; with with; as, "Painted with vermilion."
Paint'er (s. from paint) One that paints, one who practises the art of representing objects by delineation and colours.
Paint'ing (p. a. from paint) Laying on paint, representing in colours, using a cosmetic.
Paint'ing (s. from the part.) The act of representing objects by delineation and colours, the substance used by the painter, a picture, a painted resemblance.
PAINT'URE (s. from the French, and not much used) The art of painting. Dryden.
PAIK' (s. from the Lat. par equal) Two things of a sort, a man and wife, a couple.
Pair (v. t. from the sub.) To join in pairs, to unite as correspondent, to unite as opposites.

P A L

Pair (v. int.) To couple, to unite as in pairs.
Paire (s. obsolete) A hurt, a damage, an endeavour. Ch.
Paire (v. t. obsolete) To impair. Chaucer.
Pair'ed (p. from pair) United in pairs, united as opposites; with with; as, "Glossy jet is paired with shining white."
Pair'ing (p. a. from pair) Uniting in pairs, suiting.
PAIS (s. a law term) The country, the people from whom a jury is to be empaneled. Phillips.
Pais'age (s. from paife) A kind of landskip, the representation of some part of a country in painting. Phil.
Paif'ed (adj. obsolete) Poised. Spenser.
Pais'so (s. in old records) Pannage, the liberty for hogs to run in forests or woods to feed on mast.
PALA'BROS (s. from the Italian, on my sword) A kind of petty oath. Shakespeare.
PAL'ACE (s. from the Lat. palatium) A royal house, the house in which a prince or great personage resides, the house of a bishop; a house eminently splendid.
Palaceous (adj. from palace) Royal, magnificent, noble, befitting royalty.
PAL'ADIN (s.) a knight of the round table. Cole.
PALÆ'MON (s. in beaten mythology) A supposed sea god.
PALÆS'TRA (s. in Grecian antiquity) A public building in which the youth performed their athletic exercises.
PALÆ'STRICAL (adj. from palæstra) Belonging to the palæstra.
PALÆSTROPH'YLAX (s. from the Greek) The director or superintendent of the palæstra.
PALANKA (s. in fortification) A defence made of large poles or stakes.
PALAN'QUIN (s.) A kind of covered carriage used in the east supported on men's shoulders.
Palapunts (s.) A kind of Indian drink. Cole.
PALA'RIA (s. in Roman antiquity) A kind of exercise in which the young soldiery engaged in a kind of mock fight with a stake set up for that purpose.
Pal'afins (s. an old word) The ladies attendant on the court. Cole.
Pal'assin (s. in natural history) A kind of carbuncle.
Palas'tre (s. obsolete) A combat, a dispute. Chaucer.
PA'LAT (s. from the Lat. palatium, but not used) A palace.
Palatable (adj. from palate) Pleasing to the palate.
PAL'ATE (s. from the Lat. palatum) The instrument of taste, the sense of tasting; the roof of the mouth; the mental relish.
Palat'ic (adj. from palate) Belonging to the palate.
Palat'inate (s. from palatine) The signiory possessed by a palatine; one of the electorates of the German empire.
PAL'ATINE (s. from the Lat. palatium) One invested with regal rights and prerogatives; a subject or native of a palatinate.
Palatine (adj. from the sub.) Possessing royal privileges.
PAL'ATINE (s. in natural history) A kind of carbuncle.
Pal'ays (s. obsolete) A palace; a kind of fortification. Ch.
PALE (adj. from the Lat. pallidus) Wan, wanting a fresh colour; faint, dim.
Pale (v. t. from the adj.) To make wan, to cause paleness.
PALE (s. from the Lat. palus) A narrow piece of wood commonly used in making a fence; an inclosure; a district; a territory; the middle part of an escutcheon from the chief to the base, that part which is divided by two perpendicular lines in an escutcheon.
Pale't (adj. in heraldry) Paled, divided by perpendicular lines.
Pale (v. t. from the sub.) To inclose with pales, to encompass with a fence of pales; to inclose.
Pale (s. an old word) A spangle; a robe of state. Ch.
PALEA'CEOUS (adj. in botany, from the Lat. palea chaff) Chaffy, producing chaff, resembling chaff.
PAL'EATED (adj. from palea chaff) Mingled with chaff, chaffy.
Paled (p. from pale) Inclosed with pales; having flower leaves set about the head or thrum as in the marigold; paly.
Pal'eyed (adj. from pale, and eye) Having dim eyes.
Pal'efaced (adj. from pale, and face) Having a pale face.
Pal'efray (s. a different spelling) A paltry. Cole.
Pal'ely (adv. from pale) Wanly, without freshness of colour.
PAL'ENDAR (s. a sea term) A kind of coasting vessel. Knolls.
Pal'enefs (s. from pale) A sickly whiteness of look, the want of freshness, the want of lustre.
PAL'EOUS (adj. from the Lat. palea chaff) Full of chaff, husky.

Pal'et

P A L

tier (adj. comp. of pale) Pale in a greater degree.
 LES (s. in beathen mythology) The goddesses of shepherds.
 (adj. sup. of pale) Pale in the greatest degree.
 LEST (s.) A Grecian measure of four fingers breadth.
 LESTINA (s. in geography) The holy land, one of the principal divisions of Syria.
 LESTINE (s. a different spelling) Palestina, the holy land.
 LESTRICAL (adj. from the Greek παλαίστριος, but not used) Belonging to the athletic exercises. Bailey.
 LLETTE (s. from the French) The little board on which the painter holds his colours while painting.
 LFREY (s. from the French palifray) A small fine grained horse fit for ladies.
 (adj. from palfrey) Furnished with a palfrey, riding on a palfrey.
 (s. a different spelling) A palfrey.
 LICI (s. in beathen mythology) The two supposed sons of Jupiter and Thalia.
 LIFICATION (s. from the Lat. palus a pile) The act of making ground firm with piles.
 LILIA (s. in Roman antiquity) The festivals celebrated in honour of Pales.
 LILICIUM (s. in astronomy) The star of the first magnitude in the constellation of taurus, the bull's eye.
 LILIGIA (s. from the Greek παλιν again, and λογος a word) A figure in rhetoric in which the same word is repeated to give it greater force or energy.
 (s. from palilogia) The palilogia.
 LIMBACHIUS (s. in poetry) A foot consisting of two long syllables and one short.
 LIMPISIA (s. in medicine) The oil produced from the pitch of cedar boiled up a second time. Phillips.
 LIMPSESTON (s. from the Greek) A kind of paper or parchment used by the ancients in drawing a first draught which was to be rubbed out and written afresh.
 LINDROME (s. from the Greek παλιν again, and δρομω to run) A word or sentence which reads the same backwards or forwards.
 LINDROMUS (s. a different spelling) The palindrome.
 (p. a. from pale) Inclosing with pales.
 (s. obsolete) An ornament on cloth or stuff as a kind of lace laid on lengthwise. Chaucer.
 LINGENESIA (s. from the Greek) A regeneration.
 Lingman (s. in old records) A merchant born in England.
 Linod (s. a different spelling) A palinode. Sandys.
 LINODE (s. from the Greek παλιν again, and ωδω a song) A recantation.
 Linody (s. from palinode) A recantation.
 LISADE (s. from the French) Pales set by way of inclosure or defence.
 (v. t. from the sub.) To inclose with palisades.
 (p. from palisade) Inclosed with palisades.
 (p. a. from palisade) Inclosing with palisades.
 LISADO (s. from the Italian) A palisade.
 (adj. in heraldry) Palisaded.
 (adj. from pale) Tending to paleness.
 LIURUS (s. in botany) The name of a shrub, Christ thorn.
 (s. from the Lat. pallium) A cloak or mantle of state, the mantle of an archbishop, the covering thrown over the dead at a funeral.
 (v. t. from the sub.) To cloak, to invest.
 (v. t. perhaps from pale) To make insipid, to dispirit, to weaken, to cloy.
 (v. int.) To grow vapid, to become insipid.
 (s. in old records) A sort of large upper garment, a canopy of state, an altarcloth.
 LLACONA (s. in botany) A kind of onion.
 LLADIUM (s. from the Greek παλλας the goddesses of war and wisdom) The famous statue of Pallas or Minerva said to have dropped down from heaven and to have been preserved in Troy, and afterwards in Rome, as that on which the safety of the city was supposed to depend; the security of a state; a defence, a safeguard.
 LAS (s. in beathen mythology) The supposed goddesses of war and wisdom; Minerva.
 LAT (s. in clock work) One of the nuts that play on the crown wheel of a watch. Scott.
 (s. obsolete) A kind of short coat, a palleteque.
 (p. from pall) Invested with a pall.
 (p. from pall to make vapid) Impaired, weakened, dispirited, cloyed.
 (s. an old spelling) A palace. Chaucer.

P A L

PALLE'BUS (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fresh water fish, the bream.
 PAL'LET (s. supposed to be from the French paille straw) A small bed, a mean kind of bed; a palette.
 PAL'LET (s. from the French palatte) A small measure containing about three ounces.
 PAL'LETOQUE (s. probably from the Lat. pallium) A short kind of coat with sleeves such as was formerly worn by pages. Scott.
 PAL'LIAMENT (s. from the Lat. pallium) A robe, a dress.
 Pal'liard (s. an old word) One whose father was born a beggar. Cole.
 Pal'liardise (s. obsolete) Fornication, whoredom. John.
 Pal'liate (v. t. from the Lat. pallium a cloak) To cover with excuse, to extenuate, to cure imperfectly.
 Pal'liated (p. from palliate) Covered with excuse, extenuated, cured imperfectly.
 Pal'liating (p. a. from palliate) Extenuating, covering with excuse, curing imperfectly.
 Palliation (s. from palliate) An extenuation, an alleviation, a favourable representation; a mitigation, an imperfect cure, a temporary relief.
 Pal'liative (adj. from palliate) Mitigating, alleviating, tending to alleviation.
 Pal'liative (s. from the adj.) Something to mitigate, something to alleviate.
 PAL'LID (adj. from the Lat. pallidus) Pale, faint in colour.
 Pallidity (s. from pallid) Paleness. Bailey.
 PAL'LIER (s. in carpentry) A landing place in a staircase, a step broader than the rest which serves for a kind of resting place.
 PALLIFICATION (s. from the Lat. pila a pile, and facio to make, but not used) The act of strengthening the ground work with piles. Cole.
 PALLIUM (s. from the Lat.) The pall, an episcopal vestment.
 Pallizade (s. a different spelling) A palisade.
 PAL'MALL (s. from the Lat.) pila a ball, and malleus a hammer) A play or exercise in which an iron ball is struck through an arch or ring at a distance.
 PAL'LOR (s. from the Lat.) Paleness.
 PALM (s. in botany) A tree comprehending a great variety of species, the leaves of which were worn in token of victory: figuratively, victory, triumph.
 PALM (s. from the Lat. palma) The inner flat part of the hand, the hand spread out; a hand breadth, a measure containing three inches.
 Palm (v. t. from the sub.) To conceal in the hollow of the hand, to handle, to strike with the hand; to impose by fraud.
 PALMA (s. in botany) The palmtree.
 PALMA (s. from the Lat.) The palm of the hand.
 PAL'MACHRISTY (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
 Palma'da (s. an old word) A blow on the hand with a ferula. Bailey.
 Pal'mar (adj. from palm) Belonging to a palm or hand's breath. Cole.
 PALMA'RIS (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the palm of the hand.
 Palma'ta (s. from palma) A handful, a blow on the hand. Cole.
 Pal'mated (adj. from palm) Resembling the hand, having leaves resembling the hand.
 Pal'matory (s. from palma) A ferula, an instrument to strike the palm of the hand. Cole.
 Palm'harley (s. in botany) A kind of grain fuller and broader than common barley.
 PALME (s. from the French) A hand's breadth, a measure of three inches.
 Palm'ed (p. from palm) Imposed by fraud, concealed in the palm of the hand.
 Palm'er (s. from palm) A pilgrim, one who returned from the holy land with branches of the palmtree; a ferula, an instrument to strike the palm of the hand; the crown incircling a deer's head.
 Palm'erworm (s. from palmer, and worm) A large hairy worm resembling a caterpillar.
 PALMES (s. from the Lat.) The shoot of a vine, the shoot of the palmtree which bears the fruit.
 Pal'mester (s. not a common spelling) One skilled in palmistry, a palmifer. Cole.
 Pal'mistry (s. an uncommon spelling) Palmistry. Cole.
 PAL'METOIRE (s. in botany) The name of an Indian tree the juice of which, it is said, affords a pleasant kind of wine.
 Palmetto (s. in botany) A species of palmtree.
 Palmet'toroyal (s. in botany) The cabbagetree, a species of palmtree.
 Palmet'totree (s. in botany) The palmetto, a species of palmtree.

PALMIFEROUS

P A M

PALMIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. palma palm, and fero to bear) Bearing palms.

PAL/MIPEDE (adj. from the Lat. palma the palm of the hand, and pes a foot) Having the toes joined by a membrane, webfooted.

Pal/mipedous (adj. not much used) Palmipede. Cole.

Pal'mister (s. from palma) One who is skilled in palmistry.

Pal'mistry (s. from palma) The pretended art of telling fortunes by the lines of the hand; the action of the hand. Addison.

Palms (s. in botany) The shoots of a vine, the shoots of the palmtree, young branches, which appear on the willow before the leaves. Scott.

Palm/funday (s. from palm, and Sunday) The last Sunday in Lent.

Palm/tree (s. in botany) The palm, the date tree.

PAL/MUS (s. with physicians, supposed to be from the Greek παλλω to vibrate) The shivering or quick vibration of the heart.

PALM'Y (adj. from palm) Bearing palms.

PALMY'RA (s. in geography) The ruins of a famous city in Syria.

PAL/OUR (s. in ichthyology) A sort of fish. Phillips.

Palpability (s. from palpable) The quality of being perceptible to the touch.

PAL/PABLE (adj. from the Lat. palpor to feel) Perceptible to the touch, gross, coarse, easily detected, plain, easily perceived.

Pal'pableness (s. from palpable) The state or quality of being palpable.

Pal'pably (adv. from palpable) Grossly, plainly, in such a manner as to be perceived by the touch.

PALPA/TION (s. from the Lat. palpor to feel) The act of feeling. Johnson.

PALPEBRÆ (s. in anatomy, from the Lat.) The eyelids.

PAL/PITATE (v. int. from the Lat. palpitare to beat) To flutter, to beat as the heart.

Pal'pitating (p. a. from palpitare) Beating as the heart, going pit a pat.

Palpitation (s. from palpitare) The alteration in the pulse of the heart upon any sudden fright or anxiety; the fluttering or throbbing of the heart.

Pal'sie (s. an old spelling) The palsy. Chaucer.

Pal'sey (s. not so common a spelling) A palsy. Phillips.

PALS/GRAVE (s. from the German palls graff) A nobleman who has the oversight of a prince's palace.

Pal'sical (adj. from palsy) Paralytic, afflicted with the palsy.

Pal'sied (adj. from palsy) Diseased with the palsy.

PAL/SY (s. from the Greek πασα with, and λυω to dissolve) A privation of motion, a privation of sensation, a disease which weakens and relaxes the part affected.

Pal'ter (v. int. supposed to be from paltroun) To shift, to play tricks, to dodge; with with; as, "That pal'ter with us in a double sense."

Pal'ter (v. t.) To squander. Ainsworth.

Pal'terer (s. from palter) A shifter, one that deals with infincerity.

PAL/TI (s. from the Heb. signifying flight) A man's name.

Pal'trier (adj. comp. of paltry) Paltry in a greater degree.

Pal'triest (adj. sup. of paltry) Paltry in the greatest degree.

Pal'triness (s. from paltry) The state of being paltry.

PAL/TRY (adj. from the French poltron) Mean, despicable, worthless.

PALUDAMEN'TUM (s. from the Lat.) A military garment, a royal robe, a herald's coat.

PALUDIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. palus a marsh, and fero to bear) Producing marshes. Cole.

PALUMBE'R/RIUS (s. in ornithology) The goshawk.

Palum'bine (adj. from palumbus) Belonging to a beautiful kind of pigeon, belonging to the ringdove.

PALUMBUS (s. in ornithology) The ringdove, a beautiful species of pigeon.

Pally (adj. from pale, used only in poetry) Pale.

Pally (adj. in heraldry) Divided by perpendicular lines, pale.

Pam (s. probably from palm) The knave of clubs.

PAM/PER (v. t. from the Italian pamperare) To glut, to fill with food, to feed luxuriously.

Pam'pered (p. from pamper) Glutted, filled with food, fed luxuriously.

Pam'perer (s. from pamper) One that pampers.

Pampering (p. a. from pamper) Filling with food, feeding luxuriously.

PAMPHAR/MACON (s. from the Greek παν all, and φαρμακον a remedy) A remedy against all manner of poisons.

P A N

PAM/PHLET (s. from the French par without, and a band) A small book unbound.

Pamphlet (v. int. from the sub.) To write small books.

Pamphletee'r (s. from pamphlet) A scribler, a writer of small books.

Pamphletee'ring (adj. from pamphleteer) Writing pamphlets.

Pam'phleting (p. a. from pamphlet) Writing pamphlets.

PAMPHYL/IA (s. in geography) A province of the Little Asia.

Pampina'tion (s. from pampinus) The act of pruning the young shoots of the vine.

Pampin'ean (adj. from pampinus) Belonging to the vine leaf.

PAMPIN/IFORM (adj. from the Lat. pampinus a vine leaf, and forma a form) Having the form of a vine leaf, belonging to a vessel formed by the spermatic veins.

PAMPI/NUS (s. from the Lat.) The tender shoot of a vine.

Pam'pired (p. an old spelling) Pampered. Chaucer.

PAN (s. from the Sax. ponna) A broad shallow kind of vessel, that part of the lock of a gun that holds the priming, any thing hollow in the form of a broad shallow vessel.

Pan (v. t. an old word) To join, to close together.

PAN (s. in beaten mythology) The supposed god of the herds half man and half goat.

Pan (s. obsolete) The crown of the head. Chaucer.

PANACE'A (s. from the Greek παν all, and ακος a cure) An universal remedy; the name of an herb, the all-heal.

PANA'DA, PANAD/O (s. from the Lat. panis bread) A kind of food for children.

Pan'age (s. not so common a spelling) Pannage. Dict. of Art.

PANARE/TUS (adj. from the Greek παν all, and αρε virtue, but not used) Containing all virtues. Cole.

PANA/RIS (s. in medicine and surgery) The paronychia.

PANARI/TIUM (s. in surgery) A very painful swelling of the finger at the root of the nail.

PANATHENÆ'A (s. in antiquity) A spectacle which the Roman emperors exhibited to the people, a kind of chase or hunt.

Panathenæ'ic (adj. from panathenæa) Belonging to the panathenæa.

PAN/NAX (s. in botany) The ginseng, a genus of plants.

Pancake (s. from pan, and cake) Thin pudding baked in a frying pan.

PAN/CALIER (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

PANCAR/PUS (s. in antiquity) A kind of shew represented to the people in which a number of wild boars, deer, sheep, and oxen were let loose in the circus, filled with trees to represent a forest, and at a signal given by the emperor the people pursued, shot, cut in pieces, and killed as many as they could lay hands on, and carried them off in triumph to feast upon them at their own houses.

PANCART (s. in France) A paper containing a particular account of the rates or customs due to the king.

Panch (s. a different spelling) The paunch.

Pan'chrest (s. in medicine) The panacea.

Panchres'ta (s. in medicine) Universal remedies, medicines of general use.

PAN/CHROS (s. in natural history) A precious stone of almost all colours.

PANCHY/MAGOGUE (s. in pharmacy) A medicine supposed to have the power of purging off all humours.

PANCRAT/ICAL (adj. from the Greek παν all, and κρατος power) Excelling in all gymnastic exercises.

PANCRAT/ION (s. from the Greek παν all, and κρατος power) A kind of combat in which the several exercises of the gymnasium were exhibited in one view.

PANCRA/TIST (adj. from the Greek παν all, and κρατος power) One skilled in gymnastic exercises. Cole.

PAN/CREAS (s. in anatomy, from the Greek παν all, and κρεας flesh) The sweetbread.

Pancreat'ic (adj. from pancreas) Belonging to the sweetbread, contained in the pancreas.

Pan'cy (s. in botany) The pansy, a kind of violet, the heart's ease.

PANDÆMO'NIUM (s. from the Greek παν all, and δαίμων a demon) The great hall or council chamber of the fallen angels. Milton.

PANDA/LEA (s. with physicians) A solid kind of electuary.

Pan'dar (s. the old and correct spelling) A pander, a pimp. Cole.

Pand'arism (s. from pandar) The office of a pimp. Cole.

PAN/DECT (s. from the Greek παν all, and δεχσθαι to receive) A treatise that comprehends the whole of any science; a digest of the civil law.

PAN

PANDEMIC (adj. from the Greek παν all, and δημοσ a people) Incident to a whole people, vernacular.

PANDER (s. from pandarus a pimp, in one of Chaucer's poems) A procurer, a pimp.

PANDER (v. t. from the sub.) To pimp, to make subservient to criminal passion. Shakespeare.

PANDERLY (adj. from pander) Pimping, acting the part of a pimp.

PANDICULATED (adj. from pandiculo to stretch) Stretched out, opened, extended.

PANDICULATION (s. from the Lat. pandiculo to stretch) The restless stretching and uneasiness that usually attends the cold fit of an intermitting fever.

PANDORA (s. in beaten mythology) The name of a woman to whose care a box was supposed to have been committed filled with all kinds of evils, which, on her opening it, flew out and filled the world with diseases and calamities.

PANDORE (s. a different spelling) A bandore, a musical instrument resembling a lute. Scott.

PANDORON (s. a different spelling) The bandore. D. of A.

PANDURATED (adj. in botany, from the Lat. pandura shepherd's pipe of the ancients) Having a furrowed kind of bark resembling the collateral reeds of the shepherds pipe.

PANDURE (s. a different spelling) The bandore. Phil.

PANDURIST (s. from pandure) One who plays on the bandore.

PANDUXA/TOR (s. in old records) A brewer.

PANDUXA/TRIX (s. an old law term) A woman that brews and sells ale.

PANEAU (s. from the French panneau) A square of glass, a piece mixed with others in variegated works.

PANEGYRIC (adj. from the Greek παν all, and αἰνεω to collect) Containing praise, encomiastic.

PANEGYRIC (s. from the adj.) An eulogy, a speech or poem by way of encomium.

PANEGYRICAL (adj. from panegyric) Containing praise, encomiastic.

PANEGYRICUM (s. in church history) A book used by the Greek church containing panegyric orations of various authors on the solemnities of Christ and his apostles.

PANEGYRIST (s. from panegyric) One that speaks or writes in praise, an encomiast.

PANITY (s. from the Lat. panis bread) The state of being bread. Scott.

PANELL (s. from the low Lat. panellum) A piece or square of any matter inserted between others; a schedule or roll containing the names of the jurors on a trial at law.

PANELLINIUS (s. in beaten mythology) One of the names of Jupiter.

PANELLULA (s. from the Lat.) A small page in a book, a schedule or roll of parchment.

PANELLUM (s. from the Lat.) The page of a book, a schedule or roll of parchment.

PANG (s. supposed to be from pain) Extreme pain, a sudden paroxysm of torment, an effort in childbirth.

PANG (v. t. from the sub.) To put to great pain, to torment.

PANGLED (p. from pang) Put to great pain, tormented. Shakespeare.

PANGONEA (s. in natural history) A precious stone with many angles.

PANGUTS (s. a low word) A fat hulky lazy fellow.

PANIC (adj. from Pan) Agitated without cause, violent without just occasion.

PANIC (s. from the adj.) A groundless fear, a needless fright.

PANIC (s. in botany, a different spelling) The pannic. D. of A.

PANICAL (adj. from panic) Panic, agitated without cause. Camden.

PANICASTREL/LA (s. in botany) The cenechrus, a genus of plants.

PANIC/CA (s. in botany) The panicum.

PANICLE (s. in botany) The soft woolly beard of some plants.

PANIC/SEED (s. in medicine) The seed of the pannic.

PANIC/ULA (s. in botany) The panicle.

PANICULATE (adj. from panicula) Having flowers on long footstalks issuing on all sides from the middle stalk, and growing narrower towards the top.

PANICULATED (adj. from paniculate) Paniculate.

PANICUM (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the panic.

PANIS (s. from the Lat.) Bread. Phillips.

PANNADE (s. in the manage) The curvat, the leap of a horse.

PANNAGE (s. from pannagium) The mast of the oak and beech which swine feed on in the woods, the money taken for feeding hogs in the king's forest; a certain duty on cloth.

PAN

PAN/NAM (s. an old word) Bread. Cole.

PAN/NEL (s. from the Dutch paniceel) A kind of saddle.

PAN/nel (s. in falconry) The stomach of an hawk, the pipe next to the fundament of a hawk.

PAN/nel (s. not so common a spelling) A panel, one of the squares in a piece of wainscot.

PAN/NIC (s. in botany) A kind of millet.

PAN/NICLE (s. from the Lat. paniculus) A pellicle, a membrane. Scott.

PAN/nicle (s. in botany) The pannic, a kind of millet.

PANNIC/ULUS (s. from the Lat.) A robust fleshy kind of tunic peculiar to beasts, by which they move the skin, in whole or in part, to shake off any thing that may offend them.

PAN/NIER (s. from the French panier) A kind of basket, a wicker vessel in which fruit or other things are carried on a horse's back.

PAN/nierman (s. in the inns of court) One who calls the gentlemen to dinner or supper and provides mustard, pepper, and vinegar for the hall.

PAN/nikle (s. obsolete) The crown of the head, the skull. Spenser.

PAN/NUS (s. with oculists) A disease of the eye, a kind of fleshy web occasioned by an inflammation.

PANOPLIA (s. from the Greek παν all, and οπλα armour) Complete armour. Phillips.

PAN/oply (s. from panoplia) Complete armour, armour for every part.

PANSELE/NE (s. from the Greek παν all, and σελήνη the moon) The full moon. Phillips.

PAN/sie (s. a different spelling) The pansy. Cole.

PANSOPHI/A (s. from the Greek παν all, and σοφία wisdom) Universal knowledge. Scott.

PAN/sophy (s. from pansophia) Universal wisdom. Cole.

PAN/SY (s. in botany) The heartsease.

PANT (v. int. from the French panteler) To palpitate, to have the breast heaving for want of breath; to long, to wish earnestly; with for; as, "He pants for glory."

Pant (s. from the verb) A palpitation, a motion of the heart.

Pant/able (s. from pantofle) A slipper. "To stand upon one's pantables," to stand up for one's honour. Scott.

PAN/TAGRUEL (s.) The feigned name of a giant.

Pan/tagruelest (s. from pantagruel) A good companion, imitating Pantagruel. Bailey.

Pan/tais (s. in falconry) The panting of a hawk.

Pant/alone (s.) A dotard. Cole.

PAN/TALON (s. from the French pantalon) A buffoon; a kind of garment anciently worn consisting of breeches and stockings in one piece.

PAN/TARBE (s. in natural history) A kind of precious stone.

Pan/tas (s. in falconry) The panting of a hawk.

PANTCH (s. a sea term) A kind of mat to keep the sails from fretting.

Pan/ter (s. with hunters) A kind of net to catch deer; a pitfall.

Pan/ter (s. a cant word) The heart. Cole.

Pan/terer (s. a different spelling) A pantler. Scott.

Pan/ters (s. in falconry) The difficulty of breathing in a hawk.

Pantex (s. in anatomy) The paunch, the belly.

PAN/TEX (s. from the Lat.) A gall on the neck of a draught horse.

Panthe/a (s. plu. of pantheon) The statues which were adorned with the figures or symbols of some principal divinities.

Panthe'an (adj. from pantheon) Belonging to the pantheon.

PANTHEOLO/GIA (s. from the Greek παν all, θεος God, and λογος a word) An entire system or body of divinity.

Pantheol'ogist (s. from pantheologia) A student in divinity, one who writes a system or body of divinity.

Pantheology (s. from pantheologia) An entire system of divinity. Cole.

PANTHE/ON (s. from the Greek παν all, and θεος God) A large temple at Rome, of a circular form, in which the statues of all the heathen divinities were placed.

PAN/THER (s. in zoology, from the Greek παν all, and θηρ a wild beast) The pard, the lynx so called because it was supposed to possess the ferocity of all beasts.

PANTHERA (s. in zoology, from the Lat.) The panther.

Pan/therine (s. from panther) Belonging to the panther. Cole.

PANTHE/UM (s. from the Greek παν all, and θεος God) A statue adorned with the figures or symbols of the gods. Pan/the Pan'tile (s. from pan, and tile) A large kind of artificial tile for covering houses.

Pan'ting (p. a. from pant) Palpitating, heaving for want of breath, desiring with great earnestness.

Pan'ting (s. from the part.) A palpitation, the act of heaving for want of breath.

Pan'tingly (adv. from panting) With palpitation.

Pan'tir (s. an obsolete spelling) A kind of net for catching deer. Chaucer.

PANT'LER (s. from the French panetier) The officer who has the care of the bread in the house of some great personage.

Pan'toffle (s. a different spelling) A pantofle. Bailey.

PAN'TOFLE (s. from the Italian pantofola) A kind of slipper.

PANTOM'ETER (s. from the Greek παν all, and μετρεω to measure) A mathematical instrument for measuring all kinds of angles, heights and distances.

PANTOM'ETRY (s. from the Greek παν all, and μετρεω to measure) The act of measuring all things. Cole.

Pan'tomime (s. from pantomimus) A mimic, a stage player; a scene, a story represented in gesture.

Pantomim'ick (s. an old spelling) A pantomime. Cole.

PANTOMI'MUS (s. from the Greek παν παντος all, and μιμος a mimic) A buffoon, a stage player.

PAN'TON (s. in farriery) A panton shoe.

Pan'tonshoe (s. in farriery) A shoe so contrived as to recover the heel of a hoof bound horse.

PAN'TRY (s. from the Lat. panarium) The room in which provisions for the family are kept.

PANUR'GIA (s. from the Greek παν all, and εργον work) Subtilty, skill. Phillips.

PAN'US (s. with surgeons) A sore in some glandulous part.

PAN'US (s. from the Lat.) The yarn on the quill of a weaver's shuttle.

Pan'ymes (s. an obsolete spelling) Panims, heathens. Ch.

PAP (s. from the Lat. papilla) The nipple, that part of the breast which is sucked, a dug; the pulp of fruit; a thin kind of food for children made of bread boiled in water.

PAP'A (s. from the Lat.) A fond name for father, father; the pope.

Pap'acy (s. from papa) The popedom, the office and dignity of the bishops of Rome.

Pap'al (adj. from papa) Belonging to the papacy, popish, annexed to the bishoprick of Rome.

Pap'al'ity (s. from papal, but not used) The papacy. Cole.

PAPA'VER (s. in botany) The poppy.

Papaver'ean (adj. not the common spelling) Papaverous. Co.

Papav'eros (adj. from papaver) Pertaining to the poppy, resembling the poppy.

PAPAW' (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

PAPAY'A (s. in botany) The carica, a genus of plants.

PAPAY'ER (s. in botany) A kind of fruit which grows in the Caribbee islands.

Pape (s. an old spelling) The pope. Cole.

Pap'elard (s. obsolete) A hypocrite. Chaucer.

Pap'elardie (s. obsolete) Hypocrisy. Chaucer.

Pap'elardise (s. obsolete) Hypocrisy. Cole.

PA'PER (s. from the Lat. papyrus) A substance made by macerating linen rags in water and spreading them into thin sheets, a sheet printed or written.

Pa'per (adj. from the sub.) Slight, thin, resembling paper, made of paper.

Pa'per (v. t. from the sub.) To adorn with paper, to furnish with paper hangings; to set down on paper, to register.

Pa'pere (s. an old spelling) Paper. Chaucer.

Pa'pered (p. from paper) Hung with paper, registered.

Pa'pering (p. a. from paper) Hanging with paper, registering.

Pa'permaker (s. from paper, and maker) One who makes paper.

Pa'perman (s. from paper, and man) A papermaker, one who deals in paper.

Pa'permill (s. from paper, and mill) A mill in which rags are ground to make paper.

Pa'peroffice (s. from paper, and office) An office in the palace at Whitehall in which the papers under the care of the secretaries of state are lodged; an office belonging to the King's-bench.

Papes'cent (adj. from pap) Containing pap, pulpy.

PA'PHIA (s. in heathen mythology) One of the names of Venus.

Pa'phian (adj. from Paphos) Belonging to Paphos; applied to Venus.

PA'PHOS (s. in ancient geography) A city of Cyprus dedicated to Venus.

PA'PIA (s. in botany) The orvala.

PA'PIAN (adj. in antiquity) Belonging to a law among the Romans which made the public heir to a man who died without children.

PAPIL'IO (s. from the Lat.) A butterfly, a moth of various colours.

Papillona'ceous (adj. from papilio) Resembling a butterfly.

PAPIL'LA (s. in anatomy) The nipple.

Papil'læ (s. plu. of papilla) The nipples of the breasts of beasts; little protuberances on the tongue and glands in several parts of the body so called on account of their resemblance to a pap or dug.

PAPILLA'RUM (s. in anatomy) One of the extremities of the olfactory nerves.

Papil'lary (adj. from papilla) Having emulgent vessels having the resemblance of papillæ.

Papil'lous (adj. from papilla) Papillary.

PA'PIO (s. in zoology) The baboon.

Pa'pism (s. from pape) Popery.

PA'PIST (s. from the Lat. papista) One who professes the popish religion.

Papis'tical (adj. from papist) Popish, professing popery.

Papis'tically (adv. from papistical) In the manner of the papists.

Papis'ticalness (s. from papistical) The state of being papistical.

Pap'istry (s. from papist) Popery, the doctrine of the Romish church.

PAPPES'CENT (adj. from the Lat. pappus downy) Growing downy, growing pappous.

Pap'pier (s. a cant word) Milk pottage. Bailey.

Pap'plar (s. a local word) Milk pottage. Co.

Pap'pose (adj. from pappus) Pappous. Phillips.

Pap'pous (adj. from pappus) Downy, having soft light down growing out of the seeds.

PAP'PUS (s. from the Lat.) Down, the soft down of the seeds of some plants.

Pap'py (adj. from pappus) Soft, spongy, succulent.

PAP'ULA (s. in surgery) A kind of swelling or inflammation with many redish pimples.

Pap'ulæ (s. plu. of papula) Eruptions of the skin.

Papulos'ity (s. from papula) An eruption of pimples on the skin. Bailey.

PAPYRIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. papyrus, and fero to bear) Producing the papyrus. Chaucer.

PAPYROPOLIST (s. from the Greek παπυρος paper, and πωλεω to sell, but not used) One that sells paper. Co.

PAPY'RUS (s. from the Lat.) A kind of flag growing in moist places which the ancients used instead of paper.

PAR (s. from the Lat.) A state of equality, an equality.

Par (prep. obsolete) For. Chaucer.

PAR'ABIEN (s. from the Spanish, but not used) A congratulation. Co.

PAR'ABLE (s. from the Greek παρη through, and εω to throw) A continued comparison, a similitude, figurative representation.

PA'RABLE (adj. from the Lat. paro to prepare, but not used) Easily procured. Brown.

Par'ablis (s. obsolete) Parables; the proverbs of Solomon. Chaucer.

PARAB'OLA (s. in geometry) One of the conic sections.

PARAB'OLA (s. in rhetoric) A parable, a figurative expression.

PARAB'OLAN (s. in antiquity) A kind of gladiator.

Parabol'ic (adj. from parabola) Expressed by parabola expressed by a continued comparison; belonging to the parabola, having the nature or properties of the parabola.

Parabol'ical (adj. from parabolic) Expressed in parabola having the nature of the parabola.

Parabol'ically (adv. from parabolical) By way of parabola, in the form of a parabola.

Parabol'icalness (s. from parabolical) The state of being parabolical.

Parabol'iform (adj. from parabola, and form) Having the form of a parabola.

Para'bolism (s. in algebra) A division of the several parts of an equation by that known quantity which is involved or multiplied in the first term.

Paraboloid (s. from parabola) A solid figure generated by the revolution of a parabola about its axis.

Paraboloides (s. from parabola) Parabolas of a high order.

Paracel'sian (s. from Paracelsus) A physician who follows the practice of Paracelsus.

Paracel'stic (adj. from Paracelsus) Prepared after the manner of Paracelsus.

PARACEL'SUS (s.) A man's name, a noted physician of the fifteenth century born in Switzerland.

PARACEN'THESIS

PARACEN'THESIS (s. from the Greek) A perforation of the chest for the discharge of corrupted matter; a perforation of the abdomen to let out water as in a dropsy.

PARACEN'TRIC (adj. from the Greek παρα beside, and κεντρον a centre) Deviating from circularity.

PARACENTRICAL (adj. from paracentric) Deviating from circularity.

PARACHRONISM (s. from the Greek παρα beside, and χρόνος time) An error in the computation of time, a false chronology.

PARACHRONISMUS (s. from the Greek) A parachronism.

PARACIUM (s. in old records) The tenure of coparceners.

PARACLET (s. from the Greek παρα by the side of, and κληω to call) The Comforter, the Holy Spirit, an Advocate, Christ. Diët. of Arts.

PARACLETE (s. the more common spelling) The Holy Ghost, the Comforter.

PARACMAS'TICA (s. with physicians) A fever beyond the crisis.

PARACMAS'TICAL (adj. from paracmas'tica) Belonging to the paracmas'tica; past the crisis.

PARACME (s. from the Greek παρα beyond, and αμνη vigour) That part of life in which a person is past his full vigour, the vale of life.

PARACOE (s. from the Greek παρα beyond, and ακουω to hear) A difficulty in hearing, deafness.

PARACYNACHE (s. not so common a spelling) The paracymanche, a kind of quinsy.

PARADE (s. from the French) A shew, an ostentation; a military order, the place where troops are drawn up to mount guard; the state of being on ones guard; the act of parrying off a stroke.

RADIAS'TOLE (s. from the Greek) A figure in rhetoric in which a distinction is preserved by a pertinent explanation.

R'ADIGM (s. from the Greek παρα by the side of, and δεικνυμι to shew) An illustration by an example.

RADIG'MA (s. a different spelling) A paradigm. Phil.

RADIGRAM'MATICE (s. from the Greek παραδειγμα an example, and γραμμα a letter) The act of forming all kinds of figures in plaister.

R'ADISE (s. from the Greek παραδεισος a garden) The garden of Eden, the blissful inclosure in which the first man and woman were placed; a pleasant place, a place of felicity; the heavenly state.

PARADIS'ACAL (adj. from paradise) Belonging to paradise, making a paradise, suited to paradise.

PARADIS'IAN (s. adj. from paradise, but not so common a word) Paradisical. Scott.

RADI'SUS (s. in ecclesiastical writers) A square kind of court before cathedrals surrounded with piazzas.

R'ADOX (s. from the Greek παρα contrary to, and δοξα an opinion) A seeming contradiction; a tenet contrary to the received opinion.

PARADOX'AL (adj. from paradox, but not much used) Paradoxical. Phillips.

RADOX'I (s. with the ancients) A kind of buffoons.

PARADOX'IAL (adj. from paradox) Having the nature of a paradox, seemingly contradictory, inclined to new or unpopular opinions.

PARADOX'ICALLY (adv. from paradoxical) In a paradoxical manner, in a manner contrary to received opinions.

PARADOX'ICALNESS (s. from paradoxical) The state of being paradoxical.

RADOXOL'OGY (s. from the Greek παραδοξον a paradox, and λογος a discourse) The act of speaking paradoxically. Brown.

R'ADROME (s. from the Greek παρὰδρομος) A gallery or passage without any covering over head.

R'ADRY (s. obsolete) J-opardy. Lidgate.

RÆ'NA (s. in zoology) A species of coluber.

RÆ'NESIS (s. from the Greek) A precept, an admonition.

PÆ'NETIC (adj. from parænesis) Persuasive, apt to admonish.

RÆTO'NION (s. in natural history) A kind of white fleshy substance found on the sea shore. Phillips.

PÆ'GAGE (s. a law term) An equality, the state of being equals.

PÆ'GIUM (s. in old records) The right of younger children of the nobility to hold a part of the paternal estate without homage to the elder brother.

P'AGOGUE (s. from the Greek) A figure in grammar in which a letter or syllable is added to the end of a word; the fitness of the bones to each other in articulation.

P'AGOG'ICAL (adj. from paragoge) Belonging to that figure in grammar in which a letter or syllable is added to the end of a word.

PARAGOG'ICALLY (adv. from paragogical) In a paragogical manner.

PAR'AGON (s. from the French) A model, a pattern; a companion, a fellow.

PAR'AGON (v. t. from the sub.) To compare, to equal.

PAR'AGONED (p. from paragon) Compared, equalled, Mil.

PARAGOR'ICS (s. from the Greek παραγορευω to mitigate) Medicines to assuage pain.

PAR'AGRAPH (s. from the Greek παρα through, and γραφω to write) A distinct part of a discourse, a section.

PAR'AGRAPH (v. t. from the sub.) To divide into paragraphs.

PAR'AGRAPH (s. from paragraph) A writing or note in the margin of a book; a kind of poetic transition from one subject to another. Phillips.

PAR'AGRAPHED (p. from paragraph) Divided into sections, disposed in proper paragraphs.

PARAGRAPH'ICAL (adj. from paragraph) Having distinct sections, disposed in proper paragraphs.

PARALAMP'SIS (s. from the Greek παραλαμπω to shine) A bright speck in the back part of the eye.

PARALEP'SIS (s. from the Greek) An omission, the act of passing over.

PARALIPOME'NA (s. from the Greek) A supplement of what was omitted in a preceeding work; the two books of Chronicles.

PARALIP'SIS (s. from the Greek) A figure in rhetoric in which we affect to pass over what nevertheless we particularly mention.

PARA'LIIUS (s. in botany) A kind of spurge.

PARALLACTIC (s. from parallax) Belonging to the parallax.

PARALLACTICAL (adj. from parallax) Parallaxic.

PARALLAX (s. from the Greek παραλλαξις) The difference between the true and apparent place of any of the heavenly bodies, the angle included between the line of observation and that drawn from the centre of the earth.

PAR'ALLEL (adj. from the Greek παρα by the side, and αλλος another) Extended in the same direction, always preserving the same distance; having the same tendency; continuing the resemblance through many particulars.

PAR'ALLEL (s. from the adj.) The direction of one line conformable to that of another; a parallel line; a resemblance, a comparison.

PAR'ALLEL (v. t. from the sub.) To place in the same direction, to keep in the same direction, to correspond to, to equal, to compare.

PAR'ALLELED (p. from parallel) Placed so as to keep in the same direction with something else, compared.

PARALLELO'PIPED (s. in geography, a different spelling) A parallelopiped.

PARALLELISM (s. from parallel) The state of being parallel.

PAR'ALLELY (adv. from parallel) With parallelism. Scott.

PARALLELO'GRAM (s. in geometry, from the Greek παραλληλος parallel, and γραμμα a figure) A quadrangular plain figure whose opposite sides are parallel and equal, an oblong.

PARALLELOGRAM'MIC (adj. from parallelogram) Having the properties of the parallelogram.

PARALLELOGRAM'MICAL (adj. from parallelogrammic) Belonging to the parallelogram.

PARALLELO'PIPED (s. in geometry, from the Greek παραλληλος parallel) A prism whose base is a parallelogram.

PARALLELOPIPED (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to a prism whose base is a parallelogram.

PARALLELOPIPEDON (s. in geometry) The parallelopiped, a prism whose base is a parallelogram.

PARALLELOFLEU'RON (s. from the Greek παραλληλος parallel, and πλευρον a side) A trapezium two of whose sides are parallel.

PAR'ALOGISM (s. from paralogy) A false argument.

PAR'ALOGIZE (v. inf. from paralogy) To argue sophistically. Scott.

PAR'ALOGIZING (p. a. from paralogize) Arguing sophistically.

PAR'ALOGY (s. from the Greek παρα against, and λογος reason) False reasoning, a sophistical argument.

PARALY'SIS (s. from the Greek παρα through, and λωω to dissolve) A palsy.

PARALY'TIC (adj. from paralysis) Palsied, inclined to a palsy.

PARALY'TIC (s. from the adj.) One afflicted with a palsy.

PARALY'TICAL (adj. from paralytic) Belonging to a palsy, palsied.

P A R

- Par'ament (s. obsolete) An ornament for an altar, robes of state. Chaucer.
- Par'ament (s. a hunting term) The red flesh under the skin of a deer.
- Par'ament (s. in masonry) A uniform course of stones.
- Par'amele (s. in music) The sound of the fifth string. Phi.
- PARAME'SUS (s. from the Greek παρα by the side, and μέσος the middle) The next to the middle finger, the finger on which the ring is worn by married ladies.
- PARAMETER (s. in conic sections, from the Greek παρα through, and μέτρον to measure) The latus rectum of a parabola which is always equal to the square of the ordinate divided by the abscissa.
- PAR'AMOUNT (adj. from the Greek παρα above, and the Lat. mons a mount) Superior, having the highest jurisdiction; eminent, possessing the highest order.
- Par'amount (s. from the adj.) The chief, the supreme lord of the fee.
- PAR'AMOUR (s. from the French par with, and amour love) A lover, a wooer; a mistress; but now grown nearly obsolete in both senses. Milton.
- PAR'AN (s. from the Heb. signifying beauty) The name of a country on the borders of the land of Canaan.
- PAR'ANETE (s. in ancient music) The sound of the sixth string.
- Par'anites (s. in natural history) A kind of amethyst.
- PAR'ANYMPH (s. from the Greek παρα with, and νύμφη the bride) One who conducts the bride to the marriage, a bride-man; one who countenances or supports another; he who makes a speech in the universities in praise of one who is about to take a doctor's degree. Scott.
- PAR'APEGM (s. from the Greek παρα with, and πειννυμι to prove) A brazen table fixed to a pillar on which laws and proclamations were anciently engraven, a table of astronomical observations.
- PARAPEG'MA (s. a different spelling) The parapegm. Phi.
- Parapeg'mata (s. from parapegma) The tables on which the astrologers draw their figures.
- PAR'APET (s. from the French) A wall breast high.
- PAR'APH, PAR'APHE (s. from the Greek παρα with) A kind of flourish at the end of a name always turned in the same manner to prevent the signature from being counterfeited. Scott.
- PARAPHER'NA (s. from the Greek παρα besides, and φερν a dowry) The goods which a woman claims over and above her dower after her husband's death.
- Parapherna'lia (s. from parapherna) The parapherna, the goods which are in the wife's disposal.
- PARAPHIMO'SIS (s. from the Greek παρα with, and φιμω to muzzle) A contraction of the prepuce which renders it incapable of being drawn over the glans.
- PAR'APHRASE (s. from the Greek παρα with, and φρασ a speech) A kind of free translation, a kind of diffuse interpretation.
- Par'aphrase (v. t. from the sub.) To interpret with a latitude of expression, to translate loosely.
- Par'aphrased (p. from paraphrase) Interpreted with a latitude of expression.
- Par'aphrasing (p. a. from paraphrase) Interpreting with a latitude of expression.
- Par'aphrast (s. from paraphrase) A lax interpreter, one who explains with a latitude of expression.
- Paraphras'tic (adj. from paraphrase) Belonging to a paraphrase, done with latitude of expression.
- Paraphras'tical (adj. from paraphrastic) Belonging to a paraphrase, done with latitude of interpretation.
- Paraphras'tically (adv. from paraphrastic) In the manner of a paraphrase.
- Paraphren'etes (s. not so correct a spelling) The paraphrenitis. Scott.
- PARAPHREN'ITIS (s. from the Greek παρα besides, and φρεν φρενις the mind) A kind of madness attended with a continual fever; an inflammation of the diaphragm.
- PARAPHRO'SYNE (s. from the Greek παρα besides, and φρεν the mind) A slight kind of disorder in the imagination.
- PARAPLE'GIA (s. from the Greek παρα through, and πληγω to strike) A palsy affecting every part of the body below the head.
- PARAPLEX'IA (s. from the Greek παρα through, and πληγω to strike, but not so much used) A paraplegia. DiEt. of Arts.
- PARAPOTA'MIA (s. with ancient physicians) The ointment of the oenanthe, the oenanthe.
- PARAR'THREMA (s. from the Greek παρα besides, and αρθρον a joint) A luxation in which the bone is but a little out of its place. Scott.
- PARAQUET'TO (s. in ornithology) A kind of parrot.

P A R

- PARARYTH'MUS (s. from the Greek παρα besides, and ρυθμος a number) A pulse not suitable to the age of person.
- PAR'ASANG (s.) A measure of length among the Persians.
- PARASCE'NIUM (s. from the Greek παρα beyond, and σκηνη a scene) The back part of the stage in a theatre the place to which the actors withdraw.
- PARASCE'VE (s. from the Greek παρασκευαζω to prepare) The preparation of every thing necessary before the operation.
- PARASCE'VE (s. from the Greek παρασκευη) The eve of the sabbath; the sixth day of the last week in Lent.
- PARASELE'NE (s. from the Greek παρα besides, and σεληνη the moon) A meteor about the moon in form of a luminous ring.
- PARASIOP'ESIS (s. from the Greek παρα through, and σιωπω to be silent) The act of keeping silence.
- PAR'ASITE (s. from the Greek παρα with, and σινη corn) One who frequents the tables of great men and earns his welcome by flattery.
- Parasit'ic (adj. from parasite) Suiting a parasite, full of flattery.
- Parasit'ical (adj. from parasitic) Flattering, wheedling; parasitic; belonging to those plants that grow upon and draw their nourishment from others.
- Parasit'icalness (s. from parasitical) The state or quality of being parasitical.
- PAR'ASOL (s. from the Italian parasole) A kind of canopy or umbrella to screen from the heat of the sun.
- PARASTA'DES (s. in architecture) The pillars of a door.
- PARASTA'TA (s. in architecture) A pilaster.
- PARASTA'TÆ (s. plu. of parastata) Pilasters. In anatomy, the two tuberosities adhering to the upper part of the testicles.
- PARASTAT'ICA (s. in architecture) A pilaster or square pillar set in a wall.
- PARASTREM'MA (s. from the Greek παρα aside, and στρέφω to turn) A distortion.
- PARASYNAN'CHE (s. from the Greek παρα with, and συναγκια a place where two vallies meet) An inflammation of the throat in the part where the windpipe and gullet meet.
- PARASYNAX'IS (s. from the Greek παρα with, and συναξ a meeting) A conventicle, an unlawful assembly.
- PARATHE'NAR (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the foot.
- PARATHESIS (s. from the Greek παρα with, and τιθε to put) A figure in grammar in which two or more substantives are put in the same case, opposition; the sentence inclosed between two crotchets; a hint with a promise of future enlargement.
- PARATIL'MUS (s. from the Greek παρατιλλω to tear) A punishment of adultery by plucking off the hair of the privities as practised by the ancient Greeks.
- PARATIT'LA (s. from the Greek παρα with, and τιτλος a title) An abridgment of the titles of a digest or code.
- Paratrage'diate (v. int. not used) To help on a tragedy to make a matter worse.
- Par'atiles (s. from paratitia) The paratitia.
- PAR'ATURE (s. from the Lat. paratus made ready, not much used) A preparation.
- PAR'AVAIL (s. a law term) A subordinate tenant, tenant to one who holds his fee of another.
- Par'availle (s. a different spelling) A paravall, a subordinate tenant. DiEt. of Arts.
- Paraven'ture (adv. obsolete) Peradventure. Chaucer.
- Paraun'ter (adv. obsolete) Perhaps, peradventure. Chaucer.
- Par'azon (s. an old word, from parazonium) A wood knife.
- PARAZO'NIUM (s. from the Greek παρα by the side, and ζωνιον a girdle) A sceptre rounded at both ends, a kind of poniard or short sword worn at the girdle.
- PAR'BAR (s. from the Heb.) A gate or building belonging to the temple.
- PAR'BOIL (v. t. from the French parbouiller) To boil in part, to half boil.
- Par'boiled (p. from parboil) Half boiled, boiled in part.
- Par'boiling (p. a. from parboil) Boiling in part, boiling.
- PAR'BREAK (v. int. from the Dutch breker) To vomit.
- Par'break (s. from the verb) Vomit. Spenser.
- Par'buckle (s. a sea term) A kind of sling to let down a cask or other weight instead of a crane.
- PAR'CÆ (s. in heathen mythology) The three Destinies the Fates who were supposed to preside over the life of man.
- Parca'tio (s. in old records) The act of impounding cattle. PARC.

P A R

PARCEL (s. from the Lat. particula) A part of the whole, a small bundle, a quantity or mass; a number of persons or things in contempt.
par'cel (v. t. a sea term) To strengthen by laying on a strip of canvas.
par'cel (v. t. from the sub.) To make up into a small bundle, to divide into portions.
par'celed (p. from parcel) Made up into a small packet, divided into small portions; with out; as, "It was par'celed out in small allotments." Strengthened by a strip of canvas.
par'celing (s. a sea term) Strips of canvas daubed with tar to be bound about any thing to strengthen it.
par'celing (p. a. from parcel) Making up in small packets, dividing into small portions; strengthening by a strip of canvas.
par'celmaker (s. from parcel, and maker) One of the two officers in the exchequer who makes up the accounts of the echeator.
par'cener (s. a law term) One who has an equal share in the inheritance of an ancestor, as a daughter or sister; a coheir.
par'cenary (s. from parcener) The tenure of lands by coparceners.
ARCH (v. t. of uncertain derivation) To scorch, to dry up.
arch (v. int.) To grow dry, to become scorched; with into; as, "Many corns will dry and parch into barley."
arch'ed (p. from parch) Scorched, dried up on the outside.
arch'ed (s. obsolete) Parchment, paper. Chaucer.
arch'ing (p. a. from parch) Scorching, drying up.
ARCH'MENT (s. from the Lat. pergamena) Skins dressed for writing, sheep skins dressed for writing.
arch'mentmaker (s. from parchment, and maker) One who dresses skins for parchment.
ar'cill (s. an obsolete spelling) A parcel, a part. Chaucer.
ar'cill (adv. obsolete) In part, partly. Chaucer.
ar'cinary (s. a different spelling) Parcenary, the tenure of lands by parceners.
AR'CUS (s. in old records) A pound, a place to confine straying cattle.
ARD (s. from the Lat. pardus) The leopard; any spotted beast as used by the poets.
ar'dale (s. from pard, but not so common a word) The pard, the leopard.
ar'dalis (s. a different spelling) The pardalus. Phillips.
AR'DALUS (s. in zoology) The leopard, the panther.
ARDE' (s. from the French par by, and Dieu God, but now grown obsolete) A petty oath, the form of a profane oath. Chaucer.
ardieu'x (s. from parde obsolete) The form of a profane oath. Chaucer.
AR'DON (s. from the French) The forgiveness of a crime, an indulgence, the remission of penalty; the warrant of forgiveness.
AR'DON (v. t. from the Lat. per by, and donum a gift) To forgive, to excuse an offender, to remit a penalty.
ar'donable (adj. from pardon) Capable of being pardoned, excusable, venial.
ar'donableness (s. from pardonable) The state of being pardonable.
ar'donably (adv. from pardonable) In a manner to be excused, in a manner to be pardoned.
ar'doned (p. from pardon) Forgiven, exempted from punishment.
ar'doner (s. from pardon) One who pardons; a fellow who carried about pardons or indulgences from the pope and sold them to those that were disposed to buy them.
ar'donere (s. an obsolete spelling) A pardoner, one who sold the popes indulgences. Chaucer.
ar'doning (p. a. from pardon) Forgiving, remitting punishment.
ar'durable (adj. obsolete) Everlasting. Chaucer.
ARE (v. t. from the French parer) To cut off the extremities, to cut off by little and little, to diminish.
AREAS (s. in zoology) A kind of serpent.
ARE'CHESIS (s. in rhetoric, from the Greek) An allusion.
ARE'CHOSIS (s. from the Greek) A kind of rhetorical digression.
ar'ed (p. from pare) Cut off from the extremities, cut off by little and little.
AREGME'NON (s. in rhetoric, from the Greek) A figurative mode of expression in which a derivation is joined with the word from which it is derived.

P A R

PAREGOR'IC (adj. from the Greek παρηγορεω to mitigate) Affsuative, having a power to mitigate.
Paregor'ica (s. from paregoric) Medicines to assuage pain.
Paregor'ics (s. from paregoric) Medicines to assuage pain.
PAR'EIL (s. with printers) A kind of letter.
Par'el (s. obsolete) The rigging of a ship. Chaucer.
PAREL'CON (s. from the Greek παραλιν to draw out) A figure in grammar in which a letter or syllable is added to the end of a word.
Par'eli (s. not so common a spelling) The parhelia, mock suns. Cole.
Par'elium (s. a different spelling) The parhelium, a mock sun. Scott.
Parallelisation (s. not used) The act of making parallel. Cole.
PAREMP'TOSIS (s. from the Greek παραπτεω a falling between) A figure in grammar in which a letter or syllable is thrown into the middle of a word; the fall of the blood from the heart into the great artery.
PARENCEPH'ALOS (s. in anatomy, from the Greek παρανους, en in, and κεφαλη the head) The cerebellum.
PARENCHY'MA (s. in anatomy, from the Greek παρευχυμα an effusion) A porous kind of flesh, that kind of flesh of which the heart and some other parts of the body consist.
PARENCHY'MA (s. in botany) The pith of a plant.
parenchy'matous (adj. from parenchyma) Belonging to the parenchyma, spongy, pithy.
parenchy'mous (adj. from parenchyma) Spongy, belonging to those parts which by the old anatomists were supposed to be destitute of vessels.
Par'nefis (s. a different spelling) The parænesis, an exhortation. Scott.
Par'netic (adj. a different spelling) Parænetic, containing admonition. Cole.
Par'netic (s. from the adj.) A masterly or authoritative admonition. Cole.
PA'RENT (s. from the Lat. parens) A father, a mother.
Par'entage (s. from parent) The condition which respects the rank of parents, birth, extraction.
Par'ental (adj. from parent) Becoming parents, belonging to parents.
PARENTA'LIA (s. in Roman antiquity) The obsequies of relations and friends.
Parentation (s. from parent) Something done or said in honour of the dead.
Par'entele (s. obsolete) Kindred. Chaucer.
PAREN'THESIS (s. from the Greek παρα with, εν in, and τις to put) The two crooked lines () including an incidental sentence, a sentence thrown in which might have been left out without injuring the sense; an interposition, the act of putting between; a figure in grammar by which a letter is put into the middle of a word.
parenthet'ical (adj. from parenthesis) Pertaining to a parenthesis, containing a parenthesis.
PAREN'TICIDE (s. from the Lat. parens parentis a parent, and cædo to kill) One who murders a parent.
Par'ntyne (s. obsolete) Parentage, honourable birth. Ch.
Pa'r'er (s. from pare) An instrument to cut away the surface.
PAR'RE (s. in traffic, from the Italian) A letter of advice from an agent or factor abroad. Scott.
PAR'ERGA (s. from the Greek) An appendix; something done by way of ornament to a principal work.
PAR'ERGY (s. from the Greek παρα by, and εργον a work) Something done by the by, something unimportant. Brown.
PARE'SIS (s. from the Greek παρα with, and ισμι to send) A resolution of parts, a palsy. Scott.
Par'faie' (adv. obsolete) By my faith. Chaucer.
Par'fay' (adv. obsolete) By my faith. Cole.
Par'fei' (adv. obsolete) By my faith. Chaucer.
Par'fite (adj. obsolete) Perfect. Cole.
PAR'GET (s. probably from the Lat. paries a wall) A kind of plaister.
Par'get (v. t. from the sub.) To plaister, to cover with a kind of plaister.
Par'geted (p. from parget) Plaistered.
Par'geter (s. from parget) A plaisterer.
Par'geting (p. a. from parget) Plaistering.
Par'helia (s. plu. of parhelium) More mock suns than one.
PARHE'LION (s. from the Greek παρα with, and ηλιος the sun) A mock sun.
Par'helium (s. a different spelling) The parhelion, a mock sun. Phillips.
PARHY'PATE (s. in the music of the ancients) The sound of the next string to the base. Pa'rian

Par'ament (s. obsolete) An ornament for an altar, robes of state. Chaucer.
Par'ament (s. a hunting term) The red flesh under the skin of a deer.
Par'ament (s. in masonry) A uniform course of stones.
Par'amele (s. in music) The sound of the fifth string. Pbi.
PARAME'SUS (s. from the Greek παρα by the side, and μέσος the middle) The next to the middle finger, the finger on which the ring is worn by married ladies.
PARAMETER (s. in conic sections, from the Greek παρα through, and μέτρον to measure) The latus rectum of a parabola which is always equal to the square of the ordinate divided by the abscissa.
PAR'AMOUNT (adj. from the Greek παρα above, and the Lat. mons a mount) Superior, having the highest jurisdiction; eminent, possessing the highest order.
Par'amount (s. from the adj.) The chief, the supreme lord of the fee.
PAR'AMOUR (s. from the French par with, and amour love) A lover, a wooer; a mistress; but now grown nearly obsolete in both senses. Milton.
PAR'AN (s. from the Heb. signifying beauty) The name of a country on the borders of the land of Canaan.
PAR'ANETE (s. in ancient music) The sound of the sixth string.
Par'anites (s. in natural history) A kind of amethyst.
PAR'ANYMPH (s. from the Greek παρα with, and νύμφη the bride) One who conducts the bride to the marriage, a bride-man; one who countenances or supports another; he who makes a speech in the universities in praise of one who is about to take a doctor's degree. Scott.
PAR'APEGM (s. from the Greek παρα with, and πειννυμι to prove) A brazen table fixed to a pillar on which laws and proclamations were anciently engraven, a table of astronomical observations.
PARAPEG'MA (s. a different spelling) The parapegm. Pbi.
Parapeg'mata (s. from parapegma) The tables on which the astrologers draw their figures.
PAR'APET (s. from the French) A wall breast high.
PAR'APH, PAR'APHE (s. from the Greek παρα with) A kind of flourish at the end of a name always turned in the same manner to prevent the signature from being counterfeited. Scott.
PARAPHER'NA (s. from the Greek παρα besides, and φερν a dowry) The goods which a woman claims over and above her dowry after her husband's death.
Parapherna'lia (s. from parapherna) The parapherna, the goods which are in the wife's disposal.
PARAPHIMO'SIS (s. from the Greek παρα with, and φимω to muzzle) A contraction of the prepuce which renders it incapable of being drawn over the glans.
PAR'APHRASE (s. from the Greek παρα with, and φρασσις a speech) A kind of free translation, a kind of diffuse interpretation.
Par'aphrase (v. t. from the sub.) To interpret with a latitude of expression, to translate loosely.
Par'aphraied (p. from: paraphrase) Interpreted with a latitude of expression.
Par'aphrasing (p. a. from paraphrase) Interpreting with a latitude of expression.
Par'aphrast (s. from paraphrase) A lax interpreter, one who explains with a latitude of expression.
Paraphras'tic (adj. from paraphrase) Belonging to a paraphrase, done with latitude of expression.
Paraphras'tical (adj. from paraphrastic) Belonging to a paraphrase, done with latitude of interpretation.
Paraphras'tically (adv. from paraphrastic) In the manner of a paraphrase.
Paraphren'etes (s. not so correct a spelling) The paraphrenitis. Scott.
PARAPHREN'ITIS (s. from the Greek παρα besides, and φρεν φρενιτις the mind) A kind of madness attended with a continual fever; an inflammation of the diaphragm.
PARAPHRO'SYNE (s. from the Greek παρα besides, and φρεν the mind) A slight kind of disorder in the imagination.
PARAPLE'GIA (s. from the Greek παρα through, and πληττω to strike) A palsy affecting every part of the body below the head.
PARAPLEX'IA (s. from the Greek παρα through, and πληττω to strike, but not so much used) A paraplegia. DiEt. of Arts.
PARAPOTA'MIA (s. with ancient physicians) The ointment of the cenanthe, the cenanthe.
PARAR'THREMA (s. from the Greek παρα besides, and αρθρον a joint) A luxation in which the bone is but a little out of its place. Scott.
PARAQUET'TO (s. in ornithology) A kind of parrot.

PARARYTH'MUS (s. from the Greek παρα besides, and ρυθμος a number) A pulse not suitable to the age of person.
PAR'ASANG (s.) A measure of length among the Persians.
PARASCE'NIUM (s. from the Greek παρα beyond, and σκηνη a scene) The back part of the stage in a theatre the place to which the actors withdraw.
PARASCE'VE (s. from the Greek παρασκευαζω to prepare) The preparation of every thing necessary before the operation.
PARASCE'VE (s. from the Greek παρασκευη) The day of the sabbath; the sixth day of the last week in Lent.
PARASELE'NE (s. from the Greek παρα besides, and σεληνη the moon) A meteor about the moon in form of a luminous ring.
PARASIOPE'SIS (s. from the Greek παρα through, and σιωπω to be silent) The act of keeping silence.
PAR'ASITE (s. from the Greek παρα with, and σιτη corn) One who frequents the tables of great men and earns his welcome by flattery.
Parasit'ic (adj. from parasite) Suited a parasite, full of flattery.
Parasit'ical (adj. from parasitic) Flattering, wheedling; parasitic; belonging to those plants that grow upon and draw their nourishment from others.
Parasit'icalness (s. from parasitical) The state or quality of being parasitical.
PAR'ASOL (s. from the Italian parasole) A kind of canopy or umbrella to screen from the heat of the sun.
PARASTA'DES (s. in architecture) The pillars of a dome.
PARASTA'TA (s. in architecture) A pilaster.
PARASTA'TÆ (s. plu. of parastata) Pilasters. In anatomy, the two tuberosities adhering to the upper part of the testicles.
PARASTAT'ICA (s. in architecture) A pilaster or square pillar set in a wall.
PARASTREM'MA (s. from the Greek παρα aside, and στρεφω to turn) A distortion.
PARASYNAN'CHE (s. from the Greek παρα with, and συναγκεια a place where two vallies meet) An inflammation of the throat in the part where the windpipe and gullet meet.
PARASYNAX'IS (s. from the Greek παρα with, and συναξις a meeting) A conventicle, an unlawful assembly.
PARATHE'NAR (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the foot.
PARATH'ESIS (s. from the Greek παρα with, and τιθε to put) A figure in grammar in which two or more substantives are put in the same case, opposition; the sentence inclosed between two crotchets; a hint with a promise of future enlargement.
PARATIL'MUS (s. from the Greek παρατιλλω to tear) A punishment of adultery by plucking off the hair of the privities as practised by the ancient Greeks.
PARATIT'LA (s. from the Greek παρα with, and τιτλη a title) An abridgment of the titles of a digest or code.
Paratrage'diate (v. int. not used) To help on a tragedy to make a matter worse.
Par'atitles (s. from paratitla) The paratitla.
PAR'ATURE (s. from the Lat. paratus made ready, but not much used) A preparation.
PAR'AVAIL (s. a law term) A subordinate tenant, tenant to one who holds his fee of another.
Par'availle (s. a different spelling) A paravail, a subordinate tenant. DiEt. of Arts.
Paraven'ture (adv. obsolete) Peradventure. Chaucer.
Paraun'ter (adv. obsolete) Perhaps, peradventure. Chaucer.
Par'azon (s. an old word, from parazonium) A sword knife.
PARAZO'NIUM (s. from the Greek παρα by the side, and ζωνιον a girdle) A sceptre rounded at both ends, a kind of poniard or short sword worn at the girdle.
PAR'BAR (s. from the Heb.) A gate or building belonging to the temple.
PAR'BOIL (v. t. from the French parbouiller) To boil in part, to half boil.
Par'boiled (p. from parboil) Half boiled, boiled in part.
Par'boiling (p. a. from parboil) Boiling in part, boiling.
PAR'BREAK (v. int. from the Dutch breker) To vomit.
Par'break (s. from the verb) Vomit.
Par'buckle (s. a sea term) A kind of sling to let down a cask or other weight instead of a crane.
PAR'CÆ (s. in heathen mythology) The three Destinies the Fates who were supposed to preside over the fate of man.
Parca'tio (s. in old records) The act of impounding cattle.

P A R

PARCEL (s. from the Lat. particula) A part of the whole, a small bundle, a quantity or mass; a number of persons or things in contempt.
par'cel (v. t. a sea term) To strengthen by laying on a strip of canvas.
par'cel (v. t. from the sub.) To make up into a small bundle, to divide into portions.
par'celed (p. from parcel) Made up into a small packet, divided into small portions; with out; as, "It was par'celed out in small allotments." Strengthened by a strip of canvas.
par'celing (s. a sea term) Strips of canvas daubed with tar to be bound about any thing to strengthen it.
par'celing (p. a. from parcel) Making up in small packets, dividing into small portions; strengthening by a strip of canvas.
par'celmaker (s. from parcel, and maker) One of the two officers in the exchequer who makes up the accounts of the excheator.
par'cener (s. a law term) One who has an equal share in the inheritance of an ancestor, as a daughter or sister; a coheir.
par'cenary (s. from parcener) The tenure of lands by coparceners.
ARCH (v. t. of uncertain derivation) To scorch, to dry up.
arch (v. int.) To grow dry, to become scorched; with into; as, "Many corns will dry and parch into barley."
arch'ed (p. from parch) Scorched, dried up on the outside.
arch'ed (s. obsolete) Parchment, paper. Chaucer.
arch'ing (p. a. from parch) Scorching, drying up.
ARCHMENT (s. from the Lat. pergamenta) Skins dressed for writing, sheep skins dressed for writing.
arch'mentmaker (s. from parchment, and maker) One who dresses skins for parchment.
arch'ill (s. an obsolete spelling) A parcel, a part. Chaucer.
arch'ill (adv. obsolete) In part, partly. Chaucer.
arch'inary (s. a different spelling) Parcenary, the tenure of lands by parceners.
ARCUS (s. in old records) A pound, a place to confine straying cattle.
ARD (s. from the Lat. pardus) The leopard; any spotted beast as used by the poets.
ard'ale (s. from pard, but not so common a word) The pard, the leopard.
ard'alid (s. a different spelling) The pardalid. Phillips.
ARDALUS (s. in zoology) The leopard, the panther.
ARDE (s. from the French par by, and Dieu God, but now grown obsolete) A petty oath, the form of a profane oath. Chaucer.
ardieu'x (s. from parde obsolete) The form of a profane oath. Chaucer.
ARDON (s. from the French) The forgiveness of a crime, an indulgence, the remission of penalty; the warrant of forgiveness.
ard'ON (v. t. from the Lat. per by, and donum a gift) To forgive, to excuse an offender, to remit a penalty.
ard'onable (adj. from pardon) Capable of being pardoned, excusable, venial.
ard'onableness (s. from pardonable) The state of being pardonable.
ard'onably (adv. from pardonable) In a manner to be excused, in a manner to be pardoned.
ard'oned (p. from pardon) Forgiven, exempted from punishment.
ard'oner (s. from pardon) One who pardons; a fellow who carried about pardons or indulgences from the pope and sold them to those that were disposed to buy them.
ard'onere (s. an obsolete spelling) A pardoner, one who sold the popes indulgences. Chaucer.
ard'oning (p. a. from pardon) Forgiving, remitting punishment.
ard'urable (adj. obsolete) Everlasting. Chaucer.
ARE (v. t. from the French parer) To cut off the extremities, to cut off by little and little, to diminish.
AREAS (s. in zoology) A kind of serpent.
ARECHESIS (s. in rhetoric, from the Greek) An allusion.
ARECHOSIS (s. from the Greek) A kind of rhetorical digression.
ar'ed (p. from pare) Cut off from the extremities, cut off by little and little.
AREGME'NON (s. in rhetoric, from the Greek) A figurative mode of expression in which a derivation is joined with the word from which it is derived.

P A R

AREGORIC (adj. from the Greek παρηγορεω to mitigate) Affuative, having a power to mitigate.
AREGORICA (s. from paregoric) Medicines to assuage pain.
AREGORICS (s. from paregoric) Medicines to assuage pain.
AREIL (s. with printers) A kind of letter.
ar'el (s. obsolete) The rigging of a ship. Chaucer.
ARELCON (s. from the Greek παραγω to draw out) A figure in grammar in which a letter or syllable is added to the end of a word.
ar'eli (s. not so common a spelling) The parhelia, mock suns. Cole.
ar'elium (s. a different spelling) The parhelium, a mock sun. Scott.
ARELISATION (s. not used) The act of making parallel.
AREMP'TOSIS (s. from the Greek παραπνιξις a falling between) A figure in grammar in which a letter or syllable is thrown into the middle of a word; the fall of the blood from the heart into the great artery.
ARENCEPHALOS (s. in anatomy, from the Greek παρανους, ev in, and κεφαλη the head) The cerebellum.
ARENCHYMA (s. in anatomy, from the Greek παραχυμα an effusion) A porous kind of flesh, that kind of flesh of which the heart and some other parts of the body consist.
ARENCHYMA (s. in botany) The pith of a plant.
arenchy'matous (adj. from parenchyma) Belonging to the parenchyma, spongy, pithy.
arenchy'mous (adj. from parenchyma) Spongy, belonging to those parts which by the old anatomists were supposed to be destitute of vessels.
ar'neis (s. a different spelling) The parænesis, an exhortation. Scott.
arenet'ic (adj. a different spelling) Parænetic, containing admonition. Cole.
arenet'ic (s. from the adj.) A masterly or authoritative admonition. Cole.
ARENT (s. from the Lat. parens) A father, a mother.
ar'entage (s. from parent) The condition which respects the rank of parents, birth, extraction.
ar'ental (adj. from parent) Becoming parents, belonging to parents.
ARENTALIA (s. in Roman antiquity) The obsequies of relations and friends.
arentation (s. from parent) Something done or said in honour of the dead.
ar'entele (s. obsolete) Kindred. Chaucer.
ARENTHESIS (s. from the Greek παρα with, ev in, and τιθης to put) The two crooked lines () including an incidental sentence, a sentence thrown in which might have been left out without injuring the sense; an interposition, the act of putting between; a figure in grammar by which a letter is put into the middle of a word.
arenthet'ical (adj. from parenthesis) Pertaining to a parenthesis, containing a parenthesis.
AREN'TICIDE (s. from the Lat. parens parentis a parent, and cædo to kill) One who murders a parent.
ar'ent'ine (s. obsolete) Parentage, honourable birth. Ch.
ar'erer (s. from pare) An instrument to cut away the surface.
ARERE (s. in traffic, from the Italian) A letter of advice from an agent or factor abroad. Scott.
ARERGA (s. from the Greek) An appendix; something done by way of ornament to a principal work.
ARERGY (s. from the Greek παρα by, and εργον a work) Something done by the by, something unimportant. Brown.
ARESIS (s. from the Greek παρα with, and mis to send) A resolution of parts, a pithy. Scott.
ar'aise' (adv. obsolete) By my faith. Chaucer.
ar'ay' (adv. obsolete) By my faith. Cole.
ar'el' (adv. obsolete) By my faith. Chaucer.
ar'ite (adj. obsolete) Perfect. Cole.
AREGET (s. probably from the Lat. paries a wall) A kind of plaster.
ar'get (v. t. from the sub.) To plaster, to cover with a kind of plaster.
ar'geted (p. from parget) Plastered.
ar'geter (s. from parget) A plasterer.
ar'geting (p. a. from parget) Plastering.
ar'he'lia (s. plu. of parhelium) More mock suns than one.
ARHE'LION (s. from the Greek παρα with, and ηλιος the sun) A mock sun.
ar'he'lium (s. a different spelling) The parhelion, a mock sun. Phillips.
ARHY'PATE (s. in the music of the ancients) The sound of the next string to the base. Parian

P A R

Pa'rian (adj. from Paros) Belonging to Paros, belonging to a fine white marble brought from Paros.

PARIE'TAL (s. in anatomy) One of the two thin bones in the front of the skull.

Parietal (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to one of the thin bones in the fore part of the skull.

Parieta'lia (s. in anatomy) The parietals.

PARIETA'RIA (s. in botany) The pellitory of the wall.

PAR'ETARY (s. from the Lat. paries a wall) A wall. Scott.

PAR'ETES (s. in anatomy) The sides of the head; the membranes that close up the hollow parts of the body.

Par'il (s. an obsolete spelling) Peril, danger. Chaucer.

Par'ilian (adj. from paliia) Belonging to the paliia. Phillips.

Par'ing (p. a. from pare) Cutting off from the surface.

Par'ing (s. from the part.) The act of cutting off by little and little, that which is cut off from the extremities.

PAR'IS (s. in geography) The capital city of France.

PAR'IS (s. in botany) The true love, the oneberry.

PAR'ISH (s. from the Greek παρῖς with, and omeu to dwell) A particular division or district having officers of its own and generally a church.

Par'ish (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to a parish, having the care of a parish, maintained by the parish.

Par'ishens (s. obsolete) Parishioners. Chaucer.

Par'ishoner (s. from parish) One that belongs to the parish, one that has a settlement in the parish.

Paris'ian (adj. from Paris) Belonging to Paris.

Paris'ian (s. from the adj.) A native of Paris, an inhabitant of Paris.

Par'iss (s. with medalists) The coin formerly struck at Paris as distinguished from the Tournois.

PARISTHE'NIA (s. in anatomy, from the Greek) The tonsils.

PARISYLL'ABLE (s. in grammar, from the Greek παρῖς with, and συλλαβὴν a syllable, but not used) A word that has an equal number of syllables in all its cases. Cole.

Parisyllab'ic (adj. from parisyllable) Having the same number of syllables in all its cases.

Parisyllab'ical (adj. from parisyllable) Having the same number of syllables in all its cases.

Par'itor (s. from apparitor) An apparitor, a beadle.

Par'itour (s. an antique spelling) An apparitor.

Par'ity (s. from par) Equality, resemblance.

PARK (s. from the Sax. pearrue) A piece of ground inclosed and stored with deer and other beasts of chase; the place where the artillery of an army is kept and guarded; a kind of fishing net; a moveable kind of palisade for the security of sheep in the night time.

Park (v. t. from the sub.) To inclose as in a park.

Park'bote (s. from park, and bote) An exemption from the duty of inclosing a park.

Park'ed (p. from park) Inclosed as in a park.

Park'er (s. from park) A park-keeper.

Parking (p. a. from park) Inclosing as in a park.

PARKINSON'IA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

Park'leaves (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

PARLE (s. from the French parler to talk) A conversation, an oral treaty, a conference. Roscoe.

Par'ley (v. int. from parley) To talk, to treat by word of mouth; with with; as, "He parleys with her a while."

Par'ley (s. from the verb.) An oral treaty, a conference, a discussion by word of mouth.

Par'leying (p. a. from parley) Talking, treating by word of mouth.

PAR'LIAMENT (s. from the French parlement) The senate, the chief council of a nation, the king, lords, and commons; the house of commons.

Par'liament (adj. from the sub. sometimes used in composition) Belonging to the parliament, parliamentary.

Parliamen'tary (adj. from parliament) Belonging to the parliament, suited to the parliament.

Par'liamentheel (s. a sea term) The situation of a ship when she is made to lean on one side in order to clean the other.

Par'liamenthouse (s. from parliament, and house) The house in which the parliament usually meet.

Par'liamentman (s. from parliament, and man) A member of parliament, one of the house of commons.

Par'liamentmen (s. plu. of parliamentman) More than one parliamentman.

PARLIMEN'TUM (s. from the low Lat.) The parliament.

Par'lir (s. an obsolete spelling) A parlour. Chaucer.

PAR'LOUR (s. from the French parloir) A room on the first floor elegantly furnished, a room for the entertainment of genteel company; a room in a monastery where the religious meet and converse together.

P A R

PAR'LOUS (adj. of uncertain derivation) Keen, sprightly, witty. Dryden.

Par'lousness (s. from parlous) Quickness, keenness of temper. Johnson.

PAR'MA (s. in geography) A duchy in Italy; the capital of that duchy.

PAR'MA (s. with antiquarians) A kind of buckler, a round figure big enough to cover the whole body.

Parmace'ti (s. a different spelling) The spermaceti. Cole.

Parmacit'y (s. for spermaceti) The fine wax prepared from the fat of a whale. Answorth.

PARME'NAS (s.) A man's name. Adie.

Par'mesan (s. from Parma) A delicate kind of cheese.

Par'mesan (s. from Parma) A native of Parma, an inhabitant of Parma.

PARNAS'IA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

Parnas'ian (adj. from Parnassus) Belonging to mount Parnassus.

Parnas'ides (s. from Parnassus) The Muses.

PARNAS'SUS (s.) A mountain in Greece much celebrated by the poets.

PAR'NEL (s.) The name of a woman.

Par'nel (s. obsolete) A woman of ill fame.

PARO'CHIA (s. from the Greek) Lands given by the Romans to superannuated officers for their maintenance; the precinct of a bishop; a parish, an assembly of neighbours. Phillips.

PARO'CHIAL (adj. from the Greek παρῖς by, and omeu to dwell) Belonging to a parish.

Parochia'nus (s. in old records) A person living within the precinct of a bishop, a parish priest.

Par'ochus (s. in antiquity) An officer who was to provide necessaries for those that travelled on the business of the public.

PARO'DIC (adj. in algebra, from the Greek παρῖς through, and ὁδὸς a way) Regularly ascending or descending as the indices of the unknown quantity in affected equations.

Paro'dical (adj. from parodic) Having the indices of the unknown quantity regularly ascending or descending in affected equations.

Paro'died (p. from parody) Copied by way of parody. Pope.

PARODON'TIDES (s. in surgery, from the Greek παρῖς with, and δοντογὰ tooth) A kind of swelling in the gums.

PAR'ODY (s. from the Greek παρῖς through, and ὁδὸς an ode) A method of writing in which the style and sentiments of an author are taken and applied to some new purpose; a kind of burlesque.

PAR'ODY (s. from the Greek παρῖς through, and ὁδὸς a way) An adage, a trite saying.

Par'ody (v. t. from the sub.) To copy by way of parody. Pope.

Par'odye (s. obsolete) Jeopardy. Chaucer.

Par'odying (p. a. from parody) Copying by way of parody.

PAROE'CIA (s. not used) The parochia. Phillips.

Paroe'mia (s. a different spelling) The parocimia. Cole.

PARO'MIA (s. from the Greek) A proverb, a proverbial way of speaking.

Paro'l (s. from parole) A parole, a plea in court. D. of A.

Paro'l (adj. from the sub.) Verbal, done by word of mouth. Scott.

PARO'LE (s. from the French) A verbal promise, a promise not to run away; a promise to return.

Paro'le (s. a law term) A plea in court. Scott.

Paro'le (adj. from the sub.) Verbal, done by word of mouth, promissory.

Paro'li (s. with gamesters) The double of what was staked before.

PAROMCE'ON (s. from the Greek) A proverb. Scott.

PARONOMA'SIA (s. in rhetoric, from the Greek) A figure in which by the change of a letter or syllable many things are alluded to, an agnomination. Johnson.

Paron'omous (adj. from paronomasia) Belonging to the paronomasia. Cole.

PARONY'CHIA (s. from the Greek παρῖς by, and ὁδὸς a nail) A perpetual sore under the root of the nail, whitlow.

PARON'YMOUS (adj. from the Greek παρῖς with, and ὁμοία a name) Resembling another name, resembling another word.

PARO'PIÆ (s. in anatomy) The lesser corners of the eyes. Phillips.

PAROP'TOSIS (s. from the Greek) The act of roasting; a kind of cautery used by the old physicians.

PAR'OQUET (s. in ornithology) A small species of parrot. PARROT.

P A R

P A R

PAROS (s. in geography) One of the Cyclades famous for a fine white marble.

PAROSH (s. from the Heb. signifying a plea) A man's name.

PAROTID (adj. from the Greek παρὰ by, and ωτός the ear) Belonging to the glands under and behind the ears.

PAROTIDES (s. plu. of parotis) The glandules under and behind the ears, the swelling of the glands behind the ears.

PAROTIS (s. from the Greek παρὰ by, and ὤτος the ear) One of the glandules commonly called the almonds of the ears; a tumour in one of those glandules.

PAROXISM (s. from the Greek παρὰ by, and ὄξυς to sharpen) A fit, the periodical exacerbation of a disease.

PARPUNCTUM (s. in old records) A coat of mail, a kind of doublet.

PARTRAL (s. a sea term) A machine or frame to fasten the yards to the mast so as to raise or lower them as occasion may require.

PARROT (s. not so common a spelling) A parrot. Phil.

PARROTIA (s. from the Greek) A liberty or freedom of speech.

PARTRICIDAL (adj. from parricide) Parricidal, belonging to parricide. Scott.

PARTRICIDE (s. from the Lat. paricida) One who destroys his father, one who acts against his country, one who destroys that to which he owes particular reverence; the murder of a father, the murder of one to whom particular reverence is due.

PARTRICIDIAL (adj. from parricide) Belonging to parricide, committing parricide.

PARTRICIDIOUS (adj. from parricide) Parricidal. Brown.

PARTRILL (s. an obsolete spelling) Apparel. Chaucer.

PARTRUCK (s. the diminutive of park) A paddock, a small inclosure. Scott.

PARROT (s. in ornithology) A particoloured bird remarkable for its imitation of the human voice.

PARROTED (adj. from parrot) Taught to speak by rote as a parrot.

PARRY (v. int. from the French parer) To fence, to ward off a thrust.

PARRYING (p. a. from parry) Fencing, warding off a thrust.

PARRYING (s. from the part.) The act of warding off a thrust.

PARSE (v. t. from the Lat. pars a part) To resolve a sentence into the parts of speech and account for the construction.

PARSED (p. from parse) Resolved into the parts of speech.

PARSHANDA'THA (s. from the Heb. signifying revelation) A man's name. Esther.

PARSIMONIOUS (adj. from parsimony) Frugal, sparing, covetous.

PARSIMONIOUSLY (adj. from parsimonious) Frugally, sparingly, covetously.

PARSIMONIOUSNESS (s. from parsimonious) The state or quality of being parsimonious.

PARSIMONY (s. from the Lat. parsimonia) Frugality, sparingness, covetousness.

PARSING (p. a. from parse) Resolving into the parts of speech and accounting for the construction according to the rules of grammar.

PARSING (s. from the part.) The act or exercise of resolving a sentence into the parts of speech and accounting for the construction.

PARSLEY (s. in botany, from the Brit. persli) A well known herb.

PARSLEYHEDGE (s. in botany) The name of an herb. Phil.

PARSLEYPERT (s. in botany) The name of an herb, the plant commonly called pig's parsley.

PARSLING (s. a sea term, and a different spelling) Parceling, the act or process of laying on strips of canvas. Falconer.

PARSNEP (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the root of the plant.

PARSNIP (s. not so common a spelling) The parsnep. Sc.

PARSON (s. from the Lat. persona a person) A clergyman, a dissenting minister; the parish priest, one that has the parochial charge or care of souls.

PARSONAGE (s. from parson) The ecclesiastical benefice of a parish, the mansion house of a parson.

PARSONAGEHOUSE (s. from parson, and house) The house appropriated to the minister of the parish; a house appropriated to the use of a minister in a dissenting congregation.

PARTR (s. from the Lat. pars) Something less than the whole, a portion, a division, a space; a side, a party; a particular office, a particular character; business, a reproachful concern; the tune composed for a particular exercise or instruction in music.

Part (v. t. from the sub.) To divide, to share, to separate, to disunite, to break into pieces; to keep asunder, to separate combatants; to strain off.

Part (v. int.) To fall asunder, to become separate; to take leave, to take farewell, to have a share; to go away, to set out. To part with, to quit, to resign.

Part (adv. from the sub.) Partly, in some measure. Sb.

Part (in the manage) The depart, the action of an horse when put on full speed.

Part'able (adj. from part) Divisible, capable of being parted.

Part'able (s. obsolete) The act of partaking, a partaker, an accomplice. Chaucer.

Part'age (s. from part) A division, the act of parting. Locke.

Part'ake (v. int. from part, and take) To have a share, to take share; to participate; with of; as, "Will you partake of my bounty." Sometimes with in; "How far brutes partook with men in the intellectual faculties."

Part'ake (v. t.) To share, to take part of; to admit to a part; but this sense is obsolete. Shakespeare.

Part'aken (p. from partake) Shared. Johnson.

Part'aker (s. from partake) A partner, an accomplice, an associate; with in and with; "We would not have been partakers with them in the blood of the prophets."

Part'aking (p. a. from partake) Sharing, participating.

Part'aking (s. from the part.) A combination. Hale.

PARTAT (s. a different spelling) The partat, the Dutch fiver. Scott.

Part'en (v. int. obsolete) To partake. Chaucer.

Part'er (s. from part.) One that parts, one that separates.

PARTER'RE (s. from the French) A level division of ground facing the front of a house.

PARTHE'NIAN (adj. from the Greek παρθένης a virgin, but not much used) Belonging to virginity. Cole.

PARTHENIAS/TRUM (s. in botany) The parthenium.

PARTHE'NIS (s. in botany) A kind of mayweed.

PARTHE'NIUM (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the feverfew.

PART'HA (s. in ancient geography) A country in Asia; it now makes a part of the Persian empire.

Par'thian (adj. from Parthia) Belonging to Parthia.

Par'thian (s. from the adj.) A native of Parthia.

Par'ti (adj. in heraldry) Divided into several partitions.

Par'tial (adj. from part) Inclined to favour one party more than the other, inclined to favour without reason; affecting one part only, short of being universal.

Partial'ity (s. from partial) The quality of being partial.

Partialize (v. t. from partial, but not used) To make partial. Shakespeare.

Partial'ly (adv. from partial) With unjust favour, with unjust dislike; in a manner affecting one part only.

Partial'ness (s. from partial) Partiality.

Partiary (s. from part, but not used) A partaker. Cole.

Parti'bility (s. from partible) Divisibility.

Part'ible (adj. from part) Divisible, separable.

Partic'ipable (adj. from participate) Capable of being shared, capable of being participated. Norris.

Partic'ipant (adj. from participate) Sharing, having a share.

PARTIC'IPATE (v. int. from the Lat. participo) To partake, to have a share, to have part with another; with of; as, "Few creatures participate of the nature of plants." Sometimes with in; "In both we participate."

Partic'ipate (v. t.) To share, to partake.

Partic'ipated (p. from participate) Shared, received as a partner with another.

Partic'ipating (p. a. from participate) Sharing, partaking.

Participa'tion (s. from participate) The state of sharing something with another; a distribution, a division into shares.

Particip'ial (adj. from participate) Having the nature of a participle.

Particip'ial (s. from the adj.) A participle. Scott.

Particip'ially (adv. from participial) In the manner of a participle.

PARTICIPLE (s. from the Lat. pars a part, and capio to take) A word or part of speech which partakes of the nature both of a verb and an adjective; an adjective derived of a verb; that which participates of different things.

PARTICLE (s. from the Lat. particula) A small part, a small portion; a part of speech including all indeclinable words, a little word.

PARTICULAR

P A R

PARTICULAR (adj. from the Lat. particula) Single, individual, relating to distinct persons or things; attentive to minute circumstances, odd, uncommon.

Particular (s. from the adj.) A single instance, a single thing, an individual, a private person, a private concern, a minute detail, a distinct detail.

Particularist (s. from particular) One who holds the doctrine of particular redemption.

Particularity (s. from particular) The state of being particular; something peculiar.

Particularize (v. t. from particular) To mention particularly, to shew minutely.

Particularized (p. from particularize) Mentioned particularly, pointed out in particular.

Particularizing (p. a. from particularize) Pointing out in a particular manner.

Particularly (adv. from particular) Distinctly, singly; in an extraordinary manner.

Particularness (s. from particular) Particularity. Scott.

Particulate (v. int. obsolete) To particularize. Camd.

Partie (adj. in heraldry) Divided into several divisions.

Partie (s. obsolete) A part. Chaucer.

Partile (adj. in astrology) Exact, full in all its parts.

Partin (v. int. obsolete) To partake of. Chaucer.

Partiner (s. obsolete) A partner. Chaucer.

Parting (p. a. from part) Separating, falling asunder; taking leave.

Parting (s. from the part.) A division, an opening; the ceremony in taking leave.

Partion (s. not used) A breeding. Cole.

Partisan (s. from party) An adherent to a party, one of a particular faction; the commander of a party; a commander's staff.

PARTISAN (s. from the French) A kind of pike, a kind of halbert. Shakespeare.

Partite (s. obsolete) A part. Chaucer.

PARTITION (s. from the Lat. partitio) The act of dividing, the state of being divided; a division, a separation; a part divided from the rest, a separate part; that which divides one apartment from another, the place where the division is made.

Partition (v. t. from the sub.) To divide into distinct parts.

Partitioned (p. from partition) divided into distinct parts. Bacon.

Partitioning (p. a. from partition) Dividing into distinct parts.

Partitor (s. not used) A divider. Cole.

Partivere (s. obsolete) Parts, particulars. Chaucer.

Partles (adj. from part, obsolete) Having no share, void of. Chaucer.

Partlet (s. an old word) A ruff for the neck, a loose kind of collar for a doublet; a hen.

Partly (adv. from part) In part, in some degree, in some measure.

Partner (s. from part) A sharer, a partaker, an associate; one that dances with another.

Partner (v. t. from the sub.) To join, to associate with a partner.

Partnered (p. from partner) Joined, associated. Sh.

Partnership (s. from partner) Joint interest, joint property; the union of two or more in trade.

Partook (v. int. pret. of partake) Did partake.

Partriche (s. an old spelling) A partridge. Cole.

PARTRIDGE (s. in ornithology, from the Lat. perdix) The name of a well known bird of game.

Parts (s. plu. of part) Qualities, powers, faculties; districts, regions.

PAR'TULA (s. in heathen mythology) The goddess who was supposed to preside over pregnant women and to assist at the child birth.

PARTUN'DA (s. a different spelling) The goddess Partula.

PARTURIENT (adj. from the Lat. parturio to bring forth) About to bring forth.

PARTURITION (s. from the Lat. parturio to bring forth) The state of being about to bring forth.

PAR'TUS (s. from the Lat.) The birth.

Par'ty (s. from part) A number of persons joined in any design, a portion; one concerned in any affair, one of two litigants; a cause, a side; a particular person, one distinct from another; a detachment of soldiers.

Par'ty (s. obsolete) A part. Chaucer.

Par'ty (adv. obsolete) Partly. Chaucer.

Par'ty (adj. in heraldry) Divided into parts.

Par'tycoloured (adj. from party, and colour) Having a diversity of colours.

Par'tyjury (s. from party, and jury) A jury composed of natives and foreigners.

P A S

Par'tyman (s. from party, and man) An adherent to a party, a factious man.

Par'tywall (s. from party, and wall) A wall that separates one tenement from another and is equally the property of both.

PA'RU (s. in ichthyology) A species of chætodon.

PARU'AH (s. from the Heb. signifying one that furishes) A man's name.

PAR'VIS (s. obsolete from the French) A porch, a chimney porch; a court before a great house. Chaucer.

Par'vis (s. from the foregoing) The exercises by way of disputation carried on by the young students in the inns of court; a particular kind of disputation in the university of Oxford.

Par'vise (s. a different spelling) The pervise. D. of PAR'VITUDE (s. from the Lat. parvus little) Little-ness. Glanville.

PAR'VITY (s. from the Lat. parvus small) Little-ness. minuteness.

PARU/LIDES (s. with surgeons) The swelling of the gums.

PARU/LIS (s. from the Greek παρὰ by, and ελον a gum) The swelling of the gums attended with great pain.

PAR'VUM (s. in anatomy, from the Lat. parvus small) muscle of the head.

PAR'US (s. in ornithology) The titmouse.

Par'y (v. int. a different spelling) To parry. Sh.

PARY'LIS (s. a different spelling) The parulis. Sh.

PARY'PATE (s. in the ancient music) The note above the hyphate answering to C in the scale of the moderns.

PAS (s. from the French) Precedence, the right of going before. Arbuthnot.

Pas'cage (s. an old word) Pasturage.

PAS'CHA (s. from the Heb. signifying to pass) The first of the passover in which the Jews commemorated the signal deliverance when the angel destroyed the first born of the Egyptians but passed over the houses spared the first born of the Israelites; the festival Easter held in commemoration of our Saviour's death and resurrection.

Pas'chal (adj. from pascha) Belonging to the passover relating to Easter.

Pas'che (s. a different spelling) The pascha. Sh.

Pasch'flower (s. in botany, from paschal, and flower) The name of a plant that flowers about Easter.

Pas'cuage (s. an old word) Pasturage.

Pas'cuous (adj. an old word) Belonging to pasture used for pasture.

PASH (s. from the Spanish paz) A kiss. Shakespeare.

PASH (v. t. from the Dutch passen) To strike, to come with something thrown suddenly.

Pash'ed (p. from pash) Struck, crushed by some violent blow.

Pash'ing (p. a. from pash) Striking, crushing by some violent blow.

PA'SHUR (s. from the Heb. signifying one that multiplies) A man's name.

PAS'LAY (s.) A town in Scotland in the country Renfrew.

Pas'nage (s. an old word) Pannage. Phillips.

Pas'queflower (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the name of a flower.

PAS'QUIL (s. from the Lat. pasquino a statue in Rome which they fixed their papers of satirical observations) A lampoon.

Pas'quin (s. a different spelling) A pasquil.

Pasquina'de (s. from pasquin) A pasquil, a lampoon.

PASS (s. from the Lat. passus a step) A narrow entrance, an avenue, a passage, a road; a permission to go, come, an order by which vagrants are sent to the proper place of abode; a push, a thrust in fencing, a state, a condition.

Pas (v. int. from the sub.) To go, to move from one place to another; to make transition, to go over from one to another; to vanish, to be lost; to be spent; to go away; to be at an end, to be over; to change regular gradation, to die; to be enacted, to be effected; to exist, to exist in any state; to gain reputation, to become current; to occur, to be done; to determine, to judge; to thrust, to make a push; fencing; to be in a tolerable state. To pass away to be lost, to vanish.

Pas (v. t.) To go beyond, to go through; to spend to live through; to put into motion; to carry half to glance; to utter, to vent; to put an end to; to omit, to neglect; to surpass, to excel; to transgress to go beyond bounds; to enact; to send from one place to another; to admit, to allow; to impose praise artfully. To pass away, to spend, to waste.

P A S

To pass by, to neglect, to forgive. To pass over, to omit.
passable (adj. from pass) Capable of being passed; sup-portable, tolerable; admissible; popular, well received. Bacon.
PASSACALIO (s. in music) A kind of a grave air.
PASSACILIO (s. in music, different spellings) A kind of grave air. Bailey.
PASSADE (s. in fencing) A thrust.
PASSADE (s. from the French) An alms to a passenger. Bailey.
PASSADO (s. a different spelling) A push, a thrust.
PASSAGE (s. from pass) The act of passing, a road, a way to pass, the liberty of passing; an occurrence, an incident; an unsettled state, an aptness to wander; management, conduct; a part of a book, a single place in a writing.
PASSANT (adj. from pass) Passing; walking along leisurely.
PASSARDO (s. a sea term) A rope by which the main tackles is fastened down to the ship's side. Scott.
PASSARDO (s. a different spelling) The passarado. Falco.
PASSER (p. from pass) Gone, gone from one to another, vanished, ended.
PASSER (s. from pass) A traveller, one who is passing on the road, one who has hired a passage in some kind of vehicle.
PASSOVER (s. an old spelling) The passover. Phil.
PASSEPIED (s. in music) A kind of minuet.
PASSEPIER (s. in botany) The name of an herb, a kind of parsley.
PASSEPORT (s. an old spelling) A passport. Phillips.
PASSEUR (s. from pass) One that passes, one who is on the road.
PASSER (s. in ornithology, from the Lat.) The sparrow.
PASSERES (s. from passer) An order or class of birds having a conic and slender beak.
PASSERINA (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the chickweed.
PASSEVEGES (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the name of a flower.
PASSEVOLANT (s. from the French passer to pass, and volant flying) One who is mustered as a soldier but not initiated; a faggot, one that is to supply the place of another to serve a turn.
PASSIBILITY (s. from passible) The state of being passible.
PASSIBLE (adj. from the Lat. patior passus to suffer) Capable of suffering, susceptible of impressions from external objects.
PASSIBILITY (s. from passible) Passibility. Scott.
PASSID (adj. obsolete) Surpassed, recalled. Chaucer.
PASSIFLORA (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the passion-flower.
PASSING (p. a. from pass) Going away, moving from one place to another; vanishing; putting off, omitting; surpassing, excelling, extraordinary. Chaucer.
PASSING (adv. from the part.) In a manner that excels.
PASSING (s. from the part.) The act of going by.
PASSINGBELL (s. from passing, and bell) The bell which rings on the death of a person.
PASSINGLY (adv. from passing) In a manner that excels.
PASSION (s. from the Lat. patior passus to suffer) A violent commotion of the mind, anger, love, zeal, ardour; an effect produced by some external agency;
the last sufferings of our Saviour.
PASSION (v. int. from the sub. but now grown obsolete)
To be greatly agitated, to express great desire. Sh.
PASSIONATE (adj. from passion) Subject to passion, moved by passion; easily moved to anger.
PASSIONATE (v. t. from the adj. but now grown obsolete)
To affect with passion, to express passionately. Sh.
PASSIONATELY (adv. from passionate) With great commotion of mind, with desire, with anger.
PASSIONATENESS (s. from passionate) The state of being passionate.
PASSIONFLOWER (s. in botany, from passion, and flower)
The name of a plant, the name of a flower so called as being supposed emblematical of our Saviour's passion.
PASSIONING (p. a. from passion, but not used) Passionately desiring. Shakespeare.
PASSIONWEEK (s. from passion, and week) The week before Easter.
PASSIVE (adj. from the Lat. patior passus to suffer) Receiving impression from external agency, unresisting, suffering; belonging to that mode of a verb in grammar which expresses passion or suffering.
PASSIVELY (adv. from passive) In a passive manner.

P A T

PASSIVENESS (s. from passive) The state of being passive the quality of being passive.
PASSIVITY (s. from passive) Passiveness. Cheyne.
PASSOVER (s. from pass, and over) The feast instituted by the Jews in commemoration of the angel's passing over the habitations of the Hebrews when he destroyed the first born of the Egyptians; the paschal lamb, the sacrifice which was killed at the feast of the passover; Jesus Christ the christian passover.
PASSPAROLE (s. from pass, and parole) A command given at the head of an army and passed throughout from one to another by word of mouth.
PASSPARTOUT (s. from the French) A master key, a key that opens the several locks belonging to the same apartments.
PASSPORT (s. from pass, and port) A leave to pass.
PASSVOLANT (s. a different spelling) A passivoltant. D. of A.
PASS (v. t. pret. of pass) Did pass.
PASS (p. from pass) Gone, gone from one place to another; vanished, lost; omitted, neglected, advanced beyond, gone further than.
PASTA (s. in old records) Paste, dough before it is baked.
PASTE (s. from the French) Dough, cement made of flower and water, an artificial mixture in imitation of precious stone.
PASTE (v. t. from the sub.) To fix with paste.
PASTEBOARD (s. from paste, and board) A kind of thick paper.
PASTEBOARD (adj. from the sub.) Made of pasteboard, consisting of pasteboard.
PASTAL (s. in botany) The woad.
PASTERON (s. from the French pasturon) The distance between the joint next the foot and the coronet of a horse.
PASTERJOINT (s. from pastern, and joint) The joint next to the foot of a horse.
PASTIL (s. from the Lat. pastillus) A roll of paste, a kind of pencil.
PASTILICATE (v. int. from pastil) To make pastils, to use pastils. Cole.
PASTIME (s. from pass, and time) A sport, a diversion.
PASTINACA (s. in botany) The parsnip.
PASTINATE (v. int. from the Lat. pastino to loosen the earth, but not used) To dig in a garden. Cole.
PASTINATION (s. from pastinate) The act of digging the earth. Phillips.
PASTIONS (s. in botany) The snakeweed.
PASTIRIUM (s. in old records) A pasture ground.
PASTOPHORI (s. in antiquity, from the Greek πασος, a veil, and φερω to bear) The priests who carried the shrine of the deity in solemn processions.
PASTOR (s. from the Lat.) A shepherd; a clergyman who has cure of souls; an ordained minister of a dissenting congregation.
PASTORAL (adj. from pastor) Relating to the cure of souls;
rural, relating to shepherds.
PASTORAL (s. from the adj.) A bucolic, an idyl, a poem relative to the incidents of a country life.
PASTORALE (s. from pastoral) An air suited to pastoral.
PASTORITIOUS (adj. from pastor, but not used) Pastoral. Cole.
PASTRY (s. from paste) The act of making pies, baked paste, pies, the place where pies are made.
PASTRYCOOK (s. from pastry, and cook) One who deals in pastry.
PASTURABLE (adj. from pasture) Fit for pasture.
PASTURAGE (s. from pasture) Pasture ground, the use of pasture, the business of feeding cattle.
PASTURE (s. from the Lat. pascor passus to feed) The act of feeding; the ground on which cattle are fed; nurture, education.
PASTURE (v. t. from the sub.) To place in a pasture.
PASTURE (v. int.) To graze, to feed on pasture.
PASTURED (p. from pasture) Fed on pasture.
PASTUREGROUND (s. from pasture, and ground) Land lying for pasture.
PASTURING (p. a. from pasture) Feeding on pasture, grazing.
PASTUS (s. in old writings) A kind of treat or entertainment claimed by the lord of the manor from his vassals.
PASTY (s. from paste) A pie, a pie made of crust raised without a dish.
PASTURAGE (s. an old word) Pannage.
PAT (s. from the French patte a foot) A tap, a quick blow;
a small lump of matter beaten into form by the hand.
PAT (adj. from the sub.) Fit, exact, convenient.
PAT (adv. from the adj.) Fitly, conveniently. "Now I may do it pat." Shakespeare.
Pat

Pat (v. t. from the sub.) To tap, to strike lightly.
PATACHE (s. a sea term) A small ship.
PAT'ACON (s.) A Spanish coin worth about four shillings and eight pence sterling.
PATADE'NE (s. in beaten mythology) A female deity who was supposed to preside over the corn when it sprung from the blade.
PATAGO'NIA (s. in geography) The most southerly part of South America.
Patago'nian (adj. from Patagonia) Belonging to Patagonia.
Patago'nian (s. from the adj.) A native of Patagonia.
PATAGO'NICA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
PATAGO'NULA (s. in botany) The patagonica, a genus of plants.
PATA'RA (s.) A port town in the Lesser Asia. Acts.
PAT'ART (s.) A Dutch river.
PATAVINITY (s. with the critics) The supposed style of the inhabitants of Padua as exemplified in the writings of Livy.
PATCH (s. from the Italian pezzo) A piece sewed on to cover a hole, a piece inserted in variegated work, a small piece of black silk put on the face; a small particle, a parcel of land; a paltry fellow. Shakespeare.
Patch (v. t. from the sub.) To cover with a piece sewed on, to decorate the face with small spots of black silk; to mend clumsily, to make up of small scraps.
Patch'ed (p. from patch) Covered with a patch, decorated with small spots of black silk, made up of several small pieces, mended in a clumsy manner, made in a hurry; with up; as, "Patched up by piece meal."
Patch'er (s. from patch) One that patches, a botcher.
Patch'ery (s. from patch, but now out of use) Botchery. Shakespeare.
Patch'ing (p. a. from patch) Covering with a patch, decorating the face with small pieces of black silk, making up in a hurry.
Patch'work (s. from patch, and work) Variegated work, work made by sewing small pieces of different colours together.
PATE (s. supposed to be from the French tete) The head; the head in droll style; a kind of half moon in fortification.
Patee' (adj. in heraldry) Belonging to a cross narrow in the centre and widening towards the extremities.
PATEFAC'TION (s. from the Lat. pateo to lie open) The act of laying open, the state of being laid open.
PATEL'LA (s. in anatomy) The round bone of the knee.
PA'TEN (s. from the Lat. patina, but now grown obsolete) A plate. Shakespeare.
PATE'NA (s. from the Lat.) The cover of the chalice used in Romish churches to hold the bits of consecrated wafer which is given the people to kiss when they make an offering.
PAT'ENT (adj. from the Lat. pateo to lie open) Open, appropriated by licence.
Pat'ent (s. from the adj.) A writ or licence conferring some exclusive right or privilege.
Patentee' (s. from patent) One who has a patent.
PATER (s. from the Lat.) A father, a head of a religious order among the papists.
PATERA (s. in Roman antiquity) A kind of goblet in which consecrated meats were offered and libations made to the gods; an ornament in architecture.
Pater'nal (adj. from pater) Belonging to a father, fatherly; hereditary, received from ancestors.
Pater'nity (s. from pater) The relation of a father, the state of being a father.
PAT'ERNOSTER (s. from the Lat. pater father, and noster our) The Lord's prayer so called from the two first words; one of the great beads in the chaplets used by the papists in their devotions.
Paternostree' (adj. in heraldry) Belonging to a cross made of beads.
PATH (s. from the Sax.) A way, a road, a track.
PATHE'MA (s. from the Greek) Pathos, warmth, affection of mind.
PATHE'TIC (adj. from the Greek παθος passion) Affecting the passions, moving, tender.
Pathetic (s. from the adj.) The mode of address suited to move the passions.
Pathet'ical (adj. from pathetic) Suited to touch the passions, moving.
Pathet'ically (adv. from pathological) In a manner suited to strike the passions.
Pathet'icalness (s. from pathological) The manner or quality which is suited to move the passions.
PATHETICI (s. in anatomy) The fourth pair of nerves which arise from the spinal marrow.

PATH'IC (s. from the Greek παθεω to suffer) An im- one who suffers himself to be abused contrary to nature.
Path'less (adj. from path) Having no path, untrodden.
PATH'OGNOMONIC (adj. from the Greek παθος suffering, and γινωσκω to know) Pointing out with certainty, shewing the disease by something more certain than symptom.
Path'ognomonic (s. from the adj.) A proper distinguishing and inseparable sign of a disease.
PATHOGNOMO'NICUM (s. from the Greek παθος suffering, and γινωσκω to know) An inseparable and certain sign of a disease.
Patholog'ic (adj. from pathology) Belonging to pathology.
Patholog'ical (adj. from pathologic) Belonging to pathology.
Patholog'ist (s. from pathology) One who treats of pathology.
PATHOL'OGY (s. from the Greek παθος passion, and λογος a description) A minute description of diseases.
PATHOPOI'EA (s. from the Greek παθος passion, and ποιω to cause) The act of moving the passions, the method made use of to move the passions, an address to the passions.
PA'THOS (s. from the Greek) Passion, warmth, affection of mind.
PATH'ROS (s. from the Heb. signifying the spread of ruin) The name of a country.
Path'way (s. from path, and way) A road, a narrow way for foot passengers.
PAT'IBLE (adj. from the Lat. patior to suffer) Capable of being born, tolerable. Job.
PATIB'ULARY (adj. from the Lat. patibulum the gallows) Belonging to the gallows. Job.
PATIB'ULATED (adj. from the Lat. patibulum the gallows) Hung on a gibbet. Cal.
Patience (s. from patient) Calmness or constancy of mind in suffering, the virtue by which we endure affliction without discontent.
PA'TIENCE (s.) The name of a woman.
PA'TIENCE (s. in botany) The name of an herb, species of dock.
PA'TIENT (adj. from the Lat. patior to suffer) Enduring with patience, calm under affliction, enduring provocation; with of; as, "Patient of heat and cold."
Pat'ient (s. from the adj.) That which suffers, the which receives impressions; a diseased person, a person under the care of a physician.
Pat'ient (v. t. from the adj. but not used) To compose oneself, to arm oneself with patience. Shakespeare.
Pat'iently (adv. from patient) With patience.
Pat'ientness (s. from patient) The state or quality of being patient.
Pat'in (s. a different spelling) The patine. Cal.
Pat'in (s. a different spelling) A patten, a clog. Bacon.
PA'TINE (s. from the Lat. patina) The cover of a chalice. Ainsworth.
Pat'ise (s. not used) A kind of red colour.
Pat'ly (adv. from pat) Fitly, commodiously.
PAT'MOS (s. in geography) An island in the Archipelago famous for the exile of the evangelist John when he wrote the book of Revelation.
Pat'ness (s. from pat) Fitness, convenience.
PATON'CE (s. in heraldry) A cross flossy at the ends.
Paton'ce (adj. in heraldry) Belonging to a cross flossy at the ends.
PATRA'TION (s. from the Lat. patratio, but not used) The act of committing, the act of doing.
PAT'RIA (s. from the Lat.) One's country, the place of one's birth; the men of a neighbourhood who are qualified to serve on a jury.
PAT'RIARCH (s. from the Greek πατρις a father, and αρχος chief) The father of a family or tribe, the ruler of a family or tribe, a bishop superior to an archbishop.
Pat'riarchal (adj. from patriarch) Belonging to a patriarch.
Patriarch'ate (s. from patriarch) The office or jurisdiction of a patriarch.
Pat'riarchship (s. from patriarch) The office or jurisdiction of a patriarch.
Pat'riarchy (s. from patriarch) A patriarchate.
PATRIC'IAN (adj. from the Lat. patricius) Noble, natorial.
Patric'ian (s. from the adj.) A nobleman.
Patric'iate (s. from patrician) The order or dignity of patricians.
PAT'RICK (s.) A man's name.

patrimo'nal (adj. from patrimony) Possessed by inheritance, belonging to a patrimony.
PATRIMONY (s. from the Lat. patrimonium) An estate possessed by inheritance, an estate descended from ancestors.
PATRIN (v. int. obsolete) To pray, to say a paternoster. Ch.
PATRINGTON (s.) A town in Yorkshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 190 miles from London.
PATRINGTON (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Patrington, made at Patrington.
PATRINUS (s. an old word) A godfather.
PATRIOT (s. from the Greek πατριωτης) A father of his country, one whose ruling passion is the good of his country; one who seeks the good of his country.
PATRIOT (adj. from the sub.) Patriotic, actuated by the care of one's country.
PATRIOTIC (adj. from patriot) Actuated by the care of one's country, belonging to a patriot.
PATRIOTISM (s. from patriot) The love of one's country, prevailing passion for the good of one's country.
PATRIOTSHIP (s. from patriot) The office or dignity of a patriot. Scott.
PATRIASISIAN (s. in church history) A Sabellian so called as holding that the Father himself and not the Son was crucified.
PATRISTATE (v. int. not used) To take after one's father. Bailey.
PATROCINATE (v. t. from the Lat. patrocinator) To patronise, to defend, to protect. Johnson.
PATROCINATION (s. from patrocinate) The act of patronising. Scott.
PATROCINITY (s. from the Lat. patrocinator) The act of patronising. Scott.
PATROLE (v. int. from the French patrouiller) To go the round in a camp or garrison.
PATROL (s. from the verb) The act of going the rounds in a camp or garrison; the party that goes the rounds in a camp or garrison.
PATROLLING (p. a. from patrol) Going the rounds in a camp or garrison.
PATRON (s. from the Lat. patronus) One who supports or protects another, an advocate, a defender; guardian saint; one who has the donation of an ecclesiastical benefice.
PATRONAGE (s. from patron) Support, protection; the guardianship of saints; the right of conferring a benefice, the donation of an ecclesiastical living.
PATRONAGE (v. t. from the sub. a bad word) To patronise. Shakespeare.
PATRONAL (adj. from patron) Patronising, protecting.
PATRONESS (s. from patron) A female who patronises.
PATRONISE (v. t. from patron) To support, to protect, to patronage.
PATRONISED (p. from patronise) Supported, defended, patronised.
PATRONISER (s. from patronise) A patron. Scott.
PATRONISING (p. a. from patronise) Supporting, defending, countenancing.
PATRONIZE (v. t. a different spelling) To patronise. Sc.
PATRONIZED (p. from patronize) Patronised. Bacon.
PATRONIZING (p. a. from patronize, but not so much used) Patronising.
PATRONSHIP (s. from patron) The office of a patron. Sc.
PATRONYMIC (adj. from the Greek πατριωνυμικον) Derived as a name from ancestors.
PATRONYMIC (s. from the adj.) A name derived from ancestors.
PATROUILLE (s. from the French) A patrol.
PATACCOON (s. a different spelling) A patatoon. Phil. Bailey.
PATE (s. in cookery) A little pie.
PATED (p. from pat) Struck with a light blow.
PATEL (adj. in heraldry) Belonging to a cross narrow at the centre and growing wider at the extremities.
PATIN (s. from the French patin) A kind of clog with an iron ring worn by women to keep them out of the dirt.
PATEN (s. in architecture) The base, the base of a pillar.
PATENMAKER (s. from patten, and maker) One who makes pattens.
PATPAN (s. from patte, and pan) A pan to bake a pie or small pie.
PATTE (v. int. from the French patte a foot) To strike with small repeated blows like hail.
PATTERING (p. a. from patter) Striking with small repeated blows like the falling of hail.
PATERN (s. from the French patron) An exemplar, that which is to be copied; that which is to be imitated; a specimen, an instance; a form by which any thing is to be cut out.

PATERN (v. t. from the sub.) To copy, to make after a model. Shakespeare.
PATERNED (p. from patern) Copied, formed by a pattern. Shakespeare.
PAT'TIN (s. a different spelling) A pattern. Railey.
PAT'TING (p. a. from pat) Striking with a slight blow.
PAT'TRE (v. int. obsolete) To pray, to say a paternoster. Chaucer.
PATUPLICATE (v. int. from the Lat. patulus open, but not used) To expand, to become open. Cole.
PAT'ULOUS (adj. in botany, from the Lat. pateo to lie open) Having an expanded flower, blowing open.
PAU (s. from the Heb. signifying one that cries) The name of a city.
PA'VADE (s. obsolete) A dogger. Chaucer.
PA'VAGE (s. an old word) The money paid for paving the streets. Dict. of Arts.
PA'VAN (s. from the Spanish) A grave kind of dance; the slowest sort of instrumental music.
PAVA'NA (s. from the Spanish) The pavan.
PA'VANE (s. a different spelling) The paven. Phillips.
PAUCIL'LOQUENT (adj. from paucus few, and loquor to speak) Using few words. Cole.
PAUCIL'LOQUY (s. from the Lat. paucus few, and loquor to speak) A speech in few words, a sparing speech. Johnson.
PAUCITY (s. from the Lat. paucus few) Smallness of number.
PAUD'ISHAW (s.) One of the titles of the Grand Seigneur.
PAVE (v. t. from the Lat. pavo) To lay with brick or stone, to floor with stone; to make a passage easy.
PA'VED (p. from pave) Laid with brick or stone, floored with stone; made easy, prepared.
PAVEFACTION (s. from pavefy) The act of terrifying. Co.
PA'VEFY (v. t. from the Lat. paveo to be in fear, and facio to make, but not used) To affright. Cole.
PA'VEMENT (s. from pave) Stones or bricks laid on the ground, a stone floor.
PAVEN'TIA (s. in heathen mythology) The goddess who was supposed to frighten children or rather to preserve them from fear.
PA'VER (s. from pave) One who paves, one who lays stones for a floor.
PAVE'SE (s. from the French pavoise) A large kind of shield.
PAVET'TLA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
PAVEZA'DO (s. a different spelling) The pavifado.
PA'VIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
PA'VIAGE (s. from pave) The money paid for paving the streets.
PAVISE (s. a different spelling) The pavise. Phillips.
PAVIC'ULA (s. with the Romans) An instrument for levelling the ground, a kind of rammer.
PA'VID (adj. from the Lat. pavidus) Timorous, fearful. C.
PAVID'ITY (s. from pavid) Timorous. Cole.
PA'VIER (s. from pave) A paver, one who lays floors with flat stones.
PAVILA'DE (s. a different spelling) The pavifade. Bailey.
PAVIL'ION (s. from the French pavillon) A tent, a temporary or moveable house.
PAVIL'ION (v. t. from the sub.) To furnish with tents, to shelter in tents.
PAVILIONED (p. from pavilion) Provided with tents, sheltered in tents.
PA'VIN (s. a different spelling) The pavan, a kind of dance.
PAVISA'DO (s. from the Spanish) A kind of defence to cover the rowers in a galley.
PAVISE (s. a different spelling) The pavefe, a large shield to cover the whole body.
PAUL (s.) A man's name.
PAUL'IANIST (s. in church history) One of a sect in the third century who denied the preexistence of Christ.
PAULICA'NI (s. in church history) The Manichees of the east.
PAULIC'IAN (s. in ecclesiastical history) One of a sect which arose in the seventh century, a kind of Manichee.
PAUL'IN (s. the diminutive of Paul) Paul, little Paul. Co.
PAULLIN'IA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
PAUL'LUS (s.) A man's name, Paul.
PAU'MIS (s. obsolete) The palms of the hands. Chau.
PAUN'AGE (s. a different spelling) Pannage. Cole.
PAUNCH (s. from the Lat. pantex) The belly, that part which contains the intestines.
PAUNCH (v. t. from the sub.) To pierce the belly, to rip up the belly.
PAUNCH'ED (p. from paunch) pierced in the belly, ripped up.

PAY

Paunch'es (s. plu. of paunch, in the Scotch dialect) The intrails of a beast.

Paunch'ing (p. a. from paunch) Piercing the belly, ripping up the belly.

Paun'ie (s. a different spelling) The pansy, the heart's ease. Urry.

PA'VO (s. in ornithology) The peacock.

PA'VO (s. in astronomy) A constellation of the southern hemisphere.

Pavoi's (s. a different spelling) The pavice, a large shield. Pbhillips.

Pavoi's/de (s. a different spelling) The pavifado.

Pav'oine (adj. from pavo) Belonging to the peacock kind.

PAU'PER (s. from the Lat.) A poor person, one who receives alms.

PAURAEDRASTY'LE (s. in natural history) A genus of perfect crystals.

Paula'cion (s. obsolete) A pause, a rest. Chauter.

PAUSA'NIA (s. in Grecian antiquity) A festival in honour of Pausanias.

PAUSA'NIAS (s. from the Greek) A man's name, a famous Spartan general.

PAUSA'RIOUS (s. in Roman antiquity) One who directed the stops or pauses observed in solemn processions.

PAU'SARY (s. from the Lat. paularius) The officer who regulated the stops or pauses in the solemn processions.

PAUSE (s. from the Greek παυω to rest) A stop, a rest; a break, a paragraph; the mark which distinguishes the parts of a sentence; a doubt, a suspense.

Pause (v. int. from the sub.) To stop, to wait, to intermit, to deliberate.

PAU'SEA (s. in botany) A kind of olive. Pbhillips.

Paul'ier (s. from pause) One that pauses, one that deliberates.

PAU'SIA (s. in botany, from the Lat.) A kind of olive.

Paul'ing (p. a. from pause) Stopping, resting, deliberating.

PAW (s. from the Brit. pawen) The foot of a beast of prey; the hand in contempt.

Paw (v. t. from the sub.) To strike with a draught of the forefoot, to handle roughly; to flatter, to fawn.

Paw (v. int.) To draw the forefoot along the ground.

Paw'd (adj. from paw) Having paws, having broad feet.

Paw'd (p. from paw) Struck with a draught of the forefoot, handled roughly; flattered.

Paw'ing (p. a. from paw) Striking with a draught of the forefoot, handling roughly.

Paw'ing (s. from the adj.) The act of striking with the forefoot.

PAWN (s. from the Dutch pand) A pledge, something given by way of security; the state of being pledged; a common man at cheis.

Pawn (v. t. from the sub.) To pledge, to give in pledge for money.

Pawn'age (s. an old spelling) Pannage. Pbhillips.

Pawn'broker (s. from pawn, and broker) One who lets out money upon pledge.

Pawn'd (p. from pawn) Pledged, given in pledge for money.

Pawn'ing (p. a. from pawn) Pledging, giving in pledge.

PAX (s. with the papists) A kind of image to be kissed by one who makes an offering.

PAY (v. t. from the French payer) To discharge a debt, to give the equivalent for any thing bought; to reward, to recompence; to beat, to punish by beating; to atone, to make amends; with for; as, "And often pay for their mistakes." To pay off, to discharge from service.

Pay (s. from the verb) Wages, hire, the price given for service.

Pay (v. t. a sea term) To daub, to anoint the surface of any body in order to preserve it.

Pay'able (adj. from pay) Due, proper to be paid, capable of paying.

Pay'day (s. from pay, and day) The day of payment.

Pay'er (s. from pay) One that pays.

Pay'ing (p. a. from pay) Discharging a debt, giving an equivalent for any thing bought, recompensing, beating, daubing as the sides of a ship with something suited to preserve it.

Pay'ing (s. from the part.) The act of discharging a debt, the act or process of daubing any thing with some unctuous matter in order to preserve it; a severe chastisement.

Pay'ingaway (s. a sea term) The act of slackening a cable or other rope so as to let it run out of the vessel.

Pay'ingoff (s. a sea term) The management of a ship's head to the leeward of the point to which it was previously directed, the payment of a ship's crew in order to their discharge from service.

PEA

Pay'ingout (s. a sea term) The act of slackening a cable or other rope so as to let it run out of the vessel.

Pay'ment (s. from pay) The act of paying, the discharge of a debt or promise, a reward, a chastisement.

Pay'nims (s. obsolete) Pagans, heathens. Chauter.

Pay'faunce (s. obsolete) A pause, a stop.

Pay'ie (v. t. obsolete) To poise.

Pays'd (p. from payse, obsolete) Poised.

Pays'er (s. from payse, obsolete) One that weighs.

PAY'TREL (s. from the French paitrel) The breastplate, the strap that crosses a horse's breast.

PEA (s. from the Lat. pisum) A well known kind of pulse.

PEACE (s. from the Lat. pax pacis) Rest, quiet, respite from war, respite from tumult; reconciliation, accommodation of differences; silence, suppression of tumultuous thoughts. To bold one's peace, to be silent.

Peace (v. int. used only in the imp. mode) Be silent, be still.

Pea'ceable (adj. from peace) Quiet, undisturbed; free from war, free from tumult; disposed to peace, not given to quarrel.

Pea'ceableness (s. from peaceable) Quietness, a disposition to peace.

Pea'ceably (adv. from peaceable) With peace, quietly, without war, without disturbance.

Pea'ceful (adj. from peace) Quiet, undisturbed, peaceful.

Pea'cefully (adv. from peaceful) Quietly, without disturbance, gently, mildly.

Pea'cefulness (s. from peaceful) Quiet, rest; freedom from disturbance.

Pea'cemaker (s. from peace, and maker) One that makes peace, one who reconciles differences.

Pea'ceoffering (s. from peace, and offering) A sacrifice to make atonement.

Pea'cofficer (s. from peace, and officer) An officer who keeps the peace, a constable.

Pea'ceparted (adj. from peace, and parted) Dismissed from peace.

Pea'cepeaking (adj. from peace and speaking) Commanding peace, giving peace.

PEACH (s. in botany, from the Lat. persicum) The peachtree, the fruit of the peachtree.

Peach (v. int. from impeach) To impeach, to accuse of a crime. Dry.

Peach'colour (adj. from peach, and colour) Having the colour of a peach.

Peach'colour (s. from peach, and colour) A colour resembling that of a peach.

Peach'coloured (adj. from peachcolour) Having the colour of the peach.

Pea'chick (s. from pea, and chick) The chicken of a peacock.

Peach'tree (s. in botany, from peach, and tree) The name of a fruit-tree much cultivated in gardens.

Pea'cock (s. in ornithology) A fowl remarkable for the beauty of its feathers and especially of its tail.

Pea'cockfish (s. in ichthyology) A very beautiful species of labrus.

Pea'hen (s. from pea, and hen) The female of the peacock.

PEAK (s. from the Sax. peac) The top, the rising part of a head dress, any thing acuminated.

Peak (s. a sea term) The upper corner of a sail or yard.

Peak (s. an old word) A lace.

Peak (v. int. probably from the sub.) To look meagre, to look sickly; to make a mean figure, to sneak.

Peak'ing (p. a. from peak) Looking meagre, looking sickly, sneaking, making a mean appearance.

PEAL (s. of uncertain derivation) A succession of loud sounds; a low dull sound; but this sense is judged proper. Shakespeare.

Peal (v. int. from the sub.) To make a peal, to sound solemnly and loud.

Peal (v. t. from the sub.) To assail with noise, to agitate with some agitation. "To peal the pot."

Peal'd (p. from peal) Assailed with noise, stirred with agitation.

Peal'ing (p. a. from peal) Assailing with noise, stirring with agitation, playing solemnly and loud.

PEAN (adj. in heraldry) Having the ground sable bordering or.

PEAR (s. in botany, from the Lat. pyrum) The name of a well known fruit-tree, the fruit of that tree.

Pearch (s. not so common a spelling) The perch. D. Pearch.

P E C

arch/fishing (s. from perch, and fishing) The method of fishing for perch. Dict. of Arts.
 arch/glue (s. from perch, and glue) A strong fine kind of glue made from the skin of the perch. D. of A.
 ark (adj. obsolete) Pert, brisk. Spenser.
 EARL (s. supposed to be from the Lat. spherula) A gem generated in the body of a testaceous fish.
 EARL (s. in surgery) The albugo, a speck in the eye. Ainsworth.
 earl (s. with printers) A small kind of letter.
 earl'ed (adj. from pearl) Set with pearls.
 earl'eyed (adj. from pearl, and eye) Having a speck in the eye.
 earl'fish (s. in ichthyology) The rhombus.
 earl'grats (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
 earl'oyster (s. from pearl, and oyster) The testaceous fish remarkable for producing pearls, the perles.
 earl'pin (s. in surgery) An excrescence growing on the eye.
 earl'plant (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
 earl'web (s. in surgery) The pearlpin, an excrescence on the eye.
 earl'wort (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
 earl'y (adj. from pearl) Abounding with pearls, consisting of pearls, resembling pearls.
 earma'n (s. in botany) A kind of apple.
 ear/tree (s. in botany, from pear, and tree) The tree that bears pears.
 Peas (s. plu. of pea) More than one pea. "Give me two or three peas."
 PEASANT (s. from the French païsan) A man employed in husbandry, a hind, a country man.
 Peasantry (s. from peasant) The people in the country, peasants.
 Peas/bolt (s. from pea) The hawm or straw of peas.
 Peas/cod (s. from pea, and cod) The shell or husk of peas.
 Pease (s. from pea) Peas collectively, the food of peas.
 Pease (v. int. an old word) To wait. Bailey.
 Pease (s. obsolete) Weight. Spenser.
 Pease/bolt (s. a different spelling) Peasholt, the straw of peas. Bailey.
 Pease/cod (s. a different spelling) A peascod. Bailey.
 Pease/hawm (s. from pea, and hawm) The straw of peas. Bailey.
 Peaseporridge (s. a different spelling) Peasporridge.
 Peasestraw (s. a different spelling) Peastraw. Bailey.
 Peas/kid (s. from pea, and kid) A peascod.
 Peas/on (s. obsolete) Pease. Tusser.
 Peasporridge (s. from pea, and porridge) Porridge made from peas.
 Peas'traw (s. from pea, and straw) The straw of peas.
 PEAT (s. the derivation is not noted) A kind of turf used for fuel.
 PEAT (s. from the French peteta, but now grown obsolete) A little darling, a dear plaything. "A pretty peat!" Shakespeare.
 Peat/earth (s. from peat, and earth) The soil fit for peat. Woodward.
 PEBBLE (s. from the Sax. pæbal) A sort of stone, a round hard stone rather smooth on the surface.
 Pebblecrystal (s. in natural history) A kind of crystal.
 Pebbled (adj. from pebble) Abounding with pebbles.
 Pebblestone (s. from pebble, and stone) A pebble.
 Pebbly (adj. from pebble) Full of pebbles.
 Peccability (s. from peccable) A state subject to sin.
 PEC/CABLE (adj. from the Lat. pecco to sin) Incident to sin.
 PECCADIL/LO (s. from the Spanish) A little fault, a petty crime.
 PECCAM/INOUS (adj. from the Lat. peccamen a sin) Full of sin. Cole.
 Peccancy (s. from peccant) A bad quality.
 PEC/CANT (adj. from the Lat. pecco to commit sin) Guilty, criminal; wrong, bad, deficient; indisposed, corrupt, injurious to health.
 PECCA/TOR (s. from the Lat. but not much used) An offender, a sinner. Cole.
 PECCA/VI (s. from the Lat.) A form of asking pardon, an acknowledgement of an offence. "He cried peccavi."
 Pece (s. an obsolete spelling) Peace. Chaucer.
 PECHLAG'RA (s. from the Greek πηχλος the elbow, and αἶμα a capture) The gout in the joints of the elbow.
 Pel'cia (s. in old records) A small piece of ground; a dry measure containing two gallons.
 Pel'cis (s. an obsolete spelling) Pieces. Chaucer.
 PECK (s. from the Sax. pecca) The fourth part of a bushel; a great deal in droll style.

P E D

PECK (v. t. from the Dutch peiken) To pick up food with the beak, to strike with the beak, to strike, to make repeated blows as with a short instrument; to push head foremost. "I'll peck you over." To peck at, to be continually finding fault with. Shakespeare.
 Peck (s. a cant word) Meat. Cole.
 Peck'ed (p. from peck) Picked up, struck as with the beak; pushed head foremost.
 Peck'er (s. from peck) One that pecks; the name of a bird, the woodpecker.
 Peck'idge (s. a cant word) Meat. Cole.
 Peck'ing (p. a. from peck) Picking up as with the bill, striking with repeated blows as a fowl with the beak; finding fault with.
 Peck'led (adj. a corruption from speckled) Spotted, variegated with spots.
 PEC/OROUS (adj. from the Lat. pecus cattle, but not used) Abounding with cattle. Cole.
 PECTEN (s. in natural history) A genus of bivalve shells.
 PECTINAL (adj. from the Lat. pecten a comb) Resembling a comb.
 Pect'inal (s. from the adj.) A fish of that kind which have their bones set laterally like a comb. Brown.
 Pect'inated (adj. from pecten) Having the resemblance of a comb, put one within another alternately.
 PECTINA/TION (s. from the Lat. pecten a comb) The state of being pectinated, a kind of complication in which one is set within another alternately.
 PECTINE/US (s. in anatomy) One of the muscles of the thigh.
 PECTORAL (adj. from the Lat. pectus pectoris the breast) Belonging to the breast; suited to strengthen the breast and stomach.
 Pect'oral (s. from the adj.) A breast plate; a medicine proper to strengthen the breast and stomach.
 Pect'orale (s. a different spelling) A breastplate.
 PECTORA/LIS (s. in anatomy) A pair of muscles which compose the greater part of the fleshy substance of the breast.
 PEC/TUS (s. in anatomy, from the Lat.) The forepart of the breast.
 PECUARI/IOUS (adj. from the Lat. pecus cattle, but not used) Belonging to cattle. Cole.
 PEC'ULATE (s. from the Lat. peculatus) The crime of robbing the public, an embezzlement of the public money.
 Pecula'tion (s. from peculate) The crime of robbing the public, an embezzlement of the public money.
 Pecula'tor (s. from peculate) One who robs the public.
 PECU/LIAR (adj. from the Lat. peculiaris) Appropriate, belonging to one to the exclusion of others, particular, singular.
 Pecu'liar (s. from the adj.) The property, the exclusive property, something cut off or exempted from common jurisdiction; a particular parish or church having jurisdiction within itself as exempt from the bishops court.
 Peculiar'ity (s. from peculiar) Particularity, something which belongs to one and not to others in common.
 Peculiarly (adv. from peculiar) Particularly, singly, in a manner not common to others.
 Peculiar'ness (s. from peculiar) Peculiarity, singularity.
 PECU/LIATE (v. t. from the Lat. peculior to rob, but not used) To punish a man in his purse, to take away his goods; to enrich. Cole.
 PECU/LIUM (s. from the Lat. a law term) Private property, that which a man is possessed of, though he himself is the property of another.
 PECU/NIA (s. from the Lat.) Money, cattle, goods.
 PECU'NIA (s. in beaten mythology) The power supposed to preside over riches.
 Pecuniary (adj. from pecunia) Relating to money, consisting of money.
 Pecunios'ity (s. from pecunia) Plenty of money. Bailey.
 Pecunious (adj. from pecunia) Moneyed, full of money. Phillips.
 PED (s. nearly obsolete) A small kind of pack saddle; a hamper, a basket. Tusser.
 Ped'age (s. an old word) The money paid for passing through a forest or private ground. Phillips.
 Pedagog'ical (adj. from pedagogue) Belonging to a pedagogue, suited to a schoolmaster.
 Pedagogism (s. from pedagogue) The office of a pedagogue.
 PED/AGOGUE (s. from the Greek παις a boy, and αγω to guide) A schoolmaster, a pedant.
 Pedagogue (v. t. from the sub.) To teach with the airs of a pedant, Prior.
 Ped'agogy

P E D

Ped'agogy (s. from pedagogue) Discipline, mastership.
PEDAH'ZAR (s. from the Heb. signifying a powerful deliverer) A man's name.
PEDAI'AH (s. from the Heb. signifying the redemption of the Lord) A man's name.
PE'DAL (adj. from the Lat. pes pedis a foot) Belonging to a foot.
Pe'dal (s. from the adj.) One of the larger pipes of an organ so called because managed by the foot.
Pedal'ity (s. from pedal) The act of measuring by paces.
PEDA'NEOUS (adj. from the Lat. pedaneus, but not much used) Being on foot.
PEDA'NEUS (s. in civil law) A petty judge who has no formal seat of trial.
PEDA'NI (s. in Roman antiquity) The younger senators, who always followed the opinions of the elder; the people of Pedam.
PED'ANT (s. from the French) A schoolmaster, a man vainly ostentatious of his learning.
Pedant'ic (adj. from pedant) Ostentatious of learning, vain, of low knowledge.
Pedant'ical (adj. from pedantic) Awkwardly ostentatious of learning.
Pedant'ically (adv. from pedantical) In the manner of a pedant.
Ped'antism (s. from pedant) The practice of profession of a pedant, pedantry.
Ped'antry (s. from pedant) The practice of a pedant, an awkward ostentation of learning.
PEDA'RII (s. in Roman antiquity) The pedani.
PE'DATED (adj. from the Lat. pedatus) Having a slender footstalk.
PEDA'TION (s. from the Lat. pes a foot, but not used) The act of propping vines.
PED'ATURE (s. from the Lat. pes, but not used) The proportion of feet assigned to workmen.
Ped'dle (v. int. not so common a spelling) To piddle, to be busy about trifles.
Ped'dling (p. a. from peddle) Piddling, trifling.
Ped'dling (adj. from peddle) Small, besetting a pedler.
Ped'ee (s. not much used) A footboy, a lacky.
PED'ERAST (s. from the Greek παῖς a boy, and ἐραστής a lover) One who has a criminal passion for boys, a sodomite.
Pederasty (s. from pederast) A criminal passion for boys, sodomy.
PEDERE'RO (s. from the Spanish) A paterero, a swivel gun.
PED'ESTAL (s. in architecture) The lower member of a pillar, the base of a statue.
PEDES'TRIAL (adj. from the Lat. pedestris) Going on foot.
PEDES'TRIOUS (adj. from the Lat. pedestris) Going on foot.
PEDIE'US (s. in anatomy) One of the muscles of the foot.
PED'ICLE (s. in botany, from the Lat. pes pedis a foot) The footstalk, that part by which the leaf or fruit is united to the tree.
PEDIC'ULA (s. in botany) The cockscorn.
PEDIC'ULAR (adj. from the Lat. pediculus a louse) Lousy, infested with lice.
PEDICULA'RIS (s. in botany) The lousewort, a genus of plants.
PEDIC'ULI (s.) A people of Italy.
Pedic'ulous (adj. from pediculus) Lousy.
PEDIC'ULUS (s. in zoology) The louse.
PED'IGREE (s. of doubtful derivation) A genealogy, an account of descents in a family.
PEDILU'VIUM (s. from the Lat. pes pedis a foot, and luo to wash) A kind of bath for the feet.
PED'IMENT (s. in architecture) The ornament or crowning which finishes the front of a building, an ornamental projection over a door or window.
FED'LER (s. supposed to be a contraction of petty dealer) One who travels the country to sell small commodities.
Ped'lery (s. from pedler) The wares sold by pedlers.
PE'DO (s.) The name of a heroic poet.
PEDOBAP'TISM (s. from the Greek παῖς παιδοῦς an infant, and βαπτίζω to baptize) Infant baptism, the baptism of children.
Ped'obaptist (s. from pedobaptism) One who practices the baptism of infants.
PEDOMANCY (s. from the Greek πῦς a foot, and μαντεία magic) Divination by the lines on the soles of the feet.
PEDOM'ETER (s. from the Greek πῦς a foot, and μέτρον to measure) The perambulator, a wheel to measure roads.

P E G

PE'DOR (s. from the Lat. but not used) The filth of prison.
PED OTRIBE (s. from the Greek παῖς a child, and τρέβομαι to exercise) One who trains youth to the proper exercises of the body.
Pedre'ro (s. a different spelling) A pederero.
Ped'ules (s. an old word) Vamps, a kind of hose.
Ped'uncle (s. not so common a spelling) A pedicle.
PED'UNCLE (s. in anatomy) The medullary processes of the cerebellum.
PEDUN'CLATED (adj. in botany, from the Lat. pedunculus one that is splay footed) Having the pedicles, having large or broad pedicles.
PEDUN'CULI (s. in anatomy) The medullary processes of the cerebellum.
Ped'ware (s. a local word) Pulse, pease and beans.
Pee (s. with miners) The place where two veins cross each other.
Pee (v. int. a local word) To look with one eye.
PEE'BLES (s.) A parliament town in Scotland, the capital of the shire of Tweeddale.
Peece (s. obsolete) A fort, a place of strength.
Peed (adj. a local word) Blind of one eye.
Peek (s. not so common a spelling) A pique, a grudge.
Peek (s. a sea term) The upper end of a sail extended by a gaff or yard, the extremity of a yard or gaff; the room in a ship which lies from the bits forward to the stern.
PEEL (s. from the Lat. pellis a skin) The rind, the rind of fruit.
Peel (v. t. from the sub.) To take off the rind, to flay.
PEEL (v. t. from the French pilier) To rob, to plunder.
PEEL (s. from the French puelle) The instrument with which bread is put in and drawn out of the oven, the instrument with which printers hang up the sheets to dry, a broad thin board for carrying pastry.
Peel'ed (p. from peel) Stripped of the rind; robbed, plundered.
Peel'er (s. from peel) One that peels, a robber; a portmantua.
Peel'ing (p. a. from peel) Taking off the rind, flaying; robbing, plundering.
Peel'ing (s. from the part.) The outward rind, that which is peeled off; a kind of apple.
PEEP (v. int. of uncertain derivation) To look slyly into anything, to look through a crevice, to make the first appearance; to cry like a child.
Peep (s. from the verb.) A sly look, the first appearance.
Peep'er (s. from peep) One that peeps; a young chicken just breaking the shell.
Peep'er (s. a cant word) A looking glass.
Peep'hole (s. from peep, and hole) A hole through which any one may look and not be discovered.
Peep'ing (p. a. from peep) Looking through a crevice, looking slyly into any thing, making the first appearance.
Peep'ing (s. from the part.) The act of looking slyly into any thing.
Peep'inghole (s. from peep, and hole) A peephole.
Peep't (v. int. pret. of peep) Peeped, did peep.
PEER (s. from the Lat. par equal) An equal, one of the same rank; a companion, a fellow; a nobleman, one enabled.
Peer (v. int. contracted from appear) To come just in sight, to peep.
Peer (s. in building) A kind of buttress, a square pillar; a mole or rampart raised in the sea.
Peer'age (s. from peer) The dignity of a peer, the body of peers.
Peer'dom (s. from peer) peerage.
Peere (s. obsolete) Precious stones.
Peerless (s. from peer) A lady enabled, the lady of a peer.
Peer'lets (adj. from peer) Unequaled, having no equal, excellent beyond compare.
Peer'lessness (s. from peerless) The state of being peerless, superiority beyond comparison.
Peer'y (adj. a local word) Fearful.
Pees (s. an obsolete spelling) Peace.
Peet'er (s. a local word) A portmantua.
Peev'ish (adj. of uncertain derivation) Petulant, waspish.
Peev'isher (adj. comp. of peevish) Peevish in a greater degree.
Peev'ishest (adj. sup. of peevish) Peevish in the greatest degree.
Peev'ishly (adv. from peevish) Petulantly, fretfully, angrily.
Peev'ishness (s. from peevish) Petulancy, fretfulness.
PEG (s. from the Teutonic pegge) A piece of wood driven into a hole, the pin of a stringed instrument.
"To take a peg lower," to depress, to sink.

PEL

PEM

(s. in familiar or droll style) A woman's name, Margaret.
v. t. from the sub.) To fasten with a peg.
 PEG'NUM (s. in botany) The charnal, the wild rue; genus of plants.
 PEG'AN (adj. from Pegasus) Belonging to Pegasus.
 PEG'SIDES (s. in the mythology of the poets) The Muses.
 PEGASOS, PEG'ASUS (s. in the mythology of the poets) The winged horse on which the poets were supposed to ride.
 PEG'SUS (s. in astronomy) A constellation of the northern hemisphere.
 PEG' (v. t. a different spelling) To peg. Scott.
 PEG'ED (p. from peg) Fastened with a peg.
 PEG'ING (p. a. from peg) Fastening with a peg.
 PEG'ING (s. in farriery) The method of curing hogs the garre.
 PEG'Y (s. the diminutive of Peg) A woman's name, Margaret.
 PEG'IA (s. from the Greek) A kind of theatrical engine by the Romans; a kind of pageant.
 PEG'ATES (s. in antiquity) A kind of gladiators.
 PEG'ANCY (s. from the Greek πηνη a fountain, and πηνη magic) Divination drawn from the appearances of a fountain of water.
 PEG'ATE (v. int. not used) To forswear. Cole.
 PEG'ATE (v. int. not used) To grow worse. Cole.
 PEG' (v. t. obsolete) To poise. Chaucer.
 PEG' (v. t. obsolete) To poise. Chaucer.
 PEG'ELL (s. obsolete) The breast plate, the strap that fastens the breast of a horse. Chaucer.
 PEG'H (s. from the Heb. signifying one that opens) A man's name.
 PEG'IAH (s. from the Heb. signifying the Lord opens) A man's name.
 PEG'N (s.) The metropolis of the Chinese empire.
 PEG'N (s. an old word) A picket. Cole.
 PEG'N (s. in commerce) A kind of tea.
 PEG'N (s. in old records) A fort, a pile.
 PEG'GIA (s. in ichthyology) A kind of shell fish, one of the pelagia.
 PEG'GIE (s. in ichthyology) The shell fish which are found near the sea shore.
 PEG'IAN (adj. from Pelagius) Belonging to Pelagius, relating to the doctrine taught by Pelagius.
 PEG'IAN (s. from the adj.) A follower of Pelagius.
 PEG'IANISM (s. from pelagian) The doctrine of the Pelagians.
 PEG'ICK (adj. from the Lat. pelagus, but not used) Relating to the sea. Cole.
 PEG'LIUS (s. in ecclesiastical history) A man's name, the father of a sect born in Wales about the latter end of the fourteenth century; he denied original sin, and held the doctrine of free will and the merit of good works.
 PEG'MIS (s. in ichthyology) A fish of the tunny kind.
 PEG'MYS (s. a different spelling) The pelamis. Pb.
 PEG'GI (s.) The people of Thessaly. Virgil.
 PEG'GIA (s.) The country of the Pelasgi, the Peloponnesus.
 PEG'GIAN (adj. from Pelasgia) Belonging to the Pelasgi.
 PEG'IAH (t. from the Heb. signifying the Lord delivers) A man's name.
 PEG'ANUS (s. in ichthyology) The pelican, the spoon-bill.
 PEG'NUM (s. in botany) The pelecinus.
 PEG'NUS (s. in botany) The hatchetvetch, a weed that grows among corn.
 PEG'OPDES (s. in geometry) A geometrical figure resembling a hatchet.
 PEG' (s. from the Heb. signifying division) A man's name.
 PEG'HITE (s. from the Heb. signifying a judge) One of the judges.
 PEG'S (s.) The father of Achilles. Ovid.
 PEG'S (s. the derivation is not known) Money, riches in general.
 PEG' (a hunting term) The broken remains of a fowl when the hawk is relieved.
 PEG' (s. in the mythology of the poets) The son of Neptune and Tyro torn in pieces by his own daughter.
 PEG'AN (s. in ornithology) The name of a large bird, from her tenderness to her young was supposed to open or wound her own breast to feed them with her blood.
 PEG' (s.) A kind of vessel used by chymists, an instrument to draw teeth; a piece of ordnance now out of use.

PELICOD'DES (s. from the Greek πελεκος a hatchet, and ειδος a shape) A geometrical figure so called on account of its resemblance to a hatchet.
 PELID'NUS (s. with physicians) A kind of black and blue colour in the face.
 PELIG'NI (s.) An ancient people of Italy. Ovid.
 PEL'LION (s.) A high mountain in Thessaly which it is said the poets endeavoured to throw upon Ossa in order to climb up to heaven. Ovid.
 PELL (s. from the Lat. pellis) The skin of a beast, a hide; a roll of parchment, a record of the tellers bill in the exchequer.
 Pell (s. obsolete) A house, a cell; a palace. Chaucer.
 PEL'LA (s.) The chief city of Macedon where Alexander the Great was born. Pliny.
 Pel'lage (s. from pell) A custom or duty on tanned hides.
 PELLAMOUN'TAIN (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
 PEL'LATED (adj. in botany) Having a little pellicle at the juncture of the leaf with the stalk.
 PEL'LET (s. from the Lat. pila) A little ball, a bullet; the black roundle in heraldry.
 Pel'leted (adj. from pellet) Consisting of bullets. Sb.
 Pel'lican (s. a different spelling) The pelican. Cole.
 PEL'LICLE (s. from the Lat. pellicula) A thin skin.
 PELLICULA'TION (s. from the Lat. pellicula to cover with a pellicle) A deception. Cole.
 Pellicula'tor (s. not used) A deceiver. Cole.
 Pel'liparius (s. in old records) A skinner, one that dresses leather.
 PEL'LIS (s. from the Lat.) The skin of a beast.
 Pel'lit (s. an obsolete spelling) A pellet. Chaucer.
 PEL'LITORY (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
 PELL'MELL (adv. from the French pelle mele) In confusion, without order, one among another.
 PELLO'NIA (s. in heathen mythology) A tutelary goddess who was supposed to have great power in driving away enemies.
 PELLO'TA (s. in the forest law) The ball of a dog's foot.
 PELLUCID (adj. from the Lat. pellucidus) Transparent, clear.
 Pellucid'ity (s. from pellucid) Transparency, clearness.
 Pellucid'ness (s. from pellucid) Transparency, clearness.
 Peloponne'sian (adj. from Peloponnesus) Belonging to the Peloponnesus.
 PELOPONNE'SUS (s. in ancient geography) The large peninsula of Achaia, the Morea.
 PEL'LOPS (s. in the mythology of the poets) The son of Tantalus whom his father killed and served up at an entertainment which he made for the gods. Virgil.
 Pel'our (s. obsolete) A kind of fine fur, pelure. Chau.
 PEL'T (s. from the Lat. pellis a skin) The skin of a beast, the hide; the remains of a fowl after the hawk has been relieved; a fume, a fretful fit.
 Pelt (v. int. from the sub.) To fret, to fume. Scott.
 Pelt (v. t. supposed to be from pellet) To strike, to strike with something thrown, to annoy by throwing dirt or small stones.
 PEL'TA (s. in antiquity) A small light kind of buckler.
 PEL'TALIS (s. in anatomy) The largest cartilage of the larynx.
 Pelt'ed (p. from pelt) Struck by something thrown, annoyed by dirt or small stones thrown by an adverse party.
 PELTIF'EROUS (adj. from the Lat. pellis a skin, and fero to bear) Bearing a pelta. Cole.
 Pelt'ing (p. a. from pelt.) Throwing at, throwing dirt or small stones at any one.
 Pelt'ing (adj. perhaps from the part.) Mean, paltry, pitiful. Shakespeare.
 Pelt'monger (s. from pelt, and monger) A dealer in raw hides.
 Pelt'wool (s. from pelt, and wool) Wool pulled off the skin.
 PEL'VIS (s. from the Lat.) A basin.
 PEL'VIS (s. in botany) The lower part of the abdomen.
 PELU'RE (s. from the French) A rich kind of fur.
 PEM'BRIDGE (s.) A town in Herefordshire; it has a market on Tuesday, and is 147 miles from London.
 Pem'bridge (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Pembridge, made at Pembridge.
 PEM'BROKE (s.) The capital of Pembrokeshire; it is situated at the head of Milford haven, sends one member to parliament, and is 256 miles from London.
 Pembroke (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Pembroke, made at Pembroke.
 PEM'BROKESHIRE (s.) One of the maritime counties in South Wales; it contains one hundred and forty five parishes, and five market towns, and sends three members members to parliament, one for the county, one for Pembroke and one for Haverfordwest.

P E N

Pembroke (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the county of Pembroke, produced in the county of Pembroke.

PEMPHIGOIDES (s. from the Greek πемφίς; a bubble, and εἶδος a shape) A kind of eruptive fever.

PEMPTUOS (s. with physicians) An ague that returns every fifth day. Pbills.

PEN (s. from the Lat. penna a wing) The instrument of writing, a feather, a wing; a writer, an author; the style of writing.

PEN (s. from the Sax. penner) A small inclosure, a coop, a fold for cattle; a bay, a pond.

PEN (s. a contraction of Penelope) The name of a woman.

Pen (v. t. from the sub.) To coop up, to confine in a narrow place; to shut up sheep in a moveable fold in order to manure the land.

Pen (v. t. from the sub.) To write, to compose in writing.

PEN (s. from the Brit.) Bread. Cole.

PENIEA (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

PENAL (adj. from the Lat. poena a punishment) Denouncing punishment, used for the purpose of punishment, vindictive.

Penalty (s. from penal) Punishment, censure, forfeiture on nonperformance. Brown.

Penalty (s. from penal) Punishment, censure, a forfeiture in case of nonperformance.

PENANCE (s. from the Lat. poena punishment) A kind of mortification or suffering in token of repentance, something inflicted as a punishment for sin; an ecclesiastical punishment for the sin of fornication.

PENARIOUS (adj. from the Lat. penaria a buttery, but not used) Belonging to victuals.

PENATES (s. in heathen mythology) The household gods: the gods which were peculiar to some houses, and worshipped with greater solemnity than the Lares.

Penance (s. an obsolete spelling) Penance.

Penbank (s.) A beggar's cur. Bailey.

Penscase (s. from pen, and case) A case to carry pens in. Johnson.

Pence (s. the plu. of penny) More than one penny.

PENCIL (s. from the Lat. penicillum) A small brush of hair for painting, any instrument for writing without ink.

Pen'cil (v. t. from the sub.) To paint, to form with a pencil.

Pen'ciled (p. from pencil) Painted, delineated with a pencil.

Pen'ciling (p. a. from pencil) Painting, delineating with a pencil.

PENDANT (s. from the Lat. pendeo to hang) A jewel hanging at the ear, any thing hanging by way of ornament; the part of a watch by which it is fastened to the chain; a pendulum; but this sense is obsolete. Dig.

Pendant (adj. not so common a word) Pendant, hanging. Scott.

Pend'aunt (s. obsolete) Any kind of long robe hanging down. Chaucer.

Pende (v. t. obsolete) To hang up, to pen, to shut up. Chaucer.

Pend'ence (s. from pendent) A scope, an inclination. Wo.

Pend'ency (s. from pendence) A suspense, a delay of decision.

PEND'ENT (adj. from the Lat. pendeo to hang) Hanging, jutting over, supported above the ground.

Pend'entive (s. in architecture) The whole body of the vault between the wall and the archbutant.

Pend'entness (s. from pendent) The state of being pendent.

Pend'ing (adj. a law term) Depending, remaining undecided.

Pendulousity (s. from pendulous) The state of being pendulous, a state of suspension.

PEND'ULOUS (adj. from the Lat. pendeo to hang) Hanging, suspended above.

Pend'ulousness (s. from pendulous) A state of suspension, pendulosity.

PEND'ULUM (s. from the Lat. pendeo to hang) A weight suspended so as to swing backwards and forwards, that part of a clock by the motion of which the time is regulated; a clock, a time piece.

PEND'ULUS (s.) A clock, a time piece.

Pene (s. an obsolete spelling) A pin. Chaucer.

PE'NE (s. from Pœni) The inhabitants of Carthage. Ch.

PENECIL'LUS (s. in surgery) A tent, a medicated roll to put into a deep wound or ulcer.

P E N

PENEL'OPE (s.) The name of a woman; the wife of Ulysses.

Penel'ope (s. in ornithology) A kind of fowl; a turtle, a widgeon.

Peners'rius (s. in old records) A standard bearer, officer who bore the banner.

Penetrability (s. from penetrable) Penetrableness, state of being penetrable.

PENETRABLE (adj. from the Lat. penetra to pierce) Capable of being pierced, susceptible of impression.

Penetrableness (s. from penetrable) Penetrability, state of being penetrable.

Pen'etral (s. now grown obsolete) The inward parts.

Pen'etral (s. from penetrale) The inner open part of a house.

PEN'ETRALE (s. from the Lat.) The place or chamber in which the Penates or household gods were worshipped.

Pen'etrancy (s. from penetrant) The power of penetrating.

PEN'ETRANT (adj. from the Lat. penetra to pierce) Sharp, subtle, having the power to penetrate.

Pen'etrantness (s. from penetrant) The power or quality of penetrating.

PEN'ETRATE (v. t. from the Lat. penetra to pierce) To enter beyond the surface, to pierce; to reach the meaning; to affect the mind.

Pen'etrate (v. int.) To make way.

Pen'etrated (p. from penetrate) Pierced, entered beyond the surface; apprehended, understood; entered in mind.

Pen'etrating (p. a. from penetrate) Piercing, entering beyond the surface, reaching the meaning, affecting the mind.

Penetra'tion (s. from penetrate) Sagacity, acuteness, the act of entering into any body, the act of entering into any abstruse subject.

Pen'etrative (adj. from penetrate) Piercing, sharp, subtle, sagacious, discerning, powerful to impress the mind.

Pen'etrativeness (s. from penetrative) Aptitude to penetrate.

PEN'GUIN (s. in ornithology) A bird of the goose so called from its singular plumpness.

PEN'GUIN (s. in botany) A fruit tree common in the Indies, the fruit of the tree.

Pen'ible (adj. obsolete) Painful, full of pain.

PENICIL'LA (s. in pharmacy) A lozenge, a form of medicine.

PENICIL'LI (s. in natural history) The worm shells kind of shells found in the sea.

PENICIL'LUS (s. in surgery) A tent, a medicated roll to put into a deep wound or ulcer.

PENID'IUM (s. in pharmacy) A form of medicine prepared from clarified sugar.

PEN'PEL (s. from the Heb. signifying the vision of God) The name of a place.

PENIN'NAH (s. from the Heb. signifying a peat) The name of a woman.

PENIN'SULA (s. from the Lat. pene almost, and insula an island) A tract of land almost surrounded by sea.

Penin'sulated (adj. from peninsula) Nearly surrounded with water, having the form of a peninsula.

Penin'sule (s. from peninsula) A peninsula.

PE'NIS (s. from the Lat.) The primary organ of generation in man, the yard.

Pen'itines (s. in commerce) A sort of coarse woollen cloth.

Pen'itence (s. from penitent) Repentance, sorrow for crimes, contrition for sin.

Pen'itencer (s. obsolete) A confessor, a priest who joins penance; a dignitary in a cathedral church had, in some cases, the power of absolution.

Pen'itens (s. obsolete) Penance.

PEN'ITENT (adj. from the Lat. poenitens) Sorrowful for past offences, contrite for sin, resolute in amendment of life.

Pen'itent (s. from the adj.) One sorrowful for sin under the censure of the church but admitted to penance, one under the direction of a confessor.

Peniten'tial (adj. from penitent) Expressing repentance; enjoined as penance.

Peniten'tial (s. from the adj.) A book directing the degrees of penance.

Peniten'tiary (adj. from penitent) Belonging to penance, relating to repentance.

Peniten'tiary (s. from the adj.) One who prescribes rules and measures of penance, one who does penance in the place where penance is enjoined. Pen.

PEN

PEN

tently (adv. from penitent) With repentance, h contrition for sin.
 tentness (s. from penitent) The state of being penitent.
 knife (s. from pen, and knife) A knife used to make ns.
 KRIDGE (s.) A town in Staffordshire; it has a mar-on Tuesday, and is 125 miles from London.
 ridge (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Penkridge, ade at Penkridge.
 man (s. from pen, and man) One who professes the of writing; a writer, an author.
 manship (s. from penman) The act of writing, the of the pen.
 NACHED (adj. in botany, from the French penche) Having the ground colour of the leaves radied in a regular and beautiful manner.
 NANCE (s. the common spelling, from the Lat. poena penalty) Penance, something inflicted as a punishment for sin.
 NANT (s. from the French pennon) A small flag, ensign; a kind of tackle for hoisting things on ard a ship.
 NATED (adj. from the Lat. penna a wing) Having ings, winged; having the leaves directly opposite each other on the stalk.
 ned (p. from pen) Written, composed in writing;
 oped up, inclosed in a pen.
 ner (s. from pen) A writer, one who composes in riting; a pence in the Scotch dialect.
 NIGEROUS (adj. from the Lat. penna a wing, and ero to carry) Winged, feathered. Cole.
 niless (adj. from penny) Poor, having no money.
 ning (p. a. from pen) Writing, composing in writng, cooping up, inclosing in a pen.
 nir (s. obsolete) A pen, a pencil. Chaucer.
 NON (s. from the French) A small flag, an ensign.
 noncil (s. from pennon) A small pennon, a little flag ornament a lance or spear.
 NY (s. from the Sax. penis) A small coin, the weifth part of a shilling; a small sum; money in eneral.
 ny'earth (s. in husbandry) A hard loamy earth with large mixture of sea shells.
 ny'post (s. from penny, and post) An office for conveying letters for the price of a penny to all places within the bills of mortality in London.
 nyroy'al (s. in botany) A well known pot herb.
 nyweight (s. from penny, and weight) A denomination of weight containing twenty-four grains. nywife (adj. from penny, and wife) Saving little ums at the hazard of larger ones, niggardly on improper occasions.
 nyworth (s. from penny, and worth) So much of ny commodity as may be bought for a penny, a small quantity; a purchase, an advantageous purchase, a good bargain.
 n'on (s. a different spelling) The pennon, a small flag.
 NRICE (s.) A town in Glamorganshire; it has a market on Thursday, and is 219 miles from London.
 nrice (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Penrice, made at Penrice.
 NRITH (s.) A town in Cumberland; it has a mar-et on Tuesday, and is 282 miles from London.
 nrith (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Penrith, made at Penrith.
 NRY'N (s.) A borough town in Cornwall; it has a market on Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 261 miles from London.
 nry'n (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Penryn, made at Penryn.
 ns (s. an obsolete spelling) Pence, money. Chaucer.
 n'sa (s. in old records) A weight consisting of twelve ounces troy; a weight of 256 pounds. Bailey.
 NSA'NCE (s.) A town in Cornwall about eleven miles distant from the land's end; it has a market on Thursday, and is 276 miles from London.
 n'sance (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Pensance, made at Pensance.
 n'sell (s. the diminutive of pennon) The pennoncel, a small flag. Chaucer.
 n'ses (s. in botany) The pansy. Cole.
 NSFORD (s.) A town in Somersetshire; it has a market on Tuesday, and is 118 miles from London.
 ns'ford (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Pensford, made at Pensford.
 NSICULATION (s. from the Lat. pensiculo to ponder, but not used) A deliberate consideration. Cole.

Pen'sifehede (s. obsolete) Pensiveness. Chaucer.
 Pen'sil (adj. not so common a spelling) Pensile. Bailey.
 Pen'sile (adj. from the Lat. pensilis) Hanging suspended above.
 Pen'silenefs (s. from pensile) The state of being pendent.
 Pen'sility (s. from pensile) The state of being pensile. Ba.
 PENSILVA'NIA (s. in geography) One of the proprietary governments of North America.
 PEN'SION (s. from the French) A yearly allowance given without an equivalent; a yearly allowance from the government.
 Pen'sion (v. t. from the sub.) To support by a yearly allowance.
 Pen'sionary (adj. from pension) Maintained by pension.
 Pen'sionary (s. in Holland) The prime minister of a regency.
 Pen'sioned (p. from pension) Accommodated with a pension, supported by a pension.
 Pen'sioner (s. from pension) One supported by a pension, a dependant.
 Pen'sioning (p. a. from pension) Accommodating with a pension, supporting by a pension.
 Pen'sis (s. obsolete) The pansy. Chaucer.
 PEN'SITATE (v. t. from the Lat. pensito) To weigh in the mind. Scott.
 PEN'SIVE (adj. from the Lat. penso to ponder) Thoughtful, mournfully serious, melancholy.
 Pen'sively (adv. from pensive) With thoughtfulness, with gloomy seriousness.
 Pen'siveness (s. from pensive) The state of being pensive.
 Pen'stock (s. from pen, and stock) A floodgate, the gate that dams up the water of a mill pond.
 Pent (v. t. pret. of pen) Did pen.
 Pent (p. from pen) Shut up.
 PENTACAP'SULAR (adj. from the Greek πεντε five, and the Lat. capula a chest) Having five cavities, having five seed vessels.
 PENTACHORD (*s. from the Greek πεντε five, and χορδη
 a string*) A musical instrument with five strings.
 PENTACHROSTIC (s. from the Greek πεντε five, and ακροστιχis an acrostic) A kind of compound acrostic. Sc.
 PENTACOC'COUS (adj. from the Greek πεντε five, and κοκος a grain) Having five seeds.
 PENTADACTYLUS (s. in botany) The palma christi.
 PENTAE'DRON (s. from the Greek πεντε five, and εδρα a base) A pillar with five sides.
 PENTAE'DROUS (adj. from the Greek πεντε five, and εδρα a base) Having five sides.
 PEN'TAGAMIST (s. from the Greek πεντε five, and γαμος a marriage) One who has had five wives. Cole.
 PENTAGLOT'TICAL (adj. from the Greek πεντε five, and γλωττα a language) Skilled in five languages. Cole.
 PEN'TAGON (s. from the Greek πεντε five, and γωνια an angle) A geometrical plain figure having five sides and angles.
 Pentag'onal (adj. from pentagon) Having five angles.
 PENTAGONOTHE'CA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 Pentag'onous (adj. from pentagon) Having five angles. S.
 PEN'TAGRAPH (s. from the Greek πεντε five, and γραφω to write) An instrument for copying designs in any proportion.
 PENTAGY'NIA (s. in botany, from the Greek πεντε five, and γυν a female) The genus or class of plants comprehending all that have hermaphrodite flowers and five pistils or female parts.
 Pentahe'drical (adj. from pentahedron) Having five sides. Cole.
 PANTAHE'DRON (s. a different spelling) The pentaedron.
 PENTAM'ETER (s. from the Greek πεντε five, and μετροω to measure) A Latin verse consisting of five feet.
 Pentam'eter (adj. from the sub.) Consisting of five feet.
 PENTAM'YROM (s. in pharmacy) An ointment compounded of five ingredients.
 PENTAN'DRIA (s. in botany, from the Greek πεντε five, and ανηρ ανδρος a man) A genus or class of plants comprehending all that have hermaphrodite flowers with five stamina.
 Pen'tangle (s. from the Greek πεντε five, and the Lat. angulus an angle) A figure having five sides and angles. Scott.
 Pentan'gular (adj. from pentangle) Having five corners.
 PENTAPET'ALOUS (adj. in botany, from the Greek πεντε five, and πεταλον a leaf) Having five petals or flower leaves.
 PENTA'PETES (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 Pentaphyllous (adj. from pentaphyllon) Having five leaves.
 PENTAPHYLLOIDES (s. in botany) A kind of cinquefoil, an herb resembling the cinquefoil.
 PENTAPHYL'LUM

PEO

PENTAPHYL/LUM (s. from the Greek πεντε five, and φυλλον a leaf) The cinquefoil.
PENTAPLEU'RON (s. in botany) The lesser plantain.
PENTAPOLIS (s. from the Greek πεντε five, and πολις a city) A district containing five cities.
PENTAPIEROPHYL/LUM (s. in botany) The myriophyllum.
Pentap'tote (s. from pentaptoton) A noun which has five cases.
PENTAP'TOTON (s. in grammar, from the Greek πεντε five, and πτωσις a case) A noun that has five cases.
PEN'TARCH (s. from the Greek πεντε five, and αρχος chief) A captain of five.
PEN'TASPAST (s. from the Greek πεντε five, and παστω to draw) An engine with five pullies.
PENTAS'TICH (s. from the Greek πεντε five, and στιχος a verse) A poem or stanza consisting of five verses.
PEN'TASTYLE (s. in architecture, from the Greek πεντε five, and στυλος a pillar) A building or work in which are five rows of pillars.
PEN'TATEUCH (s. from the Greek πεντε five, and τευχος a volume) The five books of Moses.
PENTATH'LON (s. from the Greek πεντε five, and αθλον a contest) The five principal exercises performed in the Grecian games.
PENTATH'LUM (s. a different spelling) The pentathlon.
PENTA'TOTON (s. in ancient music) The sixth.
PEN'FCONTARCH (s. from the Greek πεντηκοντα fifty, and αρχος chief) A captain of fifty.
PEN'TECOST (s. from the Greek πεντηκοστη) A feast among the Jews so called because it was celebrated fifty days after the passover.
Pentecost'al (adj. from pentecost) Belonging to Whitsuntide.
Pentecost'al (s. from the adj.) The offering made at Whitsuntide.
PENTE'PHAR'MACUM (s. from the Greek πεντε five, and φαρμακον a remedy) Any medicine consisting of five ingredients.
PENTE'RIS (s. from the Lat.) A vessel made with five benches of oars on a side.
Penthen'imier (s. from penthemimeris) The penthemimeris.
PENTHEMIME'RIS (s. from the Greek πεντε five, ημισυς half, and μερος a part) A part of a verse consisting of two feet and one long syllable; a kind of cæsura.
PEN'THEUS (s. in the mythology of the poets) The son of Echion who it is said was torn to pieces by his mother, sisters and aunt for slighting the rites of Bacchus.
Pentho'rum (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
Pent'house (s. from pent, and house) A shed, a building sloping out from a main wall.
PEN'TICE (s. from the Italian pendice) A sloping roof, a penthouse.
Pen'tile (s. from pent, and tile) A tile to cover the sloping part of a roof made hollow or circular.
PEN'TO'ROBON (s. in botany) The peony.
Pent'up (adj. from pent, and up) Shut up. "Close pentup guilts."
PENU'EL (s. from the Heb. signifying the vision of God) The name of a place, Peniel.
PENULA'TOR (s. from the Lat. penula a napped coat) A furrier.
PENULTIMA (s. in grammar, from the Lat. pene almost, and ultima the last) The last syllable but one; a note in the ancient scale of music.
Penult'imate (adj. from penultima) Belonging to the last syllable but one, belonging to the last but one.
PENUM'BRA (s. from the Lat. pene almost, and umbra a shadow) An imperfect shadow, a faint or partial shadow.
Penu'rious (adj. from penury) Niggardly, illiberal, fardid; scanty, wanting plenty.
Penu'riously (adv. from penurious) Sparingly, in a scanty manner; in the manner of a niggard.
Penu'riousness (s. from penurious) Niggardliness, parsimony.
PEN'URY (s. from the Lat. penuria) Poverty, indigence.
PE'ONY (s. in botany) The piony, the name of a plant, the name of a flower.
PEO'PLE (s. from the Lat. populus) A nation, the individuals composing a community; the commonalty, the bulk of a nation; persons of a particular class; persons in general.
Peo'ple (v. t. from the sub.) To stock with inhabitants.
Peo'pled (p. from people) Stocked with people.
Peo'pling (p. a. from people) Stocking with inhabitants.

PER

PE'OR (s. from the Heb. signifying a hole) A mountain in the land of Canaan.
Pep (s. not so common a spelling) A pip.
PEP'ANSIS (s. from the Greek πεπαινω to ripen) pedasius, the concretion of depraved humours.
PEPAS'MUS (s. from the Greek πεπαινω to mature) maturation of morbid humours.
PEPAS'TIC (adj. from the Greek πεπαινω to ripen) Said to digest crudities in the stomach.
Pepas'tic (s. from the adj.) A medicine to help digest or correct the crudities of the stomach.
PEP'EN (s.) A man's name.
Pep'ins (s. not used) Kernels.
Pep'ire (s. an old word) A love potion.
PEP'LIS (s. in botany) The water purslain, a genus of plants.
Pep'lishe (adj. obsolete) Mean, vulgar.
PE'PO (s. in botany) The pompon.
PEPO'RION (s. in church history) A kind of Monach.
PEP'PER (s. from the Lat. piper) An aromatic pungent kind of grain brought from India.
Pep'per (v. t. from the sub.) To sprinkle with pepper to beat, to mangle with shot, to mangle with blows.
Pep'perbird (s. in ornithology) A species of the ramphod.
Rep'perbox (s. from pepper, and box) A box to hold pepper.
Pep'percorn (s. from pepper, and corn) A grain of pepper; any thing of trifling value.
Pep'pered (p. from pepper) Sprinkled with pepper beaten, mangled with shot or blows.
Pep'pering (p. a. from pepper) Sprinkling with pepper beating, mangling with blows.
Pep'permint (s. in botany) A kind of mint.
Pep'perwater (s. from pepper, and water) Water which pepper has been infused.
Pep'perwort (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
PEP'SIS (s. from the Greek) The concoction of food, maturation of humours.
Pep'tic (adj. from pepsis) Digestive, promoting concoction.
PER (preb. from the Lat.) By, through.
PERAC'TIC (s.) A mathematical instrument used in surveying.
Perac'tion (s. not used) The act of finishing.
PERACU'TE (adj. from the Lat. peracutus) Very sharp, very violent.
PERADVEN'TURE (adv. from the Lat. per by, and adventura a coming) Perhaps, by chance.
Peradven'ture (s. from the adv. but not much used) Doubtful question.
PERAG'RATE (v. int. from the Lat. per through, and ager a field) To wander through the country, to roam about.
Perag'rating (p. a. from peragrate, but not used) Wandering about.
Perag'ration (s. from peragrate) The act of passing through any space or state.
PERAM'BULATE (v. int. from the Lat. per through, and ambulo to walk) To walk through, to survey by passing through.
Perambulated (p. from perambulate) Passed through surveyed by passing through.
Perambulating (p. a. from perambulate) Passing through surveying by passing through.
Perambula'tion (s. from perambulate) The act of passing through, a travelling survey.
Perambula'tor (s. from perambulate) A wheel for measuring roads.
PERAN'GUST (adj. from the Lat. per and angustus) Very narrow.
PERAR'ATE (v. t. from the Lat. per through, and arare to plough) To plough through.
Per'avail (s. a law term) A subordinate tenant, a per-avail.
Peraven'ter (adv. obsolete) Perhaps.
Peraven'ture (adv. an obsolete spelling) Peradventure.
PER'CA (s. in ichthyology) The perch.
Per'case (adv. from per, and case, but not used) Perhaps, peradventure.
Percapt'ra (s. in old records) A ware or dam in a river for catching fish.
PERCA'RUMI'LA'PIS (s. in natural history) A kind of stone found in the head of a perch.
Perce (v. t. obsolete) To pierce.
PER'CE (s. an obsolete spelling) A person.
Perce' (adj. in heraldry) Perforated, represented as having a hole bored through.
PER'CEANT (adj. from the French percent) Penetrating, piercing.

Perce'val

P E R

P E R

ceivable (adj. from perceive) Perceptible, capable of being perceived.
 ceivably (adj. from perceivable) Perceptibly, in a manner to be perceived.
 CEIVE (v. t. from the Lat. per through, and capio to take) To begin to see, to discover, to apprehend, to understand; to be affected by.
 ceived (p. from perceive) Discovered by some sensible effects; known, understood.
 ceiving (p. a. from perceive) Discovering by some sensible effects, understanding, discerning.
 cel (s. an obsolete spelling) A part, a parcel. Ch.
 cel (adv. from the sub. obsolete) In part, partly. Ch.
 ceptier (s. a different spelling) The percipere, the barley pert. Phillips.
 ceptiere (s. in old botanic authors) The name of an herb supposed to be very efficacious in dissolving the stone in the bladder or kidneys.
 ceptibility (s. from perceptible) Perception, the power of perceiving; the state of being perceptible.
 CEPTIBLE (adj. from the Lat. per through, and capio to take) Capable of being perceived.
 ceptibly (adv. from perceptible) In a manner to be perceived.
 RECEPTION (s. from the Lat. per through, and capio to take) The power of perceiving, the state of being perceived; a notion, an idea.
 RECEPTIVE (adj. from the Lat. per through, and capio to take) Having the power of perceiving.
 ceptivity (s. from perceptive) The power of perceiving. Locke.
 rceiver (v. t. obsolete) To persevere, to continue. Ch.
 ERCH (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish.
 ERCH (s. from the Lat. pertica) A measure of length containing five yards and a half, a pole.
 ERCH (s. from the French perche) That on which a bird sits, something on which birds rest.
 erch (v. int. from the sub.) To sit on any thing as a bird.
 erch (v. t.) To place on a perch.
 erchance (adv. from per, and chance) Perhaps, by chance.
 erch'ant (s. from perch) A decoy bird, a bird fastened to a perch to draw others.
 erch'ed (p. from perch) Placed on a perch; with on; as, "Perched on my hearer." Sometimes with in; as, "Perched in the boughs."
 erch'men (s. obsolete) Parchment. Chaucer.
 erch'mene, Perch'mine (s. an obsolete spelling) Parchment. Chaucer.
 erch'er (s. from perch) A young bird that begins to perch on the boughs.
 erch'er (s. an old word) A Paris candle, a large wax candle such as were usually set on the altar.
 erch'ing (p. a. from perch) Placing on a perch, setting on a perch.
 ERCHNOP'TEROS (s. in ornithology) A kind of bastard eagle.
 ERCH'NOS (s. in ornithology) A kind of eagle.
 ERCEPI'ENT (adj. from the Lat. per through, and capio to take) Perceptive, having the power of perception.
 ercip'ient (s. from the adj.) One that has the power of perceiving, one that perceives.
 ER'CIVAL (s.) A man's name.
 Perclose (s. from per, and close) A conclusion, a last part. Raleigh.
 PERCOLATE (v. t. from the Lat. per through, and colo to strain) To strain.
 Percolated (p. from percolate) Strained.
 Percolating (p. a. from percolate) Straining, separating by a strainer.
 Percolation (s. from percolate) The act of straining, a separation by straining.
 Percontation (s. not used) A diligent enquiry. Cole.
 Percontation (s. not used) A diligent enquiry. Cole.
 PERCRUCIATE (v. t. from the Lat. per through, and crucio to torment, but not used) To torment greatly. Cole.
 PERCUL'IS (s.) The title of one of the pursuivants at arms.
 PERCUSSES (v. t. from the Lat. per through, and quatio to shake) To strike, to strike against.
 Percus'ed (p. from percuss) Struck, struck against.
 Percus'ing (p. a. from percuss) Striking, striking against.
 Percus'sion (s. from percuss) The act of striking, a stroke, the sound which strikes the ear.
 Percus'sive (adj. from percuss) Striking, striking against.
 PERCUITIENT (s. from the Lat. per through, and quatio to shake) Having the power to strike, striking.

PERDE' (s. from per by, and Deus God, obsolete) The form of an oath. Chaucer.
 PERDIE' (s. from per by, and Deus God) The form of an obsolete oath. Spenser.
 PER'DICUM (s. in botany) The pellitory.
 PER'DIFOL (s. from perdo to destroy, and folium a leaf) A plant that drops its leaves in winter.
 PERD'ITION (s. from the Lat. perdo to destroy) Destruction, ruin, death; damage, loss.
 PER'DIX (s. in ornithology) The partridge.
 PER'DIX (s. in the mythology of the poets) The nephew of Dædalus who was said to have been thrown from a mountain and turned into a partridge. Ovid.
 PERDUC'TION (s. from the Lat. per through, and ducere to lead, but not used) The act of leading through. Co.
 PER'DUE (s. from the French) The advanced guard, the forlorn hope.
 Per'due (adv. from the sub.) Closely, in ambush.
 PERDUEL'LION (s. from the Lat. perduellio, but not used) An open act of hostility. Cole.
 Perduellism (s. not used) An open act of hostility. Co.
 PER'DULANS (adj. from the Lat. perdo to lose) Lost, thrown away.
 PER'DURABLE (adj. from the Lat. per through, and duro to endure, but not used) Lasting, enduring long. Shakespeare.
 Per'durably (adv. from perdurable) Lastingly. Shakes.
 PERDURA'TION (s. from the Lat. per through, and duro to continue) Long continuance. Ainsworth.
 PERDY' (s. from the Lat. per by, and Deus God) The form of an oath. Shakespeare.
 Pere (s. obsolete) A peer, an equal. Chaucer.
 Pere (v. int. obsolete) To appear. Chaucer.
 Pere'gal (adj. obsolete) Equal. Spenser.
 PER'EGRINATE (v. int. from the Lat. per through, and agere to travel) To travel, to live in foreign countries. Johnson.
 Peregrina'tion (s. from peregrinate) The act of travelling, the act of travelling in foreign countries.
 Per'e-grine (adj. from peregrinate) Strange, foreign, belonging to another country.
 PER'EGRINE (s.) A man's name.
 PEREMPT (v. t. a law term, from the Lat. peremptus destroyed) To crush, to destroy. Ayliffe.
 Perempt'ed (p. from perempt) Crushed, destroyed.
 Perempt'ion (s. from perempt, a law term) An extinction, a crush. Ayliffe.
 Peremptorily (adv. from peremptory) Absolutely, positively.
 Peremptoriness (s. from peremptory) Positiveness, absolute decision.
 Per'emptory (adj. from perempt) Dogmatical, positive, absolute, admitting of no further expostulation.
 PEREN'IAL (adj. from the Lat. per through, and annus a year) Lasting through the year, perpetual.
 PEREN'ITY (s. from the Lat. per through, and annus a year) The state of being perennial, perpetuity.
 PEREN'TICIDE (s. from the Lat. pera a purse, and caedo to cut) A cut purse. Cole.
 PERERRA'TION (s. from the Lat. per through, and erro to err) The act of wandering about. Cole.
 PERES'KIA (s. in botany) The cactus.
 PERETE'RION (s. in surgery) The perforating part of the trepan.
 PER'ECT (adj. from the Lat. per through, and facio to do) Complete, consummate, finished; free from defect, pure, blameless; safe out of danger. Shakes.
 Perf'ect (v. t. from the adj.) To finish, to complete, to bring to perfection; to make skillful, to instruct fully.
 Perf'ected (p. from perfect) Made perfect, finished, completed.
 Perf'ector (s. from perfect) One that perfects.
 Perf'ector (adj. comp. of perfect) Perfect in a greater degree.
 Perf'ectest (adj. sup. of perfect) Perfect in the greatest degree.
 Perf'ecting (p. a. from perfect) Making perfect, finishing, completing.
 Perfection (s. from perfect) The state of being perfect, something that conduces to supreme excellence; an attribute of deity.
 Perfectional (adj. from perfection) Making perfect. Bai.
 Perfectionate (v. t. from perfection) To make perfect. Dryden.
 Perfectionating (p. a. from perfectionate) Making perfect. Dryden.
 Perfectionism (s. an old law term) A kind of office or dignity. Perfective

PER

Perfective (adj. from perfect) Conducive to perfection.

Perfectively (adv. from perfective) In a manner suited to produce perfection.

Perfectly (adv. from perfect) In the highest degree of excellence; completely, totally.

Perfection (s. from perfect) Completeness, the state of being perfect; virtue, goodness.

Perfetiche (adv. obsolete) Perfectly. Chaucer.

PERFIDIA (s. from the Italian) A kind of faniens running through a piece of music.

PERFIDIOUS (adj. from the Lat. per through, and fides faith) Violating faith, treacherous, false to trust.

Perfidiously (adv. from perfidious) Treacherously, with breach of faith.

Perfidiousness (s. from perfidious) The quality of being perfidious.

PERFIDY (s. from the Lat. per through, and fides faith) A breach of faith, treachery, the want of faith.

Perfite (adj. obsolete) Perfect. Chaucer.

PERFLABLE (adj. from the Lat. per through, and flo to blow) Capable of being blown through.

PERFLATE (v. t. from the Lat. per through, and flo to blow) To blow through.

Perflated (p. from perflate) Blown through.

PERFLATILE (adj. from the Lat. per through, and flo to blow) Blowing strongly, blowing through. Bai.

Perflating (p. a. from perflate) Blowing through.

Perflation (s. from perflate) The act of blowing through.

PERFOLIA'TA (s. in botany) The bupleurum, the hares-ear.

PERFOLIATED (adj. from the Lat. per through, and folium a leaf) Having the stalk through the leaf.

PERFORANS (s. in anatomy) A muscle that perforates or runs through some other muscle.

PERFORATE (v. t. from the Lat. per through, and foro to bore) To bore through, to pierce with an instrument.

Perforated (p. from perforate) Bored through, pierced with an instrument; appearing as though pierced with many holes.

Perforating (p. a. from perforate) Boring through, piercing with an instrument.

Perforation (s. from perforate) The act of boring through, the hole bored.

Perforator (s. from perforate) The instrument of boring.

PERFORATUS (s. in anatomy) A muscle perforated so as to receive another muscle or tendon through the aperture.

Perforce (adv. from per, and force) By force, by violence. Dryden.

PERFORM (v. t. from the Lat. per by, and forma a form) To execute, to do; to discharge, to achieve, to accomplish.

Perform (v. int.) To act a part, to succeed in an attempt.

Performable (adj. from perform) Capable of being performed.

Performance (s. from perform) The completion of a design, the fulfilment of a promise; a work, an action, services done.

Performed (p. from perform) Executed, done, accomplished.

Performer (s. from perform) One that performs; one that plays on an instrument of music, one that sings in public, one that acts a part on the stage.

Performing (p. a. from perform) Executing, doing, accomplishing; acting a part, playing a part on some instrument of music, exhibiting in public.

PERFRICATE (v. r. from the Lat. per through, and frico to rub) To rub over. Johnson.

Perfricated (p. not used, from perfricate) Rubbed over.

Perfricating (p. a. not used, from perfricate) Rubbing over.

Perfrication (s. from perfricate) The act of rubbing thoroughly. Scott.

PERFRICITION (s. from the Lat. per through, and frico to rub) The act of rubbing thoroughly, a shivering for cold. Cole.

Perfumatory (adj. from perfume) Perfuming, giving a perfume.

PERFUME (v. t. from the Lat. per through, and fumo to smoke) To scent, to impregnate with sweet scent.

Perfume (s. from the verb) A strong odour, a sweet scent, any thing used to communicate a sweet scent.

Perfumed (p. from perfume) Impregnated with a sweet scent, done with perfume.

PER

Perfumer (s. from perfume) One who deals in perfumes.

Perfuming (p. a. from perfume) Communicating an agreeable scent, impregnating with a grateful smell.

Perfuming (s. from the part.) The act of communicating a perfume, the state of being perfumed.

PERFUNCTION (s. from the Lat. per through, and fungor to discharge) The accomplishment of a design, the discharge of an office. Cole.

Perfunctorily (adv. from perfunctory) Carelessly, negligently. Clarendon.

Perfunctories (s. from perfunctory) Carelessness, negligence.

PERFUNCTORY (adj. from the Lat. per by, and fungor discharged) Slight, careless, negligent. Woodward.

PERFUSE (v. t. from the Lat. per through, and fundo to pour) To tincture, to overpread. Harvey.

Perfused (p. from perfuse) Tinctured, overpread.

Perfusing (p. a. from perfuse) Tincturing, overspreading.

Perfusion (s. from perfuse) The act of pouring out upon any thing. Wickham.

Perfyt (adj. an old spelling) Perfect. Wickham.

PERGA (s.) A city in the Lesser Asia. Act.

Pergame'na (s. from Pergamus) Parchment. Philipp.

Pergame'ous (adj. from Pergamus) Belonging to Pergamus; consisting of parchment. Cole.

PERGAMOS (s. in geography) A city in the Lesser Asia. Reyn.

PERGAMUS (s.) A city of Natolia famous for the invention of parchment. Reyn.

PERGUS (s.) A lake in Sicily where as the poets feign Pluto carried away Proserpine. Uv.

Perhaps (adv. from per, and hap) Peradventure, by chance.

PERHYEMATION (s. from the Lat. per through, and hyems the winter) The act of spending the winter in any place. Baile.

PERIAGOGE (s. in rhetoric, from the Greek περί about, and αγω to drive) A sentence or period in which several things are crowded together which might have been divided.

PERIAM'MA (s. from the Greek περί about, and αμω to tie) An amulet, something tied about the neck or other part of the body as supposing it to have virtue to cure some hurt or disease.

PERIAN'DER (s.) One of the seven wisemen of Greece.

PERIAN'THIA (s. in botany) The calyx, the flower cup.

PERIAN'THIUM (s. in botany) The perianthia, the flower cup.

PERIAPT (s. from the Greek περί about, and αμω to tie) An amulet, the periapta. Shakespeare.

PERIAP'TA (s. from periapt) The periapt, an amulet. DiEt. of Art.

PERIAP'TON (s. a different spelling) The periapt, an amulet. DiEt. of Art.

PERIB'OLE (s. in rhetoric) The periagoge. D. of Art.

PERIB'OLUS (s. from the Greek περί about, and βολω to throw) The outward wall of a place; a park, a warren. Philipp.

Pericard (s. from pericardium) The pericardium. Cole.

Pericard'iac (adj. from pericardium) Belonging to the pericardium.

Pericard'ian (adj. from pericardium) Belonging to the pericardium.

Pericard'iary (adj. from pericardium) Belonging to the worms or animalcules bred in the heart.

Pericard'ic (adj. from pericardium) Belonging to the pericardium. Philipp.

PERICAR'DIUM (s. in anatomy, from the Greek περί about, and καρδια the heart) The membrane that surrounds the heart.

PERICAR'PIA (s. in pharmacy) A plaister for the arm, something applied to the wrist to cure the ague. DiEt. of Art.

PERICAR'PIUM (s. in botany, from the Greek περί about, and καρπος the fruit) The seed vessel, that which covers the seeds of a plant.

Pericarp'ium (s. in pharmacy) A medicine applied to the wrist to cure the ague.

PERICAR'PUS (s. in botany, a different spelling) The pericarpium, the membrane that surrounds the fruit or grain of a plant. Scott.

PERICHORUS (s. in antiquity) One of the games or combats which were not consecrated to any of the supposed divinities.

Periclitancy (s. not so common a word) Periclitation.

PERICLITATION (s. from the Lat. periclitor to be dangerous)

PER

Peril (s. not so common a spelling) The state of being in danger, hazard; jeopardy; a trial, an experiment.

PERICLOSIS (s. in surgery, from the Greek περί about, and κλῆσις to break) A fracture in which the ends of the bone appear through the skin.

PERICLYME'NUM (s. in botany) The woodbine.

PERICLYME'NUS (s. in the mythology of the poets) The brother of Nestor who was supposed to have power to transform himself into any form, and was at last shot by Hercules in the shape of an eagle. Ovid.

PERICNE'MIA (s. in anatomy, from the Greek περί about, and κνήμη the tibia) The parts about the tibia.

PERICRAN'ION (s. a different spelling) The pericranium. Co.

PERICRANI'UM (s. in anatomy, from the Greek περί about, and κρανίον the skull) The thin membrane that covers the skull; the periostrum of the skull.

PERICRAN'Y (s. from pericranium) The pericranium. Co.

PERICULOUS (adj. from the Lat. periculum danger, but now grown obsolete) Dangerous, perilous. Brown.

PERIDOT (s. in natural history) A kind of precious stone. Philips.

PERIDROME (s. in architecture, from the Greek περί about, and δρόμος a course) The gallery, the alley or space between the columns and the wall.

PERIDROM'IS (s. a different spelling) The peridrome. Sc.

PERIDROM'US (s. a different spelling) The peridrome. Dict. of Arts.

PERIDOT (s. obsolete) A precious stone. Chaucer.

PERIEGES'TES (s. from the Greek περί about, and γίγνομαι to lead) One who conducts another about any place in order to shew it.

PERIEL'ION (s. from the Greek περί about, and ἥλιος the sun) That point of the orb in which any planet is nearest the sun.

PERIEL'LUM (s. a different spelling) The point of the orb which is nearest the sun. Johnson.

PERIENET (s. obsolete) A young pear-tree. Chaucer.

PERIENET (s.) A young pear-tree. Co.

PERIPIPHIMOSIS (s. from the Greek) The paraphimosis.

PERIERGY (s. from the Greek περί about, and εργον work) Too great caution, unnecessary care and diligence.

PERIGÆ'UM (s. from the Greek περί about, and γῆ the earth) That point of the orb in which any planet is nearest the earth.

PERIGRAPHE (s. from the Greek περί about, and γραφω to write) A sketch, a careless draught of any thing. Dict. of Arts.

PERIGEE (s. from perigæum) The point in which the sun or any planet is nearest the earth.

PERIGRE (s. an incorrect spelling) The perigæum. Co.

PERIGRIN'ARY (s. from the Lat. perigrinarius) The person in a religious house who is appointed to receive and entertain strangers.

PERIHEL'ION, PERIHEL'LUM (s. different spellings) The perihelium. Cheyne.

PERIL (s. from the Lat. periculum) Danger, hazard, jeopardy.

PERILEU'COS (s. in natural history) A kind of gem or precious stone.

PERILLUS (s.) An artist who invented an engine of cruelty in the shape of a brazen bull and was himself the first that suffered in it. Pliny.

PERILLOUS (adj. an incorrect spelling) Perilous. Phil.

PERILOUS (adj. from peril) Dangerous, hazardous, full of danger, smart, witty too soon as a child, ominously witty. "A perilous boy." Shakespeare.

PERILOUSLY (adv. from perilous) Dangerously.

PERILOUSNESS (s. from perilous) Dangerousness, the state of being in danger.

PERIMEDA (s. in the mythology of the poets) A famous sorceress. Theocritus.

PERIMETER (s. in geometry, from the Greek περί about, and μέτρον to measure) The circumference, the sum of the lines that bound any figure.

PERIMETER (s. in poetry) A verse in which there is a syllable more than the just measure.

PERIMOLE (s. in the mythology of the poets) The daughter of Hippodamus supposed to have been changed into an island in the Ægean sea.

PERINE'UM (s. in anatomy) The ligament or seam between the scrotum and the fundament.

PERINE'UM (s. a different spelling) The perineum, the parts between the anus and the organs of generation.

PERINTHIAN (adj. from Perinthus) Belonging to Perinthus. Ainsworth.

PERINTHUS (s.) The ancient metropolis of Thrace.

PERINE'TIDES (s. in surgery) Little swellings or protuberances like nipples.

PER

PERIOCH (s. not so common a spelling) The periocha. Cole.

PERIO'CHA (s. from the Greek περίοχη an inclosure) The argument, the heads of a discourse. Scott.

PERIOD (s. from the Greek περί through, and ὁδός a way) A circuit, a stated number of years, the time in which a planet performs an entire revolution, a round of time, length of duration, the end, the conclusion, the state at which any thing terminates, a complete sentence from one full stop to another, the point (.) that shews the end of a sentence.

PERIOD (v. t. from the sub. a bad word) To conclude, to put an end to. Shakespeare.

PERIODEA'TA (s. in the Greek church) A kind of rural device.

PERIOD'IC (adj. from period) Belonging to a period, distinguished by a period.

PERIOD'ICAL (adj. from periodic) Relating to periods, determined by stated revolutions.

PERIOD'ICALLY (adv. from periodical) At stated periods, in a periodical manner.

PERIODICALNESS (s. from periodical) The state of being periodical.

PERIOD'US (s. with physical writers) A period, the order or course of a disease.

PERIOECI (s. from the Greek περί about, and οικω to dwell) The people who inhabit that part of the earth which lies in the opposite point of the same parallel of latitude.

PERIOPHTHALMI'UM (s. from the Greek περί about, and ὀφθαλμός an eye) The thin skin or membrane which birds draw over their eyes to defend them without shutting their eyelids.

PERIOSTEUM (s. in anatomy, from the Greek περί about, and ὀστέον a bone) The membrane that encompasses the bones.

PERIPATET'IC (adj. from the Greek περί about, and πατέω to walk) Belonging to the peripatetics, belonging to the philosophy of Aristotle and his followers.

Peripatet'ic (s. from the adj.) One of an ancient sect of philosophers so called, because they used to dispute walking up and down in the Lycæum at Athens, a follower of Aristotle. The peripatetics placed happiness partly in virtue and partly in the good things of this life, but the Stoics placed it in virtue only.

PERIPATET'ICI (s.) The followers of Aristotle.

PERIPE'TIA (s. from the Greek περίπτεσις) The crisis of a tragedy, that part of a tragedy in which the whole plot is unravelled. Scott.

PERIPE'TIE (s. a different spelling) The peripetia. Scott.

PERIPHASIS (s.) A companion of Pyrrhus in the sacking of Troy. Virg.

PERIPHERY (s. from the Greek περί about, and φέρω to carry) The circumference, the bounding lines of a curvilinear figure.

PERIPHIMOSIS (s. from the Greek) The paraphimosis, a contraction of some membranous part.

PERIPHRASE (s. from periphrasis) A periphrasis, a circumlocution.

PERIPHRASE (v. t. from the sub.) To express by a circumlocution, to express the sense of one word by many.

Periphrased (p. from periphrase) Expressed by a circumlocution.

Periphrasing (p. a. from periphrase) Expressing by a circumlocution.

PERIPH'RASIS (s. from the Greek περί about, and φέρω a speech) A round about way of speaking, a circumlocution to avoid the trite or common mode of expression.

Periphrastic (adj. from periphrase) Circumlocutory, expressing the sense of one word in many.

Periphrastical (adj. from periphrastic) Belonging to a periphrasis.

Periphrastically (adv. from periphrastical) By way of periphrasis.

PERIPLEU'MONY (s. a different spelling) The peripneumony. Scott.

PERIPLO'CA (s. in botany) The dogsbane.

PERIPLUS (s. from the Greek περίπλους) A voyage round a certain sea or coast.

PERIPNEUMO'NIA (s. from the Greek περί about, and πνεύμων the lungs) An inflammation of the lungs and breast attended with a fever and a difficulty of breathing.

Peripneumo'nical (adj. from peripneumonia) Afflicted with a peripneumony.

Peripneumony (s. from peripneumonia) The peripneumonia, an inflammation of the lungs.

PER

PERI'POLIS (s. in ancient geography) A town of the Brutians. Thucyd.
PERIP'TERE (s. in the architecture of the ancients) A place encompassed about with columns, a kind of portico.
PERIP'TERON (s. a different spelling) The periptere.
PERIPYO'MA (s. from the Greek περί about, and πύον pus) A collection of matter about any part.
PERIRRHO'EA (s. from the Greek περί about, and ῥεῖν to flow) A reflux of humours from the habit into any of the larger excretories in order to excretion.
PERISCE'LIS (s. from the Greek περισκελῖς) A garter, the enlig of the order of the garter.
PERIS'CII (s. from the Greek περί about, and σῆα a shadow) The inhabitants of the earth within the polar circles so called because their shadows turn all round them in the space of one of their days.
PERISCYTISM (s. from periscytismus) The periscytismus.
PERISCYTIS'MUS (s. from the Greek περί about, and σκυτόω to flea) The operation in which the forepart of the head or skull is laid open.
PERISKYTISM (s. a different spelling) The periscytism. Dict. of Arts.
PER'ISH (v. int. from the Lat. pereō) To die, to be in a perpetual state of decay, to become to nothing, to be lost eternally.
Perish (v. t. but now grown obsolete) To destroy. Sb.
Perishable (adj. from perish) Liable to perish, short of duration.
Perishableness (s. from perishable) The state of being perishable.
Perished (p. from perish) Decayed, lost, dead, lost to eternity.
Perishing (p. a. from perish) Decaying, dying.
PERISSOL'OGY (s. from the Greek περισσος superfluous, and λόγος a word) A speech abounding with superfluous words.
PERISTAL'TIC (adj. from the Greek περί about, and σπῆλαι to contract) Vermicular, wormlike; belonging to the spiral motion of the intestines by which the extremities are pressed downwards and excluded.
PERISTAPHILI'NUS (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the uvula. Scott.
PERISTERA (s. in the mythology of the poets) A nymph whom Cupid was supposed to have changed into a dove.
PERISTERIAN (s. in botany) The vervain.
PERISTER'NA (s. in anatomy) The parts about the breast.
PERIS'TOLE (s. in anatomy) The peristaltic motion of the bowels. Scott.
PERISTROMA'TA (s. in anatomy, from the Greek περί about, and στρομα an expansion) The membrane or coat which covers the bowels.
PERISTYLE (s. in architecture, from the Greek περί about, and στυλος a pillar) A circular range of pillars.
PERISYSTOLE (s. in anatomy, from the Greek περί about, and συστολή a contraction) The pause or interval between the two motions of the heart or pulse.
PER'IT (s.) The twentieth part of a droit.
Peritian (s. from Peritius) Belonging to the Peritius mensis.
PERITIUS (s. in ancient chronology) The Peritius mensis.
PERITIUSMEN'SIS (s. in ancient chronology) The month with the Macedonians which answers to our February.
PERI'ONÆ'UM (s. in anatomy, from the Greek περί about, and τενν to stretch out) The soft thin membrane that lies immediately under the muscles of the lower belly.
PERITONE'UM (s. a less correct, but more common spelling) The peritonæum.
PERITRO'CHIUM (s. in mechanics, from the Greek περί about, and τρεχω to run) A kind of pulley, the wheel of a pulley.
PERIT'OMA (s. from the Greek) That which remains after digestion, the excrements; the relics of a disease.
Perjuration (s. from perjure) The act of perjury. Bai.
PER'JURE (v. t. from per by, and juro to swear) To swear, to taint with perjury. "He perjured himself."
Perjure (s. from the verb, but now grown obsolete) A perjured person. Shakespeare.
Perjured (p. from perjure) Tainted with perjury, guilty of false swearing.

PER

Per'jurer (s. from perjure) One that swears falsely, perjured person.
Per'juring (p. a. from perjure) Tainting with perjury, swearing falsely.
Per'jury (s. from perjure) A false oath, the crime of swearing falsely.
PER'IWIG (s. from the French peruque) A wig, a kind of false hair worn by men.
Per'iwig (v. t. from the sub) To dress in a wig, to dress in false hair.
Per'iwiged (p. from periwig) Dressed in a periwig, with; as, "Discord periwiged with snakes."
Per'iwiging (p. a. from periwig) Dressing in a periwig.
PER'IWINKLE (s. in ichthyology) A small shell fish resembling a snail.
PER'IWINKLE (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
PERIZO'MA (s. from the Greek) A kind of girdle, truss for a rupture.
Perk (v. int. from perch) To hold up the head with an affected air of briskness.
Perk (v. t.) To dress, to prank.
Perk (adj. obsolete) Pert, brisk, airy.
Perked (p. from perk) Dressed, set off; with up; "Perked up in glistering grief." Shakespeare.
PERK'IN (s.) A man's name.
Perk'ing (p. a. from perk) Dressing up, setting off.
PER'LA (s. in the history of insects) The dragon fly.
Per'lous (adj. from perillous) Dangerous, full of hazard.
Per'magal (s. obsolete) An equal. Shakespeare.
PER'MAGY (s.) A little Turkish boat. Shakespeare.
Per'manence (s. from permanent) Duration, continuance in the same state.
Per'manency (s. from permanence) Duration, continuance in the same state.
PER'MANENT (adj. from the Lat. per through, and maneo to continue) Durable, lasting.
Per'manently (adv. from permanent) Durably, with continuance.
PERMAN'SION (s. from the Lat. per through, and maneo to continue) Continuance. Brown.
PER'MEABLE (adj. from the Lat. permeo to pass through) Capable of being passed through.
PER'MEANT (adj. from the Lat. permeo to pass through) Passing through.
PER'MEATE (v. a. from the Lat. per through, and meo to pass) To pass through, to pass as a liquid through the pores of a more solid body.
Per'meated (p. from permeate) Passed through, penetrated as a solid by a liquid substance.
Per'meating (p. a. from permeate) Passing through, oozing through.
Permeation (s. from permeate) The act of passing through.
PERMIN'IMA (adv. in chemistry, from per by, and minimus least) By a mixture of the smallest particles with a perfect mixture.
PERMIS'CIBLE (adj. from the Lat. per by, and mīx to mingle) Capable of being mingled.
PERMIS'SIBLE (adj. from the Lat. per by, and mīx to mingle) Proper to be permitted, capable of being admitted.
Permis'sion (s. from permit) A grant of liberty, allowance.
Permis'sive (adj. from permit) Suffered without distance, allowing but not approving, granting liberty but not authority.
Permis'sively (adv. from permissive) With bare permission.
PERMIS'TION (s. from the Lat. per by, and mīx to mix) The act of mixing.
PERMIT (v. t. from the Lat. per by, and mitto to send) To allow, to suffer; to give up, to resign; to allow without command, to suffer without authorizing, approving.
Permit (s. from the verb) A written permission from an officer to transport goods from one place to another.
Permit'tance (s. from permit) An allowance, a permission. Derham.
Permit'ted (p. from permit) Allowed, suffered, granted without approbation.
Permit'ting (p. a. from permit) Suffering, allowing, suffering without authorizing or approving.
PERMIX'TION (s. from the Lat. per by, and mīx to mix) A mixture, the act of mixing.
Permuta'tion (s. an obsolete spelling) A permutation.
Permuta'tion (s. from permute) An exchange of things for another.

PERMUT

P E R

MUITE (v. t. from the Lat. per by, and muto to change) To exchange.
 mu'ted (p. from permute) Exchanged.
 mu'ter (s. from permute) One that permutes, one that exchanges. mu'ting (p. a. from permute) Exchanging.
 R'NA (s. in ichthyology) The name of a shell fish.
 R'NA (s. from the Lat.) A gammon of bacon. Phillips.
 R'NANCY (s. a law term) The act of receiving, that which is taken in kind.
 R'NA'SO (s. obsolete) Mount Parnassus. Chaucer.
 R'NIC'IOUS (adj. from the Lat. per by, and neco to destroy) Destructive, mischievous in the highest degree.
 R'NIC'IOUS (adj. from the Lat. pernix swift, but not used) Quick, swift. Milton.
 R'nic'iously (adv. from pernicious) Destructively, mischievously.
 R'nic'iousness (s. from pernicious) The quality of being pernicious.
 R'nic'ity (s. from the Lat. pernix swift) Swiftness. Ray.
 R'NIO (s. from the Lat.) A kibe, a chilblain.
 R'niones (s. from pernio) kibes, chilblains. Dict. of A.
 R'NOCTA'TION (s. from the Lat. per through, and ox night) The act or state of lying out all night.
 R'NOR (s. a law term) A receiver.
 R'nour (s. the old spelling) A pernor.
 R'ONA (s. in anatomy) The tibia, the shin bone.
 R'ONAE'US (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the tarsus.
 R'one (s. from perona) The perona, the tibia.
 R'ORATION (s. from the Lat. per through, and oratio speech) The conclusion of an oration.
 R'PEND (v. t. from the Lat. per through, and pendo to weigh) To consider attentively, to weigh in the mind. Shakespeare.
 R'pend'ed (p. from perpend, but now grown obsolete) Considered with attention.
 R'PEND'ER (s. from the Lat. per by, and pendeo to hang) Any thing hanging down in a straight line; a stone fitted to the thickness of a wall, a coping stone.
 R'PENDIC'ULAR (s. in geometry, from the Lat. per by, and pendeo to hang) A line which falls on another at right angles; a line crossing the horizon at right angles.
 R'pendic'ular (adj. from the sub.) Crossing at right angles; cutting the horizon at right angles.
 R'pendic'ularity (s. from perpendicular) The state of being perpendicular.
 R'pendic'ularly (adv. from perpendicular) In such a manner as to intersect at right angles; in a direction perpendicular to the plane of the horizon.
 R'PENDIC'ULUM (s. from the Lat.) A perpendicular, a plumb line, a level. Scott.
 R'pend'ing (p. a. from perpend, but not used) Considering with attention.
 R'pen'sion (s. from perpend, but not in use) Consideration. Brown.
 R'PETRATE (v. t. from the Lat. perpetro) To commit, to do in an ill sense.
 R'petrated (p. from perpetrate) Committed, done in an ill sense.
 R'petrating (p. a. from perpetrate) Committing, doing in an ill sense.
 R'petration (s. from perpetrate) The act of committing a crime, a bad action. King Charles.
 R'PET'UAL (adj. from the Lat. perpetuus) Continual, uninterrupted.
 R'pet'ually (adv. from perpetual) Continually, incessantly.
 R'pet'ualtie (s. obsolete) Perpetuity.
 R'PET'UATE (v. t. from the Lat. per through, and peto to ask) To make perpetual, to eternize.
 R'pet'uated (p. from perpetuate) Made perpetual, continued without intermission.
 R'pet'uating (p. a. from perpetuate) Making perpetual, continuing without intermission.
 R'pet'uation (s. from perpetuate) The act of making perpetual, an incessant continuance.
 R'PETU'ITY (s. from the Lat. perpetuo) A duration to all futurity, that of which there is no end.
 R'PLE'X (v. t. from the Lat. per through, and plico to fold) To entangle, to involve, to make intricate, to embarrass, to puzzle, to vex, to torment. Glanville.
 R'plex (adj. from the verb, but not used) Perplexed.
 R'plex'ed (p. from perplex) Entangled, involved, rendered intricate, filled with doubts.
 R'plex'edly (adv. from the part.) Intricately, with perplexity.

P E R

Perplex'edness (s. from perplexed) Embarrassment, intricacy, difficulty, anxiety.
 Perplex'ing (p. a. from perplex) Entangling, rendering intricate; embarrassing.
 Perplex'ity (s. from perplex) An entanglement, an intricacy; anxiety, distraction of mind.
 PERPOTA'TION (s. from the Lat. per through, and pota to drink) The act of drinking largely. Johnson.
 PER'QUISITE (s. from the Lat. per through, and quero to get) Something gained by a place or office over and above the settled stipend.
 PERQUISITION (s. from the Lat. per through, and quero to ask) An accurate enquiry, a diligent search.
 PERQUISITOR (s. from the Lat. but not used) A searcher. Cole.
 Per're (s. obsolete) A precious stone, a monument. Chaucer.
 PERREPTA'TION (s. from the Lat. per through, and repo to creep, but not used) The act of creeping through. Cole.
 Perrewright (adj. obsolete) Wrought with precious stones. Chaucer.
 Per'rey (s. obsolete) Precious stones. Chaucer.
 Per'riers (s. an old word) A kind of great guns for shooting stones.
 PER'RON (s. in architecture) A flight of stairs lying without a building to enter a story raised a little above the ground floor.
 Per'roquet (s. a different spelling) A parroquet. D. of A.
 Per'ruke (s. not so common a spelling) A peruke. Scott.
 Per'ruque (s. a different spelling) A peruke. Scott.
 Per'ry (s. from pear) The liquor made of pears.
 Per'rywright (adj. an old word) Wrought with precious stones. Cole.
 Per'sant (adj. an old word) Piercing. Cole.
 Per'sant (adj. obsolete) Piercing. Chaucer.
 PERSCRUTATION (s. from the Lat. per through, and scruto to search, but not used) A thorough search. Cole.
 PERSCRIBE (v. t. from the Lat. per through, and scribo to write, but not used) To write out to the end. Cole.
 PER'SE (adv. from the Lat. per by, and se himself) By himself, by herself, by itself; abstractedly.
 PER'SE (s. with chymists) A liquor obtained from some simple by distillation without the usual addition.
 Per'se (s. perhaps from Persian) A sky colour. Scott.
 Per'se (adj. obsolete) Sky coloured, having a bluish grey colour. Chaucer.
 PER'SEA (s. in botany) A species of laurel.
 PERSECUTE (v. t. from the Lat. per through, and sequor to follow) To harass with penalties, to pursue with malignity; to punish for the sake of religion; to trouble with repeated solicitations.
 Persecuted (p. from persecute) Harassed with penalties, pursued with malignity, punished on account of religion or opinion.
 Persecuting (p. a. from persecute) Pursuing with malignity, punishing for religion or opinion.
 Persecution (s. from persecute) The act of persecuting, the state of being persecuted.
 Persecutor (s. from persecute) One that persecutes.
 PER'SEES (s.) The Guars, an ancient sect of magicians in Persia, the followers of Zoroaster.
 Per'seite (adj. obsolete) Perceived. Spenser.
 Per'selle (s. an old spelling) A part, a parcel. Chaucer.
 Per'sent (adj. obsolete) Piercing. Spenser.
 PERSEP'OLIS (s.) The name of a city; one of the seats of the kings of Persia. 2 Mac.
 Perseverance (s. from persevere) Steadiness in pursuits, constancy in progress, persistence in a design.
 Perseverant (adj. from persevere) Constant, persevering.
 PERSEVE'RE (v. int. from the Lat. per through, and severus constant; accented by some of the old poets on the middle syllable) To persist in an attempt.
 Persever'ing (p. a. from persevere) Persisting in a design, constant in pursuits.
 Persever'ingly (adv. from persevering) With perseverance.
 PER'SEUS (s. in astronomy) A constellation of the northern hemisphere.
 PER'SEUS (s. in the mythology of the poets) The son of Jupiter and Danae who was supposed to have delivered Andromeda, and to have performed many other exploits.
 Per'seive (adj. obsolete) Perceived. Chaucer.
 PER'SHORE (s.) A town in Worcestershire; it consists of two parishes, situate on the banks of the Avon, has a market on Tuesday, and is 102 miles from London.
 Per'shore (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Pershore, made at Pershore.

Persia

PER/SIA (s.) A large and eminent kingdom of Asia.
Per'sian (adj. from Persia) Belonging to Persia; distinguishing that order in architecture in which the statues of men are introduced as columns.
Persian (s. from the adj.) A native of Persia; the language of the Persians; a kind of silk.
Persianwheel (s.) An engine or wheel turned by a rivulet and fitted with open boxes for raising water to be emptied into a trough placed near the upper part of it.
Per'sic (adj. from Persia) Belonging to Persia, distinguishing that order in architecture in which the statues of men or women are introduced as columns to support an entablature.
PER/SICA (s. in botany) The peach, a species of the almond tree.
PERSICA'RIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the arse-smart.
PER/SICUSIG'NIS (s. from the Lat. in surgery) The carbuncle.
PER/SIMON (s. in botany) An American tree, the fruit of which yields an excellent spirit by distillation. Bart.
PER/SIS (s.) A man's name. Rom.
PERS'IST (v. int. from the Lat. per through, and sitto to stand) To continue firm, to persevere; with in; as, "They persist in pointing their batteries."
Persistance (s. judged le's proper, from persist) Persistence, steadiness, constancy; obstinacy, contumacy.
Persistance (s. judged not so proper, from persistence) Persistence, steadiness, obstinacy.
Persisted (p. from persist) Continued in, insisted on so as not to be given up; with in; as, "The same course was persisted in."
Persistence (s. from persist) Steadiness, obstinacy.
Persistency (s. from persistence) Steadiness, obstinacy.
Persisting (p. a. from persist) Continuing firm, persevering.
Persistive (adj. from persist) Steady, persevering. Shak.
PER/SON (s. from the Lat. persona) An individual, a man, a woman; one, any one; one's self, a man's self; a character, an assumed character; the quality of the noun or pronoun modifying the verb in grammar.
Personable (adj. from person) Handsome, graceful, having a good appearance; capable of maintaining a plea in law. Ainsworth.
Personage (s. from person) A considerable person, a man or woman of eminence; an exterior appearance; a character, an assumed character, a represented character.
Personal (adj. from person) Belonging to a person, affecting individuals; present, acting in person; exterior, corporeal; moveable, belonging to a chattel; having the regular modifications of the three persons in grammar.
Personal (s. from the adj.) A chattel, a moveable, that which belongs to a person.
Personality (s. from personal) Individuality; the state of being a person; something belonging to a particular person.
Personalize (v. t. from person) To personify. Scott.
Personalized (p. from personalize, but not much used) Personified.
Personalizing (p. a. from personalize) Personifying.
Personally (adv. from personal) In person, with respect to an individual.
Personate (v. t. from person) To represent by an assumed or fictitious character, to act the part of another, to pretend by action, to pretend hypocritically; to resemble, to describe, to picture; to feign; but these senses are now grown out of use.
Personated (p. from personate) Represented by an assumed or fictitious character; resembled, counterfeited; described; but these senses are now disused.
PERSONATI (s. in botany) The flowers that represent the gaping mouth of some living creature. Bailey.
Personating (p. a. from personate) Representing by an assumed or fictitious character; counterfeiting, describing.
Personation (s. from personate) The act of counterfeiting another person. Eaton.
Personer (s. obsolete) A person. Chaucer.
Personification (s. from personify) The act of personifying, the prosopopoeia.
Personified (p. from personify) Changed from a thing to a person, spoken of a thing in language suited to a person.
PERSONIFY (v. t. from the Lat. persona a person, and facio to make) To change from a thing to a person, to give to a thing the properties of a person, to speak a thing in language suited to a person.

Personifying (p. a. from personify) Speaking of a thing as though it were a person, giving to a thing the properties of a person.
PERSPEC'TIVE (adj. from the Lat. per through, specio to look) Belonging to vision, belonging to the science by which things are ranged in a picture according to their appearance in nature.
Pers'pective (s. from the adj.) A glass through which objects are viewed; a view, a vista; the science by which things are ranged in a picture according to their appearance in nature.
PERSPICA'CIOUS (adj. from the Lat. per through, specio to look) Quick-sighted, sharp of sight.
Perspicaciousness (s. from perspicacious) Quickness of sight.
Perspicacity (s. from perspicacious) Quickness of sight.
PERSPI'CENCE (s. from the Lat. per through, and specio to look, but not much used) The act of looking sharply.
PER/SPICIL (s. from the Lat. per through, and specio to look) A glass through which objects are viewed, optic glass.
Perspicuity (s. from perspicuous) Clearness, transparency; a freedom from ambiguity.
PERSPIC'UOUS (adj. from the Lat. per through, specio to look) Transparent, clear, free from ambiguity.
Perspicuously (adv. from perspicuous) Clearly, without ambiguity.
Perspicuousness (s. from perspicuous) The state of being perspicuous.
Perspirable (adj. from perspire) Capable of being emitted by the pores of the skin; emitting perspiration; but this sense is judged improper.
Perspiration (s. from perspire) An excretion by the pores of the skin, that which is emitted by the pores of the skin.
Perspirative (adj. from perspire) Performing the act of perspiration.
PERSPIR'E (v. int. from the Lat. per through, and breathe) To emit through the pores of the skin, to perform the act of excretion by the pores of the skin.
Perspiring (p. a. from perspire) Emitting by the pores of the skin.
PERSTR'INGE (v. a. from the Lat. per through, stringo to touch, but not much used) To glance upon, to touch.
Persuadable (adj. from persuade) Capable of being persuaded.
PERSUA'DE (v. t. from the Lat. persuadeo) To bring any particular opinion, to influence by argument, to treat by persuasion; this sense is not in use.
Persuaded (p. from persuade) Influenced by persuasion brought over to an opinion.
Persuader (s. from persuade) One that persuades.
Persuading (p. a. from persuade) Influencing by argument, bringing over to an opinion by persuasion.
Persuadible (adj. from persuade) Capable of being influenced by persuasion.
Persuadibleness (s. from persuadible) The state or quality of being easily persuaded.
Persuasion (s. from persuade) The act of persuading, the state of being persuaded; an opinion.
Persuasive (adj. from persuade) Having the power of persuasion, tending to persuade.
Persuasive (s. from the adj.) An argument to persuade that which has a tendency to persuade.
Persuasively (adv. from persuade) In a manner suited to persuade.
Persuasiveness (s. from persuasive) The power of persuading.
Persuatory (adj. from persuade) Having the power of persuading.
PERSULTA'TION (s. from the Lat. per through, sulco to leap) An eruption of blood through the skin.
PERT (adj. from the Brit.) Lively, brisk; saucy, pert.
PERTA'IN (v. int. from the Lat. per through, and teno to hold) To belong, to relate to; with to; as, "The pertains to them."
Pertain'ing (p. a. from pertain) Belonging, relating to; as, "All things pertaining to life."
Perte (adj. obsolete) Perfect, pure. Chaucer.
Pert'er (adj. comp. of pert) Pert in a greater degree.
PERTER'ERATE (v. t. from the Lat. per through, terebro to bore, but not used) To bore through.

PER

PEREBRATION (s. from perterebrate) The act of passing through. Ainsworth.
PERREFACTION (s. from the Lat. per by, and tercio to put in fear, but not used) A great fright. Ba.
Pert (adj. sup. of pert) Pert in the greatest degree. Ba.
Pert (s. obsolete) The name of a hen. Chaucer.
PERT (s.) A county in Scotland; a town in Scotland, capital of Perthshire.
PERTSHIRE (s. from Perth and shire) The county of Perth in Scotland.
PERTA (s. from the Lat.) A pole, a perch, a pole to set down fruit.
PERTICA (s. in old records) A scone or candlestick to set on an altar in a church.
PERTICAE (s. pl. of pertica) Scones or candlesticks to be set on the altars in churches.
PERTICATA (adj. from perticata) Belonging to the pertica. Cole.
PERTA (s. in old law books) A quarter of an acre; a piece of land containing forty square perches.
PERTULAS (s. in old records) A pittance, a small portion of food, a small portion of victuals. Cole.
PERTINACIE (s. an old spelling) Pertinacy. Chaucer.
PERTINACIOUS (adj. from the Lat. per through, and eo to hold) Holding fast, resolute, constant, steady; obstinate, stubborn, willful.
Pertinaciously (adv. from pertinacious) Stiffly, stubbornly; resolutely.
Pertinaciousness (s. from pertinacious) Stubbornness, pertinacy; resolution, constancy.
Pertinacity (s. from pertinacious) Pertinaciousness.
PERTINACY (s. from the Lat. per through, and teneo to hold) Obstinacy, stubbornness; resolution, constancy.
Pertinence (s. from pertinent) Fitness, propriety, the state of being to the purpose.
Pertinency (s. from pertinence) Pertinence, the state or circumstance of being to the purpose. Bailey.
Pertinens (s. in old records) A kinsman.
PERTINENT (adj. from the Lat. per through, and teneo to hold) Apt, just to the purpose; relating to, belonging to. Hooker.
Pertinently (adv. from pertinent) Aptly, to the purpose.
Pertinentness (s. from pertinent) The state of being pertinent.
Pertingence (s. from pertingent) The state of being pertingent. Scott.
Pertingency (s. from pertingence) The state of being pertingent. Scott.
PERTINGENT (adj. from the Lat. per through, and eo to touch) Touching, relating to. Johnson.
Pertly (adv. from pert) Briskly, smartly; saucily, peevishly.
Pertness (s. from pert) Petty liveliness, a trifling kind of smartness; sauciness, petulance.
TRANSIENT (adj. from the Lat. per through, and eo to pass) Passing over. Johnson.
Pertisan (s. not so common a spelling) A partisan, a kind of halberd. Scott.
PURB (v. t. from the Lat. per through, and turbo to disturb) To disquiet, to disorder, to put into confusion.
Purbate (v. t. from perturb) To disturb.
Purbation (s. from perturb) A disturbance, a commotion of the passions, disquietude of mind; the cause of disquietude.
Purbator (s. from perturb) One who breaks the peace, one who raises commotions.
Purbator (s. the less modern spelling) A perturbator.
Purbatrix (s. from perturbator) A woman who breaks the peace. Scott.
Purbed (p. from perturb) Disturbed, disquieted in mind. Sandys.
Purb (v. t. an obsolete spelling) To perturb. Ch.
Purb (p. a. from perturb) Raising disturbance, disquieting. Brown.
PURSE (adj. from the Lat. per through, and tundo to beat) Beaten to pieces. Scott.
Purged (adj. from pertuse) Bored, punched, pierced with holes. Johnson.
Purging (s. from pertuse) The act of punching, the act of piercing, the hole made by punching or piercing.
PURSE (s. in geography) A province in South America, west to Spain and famous for its gold mines.
PURSE (v. t. from the Lat. per through, and vado to pass through, to permeate, to pass through) To pass through, to permeate, to pass through whole extension.

PES

Pervaded (p. from pervade) Penetrated quite through, passed through.
Pervading (p. a. from pervade) Penetrating, passing through, permeating.
Pervait (v. t. an obsolete spelling) To pervert. Spenser.
Pervasion (s. from pervade) The act of pervading, the act of passing through.
PERVASE (adj. from the Lat. per by, and verito to turn) Distorted from the right, obstinate in the wrong, peevish, vexatious.
Perversely (adv. from perverse) In a perverse manner.
Perverseness (s. from perverse) The state or quality of being perverse.
Perversion (s. from perverse) The act of perverting, a change for the worse.
Perversity (s. from perverse) Perverseness, crossness.
PERVERT (v. t. from the Lat. per by, and verito to turn) To distort, to turn from the right, to corrupt.
Perverted (p. from pervert) Distorted, turned from the right, corrupted.
Pervorter (s. from pervert) One that perverts.
Pervertible (adj. from pervert) Capable of being perverted, easily perverted. Ainsworth.
Perverting (p. a. from pervert) Turning from the right, distorting, corrupting.
Perverting (s. from the part.) The act of turning from the right.
PERVESTIGATION (s. from the Lat. per through, and vestigo to search out, but not much used) A diligent enquiry, a thorough search. Phillips.
PERVICACIOUS (adj. from the Lat. pervicax) Obstinate, contumacious.
Pervicaciously (adv. from pervicacious) Obstinate, with spiteful obstinacy.
Pervicaciousness (s. from pervicacious) Spiteful obstinacy.
Pervicacity (s. from pervicacious) Spiteful obstinacy.
Pervicacy (s. from pervicacious) Pervicacity.
PERVIGILATION (s. from the Lat. per through, and vigilare to watch) A careful watching. Bailey.
PERVIGIL (s. from the Lat.) The act of watching all night; sleeplessness for want of sleep. Phillips.
PERVINCIA (s. in botany) The periwinkle.
Perwink, Perwinke (s. an obsolete spelling) The periwinkle. Chaucer.
PERVIOUS (adj. from the Lat. per through, and via a way) Admitting a passage, capable of being permeated; pervading, permeating; but this sense is judged improper. Prior.
Perviousness (s. from pervious) The state or quality of being pervious.
Pervise (s. obsolete) A portico, a small court before a church or house. Ch.
PERUKE (s. from the French peruque) A wig, a periwig.
Peruke (v. t. from the sub.) To dress in a periwig.
Peruked (p. from peruke) Dressed in a periwig.
Perukemaker (s. from peruke, and maker) One who makes periwigs.
Peruking (p. a. from peruke) Dressing in a periwig.
Perusal (s. from peruse) The act of perusing, the act of reading over to one's self.
Peruse (v. t. from per, and use) To read over, to examine by reading, to observe.
Perused (p. from peruse) Read over, examined by reading.
Peruser (s. from peruse) One that peruses, one that reads over with some degree of attention.
Perusing (p. a. from peruse) Reading over with some attention.
Peruvian (adj. from Peru) Belonging to Peru, brought from Peru.
Perwick, Perwig (s. an old spelling) A periwig. Cole.
Perly (s. obsolete) A peartree. Chaucer.
PES (s. from the Lat.) A foot, a measure of length, a standard for weight or measure.
PESEA (s. an old law term) A wey, a certain weight of cheese or wool.
PESA/DE (s. in the manse) The action of a horse in raising his quarter and bending in his fore feet without stirring the hind feet.
Pesage (s. an old word) The custom or toll paid for weighing.
PESA/ME (s. from the Spanish, but not used) The act of condoling. Cole.
Pesate (s. a different spelling) The pesade. D. of A.
Pese (s. an old spelling) Peace. Chaucer.
Pese (v. t. obsolete) To appease. Chaucer.
Pesen (s. obsolete) Pitch. Chaucer.
Pesible (adj. an old spelling) Peaceable. Chaucer.
PES/SARY (s. from the French peissarie) A form of medicine made up like a finger or long tent.
PESSINUNTIA

PESSINUN'TIA (s. in beaten mythology) A goddess whose image was a shapeless stone.

PESSOM'ANCY s. from the Greek πέρσος a little stone used in determining lots, and μαντεία magic A kind of divination by little stones or lots drawn out of a bag.

Pess'na (s. in old records) Mast, the fruit of the oak, the fruit of the beach.

Pes'fory (s. a different spelling) The peffary, a suppository.

PES'SULUS (s. in surgery) The peffary, an oblong form of medicine to be put up the uterus on extraordinary occasions.

PES'SUNDATE (v. t. from the Lat. pesium underfoot, and do to give) To tread underfoot, to destroy. Co.

PES'SUS (s. in surgery) The peffary.. Phillips.

PEST (s. from the Lat. pestis the plague) The pestilence, the plague; any thing mischievous, any thing destructive.

Pest'er (v. t. from pest) To harass, to disturb, to vex, to encumber.

Pest'erable (adj. from pester) Troublesome, incommo-Colc. dious.

Pest'ered (p. from pester) harassed, disturbed, perplexed, encumbered.

Pest'erer (s. from pester) One that pesters, one that disturbs.

Pest'ering (p. a. from pester) Harassing, disturbing, vexing.

Pest'erous (adj. from pester) Pestering, troublesome. Ba.

Pest'house (s. from pest, and house) An hospital for persons sick of infectious distempers.

PESTIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. pestis the plague, and fero to bring) Bringing destruction, mischievous, pestilential.

PES'TILENCE (s. from the Lat. pestilentia) The plague, a fever of the most malignant and fatal kind.

PES'TILENT (adj. from the Lat. pestilens) Malignant, producing plagues; mischievous, destructive.

Pestilent'ial (adj. from pestilent) Infectious, contagious, producing the pestilence; pernicious, destructive.

Pestilent'ialness (s. from pestilential) The state of being pestilential.

Pest'itently (adv. from pestilent) Mischievously, destructively.

Pestilla'tion (s. from pestle) The act of pounding in a mortar with a pestle.

PES'TIS (s. from the Lat.) The plague.

PESTLE (s. from the Lat. pistillum) The instrument with which any thing is broken in a mortar; a gammon, the leg of a pig made into bacon. Am.

PET (s. of doubtful etymology) A slight passion, a slight fit of anger.

Pet (s. probably from petit little) A cade lamb, a lamb brought up by hand.

Pet'ach (s. a sea term) A small vessel, a kind of pin-Phillips. nace.

PET'AL (s. in botany, from the Greek πέταλον a leaf) The flower leaf of a plant.

PET'ALA (s. plu. from the Greek) The petals, the flower leaves.

PET'ALISM (s. from the Greek πεταλισμός) A kind of exile, a banishment for the space of five years; it was done by writing the name on a leaf.

PET'ALODES (s. from the Greek) Urine which seems to have little leaves or scales in it. Bailey.

PETALO'DES (s. from the Greek πέταλον a leaf, and εἶδος a shape) A kind of flaky substance which sometimes appears in urine.

PET'ALON (s. in botany, from the Greek) A petal. Sc.

Petal'ous (adj. from petal) Having petals, having flower leaves.

PET'ALUM (s. from petalon) A petal. Scott.

Petar' (s. from petard, but not so common a word) A petard. Shakespeare.

PETARA'DE (s. from the French) The action of a horse in jerking out behind and farting.

PETA'RD (s. from the French) A piece of ordnance resembling a high crowned hat chiefly used to break down a barrier.

Petardeer (s. from petard) One who manages the petard.

Petarra'de (s. not so correct a spelling) The petarade, the jerking of a horse behind accompanied with farting. Colc.

PE'TASITES (s. in botany) The butterbur.

PETA'SUS (s. in antiquity) A kind of hat, a covering for the head to save the face from being sun burnt; the cap of Mercury.

PET'AURIST (s. from the Greek πεταυρος a perch, but not used) A rope dancer.

Petauris'tic (adj. from petaurist) Belonging to a rope dancer.

Pete (s. not so common a spelling) Peat, a kind of coal used for fuel.

Pe'te (s. an obsolete spelling) Pity. Cham.

PETE'CHIAE (s. plu. from the Lat.) The purple kind spots that appear in malignant fevers.

Pete'chial (adj. from petechiae) Attended with the petechiae, producing purple spots.

Pete'ous (adj. obsolete) Piteous. Cham.

PE'TER (s.) A man's name; the title of two of the epistles or canonical books of the New Testament.

PETERBOROUGH (s.) A city in Northamptonshire; is the see of a bishop, sends two members to parliament, has a market on Saturday, and is 81 miles from London.

Peterborough (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Peterborough, made at Peterborough.

Petterman (s. from Peter, and man) One that fishes the river Thames with a net for flounders.

Pet'erpence (s. from Peter, and pence) The tax which the Pope levied on the people of England before reformation.

PE'TERSBURG (s.) The capital city of the Russian empire; it was built by Peter the Great, and is reckoned one of the largest cities in the world.

PE'TERSFIELD (s.) A borough town in Hampshire; has a market on Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 55 miles from London.

Petersfield (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Petersfield, made at Petersfield.

Pet'ertwort (s. in botany) The name of an herb.

PETH'ERTON (s.) A town in Somersetshire; it has a market on Tuesday, and is 136 miles from London.

Peth'erton (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Petherton, made at Petherton.

PETHU'EL (s. from the Heb. signifying the mouth of a man's name.)

Pet'icoat (s. from petit, and coat, but not so common a spelling) A petticoat.

PET'IGO (s. in surgery) A kind of running scab.

PETIL'IUM (s. in botany) A species of fritillaria.

Petiolated (adj. from petiolum) Having petioles.

Petiole (s. in botany) The tender stalk that supports the leaf of a plant.

PETIO'LUM (s. in botany) The stalk that supports the leaf of a plant.

PE'TIT (adj. from the French) Small, inconsiderable.

PETITION (s. from the Lat. peto to ask) A request, intreaty, a prayer, a small article of a prayer.

Petition (v. t. from the sub.) To intreat, to supplicate.

Petitionarily (adv. from petitionary) By way of making the question.

Petitionary (adj. from petition) Supplicatory, containing petitions.

Petitioned (p. from petition) Intreated, supplicated, requested.

Petitioner (s. from petition) One that petitions, who presents a petition.

Petitioning (p. a. from petition) Intreating, supplicating.

PETITORY (adj. from the Lat. peto to ask) Petitionary, claiming. Am.

Pet'itration (s. from petit, and treason) Petty treason.

PETIO'RIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

PET'TITS (s. in cookery) A kind of paste for garnishing.

PETOSI'RIS (s.) A famous Egyptian astrologer.

Pet'ous (adj. an old spelling) Piteous, pitiul, wretched.

Pet'ously (adv. from petous, obsolete) Piti'fully.

PE'TRA (s. in ancient geography) The metropolis of Arabia the desert.

Petra (s. in old records) A stone, a certain weight of rock, a great stone.

Petral (s. an old word) A breastplate.

PE'TRARY (s. from the Lat. petra) An old word for engine to throw stones.

PET'RE (s. from the Lat. petra a stone) Nitre, petre.

PETRE'A (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

Petres'cence (s. from petrescent) The state of becoming petrified.

Petres'cent (adj. from the Lat. petresco to grow stone) Apt to petrify, becoming stone.

Petrification (s. from petrify) The act of turning into stone.

Petrifactive (adj. from petrify) Having the power to form stone.

P E T

PETRIFIC (adj. from the Lat. petra a stone, and facio to make) Having the power to convert into stone.
Petrification (s. from petrify) A petrification, that which is turned into stone.
Petrified (s. from petrify) Turned into stone.
PETRIFY (v. t. from the Lat. petra a stone, and facio to make) To change to stone.
Petrify (v. int.) To become stone.
Petrifying (p. a. from petrify) Changing to stone, becoming stone.
PETROBRUSIAN (s. in church history) One of the followers of Peter Bruys who held the inutility of infant baptism, and paid no regard to places erected for public worship.
PETROJANNITE (s. in church history) One of the followers of Peter John in the twelfth century who affirmed that he was the only person that understood the true sense in which the Apostles preached the Gospel.
Petrol (s. from petroleum) A kind of liquid bitumen.
PETROLEUM (s. from the Lat. petra a rock, and oleum oil) The rock oil, a kind of liquid bitumen.
PETROMYZON (s. in ichthyology) A genus of fishes.
PETRONEL (s. from the French petronal) A pistol, a small gun used by horsemen. Hudibras.
PETRONIUS (s.) The name of several illustrious Romans.
PETROPOLIS (s. not much used) Rome. Cole.
Petropolitan (adj. from Petropolis) Belonging to Rome. Cole.
PETROSA (s. plu. of petrosus) The inner processes of the temples.
PETROSELINON (s. in botany) Parsley.
PETROSUM (s. in anatomy) The inner process of the temple so called on account of its hardness and craginess.
PETUEIA (s. in music) The art of preserving a proper distinction in the sounds of various notes.
Petverer (s. a different spelling) The pederero. Pb.
Petticoat (s. from petty, and coat) The lower part of a woman's dress, that part of a woman's dress which depends all round from the waist.
Petticoat (adj. from the sub. sometimes used in composition) Wearing a petticoat, belonging to a woman, female.
Petticoatgovernment (s. from petticoat, and government) Female government, the authority of the wife induly exercised over the husband.
Pettier (adj. comp. of petty) Petty in a greater degree.
Pettiest (adj. sup. of petty) Petty in the greatest degree.
PETITFOGGER (s. from the French petit small, and fouger to row) A petty lawyer.
Pettifogging (adj. from petitfogger) Practising as a pettiogger.
Pettifogging (s. from the adj.) The practice of a pettiogger.
Pettiness (s. from petty) Smallness, littleness, the want of importance.
Pettish (adj. from pet) Peevish, fretful.
Pettishness (s. from pettish) Peevishness, fretfulness.
Pettitoes (s. from petty, and toes) The feet of a sucking pig; the feet in contempt. Shakespeare.
Pettile (adj. a local word) Pettish. Bailey.
PETTO (s. from the Italian) The breast; privacy.
PETTY (adj. from the French petit) Small, little, inconsiderable, unimportant.
Pettybag (s. from petty, and bag) An office in the Court of Chancery; the superintendent of that office.
Pettycotty (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
PETTYCOY (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
Pettylarceny (s. from petty, and larceny) Small theft, the crime of stealing goods not exceeding the value of one shilling.
Pettypattees (s. in confectionary) A kind of small tarts.
Pettyfangles (s. in falconry) The toes of an hawk.
Pettytally (s. a sea term) An allowance of victuals according to the ship's company.
Pettytreason (s. from petty, and treason) The act of killing a superior relative, as a wife a husband, or a servant his master.
Petulance (s. from petulant) Peevishness, sauciness.
Petulance (s. from petulance) Peevishness, sauciness.
PETULANT (adj. from the Lat. petulans) Saucy, perverse, peevish, wanton.
Petulantly (adv. from petulant) With petulance.
PETUM (s. in botany, not much used) Tobacco.
PETUNSE (s. in natural history) A coarse kind of flint, one of the two principal substances of which china ware is made.

P H A

Peatus (s. in old records) Peat, a kind of earth used for fuel.
PETWORTH (s.) A town in Suffex; it has a market on Saturday, and is 49 miles from London.
Petworth (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Petworth, made at Petworth.
PEUCEDANUM (s. in botany) A genus of plant, the hog's fennel.
PEVET (s. in clockwork) The end of the spindle on which a wheel turns.
Pevethole (s. from pevet, and hole) The hole which receives the pevet.
PEW (s. from the Dutch puy) An inclosed seat in a church.
Pew (v. t. from the sub.) To furnish with pews.
Pewed (p. from pew) Furnished with pews.
Pewet (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird, the lapwing.
Pewing (p. a. from pew) Furnishing with pews.
Pewkeeper (s. from pew, and keep) One who keeps the pews in a place of divine worship.
Pewopener (s. from pew, and opener) A pewkeeper, one that opens the pews in a place of divine worship.
PEWTER (s. from the Dutch peauter) An artificial metal, the metal of which plates and dishes for the table are made; the metal dishes and plates used at table.
Pewter (adj. from the sub.) Made of pewter.
Pewterer (s. from pewter) One who works in pewter.
PEXITY (s. from the Lat. pecto to comb) The roughness or nap on woollen cloth. Cole.
Pey (s. an old word) Security. Cole.
Peynis (s. obsolete) Pains. Chaucer.
Peynous (adj. obsolete) Painful. Chaucer.
Peyfen (v. t. an old word) To appear. Cole.
PEZICA (s. a different spelling) A kind of mushroom. Pb.
PEZIZA (s. in botany) A genus of mushrooms. D. of A.
PHACA (s. in botany) The astragaloides, a genus of plants.
PHACE (s. in botany) The lentil.
PHACODES (s. from the Greek) People of a yellowish brown complexion. Scott.
PHACOIDES (s. from the Greek φακοειδης a lentil) Any thing in the shape of a lentil, the crystalline humour of the eye. Scott.
PHACOTISSA'NA (s. in pharmacy) A decoction of lentils.
PHA/COS (s. from the Greek) A lentil, a spot in the eye resembling a lentil.
PHÆ'DRA (s. in the mythology of the poets) The daughter of Minos who fell in love with Hippolytus her son in law, and on his refusing to comply with her desires she accused him of an attempt on her chastity.
PHÆ'DRUS (s.) The author of a book of Latin fables written in a remarkably easy and elegant style.
Phænomena (s. plu. of phænomenon) Appearances in the works of nature.
PHÆNOMENON (s. from the Greek φαειναι to appear) An appearance in the works of nature.
PHA'ETON (s. in the mythology of the poets) An adventurous youth who was supposed to have mounted the chariot of the Sun and to have set the world on fire.
Phæton (s. from the foregoing) A kind of high open carriage for pleasure.
Phaetontides (s. from Phaeton) The supposed sisters of Phaeton.
PHAGEDÆ'NIC (s. in surgery, from the Greek φαγω to eat) An excoriated cancer; an immoderate appetite.
Phagedæ'nic (adj. from phagedæna) Corrosive, eating away the flesh.
Phagedæ'nic (s. from the adj.) A medicine to eat away morbid or superfluous flesh.
Phagedæ'nica (s. from phagedæna) A medicine to corrode morbid or superfluous flesh. Phillips.
Phagedæ'nous (adj. from phagedæna) Eating, corroding.
PHA'GRUS (s. in ichthyology) The pike.
PHALACRO'CORAX (s. in ornithology) The cormorant, the shag.
PHALACRO'SIS (s. from the Greek) The falling off of the hair.
PHALÆ'NA (s. in the history of insects) A kind of glow-worm; an insect that flies in the night.
PHALAN'GA (s.) A kind of club; a lever. Phillips.
Phalangarian (s. from phalanx) One of the soldiers which compose a phalanx.
Phalan'geary (adj. from phalanx) Belonging to a phalanx. Cole.
Phalan'geous (adj. from phalanx) Belonging to a phalanx. Cole.

P H A

PHALAN'GIUM (s. in the history of insects) A kind of spider reckoned exceedingly venomous, the tarantula.
PHALAN'GIUM (s. in botany) An herb said to cure the bite of a tarantula.
PHALAN'GITES (s. in botany) The phalangium.
PHALAN'GOSIS (s. from the Greek) An exuberant and offensive growth of hair on the eyelids.
PHA'LANX (s. from the Greek) A troop of soldiers closely embodied, a square battalion in which the men are set so close together as to render it next to impossible to break through them.
PHA'LANX (s. in anatomy, from the foregoing) The small bones of the fingers.
PHAL'ARATED (adj. from the Lat. phalaratus but not used) Adorned with trappings. Cole.
PHALA'RIS (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
PHALA'RIS (s.) A tyrant famous for shutting up people in a brazen bull and putting fire under it.
PHALAROP'DES (s. in botany) The briza, the dangle thorn.
PHA'LEC (s. from the Heb.) A man's name, Peleg.
Phaleu'cian (adj. from Phaleucus) Consisting of eleven syllables.
PHALEU'CUS (s.) A man's name, a Latin poet who invented the Phaleucian verse.
PHAL'LI (s.) Images made in honour of Bacchus.
PHAL'LIC (s. in antiquity, from the Greek φαλλος a penis) Belonging to a kind of verse or song in honour of Bacchus and usually sung by the phallophori.
PHALLOPH'ORI (s. from the Greek φαλλος a penis, and φέρω to bear) The drunken fellows who performed the phallophoria.
Phallopho'ria (s. from phallophori) A kind of frantic and obscene procession in honour of Bacchus.
PHAL'LU (s. from the Heb. signifying hidden) A man's name.
PHAL'LUS (s. in botany) A genus of mushrooms.
PHAL'LUS (s. in beaten mythology) A name of Priapus.
PHAL'TI (s. from the Heb. signifying a deliverance) A man's name.
PHANAT'IC (adj. a correct but not so common a spelling, from the Greek φανω to appear) Fanatic, visionary, enthusiastic.
Phanatic (s. from the adj.) A visionary, one who pretends to revelations, an enthusiast; a dissenter from the established church, formerly so called in reproach, as a supposed pretender to supernatural visions and revelations.
Phanatic (adj. from phanatic) Visionary, enthusiastic, belonging to a phanatic.
Phanaticism (s. from phanatic) Fanaticism, pretended inspiration, religious frenzy.
PHANA'US (s. in beaten mythology) One of the names of Apollo.
Phan'cy (s. an antiquated spelling) The fancy.
Phane (s. an obsolete spelling) A fane. Chaucer.
PHAN'TASM (s. from the Greek φαντασμα) A phantasma, something appearing only to the imagination.
PHANTAS'MA (s. from the Greek φανω to appear) An airy appearance; a creature of the imagination.
PHANTAS'TIC (adj. a correct spelling, from the Greek φανω to appear) Fantastic, full of fancies, full of whimsies.
Phantas'tical (adj. from phantastic) Fantastical, full of whims.
Phantas'tically (adv. from phantastical) Fantastically, whimsically.
Phantas'ticalness (s. from phantastical) Fantasticalness, whimsicalness.
Phan'tastry (s. from phantastic, but not much used) Fantasticalness, whimsicalness. Scot.
PHAN'TASY (s. from the Greek φαντασια but now grown obsolete) The fancy, the imagination. Scott.
Phan'tasy (s. in farriery) A disease incident to cattle.
PHAN'TOM (s. from the Greek φανω to appear) An apparition, a spectre; a fancied vision.
PHAN'UEL (s. from the Heb. signifying the vision of God) A man's name.
PHA'ON (s. in the mythology of the poets) A very beautiful youth with whom the poetess Sappho fell violently in love. Ovid.
PHA'RAOH (s. from the Syriack signifying the king) A man's name, the common name of the kings of Egypt.
PHA'RAOHOPHRA (s. from the Heb.) A man's name. Jeram.
PHA'RAOHNECHO (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.
PHARE (s. from the Greek φαρος) A watch tower, a light house.
PHARETRIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. pharetra a qui- ver, and fero to bear, but not much used) Bearing a quiver.

P H E

PHA'REZ (s. from the Heb. signifying division) A man's name.
Pha'rezite (s. from Pharez) A descendant of Pharez.
Pharisa'ic (adj. from Pharisee) Belonging to the Pharisees, like a Pharisee; ritual, ceremoniously religious, ostentatious in religion.
Pharisa'ical (adj. from pharisaic) Ostentatious in religion, depending on external rites.
Pharisa'ically (adj. from pharisaical) With ostentation in religion, with dependance on external rites.
Pharisa'icalness (s. from pharisaical) The state of being pharisaical.
PHAR'ISEE (s. from the Heb. signifying to separate) One of a noted sect among the Jews who were exceedingly zealous for the traditions of the elders, made great pretensions to piety and despised others; they admitted the doctrine of transmigration in particular cases and were held in the highest veneration by the common people.
PHARMACEU'TIC (adj. from the Greek φαρμακον a medicine, and χεω to prepare) Belonging to pharmacy, relating to the art of preparing medicines.
Pharmaceu'tical (adj. from pharmaceutic) Relating to pharmacy.
Pharmaceu'tice (s. from pharmaceutic) The art of preparing medicines, the art of the apothecary.
PHARMACOCY'MIA (s. from the Greek φαρμακον a medicine, and χεω to prepare) That part of chymistry which relates to the preparation of medicines.
Pharmacol'ogist (s. from pharmacology) One who is skilled in pharmacology.
PHARMACOL'OGY (s. from the Greek φαρμακον a medicine, and λογος a description) The knowledge of drugs and medicines, a discourse or description of drugs and medicines.
PHARMACOPOE'IA (s. from the Greek φαρμακον a medicine, and ποιηω to make) A dispensatory, a book which prescribes rules for the composition of medicines.
Pharmacopoe'ius (s. from pharmacopœia) One who prepares medicines.
PHARMACOPO'LA (s. from the Greek φαρμακοπωλης an apothecary) An apothecary.
PHARMACOPOLIST (s. from the Greek φαρμακον a medicine, and πωλω to sell) One who sells medicines, an apothecary.
PHARMACY (s. from the Greek φαρμακον a medicine) The act of preparing medicines, the act of the apothecary.
PHARNACE'UM (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
PHA'ROS (s. from the Greek) A watch tower, a light house.
PHA'ROS (s. in geography) A small island near the port of Alexandria in Egypt on which was a famous tower reckoned one of the wonders of the world.
PHAR'PAR (s. from the Heb. signifying fruitful) The name of a river. 2 Kings.
PHARSA'LIA (s.) A district of Thessaly famous for the battle between Cæsar and Pompey.
Pharisa'lian (adj. from Pharsalia) Belonging to Pharsalia. Ainsworth.
PHAR'SANG (s.) A Persian measure of length containing at most sixty furlongs.
PHARYNGE'US (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the pharynx.
PHARYNGE'TRUM (s. in anatomy) The pharynx; the hyoides.
PHARYNGOT'OMY (s. from the Greek φarynx the windpipe, and τεμνω to cut) The act of making an incision into the windpipe, laryngotomy.
PHAR'YNX (s. in anatomy, from the Greek) The upper part of the gullet.
PHA'SEL (s. in botany) The frenchbean.
PHASEOL'US (s. in botany) The kidney bean, a genus of plants.
PHASES (s. in astronomy, from the Greek φασγ an appearance) The different appearances or quantities of illumination in the moon and other planets.
PHASGA'NIUM (s. in botany) The swordgrass.
PHASIA'NUS (s. in ornithology) The pheasant.
PHASM (s. from phasma) An appearance, a phantom.
PHAS'MA (s. from the Greek) A phasm, a phantom.
Phas'mata (s. from phasma) Certain appearances of the heavens arising from the various tinctures of the clouds. Dict. of Nat. Hist.
PHEAS'ANT (s. in ornithology) A large bird of game, a kind of wild cock.

P H I

PHOEBE (s. not so correct a spelling) Phoebe, a woman's name.
 PHOEBUS (s. obsolete) A companion. Spenser.
 PHAGAPHY'RUM (s. in botany) The buck wheat.
 PHELLANDRIUM (s. in botany) The water hemlock, genus of plants.
 PHYLLODRYS (s. in botany) A kind of corktree.
 PHYLLOS (s. in botany) The corktree.
 PHYLLOPÆA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 PHENEUS, PHE'NEUM (s.) A lake in Arcadia the waters of which were said to be unwholesome in the night but wholesome in the day. Ovid.
 PHENIGITES (s. in natural history) A kind of marble shining with yellow transparent veins.
 PHENICE (s.) A port town in the ancient Crete, Phœnicia.
 PHENICIA (s. in geography) Phœnicia, a province of Syria.
 PHENICIAN (adj. from Phœnicia) Phœnician, belonging to Phœnicia.
 PHENICIAN (s. from the adj.) A Phœnician, an inhabitant of Phœnicia.
 PHENIOP'TER (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird supposed to be a kind of pheasant.
 PHENIX (s. in ornithology) The phoenix, the bird which was supposed to exist single and to be renewed from its own ashes.
 PHENOMENA (s. plu. of phenomenon) Phænomena, appearances in the works of nature.
 PHENOMENON (s. a common spelling) A phænomenon, an appearance in the works of nature.
 PHENON (s. in heraldry) The barbed head of a weapon.
 PHRECY'DES (s.) A Syrian philosopher master to Pythagoras.
 PHIAL (s. from the Greek φιάλη) A small glass bottle.
 PHIALA (s.) A phial. Phillips.
 PHIDIAS (s.) An excellent painter and statuary. Cic.
 PHIDIPPUS (s.) The grandson of Hercules. Homer.
 PHIDITIA (s. in Grecian antiquity) The public feasts which were held at Lacedæmon in which all ranks of people assisted without any distinction.
 PHYGETH'LON (s. in surgery) The phygethlon, a kind of phlegmatic tumour.
 PHILADELPHIA (s. from the Greek φιλέω to love, and αδελφος a brother) A city in the Lesser Asia; the capital of the province of Pennsylvania in North America.
 PHILADELPHIAN (adj. from Philadelphia) Belonging to Philadelphia.
 PHILADELPHIAN (s. from the adj.) A native of Philadelphia, an inhabitant of Philadelphia; one of a sect called the family of love.
 PHILADELPHUS (s. in botany) The syringa; a genus of plants.
 PHILADELPHUS (s.) The surname of one of the Ptolemies at whose request the Old Testament was translated to the Greek language.
 PHILAGATHUS (s. from the Greek φιλος a lover, and αγαθος good) A lover of good men.
 PHILANTHROPAL (adj. from philanthropy, but not used) Belonging to philanthropy, tending to philanthropy. Co.
 PHILANTHROPIST (s. from philanthropy) A lover of mankind.
 PHILANTHROS (s. from philanthropy) A philanthropist. Scott.
 PHILANTHROPY (s. from the Greek φιλέω to love, and ανθρωπος a man) The love of mankind, good will to man.
 PHILARGYROUS (adj. from philargyry) Loving money, tending to the love of silver. Cole.
 PHILARGYRY (s. from the Greek φιλέω to love, and αργυρος silver, but not used) The love of silver. Cole.
 PHILAUTIA (s. from the Greek φιλέω to love, and αυτος one's self) Self love. Phillips.
 PHILAUTY (s. from philautia) Self love. Cole.
 PHILEUTHERIA (s. from the Greek φιλέω to love, and ευθεια liberty) The love of liberty. Scott.
 PHILEMON (s.) A man's name; the title of one of the epistles in the New Testament.
 PHILEMOT (s. from the French feuille morte a dead leaf) The colour of a dead leaf.
 PHILETES (s.) A man's name, preceptor to Ptolemæus of Philadelphia.
 PHILETUS (s.) A man's name. 2 Tim.
 PHILATROS (s. from the Greek φιλέω to love, and αντρος a physician) A student in physic. Scott.
 PHILBERT (s. from the German) The name of a man.
 PHILIP (s.) A man's name.
 PHILIPA (s.) A woman's name.

P H I

PHILIP'PI (s.) A city in Greece.
 Philip'pian (adj. from Philippi) Belonging to Philippi.
 Philip'pian (s. from the adj.) The inhabitants of Philippi, the title of one of the epistles in the New Testament.
 Philip'pick (s. from Philip of Macedon against whom Demosthenes directed his invectives) An invective, a declamation full of invectives.
 PHIL'IPSNORTON (s.) A town in Somersetshire; it has a market on Thursday, and is 104 miles from London.
 PHILIS'TIA (s. in ancient geography) The country of the Philistines.
 PHIL'ISTIM (s. from the Heb.) A man's name; the ancestor of the Philistines; the Philistines.
 PHIL'ISTINE (s. from the Heb. signifying an inhabitant of a village) One of the ancient inhabitants of the land of Canaan.
 PHILISTOR'ICUS (s. from the Greek φιλέω to love, and ιστορια a history) A lover of history. Scott.
 Phil'izar (s. a different spelling) A filazer. D. of A.
 PHIL' LIS (s.) The name of a woman.
 Phillyre'a (s. a different spelling) The phyllyrea. D. of A.
 Phillyræ'a (s. in botany, but not a correct spelling) The phyllyrea. Phillips.
 PHI'LO (s.) A man's name.
 PHILOBOTA'NUS (s. from the Greek φιλέω to love, and βοτανη an herb) A lover of botany, a man fond of botanical researches.
 PHILOCHY'MIST (s. from philo, and chymist) A lover of chymistry.
 PHILOCTE'TES (s. in the mythology of the poets) The name of a man who lighted the funeral pile of Hercules and had the care of his sepulchre. Ovid.
 PHILODES'POT (s. from the Greek φιλέω to love, and δεσποτης a master) One who loves his master. Cole.
 PHILOEULEUTHE'RIUS (s. from the Greek φιλέω to love, and ελευθερια liberty) A lover of liberty.
 Philol'oger (s. from philology) One who studies languages, a grammarian, a critic.
 Philologic (adj. from philology) Belonging to philology.
 Philologic'al (adj. from philologic) Belonging to philology.
 Philol'ogist (s. from philology) A philologist, one who studies languages, a critic.
 PHILOLOGUS (s.) A man's name. Rom.
 PHILOLOGY (s. from the Greek φιλέω to love, and λογος a word) The study of language, grammatical learning, criticism.
 PHIL'OMATH (s. from the Greek φιλέω to love, and μαθησις learning) A lover of learning.
 Phil'omathes (s. from philomath) A lover of learning. DiE. of Arts.
 Philomathy (s. from philomath) The love of learning.
 PHILOME'DA (s. in heathen mythology) One of the names of Venus.
 Phil'omel (s. from philomela) The nightingale.
 PHILOME'LA (s. in the mythology of the poets) The daughter of Pandion ravished by Tereus who had married her sister, and in her flight was said to have been transformed into a nightingale.
 Philome'la (s. from the preceding) The nightingale.
 PHIL'OMOT (adj. from the French feuille morte a dead leaf) Coloured like a dead leaf.
 Phil'omot (s. from the adj.) The colour of a dead leaf.
 PHILOMU'SUS (s. from the Greek φιλέω to love, and μουσα a song) A lover of poetry. Cole.
 PHILON'IDES (s.) The name of a man, a swift runner servant to Alexander the Great.
 PHILO'NIUM (s. in pharmacy) A kind of fonniferous anodyne.
 PHILOP'OLITE (s. from the Greek φιλέω to love, and πολις a city, but not used) A patriot. Cole.
 PHILOP'SYCHY (s. from the Greek φιλέω to love, and ψυχη the soul) The love of life, the love of the soul. Scott.
 Philosphas'ter (s. from philosopher) A smatterer in philosophy. Scott.
 PHILOS'OPHEME (s. from the Greek φιλοσοφημα) A theorem, a principle of reasoning. Watts.
 Philosopher (s. from philosophy) One skilled in philosophy.
 Philosphers'stone (s. from philosopher, and stone) A stone dreamed of by the alchemists which, as they supposed, would by a touch convert baser metals into gold.
 Philosoph'ic (adj. from philosophy) Belonging to philosophy, skilled in philosophy; abstemious, suited to a philosopher.

P H L

Philosophical (adj. from philosophic) Belonging to philosophy, suited to a philosopher, skilled in philosophy.

Philosophically (adv. from philosophical) In a manner suited to philosophy, in a manner suited to a philosopher.

Philosophize (v. int. from philosophy) To act the part of a philosopher, to moralize, to enquire into the causes of effects; with on or upon; "The wax philosophized upon the matter."

Philosophizing (p. a. from philosophize) Acting the part of a philosopher, moralizing, enquiring into the causes of effects.

PHILOSOPHY (s. from the Greek φιλοσω to love, and σοφια wisdom) The study of nature, the knowledge of things natural and moral; the system on which natural effects are explained; reasoning, argumentation; the course of science as taught in the schools.

PHILOSOPHY (s. from the Greek φιλοσω to love, and σοφια a natural affection) The love of children to parents, the love of parents to children, natural affection. Scott.

PHILOSTRATUS (s.) A man's name; a famous orator who taught at Rome in the reign of Nero.

PHILOTECHNUS (s. from the Greek φιλοσω to love, and τεχνη art) An encourager of arts. Scott.

PHILOTHYTÆ (s. from the Greek φιλοσω to love, and θυσια a sacrifice) A kind of superstitious devotees who offered sacrifices on every trifling occasion.

PHILOTIMY (s. from the Greek φιλοσω to love, and τιμη honour) The love of honour. Scott.

PHILOXENY (s. from the Greek φιλος a friend, and ξενια hospitality) The love or kindness which is done to strangers. Scott.

PHILTER (s. from the Greek φιλτρον a love potion) Something to cause love.

Philter (v. t. from the sub.) To charm to love.

Phil'tred (p. from philter) Intoxicated to love, charmed to love.

Philtra'tion (s. in pharmacy, a different spelling) A filtration, a separation by means of a filtre.

Phil'tre (s. a different spelling) A philter, a love potion. Cleaveland.

PHILTRUM (s. in anatomy) The hollow that divides the upper lip.

PHILTRUM (s. from the Greek φιλτρον) The philter, a love potion, a charm to procure love.

PHILYRA (s. a different spelling) The philyra. Ph.

PHILYRA (s. in beaten mythology) The daughter of Oceanus, the name of a woman.

PHILYRA (s. in botany) The linden, the middle bark of the linden of which ropes were made.

Philyrian (adj. from philyra) Belonging to Sagittarius the supposed son of Philyra. Cole.

PHIMOSIS (s. from the Greek) A pressure, an obstruction occasioned by a kind of hard flesh growing in the fundament; an inflammation of the prepuce which renders it incapable of being drawn back over the glans.

PHINEAS (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.

PHINEES (s. a different spelling) Phincas, a man's name.

PHIN'EHAS (s. from the Heb. signifying the appearance of protection) A man's name.

PHINEUS (s. in the mythology of the poets) A king of Arcadia who put out the eyes of his own children and was himself struck blind and infested with harpies which devoured his viands and he perished with hunger.

Phiz (s. a contraction from physiognomy) The countenance, the face in contempt. Stepney.

PHLEBORRHA'GIA (s. from the Greek φλεβ a vein, and ρρησσειν to break) the bursting of a vein.

Phlebotomise (v. t. a different spelling) To phlebotomize. Scott.

Phlebotomist (s. from phlebotomy) One that opens a vein, one that lets blood.

Phlebotomize (v. t. from phlebotomy) To let blood.

Phlebotomized (p. from phlebotomize) Let blood. H.

Phlebotomizing (p. a. from phlebotomize) Letting blood.

PHLEBOTOMUM (s. in surgery) An instrument to let blood.

PHLEBOTOMUS (s. with surgeons) A surgeon that lets blood. Phillips.

PHLEBOTOMY (s. from the Greek φλεβ a vein, and τομω to cut) The act of letting blood, the operation of opening a vein for medical intentions.

PHLEGETHON (s. in the mythology of the poets) One of the infernal rivers. Vulgi.

PHLEGM (s. from phlegma) The watery humour of the body; the tough viscid matter discharged by coughing; water, an insipid water the first product of distillation.

P H C E

PHLEGMA (s. from the Greek) Phlegm, one of the humours of the body; an inflammation, heat.

PHLEGMAGO'GA (s. from the Greek φλεγμα phlegma and αγω to drive) Medicines to discharge phlegm.

Phlegmagogues (s. from phlegmagoga) Medicines suited to discharge phlegm.

Phlegmasia (s. from phlegma) An inflammation, burning.

Phlegmatic (adj. from phlegm) Abounding in phlegm, producing phlegm, watry, cold, frigid, dull.

Phlegmatical (adj. not much used, from phlegmatic) Abounding with phlegm; cold, dull.

PHLEGMON (s. from the Greek φλεγμων) An inflammation, a burning tumour.

Phlegmonades (s. from phlegmon) An inflammation, burning tumour.

Phlegmone (s. a different spelling) A phlegmon.

Phlegmonous (adj. from phlegmon) Inflammatory, burning.

PHLEGON (s. from the Greek) A man's name.

PHLEGON (s. in the mythology of the poets) One of the horses of the Sun.

PHLEGONTIS (s. in natural history) A precious stone of a flame colour.

PHLEGO'SIS (s. from the Greek) An inflammation.

PHLEG'GYAS (s. in the mythology of the poets) The brother of Ixion who was said to have burnt the temple of Apollo, and, as a punishment for that crime, he was seated in hell with a great stone hanging on his head which seems every moment ready to fall on him.

Phleme (s. a different spelling) A steam, an instrument for letting blood in cattle.

PHLE'UM (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

PHLOGIDIAU'GIA (s. in natural history) A class of fossils of a flame colour.

PHLOGINOS (s. in natural history) A precious stone of a flame colour.

PHLOGISCIE'RIA (s. in natural history) A class or genus of fossils.

PHLOGISTON (s. from the Greek φλεγω to burn) A chemical liquor very inflammable; the inflammable part of any body.

PHLOGITES (s. in natural history) A stone that resembles flame.

PHLOGIUM (s. in botany) A kind of violet.

PHLOGOMIÆ (s. in natural history) A class of inflammable fossils.

PHLOGOSIS (s. from the Greek) An inflammation, slight inflammation of the eye.

PHLOMIS (s. in botany) A kind of flower.

PHLOMOS (s. in botany, from the Greek) The name of a plant.

PHLOX (s. from the Greek) A flame; a flower of a flame colour; a genus of plants.

PHLYACOGRAPHIA (s. from the Greek) A burlesque imitation of a serious piece. Di. of a.

PHLYACOGRAPHY (s. from the Greek φλυασις a trifler, and γραφω to write) A burlesque imitation of a serious piece.

PHLYATION (s. in surgery) An inflammation of skin, a pustule.

PHLYCTÆNA (s. from the Greek φλυκταινη) A swelling with a blister, a pimple with matter in a little ulcer in the horny coat of the eye.

PHLYCTÆNO'DES (s. in surgery) The hot watry vesicles that appear in some disorders.

PHLYKTÆNA (s. a different spelling) A disease which produces bubos full of ferrous humours.

Phlyktæne (s. a different spelling) The phlyktæna.

PHOCA (s. in zoology) The sea calf, a genus of cetaceans.

PHOCÆ'NA (s. in ichthyology) The porpoise, a kind of dolphin.

PHOCIS (s.) A small country of Greece rendered famous by the oracle at Delphos and mount Parnassus.

PHOC'BE (s. from the Greek) The name of a woman.

PHOC'BUS (s. in poetic language) The sun; Apollo.

PHOENICIA (s. in botany) The name of an herb, wild oat.

PHOENICIA (s. a correct spelling) Phenicia.

Phoenician (adj. from Phoenicia) Belonging to Phoenicia.

Phoenician (s. from the adj.) An inhabitant of Phoenicia.

PHOENICE (s. in ancient geography) A country of Phoenicia.

PHOENICOBALA'NUS (s. in botany) The fruit of the Egyptian palmtree, a kind of date.

PHOENICOP'TERUS (s. in ornithology) The flamingo.

P H R

PHENICURUS (s. in ornithology) The redstart.
PHENICUS (s. from the Greek φαινύμι; redness) The redness occasioned by the external application of medicaments.
PHENIX (s. a correct spelling, from the Greek φωνή) The phoenix, a fabulous bird, which was supposed to exist single, and, when it died, to flutter its wings to so great a degree as to set itself on fire; and from the ashes of the old bird a young one was supposed to arise.
PHENIX (s. in botany) The datetree; a genus of plants.
PHYLACIDES (s. in ichthyology) The shell fish which take up their abode in the holes of rocks or other solid bodies.
PHYLAS (s. in ichthyology) A kind of shell fish; it generally takes up its abode in the hole of some solid body.
PHYLIS (s. in natural history) A kind of gypsum.
PHONASIA (s. from the Greek φωνή a voice) The act of forming the human voice.
PHONICS (s. from the Greek φωνή a sound) The doctrine of sounds.
PHONOCAMPITIC (adj. from the Greek φωνή a voice, and καμπύω to inflect) Having the power of altering sound by inflection.
PHORBÆA (s. in the music of the ancients) A kind of bandage applied to the mouth of one that played on the pipe.
PHORBÆA (s. a different spelling) The phorbæa. D. of A.
PHORCUS (s. in the mythology of the poets) The father of the Gorgons; a son of Neptune.
PHOSPHOR (s. from the Greek φως light, and φεω to ring) The morning star; a chymical substance which takes fire on being exposed to the air.
PHOSPHORI (s. plu. of phosphorus) phosphors. Dict. of A.
PHOSPHORUS (s. from the Lat.) Phosphor.
PHOTINIAN (s. in church history) One of the followers of Photinus a kind of Arian.
Photinian (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the doctrine or followers of Photinus.
Photinianism (s.) The doctrine of the Photinians.
PHOTINUS (s.) The name of a man; the head of a sect in the fourth century who denied the preexistence of Christ, and held that he was no more than a mere man.
PHOXINUS (s. in ichthyology) A kind of river fish.
PHRAGMITES (s. in botany) The cane, the sea reed.
Phrantic (adj. a different spelling) Frantic. Phillips.
PHRASE (s. from the Greek φράσι; a speech) A mode of speech, an idiom; expression, style.
Phrase (v. t. from the sub.) To style, to term, to call.
Phrasebook (s. from phrase, and book) A book in which the idioms of a language are explained.
Phrased (p. from phrase) Styled, termed.
Phrased (adj. from phrase) Incapable of being described. Shakespeare.
Phrasologist (s. from phraseology) One skilled in the idioms of a language.
PHRASEOLOGY (s. from the Greek φράσι a phrase, and λόγος a word) A mode of speech, style, diction; a phrasebook.
Phrasing (p. a. from phrase) Styling, terming.
PHRENES (s. in anatomy, from the Greek) The membranes about the heart; the diaphragm, the midriff.
PHRENESIS (s. from the Greek) An inflammation of the membranes of the brain; the fever and delirium arising from an inflammation of the brain.
Phrenetic (adj. from phrenetis) Inflamed in the brain, frantic, mad.
Phrenetic (s. from the adj.) One whose brain is inflamed, one affected with a delirium, a madman.
PHRENETIS (s. from the Greek) An inflammation of the brain; madness.
PHRENIA (s. in anatomy) The veins of the liver.
PHRENYS (s. from phrenesis) Madness, delirium, franticness.
Phreny (adj. from the sub.) Delirious, outrageous, mad; but this use of the word is rather colloquial.
Phrenetic (adj. not so common) Phrenetic, delirious, mad.
Phrens (s. not used) Horror, dread. Phillips.
PHRICODES (s. with physicians) A kind of fever in which the patient is disturbed with frightful imaginations.
PHYGANIDES (s. in the history of insects) The caddisfly.
PHYGANION (s. in the history of insects) The caddisworm.
PHYGIA (s. in ancient geography) A province of the lesser Asia.

P H Y

Phrygian (adj. from Phrygia) Belonging to Phrygia; warlike, cheerful, sprightly as applied to music.
Phrygian (s. from the adj.) An inhabitant of Phrygia, a native of Phrygia.
PHYRYNIAN (s. in botany) The name of an herb said to be good against the poison of a toad.
PHYRYNOS (s. in zoology, from the Greek) The large kind of frog which is said to be venomous.
PHTHARTICUM (s. from the Greek φθείρω to corrupt) A corrupting medicine.
Phthartics (s. from phtharticum) Corrupting medicines.
PHTHIA (s. in ancient geography) A city and district of Thessaly, the country of Achilles.
PHTHIRIASIS (s. from the Greek φθειρ a louse) The state of being infected with lice, lousiness.
PHTHISIC (s. from the Greek φθίω to waste) A consumption.
Phthistic (adj. from phthitic) Afflicted with the phthitic, consumptive.
PHTHISIS (s. from the Greek) A phthitic, A consumption, a waste of the muscular flesh.
PHTHOE (s. with physicians) The phthitic.
PHYTHONGUS (s. from the Greek φθγγος) A sound, a tune, a note in music.
PHTHORA (s. from the Greek φθείρω to corrupt) Corruption, destruction.
PHTHORA (s. in botany) A kind of wolf-bane.
PHURAH (s. from the Heb. signifying fruitful) A man's name.
PHY (s. in botany) The name of a shrub, a kind of nard.
PHYCIS (s. in ichthyology) A fish which is said to make a nest for her spawn.
PHYCITIS (s. in natural history) A precious stone having the colour of a seaweed.
PHYCOSTHALASSION (s. in botany) A kind of seaweed.
PHYGETH/LON (s. in surgery) A swelling from the inflammation of the glandules.
PHYGETON (s. in surgery) A small red swelling in the glandules of the skin.
PHYLACTERY (s. from the Greek φυλακτήριον) A bandage on which some memorable sentence was inscribed, worn by the Jews, and supposed to be a preservative against poison and enchantment.
PHY/LARCH (s. from the Greek φυλή a tribe, and αρχος chief) The governor of a family. Cole.
PHY/LASIST (s. from the Greek φυλάσσω to keep, but not used) A jaylor. Cole.
PHYLLAN'DRION (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
PHYLLAN'THION (s. in botany) The name of an herb formerly used in dying purple.
PHYLLANTHUS (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
PHYLLERE/A (s. in botany, from the Greek φύλλον a leaf) The name of a beautiful shrub full of leaves and evergreen.
PHYLLIS (s.) The name of a woman.
PHYLLIS (s.) A woman's name, the daughter of Siton king of Thrace, who, as the poets say, being disappointed in love pined away and was transformed into an almond tree. Ovid.
PHYLLIS (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
PHYLLITIS (s. in botany) The harts tongue, the horsetail.
PHYLLON (s. from the Greek) A leaf; the knotgrass.
PHYLLONA (s. in botany) A genus of mosses.
PHYLOS (s. in ancient geography) A country of Arcadia abounding in cattle.
PHYLLYRE/A (s. in botany, a different spelling) The phyllerea.
PHYMA (s. from the Greek, in surgery) A pointed kind of swelling in the glandules of the skin, a kind of pimple, a kind of tumour.
PHYMA/TA (s. plu. from phyma) The small pointed swellings which arise in the skin, pimples.
PHYMATODES (s. from phyma) A kind of cuticular eruption, a kind of pimple.
Phys (s. a different spelling) The phiz, the countenance in contempt.
PHYSALIS (s. in botany) The alkekengi, the winter cherry.
PHYSALOS (s. from the Greek) The toad.
PHYSEMA (s. from the Greek) A kind of inflation, a tympany; the rosin of the pinetree.
PHYSETIR (s. in ichthyology) A kind of whale remarkable for blowing out a vast quantity of water.
PHYSIARCH (s. from the Greek φυσίς nature, and αρχος chief) The governor of nature. Cole.
PHYSIC

P I A

PHYSIC (s. from the Greek φυσικη nature) The science of healing; medicines; an opening potion, a purge.

Physic (v. t. from the sub.) To treat with medicine, to purge, to cure.

PHYSICA (s. from the Greek φυσικη nature) Physics, natural philosophy. Phillips.

Phys'ical (adj. from phys'ic) Medical, belonging to the science of healing, resembling phys'ic; relating to nature, belonging to natural philosophy.

Phys'ically (adv. from phys'ic) According to nature, by natural operation, in a manner consistent with the rules of natural philosophy.

Phys'icalness (s. from phys'ical) The state of being phys'ical. Scott.

Phys'iced (p. from phys'ic) Treated with medicines, purged.

Phys'ician (s. from phys'ic) One skilled in phys'ic, one who professes the art of healing.

Phys'icing (p. a. from phys'ic) Treating with medicines, purging.

Phys'ick (s. the less modern spelling) Phys'ic.

Phys'ick (v. t. the less modern spelling) To phys'ic.

Phys'icked (p. from phys'ick) Treated with medicines.

Phys'icking (p. a. from phys'ick) Treating with medicines.

Physicotheology (s. from physics, and theology) Natural religion.

Physics (s. from phys'ic) Natural philosophy; divinity illustrated by natural philosophy.

Physiognomer (s. from physiognomy) One skilled in physiognomy.

Physiognomic (adj. from physiognomy) Belonging to physiognomy.

Physiognomics (s. from physiognomic) Signs taken from the countenance of a sick person by which a judgment is made of the disease.

Physiognomist (s. from physiognomy) One skilled in physiognomy.

Physiognomonic (adj. from physiognomy) Belonging to physiognomy.

PHYSIOGNOMY (s. from the Greek φυσικη nature, and γνωσκω to know) The pretended art of knowing the temper and predicting the fortune from the features of the face; the countenance, the cast of the face.

Physiologer (s. from physiology) One skilled in physiology.

Physiologic (adj. from physiology) Belonging to physiology.

Physiologic'ical (adj. from physiologic) Belonging to physiology.

Physiologist (s. from physiology) A physiologer, one skilled in physiology.

PHYSIOLOGY (s. from the Greek φυσικη nature, and λογος a discourse) The science of nature, the doctrine or science of the constitution and works of nature.

PHYSIS (s. from the Greek) Nature; the parts of generation. Phillips.

PHYSOCLE (s. from the Greek φυσω to blow up, and κλη a rupture) A rupture occasioned by wind.

Phys'ly (s. a different spelling) A fustee. Locke.

PHYTEUM (s. in botany) A genus of plants, a kind of toadflax.

PHYTIVOROUS (adj. from the Greek φυτον a plant, and the Lat. voro to devour) Eating grass, living on vegetables.

PHYTOGRAPHY (s. from the Greek φυτον a plant, and γραφω to write) A description of plants.

PHYTOLACCA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

PHYTOLOGIA (s. from the Greek) Phytology. Phil.

Phytologist (s. from phytology) One skilled in botany, one who writes on plants.

PHYTOLOGY (s. from the Greek φυτον a plant, and λογος a description) The science of plants, botany, a description of plants.

PHYTOPINAX (s. from the Greek φυτον a plant, and πιναξ a table) A collection of plants; a repository, a cabinet.

PHYTOSCOPIA (s. from the Greek φυτον a plant, and σκοπεω to view) The art of viewing plants in order to an accurate description.

Phytoscopy (s. from phytoscopia) The art of viewing plants in order to a minute description.

PIACENZA (s. in anatomy) The placentia. DiEt. of Arts.

PIACHE (s. in architecture) A piazza. DiEt. of Arts.

PIACLE (s. from the Lat. piaculum, but now grown obsolete) An enormous crime. Howel.

PIACULAR (adj. from the Lat. piaculum) Expiatory, requiring expiation; criminal, atrociously bad.

PIACULOUS (adj. from the Lat. piaculum a great crime)

P I C

Criminal, atrociously bad, expiatory, requiring piation.

PIAF'FEUR (s. in the manage) A horse of high more reftless to go forward the more you keep him.

PIA'LÆ (s. in ancient geography) A people of thia.

PI'AMA'TER (s. in anatomy) The third tunic or brane of the brain.

PIANIS'SIMO (adv. in music) Very soft, very low.

PIAN'NET (s. in ornithology) The lesser woodpecker the magpie.

PIA'NO (adv. in music books) Softly, slowly.

Pias'ter (s. a different spelling) A piafre.

PIAS'TRE (s.) An Italian coin of about five shilling value.

PIA'TION (s. from the Lat. pio to worship) An expiation, the act of purging by sacrifice.

PIAZ'ZA (s. from the Italian) A walk under a supported by pillars; a portico, a covered walk.

PI'CA (s. in printing) A kind of letter.

PI'CA (s. in ornithology) A pie, a magpie.

PI'CA (s. in zoology) The largest animal of the kind.

PI'CA (s. with physicians) A depravation of appetite which excites a longing for unnatural food.

Pic'ard (s. with watermen) A kind of boat.

PIC'ARD (s. in church history) A kind of Adamite.

Pica'rd (s. from Picardy) A native of Picardy in France.

Picard'ise (v. int. from picard) To imitate the manner of the Picards.

PICAR'DY (s. in geography) A province of France.

Picar'ium (s. in old records) A kind of cup or bowl with ears or handles.

PICAROO'N (s. from the Italian piccare to rob) A robber, a robber.

Pic'age (s. an old spelling) The pickage, the toll for breaking the ground to set up a stall in a fair.

Piche'ria (s. in old records) A pitcher.

Pich'tel (s. an old word) A small inclosure, a close.

PICK (v. t. from the Dutch picken) To cull, to choose to take up, to gather, to glean; to separate, to choose by picking out; to peck, to strike with a pointed instrument; to open a book by a pointed instrument to rob, to steal. "To pick a hole in ones coat," to find fault.

Pick (v. int.) To eat slowly, to eat by small morsels to do any thing nicely and slowly.

Pick (s. from the verb) A sharp pointed iron tool, a small parcel of land, an odd bit of land.

PICK'ADIL (s. from the Dutch, an old word) The bottom of the skirt of a garment, the extremity or under edge; a kind of stiff collar in the form of a band.

Pick'age (s. from pick) The money paid for breaking ground to set up a stall or booth in a fair.

Pick'apack (adv. from pack) In the manner of a pack on the back.

Pick'axe (s. from pick, and axe) A tool with a blade kind of axe at one end and a sharp point at the other.

Pick'back (adv. from back) On the back after the manner of a pack.

Pick'ed (p. from pick) Culled, gleaned, cleaned, gleaned away the filth, opened as a lock by a thin instrument, robbed, plundered.

Pick'ed (adj. from pick) Having a sharp point.

Pickedi'likin (s. from pickadil) A small curious kind of pickadil.

PICKEE'R (v. int. from the Italian piccare) To pillage to rob; to make a kind of skirmish. Hudibras.

Pickeering (p. a. from pickeer) Skirmishing.

Pickeering (s. from the part.) The act of skirmishing. DiEt. of Arts.

Pick'er (s. from pick) One that picks.

Pick'erel (s. in ichthyology) A young pike.

Pick'erelweed (s. in botany, from pickerel, and weed) The name of a water plant so called because it was supposed to generate pike.

PICK'ERING (s.) A town in Yorkshire; it has a market on Monday, and is 225 miles from London.

Pick'ering (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Pickering made at Pickering.

Pick'eron (s. an old word) A dart, a javelin.

PICKEROO'N (s. from the Italian piccare) A ship intended to rob or plunder, a kind of pirate; a pickeroon, a shabby fellow.

Pickeroo'n (v. int. from the sub.) To rob, to plunder.

Pickeroo'ning (p. a. from pickeroon) Robbing, plundering.

Pickeroo'ning

P I D

roo'ning (s. from the part.) The act of plundering, Dict. of Arts.
VERY (s. in zoology) An American beast much like dog.
et (s. a different spelling) A piquet, a kind of sharp re.
etguard (s. from picket, and guard) The piquet
Dict. of Arts.
ettee' (s. with florists) A variegated carnation.
etty (s. a different spelling) A pickettee.
ing (p. a. from pick) Cutting, gleaming, striking with a pointed instrument, robbing, plundering;
 nung a lock with a steel instrument.
ing (s. from the part.) The refuse, that which is that which is to be picked up.
KLE (s. from the Dutch pekkel) A kind of salt liquor which any thing is preserved; any thing preserved in salt liquor. In droll style, a slate, a con-sion.
le (s. an old word) A small parcel of ground inclosed by a ridge.
le (v. t. from the sub.) To preserve in salt liquor;
 season with any thing bad.
led (p. from pickle) Preserved in pickle, imbued with any thing bad.
leherring (s. a cant word) A buffoon, a r rry drew.
ling (p. a. from pickle) Preserving in pickle.
lock (s. from pick, and lock) An instrument to pick lock; the person who picks locks.
pocket (s. from pick, and pocket) One that picks pockets, a thief.
purse (s. from pick, and purse) A pickpocket, a ef.
thank (s. from pick, and thank) An officious fellow, a whispering parasite, one that finds fault, one that endeavours to undermine the character of another.
tooth (s. from pick, and tooth) An instrument to an the teeth.
te (s. an old word) A small parcel of land inclosed with a hedge. Phillips.
QUE (v. t. from the Italian) To divide the notes in music in such a manner as to render them distinct. Bas.
uee'r (v. int. a different spelling) To pickeer.
uee'ring (p. a. from picqueur) Pickeeering.
uee'ring (s. from the part.) The act of skirmish-Dict. of Arts.
quet (s. with gamesters) A celebrated game at cards.
QUET'TE (s. from the French) A kind of rough wine drunk by the common people in France. Phillips.
ra (s. in medicine) The hierapicra.
RIS (s. in botany) The wild iuccory. us (s. in ancient geography, supposed to be from the
to. pictus painted) One of a people from Germany who landed in Scotland, expelled the native inhabitants, and for many years possessed the greater part of the kingdom.
T (s. from the Lat. pingo to paint) A painted person.
TI (s. plu. in ancient geography) The Picts, a people who came out of Scythia and settled between England and Scotland.
TOR (s. from the Lat. but not used) A painter. Cole.
trial (adj. from pictor) Produced by a painter. Bro.
ural (adj. from picture) Belonging to a picture. Cole.
TURE (s. from the Lat. pingo to paint) A resemblance in painting, a representation in colours; the ence of painting, the work of a painter; a resemblance, a representation, a striking description.
ure (v. t. from the sub.) To paint, to represent in colours; to describe in narrative.
ured (p. from picture) Painted, represented in picture, described in narrative.
uring (p. a. from picture) Painting, representing picture, describing in narrative.
IM'NUS (s. in heathen mythology) A rural god supposed to preside over the culture of land and the ending of corn.
US (s. in the mythology of the poets) The son of Iun, who was supposed to have been transformed to the woodpecker by a noted forcerer's.
US (s. in ornithology) The woodpecker.
OLE (v. int. of doubtful etymology) To pick at to eat nicely; to trifle, to attend to the less important parts of a subject.
ler (s. from piddle) One that piddles, a trifier.
ling (p. a. from piddle) Trifling, attending to the important parts of a subject.
ling (s. from the part.) The act of trifling.

P I E

PIE (s. in ornithology, from the Lat. pica) A magpie, a particoloured bird; figuratively, a tattling gossip.
"By cock and pie," the form of a petty oath. Shakes.
PIE (s. the derivation uncertain) Any crust baked with something inclosed in it.
PIE (s.) The old popish mass book, so called as is supposed from the different colours of the text and ru-brick.
Pie'bald (adj. from pie) Particoloured, diversified in colour.
PIECE (s. from the French) A part, a fragment; a patch, something put on to help out a deficiency; a picture, a composition, a performance; a whole length of stuff or cloth as it comes from the maker; a single great gun; a hand gun; a coin, a single coin; a smatterer in any art or profession, but this is a droll sense. "So you are a piece of a lawyer." "Of a "piece with," like, of the same sort, suited to.
Piece (v. t. from the sub.) To lengthen out by joining, to make up a deficiency, to join, to unite. "To
"piece out," to encrease by addition.
Piece (v. int.) To close, to coalesce.
Pie'ced (p. from piece) Joined, united, set with patches, lengthened out by addition.
Pie'cing (p. a. from piece) Joining, uniting, mending, lengthening out by an addition.
Pie'celess (adj. from piece) Whole, compact, made without piecing.
Pie'cemeal (adv. from piece) By pieces, in fragments.
Pie'cemeal (adj. from the adv.) Separate, divided.
Pie'cer (s. from piece) One that pieces.
Pie'd (adj. from pie) Spotted, variegated.
PIED'MONT (s. in geography) A principality in Italy.
Piedmontese (s. from Piedmont) A native of Piedmont,
 the inhabitants of Piedmont.
Pie'dness (s. from pied) A diversity of colours, the state of being variegated.
P.EDON'CHE (s. in architecture) A small pedestal enriched with mouldings to support a bust or some other figure.
PIEDROIT (s. in architecture) A pier partly hid in a wall, the jam of a door or window.
Pie'led (adj. perhaps from peel) Having short hair. Sba.
Pie'ment (s. obsolete) A drink made of wine, honey and spices. Chaucer.
PIE'NO (adj. in music books) Full.
PIEP (v. int. from the Lat. pipio to p'pe) To cry like a chick. Scott.
Pie'ping (p. a. from piep) Crying like a chick.
Pie'ping (s. from the part.) The cry of a chick.
PIE'POWDERCOURT (s. a law term, from the French pie a foot, powder, and court) A court held in a fair to determine any dispute while the dust remains on the shoes.
PIER (s. from the French pierre) A column, the space between two windows in a room, the column that supports the arch of a bridge.
PIERCE (v. t. from the French percer) To enter, to penetrate, to force; to affect the passions.
Pierce (v. int.) To make way by force, to strike, to enter, to drive; to affect, to affect severely.
Pie'rced (p. from pierce) Penetrated, touched, affected.
Pie'rceer (s. from pierce) One who pierces, an instrument to pierce holes.
Pie'rceing (p. a. from pierce) Penetrating, cutting by force; affecting, touching the passions, affecting severely.
Pie'rceing (s. from the part.) The act of penetration.
Pie'rceingly (adv. from pierceing) In a piercing manner, sharp.
Pie'rceingness (s. from pierceing) The power of piercing.
Pie'r'glass (s. from pier, and glass) A looking glass fitted to that part of a wall in a room which divides the windows.
PIE'R/LÆ, PE'RIDES (s. in heathen mythology) The Muses; the daughters of Pierus who contended with the Muses and as the poets say were transformed into magpies.
Pie'r'rie (s. obsolete) Precious stones. Chaucer.
PIE'RUS (s.) A mountain of Thessaly; a man's name, the father of the nine sisters who contended with the Muses.
PIES'TRUM (s. in midwifery) An instrument to break the bones of a child in order to facilitate the birth.
PIETAN'TIA (s. in old records) A pittance, a portion of victuals distributed to the members of a college.
Pietant'arius (s. in old records) The officer in a college who was to distribute the pietantia.

Pi'etist (s. from piety) A kind of mystic in religion, one of a sect of German protestants who despised all ecclesiastical polity, ceremonies and school learning.

PI'ETY (s. from the Lat. pio to worship) The discharge of duty to God, real godliness; duty to parents.

PIFFA'RO (s. from the Italian) A kind of hautboy.

PIFFE'RO (s. from the Italian) A small flute, a flageolet.

Pil'fie (v. int. a local word) To pilfer, to filch.

PIG (s. from the Dutch bigge) A young boar, a young sow, a swine, the animal from which bacon is procured; an oblong mass of lead or iron in its first form from the furnace.

Pig (v. t. from the sub.) To farrow, to bring forth pigs.

Pig'el (s. an old word) A pickle, a small inclosed ground. Cole.

PIG'EON (s. in ornithology) A dove, a well known fowl.

Pig'confoot (s. in botany) The name of an herb.

Pig'conhouse (s. from pigeon, and house) The house or building in which pigeons roost and breed.

Pig'conlivered (adj. from pigeon, and liver) Soft, mild, gentle. Shakespeare.

Pig'conloft (s. from pigeon, and loft) A loft in which pigeons roost and breed.

Pig'conpie (s. from pigeon, and pie) A pie made of pigeons.

PIG'GERHENRI'CUS (s. in chymistry) A vessel in which the operation is performed with great deliberation.

Pig'ged (p. from pig) Farrowed, brought forth as a pig.

Pig'gen (s. from pig) A small wooden vessel generally used as a porringer. Scott.

Pig'gesnye (s. obsolete) A little maid, a word of fondness. Chaucer.

Pig'gin (s. a different spelling) A piggen. Bailey.

Pig'ging (p. a. from pig) Farrowing, bringing forth pigs.

Pight (v. t. the old pret. of pitch) Did pitch. Spenser.

Pight (p. obsolete from pitch) Pitched. Shakespeare.

Pight'el (s. an old word) A pickle, a small inclosed ground. Phillips.

PIG'MENT (s. from the Lat. pigmentum) Paint, colour to be laid on any body.

PIGMENTUM (s. from the Lat.) Paint, pigment.

PIG'MY (s. from the Lat. pigmaeus) A dwarf, any thing inconsiderable; one of a fabulous nation said to have been destroyed by cranes.

Pig'my (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to a dwarf, small. Shakespeare.

Pig'ne (s. in natural history) The pinea. Dict. of Arts.

PIG'NERATE (v. t. from the Lat. pignero to mortgage, but not used) To pawn, to take in pawn. Cole.

Pigneratitious (adj. from pignerate, but not used) Belonging to a pawn, pawned. Cole.

PIGNORATION (s. from the Lat. pignus pignoris a pawn) The act of pledging. Johnson.

Pig'nut (s. in botany) The earth nut.

PIGRI'TIA (s. in zoology) The sloth.

PIGRI'TIA (s. from the Lat. but not used) Slothfulness. Phillips.

PIG'RITUDE (s. from the Lat. piger slow, but not much used) Laziness, slothfulness. Scott.

PIGS'NEY (s. from the Sax. piga a girl) A word of endearment to a girl; the eye of a woman; but this sense is judged improper. Butler.

Pig'seny (s. a different spelling) A pigney. Scott.

Pigwid'geon (s. a cant word) Any thing small; the name of a fairy. Drayton.

Pigwid'geon (adj. from the sub.) Dwarfish, petty, small. Cleaveland.

PI'GUS (s. in ichthyology) A kind of carp.

PIHAHI'ROTH (s. from the Heb. signifying a month) The name of a place, Baalzephon.

Pik (v. t. obsolete) To pick out, to pitch upon. Chaucer.

PIKE (s. in ichthyology, from the French pique sharp) The lucc, a fish of prey reckoned the tyrant of the fresh water.

PIKE (s. from the French pique) A long lance heretofore used by foot soldiers to keep off the horse; a fork used in husbandry; an instrument used by turners.

Pike (v. t. obsolete) To pick out, to pitch upon; to peep. Chaucer.

Pik'ed (adj. from pike) Sharp, ending in a point; having a pointed beard. Shakespeare.

Pikeman (s. from pike, and man) A soldier armed with a pike.

Pi'kestaff (s. from pike, and staff) The wooden handle of a pike.

Pik'id (adj. obsolete) Pointed, sharp.

Pik'is (s. obsolete) Sharp points, pikes.

PI'LA (s. from the Lat.) A pile, a puncheon formerly used in coining, that side of a piece of money which the arms are impressed.

PILAS'TER (s. from the French, in architecture) A small square column, sometimes insulated, but often set within a wall so as to shew a fourth or fifth part of its thickness.

PI'LATÈ (s.) The name of a man.

Pila'tus (s. in the old forest law) The pilettus, a blunted arrow.

PILCH (s. from the Sax. pylch) A flannel night gown, clout for an infant.

PILCH'ARD (s. in ichthyology, of uncertain derivation) A sea fish resembling a herring.

Pilche (s. a different spelling) A pilch; a cloak or garment lined with fur. Warburton.

Pilch'er (s. from pilch) A furred gown, any garment lined with fur; a case, a scabbard.

Pilch'er (s. in ichthyology) The pilchard.

Pil'crow (s. an old word) A paragraph.

Pile (s. from pila) A strong piece of wood driven into the ground to secure a foundation; a heap, any thing heaped to be burned; a building, a large edifice.

Pile (s. in heraldry) An ordinary in form of a wedge.

PILE (s. from the Lat. pilus hair) The nap, the substance on the surface of any thing; one side of a coin, the side of a coin reverse to the cross; the head of an arrow.

Pile (v. t. from the sub.) To heap, to raise up a heap, to lay one thing on another.

PI'LEATED (adj. from the Lat. pileus) Covered as with a hat.

Piled (p. from pile) Heaped up, strengthened with piles, covered with a kind of hairy substance.

Pil'er (s. from pile) One who heaps up.

Pil're (s. obsolete) A pillar.

PILES (s. in surgery, it wants the singular) The hemorrhoids.

Pilet'tus (s. in the forest law) An arrow with a butt near the point to keep it from piercing too far.

Pil'ewort (s. in botany) The name of an herb.

PIL'FER (v. t. from the French piller) To steal, to rob by petty robbery.

Pil'fer (v. int.) To practise petty theft.

Pil'fered (p. from pilfer) Stolen, gained by petty theft.

Pil'ferer (s. from pilfer) One that pilfers, a petty thief.

Pil'fering (p. a. from pilfer) Stealing, practising petty theft.

Pil'fering (s. from the part.) The act of stealing, a petty theft.

Pil'feringly (adv. from pilfering) With petty theft.

Pil'fery (s. from pilfer) Petty theft.

Pilgar'lick (s. a droll word) A poor forlorn wretch.

PIL'GRIM (s. from the Lat. peregrinor to travel) A traveller, one who travels on a religious account, a pilgrim.

Pil'grim (v. int. from the sub.) To wander, to ramble, to act the part of a pilgrim.

Pil'grimage (s. from pilgrim) A journey, a long journey chiefly on account of devotion.

Pil'grim'salve (s. a cant word) Human dung.

Pil'id (p. obsolete) Peeled, made bald.

Pil'ing (p. a. from pile) Securing with piles, heaping up.

PILL (s. from the Lat. pilula) A form of medicine made up in little round balls to be swallowed.

Pill (s. in falconry) The broken remains after the bird is relieved.

PILL (v. t. from the French piller) To rob, to plunder, to peel, to strip off.

Pill (v. int.) To come off in flakes.

Pill (s. from pilla) A small strip of land.

Pill (s. a local word) A kind of well, a small stagnant water.

Pill'la (s. in old records) A small piece, a narrow strip of land.

Pill'lage (s. from pill) Plunder, the act of plundering that which is got by plundering.

Pill'lage (v. t. from the sub.) To plunder, to spoil, to lay waste.

Pill'aged (p. from pillage) Plundered, robbed, wasted.

Pill'lager (s. from pillage) One that pillages. Pitt.

P I M

aging (p. a. from pillage) Plundering, robbing, leaving waste.
 PILAR (s. from the Brit. pillar) A column, a pier; a supporter, a maintainer; a person or thing of great consequence.
 Pillared (adj. from pillar) Having the form of a pillar, supported by a pillar.
 Pillaster (s. not so common a spelling) A pilaster, a small kind of pillar. Pbhillips.
 Pilaw (s. in cookery) A dish of rice dressed after the manner of the Turks.
 Pill (p. from pill) Robbed, stripped, having the wool torn off. Bailey.
 Pilled (p. an obsolete spelling) Thin, bald, peeled. Chaucer.
 Pillage (p. a. from pill) Plundering, robbing. John.
 Pillion (s. from pillow) A soft saddle set behind a horseman for a woman to ride on; a pad, a low saddle; the pad of the saddle.
 Pillir (s. an obsolete spelling) A pillar. Chaucer.
 Pilliris (s. plu. obsolete) Pillars. Chaucer.
 Pillors (s. an old word) Robbers. Cole.
 Pilloried (p. from pillory) Put in the pillory.
 PILLORY (s. from the French) A kind of scaffold erected on a pillar on which criminals are put by way of punishment; a pillar with the arms of the lord of the manor formerly set up in some public place to distinguish the lordship.
 Pillory (v. t. from the sub.) To put in the pillory; to punish with the pillory.
 PILLOSE/LA (s. in botany) The name of a plant, a species of hieracium.
 Pillow (s. obsolete) One that pillages. Chaucer.
 Pillow (s. from the Dutch palewe) A bag of down or feathers laid under the head for ease to sleep on.
 PLOW (v. t. from the sub.) To rest any thing on a pillow.
 Pillowbear (s. from pillow) The cover of a pillow, a pillow case.
 Pillowcase (s. from pillow, and case) The cover of a pillow.
 PLOWED (p. from pillow) Rested on a pillow, laid on a pillow.
 PLOWING (p. a. from pillow) Laying on a pillow.
 PLOUSITY (s. from pile) Hairiness, the state of being covered with pile.
 PILOT (s. from the French pilote) He whose office it is to steer the ship into and out of the harbour.
 Pilot (v. t. from the sub.) To steer, to direct in the course.
 Pilotage (s. from pilot) The skill of a pilot, knowledge of the coast; the hire of the pilot.
 Piloted (p. from pilot) Steered, guided in the course.
 Piloting (p. a. from pilot) Steering, guiding a ship into or out of a harbour.
 Pilifer (s. in the history of insects) A kind of moth, an insect that frequently flies into the flame of a candle.
 PILULA (s. from the Lat.) A pill, a little ball.
 PILULARIA (s. in botany) The marílea.
 PILIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. pilula a pill, and fero to bear) Bearing berries, bearing fruit like hills.
 PILUM (s. in antiquity) Any shaft of wood armed with iron; a javelin, a dart; a pestle, the instrument with which any thing is broken in a mortar.
 PILUMNUS (s. in heathen mythology) The god who was supposed to preside over the education of children.
 Piment (s. obsolete) A drink made of wine, honey and spices. Chaucer.
 PIMENTA (s. from the French piment) A kind of aromatic spice, Jamaica pepper.
 PIMENTO (s. a different spelling) The Jamaica pepper.
 PIMP (s. from the French pimper) A procurer, a pandar, one that provides for the criminal gratifications of others.
 Pimp (v. int. from the sub.) To procure, to pandar, to provide for the criminal gratifications of others.
 PIMPENEL (s. in botany) The burnet.
 PIMPINELLA (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
 Pimping (p. a. from pimp) Acting the part of a pimp.
 Pimping (adj. from pimp) Small, little, petty.
 PIMPLA (s. in the mythology of the poets) A mountain of Boeotia sacred to the Muses.
 PIMPLAEA (s. from Pimplea) One of the Muses; a mountain sacred to the Muses.
 PIMPLE (s. from the French pimplette) A small red bubble.
 PIMPLEA (s. in antiquity) The name of a mountain in Macedonia where was a fountain sacred to the Muses.
 Pimplean (adj. from Pimplea) Belonging to Pimplea.

P I N

Pimpled (adj. from pimple) Full of pimples.
 Pimpleades (s. from Pimplea) One of the names of the Muses.
 PIMP/POMPET (s.) A kind of antic dance.
 Pimp/whisking (s. a cant word) An arch pimp; a merry spirited fellow. Scott.
 PIN (s. of uncertain derivation) A short wire with a sharp point and round head, a peg, any thing driven to hold the parts together, any slender thing fixed in another body, the peg by which the strings of a musical instrument are put in tune, an instrument used in making paste; any thing of trifling value; a speck in the eye, a noxious humour in the foot of a hawk; a note, a strain. "Upon the peewish pin." L'Estrange.
 Pin (v. t. from the sub.) To fasten with pins, to join, to fix. To pin down, to confine to a bargain.
 PIN (v. t. from the Sax. penden) To shut up, to inclose, to confine. Hooker.
 Pin/aunt (s. obsolete) One that pines away for hunger. Chaucer.
 Pin/cafe (s. from pin, and cafe) A cafe to keep pins in.
 PIN/CERS (s. from the French pincette) An instrument by which nails are drawn; the claw of an animal.
 PINCH (v. t. from the French pincer) To squeeze between the fingers, to hold hard with an instrument, to squeeze between two hard bodies; to gripe, to oppress, to distress, to pain, to drive to difficulty.
 Pinch (v. int.) To act with force, to bear hard upon; to spare, to go near, to be frugal.
 Pinch (s. from the verb) A painful squeeze, a gripe; difficulty, distress, oppression, a time of trial.
 PINCH/BECK (s. from the name of the inventor) A compound metal resembling gold.
 Pinchbeck (adj. from the sub.) Made of pinchbeck.
 Pinch/ed (p. from pinch) Squeezed, griped, oppressed, put to difficulty.
 Pinch/er (s. from pinch) One that pinches.
 Pinch/fist (s. from pinch, and fist) A miser.
 Pinch/in (v. t. obsolete) To banter, to jeer. Chaucer.
 Pinch/ing (p. a. from pinch) Squeezing between the fingers, squeezing between two hard bodies; gripping, oppressing, driving to difficulty; near, covetous.
 Pinch/ing (s. from the part.) The act of squeezing between two hard bodies; a method of pruning performed by nipping off the young shoots.
 Pinch/penny (s. from pinch, and penny) A miser, a covetous man.
 Pin/cod (s. from pin, and cod, but now out of use) A pincushion. Cole.
 Pin/cushion (s. from pin, and cushion) A small cushion or stuffed bag to stick pins in.
 PIN/DAR (s.) The name of a man, a famous Greek poet.
 Pindar/ic (adj. from Pindar) Composed after the manner of Pindar, imitating the strains of Pindar.
 Pindar/ic (s. from the adj.) An ode composed after the manner of Pindar, an irregular kind of ode.
 Pinde (adj. obsolete) Afflicted, pained, starved. Chaucer.
 PINDUS (s. in ancient geography) A mountain of Arcadia sacred to the Muses.
 Pin/duft (s. from pin, and dust) Small particles of metal which fly off in making pins.
 PINE (v. int. from the Sax. pinian) To languish, to languish with desire, to wear away with any kind of affliction.
 Pine (v. t.) To make to languish, to wear out; to grieve for, to bemoan in secret.
 PINE (s. in botany, from the Lat. pinus) The name of a tree, a kind of fir; the name of a plant producing a delicious kind of fruit.
 Pine (s. obsolete) Pain, difficulty; a pit. Chaucer.
 PINE/A (s. in natural history) The porous masses composed of mercury and silver dust found in the mines of Chili.
 Pine/al (adj. from pine) Resembling a pine apple. "The pineal gland," a remarkable gland in the brain resembling a pine apple, supposed by some to be the seat of the soul.
 Pine/apple (s. from pine, and apple) The fruit of the pine, a delicious fruit said to have the relish of all other fruits.
 Pine/branch (s. from pine, and branch) The branch of the pinetree.
 Pine/bud (s. from pine, and bud) The young shoot of the pinetree.
 Pined (p. from pine) Sunk, weakened, starved.
 Pine/tree (s. from pine, and tree) The pine, a kind of fir. Pin/leather

PIN

Pin'feather (s. from pin, and feather) A feather just as it begins to shoot.

Pin'feathered (adj. from the sub.) Unfledged, having feathers just beginning to shoot.

Pin'fold (s. from pin, and fold) A place in which cattle are confined.

Pin'gle (s. a local word) A small piece of inclosed land.

Pingue'denize (v. t. from pinguedo, but not used) To make fat.

Pingue'dinous (adj. from pinguedo) Fat.

PINGUE'DO (s. in anatomy) The fat lying next under the skin.

PIN'GUEFY (v. t. from the Lat. pinguis fat, and facio to make, but not used) To make fat.

PINGUIC'ULA (s. in botany) The butterwort.

Pin'guid (adj. from pinguedo, but not much used) Fat, unctuous.

PIN'GUIN (s. in botany) The anonas.

PIN'GUITY (s. from the Lat. pinguis fat, but not used) Fatness.

Pin'hole (s. from pin, and hole) A small hole, a hole made by a pin.

PINIF'EROUS (adj. from the Lat. pinus a pine, and fero to bear) Bearing pines.

Pin'in (v. t. obsolete) To put to pain, to afflict. Chaucer.

PIN'ION (s. from the French pignon) The first joint or tip of the wing; the wing; a quill, a feather of the wing; the tooth of a small wheel answering to that of a larger; fetters for the hands.

Pin'ion (v. t. from the sub.) To bind the wings, to take off the first joint of the wing; to confine, to shackle; to confine by binding the elbows to the sides, to bind to.

Pin'ioned (p. from pinion) Confined, shackled, deprived of the first joint of the wing.

Pin'ioning (p. a. from pinion) Depriving of the first joint of the wing, binding, confining.

PINIPIN'ICHI (s. in medicine) The juice of a tree brought from India, a powerful cathartic.

PINK (s. in botany, from the Dutch pink an eye) The name of a fragrant flower, a small kind of carnation.

Pink (s. from the foregoing) A kind of faint scarlet or blush colour, a colour used in painting.

Pink (adj. from the sub.) Coloured with a faint kind of scarlet, having the colour of a pink.

PINK (s. a sea term, from the French pinque) A kind of heavy narrow sterned vessel.

PINK (s. in ichthyology) The minnow.

Pink (adj. from the sub. generally applied to the eye) Small. "Plumfy Bacchus with pink eye." Shakes.

Pink (v. t. from the Dutch pink an eye) To pierce with small holes, to work in oyletholes.

Pink (v. int.) To wink with the eyes.

Pink'ed (p. from pink) Pierced with small holes, wrought in oyletholes.

Pink'ing (p. a. from pink) Piercing with small holes, working in oyletholes, winking with the eyes.

Pink'ing (s. from the part.) The act of piercing with small holes; the act of winking.

Pin'maker (s. from pin, and make) One who makes pins.

Pin'money (s. from pin, and money) Money allowed to a wife for her own private expences.

PIN'NA (s. in natural history) A pin; the feather of a bird's wing, a kind of shell fish.

PIN'NA (s. in anatomy) The broad part of the ear, the lateral and inferior part of the nose.

PIN'NA (s. from the Lat.) A turret; a fortification.

PIN'NACE (s. a sea term) A boat belonging to a ship of war; a small sloop.

PIN'NACLE (s. from the Lat. pinna) A turret or elevation above the rest of a building; a high spiring point.

Pin'næ (s. the plu. of pinna) The sides of the nose.

PIN'NÆMARI'NÆ (s. in natural history) The larger kind of muscles.

PINNA'TA (adj. in botany) Pinnated.

Pin'nated (adj. from pinnata) Having the form of a wing, having two rows of smaller leaves annexed to the two sides of the petiole or common stalk which unites the whole leaf to the branch.

PINNA'TIFID (adj. from the Lat. pinnatus winged, and fendo to cleave) Having the leaves divided and set on in the form of a wing.

Pin'ne (s. in falconry) A disease in the foot of a hawk.

Pin'ned (p. from pin) Fastened with a pin.

Pin'ner (s. from pin) The lappet of a head-dress; a pinmaker.

PINNIG'EROUS (adj. from the Lat. pinna a fin, and fero to bear, but not used) Having fins.

Pin'ning (p. a. from pin) Fastening with a pin.

PIQ

Pin'nion (s. an uncommon spelling) pinion.

PIN'NOCK (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird, the tomtit.

PI'NON (s. from the Heb. signifying a pearl) A man's name.

PINOPH'YLAX (s. from the Greek πιννα a shell and φολασσω to keep) A little shell fish which attends on the naker and shares in her prey.

PIN'SON (s. from the Lat. pinso to stamp, but not used) A kind of shoes, a pump.

PIN'SOR (s. from the Lat. pinso to knead, but not used) A baker.

PINT (s. from the Sax.) A liquid measure, half a quart twelve ounces with physicians.

PINTA'DO (s. in ornithology) A kind of American pheasant.

Pin'tel (s. a different spelling) The pintle.

Pin'tle (s. in gunnery) The iron pin that keeps the gun from recoiling.

Pin'tle (s. a sea term) The hook by which the rudder hangs to the sternpost.

Pin'tle (s. a local word) The penis.

Pin'tledlypant'ledly (adv. a cant word) With palpitation.

Pin'tlepan'tle (adv. a local word) With palpitation.

PIN'ULE (s. in astronomy) The sight of an astralabe.

PINUS (s. in botany) The pinetree.

PIONEER (s. from the French pionier) One who is employed in levelling woods, throwing up works or sinking mines in military operations.

PIONIE'R (s. a different spelling) A pioneer.

Pioning (s. obsolete) The works of pioneers.

PI'ONY (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the sum of a flower.

PI'OUS (adj. from the Lat. pius) Godly, religious due to sacred things; dutiful to relations; practising under a pretence of piety.

Pi'ously (adv. from pious) With piety, with religion with such a regard as is due to sacred things.

Pi'oufness (s. from pious) The state of being pious.

PIP (s. perhaps from the Lat. pipio to cry) A different incident to fowls; a spot on a card; the leaf of a monoptalous flower.

Pip (v. int.) To cry as a chick, to chirp as a bird.

Pipa'tion (s. from pip) The act of crying, a weeping.

PIPE (s. from the Sax.) A tube, a long hollow body a tube through which the smoke of tobacco is drawn into the mouth, an instrument of music blown with the breath and plaid with the fingers, the organs of respiration, the key or tone of the voice, an office of the exchequer.

Pipe (s. from the French) A cask containing two hog heads.

Pipe (v. t.) To utter with a shrill voice, to play tune on the pipe.

Pipe (v. int. from the sub.) To play on a pipe, to utter a shrill voice.

Pi'ped (p. from pipe) Played on the pipe, uttered with a shrill voice.

Pipe'office (s. from pipe, and office) An office in the exchequer.

Pi'per (s. not so common a spelling) Paper.

Pi'per (s. from pipe) One that plays on a pipe.

PIP'EREDGE (s. in botany) The barberry.

Pi'peredgetree (s. in botany) The barberrytree.

Pi'perine (adj. from piper) Having the prevailing qualities of pepper.

PIPE'RITIS (s. in botany) The pepperwort.

Pi'petree (s. in botany) The lilac.

Pi'ping (p. a. from pipe) Playing on the pipe, uttering a shrill voice.

Pi'ping (adj. a colloquial word) Weak, feeble; boiling.

Pi'ping (s. from the adj.) The act of playing on the pipe, the utterance of a shrill voice.

Pip'kin (s. the diminutive of pipe) A small earthen boiler.

PIP'PIN (s. from the Dutch puppynghe) The name of an apple.

Piq'quancy (s. from piquant) The state of being piquant.

PIQUANT (adj. from the French) Sharp, pungent, stimulating, severe, piercing.

Pi'quantly (adv. from piquant) Sharply, with quancy.

PI'QUE (s. from the French) An ill will, a petty violence; a strong passion, an ardent desire; a piquety, a punctilio.

Pi'que (v. t. from the sub.) To put into a fret, to end, to irritate. "To pique one's self upon," to value one's self, to fix one's reputation as on a point.

P I S

 PIQUE (p. from pique) Put into a fret, offended.
 PIQUEER (s. a different spelling) To pickeer, to plunder.
 PIQUEER (s. from piqueer) A robber, a plunderer.
 PIQUEERING (p. a. from piqueer) Robbing, plundering.
 PIQUEERING (p. a. from pique) Putting into a fret, irritating.
 PIQUEON (s. an old word) A dart, a javelin. Cole.
 PIQUET (s. from the French piquet) A noted game at cards.
 PIQUET (s. a military term) A punishment inflicted on soldiers in which they are made to stand or lean with the bare foot on a sharp pointed stick.
 PIQUET (v. t. from the sub.) To punish by setting the foot on a pointed stick and tying up the hand to a beam over the head.
 PIQUETED (p. from piquet) Made to stand on a pointed stick with the hand tied to a beam over the head.
 PIQUETING (p. a. from piquet) Placing on the piquet by way of punishment.
 PIQUETTE (s. with florists) A beautiful kind of carnation.
 PIRACY (s. from pirate) The act or practice of robbing on the sea.
 PYRAMID (s. not a common spelling) A pyramid. Cole.
 RATE (s. from the Greek πειρασ to put in danger) One that robs on the sea, an armed vessel roving in quest of plunder; a robber, a bookseller who seizes the copy of another person.
 RATE (v. int. from the sub.) To take by robbery.
 RATE (v. t.) To rob on the sea.
 RATE (s. obsolete) Perry. Chaucer.
 RATED (p. from pirate) Taken by robbery.
 RATHON (s. from the Heb. signifying dissipation) The name of a city. Judges.
 RATHONITE (s. from Pirathon) An inhabitant of Pirathon.
 RATHONICAL (adj. from pirate) Robbing, consisting in robbery.
 RATHONING (p. a. from pirate) Robbing on the sea, seizing on another man's copy.
 RATHON (v. int. obsolete) To turn about. Chaucer.
 RE'NE (s. with the ancient poets) The fountain at the foot of Parnassus supposed to have been opened by a stroke of Pegasus's foot and consecrated to the Muses.
 RE'NEAN (adj. from Pirene) Belonging to the famous fountain at the foot of Parnassus.
 RITHOUS (s. in the mythology of the poets) The intimate friend of Theseus who was said to have been torn in pieces by Cerberus.
 ROULET (s. in the manage) The circumvolution which a horse makes without changing his ground.
 ROULETTE (s. in the manage) The piroet.
 ROULETTE (s. obsolete) Precious stones. Chaucer.
 RUS (s. in botany, from the Lat.) The peartree.
 SA (s. in ancient geography) A district of the Peloponnesus in which the Olympic games were celebrated.
 SANDER (s.) A man's name; one of Penelope's suitors.
 SANCARIA (s. in old records) The liberty of fishing in another man's water.
 SCARY (s. from the Lat. piscis a fish) The privilege of fishing. Johnson.
 SCATION (s. from the Lat. piscis a fish) The act of fishing. Brown.
 SCATORY (adj. from the Lat. piscis a fish) Relating to fishes.
 SCATRIX (s. in ichthyology) A kind of sea frog.
 SCES (s. in astronomy) One of the twelve signs of the zodiac.
 SCICLE (s. from the Lat. piscis a fish) A little fish. Cole.
 SCINAL (adj. from the Lat. piscis a fish) Belonging to a fishpond.
 SCINA (s. in antiquity) A large basin or little pool of water in the midst of a public square; a kind of lavatory.
 SCINARIUS (s. in old records) The owner of a fish pond; a fishmonger.
 SCINE (s. obsolete) A fishpool. Chaucer.
 SCISAUTRALIS (s. in astronomy) A small constellation of the southern hemisphere.
 SCISVOLANS (s. in astronomy) A constellation of the southern hemisphere.
 SCIVOROUS (adj. from the Lat. piscis a fish, and vorare to devour) Eating fish, living on fish.
 SCULENT (adj. from the Lat. piscis a fish, but not used) Fishy, capable of being fished. Cole.

P I T

PISGAH (s. from the Heb.) The name of a hill on the borders of Canaan.
 PISH (interj.) Implying contempt.
 PISH (v. int. from the interj.) To express contempt; with at; as, "He pished at every line of it."
 PISH (s. from the interj.) An expression of contempt. "With pishes, and pishaws." Spectator.
 PISHING (p. a. from pish) Expressing contempt.
 PISIDIA (s. in ancient geography) A province in the Lesser Asia.
 PISIMIRE (s. from the Dutch piscire) An ant, an emet.
 PISON (s. from the Heb. signifying extended) One of the rivers of paradise.
 PISONIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 PISS (v. int. from the French pisser) To make water, to void urine.
 PIS (s. from the verb) Urine, animal water.
 PISABED (s. in botany) The dandelion, the flower of the dandelion. Johnson.
 PISASPHALT (s. from pissasphaltus) Pissasphaltus, a kind of mixture of pitch and bitumen.
 PISSASPHALTUM (s. a different spelling) The pissasphaltus.
 PISSASPHALTUS (s. in natural history) A kind of mineral consisting of a mixture of pitch and bitumen, a mixture of pitch and brimstone.
 PISBURNED (adj. from piss, and burn) Stained with urine, having a colour as though stained with urine.
 PISSELÆON (s. in natural history) A kind of mineral bitumen.
 PISSELÆUM (s. a different spelling) The pisselæon.
 PISLING (p. a. from piss) Making water, voiding urine.
 PISHPOT (s. from piss, and pot) A chamber pot.
 PISSOCEROS (s. in natural history) A kind of wax made by bees; a composition of pitch and wax.
 PISUPPRESS (s. in farriery) The suppression of urine in a horse. Cole.
 PISTAC (s. a contraction of pistachio) The pistachio. Cole.
 PISTACHIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants; the pistachio. Dict. of Arts.
 PISTACHIO (s. the more common spelling) A kind of aromatic nut imported from Egypt reckoned a great restorative; the plant that produces the nut.
 PISTACHIONUT (s. from pistachio, and nut) The fruit of the pistachio.
 PISTACHOE (s. in botany, a different spelling) The pistachio. Phillips.
 PISTACNUT (s. from pistac, and nut) The fruit of the pistachio. Cole.
 PISTACOE (s. an incorrect spelling) The pistachio. Cole.
 PISTACENUT (s. an incorrect spelling) The pistachio. Cole.
 PISTE (s. in the manage) The track of a horse's foot on the ground.
 PISTIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 PISTICK (adj. from the Lat. pistus, but not used) Bruised, beaten as in a mortar. Cole.
 PISTIL (s. in botany, from the Lat. pistillum) The female organ of generation in plants.
 Pistill (s. obsolete) An epistle. Chaucer.
 PISTILLATION (s. from the Lat. pistillum) The act of pounding in a mortar.
 PISTILLUM (s. from the Lat.) A pestle, the instrument used to break any thing in a mortar.
 Pistle (s. obsolete) An epistle. Chaucer.
 PISTOL (s. from the French pistolet) A short small hand gun.
 PISTOL (v. t. from the sub.) To shoot with a pistol.
 Pistola/do (s. from pistol) A pistol shot. Cole.
 PISTOLE (s. from the French) A foreign coin of different values in different countries.
 Pistoled (p. from pistol) Shot with a pistol.
 Pistolet (s. the diminutive of pistol) A small pistol.
 Pistoling (p. a. from pistol) Shooting with a pistol.
 PISTOLOCHIA (s. in botany) The hartwort.
 PISTON (s. from the French) The embolus, the moveable part in a pump or other machine of the like construction.
 PISTOR (s. in heathen mythology) A name of Jupiter.
 PISTORIAN (adj. from the Lat. piso to knead, but not used) Belonging to a baker, belonging to baking. Cole.
 Pistorical (adj. from pistorian) Belonging to a baker. Co.
 Pistrine (s. in old records) A mill, a bakehouse; a prison. Cole.
 PISTRIX (s. in ichthyology) A kind of whale.
 PISTRIX (s. in old records) A mill, a grinding house.
 PISUM (s. in botany) A kind of pulse, peas.
 PIT (s. from the Sax.) A hole in the ground, an abyss, a profundity; any hollow part of the body; a dint made made by the finger; the grave; the area on which cocks fight, the middle part of the theatre.

PIT

Pit (v. t. from the sub.) To put to fight as cocks on the area.

Pit (v. int.) To sink in hollows.

Pit'apat (adv. a cant word) With palpitations, with light quick steps. "My heart went pitapat."

Pit'apat (s. from the adv.) A palpitation, a flutter; a light quick step. "I bear the pitapat of a pretty foot."

PIT'ANCE (s. from the French) A pittance, something more than the common allowance. Scott.

Pit'ance (s. an obsolete spelling) A pittance, an allowance for a meal. Chaucer.

PITCH (s. from the Lat. pix) The resin of the pine.

Pitch (v. t. from the sub.) To cover over with pitch; to darken.

PITCH (s. from the French piets) Any degree of height, a degree of elevation; degree, rate; size, stature.

PITCH (v. t. from the Italian appiciare) To fix, to plant; to order with regularity; to lay with stones put end-wife; to throw headlong, to cast forward.

Pitch (v. int.) To light, to drop; to fall headlong; to fix a choice, to fix a tent; with on or upon; as, "He pitched on that side." "To pitch upon one thing after another."

Pitch'ed (p. from pitch) Fixed, planted; thrown forward; smeared over with pitch.

PITCH'ER (s. from the French) An earthen vessel, a water pot; an instrument to pierce the ground in order to fix any thing; an iron bar pointed at the end.

Pitch'fork (s. from pitch and fork) A pike, a fork used in husbandry.

Pitch'iness (s. from pitchy) Blackness, darkness, the resemblance of pitch.

Pitch'ing (p. a. from pitch) Fixing, dropping, lighting on; throwing headlong, falling headlong; choosing, fixing on by way of choice; smearing over with pitch; laying with stones end wife.

Pitch'ing (s. from the part.) The act of laying with stones end wife, the ground laid with stones end wife.

Pitch'ingpence (s. pl. of pitchingpenny) The money paid for a stall in a fair or market.

Pitch'ingpenny (s. from pitching, and penny) The money paid for a stall in a fair or market.

Pitch'y (adj. from pitch) Smeared with pitch, having the qualities of pitch; black, dark, dismal.

Pit'coal (s. from pit, and coal) Coal dug out of a pit, fossil coal.

Pit'ence (s. an obsolete spelling) A pittance. Chaucer.

Pit'eous (adj. from pity) Exciting pity, sorrowful, mournful; wretched, paltry; tender, compassionate.

Pit'eously (adv. from piteous) In a piteous manner.

Pit'eousness (s. from piteous) The state of being piteous.

Pit'fall (s. from pit, and fall) A pit dug in the earth and covered over in order to entrap.

PITH (s. from the Dutch pitte) The marrow of a plant, the marrow; the chief part, the quintessence, strength, force, weight, moment; but these senses are now become local.

PITH'EAS (s. in astronomy) A kind of comet. Phil.

Pith'ian (adj. not so correct a spelling) Pythian. Cole.

PITH'IAS (s. in astronomy) A kind of comet, the pithias. Scott.

Pith'ily (adv. from pithy) With energy, with pithiness.

Pith'iness (s. from pithy) Strength, energy, fulness, comprehensiveness.

PITH'ITES (s. in astronomy) A kind of comet, the pithias.

Pith'less (adj. from pith) Wanting pith; wanting energy.

PIT'THO (s. in heathen mythology) The supposed goddess of eloquence.

PIT'THOM (s. from the Heb. signifying the opening of the mouth) The name of a city. Exod.

Pith'y (adj. from pith) Consisting of pith, strong, energetic.

Pit'iable (adj. from pity) Deserving pity.

Pit'ied (p. from pity) Commiserated, compassionate.

Pit'iful (adj. from pity) Tender, compassionate; melancholy, moving compassion; paltry, contemptible.

Pit'ifully (adv. from pitiful) Mournfully, in a manner moving compassion; contemptibly; despicably.

Pit'ifulness (s. from pitiful) Tenderness, mercy; meanness, despicableness.

Pit'iless (adv. from pitiless) Without pity. Johnson.

Pit'ilessness (s. from pitiless) Unmercifulness. Johns.

PLA

Pit'iless (adj. from pity) Wanting pity, merciless.

Pit'ous (adj. obsolete) Piteous. Chaucer.

Pit'ously (adv. from pitous, obsolete) Piteously.

PITTA'CIUM (s. in surgery) A small plaister.

PIT'TACUS (s.) The name of a man, one of the seven wise men of Greece.

PIT'TANCE (s. from the French pittance) A small portion, a small portion of victuals, a short allowance.

Pittan'ia (s. in old records) A pittance, a small portion of victuals.

Pit'ted (p. from pit) Sunk in hollows, put on the area as a cock to fight.

PIT'TENWEEM (s.) A parliament town in Scotland.

PIT'THAUNAW (s. in ornithology) A kind of American eagle.

Pit'ting (p. a. from pit) Sinking in hollows, putting on the area as cocks to fight.

Pit'ting (s. from the part.) The act of putting cocks to fight on the pit; the state of being sunk in hollows.

PITU'ITA (s. from the Lat.) Phlegm, rheum.

PITU'ITA'RIA (s. in botany) The slaves curfe.

PITU'ITA'RIA (s. in anatomy) A certain gland in the brain.

Pituitary (adj. from pituitaria) Belonging to the pituitaria.

Pit'uite (s. from pituita) Pituita, phlegm.

Pituitous (adj. from pituita) Consisting of phlegm.

Pituitousness (s. from pituitous) The state of being pituitous.

PITY (s. from the French pitié) Compassion, sympathy with one in distress, a ground of compassion, a subject of grief; in this sense it has sometimes a plural; as, "is a thousand pities it should be discountenanced." Sh.

Pit'y (v. t. from the sub.) To compassionate, to regard with tenderness.

Pit'y (v. int.) To have compassion.

Pit'ying (p. a. from pity) Compassionating, regarding with pity.

Pit'yis (s. from pitys) The kernel of the pine apple.

PITYLIS/MA (s. from the Greek πτυλος an agitation) method of walking on the toes, and swinging the arms backwards and forwards.

PITYOCAM'PA (s. in the history of insects) A worm which breeds in the pine tree and is reckoned verminous.

PITYRI'ASIS (s. from the Greek πτυρος bran) The scurf that falls from the head, a kind of disease in which the scurf falls off the head.

PITYROIDES (s. from the Greek πτυρος bran, and a shape) A kind of sediment in urine resembling bran.

PIT'YRON (s. from the Greek) The scurf of the head, resembling bran; bran, gurgeons.

PIT'YS (s. in botany from the Greek) The pine tree.

PITYU'SA (s. in botany) The name of an herb, a kind of spurge.

Pi'u (adv. in music) With a little more force.

PIV'A (s. from the Italian) The hautboy.

PIV'AT (s. a different spelling) A pivot. Diff. of PIV'OT (s. from the French) The sharpened point of a perpendicular wheel performs its revolution.

PIX (s. from the Lat. pixis) A little chest, the vessel in which the consecrated host is kept in Roman catholic countries.

PIX (s. in natural history) A kind of fossil pitch.

Piz'zie (s. probably from piss) The penis of an animal.

Placabil'ity (s. from placable) A disposition to be appeased, the possibility of being appeased.

PLA/CABLE (adj. from the Lat. placeo to please) Willing to be appeased, capable of being appeased.

Placableness (s. from placable) Placability.

PLA'CAERT (s. from placeo, but not so common a spelling) A plakaert, a proclamation by the states of Holland.

Pla'caet (s. a different spelling) A proclamation by the states of Holland.

PLACA'RD (s. from the French) An edict, a manifesto.

PLACA'RF (s. a different spelling) A placard, an edict, a manifesto.

PLA'CATE (v. t. from the Lat. placeo to please) To please, to reconcile.

Pla'cated (p. from placate) Appeased, reconciled.

Pla'cating (p. a. from placate, in the Scotch dialect) Appeasing, reconciling.

PLACE (s. from the Lat. platea a wide space) Space, particular portion of space; a separate room, a mansion; a rank, an order; an office, a public charge, a public employment; a state of being, a passage, writing, a part or portion of a book; a fortification, fortified town.

Place (v. t. from the sub.) To put, to fix; to put in order to regulate; to establish, to put out to interest.

P L A

ed (p. from place) Put into some place, settled, ordered, fixed.
 CENTA (s. in anatomy, from the Lat. signifying a re) The soft spongy substance from which the child receives its nourishment in the womb.
 CENTA (s. in botany) The seed vessel.
 er (s. from place) One that places.
 id (s. from the Lat. placidus) Gentle, quiet; soft, mild.
 idity (s. from placid, but not much used) The state of being placid. Cole.
 idly (adv. from placid) Gently, mildly.
 idness (s. from placid) The state of being placid. Sc.
 ing (p. a. from place) Putting into a place, setting order, fixing.
 ing (s. from place) The act of putting into place, the act of fixing in a proper place.
 CIT (s. from the Lat. placitum) A decree, a determination. Gianville.
 CITA (s. a law term) A plea.
 ta're (v. int. a law term) To plead, to please much.
 ta'tor (s. a law term) A pleader.
 CITUM (s. a law term, from the Lat.) A sentence, decree.
 et (s. a different spelling) A plaquet, a petticoat.
 ff. (s. a different spelling) A plaid, a kind of variegated cloth. Pbills.
 DAROMA (s. from the Greek πλάσμος; moist) Excessive weakness arising from too great a degree of moisture; a little soft swelling under the eye lid.
 DAROSIS (s. from the Greek) A small soft swelling under the eye lids.
 DAROTES (s. a different spelling) The pladarosis.
 FOND (s. in architecture) The ceiling of a room, the lower member of a cornice.
 found (s. a different spelling) The plafond. Scott.
 GA (s. from the Lat.) A country, a climate; a blow, wound. Pbills.
 ges (s. obsolete) Regions, climates. Chaucer. iarism (s. from plagiary) A literary theft, the practice of taking thoughts or expressions from another.
 GIARY s. from the Lat. plagium, the crime of buying Scott.
things that belonged to another master) A thief in literature, one that clandestinely borrows the thoughts or expressions of another; literary theft, plagiarism. Brown.
 GIURI (s. in ichthyology) A genus or class of fishes, comprehending all those which have their tails placed horizontally.
 GUE (s. from the Greek πλῆγη a stroke) The pestilence, a disease eminently contagious and destructive; anything more than commonly troublesome, a state of misery.
 ne (v. t. from the sub.) To infect with the pestilence; vex, to torment.
 qued (p. from plague) Vexed, troubled, tormented.
 quewater (s. from plague, and water) A compound water sold in the shops.
 quily (adv. from plague, used in low or droll style) Excessively, horribly.
 quing (p. a. from plague) Vexing, tormenting.
 quy (adj. from plague, used in low or droll style) Vexatious, troublesome, horrible.
 ICE (s. in ichthyology) The name of a flat fish.
 ID (s. the derivation is not noted) A kind of checked cloth much worn in Scotland, the dress of a Highlander. Scott.
 id (adj. from the sub.) Checkered, variegated in stuff.
 leur (s. an old law term) An attorney who pleaded the cause of his client, an advocate. Pbills.
 (s. an obsolete spelling) Play. Chaucer.
 IN (adj. from the Lat. planus) Smooth, level, flat; simple, void of ornament; artless, void of artifice; neat, open, sincere; mere, bare; evident, clear.
 (s. from the a. l.) A level ground, an open flat country; the field of battle; a square of a different colour in the point of the field in heraldry.
 (adv. from the adj.) Without obscurity, distinctly; simply, with rough sincerity.
 (v. t. from the adj.) To make level, to make even.
 (v. int. now grown obsolete) To lament, to wail. Sid.
 dealing (s. from plain, and dealing) The act of dealing plainly, management without art.
 dealing (adj. from the sub.) Acting without art.
 (v. int. obsolete) To wail. Chaucer.
 ed (p. from plain) Made even, made smooth.
 er (adj. comp. of plain) Plain in a greater degree.
 est (adj. sup. of plain) Plain in the greatest degree.
 ing (p. a. from plain) Making level, making plain.

P L A

Plain'ing (p. a. from plain, nearly obsolete) Lamenting, wailing. Sidney.
 Plain'ing (s. from the part.) A complaint. Shakes.
 Plain'liche (adv. obsolete) Plainly. Chaucer.
 Plain'lier (adv. from plainly) More plainly. Milton.
 Plain'ly (adv. from plain) With levelness, with openness, with perspicuity.
 Plain'ness (s. from plain) Levelness, flatness, simplicity, want of art, want of ornament; openness, sincerity.
 Plaint (s. from the French plainte) A complaint, a lamentation, an expression of grief.
 Plaint'ful (adj. from plaint) Complaining, expressing sorrow.
 Plaint'if (s. not so common a spelling) A plaintiff.
 PLAIN'TIFF (s. from the French plaintif) One that commences a suit in law against another, the party that opposes the defendant.
 Plaint'iff (adj. from the sub. but not in use) Complaining.
 Plaint'is (s. obsolete) Complaints. Prior.
 Plaint'ive (adj. from plaint) Complaining, lamenting, expressing sorrow. Chaucer.
 Plain'tree (s. in botany) The platanus, the planetree.
 Plain'work (s. from plain, and work) Plain needlework as distinguished from embroidery.
 Plais'ter (s. not so correct a spelling) A plaster. Scott.
 Plais'tier (v. t. not so correct a spelling) To plaster.
 Plais'tered (p. from plaster, but not so correct a spelling) Plastered.
 Plais'terer (s. from plaster, but not so correct a spelling) A plasterer. Scott.
 Plais'tering (p. a. from plaster, but not so correct a spelling) Plastering.
 PLAIT (s. from the French pli) A fold, a double in a garment.
 Plait (v. t. from the sub.) To fold, to double; to weave, to braid; to involve, to entangle.
 Plait'ed (p. from plait) Folded, doubled, made up with plaits, braided, involved.
 Plait'er (s. from plait) One that plaits.
 Plait'ing (p. a. from plait) Folding, doubling, braiding, involving.
 Plait'ing (s. from the part.) The act of folding, the act of making up with plaits, that part of a garment which is made up in plaits.
 PLAN (s. from the French) A scheme, a form; the plot or model of a building.
 Plan (v. t. from the sub.) To scheme, to form in design.
 Plan'ary (adj. from plane, but not much used) Belonging to a plane. Johnson.
 Plan'ce're (s. in architecture) A member of a cornice, the under part of the corona. Scott.
 Planch (v. t. from plancher) To lay with boards. Johnson.
 Planch'ed (p. from planch) Laid with boards, made of boards.
 PLANCH'ER (s. from the French) A board, a planch.
 Planch'ia (s. in old records) A board, a plank.
 Planch'ier (s. a different spelling) The plancere, the under part of the corona. Dict. of Arts.
 Planch'ing (p. a. from planch) Laying with boards, making with boards.
 Planch'ing (s. from the part.) The act of laying with boards; a floor laid with boards.
 PLANE (s. a geometrical term, from the Lat. planus plain) A level surface.
 Plane (adj. from the sub. a geometrical term) Plain, even.
 PLANE (s. from the French) An instrument to make the surface even.
 Plane (v. t. from the sub.) To make level, to smooth the surface; to smooth with a plane.
 Plan'ed (p. from plane) Made level, smoothed with a plane.
 PLAN'ET (s. from the Greek πλανῶν to wander) A wandering star, one of the heavenly bodies in our system which move round and receive light from the sun.
 Planeta'rium (s. from planet) A machine or instrument to shew the motions and distances of the planets.
 Plan'etary (adj. from planet) Belonging to the planets, having the nature of a planet, influenced by, the planets.
 Planet'ical (adj. from planet) Pertaining to the planets. Brown.
 PLA'NETREE (s. in botany) The name of a fine tall tree.
 Plan'etstruck (adj. from planet, and struck) Blasted.
 PLANIFO'LIUS (adj. in botany, from the Lat. planus, and folium a leaf) Made up of plain leaves, set with leaves in circular rows round the centre of the flower.
 PLANI.

PLANIL'OQUY (s. from the Lat. planus plain, and loquor to speak) The act of speaking plainly. Scott.
Planimet'rical (adj. from planimetry) Belonging to the mensuration of plane surfaces.
PLANIM'ETRY (s. from the Lat. planus plain, and the Greek μετρεω to measure) The mensuration of plane surfaces.
PLANIPET'ALOUS (adj. from the Lat. planus plain, and the Greek πεταλον a leaf) Having flat flower leaves, having a flat flower like that of the dandelion.
Pla'nish (v. t. with artificers, from plane) To polish, to plane as silversmiths. Johnson.
Pla'nished (p. from planish) Polished.
Pla'nishing (p. a. from planish) Polishing.
PLAN'ISPHERE (s. from the Lat. planus plain, and the Greek σφαира a sphere) A sphere projected on a plane; a representation of one of the hemispheres on a plane surface.
Plan'ity (s. from plane, but not used) Plainness, clearness. Bailey.
PLANK (s. from the French planche) A thick strong board.
Plank (v. t. from the sub.) To lay with strong thick boards.
Plank'ed (p. from plank) Laid with planks.
Plank'ing (p. a. from plank) Laying with planks.
Plan'ned (p. from plan) Schemed, laid out in design.
Plan'ning (p. a. from plan) Scheming, laying out in design.
Plan'ning (s. from the part.) The act of forming a plan.
PLA'NOCON'CAVE (adj. from the Lat. planus plain, and concavus concave) Plain on one side and concave on the other.
Pla'nocon'cave (s. from the adj.) A lens plain on one side and concave on the other.
PLA'NOCON'ICAL (adj. from the Lat. planus plain, and conus a cone) Plain on one side and conical on the other. Sc.
PLA'NOCON'VEX (adj. from the Lat. planus plain, and convexus convex) Plain on one side and convex on the other.
Pla'nocon'vex (s. from the adj.) A lens plain on one side and convex on the other.
PLANOME'TRIA (s. not so common a word) Planimetry. Phillips.
PLANT (s. from the Lat. planta) A vegetable production, an herb, a tree; any thing produced from seed by vegetation; the sole of the foot. Ainsw.
Plant (v. t. from the sub.) To put into the earth in order to grow, to set, to cultivate; to place, to fix; to settle, to store with inhabitants; to fill with plants; to direct; to point.
PLANT'A (s. in anatomy) The sole of the foot.
Plant'age (s. from plant) An herb, herbage. Shakef.
PLAN'TAIN (s. from the Lat. plantago) The name of an herb; a tree in the West Indies which produces a kind of esculent fruit.
Plan'tal (adj. from plant) Belonging to plants.
Plant'animal (s. from plant, and animal) A zoophyte, a creature which partakes of the nature both of a plant and an animal.
PLAN'TAR (adj. from plantaris) Pertaining to the sole of the foot.
PLANTA'RIS (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the tarsus having its tendon extended to the sole of the foot.
Plantat'ion (s. from plant) The act of planting, the place planted; an introduction, a first establishment; a colony, a newly settled country.
Plant'ed (p. from plant) Put into the earth in order to grow, set, filled with plants; settled, colonized; fixed, established.
Plant'er (s. from plant) One that plants.
PLANTIG'EROUS (adj. from the Lat. planta a plant, and gero to carry) Bearing plants.
Plant'ing (p. a. from plant) Putting into the ground in order to grow, setting, furnishing with plants, settling, fixing.
Plant'ing (s. from the part.) The act of putting into the earth in order to grow; a plantation.
PLANT'ULA (s. in botany) The embryo of a plant as it lies in the seed.
PLASH (s. from the Dutch plasche) A small lake of water, a puddle; a branch partly cut and laid down with other branches in a fence.
Plash (v. t. from the sub.) To dash with water; to interweave branches in a fence.
Plash'ed (p. from plash) Dashed with water; interwoven in a fence.
Plash'ing (p. a. from plash) Dashing with water; interweaving branches in a fence.
Plash'ing (s. from the part.) The method of interweaving branches in a fence, a fence made of living branches partly cut off and interwoven.

Plash'y (adj. from plash) Watery, filled with puddles.
PLAS'M (s. from the Greek πλασμα) A mould, a mass in which any thing is formed.
Plasma'tor (s. from plasmi, but not used) A potter.
Plas'mature (s. from plasmi) The process of making ware.
PLAS'TER (s. from the Greek πλαστω to form) A kind of mortar with which walls and ceilings are overlaid; cataplasma, a kind of glutinous salve, salve laid on something to be applied to a wound or diseased part.
Plas'ter (v. t. from the sub.) To overlay with mortar to apply a cataplasma.
Plas'tered (p. from plaster) Covered with mortar, finished with a plaster.
Plas'terer (s. from plaster) One who overlays walls with plaster, one who forms figures in plaster.
Plas'tering (p. a. from plaster) Covering with mortar, applying a plaster.
Plas'tering (s. from the part.) The act of overlaying with mortar, that which is laid on as plaster.
PLAS'TIC (adj. from the Greek πλαστω to make) Having the power to form, forming, giving form.
Plas'tice (s. from plastic) The art of forming figures in plaster.
Plas'tique (adj. a different spelling) Plastic.
PLASTOGR'APHY (s. from the Greek πλαστω to form, γραφω to write) The art of forming figures on paper by a counterfeit writing.
PLAS'TRAN (s. from the French) A kind of exercise which fencers use, when they teach their scholars in order to receive the pushes made at them.
Plat (s. from plot) A plot, a small piece of ground.
Plat (v. t. from plait) To weave, to form by texture.
Plat (adj. obsolete) Flat, plain.
Plat'aine (adj. from platane) Belonging to the plane tree.
PLA'TANE (s. in botany) The planetree.
PLATA'NUS (s. in botany) The planetree.
Plat'band (s. from plat, and band) A flat square band; a border of flowers in a garden.
PLATE (s. from the Dutch) A thin broad piece of metal, a kind of armour; wrought silver; a small vessel of metal or porcelain on which meat is eaten, the principal prize for which horses run for the race.
Plate (s. a sea term) A hoy.
Plate (v. t. from the sub.) To beat into plates, to form with plates, to arm with plates.
Plate (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to wrought silver; as, "The plate fleet."
PLA'TEA (s. in ornithology) The spoonbill.
PLA'TEASM (s. not used) A broad pronunciation.
Plat'ed (p. from plate) Made into plates, covered with plates; with with; as, "Plated with gold."
Plat'lead (s. from plate, and lead) The platine, a wire used to keep some particular threads tight in weaving.
Plat'elonge (s. in the manage) A long strap used in harnessing up the legs of a horse.
Plat'en (s. in printing) The flat part of the press, part of the press with which the impression is made.
Plat'form (s. in architecture, from plat, and form) A frame of timbers that lie on the walls and support the roof; a flat roof.
Plat'form (s. in fortification) A level place on which a battery may be raised to defend the ramparts.
Plat'form (s. in a man of war) The orlop, a platform on the lower deck where the wounded men are generally taken care of.
PLATI'ASMOS (s. from the Greek) A broad pronunciation. DiG.
Plat'ick (adj. in astrology) Belonging to an aspect, which the opposition is not so perfect as the parallel.
Plat'ine (s. from plate) A kind of thin weight to keep some particular threads tight in weaving.
Plat'is (s. obsolete) Plates of armour.
PLA'TO (s.) A man's name, one of the most ancient heathen philosophers.
Platon'ic (adj. from Plato) Belonging to Plato, pertaining to the doctrine or philosophy of Plato. Platonism a pure affection, an affection subsisting between sexes which respects the mind only. Platonic year a space of thirty-six thousand years, at which period some philosophers have supposed, all things will return to the same state.
Plat'onism (s. from Plato) The philosophy taught by Plato.
Plat'onist (s. from Plato) One who adopts the philosophy of Plato.
PLATOON (s. from the French peloton) A small body of musketeers.

PLA

PLE

a sea term) The flat ropes used to keep the from gulling.
 (p. from plat) Interwoven, braided.
 (s. from plate) A large shallow dish used at face (s. in low language, from platter and face) A face.
 faced (adj. from platterface) Having a broad in (s. in farriery) The vein on the inside of a horse's h.
 YCE/ROTES (s. in zoology) An order of beasts quished by having flattened horns.
 YCO'RIA (s. from the Greek) A dilatation of the of the eye.
 YCORIASIS (s. from the Greek) The platycoria, a
 of the eye.
 YPHYL/LON (s. in botany) A kind of broad leaved ge.
 YS/MA (s. in anatomy) The myoides, a muscle of neck.
 YS/MA (s. in surgery) A broad linen cloth to put fores. Phillips.
 DIT (s. from the Lat. plaudo to commend) Appro-on, applause.
 te (s. a different spelling) Plaudit, applause. More.
 ility (s. from plausible) The state of being plausi-SIBLE (adj. from the Lat. plaudo to commend) ing approbation, specious, right in appearance. pleneis (s. from plausible) Plausibility, the state of g plausible.
 ily (adv. from plausible) With plausibleness, in ible manner; with applause; but this sense is not Brown.
 SID'ICAL (s. from the Lat. plaudo to applause, and to say, but not used) Speaking plausibly. Cole.
 SIVE (adj. from the Lat. plaudo to commend, but sed) Applauding, plausible. Shakespeare.
 SOR (s. from the Lat. but not used) One that claps, that applauds. Cole.
 SUS (s. from the Lat.) Applause; an acclama-
 Dict. of Arts.
 (v. int. from the Sax. plegan) To sport, to fro-to trifle, to wanton; to mock, to practise den; to game, to contend at some game; to touch ical instrument, to practise on a musical instrut; to move, to move irregularly; to personate, present a character.
 v. t.) To put in action, to put in motion; to use ument of music; to act, to perform a part.
 s. from the verb) Sport, recreation; that which ne by way of diversion; irregular motion, wan-movements; the act of playing on an instrument;
 me, a contest at some game; room for motion, ty of action; a state of action; a state of agita-a drama, a performance in which characters are sented by dialogue and action.
 ook (s. from play, and book) A book of dramatic positions.
 ay (s. from play, and day) A day exempt from ur, a day devoted to play.
 ebt (s. from play, and debt) A debt contracted by ing.
 (v. int. obsolete) To play, to spend time in amuse-
 Chaucer.
 d (p. from play) Put into action, acted, pered.
 (s. from play) One who plays, one who idles
 y time; a mimic, an actor of dramatic scenes;
 uester; one who plays on a musical instrument.
 allow (s. from play, and fellow) A companion in ement.
 t (adj. from play) Full of play, sportive.
 ame (s. from play, and game) The play of chilouse (s. from play, and house) The house where atic performances are represented.
 (v. int. obsolete) To play. Chaucer.
 g (p. a. from play) Sporting, spending time in ements; putting into motion; performing a in dramatic representations; amusing, deceiving eparances; gaming, evading at some game.
 g (s. from the part.) The act of spending time in ements, the practice of gaming; an irregular on.
 easure (s. from play, and pleasure) Idle amuse-Bacon.
 me (adj. from play) Wanton, full of levity.
 enenefs (s. from playsome) Wantonneis, levity.

Play/thing (s. from play, and thing) A toy, a thing to play with.
 Play/wright (s. from play, and wright) A maker of plays. Pope.
 Ple (s. obsolete) A plea, a dispute, a contest at law. Ch.
 PLEA (s. from the Sax. pleah) An apology, an excuse;
 an allegation; the act or form of pleading, the thing offered or demanded in pleading.
 PLEACH (v. t. from the French pleffer) To bend, to interweave branches in a fence. Shakespeare.
 Pleach'ed (p. from pleach) Bent, interwoven as branches in a fence.
 Pleach'ing (p. a. from pleach) Bending, interweaving branches in a fence.
 Plead (v. t. from plea) To defend, to discuss; to offer an excuse, to alledge in pleading.
 Plead (v. int.) To argue before a court of judicature; to reason with another; with with, for and against;
 as, "I plead with you for your brother."
 Plead'able (adj. from plead) Capable of being pleaded, fit to be pleaded.
 Plead'ed (p. from plead) Offered by way of excuse, argued.
 Plead'er (s. from plead) One who argues a point in a court of justice; one who speaks for or against another.
 Plead'ing (p. a. from plead) Offering by way of excuse, arguing in a court of justice, reasoning with.
 Plead'ing (s. from the part.) The act or form of arguing a point.
 PLEA'SANCE (s. from the French plaisir, but now grown obsolete) Pleasantry, merriment. Spenser.
 PLEAS'ANT (adj. from the French plaisant) Agreeable, delightful, grateful; good humoured, gay, merry, trifling, rather agreeable than useful.
 Pleas'anter (adj. comp. of pleasant) Pleasant in a greater degree.
 Pleas'antest (adj. sup. of pleasant) Pleasant in the greatest degree.
 Pleas'antly (adv. from pleasant) In a pleasing manner, with good nature.
 Pleas'antness (s. from pleasant) The state of being pleasant.
 Pleas'antry (s. from pleasant) Merriment, gaiety; sprightly talk, lively conversation.
 PLEASE (v. t. from the Lat. placeo to satisfy) To delight, to humour, to satisfy, to content.
 Please (v. int.) To give pleasure, to gain approbation; to like, to choose; to condescend, to comply; in complimentary style, "Please to give me my liberty."
 Pleas'ed (p. from please) Gratiified, delighted, satisfied, contented; with with; as, "I am well pleased with that book of yours."
 Pleas'eman (s. from please, and man) A pickthank, an officious fellow. Shakespeare.
 Pleas'er (s. from please) One that pleases, one that courts favour.
 Pleas'ing (p. a. from please) Gratiifying, humouring, delighting, affording pleasure, giving satisfaction.
 Pleas'ingly (adv. from pleasing) In such a manner as to please.
 Pleas'ingness (s. from pleasing) The quality of giving pleasure.
 Pleas'urable (adj. from pleasure) Delightful, full of pleasure.
 Pleas'urableness (s. from pleasurable) The state of being pleasurable. Scott.
 PLEAS'URE (s. from the French plaisir) Delight, gratification; loose gratification; approbation, choice, that which the will dictates.
 Pleas'ure (v. t. from the ub.) To please, to gratify.
 Pleas'ured (p. from pleasure) Gratiified, pleased.
 Pleas'ureful (adj. from pleasure, but now grown obsolete)
 Pleasant, delightful. Abbot.
 Pleas'uring (p. a. from pleasure) Giving pleasure, affording delight.
 PLEBA'NIA (s. in old records) A mother church.
 Pleb'anus (s. from plebania) A rural dean.
 Plebe'an (s. an incorrect spelling) A plebeian. Bailey.
 PLE/BEIALIST (s. from the Lat. plebs the common people, and colo to cherish, but not used) One who favours the common people. Cole.
 PLEBEI'AN (adj. from the Lat. plebs the common people)
 Belonging to the common people, vulgar, common,
 low.
 Plebei'an (s. from the adj.) One of the common people.
 Plebe'ity (s. from plebeian) The commonalty. Cole.
 PLEBIS'CITE (s. from the Lat. plebiscitum, but not used)
 A decree of the common people. Cole.
 PLE-

- PLEBISCITUM (s. in Roman antiquity, from the Lat.) A law enacted by the common people.
- PLE'BITY (s. from the Lat. plebs the common people, but not used) The common people, the meaner sort of people. Bailey.
- Plece (s. a local word) A place. Bailey.
- Pleck (s. a local word) A place. Cole.
- PLEDGE (s. from the French pleige) Any thing put to pawn; a security; a surety, a hostage.
- Pledge (v. t. from the sub.) To put in pawn, to secure by a pawn; to give a security; to invite to drink by accepting the cup after another.
- Pledg'd (p. from pledge) Put in pawn, given in security, invited to drink by a promise of accepting the cup afterwards.
- Pledg'ery (s. from pledge) A suretyship. Scott.
- Pledg'et (s. from the Dutch plagghe) A small mass of medicated lint.
- Pledg'ing (p. a. from pledge) Putting in pawn, giving security, inviting to drink by an offer to take the cup afterwards.
- Pleg'gery (s. a different spelling) Suretiship. DiCt. of A.
- Pleg'io (s. in old records) A pledge. Scott.
- PLEI'ADES (s. in the mythology of the poets) The seven daughters of Atlas supposed to have been turned into seven stars. Ovid.
- PLEI'ADES (s. in astronomy) The seven stars; the assemblage of stars in the neck of Taurus.
- PLEI'ADS (s. in astronomy, a different spelling) The Pleiades, the assemblage of stars in the neck of the bull.
- PLEI'AS (s. in the mythology of the poets) One of the Pleiades.
- Pleide (p. obsolete) Played. Chaucer.
- Pleinte (s. obsolete) A complaint. Chaucer.
- PLEI'ONE (s. in the mythology of the poets) The wife of Atlas and mother of the Pleiades.
- Plen'arily (adv. from plenary) Fully, completely.
- Plen'ariness (s. from plenary) Completeness, fulness. J.
- Plen'arty (s. a law term) The state of a benefice when supplied.
- PLEN'ARY (adj. from the Lat. plenus full) Complete, adequate, full.
- Plen'ary (s. from the adj.) A decisive procedure.
- Plen'ere (adj. an obsolete spelling) Plenary, full. Ch.
- PLENILU'NARY (adj. from the Lat. plenus full, and luna the moon) Belonging to the full moon. Cole.
- PLE/NILUNE (s. from the Lat. plenus full, and luna the moon) The full moon. Cole.
- Plen'ipo (s. a contraction of plenipotentary) A plenipotentary.
- Plenipotence (s. from plenipotent) A fulness of power.
- PLENIPOTENT (adj. from the Lat. plenus full, and potentia power) Having full power. Milton.
- Plenipotent'ial (adj. from plenipotent) Belonging to a plenipotentary, having full power.
- Plenipotent'ary (adj. from plenipotent) Belonging to one who has full power, having full power.
- Plenipotent'ary (s. from the adj.) An ambassador invested with full power.
- PLE/NIST (s. from the Lat. plenus full) One who holds that all space is filled with matter, a philosopher who denies a vacuum.
- PLENITUDE (s. from the Lat. plenitudo) Fullness, completion, completeness; an exuberance, an abundance.
- Plen'teous (adj. from plenty) Copious, exuberant; fruitful, fertile.
- Plen'teously (adv. from plenteous) Copiously, abundantly, exuberantly.
- Plen'teousness (s. from plenteous) Exuberance, abundance.
- Plen'tier (adj. comp. of plenty) Plenty in a greater degree.
- Plen'tiest (adj. sup. of plenty) Plenty in the greatest degree.
- Plen'tifal (adj. from plenty) Copious, fruitful, abundant.
- Plen'tifully (adv. from plentiful) Copiously, abundantly.
- Plen'tifulness (s. from plentiful) Exuberance, abundance, fertility.
- Plen'tivous (adj. obsolete) Plenteous. Chaucer.
- Plen'tuous (adj. obsolete) Plentiful, abundant. Chau.
- PLEN'TY (s. from the Lat. plenus full) Abundance, exuberance, fruitfulness, a state in which there is enough.
- Plen'ty (adj. rather colloquial, from the sub.) Plentiful, abundant. "Corn is plenty."
- PLE'NUM (s. from the Lat.) The state of being fullness of matter as opposed to a vacuum; a senate.
- PLE'ONASM (s. in rhetoric, from the Greek πλεονασμός) A fulness of expression, a mode of speech which more words are used than what are necessary to convey the sense.
- Pleonasmic (adj. from pleonasm, but not much used) long to the pleonasm.
- PLEROPHO'RIA (s. from πλεονεξία full, and φέρω to bear) A full assurance of faith.
- Pleroph'ory (s. from plerophoria) Assurance, confidence.
- PLEROT'IC (adj. from the Greek πλεροειν to fill up) Filled up, suited to fill up as a wound with flesh.
- Plerot'ic (s. from the adj.) A medicine to fill up wounds with flesh.
- Plerot'ica (s. plu. from plerotic) Medicines suited to fill up a wound with flesh.
- Ple'sance (s. an old word) Pleasure, delight.
- Ple'saunce (s. obsolete) Pleasure, delight. Chaucer.
- Ple'sh (s. from plash, for the sake of rhyme) A plash.
- Plete (v. t. obsolete) To implead, to sue at the law.
- PLETH'ORA (s. from the Greek) the state in which vessels are fuller than is consistent with health.
- Plethoret'ic (adj. from plethora) Having a full habit, tending to a plethora.
- Pleth'oric (adj. from plethora) Tending to a plethora, having a full habit.
- Plethor'ical (adj. from plethoric) Plethoretic.
- Pleth'ory (s. from plethora) A plethora, a full habit.
- PLE'THRON (s. from the Greek) A Grecian measure containing the sixth part of a furlong.
- PLE'VIN (s. a law term) A warrant, an assurance.
- PLEU'RA (s. in anatomy, from the Greek πλευρα) The membrane that covers the inside of the chest.
- Pleur'et'ic (adj. from pleura, not so common a spelling) Pleuritic.
- Pleur'isy (s. from pleura) An inflammation of pleura.
- Pleurit'ic (adj. from pleura) Diseased with a pleurisy, tending to a pleurisy.
- Pleurit'ical (adj. from pleuritic) Diseased with a pleurisy, denoting a pleurisy.
- PLEURITIS (s. with physicians) The pleurisy.
- PLEURONCE'TES (s. in ichthyology) A genus of distinguished by having both eyes on one side.
- PLEURO'PNEUMO'NIA (s. from the Greek πλευρα side, and πνεύμων the lungs) A compound disease of breast and lungs, a pleurisy and peripneumony.
- Pleuropneu'mony (s. from pleuropneumonia) The peripneumonia, a pleurisy attended with an inflammation of the lungs.
- PLEURORTHOPNO'EA (s. from πλευριτικός a pleuritic, and πνιξ straight, and πνιξ the breath) A kind of pleurisy in which the patient cannot breathe except in an erect posture.
- PLEX'US (s. in anatomy) A contexture of small vessels or fibres.
- Pley (s. an obsolete spelling) Play. Chaucer.
- Pley'in. playne (v. int. obsolete) To complain.
- PLI'ABLE (adj. from the French plier to bend) Easy to be bent, easy to be persuaded.
- Pli'ableness (s. from pliable) The state or quality of being pliable.
- Pli'ancy (s. from pliant) Pliability, flexibility.
- PLI'ANT (adj. from the French) Bending, flexible, easy to take a form; easy to be persuaded.
- Pli'antness (s. from pliant) Flexibility, toughness.
- PLI'CA (s. from the Lat.) A fold, a plait; a kind of disease rife in Poland which causes the hair to grow together like that of a cow's tail.
- PLICATION (s. from the Lat. plico to fold) A doubling.
- PLI'CATURE (s. from the Lat. plico to fold) A plait.
- Pli'd (p. from ply) Kept at work, kept in action, attended with assiduity.
- Pliers (s. from ply) A kind of pincers, an instrument used in bending small wires.
- PLIGHT (v. t. from the Dutch plichten) To pledge, give as surety.
- Plight (v. t. from the Lat. plico to fold) To weave.
- PLIGHT (s. from the Sax phlit) A condition, a good case, "And cattle in plight."
- Plight (s. from the verb.) A pledge, a gage.
- Plight (s. a local word) A small portion of land.
- Plight (s. from plait) A fold, a plait.

nt (v. t. the old pret. of pluck) Plucked. Chaucer.
 n'ed (p. from plight) Pledged, given as a security.
 n'ting (p. a. from plight) Pledging, giving in security.
 NIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 NTH (s. in architecture, from the Greek πλινθος; a tile) flat square member which serves as the foundation a base; a square projection at the bottom of a wall;
 the Tuscan abacus.
 n'tis (s. in architecture) The plinth. Phil.
 NTHUS (s. in architecture) The plinth.
 TOBOLIN'DA (s. with same letters) A kind of game dice in which he that throws most takes up all.
 TOLO'CHIA (s. in botany) A kind of wild mallow.
 a (s. in old records) A small portion of land.
 e (s. in old records) A measure of length, an ell, a yard.
 e (v. t. an obsolete spelling) To plait, to fold up. Ch.
 e (s. an old spelling) A plait, a fold. Chaucer.
 ed (adj. obsolete) Changed in mind. Chaucer.
 ICE (s. in rhetoric, from the Greek πλοκή a twisting) made up speech in which a word is repeated by way of illustration and emphasis.
 OD (v. int. from the Dutch ploeghen) To toil, to dredge; to travel hard; to study closely and dully.
 der (s. from plod) A dull, heavy laborious man.
 ding (p. a. from plod) Toiling, drudging on; dull, heavy; having the head full of contrivance.
 ding (s. from the part.) The act of drudging on,
 of dull study. "Universal plodding prisons p." Shakespeare.
 kets (s. in commerce) A kind of coarse woolen cloth.
 ORABUND (adj. from the Lat. plorabundus, but not ed) Making great lamentations. Bailey.
 OT (s. from the Sax.) A small extent of ground, plantation laid out; a form, a scheme, a plan; a conspiracy, a secret design, an intrigue; a stratagem, deep reach of thought.
 t (v. t. from the sub.) To plan, to contrive, to describe according to the rules of ichnography.
 t (v. int.) To form schemes of mischief, to contrive, scheme.
 ted (p. from plot) Planned, described according to the rules of ichnography.
 ter (s. from plot) One that plots, a contriver, a con-spirator.
 ting (p. a. from plot) Scheming, contriving, designing mischief; planning, describing.
 ting (s. from the part.) The act of forming a plot,
 the act delineating a tract of land on paper.
 tingscale (s. from plotting, and scale) An instrument used in delineating a tract of land on paper.
 ton (s. not so common a spelling) A platoon. Phil.
 OVER (s. in ornithology) The lapwing, the name of a bird.
 OUGH (s. from the Sax. plog) The instrument with which furrows are cut in the ground for sowing; a kind of plane, an instrument used in carpentry.
 gh (v. int. from the sub.) To turn up the ground in order to sow seed.
 gh (v. t. from the sub.) To break up land by ploughing, to furrow, to divide by ploughing; to bring to new by ploughing.
 ghains (s. from plough, and aims) The penny which every plough land anciently paid to the church.
 gh'boy (s. from plough, and boy) A boy that follows the plough, an ignorant country fellow.
 gh'ed (p. from plough) Turned up by the plough, furrowed.
 gh'er (s. from plough) One that ploughs.
 gh'ing (p. a. from plough) Turning up with the plough, breaking up, dividing with the plough.
 gh'ing (s. from the part.) The act of breaking up with the plough, that which has been ploughed.
 gh'land (s. from plough, and land) Tillage, a farm or corn; as much land as one team could properly cultivate.
 gh'man (s. from plough, and man) One who uses the plough; a coarse ignorant fellow, a strong labor-ous man.
 gh'monday (s. from plough, and monday) The Monday after Twelfth tide. Tuffer. gh'share (s. from plough, and share) That part of a plough which pierces the ground and forms the furrow.
 gh'staff (s. from plough, and staff) A kind of paddle to clear the share and coulter when choked up with earth or weeds.

Plough/tail (s. from plough, and tail) The extreme part of the plough, that part which the ploughman holds.
Figuratively, the country, rural life.
 Plow (s. not so correct a spelling) A plough. Johns.
 Plow (v. t. not so correct a spelling) To plough. To.
 Plow'ed (p. from plow, but not so correct a spelling)
 Ploughed.
 Plow'ing (p. a. from plow, but not so correct a spelling)
 Ploughing.
 Plow'ing (s. from the part.) A ploughing. D. of A.
 PLUCK (v. t. from the Sax. ploccian) To pull with some degree of violence, to snatch; to draw, to force on or off; to strip of feathers; to resume courage.
 Pluck (s. from the verb.) A pull, a single act of pulling; the heart, liver, and lights of an animal.
 Pluck'ed (s. from pluck) Pulled, snatched, stripped of feathers.
 Pluck'er (s. from pluck) One that plucks.
 Pluck'ing (p. a. from pluck) Pulling with some degree of violence, snatching, stripping of feathers.
 Pluckt (v. t. pret. of pluck) Plucked, did pluck.
 Pluckt (p. from pluck) Plucked. Shakespeare.
 PLUG (s. from the Swedish) A stopple, that which is driven hard into another body.
 Plug (v. t. from the sub.) To stop with a plug.
 Plug'ed (p. from plug) Stopped with a plug.
 Plug'ing (p. a. from plug) Stopping with a plug.
 PLUKNE'TIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 PLUM (s. in botany, from the Sax.) The tree that bears plums, a fleshy fruit containing one seed in a stony shell; a raisin, a grape dried in the sun; a kind of play among children. Answorth.
 Plum (s. a cant word) The sum of one hundred thousand pounds.
 Plum (adv. probably from plummet) Directly, exactly.
 "It fell down plum into my cap."
 PLUMACIO'LI (s. in surgery) Bolsters splints.
 Plum'age (s. from plume) Feathers, a suit of feathers.
 Plum'ary (s. from plume) A bunch of feathers.
 PLUMB (s. from the Lat. plumbum lead) A plummet, a lead weight let down at the end of a line.
 Plumb (v. t. from the sub.) To sound, to search by a line with a weight at the end; to regulate by the plummet.
 Plumb (adv. from the sub.) Directly, exactly, in a perpendicular direction.
 Plumb (s. a common but not so correct a spelling) A plum,
 a kind of fruit.
 Plumb'agine (s. in natural history) Lead mixed with silver.
 Plumb'ago (s. in botany) The leadwort.
 PLUMB'BEAN (adj. from the Lat. plumbum, but not much used) Consisting of lead, resembling lead. Cole.
 Plumb'ed (p. from plumb) Sounded, searched by a line with a weight at the end, regulated by the plummet.
 PLUMB'BEOUS (adj. from the Lat. plumbum, but not used) Consisting of lead, resembling lead. Cole.
 PLUMB'ER (s. from the Lat. plumbum lead) One who works in lead.
 Plumb'ery (s. from plumber) The work of the plumber, lead work.
 Plumb'ing (p. a. from plumb) Sounding, regulating by the plummet.
 Plumb line (s. from plumb, and line) A line with a weight at the end of it.
 Plum'cake (s. from plum, and cake) A cake with plums in it.
 PLUME (s. from the Lat. pluma) A feather, plumage, an assemblage of feathers; an ornament of feathers;
 a token of honour; pride, glory.
 PLUME (s. in botany) The down of plants, that part of the seed which opens like a little bunch of feathers.
 Plume (v. t. from the sub.) To pick and adjust the feathers; to adorn with plumes; to strip of feathers, to pill.
 PLUM'EALLUM (s. in natural history) A kind of asbes-tus, a kind of talc.
 Plum'ed (p. from plume) Picked, adjusted as the feathers, adorned with plumes.
 Plum'estricker (s. from plume, and striker) A pickthank, one that endeavours to blast the reputation of another.
 PLUMIG'EROUS (adj. from the Lat. pluma a feather, and gero to bear) Feathered, having feathers.
 Plum'ing (p. a. from plume) Picking the feathers, adjusting the feathers; ornamenting with flowers;
 plucking off the feathers.
 PLUM'IPED (s. from the Lat. pluma a feather, and pes pedis a foot) A fowl that has feathered feet.

PLU

Plum'mer (s. not so common a spelling) A plummet, a plumbline. Scott.
Plum'mer (s. a common, but not so correct a spelling) A plumber, one who works in lead. Johnson.
Plum'mery (s. a different spelling) Plumbery, plumber's work. Johnson.
Plum'met (s. from plumb) A ball of lead hung at the end of a string; a lead pencil; a weight.
Plum'mose (adj. from plume) Featherly, resembling feathers.
Plum'moseness (s. from plumose) Plumosity, the state of being full feathered.
Plum'mosity (s. from plumose) Plumage, the state of being full fledged.
Plum'mous (adj. from plume) Feathered, resembling feathers.
PLUMP (adj. of uncertain etymology) Full of flesh, sleek, smooth, somewhat fat.
Plump (s. from the adj.) A knot, a tuft, a cluster, a lump. D.
Plump (v. t. from the adj.) To fatten, to make large, to swell.
Plump (v. int.) To become full of flesh.
Pump (adv. from the sound) With a sudden fall, with the noise a stone makes when it falls into the water.
Pump (v. int. from the adv.) To fall like a stone into the water.
Plumped (p. from plump) Fattened, made full of flesh.
Pump'er (s. from plump) Something put into the mouth to swell out the cheeks.
Plump'er (adj. comp. of plump) Plump in a greater degree.
Plump'est (adj. sup. of plump) Plump in the greatest degree.
Plum'pie (s. from plum, and pie) A pie made of plums.
Pump'ing (p. a. from plump) Fattening, making full of flesh.
Plump'ness (s. from plump) The state of being pump.
Plum'porridge (s. from plum, and porridge) Porridge with plums in it.
Plum'pudding (s. from plum, and pudding) Pudding with plums in it.
Plump'y (adj. from plump) Plump, fat.
Plum'tuous (adj. obsolete) Plenteous. Chaucer.
Plum'y (adj. from plume) Feathered, covered with feathers.
PLUN'DER (v. t. from the Dutch plunecer) To pillage, to rob, to rob in a hostile manner.
Plun'der (s. from the verb) Pillage, spoils gotten in war.
Plun'dered (p. from plunder) Robbed, pillaged.
Plun'derer (s. from plunder) One that plunders, a thief, a robber.
Plun'dering (p. a. from plunder) Robbing, plundering.
PLUNGE (v. t. from the French plonger) To put under water, to put into any state suddenly, to hurry into distress, to force in suddenly.
Plunge (v. int.) To sink suddenly, to dive; to fall into distress or danger; to rise and fall as an unruly horse.
Plunge (s. from the verb) The act of putting under water, the act of sinking under water; a fit of illness, difficulty, distress.
Plung'ed (p. from plunge) Put under water, hurried into distress, precipitated.
PLUNG'EON (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird, the merlus.
Plung'er (s. from plunge) One that plunges; the forcer of a pump.
Plun'gi, plungy (adj. obsolete) Raining, causing rain. Ch.
Plung'ing (p. a. from plunge) Putting under water, sinking under water; precipitating, falling into any thing suddenly; rising and falling as an unruly horse.
Plung'ing (s. from the part.) The act of putting under water, the act of rushing suddenly into any distress or hazard; the action of an unruly horse endeavouring to throw the rider.
PLUNKET (s. the derivation is not noted) A blue colour.
Plunk'et (adj. from the sub.) Blue, belonging to a particular kind of blue colour used in painting.
PLURAL (adj. from the Lat. pluralis) Comprising more than one, belonging to two or more.
Plu'ral (s. from the adj.) The number comprising more than one.
Plu'ralist (s. from plural) One that holds two or more ecclesiastical benefices with cure of souls.
Plural'itive (adj. from plural, but not used) Plural, containing many. Cole.
Plural'ity (s. from plural) The state of being plural, the state of having a greater number; a number containing two or more.

PNE

Plu'raly (adv. from plural) With more than one, in plural sense.
PLURIFA'RIOUS (adj. from the Lat. plurifarius, not used) Having diverse fashions.
PLUS (adj. from the Lat. in algebra) More, denoting addition.
PLUSH (adj. from the French peluche) Shag, stuff worn after the manner of velvet.
PLUSH'ER (s. in ichthyology) A kind of dogfish.
PLUS'QUAMPERFECT (adj. from the Lat. plus quam than, and perficio to perfect) Belonging to the form of a verb which denotes the time more than the past. Diët. of Ant.
PLUS'QUAMPERFECTUM (s. from the Lat. as in the foregoing article) That form of the verb which denotes the time more than past.
PLU'TARCH (s.) A man's name; a famous ancient historian and biographer.
PLU'TO (s. in heathen mythology) The supposed god of the infernal regions.
PLU'TUS (s. in heathen mythology) The supposed god of riches.
PLU'VIAL (adj. from the Lat. pluvia rain) Rainy, longing to rain.
PLU'VIAL (s. from the French) A cope, a kind of worn by Popish priests.
PLUVIA'NIS (s. in ornithology) The plover.
PLU'VIOUS (adj. from the Lat. pluvia rain) Rainy, belonging to rain.
PLU'VIUS (s. in heathen mythology) One of the names of Jupiter.
PLY (v. t. from the Dutch plien) To work at any thing with unremitting diligence, to practise diligently, to solicit with importunity; to set at work, to keep in action.
PLY (v. int.) To keep at work, to busy one's self, to go in haste, to bend.
Ply (s. from the verb) A bent, a cast, a bias; a fold, a plait. Arbutnot.
PLY (s. in geography) The name of a river in Devonshire.
Ply'ed (p. from ply) Kept at work, kept in action, attended with assiduity; bent; plied.
Ply'ers (s. a different spelling) Pliers, a kind of pinchers.
Ply'ing (p. a. from ply) Keeping in action, attending with assiduity.
PLYM'OUTH (s.) A borough and port town in Devonshire; it is a station for the royal navy, has a market on Monday and Tuesday, sends two members to parliament, and is 215 miles from London.
Plym'outh (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Plymouth, made at Plymouth, stationed at Plymouth.
PLYMPTON (s.) A borough town in Devonshire; has a market on Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 209 miles from London.
Plym'pton (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Plympton, made at Plympton.
PNEU'MA (s. from the Greek) A blast, the breath, the spirit.
Pneumat'ic (adj. from pneuma) Moved by the wind, relating to the wind; consisting of wind, consisting of spirit.
Pneumat'ical (adj. from pneumatic) Relating to wind, pneumatic.
Pneumat'ics (s. from pneumatic) The doctrine of air; the doctrine of spiritual substances.
PNEUMATOCE'LE (s. from the Greek πνευμα wind, and κηλη a rupture) A wind rupture, a tumour of the scrotum distended with wind.
PNEUMATO'DES (s. from the Greek) A shortness of breath.
Pneumatolog'ist (s. from pneumatology) One skilled in pneumatology.
PNEUMATOLOGY (s. from the Greek πνευμα spirit, and λογος a description) The doctrine of spiritual existence.
PNEUMATOMA'CHI (s. in church history, from the Greek πνευμα the Spirit, and μαχομαι to oppose) Christians of the fourth century who opposed the proper divinity of the Holy Spirit.
PNEUMATOMPHA'LUS (s. from the Greek πνευμα wind, and ομφαλος the navel) A rupture of the vel occasioned by wind.
PNEUMATO'SIS (s. with physicians, from the Greek) Flatulence of the stomach; the formation of air spirits in the brain.
PNEUMATO'SOPHY (s. from the Greek πνευμα and σοφια wisdom) Pneumatology; the knowledge of spiritual substances.

PNEU

POC

PNEUMON (s. in anatomy, from the Greek) The lungs.
pneumonic (adj. from pneumon) Belonging to the lungs, good for diseases of the lungs.
pneumonic (s. from the adj.) A medicine for the lungs.
PNEUMONIA (s. with physicians) The incubus, the nightmare.
PNEUMONITIS (s. in natural history) A kind of earth impregnated with a vitriolic substance.
PNEUMUS (s. with physicians) An obstruction in the throat, a strangling.
POT (s. from pot) A liquid measure in Guernsey, it contains half a gallon.
POT (s. in geography) A famous river in Italy.
POT (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
POTCH (v. t. from the French pocher) To boil slightly.
POTCH (v. t. from the French pocher) To stab, to pierce.
POTCH (v. t. from the French poche a pocket) To plunder by stealth.
POTCH (v. int. from the French poche a pocket) To play game, to carry off game in a private manner, to kill game contrary to law.
POTCH (v. int. a cant word) To become damp, to hang together as wet mould.
POTCHARD (s. in ornithology) The name of a water owl.
Potched (p. from poach) Boiled slightly; stabbed, pierced.
Potcher (s. from poach) One who steals game, one who kills game unlawfully.
Potchiness (s. from poachy) Dampness.
Potching (p. a. from poach) Boiling slightly, plundering by stealth, stealing game, destroying game in an unlawful manner.
Potching (s. from poach) The act or practice of stealing game, the act of destroying game in a manner contrary to law.
Potchy (adj. from poach) Damp, sticking together with moisture.
POT (s.) A weight in Russia containing forty pounds.
Potard (s. a different spelling) The poachard, a kind of water fowl.
POT (s. from pox) The pustule of the small pox, a pit in the small pox.
POT (s. from the Sax. pocca) A little bag usually worn in garments; a quantity of certain commodities put up in a bag.
Pot (v. t. from the sub.) To put into the pocket, to put up in pockets. Pocket up, to do any thing clandestinely, to conceal, to pass by an affront so as to say nothing about it.
Potbook (s. from pocket, and book) A paper book carried in the pocket for hasty notes.
Potted (p. from pocket) Put into the pocket, made into pockets; carried off clandestinely.
Potflap (s. from pocket, and flap) The piece that flaps over the pocket-hole.
Potglasses (s. from pocket, and glass) A portable looking-glass.
Pothay (s. with fowlers) A kind of net for catching sea-fans.
Pothole (s. from pocket, and hole) The hole by which the hand is put into the pocket.
Potting (p. a. from pocket) Putting into the pocket, putting up in pockets.
Potting (s. from the part.) The act of putting into the pocket, the act of putting up in pockets; the stuff of which pockets are made.
Potlid (s. from pocket, and lid) The pocketflap.
Pothole (s. from pock, and hole) The scar or pit made by the small pox.
Potted (p. from pockify) Infected with the pox. Ba.
Pocky (v. from pock, but used only in low language) Infected with the pox.
Pocking (p. a. from pockify, in low language) Infected with the pox.
Pockiness (s. from pocky) The state of being infected with the pox.
POCKINGTON (s.) A town in the East Riding of Yorkshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 196 miles from London.
Pockington (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Pocklington, made at Pocklington.
Pockwood (s. in botany and medicine) An Indian wood dissolving and cleansing quality.
Pockwood (s. in botany) The name of an Indian tree the bark of which produces the pockwood.
Pocky (adj. from pock) Infected with the pox.
Pocky (adj. in music books) Something less,

POI

POCO'NIS (s. in botany and medicine) The name of an American plant, the root of the plant is said to have great efficacy in allaying pains and swellings.
POCULENT (adj. from the Lat. poculum a cup) Fit to drink.
POD (s. supposed to be from the Dutch bode a house) A seed vessel, the capsule of legumes, the husk of pulse.
Pod (v. int. from the sub.) To generate pods.
PODAGRA (s. from the Greek πους πους a foot, and αγρα a capture) The gout in the feet.
PODAGRALINI (s. in botany) The dodder.
PODAGRARIA (s. in botany) The angelica.
Podagrical (adj. from podagra) Afflicted with the gout, gouty, relating to the gout.
Pod'ded (p. from pod) Hung with pods, having pods.
Pod'der (s. from pod) One that gathers peas or any kind of pulse in pods.
Pod'ding (p. a. from pod) Generating pods, gathering peas or any kind of pulse in pods.
PODELIRIUS (s.) One of the sons of Esculapius.
PODERIA (s. in zoology) A division or class of insects whose bodies are short and not furnished with many legs.
PODERIS (s. in antiquity) A robe hanging down to the feet.
PODES'TA, PODES'TATE (s. from the Italian) A magistrate who administers justice in a free city.
PODEX (s. in anatomy, from the Lat.) The fundament.
PODGE (s. the derivation is not noted) A puddle, a splash.
PODO'LI A (s. in geography) A district of Lithuania in Poland.
Podometer (s. a different spelling) The pedometer, the perambulator.
PODOPHYLLUM (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the May apple.
PODU'RA (s. in zoology) The puceron.
PO'EM (s. from the Greek ποημα) The work of a poet, a composition in measure.
PCE'NA (s. in heathen mythology) The god who was supposed to be the dispenser of evil.
PCE'NI (s. in ancient geography) The inhabitants of Carthage.
PO'ESY (s. from the Greek ποισις) The art of writing poems, a poem; a kind of motto, something written on a ring or garter.
PO'ET (s. from the Greek ποιηται to do) A writer of poems, an inventor, the author of fiction.
Poeraster (s. from poet) A petty poet, a pretender to poetry.
Poetess (s. from poet) A female who writes poems.
Poetic (adj. from poet) Expressed in poetry, suited to poetry.
Poetical (adj. from poetic) Expressed in poetry, suited to poetry.
Poetically (adv. from poetical) According to the rules of poetry.
Poetics (s. from poetic) The doctrine of poetry, the laws and rules to be observed in poetry.
PO'ETISE (v. int. from the French poëtiser) To write like a poet.
Poetize (v. int. a different spelling) To write like a poet.
Poetizing (p. a. from poetize) Writing like a poet.
Poetries (s. a different spelling) A poetess.
Poetry (s. from poet) Poems, poetical compositions, the art or practice of writing poems.
Poge (s. in farriery) A cold seated in in the head of a horse.
POGO'NIAS (s. in astronomy) A kind of comet.
Poignancy (s. from poignant) The state of being poignant.
POIGNANT (adj. from the French) Sharp, stimulating the palate; severe, piercing; irritating, satirical.
Poignant (adj. not so common a spelling) Poignant. Phil.
POINCIA'NA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
Poinet (v. t. obsolete) To appoint.
Poinet (s. an obsolete spelling) A point.
Poinetell (s. obsolete) A pointel, a pencil.
Poiniten (v. t. obsolete) To prick with a point.
POIN'SON (s. from the French poinçon) A kind of hand spur.
POINT (s. from the French) The sharp end of an instrument; a string with a tag; a headland, a promontory; the sting of an epigram; an indivisible part of space, a small space; a punctilio, a nicety; a critical moment, a critical matter; a note of distinction, a stop in writing; a degree, a state; one of the degrees or parts of the horizon from which the wind blows; a particular spot to which any thing is directed; a state,

- state, a condition; a particular instance, an example; an aim, an intention; a single position; a note, a tune.
- Point (v. a. from the sub.) To sharpen, to bring to a point; to direct or shew as by pointing the finger; to distinguish by stops or punctuation.
- Point (v. int.) To note as with the finger, to indicate as dogs to sportmen, to distinguish words by punctuation; to shew; with at or to before the thing indicated; as, "Point at their wounds."
- Pointal (s. from point) The pistil, the female part of generation in plants.
- Pointblank (adv. from point) Directly, at the very point.
- POINT/DEVISE (adv. from the French) Exactly in the point of view. Shakespeare.
- Pointe (s. an obsolete spelling) A point. Chaucer.
- Pointe (v. t. obsolete) To appoint. Chaucer.
- Point'e (adv. in music books) Distinctly, with a small pause between the notes.
- Pointed (p. from point) Sharpened, directed, distinguished by punctuation; sharp, abounding with wit.
- Pointedly (adv. from pointed) In a pointed manner.
- Pointedness (s. from pointed) Sharpness, smartness.
- Point'el (s. from point) A pencil, something on a point.
- Point'er (s. from point) One that points, an index, a dog that shews the game.
- Point'ing (p. a. from point) Sharpening, directing, distinguishing by punctuation.
- Point'ing (s. from the part.) The act of sharpening, that which is sharpened; the act of directing; punctuation.
- Point'ingstock (s. from pointing, and stock) The object of ridicule.
- Point'less (adj. from point) Blunt, having no point, obtuse.
- Poifree (s. in botany) A kind of pot herb. Phillips.
- POISE (v. t. from the French poiser, but not so common a spelling) To poize.
- Poised (p. from poise) Poized.
- Poising (p. a. from poise) Poizing.
- POISON (s. from the French) Venom, that which injures health or destroys life though taken but in small quantities; malignity, any thing remarkably injurious to body or mind.
- Poison (v. t. from the sub.) To infect with poison, to destroy by poison; to taint, to corrupt.
- Poisoned (p. from poison) Infected with poison, destroyed by poison, tainted, corrupted.
- Poisoner (s. from poison) One who poisons, one who corrupts.
- Poisoning (p. a. from poison) Infecting by poison, tainting, corrupting.
- Poisonous (adj. from poison) Having the qualities of poison, venomous.
- Poisonously (adv. from poisonous) Venomously, with poison.
- Poisonousness (s. from poison) The quality of being poisonous.
- Poison-tree (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
- Poisonweed (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the toxicodendron.
- Poisy (s. obsolete) Poesy. Chaucer.
- Poisy (adj. obsolete) Poetical. Chaucer.
- POITRAL (s. from the French poitre) A crosslet, armour for the breast of a horse. Scott.
- POITREL (s. the more common spelling) Armour for the breast of a horse; a kind of graving tool.
- POIZE (v. t. from the French poiser) To balance, to hold in equilibrium, to weigh, to oppress with weight.
- Poize (s. from the verb) Weight, force; balance, equipoise.
- Poized (p. from poize) Weighed, balanced, held in equipoise.
- Poizing (p. a. from poize) Weighing, holding in equipoise.
- POKE (s. from the Sax. pocca) A small bag, a pocket; a kind of gown with long sleeves; the place where fellmongers water their skins.
- POKE (v. int. from the Swedish poka) To feel in the dark.
- Poke (v. t.) To feel or search out with a long instrument; with out; as, "Poke out their way."
- Poked (p. from poke) Felt out in the dark, searched out with a long instrument.
- Poker (s. from poke) The iron instrument with which the fire is stirred.
- Poking (p. a. from poke) Feeling in the dark, searching out with a long instrument, stirring the fire with a poker.
- Poking (s. from the part.) The act of searching out with a long instrument.
- POLAND (s. in geography) A large kingdom of Europe.
- Pol'ander (s. from Poland) A native of Poland.
- POLA'QUE (s. a sea term) A kind of ship used in the Mediterranean.
- Polar (adj. from pole) Belonging to the pole, near the pole.
- Polarity (s. from polar) A tendency to the pole, state of having a pole.
- Polarity (adj. from polar) Polar, tending to the pole, having a direction towards the pole.
- Polder (s. a local word) An old tree that has been lopped.
- POLE (s. from the Lat. polus) The extremity of axis of the earth or other planet, either of the poles on which the earth or any other planet is supposed to turn; the extremity of the axis of any other body.
- POLE (s. from the Sax. pol) A long staff, a tall pole of timber slender compared with its length, an instrument for measuring, a measure of length containing five yards and a half.
- Pole (v. t. from the sub.) To furnish with poles.
- POLE (s. from Poland) A native of Poland, one of the people of Poland.
- Poleacre (s. in cookery) A particular way of dressing fowls.
- Poleaxe (s. a different spelling) A poleaxe.
- Poleaxe (s. from pole, and axe) An axe fixed to a pole.
- POL'ECAT (s. in zoology) The fitchew, a kind of animal so called because it abounds in Poland.
- Poleclipt (adj. from pole, and clipt) Clipt in the head. Shakespeare.
- Poled (p. from pole) Furnished with poles.
- Poledavy (s. in commerce) A kind of coarse canvas.
- Polein (s. obsolete) The sharp or pointed end of a line.
- POL'LEINE (s. now grown obsolete) A kind of pole-line.
- POL'LEMARCH (s. from the Greek πολέμαρχος) The general of an army.
- Polemast (s. a sea term) A mast in one single piece.
- POLEMIC (adj. from the Greek πολέμιος) Controversial, belonging to controversy.
- Polemic (s. from the adj.) A controversialist, a disputant.
- Polemical (adj. from polemic) Controversial, belonging to controversy.
- POLEMON (s.) A man's name, an Athenian of a bold and intemperate life remarkably reformed by attending a lecture of Xenocrates on temperance and sobriety.
- POLEMONIA (s. in botany) The wild sage.
- POLEMONICUM (s. in botany, a different spelling) polemonia.
- POL'LEMONY (s. from polemonia) The wild sage, a kind of plant.
- POLEMONOSCOPE (s. from the Greek πολέμοσκος) A kind of glass so constructed as to view objects that do not lie immediately before the eye.
- Poller (s. with tanners) A pole to stir the pits.
- Pollstar (s. from pole, and star) The fixed star in the pole by which sailors generally compute the tude, the lodestar; a guide, a director.
- Pole'ta (s. in old records) The ball of a dog's foot.
- POL'LEY (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
- POL'EYMOUNTAIN (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
- POLIAN'THES (s. in botany, but not so correct a spelling) The polyanthes. Dr. of.
- POLICE (s. from the French) The regulation or government of a community so far as it respects the members of that community.
- Policed (adj. from police) Regulated, formed in regular course of administration.
- POLICY (s. from the Greek πολιτεία) the government of a city) The art of government respecting the powers; art, stratagem; prudent management.
- POLICY (s. from the Spanish policia) A warrant for money in the public funds.
- POL'IFOLIA (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
- Pol'ing (p. a. from pole) Furnishing with poles.
- Pol'ish (adj. from Poland) Belonging to Poland.
- POL'ISH (v. t. from the Lat. polio) To smooth, to brighten by rubbing; to make elegant of manners.
- Pol'ish (v. int.) To receive a gloss, to become polished.
- Pol'ish (s. from the verb) An artificial gloss, brightness given by rubbing; elegance of manners.
- Polishable (adj. from polish) Capable of being polished.
- Polished (p. from polish) Made smooth, made bright by rubbing; refined in manners.

er (s. from polish) One that polishes, an instrument for polishing.
 ing (p. a. from polish) Giving an artificial gloss, making bright by rubbing; making elegant of manners.
 ing (s. from the part.) The act of giving an artificial gloss, the brightness or smoothness given by polishing; a refinement of manners.
 TE (adj. from the Lat. polio to polish) Smooth, tidy; elegant of manners.
 ely (adv. from polite) With elegance of manners.
 eness (s. from polite) Elegance of manners, gentleness, good breeding.
 TIC (adj. from the Greek πολιτικός belonging to a) Relating to politics, relating to the administration of public affairs; cunning, artful.
 ical (adj. from politic) Relating to the administration of public affairs; cunning, artful.
 ically (adv. from political) With relation to public affairs; with art, with cunning.
 cas'ter (s. from politic) A petty pretender to powers.
 cian (s. from politic) One skilled in politics; one deep contrivance.
 ick (adj. the less modern spelling) Politic.
 ickly (adv. from politick) Artfully, cunningly. P.
 is (s. from politic) The science of government, its relative to government.
 ITURE (s. from the French) The gloss communicated in polishing. Johnson.
 IY (s. from the Greek πολιτεία the government of) The form of civil government, civil constitution.
 ve (s. obsolete) A pulley. Chaucer.
 UM (s. in botany) The poleymountain, the name of an herb.
 L (s. from the Dutch polle the top) The head, the low part of the head behind; a register of heads, catalogue of persons; an election in which the votes are registered.
 (s. in ichthyology) The chub, the cheven.
 (v. t. from the sub.) To lop the heads of trees, to lop, to crop, to plunder, to strip; to take a list of persons, to insert as a voter.
 (v. int.) To enter one's name in a list, to vote; to be for; as, "I polled for Lord Harry."
 (adj. a law term) Consisting of one party only, executed by one person only. "I gave my dead poll."
 LA (s.) The name of a woman, the wife of the poet Lucian.
 ard (s. from poll) A tree that has been lopped, a piece of coin that has been clipped.
 ard (s. in ichthyology) The chub, the cheven.
 ard (adj. from the sub.) Lopped, having had the top branches cut off, belonging to a tree that has been lopped.
 LA'VEY (s. supposed to be from the Spanish palabra a word. Flattery.) Scott.
 ed (p. from poll) Lopped, shorn, cropped; entered a list as a voter.
 ed (adj. a law term) Having but one party, executed by one person only.
 LEN (s. the derivation is not noted) A fine powder; fine sort of bran. Johnson.
 enger (s. obsolete) A pollard, an old tree that has been often lopped; the lop of a tree. Tusser.
 LEN'TIA (s. in Roman mythology) The goddess of war.
 er (s. from poll) One who polls, a voter; a robber, a pillager.
 evil (s. from poll, and evil) A disease incident to horses, an impostume on the poll of a horse.
 LEX (s. in anatomy, from the Lat.) The thumb, the car toe.
 LEX (s. in commerce) An inch, a thumb's breadth.
 ilar (adj. from pollex) Belonging to the thumb, measuring an inch. Cole.
 LICEPS (s. in ichthyology) The name of a shell fish.
 LICITATION (s. from the Lat. pollicior to promise, not used) The act of making a free promise. Co.
 LINARIOUS (adj. from the Lat. pollinarius, but not used) Belonging to meal, consisting of meal, like meal.
 LINCTOR (s. from the Lat.) An embalmer, an undertaker. Phillips.
 niture (s. from pollinctor) The act of embalming. Cole.
 ing (p. a. from poll) Lopping, shearing, entering a register, voting.

Poll'ing (s. from the part.) The act of lopping, that which is lopped off; the act of entering in a register, the act of voting at an election.
 POL/LIO (s.) The name of a man, an illustrious Roman the patron of Virgil.
 POL/money (s. from poll, and money) A tax upon heads.
 POL/LOCK (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish.
 Poll'siver (s. from poll, and silver) A polltax, the money heretofore paid on the head of every person from a certain age.
 Poll'tax (s. from poll, and tax) A tax levied on heads.
 POLLU'TE (v. t. from the Lat. polluo) To defile, to make unclean, to taint with guilt, to corrupt, to corrupt by base mixture; to pervert by pollution. M.
 Pollu'ted (p. from pollute) Defiled, tainted, corrupted.
 Pollu'tedness (s. from polluted) Pollution, the state of being polluted.
 Pollu'ter (s. from pollute) One that pollutes.
 Pollu'ting (p. a. from pollute) Defiling, tainting.
 Pollution (s. from pollute) The act of defiling, the state of being defiled.
 POL/LUX (s. in heathen mythology) One of the twin sons of Jupiter by Leda.
 POL/LUX (s. in astronomy) A star of the first magnitude in the constellation of Gemini.
 Polo'nian (s. from Poland) A native of Poland.
 Polo'nian (adj. from Poland) Belonging to Poland.
 Polt (s. a colloquial word) A blow, a kind of push. Sc.
 Polt (v. t. from the sub. colloquial) To strike with a kind of push, to pelt.
 Polt'ed (p. from polt, colloquial) Pelted.
 Polt'ing (p. a. from polt, colloquial) Pelting, striking with a kind of push.
 POLTRO'N (s. from the French) A poltroon, a coward; a bird of prey having the talons of its hinder claws cut off.
 Poltro'nery (s. from poltron) Cowardice. Bailey.
 Poltroon (s. a different spelling) A poltron, a coward.
 POL/VERINE (s. in commerce) The ashes of the herb kali.
 POL/Y (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
 POLYACAN'THA (s. in botany) The carduus, the thistle.
 POLYACAN'THOS (s. in botany) The star thistle.
 POLYACOUSTIC (adj. from the Greek πολυς many, and ακουω to hear) Multiplying sounds, magnifying sounds.
 Polyacoustics (s. from polyacoustic) Instruments for magnifying sounds, instruments for multiplying sounds.
 POLYADELPHIA (s. in botany, from the Greek πολυς many, and αδελφος a brother) A genus of plants distinguished by having their stamina connected in several divisions at the base.
 POLYANDRIA (s. in botany, from the Greek πολυς many, and ανδρ a male) A genus of plants comprehending all those with hermaphrodite flowers and more than twelve stamina.
 POLYANTHEA (s. from the Greek πολυς many, and ανθος a flower) A kind of common plant.
 POLYANTHE'MON (s. in botany) The bachelor's button. Scott.
 POLYANTHE'MUM (s. in botany) A plant with many flowers, the bachelor's button. Phillips.
 POLYANTHES (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 POLYANTHOS (s. in botany) A plant bearing many flowers.
 POLYANTHUS (s. in botany, from the Greek πολυς many, and ανθος a flower) The name of a flower cultivated in gardens, a kind of primrose.
 POLYBIUS (s.) A learned historian born in Arcadia.
 POLYBUS (s.) A man's name, one of Penelope's suitors.
 POLYCARPOUS (adj. in botany, from the Greek πολυς many, and καρπος fruit) Bearing much fruit.
 POLYCHRE'SIS (s. from the Greek, but not used) Any thing useful in various cases. Cole.
 Pol'ychrest (s. from polychreston) The polychreston, a kind of sovereign remedy. Dict. of Arts.
 POLYCHRESTON (s. in pharmacy, from the Greek πολυς many, and χρεος profitable) A kind of unguent reckoned sovereign in many distempers; a kind of chymical salt fit for many operations.
 POLYCHRONIUS (s. with physicians, from the Greek πολυς much, and χρονος time) A chronic disease.
 POLYCNE'MON (s. in botany) The name of an herb, a kind of orgary; a genus of plants.
 POLYDECTUS (s.) The name of a man; a king of Seriphus who as the poets feign was turned into a stone at the sight of Medusa's head.
 POLYCRATES (s.) The name of a man; a famous tyrant of Samos.

- POLYD'AMUS (s.) A man's name; the son in law of Priam who betrayed Troy to the Greeks.
- POLYDORE (s.) A man's name.
- Polye'drical (adj. from polyedra) Having the form of the polyedron, belonging to the polyedron.
- POLYE'DRON (s. in geometry, from the Greek πολυς many, and εδρα a base) A solid figure consisting of many sides.
- Polye'drous (adj. from polyedron) Belonging to the polyedron, having many sides.
- POLY'GALA (s. in botany) The milkwort.
- POLYGALAC'TOS (adj. from the Greek πολυς much, and γαλα milk) Abounding with milk. Phillips.
- POLYGA'LON (s. in botany) The milkwort.
- POLYGA'MIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants distinguished by having flowers male and female.
- Polyg'amist (s. from polygamy) One who holds the lawfulness of having two or more wives at once, one that has practised polygamy.
- POLY'AMY (s. from the Greek πολυς many, and γαμος a marriage) Plurality of wives, the state of having two or more wives at once.
- POLYGAR'CHY (s. from the Greek πολυς many, and αρχη government) That kind of government which is in the hands of many.
- POLYGLOT (adj. from the Greek πολυς many, and γλωττα a tongue) Having many languages, written in many languages.
- POLYGLOT (s. from the adj.) One skilled in several languages; a book written in several languages.
- Polyglott (adj. a different spelling) Polyglot, written in different languages. Scott.
- POLYGLOT'TA (s. in ornithology) The American mock bird.
- POLYGNON'TUS (s.) The name of a man, an excellent painter.
- POLYGNON (s. in geometry, from the Greek πολυς many, and γωνια a corner) A plain figure having more than four angles.
- POLYGON (s. in fortification) A plot of ground having many sides and angles fortified according to the rules of art.
- Poly'gonal (adj. from polygon) Belonging to a polygon, having many angles.
- POLYGONA'TION (s. in botany) The Solomon's seal.
- POLYGONOIDES (s. in botany) The name of an herb having leaves like laurel.
- POLYGO'NUM (s. in botany) The knotgrass.
- POLYGRAM (s. from the Greek πολυς many, and γραμμη a line) A figure consisting of numerous lines.
- POLYGRAM'MOS (s. in natural history) A kind of jasper with many white streaks.
- POLYGROPH'ORA (s. not used) Generous liquors. Pb.
- POLYGRAPHY (s. from the Greek πολυς many, and γραφω to write) The art of writing in various kinds of cypher, the art of decyphering what is written in various and unusual characters.
- POLYGY'NIA (s. in botany, from the Greek πολυς many, and γυνη a female) A genus of plants distinguished by having a great number of pistils.
- Polyhe'dron (s. a different spelling) The polyedron, a multiplying glass.
- Polyhedro'nic (adj. from polyhedron) Belonging to the polyhedron, having many sides.
- Polyhe'drous (adj. from polyhedron) Pertaining to the polyhedron, having many sides.
- POLYHIS'TOR (s. from the Greek πολυς much, and ιστορ learned) A learned man.
- POLYHY'DION (s. in botany) The name of an herb, the lesser centaury.
- POLYHYM'NIA (s. in heathen mythology, from the Greek πολυς many, and υμνος a hymn) The name of one of the nine Muses, the patroness of song.
- POLYL'OGY (s. from the Greek πολυς many, and λογος a word) Tautology, talkativeness.
- POLYL'OQUENT (adj. from the Greek πολυς much, and the Lat. loquor to speak) Talkative. Bailey.
- Poly'mathist (s. from polymathy) One skilled in various arts and sciences. Cole.
- POLY'MATHY (s. from the Greek πολυς much, and μαθησθαι to learn) The knowledge of several arts and sciences, the knowledge of several subjects.
- POLYMITA'RIOUS (s. not used) An embroiderer. Pb.
- POLYMNIA (s. not so common a spelling) Polyhymnia. P.
- POLYMOR'PHEAN (adj. from the Greek πολυς many, and μορφη a form) Having many forms. Cole.
- POLYMOR'PHUM (s. in anatomy) A bone of the foot so called from the diversity of its shape.
- POLYNEU'RON (s. in botany) The name of an herb so called from the number of its small fibres.
- POL'YNICES (s. in the mythology of the poets) The ther of Eteocles; they are said to have slain each other in a duel, and when their bodies were laid on the funeral pile the flames divided and became two rate fires.
- POLYNOM'IAL (adj. in algebra, from the Greek πολυς many, and the Lat. nomen a name) Composed of many names, consisting of many members.
- POLYOP'TRON (s. in optics from the Greek πολυς many, and οπτομαι to see) A glass that multiplies and finishes objects.
- POLYOP'TRUM (s. a different spelling) The polyoptron.
- POLYOS'TEON (s. in anatomy, from the Greek πολυς many, and οσεν a bone) That part of the foot which has a great number of bones.
- POL'YPE (s. from the Greek πολυς many, and περ a foot) The polypus, a small fresh water insect.
- POLYPE'ALOUS (adj. from the Greek πολυς many, and πεταλον a flower leaf) Having many petals.
- POLYPHA'GIA (s. from the Greek πολυς much, and φαγω to eat) The act or practice of eating much, eating.
- Polypha'gian (s. from polyphagia) A great eater.
- Poly'phagy (s. from polyphagia) Gluttony, the practice of eating much.
- POLYPHAR'MACAL (adj. from the Greek πολυς many, and φαρμακον a medicine) Consisting of many medicines, abounding with medicines.
- POL'YPHEME (s. in heathen mythology) A giant with one large eye in the midst of his forehead.
- POLYPHE'MUS (s. a different spelling) Polypheme; of the Cyclops.
- POL'YPHON (s. from the Greek πολυς many, and φωνη a voice) An instrument to multiply or magnify sound, a musical instrument with many strings. Pb.
- Polypho'nes (s. from polyphon) Instruments to multiply or magnify sounds.
- Poly'phonism (s. from polyphon) Multiplying of sound.
- POLYPLEU'RON (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
- POLYPO'DA (s. in botany) The polypodium.
- POLYPO'DIUM (s. in botany) The polypody.
- Poly'pody (s. from polypodium) A genus of mosses.
- Poly'pous (adj. from polypus) Having the nature of polypus.
- POLYPRAGMA'TIC (adj. not used) Very pragmatical.
- Polyprag'mon (s. not used) A very pragmatical word.
- POL'YPTOTE (adj. from the Greek πολυς many, and πτωσις a case) Having many cases.
- Polyptoton (adj. from polyptote) Having many cases.
- Polyptoton (s. from the adj.) A word that has several cases; a figure in which the various cases of a word or tenes of a verb are used in conjoined clauses.
- POL'YPUS (s. in zoology, from the Greek πολυς many, and περ a foot) The polype, a fresh water insect peculiar in form and generation; an animal with many feet.
- POL'YPUS (s. in surgery) A connection of a fleshy substance with various pellicles and fibres.
- POLYPYRE'NOUS (adj. from the Greek πολυς many, and πυρην a kernel) Having many kernels or seeds.
- POLYRRHI'ZON (s. in botany) A kind of birthwort.
- POLYSAR'CHIA (s. from the Greek πολυς much, and αρχη habit, but not much used) Fullness of flesh, grossness of habit. Pb.
- Poly'sarchy (s. from polysarchia) Fullness of flesh, grossness of habit.
- POL'YSCOPE (s. from the Greek πολυς many, and σκοπεω to view) A multiplying glass.
- POL'YSPAST (s. from the Greek πολυς much, and σπαστω to draw) A machine consisting of many pulleys; instrument in surgery to reduce a dislocated bone.
- POLYSPAS'TON (s. from polyspast) The polyspast machine with an assemblage of pulleys. D. of
- POLYSPER'MOUS (adj. from the Greek πολυς many, and σπερμα a seed) Bearing many seeds from one flower.
- POLYSYLLAB'IC (adj. from the Greek πολυς many, and συλλαβη a syllable) Consisting of more than three syllables.
- Poly'syllabical (adj. from polysyllabic) Consisting of many syllables.
- POLYSYL'LABLE (s. from the Greek πολυς many, and συλλαβη a syllable) A word consisting of more than three syllables.
- POLYSYN'DETON (s. in rhetoric, from the Greek πολυς many, and συνδεω to bind) A figure or mode of expression in which the copulative word is repeated as often as possible.
- POLYTHE'ISM (s. from the Greek πολυς many, and θεος God) The doctrine or belief of a plurality of Gods. Polytheism.

P O M

Pom'phry (s. from polytheism) One that holds a plu-of Gods.
POM'PHRY (s. in botany) The maidenhair.
POM'PHRY (s. in botany) A genus of mosses.
POM'PHRY (s. in botany) The maidenhair.
POM'PHRY (s. in natural history) A precious stone veins resembling hairs.
POM'PHRY (s. from the Greek πολυ much, and nourishment) The act or quality of affording nourishment.
POM'PHRY (adj. from polytrophia) Affording much nourishment. Philips.
POM'PHRY (s. in the mythology of the poets) The daughof Priam and wife of Achilles who was sacrificed his death to appease his manes. Ovid.
POM'PHRY (s. in natural history) A precious stone
 many white circular lines.
POM'PHRY (s. from the Lat. pomum an apple) The reof the apple after the cider is pressed out.
POM'PHRY (adj. from the Lat. pomum an apple) of apple.
POM'PHRY (s.) The exercise of vaulting the wooden
Scott.
POM'PHRY (s. from the Lat. pomum an apple) A kind of ant unguent made of apples.
POM'PHRY (s. from the Italian) The pomade.
POM'PHRY (s. from the French pomme d'ambre) A ball, a perfume ball.
POM'PHRY (adj. from pomary) Belonging to an orch-
Cole.
POM'PHRY (s. from the Lat. pomum an apple, but not used) orchard. Cole.
POM'PHRY (s. from the Lat.) An ointment, an unfor the hair.
POM'PHRY (v. int. from the Lat. pomum an apple, but not used) To grow to a round head like an apple. Jo.
POM'PHRY (s. in botany) The citron apple.
POM'PHRY (s. from the Lat. pomum an apple, granatum consisting of granules) The name of a
 the fruit of the tree.
POM'PHRY (s. in botany) The tree that bears granulates.
POM'PHRY (s. in heraldry) The green roundels.
POM'PHRY (adj. an old word) Round, like an apple.
POM'PHRY (s. an old word) The dapple gray. Ph.
POM'PHRY (s. obsolete) A ball. Chaucer.
POM'PHRY (s. in old records) A round ball set on the
 of a building.
POM'PHRY (adj. obsolete) Dapple. Chaucer.
POM'PHRY (s. obsolete) A dapple gray. Cole.
POM'PHRY (s.) The john apple, a kind of apple.
POM'PHRY (s. in geography) A province in Ger-ny.
POM'PHRY (adj. not a common spelling) Postmeri-
Cole.
POM'PHRY (s.) Pomerania. Ainsworth.
POM'PHRY (s.) A kind of apple.
POM'PHRY (s.) The name of an apple.
POM'PHRY (s.) The name of an apple. Scott.
POM'PHRY (s. in heraldry) An apple always painted green.
POM'PHRY (adj. from the Lat. pomum an apple, fero to bear) Bearing fruit like apples, bearing a pulpy fruit.
POM'PHRY (s. a sea term) The calcabel, the hind-knob of a cannon.
POM'PHRY (s. an obsolete spelling) A pommel; a hilt. Chau.
POM'PHRY (adj. in heraldry, a different spelling) Having knobs at the ends, pommelte. Scott.
POM'PHRY (adj. in heraldry) Having round knobs at the ends.
POM'PHRY (s. probably from the Lat. pomum an apple) round ball, the protuberant part of a saddle before, knob at the hilt of a sword.
POM'PHRY (v. t. from the sub. a colloquial word) To to thump, to beat with something thick or to bruise. Johnson.
POM'PHRY (p. from pommel, a colloquial word) Beaten, bruised.
POM'PHRY (p. a. from pommel, a colloquial word) bruising.
POM'PHRY (adj. in heraldry) Having a knob at the end.
POM'PHRY (s. in antiquity) The space near the of a city which was not to be ploughed or cultivated lest it should hinder the defence of the place.
POM'PHRY (s. in heathen mythology) The supposed god or patroness of fruits and gardens.
POM'PHRY (s. from the Lat. pompa) Pride, splendor, a show of greatness, ostentation.
POM'PHRY (adj. from pomp, but not used) Pompous. Co.

P O N

Pom'phry (s. obsolete) Pomp, a plausible pretention. Ch.
Pom'pet (s. in printing) The ball with which the letters are blacked.
POM'PEY (s.) A man's name; a brave Roman.
POMPHOLYGO'DES (s. from the Greek) Urine with many bubbles in it. Scott.
POM'PHOLYX (s. from the Greek πομφολυξ a bubble) A white friable substance adhering to the tops of the vessels in which brais is made.
POM'PILOS (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish said to swim with its belly upwards.
POM'PION (s. from the French pompon) A large kind of fruit, a pumpkin.
Pom'pire (s.) A kind of apple, a sort of pearmain. Ains.
Pom'pous (adj. from pomp) Splendid, grand, done with pomp.
Pom'pously (adv. from pompous) Magnificently, splendidly, with pomp.
Pom'pousness (s. from pompous) Magnificence, splendor, ostentation.
PO'MUM (s. from the Lat.) An apple.
PO'MUMADA'MI (s. in anatomy) The prominence which appears in the upper part of the throat.
PO'MUMAMORIS (s. in botany) The name of a plant,
 the apple of love.
Pom'water (s.) The name of a very large apple. Shakes.
POND (s. from the Sax. pindon to shut up) A pool, a small lake of water, a small collection of water not emitting any stream.
Pond (v. t. obsolete) To ponder. Spenser.
POND'ER (v. t. from the Lat. pondero to weigh) To weigh maturely; to consider, to attend.
Pond'er (v. int.) To think, to muse; with on; "To ponder on things would hurt me more."
Pond'erable (adj. from ponder) Capable of being weighed.
Pond'eral (adj. from ponder) Estimated by weight, measured by scales.
Pondera'tion (s. from ponder) The act of weighing.
Pond'ered (p. from ponder) Weighed, considered.
Pond'erer (s. from ponder) One who ponders.
Pond'ering (p. a. from ponder) Weighing, considering, thinking, musing.
Ponder'ity (s. from ponder, not used) Ponderosity. Cole.
Pond'erize (v. t. from ponder, but not used) To ponder, to weigh. Cole.
Ponderos'ity (s. from ponderous) Weight, heaviness, gravity.
Pond'erous (adj. from ponder) Heavy, weighty; important, momentous, forcible, strong.
Pond'erously (adv. from ponderous) With great weight.
Pond'erousness (s. from ponderous) Weight, heaviness,
 gravity.
POND'US (s. from the Lat. pondus) A pound weight. Ph.
POND'US (s. from the Lat.) A weight, a pound weight;
 poundage. Phillips.
Pond'weed (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
PO'NE (s. a law term) A writ by which a cause depending in the inferior courts is removed into the Common Pleas.
PO'NENT (adj. from the Italian ponente) Western. Milton.
PON'IARD (s. supposed to be from the Lat. pugio to stab) A dagger, a short kind of sword.
Pon'iard (v. t. from the sub.) To stab with a dagger.
Pon'iarded (p. from poniard) Stabbed with a poniard.
Pon'iarding (p. a. from poniard) Stabbing with a poniard.
PONK (s. the derivation is not known) A nocturnal sprite, a hag.
PONSCERE'BRI (s. in anatomy) An assemblage of fibres proceeding from the substance of the brain whence the nerves take their rise.
PONSVARIO'LI (s. in anatomy) The upper part of a duct in the third ventricle of the brain.
PONTACK (s. from the French Pontac) The best sort of claret.
PON'TAGE (s. from the Lat. pons pontis a bridge)
 The expence of repairing bridges, a tax for repairing bridges.
PONTEDE'RIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
PONTEFRAC'T (s.) A borough town in the west riding of Yorkshire; it has a market on Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 175 miles from London.
Pon'tefract (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Pontefract, made at Pontefract.
Pon'tic (adj. from Pontus) Belonging to Pontus. Cole.
PONTICUS (s.) A man's name; a famous heroic poet, cotemporary with Ovid.
PONTIF

- PON'TIF (s. from the Lat. pontifex) A priest, a chief priest, the pope.
- PON'TIFEX (s. from the Lat.) A high priest, the pope, the chief priest among the Romans.
- PON'TIFF (s. a different spelling) A pontif.
- Pontifical (adj. from pontif) Pertaining to a high priest; popish; splendid, magnificent.
- PONTIFICAL (adj. from pons a bridge, and facio to make) Bridge making.
- Pontifical (s. from the adj.) A book containing the rites and ceremonies of the Roman church.
- Pontificalia (s. from pontifical) The dress and ornaments of a priest, the pontificalibus.
- PONTIFICAL/IBUS (s. from the Lat.) The dress of a priest, priest's vestments.
- Pontifically (adv. from pontifical) In the manner of a pontif.
- Pontificate (s. from pontif) The office or dignity of the pope, papacy, popedom.
- PON'TIFICE (s. from the Lat. pons a bridge, and facio to make) The edifice of a bridge.
- PONTIUS (s.) A man's name.
- PONT'LEVIS (s. in the manage) The disorderly action of a horse when he rises to high as to be in danger of coming over.
- PONTO'N (s. from the French) A tin boat used in forming bridges to pass over a river.
- PONTOO'N (s. a sea term) A low flat vessel resembling a lighter.
- PONTVO'LANT (s. from the Lat. pons a bridge, and volo to fly) A moveable bridge used in military operations.
- PON'TUS (s. in ancient geography) A province of the Lesser Asia; the Euxine.
- PONTYPOOL (s.) A town in Monmouthshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 147 miles from London.
- Pontypool (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Pontypool, manufactured at Pontypool.
- PO NY (s. the original is not known) A small horse.
- POOL (s. from the Sax. pol) A small lake, a pond.
- POOL (s.) A borough and port town of Dorsetshire; it has a market on Monday, sends two members to parliament, and is 109 miles from London.
- Pool (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Pool, made at Pool.
- Pooler (s. with tanners) A pole to stir the pits.
- POOP (s. a sea term) The stern of a ship, the hinder part of a ship.
- Poop (s. a cant word from the sound) A small report of wind from behind.
- Poop (v. int. from the sub.) To let a small fart.
- Poop'ing (s. a sea term) The shock of a high and heavy sea on the poop of a ship.
- Poop'ing (p. a. from poop) Letting a small fart.
- Poop'royal (s. a sea term) A short deck or platform placed over the stern of a ship.
- POOR (adj. from the Lat. pauper) Indigent, necessitous, oppressed with want; mean, paltry, contemptible; unimportant, trifling; unhappy, uneasy; lean, starved, barren, dry; flaccid, spiritless; dear, expressive of tenderness: "Poor little, fluttering thing." Wretched, expressing a slight degree of contempt: "The poor fool never saw such a sight before."
- Poor (s. from the adj.) Those who are in want, those who are supported by charity, those who make up the lower class of the people.
- Poor'er (adj. comp. of poor) Poor in a greater degree.
- Poor'est (adj. sup. of poor) Poor in the greatest degree.
- Poor'john (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish.
- Poor'ly (adv. from poor) Without wealth, without prosperity, without spirit, without dignity.
- Poor'ly (adj. from the adv. a colloquial word) Slightly indisposed.
- Poor'ness (s. from poor) The state of being poor.
- Poor'spirited (adj. from poor, and spirit) Mean, cowardly.
- Poor'spiritedness (s. from poor'spirited) Meanness, cowardice.
- POP (s. from the sound) A small quick sound.
- Pop (s. a local word) The foxglove.
- Pop (v. int. from the sub.) To move with a quick unexpected motion, to move in or out with a sudden motion.
- Pop (v. t.) To put out or in suddenly, to shift, to put off.
- PO'PA (s. from the Lat. papa, in Roman antiquity) An inferior priest whose business it was to cut the throat of the beasts slain in sacrifice.
- PO'PÆ (s. plu. of popa) The inferior priests among ancient Romans.
- POPE (s. from the Lat. papa a father) The bishop of Rome.
- POPE (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish.
- Pop'edom (s. from pope) The papacy, the office or dignity of the pope.
- Pop'elere (s. obsolete) The poplar.
- Pop'ellet (s. an old word) A puppet.
- Pop'elin (s. obsolete) A young girl.
- Pop'elot (s. obsolete) A puppet, a little girl.
- Pop'elote (s. an old word) A puppet, a young girl.
- Pop'ere (s. obsolete) A bodkin.
- Pop'ery (s. from pope) The religion of the papists.
- Pop'efeye (s. from pope, and eye) The gland furnished with fat in the middle of the thigh.
- Pop'et (s. an old spelling) A puppet.
- Pop'gun (s. from pop, and gun) A pellet gun, a weapon with which children play.
- Pop'gun (adj. from the sub.) Resembling the gun with which children play, making a noise only. "popgun artillery."
- Pop'il'ian (adj. from Popilius) Belonging to the name of that name.
- POPIL'IUS (s.) The name of several illustrious Romans.
- POPINA (s. from the Lat.) A victualing house, a tavern.
- Pop'inal (adj. from popina) Belonging to a tavern.
- Popina'tion (s. from popina) The practice of frequenting taverns.
- Pop'ingay (s. the old spelling) The popinjay.
- Pop'ingey (s. a different spelling) The popinjay.
- POP-INJAY (s. in ornithology) The parrot, the pecker.
- Pop'injay (s. a cant word) A fop, a trifling fellow.
- Pop'ish (adj. from pope) Taught by the pope, belonging to popery, suited to popery.
- Pop'ishly (adv. from popish) With a tendency to popery, in the manner of the papists.
- POP'LAR (s. in botany, from the Lat. populus) The name of a tree.
- Pop'lar (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the tree made of poplar.
- Pop'lar-tree (s. in botany) The poplar, the name of a tree.
- Pop'leman (s. a local word) A sprite, a hobgoblin.
- POP'LES (s. in anatomy) The inner part of the ture by which the thigh bone is articulated to the tibia.
- POP'LICA'NI (s. in church history) The Manichees.
- POP'LITÆ'US (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the leg.
- POP'LITE'A (s. in anatomy) The vein of the brain.
- POP'LITE'US (s. a different spelling) The popliteus.
- Poplit'ic (adj. from poplitia) Belonging to the popliteus.
- POP'PÆ'AN (adj. with the Romans) Belonging to the law against a single life.
- Pop'ped (p. from pop) Put in or out with a motion; dressed fine; but this sense is obsolete.
- Pop'ping (p. a. from pop) Putting in or out with quick motion, making a noise as with a popgun.
- Pop'ping (s. from the part.) The report of a piece of small arms.
- POP'PY (s. in botany, from the Lat. papaver) The name of a plant, the flower of the plant.
- Pop'py-head (s. from poppy, and head) The head or pod containing the seed of the poppy.
- POP'ULACE (s. from the Lat. populus the people) The common people, the multitude.
- Pop'ulacy (s. not so common a word) The people, the common people.
- Popula'on (s. a different spelling) The population.
- POPULA'GO (s. in botany) The coltsfoot.
- POP'ULAR (adj. from the Lat. popularis) Belonging to the common people, suited to the multitude, popular to the people.
- Popular'ity (s. from popular) The state or circumstance of being popular.
- Popularly (adv. from popular) In a popular manner.
- POP'ULATE (v. int. from the Lat. populus the people) To breed people, to increase in people.
- Pop'ulating (p. a. from populate) Breeding people, increasing in people.
- Popula'tion (s. from populate) The act of peopling a country, the increase of people.
- POPULE'UM (s. in pharmacy) An unguent in which the seeds of poplar make one principal ingredient.

POR

PULIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. populus, the poplar, and fero to bear) Bearing poplars. Cole.
PULOFUGIA (s. in Roman antiquity) A festival to commemorate the flight or escape of the Roman people in the Gallic war.
PULO'NA, POPULO'NIA (s. in heaven mythology) The power or goddess who was supposed to preserve the people and fruits of the earth from storms, lights, and vermin; a name of Juno.
POPULOSITY (s. from populous) Populousness, the state of being populous.
POPULOUS (adj. from the Lat. populosus) Full of people, thickly inhabited.
POPULOUSLY (adv. from populous) With much people.
POPULOUSNESS (s. from populous) The state of being populous.
POPULUS (s. in botany) The poplartree.
POPULUS (s. from the Lat.) The people.
POOR (s. in old records) The poor. Chaucer.
PO'RTA (s. from the Heb. signifying fruitful) A man's name.
PO'RT (s. obsolete) The poor.
PO'RTA (s. in zoology) A sow pig, a porket.
PO'RTA (s. in old records) A ridge of land lying between two furrows.
PO'RTA (s. in botany) The purslain.
PO'RTA (s. in old records) A pigsty.
PO'RTA (s. from porca) A pigsty. Cole.
PO'RTA (s. from the French) China ware.
PO'RTA (adj. from the sub.) China, made of a substance of a middle consistence between earth and glass.
PO'RTA (s. in botany) The purslain. Ainsworth.
PO'RTA (s. in natural history) A kind of single shell, a shell without a hinge.
PO'RTA (s. different spellings) China, china-ware.
PO'RTA (s. in botany) The purslain.
PO'RTA (s. in botany) The purslain.
PO'RTA (s. in the history of insects) The miller.
PO'RTA (s. in zoology) A little hog.
PO'RTA (s. in old records) A young sow that has farrowed but once.
PO'RTA (s. from the Lat. porticus) A roof supported by pillars before a door, a portico.
PO'RTA (s.) The name of a woman.
PO'RTA (adj. from the Lat. porcina pork) Belonging to pork, pertaining to pigs.
PO'RTA (s.) The name of a man.
PO'RTA (s. from the Lat. porcupatio) The act or practice of feeding hogs. Cole.
PO'RTA (s. from the Lat. porcus a pig, and spina thorn) A kind of large hedgehog; it is a native of Africa.
PO'RTA (s. in ichthyology) The hifrix, a kind of eel fish.
PO'RTA (s. in zoology, from the Lat.) A hog.
PO'RTA (s. from the Greek poros) A small hole, a small orifice or passage.
PO'RTA (v. int. perhaps from the Greek poros the optic nerve) To look with great intenseness, to examine with great attention; with on or upon; as, "To pore upon a book."
PO'RTA (adj. from pore, and blind) Purblind, purfrighted. Bacon.
PO'RTA (p. from pore) Looked on with intenseness, examined with more than ordinary attention; with on or upon; as, "Now seldom pored on." Milton.
PO'RTA (s. in botany) A genus of mosses.
PO'RTA (s. in botany) A genus of funguses.
PO'RTA (s. in *geometry, from the Greek poros evident*) theorem, a proposition little short of self evident.
PO'RTA (s. from pore) The state of being porous.
PO'RTA (p. a. from pore) Looking on with intenseness, examining with great attention.
PO'RTA (s. from the part.) The act of looking with intenseness.
PO'RTA (s. from the Greek poros to find out) A theorem, a general rule drawn from the solution of a particular problem.
PO'RTA (adj. from the Greek poros to find out) belonging to that method which determines how any ways a problem may be solved.
PO'RTA (s. from porcus) The flesh of swine, the flesh of the not cured in the manner of bacon.
PO'RTA (v. t. rather colloquial) To feed for pork, to dress pork.
PO'RTA (s. from pork, and eat) One who feeds on pork.

POR

Pork'ed (p. from pork) Fed for pork, dressed for pork.
Pork'er (s. from pork) A pig, a hog.
Pork'et (s. from pork) A young hog.
Pork'ing (p. a. from pork) Feeding for pork, dressing for pork.
Pork'ling (s. from pork) A young pig.
POR/LOCK (s.) A town in Somersetshire; it has a market on Thursday, and is 172 miles from London.
POR/lock (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Porlock, made at Porlock.
POROCE/LE (s. from the Greek poros a callus, and κρη a rupture) A rupture proceeding from hard matter.
POROMPHALUS (s. from the Greek poros a callus, and μυαλος the navel) A callus formed at the navel.
POROPHYL/LUM (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
PO'ROSE (adj. from the Lat. porosus, but not so common a word) Porous.
PORO/SIS (s. from the Greek) The formation of a callus.
Porosity (s. from porose) The state of being porous.
POROT'IC (adj. from the Greek poros a callus) Forming a callus, tending to a callus.
Porot'ic (s. from the adj.) A medicine to turn a part of the nourishment into a callus. Phillips.
PO'ROUS (adj. from the Lat. porosus) Full of pores, having small interstices.
PO'rou'ness (s. from porous) The state of being porous.
Por'pess (s. a different spelling) The porpoise. Dict. of A.
Por'phyre (s. a different spelling) The porphyry. Scott.
Porphy'rian (s. in church history, from Porphyry) One of the Arians of the fourth century.
PORPHYR'ION (s. in the mythology of the poets) One of the giants who made war against heaven.
PORPHYR'ION (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird.
PORPHYRITES (s. in natural history) The porphyry.
PORPHYRITIS (s. in botany) A fig of a purple colour.
PORPHYROGEN/TES (s. in antiquity) The children of the Eastern emperors so called because clothed in purple.
PORPHYRY (s. in *natural history from the Greek πορφυρα purple*) A fine kind of purple marble with white spots.
PORPHYRY (s.) A man's name; a Platonic philosopher and great enemy to the Christians.
Porphyry'shell (s. in natural history) The purpura, a kind of simple shell.
POR/POISE (s. in ichthyology) The sea hog; a large sea fish.
Por'poise (s. in droll style, from the foregoing) A fat person.
POR/PUS (s. in ichthyology) The porpoise.
PORRA/CIOUS (adj. from the Lat. porraceus) Tending to a green colour, greenish.
POR/RAGE (s. a different spelling) Porridge, broth. Scott.
Por'ragepot (s. from porrage, and pot) The pot in which flesh is boiled for the family. Scott.
Por'rager (s. a different spelling) A porringer, a dish in which broth is eaten.
PORREC/TION (s. from the Lat. porrectio, but not much used) The act of stretching forth. Scott.
Por'ringer (s. a different spelling) A porringer. Scott.
POR/RET (s. from the Lat. porrum) A scallion, a leek.
PORRE/TION (s. in church history) One of a sect in France who made a physical distinction between God and his attributes.
Por'ridge (s. from porrum) Broth, food made by boiling flesh in water.
Por'ridgepot (s. from porridge, and pot) The pot in which flesh is boiled.
Por'ringer (s. from porridge) A vessel in which broth is eaten; a head dress in form of a porringer. Skak.
POR/RUM (s. in botany) The leek.
POR/RUS (s. in botany) The leek.
POR/RUS (s. in surgery) A kind of wart.
PORT (s. from the Lat. portus) A harbour, a safe station for ships.
PORT (s. from the Lat. porta) A gate, the aperture in a ship at which the mouth of a cannon is put out.
PORT (s. from the Lat. porto to carry) Carriage, behaviour.
Port (s. in commerce) Wine the produce of Portugal.
PORT (s.) The court of the Grand Signior.
Port (s. from Portugal) A Portuguese coin; a piece of Portugal money.
PORT (v. t. from the Lat. porto) To carry in form. Mt.
PORT (s. a sea term) The left side of a ship.
Port (v. t. a sea term) To put the helm to the left side of the ship.

PORTA

POR'TA (s. in anatomy) One of the three principal veins of the human body.

Port'able (adj. from port) Capable of being carried from place to place, capable of being managed by hand; supportable, sufferable.

Port'ableness (s. from portable) The state or quality of being portable.

Port'age (s. from port) The price of carriage; a port hole.

PORT'AIL (s. in architecture) The decorations of a front gate.

PORT'AL (s. from the Lat. porta) A gate, the arch under which the gate opens.

PORT'ANCE (s. from the Lat. porto to carry) The port, the carriage, the behaviour. Shakespeare.

Port'a's (s. obsolete) A breviary, a prayer book. Spenser.

POR'TATE (s. in heraldry) A cross leaning bendwise as though carried on the shoulder.

Port'tate (adj. in heraldry) Leaning as though carried on the shoulder for its greater security.

POR'TATE (adj. from the Lat. porto to bear, but not used) Bearing, bringing. Cole.

Port'tatife (adj. obsolete) Portable. Chaucer.

PORTCRAY'ON (s. from port, and crayon) A pencil-case.

Portcul'lice (s. a different spelling) A portcullis. D. of A.

Portcul'lice (s.) The title of one of the pursuivants at arms. Bailey.

PORTCUL'LIS (s. supposed to be from the Lat. porta a gate, and clausa shut) A kind of machine like a harrow hung over the gates of a city to let down on occasion.

Portcul'lis (v. t. from the sub.) To bar, to shut up, to secure with a portcullis.

Portcul'lished (p. from portcullis) Barred, shut up; with with; as, "Portcul'lished with my teeth and lips." Shakespeare.

Portcul'lishing (p. a. from portcullis) Barring, shutting up.

PORT'CLUSE (s. a different spelling, from the Lat. porta a gate, and clausa shut) A portcullis; a drawbridge.

PORT'DIEU (s. with the French) A parish priest.

PORTE (s. a different spelling) The port, the court of the Grand Signior.

Porte (s. an obsolete spelling) Port, carriage, behaviour. Chaucer.

Port'ed (p. from port) Carried in an orderly manner. Milton.

Port'egue (s. from Portugal) A Portuguese coin valued at three pounds twelve shillings. Fisher.

PORTEND (v. t. from the Lat. portendo) To betoken, to forebode.

Porten'ded (p. from portend) Foreboded, foretokened.

Porten'ding (p. a. from portend) Foreboding, foretokening.

Porten'sion (s. from portend) The act of foretokening. Brown.

Porten't (s. from portend) An ill omen, a prodigy foretokening misery. Dryden.

PORTENTIFICAL (adj. from the Lat. portentum a prodigy, and facio to make, but not much used) Producing prodigies. Cole.

Portent'ous (adj. from portent) Prodigious, foreboding ill.

Portent'ousness (s. from portentous) The state or quality of being portentous.

FOR'TEPAINÉ (s. from the French) A kind of towel in which bread is brought to table. Phillips.

POR'TER (s. from the Lat. porta a gate) One that waits at a gate.

POR'TER (s. from the Lat. porto to carry) One that carries burdens for hire.

Port'er (s. a cant word, from the foregoing) A kind of strong beer much drank by porters in the city of London.

Port'erage (s. from porter) The hire of a porter, the money paid for carriage.

Port'e'ris (s. from porter) A female who waits at a gate, a female who carries burdens for hire.

Port'tesse (s. obsolete) A breviary, a prayer book. John.

Port'fire (s. with engineers) A kind of fire or match for discharging cannon.

POR'TGLAIRE (s.) A swordbearer.

Port'grave (s. obsolete) The keeper of a gate. Johnson.

Port'greve (s. obsolete) The keeper of a gate, the governor of a seaport. Phillips.

Port'guidon (s. an old word) The cornet of a troop. Co.

Port'holes (s. obsolete) Ports. Chaucer.

Port'hole (s. from port, and hole) One of the holes in the side of a ship through which the cannon are presented.

Por'those (s. obsolete) A breviary, a prayer book. Chaucer.

POR'TICO (s. from the Lat. porticus) A covered walk, a piazza.

PORTIFO'RUM (s. in old records) An ensign or banner heretofore carried before the priest in any solemn procession.

POR'TIODU'RA (s. in anatomy) One of the two divisions of the fifth pair of nerves before its egress from the dura mater.

POR'TIOMOL'LIS (s. in anatomy) One of the two divisions of the fifth pair of nerves before its egress from the dura mater.

POR'TION (s. from the Lat. portio) A part, an allotment, a dividend, the part of an inheritance given to a child, a fortune, the fortune of a wife; the allowance which a vicar receives out of an impropriation.

Port'ion (v. t. from the sub.) To divide, to parcel, to endow with a fortune.

Port'ioned (p. from portion) Endowed with a portion, parcelled, divided.

Port'ioner (s. from portion) One that divides; a clergyman who serves with another and receives a part of the profits of the living.

Port'ioning (p. a. from portion) Parcelling out, endowing with a portion.

POR'TLAND (s. in geography) A peninsula in Dorsetshire famous for producing the best freestone.

Port'landstone (s. from Portland, and stone) An excellent kind of freestone much used in building.

Port'last (s. a sea term) The gunwale.

Port'lier (adj. comp. of portly) Portly in a greater degree.

Port'liest (adj. sup. of portly) Portly in the greatest degree.

Port'liness (s. from portly) Dignity of mien, grandeur of deportment.

Port'ly (adj. from port) Grand of mien, bulky, swelling.

Port'man (s. from port, and man) A burgher of a cinque port.

Portman'nimote (s. in old records) The portmote.

POR'TMAN'TEAU (s. from the French portemanteau) A kind of mail or bag in which cloaths are carried; the pins on which cloaths are hung in a wardrobe. Scott.

Port'mantle (s. the less formal spelling) A portmanteau.

Port'men (s. plu. of portman) Two or more burghers of a cinque port.

Port'mote (s. from port, and mote) A court held in port towns.

Port'motecourt (s. from portmote, and court) The court held in port towns.

Port'nail (s. from port, and nail) A nail used to fasten the hinges to the port hole.

Port'oise (adv. a sea term) With the yards struck down to the deck.

Port'raie (v. t. an obsolete spelling) To portray, to paint. Chaucer.

POR'TRAIT (s. from the French pourtrait) A picture drawn to the life.

Port'rait (v. t. from the sub.) To portray, to draw to the life. Spenser.

Port'raitpainter (s. from portrait, and painter) A painter who draws to the life.

Port'raiture (s. from portrait) A picture, a painted semblance.

Port'raitour (s. obsolete) A painter of portraits. Chaucer.

POR'TRAY (v. t. from the French pourtraire) To paint to describe by pictures, to adorn with pictures.

Port'rayed (p. from portray) Painted, pictured, drawn to the life.

Port'raying (p. a. from portray) Painting, picturing, drawing to the life.

Port'reis (s. from porter) A female who keeps a gate.

Port'rid (p. obsolete) Portrayed. Chaucer.

Port'rope (s. a sea term, from port, and rope) The rope that hauls up the port of the ordnance.

Port'sale (s. from port, and sale) A sale of fish just as they come into port.

POR'TSMOUTH (s.) A borough and port town in Hampshire; it is a principal station of the navy, has a market on Thursday and Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 73 miles from London.

Port'smouth (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Portsmouth, made at Portsmouth, stationed at Portsmouth.

Port'oken (s. a different spelling) The portoken.

Port'oken (s. an old law term) The liberties of a town or city.

Port'tuas (s. obsolete) A breviary, a massbook. Port.

Portvent (s. in an organ) The wooden pipe which conveys the wind from the bellows to the sound board.

Portugaise (s. a different spelling) A portegue, a piece of Portuguese money of three pounds twelve shillings value.

Portugal (s. in geography) The most western kingdom on the continent of Europe.

Portugal (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Portugal, produced in Portugal, imported from Portugal.

Portuguese (adj. from Portugal) Belonging to Portugal.

Portuguese (s. from the adj.) A native of Portugal; the people of Portugal.

Portulaca (s. in botany) The purslain.

Portumnus, Portunus (s. in heathen mythology) A supposed sea god.

Portunalia, Portunalia (s. in antiquity) A festival in honour of Portumnus.

Portuose, Portuous (s. obsolete) A breviary, a kind of prayer book.

Portwine (s. from Portugal, and wine) Wine the produce of Portugal.

Porus (s. from the Lat.) A pore, a duct.

Pory (adj. from pore) Full of pores.

Porzana (s. in ornithology) The name of a water fowl, the girandine.

Posad (s. not used) A resting place, the act of a bird in lighting down on any thing.

Posaune (s. from the Teutonic) A sackbut, a kind of baïe trumpet.

Posca (s. in commerce) A small kind of wine, wine mixed with water in the press.

Poser (v. t. from the French poser) To put to a stand, to puzzle; to oppose, to interrogate.

Posel (adj. in heraldry) Standing still, having all the four feet on the ground.

Poser (s. from the French poser) A cold, a rheum in the head.

Poser (v. t. obsolete) To suppose.

Posed (p. from poser) Put to a stand, puzzled, interrogated.

Poser (s. from poser) One that puzzles, one that interrogates.

Posey (s. from pono to put) A nosegay; a motto.

Posid (adj. obsolete) Pushed, thrust, tossed.

Posidium (s. in chronology) The seventh month of the Athenian year answering to the moon of our December.

Posing (p. a. from poser) Putting to a stand, puzzling, interrogating.

Posited (adj. from the Lat. pono to put) Placed, ranged.

Position (s. from the Lat. pono positus to put) The state of being placed; situation; a principle laid down; a principle advanced.

Position (s. in grammar) The state of a vowel placed before two consonants.

Position (s. in arithmetic) A method of solution in which one or more numbers are supposed in order to find the true answer.

Positional (adj. from position) Respecting position.

Positive (adj. from the Lat. positivus) Real, absolute, capable of affirmation; dogmatical, stubborn in opinion; settled by arbitrary appointment, sure, certain.

Positive (s. from the adj.) An affirmation, the affirmative side of a question.

Positively (adv. from positive) Absolutely, by way of direct position; certainly, without doubt; peremptorily, in strong terms.

Positiveness (s. from positive) The state or circumstance of being positive.

Positivity (s. from positive) Confidence, peremptoriness.

Positure (s. from the Lat. positura) The disposition of any thing, the manner in which any thing is placed.

Posnet (s. supposed to be from the French bassinet) A little basin, a porringer, a skillet.

Posse (s. from the Lat. possum to be able) An armed force collected out of the people, a number of people collected together, a kind of rabble.

Posse (s. with me abhysical writers) The possibility.

Possecomitatus (s. from the Lat. posse to be able, and comitatus the shire) The power of the shire; the armed force of a county assembled on any urgent occasion.

Posed (adj. an old word) Pushed, tossed.

Posse (v. t. from the Lat. possideo) To have as an owner, to occupy; to seize, to obtain; to effect by inward power; to give possession; with of, and sometimes with with before that which is possessed; as,

"This possesses us of the most valuable blessing." "To possess our minds with an habitual good."

Possessed (p. from posseds) Enjoyed as a possession, occupied, seized, obtained, influenced by an unaccountable operation; with of, and sometimes with with; as, "Possessed of all the advantages of external condition." "Possessed with honest minds."

Possessing (p. a. from posseds) Having as an owner, occupying, seizing, obtaining, giving possession, influencing by an unaccountable operation.

Possession (s. from posseds) The state of occupation, the thing possessed.

Possession (v. t. obsolete) To invest with property.

Possessor (s. from possession) A master, one that has property or power of any thing.

Possessive (adj. from posseds) Belonging to possession, having possession.

Possessive (s. from the adj.) A pronoun signifying possession.

Posse'sor (s. the modern spelling, from the Lat.) An owner, a master, a proprietor.

Possessory (adj. from posseds) Belonging to possession, having possession.

Possessor (s. the less modern spelling, from the French possesseur) A possessor.

Possest (v. t. pret. of posseds) Possessed, did possess.

Possest (p. from posseds) Possessed.

Posset (s. from the Lat. posca) Milk curdled with some acid.

Posset (v. t. from the sub. but not used) To curdle, to turn.

Possibility (s. a Sax. law term) An act willfully done.

Possibility (s. from possible) The state of being possible.

Possible (adj. from the Lat. possum to be able) Capable of being done, capable of existence.

Possibility (s. from possible) Possibility, the state of being possible.

Possibly (adv. from possible) In a manner possible.

Possed (adj. obsolete) Pushed, tossed.

Possum (s. in zoology, a different spelling) The opossum.

Post (s. from the French poste) A hasty messenger, a courier who comes and goes at stated times, a letter carrier.

Post (s. from the Lat. positus placed) A seat, a station, an office, an employment; a military station.

Post (s. from the Lat. postis) A piece of timber set erect.

Post (v. int. from the sub.) To travel with speed.

Post (v. t. from the sub.) To expose by making public, exposing by advertising in a news paper or by fixing bills on posts.

Post (v. t. from the sub.) To place, to fix, to station; to register, to transcribe from one book into another; to put off, to delay; but this sense is now grown obsolete.

Post (adj. from the Lat.) Backward, done in a backward direction.

Postage (s. from post) The money paid for carriage of letters.

Postboy (s. from post, and boy) A carrier, a boy that carries letters.

Postbrachialia (s. in anatomy) The four bones that make up the palm of the hand.

Postchaise (s. from post, and chaise) A chaise let for hire, a chaise like one let for hire.

Postchariot (s. from post, and chariot) A chariot let for hire, a chariot accommodated to speedy travelling.

Postcoach (s. from post, and coach) A coach let for hire, a coach in which people travel with expedition.

Postcommunion (s. from the Lat. post after, and communio communion) The service in the church after communion.

Postdate (v. t. from the Lat. post after, and do datus to give) To date later than the real time.

Postdated (p. from postdate) Dated later than the real time.

Postdating (p. a. from postdate) Dating later than the real time.

Postdiluvian (adj. from the Lat. post after, and diluvium the flood) Succeeding the general deluge.

Postdiluvian (s. from the adj.) One who lived since the general deluge.

Postdisseisin (s. a law term) A writ to put a disseisor out of possession.

Post (s. obsolete) Power.

Postea (s. a law term) The record in the court of Common Pleas after a verdict.

POS

Post'ed (p. from post) Placed, stationed; exposed by public advertisements.

Post'er (s. from post) A courier, one that travels hastily.

Poste'rior (adj. from the Lat. post) Placed after, happening after, placed backward.

Poste'riety (s. from posterior) The state of being posterior.

Poste'riorness (s. from posterior) The state of being posterior.

Poste'riors (s. not much used in the singular) The hinder parts, the fundament with the parts adjacent.

Poste'riety (s. from posterior) Succeeding generations, descendants.

POS'TERN (s. from the Dutch posterne) A small gate, a little door.

POSTEXISTENCE (s. from the Lat. post after, and existo to exist) Future existence.

Post'fine (s.) A duty formerly paid to the king for a fine.

Posthack'ney (s. from post, and hackney) A post horse, a horse hired to ride post.

Post'haste (s. from post, and haste) The speed of one who rides post.

Post'haste (adv. from the sub.) With the haste of one who rides post.

Post'horse (s. from post, and horse) A horse provided for one who rides post.

Post'house (s. from post, and house) A post office.

POST'HUME (adj. from the Lat. post after, and humus the ground, but not so common a word) Posthumous. Pb.

Post'hume (s. from the adj.) One born after the father's death. Cole.

Posthu'mian (adj. from posthume) Belonging to a child born after the father's death. Cole.

POST'HUMOUS (adj. from the Lat. post after, and humus the ground) Born after the father's death, published after the author's death.

POST'HUMUS (s.) A man's name.

POST'IC (adj. from the Lat. posticus) Backward. Brown.

POST'ICUM (s. in architecture) A postern, a small gate, a back gate.

POST'IL (s. from the Lat. postilla) A marginal note, a gloss or note inserted in the margin posterior to the text.

Post'il (v. t. from the sub.) To gloss, to add by inserting marginal notes.

Post'illed (p. from postil) Illustrated with marginal notes.

Post'iller (s. from postil) One who illustrates by adding marginal notes.

Postil'lia (s. from postil) A postil. Scott.

Post'illing (p. a. from postil) Illustrating with marginal notes.

POSTIL'LION (s. from the French) One who guides the first pair of horses in a coach; one who drives a post chaise.

POST'IQUE (s. in architecture) An ornament in sculpture added after the principal work is done.

Postlim'nage (s. an old word) The return of a person thought to have been dead, postliminy. Cole.

POSTLIM'INOUS (adj. from the Lat. post after, and limen an end) Done afterwards, continued afterwards.

Postlim'iny (s. from postliminous) The return of a person thought to have been dead; a restoration from banishment or exile; the act of taking possession of a house by entering at a hole in the wall the way by the threshold being thought ominous.

Post'man (s. from post, and man) A man who rides with the mail, a letter carrier.

Post'master (s. from post, and master) One who has the charge of a post office.

Post'mastergeneral (s. from post, master, and general) He who presides over the general post office.

POSTMERID'IAN (adj. from the Lat. post after, and meridiem noon) Done in the afternoon, happening in the afternoon.

Post'nate (adj. from postnatus) Born after. Cole.

Post'nati (s. plu. of postnatus) Younger sons, persons born after.

POSTNAT'US (s. from the Lat. post after, and natus born) A second son, one born after.

Post'office (s. from post, and office) A posthouse, an office where letters are received and delivered.

Post'ome (s. an old spelling) An impostume. Chaucer.

POSTPONE (v. t. from the Lat. post after, and pono to put) To put off, to delay; to set aside as less important.

Postpo'ned (p. from postpone) Put off, delayed, set aside as less important.

POT

Postpo'ning (p. a. from postpone) Putting off, delaying.

POSTRID'UAN (adj. from the Lat. post after, and a day) Done the next day.

Post'road (s. from post, and road) The road on which the post travels.

POSTSCEN'IUM (s. with the Romans) The back part of the theatre, the part behind the scenes.

POST'SCRIPT (s. from the Lat. post after, and scribo to write) A paragraph at the end of a letter, the which is written after.

Post'stage (s. from post, and stage) The place where the post changes his horse, the place where post horses were kept.

Post'term (s. a law term) The return of a writ at the expiration of the term.

Post'town (s. from post, and town) A town through which the post passes, a town where there is a post office.

POST'VENE (v. int. from the Lat. post after, and venio to come) To come after.

Postven'tional (adj. from postvene) Coming after.

POST'VITA (s. in beaten mythology) An inferior divinity supposed to have had some influence on teasing women.

Postula'ta (s. plu. of postulatam, a scientific word) The fundamental principles of an art or science; demands, requests.

POST'ULATE (v. t. from the Lat. postulo) To take for granted, to assume without proof. Brown.

Post'ulate (s. from the verb) A position without proof, an assumption.

Post'ulated (p. from postulate) Taken for granted, assumed without proof. Brown.

Post'ulating (p. a. from postulate) Taking for granted, assuming without proof.

Post'ulation (s. from postulate) The act of supposing without proof, an assumption.

Post'ulatory (adj. from postulate) Assumed without proof, taken for granted.

POSTULA'TUM (s. from the Lat. postulo to demand) A position taken without proof, a first principle.

POST'URE (s. from the Lat. postura) An attitude of the body, a particular manner of disposing the body of any part of it; a state, a disposition; a place, a situation.

Post'ure (v. t. from the sub.) To put into any particular place or situation.

Post'ured (p. from posture) Placed in some particular order, situated.

Post'uremaster (s. from posture, and master) One who practises artificial distortions of the body.

Pot'y (s. from potey) A motto; a bunch of flowers.

POT (s. from the French) The vessel in which meat is boiled on the fire; a cup, an earthen vessel to hold liquor. "To go to pot," to be destroyed; but this chiefly used in low or droll style.

POT (s. in Guernsey) A liquid measure, half a gallon.

Pot (v. t. from the sub.) To inclose in pots, to preserve in pots.

Pot (v. int.) To drink.

POT'ABLE (adj. from the Lat. poto to drink) Drinkable.

Pot'ableness (s. from potable) Drinkableness.

Pot'age (s. from pot) Porridge, broth.

Pot'ager (s. from potage) A porringer.

POTAG'RO (s. in confectionary) A kind of pickle imported from the West Indies.

POTAM'IDES (s. in the mythology of the poets) The nymphs of the rivers.

POTAMOG'ETON (s. in botany) The pondweed, genus of plants.

POTAMOP'ITHYS (s. in botany) The elatine.

Pot'ance (s. with watchmakers) The stud in which the lower pivot of the verge plays.

Pot'ance (s. in heraldry) A cross cramponne.

POT'ASH (s. from the French potasse) The lixivious ashes of certain vegetables.

POTA'TION (s. from the Lat. poto to drink) The act of drinking, a drinking bout.

POTA'TO (s. in botany) A kind of solanum, a well known plant; the edible root of the plant.

Pot'bellied (adj. from potbelly) Having a prominent belly.

Pot'belly (s. from pot, and belly) A prominent belly.

POTCH (v. t. from the French pocher) To thrust, to push; to poach, to boil slightly.

Potch'ed (p. from potch) Poached, boiled slightly.

Potcompanion (s. from pot, and companion) A companion in drinking, a fellow drinker, a good fellow at drinking bouts.

POT

(v. t. a local word) To push.
nce (s. from potent) Potency.
cy (s. from potent, a more common word) Potence, power, influence; efficacy, strength.
nt (adj. in heraldry) Having the ends formed in the manner of a crutch.
ENT (adj. from the Lat. possum to be able) Powerful; efficacious; having great authority, having great dominions.
nt (s. obsolete) A crutch. Chaucer.
ntate (s. from potent) A monarch, a sovereign, a prince.
ENTIA (s. with scientific writers from the Lat.) Power, that by which any thing becomes capable.
ntial (adj. from potent) Existing in possibility; efficacious, powerful; belonging to that mode of a verb in grammar which denotes possibility.
ntial (s. from the adj.) The mode of a verb which denotes possibility; that which gives power.
ntiality (s. from potential) Possibility.
ntially (adv. from potential) In possibility, in efficacy.
ntialness (s. from potential) Potentiality.
ENTIL'LA (s. in botany) Cinquefoil, a genus of plants.
ntly (adv. from potent) Powerfully, forcibly.
ntness (s. from potent) Might, power, potency.
ERIUM (s. in botany) The burnet, a genus of plants.
state (s. obsolete) A chief magistrate. Chaucer.
gun (s. probably a corruption) A popgun. Chaucer.
hanger (s. from pot, and hanger) A branch with hooks to hang the pot over the fire.
ecary (s. a contraction) An apothecary. Pope.
ecaries (s. an obsolete spelling) Apothecaries. Chaucer.
HER (s. of doubtful etymology) A bustle, a flutter; suffocating kind of heat. er (v. int. from the sub.) To make a bustle, to hurry ones self to no purpose.
er (v. t.) To hurry, to flutter.
erb (s. from pot, and herb) An herb fit for the pot, edible herb.
ered (p. from pother) Put into a bustle; affected with a kind of suffocating heat.
ering (p. a. from pother) Bustling, wearing oneself to little purpose.
ook (s. from pot, and hook) The hooked instrument by which a pot is suspended over the fire; an informed letter such as boys usually make when they begin to write.
THOS (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
UNA (s. in heathen mythology) An inferior divinity supposed to have had influence in giving drink to children.
ION (s. from the Lat. poto to drink) A physical draught, a draught.
IPHAR (s. from the Heb. signifying a fat bull) A man's name.
IPHE'RA (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.
id (s. from a pot, and lid) The cover of a porridge pot.
O'RIOUS (adj. from the Lat. poto to drink, but not to drink) Drinking, belonging to drink, abounding with drink.
ourry (s. a different spelling) A potpauzzy. Phillips.
auzzy (s. in cookery) A hotchpotch. Bailey.
ard (s. from pot, and shard, supposed to be the most proper spelling) A potsherd, the fragment of a broken pot. Johnson.
herd (s. the common spelling) The fragment of a broken pot.
age (s. from pot) Porridge, broth, something boiled in the pot for food.
ed (p. from pot) Preserved in a pot, put into a pot.
er (s. from pot) A maker of earthen ware.
ernore (s. with miners) A kind of ore used by miners to glaze their ware. Boyle.
ery (s. from potter) The work of a potter, the place where earthenware is made.
ing (p. a. from pot) Putting into pots, preserving pots, drinking.
ng (s. from the part.) The act of drinking, potting.
le (s. from pot) A liquid measure containing four pints.
TON (s.) A town in Bedfordshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 49 miles from London.
on (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Potton, made of Potton.

Bailey.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

Chaucer.

POU

Potva'lliant (adj. from pot, and valiant) Spirited up by strong drink.
POT'ULENT (adj. from the Lat. potulentus) Fit to drink; nearly drunk.
POUCH (s. from the French poche) A small bag, a pocket; a big belly in droll style.
Pouch (v. t. from the sub.) To pocket, to swallow.
Pouch (v. int.) To pout, to hang down the lip.
Pouch'ed (p. from pouch) Pocketed, swallowed, put up as in a pouch.
Pouch'ing (p. a. from pouch) Pocketing, putting up in a pouch, swallowing.
Pouch'mouth (s. from pouch, and mouth) A mouth with blubbered lips.
Pouch'mouthed (adj. from pouchmouth) Having thick or blubbered lips.
Poud (s. a local word) A bile, an ulcer. Bailey.
Poud're (s. an obsolete spelling) Powder. Chaucer.
Pov'ler (adj. obsolete) Poor. Chaucer.
Pov'erly (adv. obsolete) Poorly. Chaucer.
Pov'ert (s. obsolete) Poverty. Chaucer.
Pov'ertie (s. obsolete) Poverty. Chaucer.
POVERTY (s. from the Lat. pauper poor) Indigence, want; meanness, defects. Chaucer.
Pov'ir (adj. obsolete) Poor. Chaucer.
POULAIN (s. in surgery) A hub. Chaucer.
Poulce (s. an obsolete spelling) The pulse. Chaucer.
Poul'davis (s. in commerce) A kind of coarse linen cloth.
POULT (s. from the French poulet) A young chick.
Poult'er (s. from poult) One who sells fowls ready for the spit.
POULTICE (s. from the Lat. pultis) A cataplasm, a soft mollifying application.
Poult'ice (v. t. from the sub.) To apply a cataplasm made of soft mollifying ingredients.
Poult'iced (p. from poultice) Accommodated with a poultice.
Poult'icing (p. a. from poultice) Applying a poultice.
Poult'is (s. a different spelling) A poultice. Scott.
Poult'ive (s. not much used) A poultice. Temple.
POUL'TON (s.) A town in Lancashire; it has a market on Monday, and is 229 miles from London.
Poult'on (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Poulton, made at Poulton.
Poultry (s. from poult) Domestic fowls, a place where fowls are sold ready for the spit.
POUNCE (s. from the Italian pouzone) The talon of a bird.
Pounce (v. t. from the sub.) To pierce, to perforate; to pour or sprinkle through small perforations.
Pounce (s. from the verb) A kind of powder with which paper is sprinkled to keep the ink from running.
Pou'ncebox (s. from pounce, and box) A small box to keep pounce in.
Pounced (adj. from pounce) Furnished with claws, having talons.
Pounced (p. from pounce) Pounced, perforated, sprinkled with pounce.
Poun'cebox (s. from pounce, and box) A small box with perforations. Shakespeare.
Poun'cy (v. t. an old word) To cut, to jagg. Pb.
POUND (s. from the Lat. pondo to weigh) A denomination of weight, twelve ounces troy, sixteen ounces avoirdupois; a denomination of money, twenty shillings.
POUND (s. from the Sax. pindon to inclose) An inclosure, a pinfold, a prison for cattle.
POUND (v. t. from the Sax. punion) To beat, to grind with a pestle; to shut up, to imprison as cattle.
Pound'age (s. from pound) A certain sum by the pound, a payment rated by the weight of the commodity.
Pounda'gium (s. in old records) The liberty of pounding cattle.
Pound'ed (p. from pound) Beaten, ground with a pestle; shut up, imprisoned as cattle in a pound.
Pound'er (s. from pound) A great gun; a pestle; a large kind of pear.
Pound'ing (p. a. from pound) Beating, grinding as with a pestle; shutting up, putting into a pound.
Pound'weight (s. from pound, and weight) A weight of twelve ounces troy, a weight of sixteen ounces avoirdupois.
Poup'ed (v. pret. obsolete) Made a popping kind of noise with a trumpet. Chaucer.
POU'PETON (s. from the French poupée) A puppet, a little baby.
Pou'peton (s. in cookery) A complicated kind of ragoo.
POUPIETS (s. in cookery) A kind of face with veal cutlets and slices of bacon.

POUR

P O W

POUR (v. t. supposed to be from the Brit. hwrw) To empty out of one vessel into another, to emit, to let out, to send forth in a continued course.

Pour (v. int.) To stream, to flow; to rush with tumult.

POURCOUN'TREL (s. in ichthyology) The polypus.

Pourde (p. obsolete) Poured. Chaucer.

Poure (v. int. an obsolete spelling) To pour upon. Cb.

Poured (p. from pour) Emptied, emitted, sent forth in a continued course.

Pour'er (s. from pour) One that pours.

Pourfil (s. not so common or correct a spelling) A profile, a side view. Scott.

Pour'ing (p. a. from pour) Emptying, emitting, sending forth with a continued course.

Pourli'eu (s. not so common a spelling) A purlieu, a border. Milton.

POUR/PARTY (s. a law term) A division of lands among partners which were before held in common.

POUR/PRESTURE (s. a law term) An incroachment on any thing that belongs to the king or the public.

Pourse (s. an old spelling) A purse. Chaucer.

Poursue (v. t. an obsolete spelling) To pursue. Chau.

P ur'suivant (s. not so common a spelling) A pursuivant, a state messenger. Scott.

Pour'trait (s. not so common a spelling) A portrait. D. of A.

Pour'tray (v. t. not so common a spelling) To portray. B.

Pourvey (v. t. not so common a spelling) To purvey. Pb.

Pourvey'ance (s. not so common a spelling) Purveyance, provision for the king's household. Scott.

POURVEY/OR (s. from the French pourvoir to provide) A purveyor, one that provides. Scott.

Pease (s. an old word) Pease and beans, pease. Sp.

POUT (s. in zoology) The name of a fish, the name of a bird.

POUT (v. int. from the French pouter to thrust out) To look fullen by thrusting out the lips; to hang prominent.

Pout'ing (p. a. from pout) Thrusting out the lips, looking fullen.

Pout'ing (s. from the part.) The act of looking fullen.

Pout'ing (s. in ichthyology) A fish of the gadus kind.

POUZ'ZEL (s. in natural history) A kind of red earth, a kind of sand used in Italy.

POW'DER (s. from the French poudre) Dust, any thing ground small; dust prepared for the hair; gunpowder.

Pow'der (v. t. from the sub.) To reduce to dust, to pound small; to sprinkle as with dust, to sprinkle with salt.

Pow'der (v. int. a cant word) To come tumultuously.

Pow'derbox (s. from powder, and box) A box in which powder is kept for the hair.

Pow'derchest (s. from powder, and chest) A chest in which gunpowder is kept on board a ship.

Pow'dered (p. from powder) Reduced to dust, sprinkled with powder, sprinkled with salt.

Pow'derflask (s. from powder, and flask) A powder horn.

Pow'derhorn (s. from powder, and horn) A horn in which gunpowder is kept.

Pow'dering (p. a. from powder) Reducing to powder, sprinkling with powder; sprinkling with salt; coming on in a tumultuous manner. L'Estrange.

Pow'dering (s. from the part.) The act of reducing to powder, the act of sprinkling with powder, the powder applied by sprinkling.

Pow'dering (s. in architecture) The devices which fill up the vacancies in carved work.

Pow'dering (s. from the part.) The process of curing meat with salt.

Pow'deringtub (s. from powdering, and tub) The tub in which meat is salted; the process by which the venereal disease is cured.

Pow'dermill (s. from powder, and mill) The mill in which the ingredients for making gunpowder are prepared.

Pow'derroom (s. from powder, and room) The part of the ship in which the gunpowder is kept.

Pow'dery (adj. from powder) Dusty, easily reduced to powder.

POWER (s. from the French pouvoir) Command, authority, influence; ability, strength, force; an host, an army; one invested with authority, a sovereign; a celestial being, a divinity; a large quantity, a great number; but this sense is colloquial. Johnson.

Powerable (adj. from power) Capable of performing. Ca.

Powerful (adj. from power) Invested with authority, mighty, efficacious.

Powerfully (adv. from powerful) With power, with might.

P R Æ

ow'fulness (s. from powerful) The state of being powerful.

Pow'eriefs (adj. from power) Weak, impotent, void of power.

Powk (s. an old word) A packet. Johnson.

Powk (s. an old word) Pug.

Powre (v. int. an old spelling) To pour upon.

Pox (s. from pock) The venereal disease; pustules.

POY (s. from the French poids) A rope dancer's pole.

Poy'naunte (adj. an old spelling) Poignant.

Poynings/law (s. from Poyning, Sir Edward, and law) The statute in the reign of Henry the VIIth, by which the laws of England were made of force in Ireland.

Poy'se (s. an old spelling) Poetry. Chaucer.

Poze (v. t. a different spelling) To pose, to puzzle.

PRAC'TIC (adj. from the Greek πρακτικω to do; Relating to action, relating to practice as distinguished from theory; artful, sly.

Practicable (adj. from practice) Capable of being done, feasible, fit to be done; available, fit to be attained.

Practicableness (s. from practicable) The state of being practicable.

Practicably (adv. from practicable) In a manner practicable.

Practical (adj. from practice) Relating to practice distinguished from theory.

Practically (adv. from practical) In a manner practical.

Practicalness (s. from practical) The quality of being practical.

Practice (s. from practice) The habit of doing, a custom; actual performance; the method of doing, a rule in arithmetic, an expeditious method of computation; the exercise of any profession; the medical treatment of diseases; artifice, trick; but this sense is now grown obsolete. Denham.

Practise (v. t. from practice) To do, to perform, to do habitually, to do in order to acquire dexterity.

Practise (v. int.) To pursue a habit of acting, to cultivate a profession, to use medical methods, to transact to negotiate with secrecy, to try artifices; as, "Others practise on our hearts." as, "have practised with him."

Practised (p. from practise) Done, performed, used.

Practisient (s. from practise) An agent. Shakspeare.

Practiser (s. from practise) One that practises, one who prescribes to sick people.

Practising (p. a. from practise) Doing, performing, using, using artifice, exercising.

Practitioner (s. from practise) One who practises, who does any thing habitually, one who uses artifice.

PRÆD'AMITE (s. from the Lat. præ before, and Adam) One of those inhabitants of the earth, who, as the Jews have supposed, lived before Adam.

Præadamit'ical (adj. from præadamite) Belonging to the præadamites.

Præ'amble (s. a formal spelling) A preamble.

Præambulatory (adj. from præamble, a formal spelling) Preambulatory.

PRÆCE'PE (s. in astronomy) The nebulous stars in the sign Cancer.

PRÆCE'PIA (s. in anatomy) The perforations in the jaw in which the teeth are set.

Præ'ciæ (s. in Roman antiquity) Criers, the officers who preceded the Flamen on public holidays.

PRÆCLAMIT'ATORES (s. in Roman antiquity) Præciæ.

PRÆ/CO (s. from the Lat.) A public crier, an extorcioner.

PRÆCOG'NITA (s. plu. a scientific word, from the Lat. things previously known, things necessary to be known in order to the investigation of something)

PRÆCON'OMY (s. from the Lat. præconium) A commendation.

Præ'cony (s. a different spelling) A præconomy.

PRÆCOR'DIA (s. in anatomy) The parts above the heart.

PRÆ/COX (adj. in botany) Early ripe, flowering times.

PRÆ/DICABLE (adj. the formal spelling) Predicable.

Prædicament (s. a formal spelling) A predicament.

PRÆFEC'TUS (s. from the Lat.) Prefect, an officer among the Romans, the governor of a city or province.

PRÆFIC'Æ (s. in antiquity) Women who were present on funeral occasions to praise and lament for the deceased.

Præ'fine (s. a law term) The fine paid in suing out a writ of covenant.

PRÆFOCA/TIO UTERINA (s. with physicians) The suffocation of the womb, the hysterical passion.
PREMUNIRE (s. from the Lat.) A premunire, the penalty incurred by infringing the statute of 16 Ch. II.
PRÆNOMEN (s. from the Lat. prae before, and nomen name) The given name, the particular name affixed to the general name of the family.
PRÆPARA/TIA (s. from the Lat.) Medicines to digest or ripen.
PRÆPOS/ITUS (s. from the Lat.) An officer who was attendant the chamber of the emperor, a kind of lord chamberlain; a chief magistrate in any place.
PRÆPUTIUM (s. in anatomy, from the Lat.) The prepuce; the extremity of the clitoris.
PRÆSIDIUM (s. from the Lat.) A garrison, a guard; help, a remedy.
PRÆSTATIO (s. in old records) A purveyance.
PRÆSTITES (s. in heathen mythology) The Genii; the public Lares who were supposed to preserve the city community.
PRÆTEXTA (s. with the Romans) A robe or long white vest with a purple border.
PRÆTEXTATI (s. from prætexta) The children who wore the prætexta.
PRÆTOR (s. from the Lat.) A great officer among the Romans.
PRÆTORIAN (adj. from prætor) Belonging to the prætor.
PRÆTORIANI (s. from prætor) The guards attending the prætor.
PRÆTORIUM (s. from prætor) The place where the prætor administered justice.
PRÆTULI (s. in ancient geography) A people of Italy. Ptol.
PRAGMATIC (adj. from the Greek πραγμα a business) meddling, assuming business without leave or invitation; belonging to trade or business; belonging to sanction or ordinance published by the French king in the year 1438 which regulates the discipline of the Gallican church.
PRAGMATIC (s. from the adj.) A proclamation, an agreement between a prince and a bishop. Cole.
PRAGMATIC (adj. from pragmatic) officiously busy, meddling in business that does not belong to us.
PRAGMATICALLY (adv. from pragmatic) In a pragmatic manner.
PRAGMATICALNESS (s. from pragmatical) The state or quality of being pragmatical.
PRAGMATICALNESS (s. from pragmatic) Pragmaticalness. Sc.
PRÆISE (s. from the German praise) Fame, honour, renown; commendation, a ground of commendation, tribute of gratitude; glorification, an act of worship.
PRÆISE (v. t. from the sub.) To celebrate, to applaud, commend; to glorify in worship. Ch.
PRÆISE (v. t. nearly obsolete) To prize, to value. Ch.
PRÆISED (p. from praise) Celebrated, applauded, commended; glorified in worship; appraised.
PRÆISEFUL (adj. from praise, but now grown nearly obsolete) Worthy of praise, commendable. Sidney.
PRÆISER (s. from praise) One who praises.
PRÆISEWORTHY (adj. from praise, and worthy) Worthy of commendation.
PRÆISING (p. a. from praise) Celebrating, commending; prizing in worship; appraising.
PRÆITIKE (s. obsolete) Practice, custom. Chaucer.
PRÆINE (s. a sea term) A flat bottomed boat.
PRÆINION (s. in natural history) A semipellucid gem, a kind of black agate.
PRÆINCE (v. int. supposed to be from the Dutch pronken set to show) To spring and bound as a horse in high mettle, to ride ostentatiously, to move in a warlike showy manner.
PRÆINCE (v. t.) To make a horse bound.
PRÆINCED (p. from prance) Made to spring and bound as a horse in high mettle.
PRÆINCEER (s. from prance) A horse that prances.
PRÆINCEING (p. a. from prance) Springing and bounding as a horse in high mettle, riding in a showy manner, making a horse prance.
PRÆINCEING (s. from prance) The act of bounding as a horse in high mettle.
PRÆINDICLE (s. from the Lat. prandiculum) A breakfast, a little dinner. Cole.
PRÆINK (v. t. from the Dutch pronken) To decorate, dress for show.
PRÆINK (s. from the verb) A frolick, a wild flight; a wicked trick.
PRÆINKED (p. from prank) Dressed ostentatiously, decorated; with up; as, "Goddeſs like pranked up."
PRÆINKING (p. a. from prank) Decorating, dressing up for show.

PRAN'KT (v. t. pret. of prank) Did prank.
Prankt (p. from prank) Pranked. Milton.
PRANSI'NA (s. with physicians) A distemper in the gall.
PRANSO'RIOUS (adj. from the Lat. pransorius) Belonging to dinner. Cole.
PRA'SION (s. in botany) The horehound.
PRA'SITES (s. in natural history) The prafius.
PRA'SIUM (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
PRA'SIUS (s. in natural history) A precious stone of a green colour variegated with black and white lines.
PRASOI'DES (s. in natural history) A precious stone, a sort of topaz.
PRA'SON (s. in botany) The leek; a sea weed as green as a leek.
PRATE (v. int. from the Dutch praten) To talk carelessly, to chatter.
Prate (s. from the verb) Trifling talk, tattle.
Prat'er (s. from prate) An idle talker, a chatterer.
PRAT'ICA (s. from the Italian pratica) Practice, a licence to trade, a pratique. Bailey.
Prat'ical (adj. from pratic) Belonging to practice. Co.
Prat'ing (p. a. from prate) Talking to little purpose, chattering.
Prat'ing (s. from the part.) The act of talking much to little purpose, idle talk.
Prat'ingcheat (s. an old word) The tongue. Cole.
Prat'ingly (adv. from prating) In a prating manner.
PRAT'IQUE (s. from the Italian pratica) Practice, a licence to trade. Cole.
Prats (s. a local word) The thighs. Cole.
Prat'tily (adv. a local word) Softly. Bailey.
Prat'tique (s. from pratic) A licence to trade on producing a bill of health, a communication of commerce; practice. Scott.
Prat'tle (v. int. from prate) To talk lightly, to tattle.
Prat'tle (v. from the verb) Idle talk, trifling loquacity, the talk of a child.
Prat'tler (s. from prattle) One that prattles.
Prat'tling (p. a. from prattle) Chattering, talking much and to little purpose, talking as a child.
Prat'tling (s. from the part.) Prattle, trifling innocent talk.
PRAVITY (s. from the Lat. pravus depraved) Depravity, malignity.
PRAWN (s. in ichthyology) A small crustaceous fish, a large shrimp.
PRAXÆ'ANS (s. in church history) A sect who denied the plurality of persons in the Godhead.
PRAXID'ICA (s. in heathen mythology) The goddesses who was supposed to preside over the words and actions of mankind.
PRAXIT'LES (s.) A man's name, a famous statuary. P.
PRAY (v. int. from the French prier) to make petitions to heaven; to intreat, to ask with submission.
Pray (v. t.) To supplicate, to implore, to ask; to intreat in ceremonious style.
Pray'ed (p. from pray) Asked in prayer, intreated.
Pray'er (s. from pray) The act of offering up petitions to heaven, a petition to heaven; an intreaty, a submissive importunity; a form of supplication, a petition.
Pray'erbook (s. from prayer, and book) A book containing forms of prayer.
Pray'ing (p. a. from pray) Putting up petitions to heaven, entreating, supplicating.
PREACH (v. int. from the Lat. prae before, and dico to say) To pronounce a public discourse on religious subjects.
Preach (v. t.) To proclaim in religious orations, to inculcate publicly, to teach with earnestness.
Preach (s. from the verb) A sermon, a religious oration. Hooker.
Preach'ed (p. from preach) Proclaimed in religious orations.
Preach'er (s. from preach) One that preaches, one who inculcates any thing with earnestness.
Preach'ing (p. a. from preach) Publishing in religious orations, teaching with earnestness.
Preach'ing (s. from the part.) The act of discoursing publicly on religious subjects.
Preach'ment (s. from preach) A sermon in contempt; a discourse affectedly solemn.
Preach'ing (adj. obsolete) Pressing together, gathering in a crowd. Spenser.
PRÆAD'AMITE (s. from the Lat. prae before, and Adam) One of the people who, as some have supposed, lived before the formation of Adam, a præadamite.
PRÆAMBLE (s. from the Lat. prae before, and ambulo to walk) An introduction, a preface.
Pream'bulary (adj. from preamble, but not in use) Preliminary. Johnson.
Pream'bulous

PRE

Pream'bulous (adj. from preamble, but not used) Previous. Brown.
PREAPPREHEN'SION (s. from the Lat. præ before, and apprehendo to apprehend) An opinion formed before due examination.
Prease (s. obsolete) A press, a crowd of people. Sp.
Preas'in (v. int. obsolete) To preis forward. Chaucer.
Preas'ing (adj. from prease, but now grown obsolete) Pressing together, gathering in a crowd. Sp.
PREB'END (s. from the French prebende) A stipend in a cathedral church; an officer in a cathedral church, a prebendary; but this is judged improper.
Preb'ndal (adj. from prebend) Belonging to a prebend. Cole.
Preb'endary (s. from prebend) An assistant to the bishop, a stipendiary of a cathedral.
PREBI'TION (s. from the Lat. præbeo to afford) An offering. Cole.
PRECA'RIÆ (s. in old records) Certain days work to be done by the tenant for the lord in time of harvest.
PRECA'RIOUS (adj. from the Lat. precor to intreat) Dependent, uncertain as dependent on another; uncertain; this last is supposed to be an imperfect sense.
Precariously (adv. from precarious) Uncertain by dependence, at the pleasure of others.
Precarioufness (s. from precarious) The state of being precarious, dependence on others; uncertainty. Sb.
PRECAUTION (s. from the Lat. præ before, and cautus wary) Caution taken beforehand, preventive measures.
Precaution (v. t. from the sub.) To warn beforehand, to forewarn.
Precautioned (p. from precaution) Warned beforehand, forewarned.
Precautioning (p. a. from precaution) Warning beforehand, forewarning.
Prece (s. obsolete) Praise; a press, a crowd.
PRECEDA'NEOUS (adj. from the Lat. præ before, and cedo to go, but not used) Previous, antecedent. Hale.
PRECE'DE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and cedo to go) To go before in order of time, to go before in order of place.
Prece'ded (p. from precede) Brought on by something going before.
Prece'dence (s. from precede) The state of going before, priority; superiority; adjustment of place, the foremost place in ceremony.
Prece'dency (s. from precedence) Priority, superiority.
Prece'dent (adj. from precede) Former, foregoing. Sou.
Prece'dent (s. from the adj.) Something done before of the same kind, a rule to be followed, an example.
Prece'dently (adv. from precedent) Beforehand, antecedently.
Prece'ding (p. a. from precede) Going before.
PRECEL'LENCY (s. from the Lat. præcello to excel, but not used) Preheminence, excellency. Philips.
Prece'lling (s. obsolete) Excellency, preheminence. Cb.
PRECEN'TION (s. from the Lat. præ before, and cano to sing) The beginning or flourish at the entrance of a song. Cole.
PRECEN'TOR (s. from the Lat. præ before, and cano to sing) He that leads the choir, a chanter in a cathedral.
PRE'CEPT (s. from the Lat. præ before, and capio to take) A command, a mandate, a rule, a direction.
Preceptial (adj. from precept, but not used) Consisting of precepts. Shakespeare.
Preceptive (adj. from precept) Containing precepts, giving precepts.
PRECEP'TOR (s. from the Lat.) A teacher, a tutor.
Preceptory (s. from preceptor) A benefice held by one of the better sort of templars. Cole.
PRECES'SION (s. from the Lat. præ before, and cedo to go) The act of going before; the slow progressive motion of the equinoctial points.
Pre'chment (s. obsolete) A preachment, a sermon. Cb.
PRECIDA'NEOUS (adj. from the Lat. præ before, and cædo to kill) Cut before, killed before. Johnson.
PRECIN'CT (s. from the Lat. præ before, and cingo to surround) An outward limit, a boundary.
Precin'ctmeeting (s. from precinct, and meeting) The annual meeting of the inhabitants of a precinct to choose proper officers for the year ensuing.
Precious'ity (s. from precious) Any thing precious, preciousness. Mare.
PRECIOUS (adj. from the Lat. pretiosus) Valuable, having great worth; costly, bought at a great price; worthleis; but this sense is droll and ironical. Locke.
Prec'ious (adj. obsolete) Nice, over curious. Chaucer.
Prec'iously (adv. from precious) To a great price, in a precious manner.

PRE

Prec'iousness (s. from precious) The state or quality of being precious.
PREC'IPICE (s. from the Lat. præ before, and capitis the head) A dangerous steep, a steep place, little or no gradual declivity.
Precip'itance (s. from precipitant) Rashness, headlong hurry.
Precip'itancy (s. from precipitance) Rash haste, headlong hurry.
PRECIP'ITANT (adj. from the Lat. præ before, and put the head) Falling headlong, over hasty, with rash haste.
Precip'itantly (adv. from precipitant) With headlong haste, in a tumultuous hurry.
Precip'itancy (s. from precipitant) Rashness, precipitant hurry.
PRECIPITATE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and caput capitis the head) To throw headlong, to hurry imprudently, to hurry with rashness, to throw to the bottom in chymical operations.
Precip'itate (v. int.) To fall headlong, to hasten without due preparation; to fall to the bottom as in chymical operations.
Precip'itate (adj. from the verb) Headlong, rash, hasty, violent; steeply falling.
Precip'itate (s. from the adj.) A corrosive medicine, precipitated mercury.
Precip'itated (p. from precipitate) Thrown headlong, hastened, hurried; made to sink to the bottom as in chymical operations.
Precip'itately (adv. from precipitate) Rashly, headlong, with rash haste.
Precip'itating (p. a. from precipitate) Throwing headlong, urging with rash haste; causing to fall to the bottom as in chymical operations.
Precipitation (s. from precipitate) The act of throwing headlong, rash haste, violent motion downwards, the subdency in chymical operations.
PRECIP'ITOUS (adj. from the Lat. præ before, and caput capitis the head) Headlong, steep, rash, headlong.
Preciput (s. a law term) An advantage given to one in a thing to be divided, that which is set in favour of any one before a division is made.
PRECISE (adj. from the Lat. præ before, and cædo to go) Exact, nice, having strict and determinate limitation, formal, finical, superstitiously exact.
Precis'ely (adv. from precise) Exactly, nicely; superstitious formality.
Precis'eness (s. from precise) Exactness, rigid nice, superstitious formality.
Precis'er (adj. comp. of precise) Precise in a greater degree.
Precis'est (adj. sup. of precise) Precise in the greatest degree.
Precis'ian (s. from precise) One who limits, one who restrains; one who is superstitiously rigorous.
Precis'ion (s. from precise) Exact limitation, correction.
Precis'ive (adj. from precise) Precisely limited, directed of every thing not absolutely relative to the subject.
PRECLU'DE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and claudere to shut) To shut out, to hinder by some anticipation.
Preclu'ded (p. from preclude) Shut out, hindered, some anticipation.
Preclu'ding (p. a. from preclude) Shutting out by anticipation.
PRECOCIOUS (adj. from the Lat. præ before, and co to boil) Ripe before the time, too soon ripe.
Precoc'ity (s. from precocious) A premature ripeness.
PRECOCITATE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and cogito to think) To consider beforehand, to scheme beforehand.
Precog'itated (p. from precogitate) Thought of beforehand.
Precog'itating (p. a. from precogitate) Thinking beforehand, scheming beforehand.
Precogitation (s. from precogitate) Thought beforehand, previous consideration.
PRECOGNITION (s. from the Lat. præ before, and cognico to know) Previous knowledge, antecedent examination.
Precogni't (s. from preconceive) An opinion previously formed.
PRECONCEIVE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and concipio to conceive) To form an opinion beforehand to imagine beforehand.
Preconceiv'ed (p. from preconceive) conceived beforehand, imagined beforehand.
Preconceiv'ing (p. a. from preconceive) Conceiving beforehand, imagining beforehand.

Preconceiv conception (s. from preconceive) An opinion pre-sumptively formed.

 PRONOUNS (adj. from the Lat. præco a crier) Belonging to a common crier; commendatory. Cole.
 CONISATION (s. in the consistory at Rome) The declaration by which a nomination to a prelature is ratified.
 CONISE (v. int. from the Lat. præco a crier) To make a report in the consistory of the Pope that the person presented to a benefice is duly qualified.
 CONSIGN (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and signo to consign) To make over beforehand.
 CONSIGNED (p. from preconsign) Made over beforehand.
 CONSIGNING (p. a. from preconsign) Making over berehand.
 CONTRA'CT (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and contraho to contract) To bind by a contract beforehand.
 CONTRACT (s. from the verb) A contract previous to any other contract.
 CONTRACTED (p. from precontract) Bound by a contract beforehand.
 CONTRACTING (p. a. from precontract) Binding by a contract before marriage.
 ECOR'DIA (s. in anatomy, from the Lat. præ before, and cor cordis the heart) The parts about the heart.
 ECURSE (s. from the Lat. præ before, and curro to run) A forerunning. Shakespeare.
 ECURSOR (s. from the Lat. præ before, and curro to run) A forerunner, a harbinger.
 EDACEOUS (adj. from the Lat. præda prey) Living by prey.
 EDAL (adj. from the Lat. præda prey) Robbing, plundering.
 EDATION (s. from the Lat. præda prey, but not used)
 The act of robbing. Cole.
 EDATORY (adj. from the Lat. præda prey) Plundering, practising rapine; hungry, rapacious.
 EDY (adj. a sea term) Ready, prepared. Cole.
 EDECEASED (adj. from the Lat. præ before, and decedo to depart) Dead before.
 EDECES/SOR (s. from the Lat. præ before, and decedo to go) One that went before another in place or office;
 an ancestor.
 EDESTINARIAN (adj. from the Lat. præ before, and destino to purpose) Belonging to predestination.
 EDESTINARIAN (s. from the adj.) One who holds the doctrine of predestination.
 EDESTINATE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and destino to purpose) To appoint beforehand, to predetermine.
 EDESTINATED (p. from predestinate) Appointed beforehand, predetermined.
 EDESTINATING (p. a. from predestinate) Appointing beforehand, predetermining; holding predestina-tion. Shakespeare.
 EDESTINATION (s. from predestinate) A preordination, a foreappointment, an irreversible decree.
 EDESTINATOR (s. from predestinate) One that holds the doctrine of predestination. Cowley.
 EDESTINE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and destino to appoint) To appoint beforehand, to decree beforehand.
 EDESTINE (s. obsolete) Predestination. Chaucer.
 EDESTINED (p. from predestine) Appointed beforehand, predetermined.
 EDESTINING (p. a. from predestine) Appointing beforehand, predetermining.
 EDESTINATION (s. from predetermine) A determination beforehand.
 REDETER'MINE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and determino to bound) To determine beforehand.
 REDETER'MINED (p. from predetermine) Determined berehand.
 REDETER'MINING (p. a. from predetermine) Determining beforehand.
 REDIAL (adj. from the Lat. prædium a farm) Belonging to farms, consisting of farms; growing from the ground.
 REDIATOR (s. from the Lat. prædium a farm, but not used) A lawyer expert in matters relating to lands. Cole.
 REDICABLE (adj. from the Lat. præ before, and dico to say) Capable of being predicated.
 REDICABLE (s. a logical term) One of the five things which can be affirmed of any subject.
 REDICAMENT (s. from the Lat. præ before, and dico to say) A category, an arrangement of beings according to their nature; a class, a kind as described by definitive marks; that which may be affirmed of any subject.

Predicament (adj. from predicament) Relating to predicaments.
 PRE'DICANT (s. from the Lat. præ before, and dico to say) One that affirms.
 Pre'dicant (adj. from the sub.) Affirming, preaching, allowed to preach. "Predicant friars."
 PRED'ICATE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and dico to say) To affirm any thing of a subject.
 Pred'icate (v. int.) To speak, to affirm.
 Pred'icate (s. from the verb) That which is affirmed of any subject.
 Predicated (p. from predicate) Affirmed of any subject.
 Predicating (p. a. from predicate) Affirming something of a subject.
 Predication (s. from predicate) An affirmation concerning any thing.
 PREDICT (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and dico to say) To foretell, to foreshow.
 Predicted (p. a. from predict) Foretold, shewed before it comes to pass.
 Predicting (p. a. from predict) Foretelling, shewing before it comes to pass.
 Prediction (s. from predict) A prophesy, a declaration of something future.
 Predictor (s. from predict) One that predicts, one that declares any thing before it comes to pass.
 PREDIGESTION (s. from the Lat. præ before, and di- gesto to set in order) A hasty digestion. Bacon.
 PREDISPOSE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and dis- pono to dispose) To dispose beforehand, to adapt beforehand to any particular purpose.
 Predisposed (p. from predispose) Disposed beforehand, previously adapted; with to; as, "Unless nature be predisposed to friendship."
 Predisposing (p. a. from predispose) Disposing beforehand, previously adapting.
 Predisposition (s. from predispose) The state of being predisposed, a previous accommodation of circumstances to any particular purpose.
 Predominance (s. from predominant) A superior influence, an ascendancy.
 Predominancy (s. from predominance) Prevalence, superiority.
 PREDOMINANT (adj. from the Lat. præ before, and domino to rule) Prevalent, ascendent, supreme in influence.
 Predominantness (s. from predominant) The state or quality of being predominant.
 PREDOMINATE (v. int. from the Lat. præ before, and domino to rule) To prevail, to have a supreme influence; with in and over; as, "It predominates in this fair lady's heart." "The reflected rays may predominate over the rest."
 Predominating (p. a. from predominate) Prevailing, having the ascendancy. Phillips.
 Pre'dy (adj. a sea term) Ready, prepared.
 PREELECT (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and eligo to choose) To choose by a prior determination.
 Preelected (p. from preelect) Chosen before, chosen by a prior determination.
 Preelecting (p. a. from preelect) Choosing by a pre-determination.
 Preelection (s. from preelect) The act of choosing by a prior determination.
 Pree'm'ence (s. from preeminent) Superior excellence, priority, superiority of power or influence.
 PREEMINENT (adj. from the Lat. præ before, and emi- neo to stand out) Excellent beyond others.
 PREEMPTION (s. from the Lat. præ before, and emo to buy) The right of purchasing before others.
 PREEN (v. t. from the German prunen) To clean and compose the feathers as a bird.
 Preened (p. from preen) Cleaned and composed as the feathers of a bird.
 PREENGAGE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and the French engager to engage) To engage beforehand, to engage by previous contract.
 Preengaged (p. from preengage) Engaged beforehand.
 Preengagement (s. from preengage) A prior engagement.
 Preengaging (p. a. from preengage) Engaging beforehand.
 Preen'ing (p. a. from preen) Cleaning and composing the feathers as a bird.
 Preen'ing (s. from the part.) The act of a bird in cleaning and composing the feathers.
 Prees (s. obsolete) A press, a crowd of people. Ch.
 PREESTABLISH (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and stabilio to settle) To settle beforehand. Preestablished

PRE

Preestablished (p. from preestablish) Settled beforehand.
Preestablishing (p. a. from preestablish) Establishing beforehand.
Preestablishment (s. from preestablish) A previous settlement.
PREEXIST (v. int. from the Lat. prae before, and existo to exist) To exist before, to exist before or in some other state.
Preexistence (s. from preexist) Existence in a prior state, the existence of the soul before its union to the body.
Preexistent (adj. from preexist) Prior in existence; existing before.
Preexisting (p. a. from preexist) Existing before, existing in some prior state.
PREFACE (s. from the Lat. prae before, and facies a face) An introduction, an introductory account of a book.
Preface (v. t. from the sub.) To introduce, to put an introductory account to a book; to face, to cover; but this is a droll sense of the word.
Preface (v. int.) To say something by way of introduction.
Prefaced (p. from preface) Introduced, introduced by way of preface, having a preface.
Prefacer (s. from preface) The writer of a preface.
Prefacing (p. a. from preface) Introducing by way of preface.
Prefatory (adj. from preface) Introductory, containing a preface.
Prese (s. an old spelling) A proof. Col.
PREFECT (s. from the Lat. praefectus) A governor, a commander.
Prefecture (s. from prefect) The office or jurisdiction of a prefect.
PREFER (v. t. from the Lat. prae before, and fero to carry) To set before another, to regard more than another; with to, above, and before; as, "If I prefer not Jerusalem above my chief joy." "To have preferred an infamous peace before a most just war." "And trees and beasts preferred to courts and men." To advance, to exalt; to exhibit, to offer solemnly; with to, and against; as, "He spoke and to her hand preferred the bowl." "Prefer a bill against all kings and parliaments." Collier.
Preferable (adj. from prefer) Fit to be preferred; with to; as, "It was preferable to any other."
Preferableness (s. from preferable) The state of being preferable.
Preferably (adv. from preferable) In preference, in a manner to be preferred.
Preferred (p. from prefer, but not so analogical a spelling) Preferred, regarded more than another. Sandys.
Preference (s. from prefer) The act of preferring, the estimation of one thing above another, the choice of one thing rather than another; with to, before, above, and over; as, "He gives him the preference to Virgil." "And bath preference above the most perfect brutal nature." "And its preference before it." "Preference to one man's knowledge over another." Locke.
Prefering (p. a. from prefer, but not so analogical a spelling) Preferring, regarding more than another. John.
Preferment (s. from prefer) An advancement to a higher station, a place of honour, a place of profit; preference, the act of preferring. Brown.
Preferred (p. from prefer) Regarded more than another, advanced; solemnly offered.
Preferer (s. from prefer) One who prefers.
Prefering (p. a. from prefer) Regarding before another, advancing, solemnly offering.
PREFIGURATE (v. t. from the Lat. prae before, and figuro to shew) To shew by an antecedent representation. Johnson.
Prefigured (p. from prefigure) Pointed out by an antecedent representation.
Prefiguring (p. a. from prefigure) Pointing out by a prior representation.
Prefiguration (s. from prefigure) An antecedent representation.
PREFIGURE (v. t. from the Lat. prae before, and figuro to represent) To shew beforehand, to exhibit by antecedent representation.
Prefigured (p. from prefigure) Exhibited by antecedent representation.
Prefiguring (p. a. from prefigure) Exhibiting by antecedent representation.
PREFINE (v. t. from the Lat. prae before, and finio to determine) To limit beforehand.
Preined (p. from prefine) Limited beforehand.

PRE

Preining (p. a. from prefine) Limiting beforehand.
Preinition (s. from prefine) A determination beforehand.
PREFIX (v. t. from the Lat. prae before, and fix) To put before something else; to appoint beforehand; to settle, to establish.
Prefix (s. in grammar, from the verb) A particle added to the beginning of a word to vary its significance.
Prefixed (p. from prefix) Appointed beforehand, before something else; settled, established.
Prefixing (p. a. from prefix) Appointing beforehand, setting before something else; settling, establishing.
Prefixion (s. from prefix) The act of prefixing.
PREFORM (v. t. from the Lat. prae before, and form) To form beforehand.
Preformed (p. from preform) Formed beforehand.
Preforming (p. a. from preform) Forming beforehand.
Preformist (adj. not used) Obstinate.
PREFULGID (adj. from the Lat. prae before, and fulgere to shine, but not used) Shining, very bright.
Pregnancy (s. from pregnant) The state of being pregnant; fertility, fruitfulness; acuteness, readiness of wit.
PREGNANT (adj. from the Lat. praegnans) Big with young, breeding, teeming; fruitful, fertile; full of the purpose, full of consequence; clear, evident, of kind; but these last senses are now grown obsolete.
Pregnantly (adv. from pregnant) Fruitfully; plainly, clearly. Shakespeare.
Pregnatory (s. not used) A protonotary.
PREGRAVATION (s. from the Lat. praegravatio, not used) The act of grieving too much.
PREGRESSION (s. from the Lat. prae before, and gressio to go, but not used) The act of going before.
PREGUSTATION (s. from the Lat. prae before, and gustus to taste) The act of tasting before another.
Preheminence (s. a different spelling) Preeminence.
Preide (v. t. pret. obsolete) Prayed, did pray. Chaucer.
Preignatory (s. a different spelling) A pregnatory, protonotary.
Preise (s. obsolete) A prefs, a crowd of people. Chaucer.
Preise (v. t. obsolete) To prize, to value. Chaucer.
PREJUDGE (v. t. from the Lat. prae before, and iudicare to judge) To judge before hearing, to condemn beforehand.
Prejudged (p. from prejudge) Determined before hearing, condemned beforehand.
Prejudging (p. a. from prejudge) Judging beforehand, determining beforehand.
PREJUDICATE (v. t. from the Lat. prae before, and iudicare to judge) To prejudge, to determine beforehand.
Prejudicate (adj. from the verb) Formed before determination, formed by prejudice, preposited, prejudiced.
Prejudicated (p. from prejudicate) Determined beforehand, prejudged.
Prejudicating (p. a. from prejudicate) Prejudging, judging beforehand.
Prejudication (s. from prejudicate) The act of judging beforehand.
PREJUDICE (s. from the Lat. prae before, and iudicare to judge) A prepossession, a judgment formed before due examination; a hurt, an injury.
Prejudice (v. t. from the sub.) To prepossess, to fill with prejudices, to injure, to hurt.
Prejudiced (p. from prejudice) Preposited, filled with prejudices; hurt, injured.
Prejudicial (adj. from prejudice) Obstrusive by means of prejudice, hurtful, detrimental.
Prejudicialness (s. from prejudicial) The state of being prejudicial.
PREKE (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish.
Prelacy (s. from prelate) The dignity or office of prelate; the order of bishops, episcopacy; the bishops.
PRELAL (adj. from the Lat. prelum a press, but much used) Belonging to a printing press.
PRELATE (s. from the Lat. prae before, and fero to lead) An ecclesiastic of the highest order, a bishop.
Prelatehip (s. from prelate) The state or dignity of prelate.
Prelat'ial (adj. from prelate) Belonging to a prelate, pertaining to a prelacy.
Prelat'ion (s. from prelate) A preference, the act of preferring one above another.
Prelat'ure (s. from prelate) The state or dignity of prelate.
Prelat'ureship (s. from prelature) The dignity of prelate.

PRELECTIO

PRE

LECTION (s. from the Lat. præ before, and lego read) A lecture, a lesson, a sermon.

LIBATION (s. from the Lat. præ before, and libo taste) A foretaste, an effusion previous to tasting.

LIMINARY (adj. from the Lat. præ before, and limen the threshold) Previous, introductory.

Liminary (s. from the adj.) A previous stipulation, preparatory measure.

LUDO (s. from the Lat. præ before, and ludo to play) A short flight of music played before the full concert; something introductory, something which shows what is to follow.

Lude (v. int. from the sub.) To serve as an introduction.

Luding (p. a. from prelude) Exhibiting in prelude.

Luding (p. a. from prelude) Exhibiting in prelude. Dryden.

Luding (adj. from prelude) Previous, introductory. Cleveland.

LUDUM (s. from the Lat.) A prelude.

LUSION (s. from the Lat. præ before, and ludo play, but not much used) A prelude. Cole.

Lusive (adj. from prelude) Previous, introductory.

MATURE (adj. from the Lat. præ before, and maturus ripe) Ripe before the time, ripe too soon; one too soon, believed too soon.

Maturely (adv. from premature) In a manner premature, with too much haste.

Matureness (s. from premature) Prematurity, the state of being premature.

Maturity (s. from premature) The state of being premature.

MEDITATE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and meditari to meditate) To think of beforehand, to conceive beforehand.

Meditate (v. int.) To think beforehand, to be employed in previous thought.

Meditated (p. from premeditate) Thought of beforehand, contrived beforehand, previously thought.

Meditating (p. a. from premeditate) Thinking beforehand, exercising previous thought.

Meditation (s. from premeditate) The act of meditating beforehand, forethought.

MERIT (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and merito deserve) To deserve beforehand.

Merited (p. from premerit) Deserved beforehand.

Meriting (p. a. from premerit) Deserving beforehand.

MICES (s. from the Lat. primitivæ) First fruits. Dr.

MIER (adj. from the French) First, chief.

Mier (s. from the adj.) The first, the chief, the prime minister.

Mious (adj. from premium) Rich in gifts. Cole.

MIUSE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and mitto send) To explain previously, to lay down premises.

Misled (p. from premise) Previously explained, laid down by way of premises; sent before; but this sense not in use. Shakespeare.

Mises (s. plu. from premise) Propositions antecedently supposed or proved; houses, lands; but this use is rather colloquial.

Mising (p. a. from premise) Explaining previously, laying down premises.

Mis (s. from premise, the word occurs but seldom in the singular) An antecedent proposition. Watts.

MIUM (s. from the Lat.) Something given to insure a loan or bargain.

MONISH (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and monere to warn) To warn beforehand, to admonish previously.

Monished (p. from premonish) Admonished beforehand, warned beforehand.

Monishing (p. a. from premonish) Admonishing beforehand, warning beforehand.

Monishment (s. from premonish) A previous admonishment.

Monition (s. from premonish) Previous notice, for intelligence. Wotton.

Monitory (adj. from premonish) Previously admonishing, advising beforehand.

MONSTRATE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and monstrare to shew) To shew beforehand.

Monstrated (p. from premonstrate) Shewed beforehand.

Monstrating (p. a. from premonstrate) Shewing beforehand.

MONSTRATENSES (s. in church history) An order of monks who observed the rules of St. Augustine.

MOTION (s. in school divinity, from the Lat. præ before, and moveo to move) An impulse compelling to action.

PRE

PREMUNIENTES (s. from the Lat.) The writs formerly sent to the bishops to come to parliament with proper attendance.

PREMUNIRE (s. from the Lat. præ before, and monere to admonish) A writ in common law which lies against a man for infringing some particular statutes; the penalty incurred by such an infringement; a difficulty, a distress; but this sense is low and colloquial.

PREMUNITION (s. from the Lat. præ before, and munio to fortify) The anticipation of an objection.

PRENANTHES (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

PRENDER (s. a law term) The right which a person has to take a thing before it is offered.

PRENOMEN (s. from the Lat. præ before, and nomen a name) A name prefixed to that of the family, a given name.

PRENOMINATE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and nominare to nominate) To name beforehand.

Prenominate (p. from the verb) Named before. Shakes.

Prenomined (p. from prenominate) Named before.

Prenomining (p. a. from prenominate) Naming before.

Prenomination (s. from prenominate) The act of naming before, the right or privilege of being named first.

PRENOTION (s. from the Lat. præ before, and noto to note) Foreknowledge, prescience.

Prenovice (s. a colloquial corruption, from apprentice) An apprentice, one bound to a master to be instructed in some trade. Shakespeare.

Prenoviceship (s. from prentice) An apprenticeship, the servitude of an apprentice. Pope.

Prenovise (s. an obsolete spelling) An apprentice. Chaucer.

Prenovisee (s. obsolete) An apprenticeship. Chaucer.

PRENUNCIATE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and nuncio to declare) To declare beforehand, to foretell.

Prenuniated (p. from prenunciate, but not used) Declared beforehand, foretold.

Prenunciating (p. a. from prenunciate, but not used) Foretelling, foretelling.

Prenunciation (s. from prenunciate) The act of declaring beforehand. Johnson.

Preoccupancy (s. from preoccupate) The act of taking possession beforehand.

PREOCCUPATE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and occupare to occupy) To occupy beforehand, to anticipate, to prepossess, to prejudice.

Preoccupate (p. from the verb) Taken beforehand, prevented. Cole.

Preoccupied (p. from preoccupate, but not much used) Occupied beforehand, prevented, prepossessed. Scott.

Preoccupating (p. a. from preoccupate, but not much used) Occupying beforehand, prepossessing, filling with prejudices.

Preoccupation (s. from preoccupate) Prior occupation, prepossession.

Preoccupied (p. from preoccupy) Occupied beforehand, prepossessed.

PREOCCUPY (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and occupare to occupy) To occupy beforehand, to prepossess.

Preoccupying (p. a. from preoccupy) Occupying beforehand, filling with prejudices.

PREOMINATE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and ominare to be ominous) To prognosticate, to foretell by omens.

Preomined (p. from preominate) Prognosticated, foretold by omens.

Preomining (p. a. from preominate) Prognosticating, foretelling by omens.

PREOPINION (s. from the Lat. præ before, and opinor to suppose) A prepossession, an opinion antecedently formed.

PREORDAIN (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and ordinare to order) To ordain beforehand.

Preordained (p. from preordain) Ordained beforehand.

Preordaining (p. a. from preordain) Ordaining beforehand.

Preordinance (s. from preordain, but not used) An antecedent decree. Shakespeare.

Preordination (s. from preordain) The act of decreeing beforehand.

Preparation (s. from prepare) The act of fitting for some purpose, a previous measure, a ceremonious introduction; that which is prepared: any thing procured by a chymical process; an accomplishment, a qualification. Shakespeare.

Preparative (adj. from prepare) Preparing, qualifying having the power of preparing.

Preparative (s. from the adj.) That which has the power of preparing, that which is done by way of preparation.

Preparatively (adv. from preparative) By way of preparation.

Preparatory (adj. from prepare) Introductory, previous, antecedent; previously necessary.

PREPARE (v. t. from the Lat. prae before, and paro to make) To make ready, to fit for, to adjust, to qualify for; to form, to make, to make by regular process.

Prepare (v. int.) To take previous measures, to make oneself ready.

Prepara (s. from the verb, but not used) A preparation, a previous measure. Shakespeare.

Prepared (p. from prepare) Made ready, fitted for, adjusted; made, made by regular process.

Preparedly (adv. from prepared) With preparation, in a manner prepared.

Preparedness (s. from prepared) A state of preparation.

Preparer (s. from prepare) One that prepares.

Preparing (p. a. from prepare) Making ready, fitting for, adjusting, performing, performing by regular process.

PREPENSE (adj. from the Lat. prae before, and penso to ponder) Contrived beforehand, thought of before, preconceived.

Prepens'd (adj. from prepense) Preconceived.

PREPONDER (v. t. from the Lat. prae before, and pondero to weigh) To outweigh, to overbalance.

Preponderance (s. from preponder) A superiority of weight.

Preponderancy (s. from preponderance) A superiority of weight.

Preponderate (v. t. from preponder) To outweigh, to overbalance; to overpower by superior influence.

Preponderate (v. int.) To exceed in weight, to exceed in influence.

Preponderated (p. from preponderate) Outweighed, overcome by superior influence.

Preponderating (p. a. from preponderate) Outweighing, exceeding in power or influence.

Preponderation (s. from preponderate) The act of outweighing, that which outweighs.

Prepondered (p. from preponder) Outweighed.

Prepondering (p. a. from preponder) Outweighing.

PREPOSE (v. t. from the Lat. prae before, and pono to put) To put before. Johnson.

Proposed (p. from prepose, but not much used) Set before, put before.

Proposing (p. a. from prepose, but not much used) Putting before.

Proposition (s. from prepose) That which is put before; a part of speech in grammar.

Propositor (s. from prepose) A scholar appointed by the master to overlook the rest.

PREPOSSESS (v. t. from the Lat. prae before, and posideo to possess) To fill with preconceived opinions, to prejudice.

Prepossessed (p. from preposse(s)) Filled with preconceived opinions, filled with prejudices.

Prepossessing (p. a. from preposseis) Filling with preconceived opinions, prejudicing.

Prepossession (s. from preposseis) A first possession, a preoccupation; a prejudice, a preconceived opinion.

PREPOSTEROUS (adj. from the Lat. prae before, and post after) Wrong, having that first which should be last; foolish, absurd.

Preposterously (adv. from preposterous) In a preposterous manner.

Preposterousness (s. from preposterous) The state of being preposterous, absurdity.

PREPOTENCY (s. from the Lat. prae before, and possum to be able) Superior power, predominance. Brown.

PREPROPEROUS (adj. from the Lat. prae before, and proporo to make haste) Overhasty. Cole.

PREPUCE (s. in anatomy, from the Lat. præputium) The foreskin, that part which covers the glans.

PREREQUIRE (v. t. from the Lat. prae before, and requiro to require) To require beforehand, to demand previously.

Prerequired (p. from prerequire) Previously demanded. Hammond.

Prerequiring (p. a. from prerequire) Enquiring beforehand.

PREREQUISITE (adj. from the Lat. prae before, and requiro to require) Required beforehand, previously requisite.

Prerequisite (s. from the adj.) That which is previously necessary.

PREROGATIVE (adj. from the Lat. prae before, rogo to demand) Having an exclusive privilege.

Prerogative (s. from the adj.) An exclusive privilege, peculiar privilege.

Prerogated (adj. from prerogative) Having an exclusive privilege, having prerogative. Shakespeare.

PRE'SA (s. in the Italian music) A mark to shew where a part is to begin.

PRE'SAGE (s. from the Lat. præsagium) A prognostication that which points out something future.

Presage (v. t. from the sub.) To forebode, to foretell to prophesy; with of; "We may presage of his death."

Presaged (p. from presage) Foreboded, foretold, intokened.

Presagement (s. from presage) An omen, a token, a forehand.

Presaging (p. a. from presage) Foreboding, foretelling, prophesying.

PRESBI'TIA (s. with physicians) A dimness of sight.

PRES/BYS (s. in ornithology) A beautiful kind of woodpecker.

PRES/BYTA (s. with physicians) That defect of vision which is occasioned by a flatness of the eye and is common to old people.

PRES/BYTER (s. from the Greek πρεσβύτερος old) elder, one of the second order of ecclesiastics, a presbyter; a presbyterian.

Presbyterial (adj. from presbyter) Belonging to a presbytery, to an elder.

Presbyterian (adj. from presbyter) Consisting of elders governed by the priest or elders; pertaining to a particular denomination of dissenters from the church of England.

Presbyterian (s. from the adj.) An abettor of the government by priests or elders; an adherent to a particular denomination of dissenters from the church of England.

Presbyterianism (s. from presbyterian) The discipline and principles of the presbyterians.

Presbyterium (s. in old records) The presbytery, choir, the chancel of a choir.

Presbytery (s. from presbyter) The body of elders which a church is governed, the government of a church by priests or elders.

PRESCIENCE (s. from the Lat. prae before, and scire to know) Foreknowledge, the knowledge of future events.

Prescient (adj. from prescience) Foreknowing, prescient.

PRESCIND (v. t. from the Lat. prae before, and scindere to cut) To cut off, to abstract; with from; "Does not only prescind from but absolutely deny."

Prescind'd (p. from prescind) Cut off, abstracted.

Prescind'ent (adj. from prescind) Cutting off, abstracting.

Prescind'ing (p. a. from prescind) Cutting off, abstracting.

PRESCIOUS (adj. from the Lat. prae before, and scire to know) Prescient, having foreknowledge; with as, "Precious of ill."

PRES/COT (s.) A town in Lancashire; it has a market on Tuesday, and is 194 miles from London.

Prescot (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Prescot, made at Prescot.

PRESCRI'BE (v. t. from the Lat. prae before, and scribere to write) To set down authoritatively, to order directly, to order medicaments.

Prescribe (v. int.) To influence arbitrarily, to influence by long custom; to write directions and forms of medicine.

Prescribed (p. from prescribe) Set down authoritatively, ordered, directed.

Prescrib'ing (p. a. from prescribe) Setting down authoritatively, ordering, directing, writing or dictating forms of medicine.

Prescript (s. from prescribe) A direction, a precept.

Prescript (adj. from prescribe) Directed, laid down, precept.

Prescription (s. from prescript) A custom continuing till it has the force of a law; a medical receipt.

PRESE (s. obsolete) A press, a crowd of people; a value, esteem.

PRESE (v. t. obsolete) To praise; to press.

PRE'SANCE (s. from the French) Priority of place, sitting.

Presence (s. from present) The state or quality of being present; approach to a great personage; state of being in view of a superior; the person or superior; the room in which a prince shows himself.

P R E

P R E

court, a number of persons assembled before a personage; readiness of invention; quickness at clients on pressing occasions; self possession.
Recechamber (s. from presence, and chamber) A room in which a great person receives company.
Receeroom (s. from presence, and room) The apartment in which a great personage receives com-

PREVISION (s. from the Lat. præ before, and sensio perceive) A perception beforehand.

PRESENT (adj. from the Lat. *præ*ens) Not absent, appearing face to face; being near at hand; not future, existing at the time that now is; ready, quick at exertions on urgent occasions; attentive, propitious, remarkably attentive.

PRESENT (s. from the adj. put absolutely) The present

PRESENT (v. t. from the sub.) To place in the presence, to exhibit to view; to offer; to level in order to fire; to give ceremoniously; to put into the hands of another; to prefer to ecclesiastical benefices; to favour with gifts; to lay before a court of judicature for examination; to offer openly. presented battle to the French navy.

PRESENT (s. from the verb.) A gift, something ceremoniously given; a letter, a mandate exhibited.

PRESENT (s. obsolete) Presence. Chaucer.

PRESENTABLE (adj. from present) Capable of being presented, fit to be presented.

PRESENTANEOUS (adj. from present) Ready, quick, immediate.

PRESENTARIE (adj. obsolete) Present. Chaucer.

PRESENTATION (s. from present) The act of presenting, exhibition, the act of bestowing an ecclesiastical office.

PRESENTATIVE (adj. from present) Capable of being presented.

PRESENTED (p. from present) Placed in the presence of, superior, exhibited, offered, given, endowed with, before a court of judicature for examination.

PRESENTEE (s. from present) One presented to a bene-

PRESENTER (s. from present) One that presents.

PRESENTIAL (s. from the Lat.) Presents. Scott.

PRESENTIAL (adj. from present) Supposing actual presence. Norris.

PRESENTIALITY (s. from presential) The state of being present.

PRESENTIATE (v. t. from present) To make present.

PRESENTIATED (p. from presentiate) Made present.

PRESENTIATING (p. a. from presentiate) Making present.

PRESENTIFICK (adj. from the Lat. *præ*ens present, and to make, but now grown obsolete) Making present. Johnson.

PRESENTIFICKLY (adv. from presentifick) In such a manner as to make present. More.

PRESENTING (p. a. from present) Placing in the presence, superior, exhibiting to view, offering, giving, laying a gun in order to fire; laying before a court of judicature for examination.

PRESENTLY (adv. from present) At present, now, immediately, soon after.

PRESENTMENT (s. from present) The act of presenting, which is presented, the form of laying any thing before a court of judicature for examination.

PRESENTNESS (s. from present) The state of being present, presence of mind. Clarendon.

PREPE (s. a different spelling) The præpe, the new stars in the breast of Cancer. Diet. of Arts.

PREPATION (s. from preserve) The act of preserving, to preserve.

PREPATIVE (s. from preserve) That which preserves, something preventive; with against; as, "A preventive against the plague."

PREPARE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and servo ve) To save, to keep, to defend from destruction; season with sugar or pickle.

PREPARED (s. from the verb) Fruit preserved.

PREPARED (p. from preserve) Saved, defended, kept, well, seasoned with sugar or pickle.

PREPARE (s. from preserve) One that preserves, one keeps from evil; one that seasons fruit in order to keep it for future use.

PREPARING (p. a. from preserve) Saving, keeping from destruction, seasoning with sugar or pickle.

PREPARE (v. int. from the Lat. præ before, and sedeo) To superintend, to have authority; with over; "Some over the public magazines preside."

PRESENCE (s. from preside) Superintendence.

PRESENTER (s. from preside) One who presides, one is placed in authority over others, one at the head of others; a governor, a prefect; a tutelary power.

Pres'identship (s. from president) The office or place of a president.

PRESID'IAL (adj. from the Lat. *præ*sidium a garrison) Belonging to a garrison.

Presid'ial (s. from the adj.) A tribunal, a court of judicature in France.

PRES'RE (s.) A kind of Dutch reeds used in polishing.

PRESS (v. t. from the Lat. premo pressus to press) To squeeze, to crush; to compel, to urge by necessity; to effect strangely; to drive by violence; to compress, to embrace; to urge, to enforce; to imprecis, to force into military service.

Press (v. int.) To act with compulsive force, to urge, to distress; to make invasion, to go forward, to crowd, to throng; with on, or upon; as, "He pressed on them greatly."

Press (s. from the verb) The instrument with which any thing is pressed, the machine by which printing is performed, a kind of case or closet for clothes; a crowd of people, a throng; a commission to force men into the military service.

Press'bed (s. from press, and bed) A bed so formed as to shut up in a case.

Press'ed (p. from press) Squeezed as in a press, urged, forced.

Press'er (s. from press) One that presses, one that works at a press.

Press'gang (s. from press, and gang) A crew that strolls about to force men into the naval service.

Press'ing (p. a. from press) Squeezing, crushing as in a press, compressing, urging, forcing into military service.

Press'ing (s. from the part.) The act of crushing as in a press, the act of forcing into the military service, the state of any thing as pressed.

Press'ingly (adv. from pressing) In a pressing or urgent manner.

Press'ingness (s. from pressing) Urgency.

Press'ion (s. from press) The act of pressing. Newton.

Press'itant (adj. from press, but not used) Heavy, gravitating. More.

Press'man (s. from press, and man) A man who attends the press in a printing office; one who is employed in forcing men into the military service.

Press'money (s. from press, and money) The money given to a man when he is forced into military service.

Press'sure (s. from press) The act of pressing, the state of being pressed, an impression, a mark made by impression; affliction, distress; gravitation, pression.

Prest (s. an old spelling) A priest. Wickliffe.

Prest (v. t. pret. of press) Did press. Shakespeare.

Prest (p. from press) Pressed. Dryden.

PREST (s. from the French) A loan; a duty paid by the sheriff. Bacon.

PREST (adj. from the French, but now grown obsolete) Ready, willing; neat, tight. Tusser.

Prest'ation (s. from prest) A sum of money annually paid by the archdeacons and other clergy to the bishop.

PRES'TEIGN (s.) A town in Radnorshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 149 miles from London.

Prest'eign (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Presteign, made at Presteign.

PRES'TER (s. in physiology) A kind of exhalation thrown from a cloud with such force as to be set on fire with the violence of the collision; it is said to be more rapid and fatal in its effects than what is commonly called a thunder bolt.

PRES'TERJEAN, PRES'TERJOHN (s.) The title which the Europeans give to the Grand Negus or king of Abyssinia.

PRESTIGIA'TION (s. from the Lat. *præ*stigiatio) The act of deceiving, a kind of legerdemain. Johnson.

PRES'TIGES (s. plu. from the Lat. *præ*stigiæ) Illusions, tricks. Johnson.

Prestig'ious (adj. from prestiges) Juggling, practising illusive tricks.

PRES'TIMONY (s. a law term) A fund or revenue settled by the founder for the subsistence of a priest.

PRESTIS'SIMO (adv. from the Italian in music) Quick, very quick.

PRES'TO (adv. from the Italian) Quick, at once; used by those who practise legerdemain. "Presto, be gone."

PRES'TON (s.) A borough town in Lancashire; it has a market on Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 209 miles from London.

Pres'ton

P R E

Pres'ton (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Preston, made at Preston.

Press'sail (s. a sea term) All the sail that a ship can possibly carry.

Presu'mable (adj. from presume) Supposable, taken without due examination.

Presu'mably (adj. from presumable) On presumption, without examination.

PRESUM'E (v. int. from the Lat. prae before, and sumo to take) To suppose, to take up without examination; to venture without positive leave, to affirm without immediate proof; to make confident attempts; with on or upon; as, "The man presumes upon his parts."

Presu'med (p. from presume) Supposed, taken for granted.

Presu'mer (s. from presume) One that presumes, an arrogant person.

Presu'ming (p. a. from presume) Supposing, taking up without due examination, entering without leave, using confidence; with on or upon; as, "Presuming on my title." Sometimes, but not so properly; with of; as, "Presuming of his force." Dryden.

Presump'tion (s. from presume) A supposition previously formed, a confidence grounded on supposition; an argument strong but not absolutely conclusive; unreasonable confidence of divine favour; arrogance, blind and adventurous confidence.

Presump'tive (adj. from presume) Supposed, taken by previous supposition; confident, arrogant, presumptuous.

Presump'tuous (adj. from presume) Arrogant, confident, insolent; irreverent, failing in proper regard for divine things.

Presump'tuously (adv. from presumptuous) Arrogantly, irreverently; with vain and groundless confidence.

Presump'tuousness (s. from presumptuous) The state or quality of being presumptuous.

Presump'tuousness (s. a different and less correct spelling) Presumptuousness.

Presuppo'sal (s. from presuppose) A supposal previously formed.

PRESUPPO'SE (v. t. from the Lat. prae before, and suppono to suppose) To suppose beforehand.

Presupposed (p. from presuppose) Supposed beforehand.

Presuppos'ing (p. a. from presuppose) Supposing beforehand.

Presupposition (s. from presuppose) A supposition previously formed.

PRESURM'ISE (s. from the Lat. prae before, and the French surmiser to suspect) A suspicion previously formed. Shakespeare.

PRETE'NCE (s. from the Lat. prae before, and tendo to tend) A shew of something not real, an argument founded on fictitious principles; an assumption, a claim, a claim to notice; something threatened, something held out to terrify. Shakespeare.

PRETE'ND (v. t. from the Lat. prae before, and tendo to stretch) To feign, to counterfeit, to exhibit as a cover; to hold out, to stretch forward; but this sense is a latinism and not used. Shakespeare. To claim, to demand as right; "The part which they pre-tend." Dryden.

Prete'nd (v. int.) To put in a claim, to profess presumptuously.

Pretend'ed (p. from pretend) Feigned, counterfeited, claimed, foretold; but this sense is not current. Haywood.

Pretend'er (s. from pretend) One that pretends, one that lays claim to any thing.

Pretend'ing (p. a. from pretend) Feigning, counterfeiting, claiming.

Pretend'ingly (adv. from pretending) Arrogantly, presumptuously. Collier.

Preten'sion (s. from pretend) A claim; a pretence, a fictitious appearance. Bacon.

PRE'TER (adj. from the Lat. prae besides) Past, preterit.

Preterimperfect (adj. from preter, and imperfect) Belonging to the imperfect tense.

PRE'TERIT (adj. from the Lat. prae teritus) Past, passed over; belonging to the past tense.

Pre'terit (s. from the adj. put absolutely) The past tense.

Pre'terite (adj. a different spelling) Preterit, past.

Preterition (s. from preterit) The act of passing by, the state of being passed.

Pre'teritness (s. from preterit) The state of being past.

PRETERLAP'SED (adj. from the Lat. prae ter past, and lapsus a fall) Past, gone.

PRETERLE'GAL (adj. from the Lat. prae ter besides, and legis legal) Done contrary to law, illegal. K. Charles.

P R E

Pretermis'sion (s. from pretermitt) The act of passing an omission.

PRETERMIT' (v. t. from the Lat. prae ter mitto to send) To pass by, to omit.

Pretermitt'ed (p. from pretermitt) Passed by, omitted.

Pretermitt'ing (p. a. from pretermitt) Passing by, omitting.

PRETERNAT'URAL (adj. from the Lat. prae ter and natura nature) Done in a manner different from the common course of nature; irregular, falling in a manner different from the common order of natural causes.

Preternat'urally (adv. from preternatural) In a manner different from the common course of nature.

Preternat'urality (s. from preternatural) The state of being preternatural.

Preterper'fect (adj. from preter, and perfect) Belonging to that tense of a verb which denotes the time before the perfect tense.

Preterper'fect (s. from the adj. put absolutely) The preterperfect tense, the time absolutely past.

PRETERPLUPER'FECTION (adj. from the Lat. prae ter plusquam more, and perfectum perfect) Belonging to the pluperfect tense, denoting the time than passed as referring to some point of past time since intervening.

Preterpluper'fect (s. from the adj. put absolutely) Pluperfect tense.

PRE'TEXT (s. from the Lat. praetextum a covering) Pretence, a false appearance, a false allegation.

PRETEX'TA (s. from the Lat. praetexta) A white or vest bordered with purple worn by the Roman youth.

Pret'itious (adj. not so common a spelling) Precious.

PRE'TOR (s. from the Lat. praetor) A Roman magistrate the mayor or chief magistrate of a town.

Pretor'ian (adj. from pretor) Exercised by the pretor, belonging to the pretor; judicial.

PRETORIUM (s. from the Lat. praetorium) The pretor's hall, the court in which the pretor presides.

Prettier (adj. comp. of pretty) Pretty in a greater degree.

Prettiest (adj. sup. of pretty) Pretty in the greatest degree.

Prettily (adv. from pretty) Neatly, elegantly.

Pret'iness (s. from pretty) The state of being pretty, beauty without dignity, elegance without grandeur.

PRE'TY (adj. from the Sax. praet finery) Neat, pleasing without surprize or elevation; beautiful without grandeur or dignity; more than a compliment, but this sense is rather colloquial. "A pretty fellow." Implying censure, implying contempt; "You are a very pretty fellow indeed."

Pret'ty (adv. from the adj.) In some degree, in a small degree, almost.

Pretypified (p. from pretypify) Signified before by types and figures.

PRE'TYPIFY (v. t. from the Lat. prae before, typus type, and facio to make) To prefigure, to typify beforehand.

Pretypifying (p. a. from pretypify) Typifying beforehand.

PREVAIL (v. int. from the Lat. prae before, and valeo to have force) To have power, to have influence, to be much in fashion; to persuade, to induce by treaty; to overcome, to gain superiority; with upon, with, over, and against; as, "He could prevail on the king." "With obdurate hearts, nothing prevaileth." "This kingdom could not prevail against the united power of England." "A strong could prevail over death."

Prevail'ed (p. from prevail) Overcome by influence brought to consent; with with; as, "The king was prevailed with to send her forces on that expedition."

Prevail'ing (p. a. from prevail) Being in force, prevailing influence, overcoming; predominating.

Prevail'ment (s. from prevail) Prevalence.

Prev'alence (s. from prevalent) Superiority, preminance.

Prev'alency (s. from prevalence, but not so common) Prevalence.

PREV'ALENT (adj. from the Lat. prae before, valeo to be of force) Predominant, powerful, gaining superiority.

Prev'alently (adv. from prevalent) Powerfully, prevailingly.

PREVAR'ICATE (v. int. from the Lat. prae before, varico to make long strides) To cavil, to shackle, quibble.

Prevailingly

ating (p. a. from prevaricate) Cavilling, quibbling.
 ation (s. from prevaricate) The act of prevaricating, a shuffle, a cavil.
 ator (s. from prevaricate) One that prevaricates.
 v. t. an obsolete spelling) To prove. Chaucer.
 (v. t. obsolete) To perceive. Sir J. Mandeville.
 NE (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and venio ne, but not used) To come between, to hinder, event. Phillips.
 ed (p. from prevene, but not used) Hindered,
 nted.
 ent (adj. from prevene) Preceding, going be-preventive.
 ing (p. a. from prevene, but not used) Coming en, preventing.
 NT (v. t. from the Lat. præ before, and venio
ne) To go before, to make the way easy, to go as a guide; to preoccupy, to anticipate; to r, to obstruct.
 t (v. int.) To come before the time. Bacon.
 ed (p. from prevent) Hindered, obstructed.
 ter (s. from prevent) One that prevents, one goes before, one that hinders.
 er (s. a sea term) An additional rope to then and prevent another rope from breaking.
 erbrace (s. a sea term) A temporary brace fixed e main or fore yard of a ship.
 erthroud (s. a sea term) An additional shroud.
 erstay (s. a sea term) An additional stay.
 ing (p. a. from prevent) Going before, pre-ying, hindering, obstructing.
 tion (s. from prevent) The act of going before, occupation, an anticipation; a hinderance, an ction; a prejudice, a prepossession. Dryden.
 tional (adj. from prevention) Tending to pre-
 on.
 tive (adj. from prevent) Tending to hinder, ring ill, preservative; with of; as, "Preven-of diseases."
 tive (s. from the adj.) An antidote, a prefer-
 e. tively (adv. from preventive) In a manner
 ng to prevention.
 (adj. an old word) Hardly. Bailey.
 OUS (adj. from the Lat. præ before, and vid
y) Going before, antecedent, prior.
 uly (adv. from previous) Antecedently, be-and.
 uthness (s. from previous) Antecedence, the state
 ality of being previous.
 (adj. an old word) Tame. Bailey.
 (s. from the Lat. præda) Ravage, depredation; thing to be seized, something to be devoured, od which is gotten by a beast or other animal lives on living creatures.
 v. int. from the sub.) To feed by violence, to er, to rob; to corrode; to waste; with on, or as, "It preyed on her vitals."
 (s. from prey) One that preys, a robber, a rer.
 g (p. a. from prey) Feeding by violence, plung, corroding.
 d (s.) A man's name; the king of Troy.
 ia (s. from Priapus) Obscene epigrams, poems ated to Priapus.
 m, Priapis/mus (s. from Priapus) A preternation, an involuntary erection of the penis.
 US (s. in heathen mythology) An inferior divinity sed to have presided over vineyards and gardens, to have been born with remarkably large gee.
 US (s. in anatomy) The genitals.
 (s. from the Lat. pretium) The equivalent paid
 y thing, the rate at which any thing is sold, value, an estimation, a reward, a thing pur-d.
 v. t. from the sub. but now grown obsolete) To
 or. Spenser.
 s. a local word) A kind of thin drink. Bailey.
 (v. t. from the Sax. prician) To pierce with a puncture, to spur, to goad, to pain, to affect remorse; to nominate by a puncture or mark; up the ears, to raise to a point; to make marks
 e ground as a hare when the runs in the high-to fix upon a pointed instrument; to make to make acrid, to put down the notes of a tune.
 v. int. obsolete) To ride, to ride hard, to come the spur. Spenser.

Prick (s. from the verb.) A sharp point, a thorn, a prickle; a puncture, a point, a fixed place; a spot or mark at which archers aim; the print of a hare's foot on the ground; a remorse of conscience; the penis in low or vulgar language.
 Prick (v. int. a local word) To dress one's self up. John.
 Prick'ed (adj. from prick, and ear) Having the ears erect, pert.
 Prick'ed (p. from prick) Pierced, goared, impelled;
 touched with remorse.
 Prick'er (s. from prick) A sharp pointed instrument; a lighthorseman. Haywood.
 Prick'et (s. from prick) A buck of the second year.
 Prick'ing (p. a. from prick) Piercing, goaring, impelling; touching with remorse; riding, riding hard; but this sense is now become obsolete. Dryden.
 Prick'le (s. from prick) A sharp point, the point of a thorn or briar.
 Prick'liness (s. from prickly) The state of being thickly set with sharp points.
 Prick'ly (adj. from prick) Set with sharp points, full of sharp points as a thorn or briar.
 Prick'louse (s. a cant and low word, from prick, and louse) A taylor.
 Prick'louse (adj. from the sub. a low cant word) Belonging to a taylor.
 PRICK/MADAM (s. in botany) A species of houseleek.
 Prick'pust (s. in carpentry) A timber framed into the breast summer.
 Prick'punch (s. from prick, and punch) A piece of tempered steel with a sharp point at one end.
 Prick'wood (s. in botany) The spindletree, a kind of shrub.
 PRIDE (s. from the Sax. pryd) Inordinate self esteem, haughtiness, insolence; a greatness of mind, generous elation of heart; dignity, elevation; splendor, ostentation; the state of a female beast soliciting the male.
 Pride (v. t. from the sub.) To rate one's self too high.
 "They pride themselves in their wealth."
 Pridding (p. a. from pride) Rating one's self too high.
 Prie (v. t. an obsolete spelling) To pray, to intreat. Cha.
 Prie (s. in botany) The name of an herb, privet. Tusser.
 Prief (s. an old spelling) A proof. Spenser.
 Pri'er (s. from pry) He that looks narrowly into any thing.
 PRIEST (s. from the Sax. preost) One who officiates in sacred offices, the second order of the clergy, one above a deacon and below a bishop.
 Priest'craft (s. from priest, and craft) Religious fraud, the act of a priest to get power.
 Priest'ess (s. from priest) A female who officiated in heathen rites.
 Priest'hood (s. from priest) The office or character of a priest, the order of men officiating in the priest's office.
 Priest'liness (s. from priestly) The appearance of a priest.
 Priest'ly (adj. from priest) Belonging to a priest, sacer-dotal, becoming a priest.
 Priest'ridden (adj. from priest, and ridden) Governed by the priests, subjected to the clergy.
 Priest's'arments (s. from priest, and garment) The pontificals, the garments suited to the priest's office.
 Priest's'office (s. from priest, and office) The office of the priest, the functions of the priest.
 Prieve (v. t. an old word) To prove. Spenser.
 Prig (s. perhaps from prick) A pert, saucy, pragmatical little fellow.
 Prig'ging (adj. a cant word from pricking) Riding, coming on the spur. Cole.
 Prig'gish (adj. a cant word from prig) Pert, saucy, pragmatical.
 Prig'napper (s. a cant word) A horfestealer. Cole.
 Prigs (s. a cant word) Thieves. Cole.
 Prig'star (s. a cant word) A rival in love. Cole.
 Pri'afour (s. obsolete) A hard rider. Chaucer.
 Pri'et (s. a cant word) A small wax candle. Cole.
 Pri'id (p. obsolete) Hard ridden. Chaucer.
 PRILL, PRILL (s. in ichthyology) The brit, the turbot.
 Prill (v. t. obsolete) To gore. Chaucer.
 Prim (adj. supposed to be a contraction from primitive)
 Formal, precise, affectedly nice.
 Prim (v. t. from the adj.) To deck up precisely, to forgo an affected nicety.
 Pri'macy (s. from primate) The highest state of an ecclesiastic, the state of an archbishop.
 PRIM'F'VAL (adj. a formal but not so common a spelling)
 Primeval, first or more ancient in time. Scott.
 PRIM'F'VIAE (s. in anatomy from the Lat. primus first)

- first, and via a way*) The first passages, the stomach intestines and their appendices, the alimentary duct.
- Primage (s. a sea term) The freight of a ship. Ainsl.
- Primal (adj. from prime, but not in common use) First. Shakespeare.
- Primarily (adv. from primary) In the first place, originally, in the first intention.
- Primariness (s. from primary) The state of being first.
- Primary (adj. from prime) First, chief, original; first in intention, first in dignity.
- PRIMATE (s. from the Lat. primus first) The chief ecclesiastic; the ecclesiastic that presides in a province.
- Primateship (s. from primate) The office or dignity of a primate.
- PRIME (s. from the Lat. primus first) The first part of the day, the morning; the beginning, the early days, the best part; the spring, the spring of life; the first canonical hour, the first part; the height of perfection.
- PRIME (adj. from the Lat. primus) First, original; principal, chief; excellent.
- Prime (v. t. from the adj.) To put in the first powder, to put powder in the pan of a gun, to lay on the first colours in painting.
- Primed (p. from prime) Furnished with powder in the pan, painted over a first time.
- Primely (adv. from prime) Originally, in the first place, in the first intention; excellently, supremely well. Johnson.
- Primest (s. from prime) The state of being first, excellence. Johnson.
- Primer (s. from prime) A small prayer book in which children are generally taught to read, an elementary book; an office of the Virgin Mary.
- PRIMEIRO (s. from the Spanish) A particular game at cards.
- Primest (adj. sup. of prime, but not much used) Best, most excellent. Shakespeare.
- PRIMEVAL (adj. from the Lat. primævus) Original, prior in time.
- PRIMEVOUS (adj. from the Lat. primævus, but not so common a word) Primeval. Johnson.
- PRIMEVERIUS (s. in antiquity) The first or chief in any office or dignity.
- Primier (adj. a law term) First, chief.
- PRIMIGENIAL (adj. from the Lat. primus first, and gigno to beget) Original, primogenial, first of the kind. Scott.
- Primigenialness (s. from primigenial) The state of being primigenial. Scott.
- PRIMIGENIOUS (adj. from the Lat. primigenius) Primogenial, original, first of the kind.
- Primigeniouse (s. from primigenious) The state of being primogenial.
- Priming (p. a. from prime) Putting powder in the pan of a gun; laying on the first coat of paint.
- Priming (s. from the adj.) The powder put into the pan of a gun, the first coat in painting, the first illumination of the moon after its conjunction with the sun.
- Priminghorn (s. from priming, and horn) The horn in which powder is kept for priming the guns.
- PRIMPILUS (s. in antiquity) The centurion of the first cohort who had the charge of the Roman eagle.
- PRIMITIÆ (s. from the Lat.) The first fruits.
- Primitial (adj. from primitiæ) Belonging to the first fruits. Ainsworth.
- PRIMITIVE (adj. from the Lat. primitivus) Ancient, original, primary, underived; affectedly precise.
- Primatively (adj. from primitive) Originally, at first, primarily, underivedly; according to ancient practice.
- Primiteness (s. from primitive) The state of being primitive, antiquity, conformity to antiquity.
- Primmed (p. from prim) Decked up, dressed nicely.
- Primmer (adj. comp. of prim) Prim in a greater degree.
- Primmed (adj. sup. of prim) Prim in the greatest degree.
- Primming (p. a. from prim) Decking up, dressing exactly.
- Primness (s. from prim) Preciseness, affected formality.
- PRIMOGENIAL (adj. from the Lat. primus first, and gigno to beget) Primigenial, first born, original, primary.
- PRIMOGENITURE (s. from the Lat. primus first, and gigno to beget) The state of being firstborn, seniority, eldership.
- PRIMORDIAL (adj. from the Lat. primordium the beginning) Original, existing from the beginning.
- Primordial (s. from the adj.) An original, a first principle.
- PRIMORDIALE (adj. from the Lat. primordium) Original, existing at the beginning.
- Primor'dian (s. in botany) A kind of plum.
- PRIMO'RES (s. in anatomy) The four first teeth in each jaw.
- PRIM'ROSE (s. in botany) An early spring flower, the plant that produces the flower, the primula veris.
- Prim'rose (adj. from the sub.) Gay, flowery. "The prim'rose way." Shakespeare.
- PRIM'ULAVE'RIS (s. in botany, from the Lat. primus first, and ver veris the spring) The primrose.
- PRIMUMMOBILE (s. from the Lat. primus first, and mobilis moving) A first mover; the highest sphere in the Ptolemaic system.
- PRIMUS (s. in anatomy) The first or principal muscle in any part where there are more than one.
- PRINCE (s. from the Lat. princeps) A sovereign, a ruler; one of rank next to a king, the son of a king, the chief of any body of men.
- Prince (v. int. from the sub.) To take state, to play the part of a prince. Shakespeare.
- Princedom (s. from prince) The rank, state, or power of a prince.
- Princelike (adj. from prince, and like) Like a prince, becoming a prince.
- Princline (s. from princely) The state of a prince.
- Princely (adj. from prince) Having the rank of a prince, belonging to a prince, becoming a prince.
- Princely (adv. from the adj.) In a princelike manner.
- Prin'ces (s. an obsolete spelling) A prince.
- PRINCESFEATHER (s. in botany) The name of a flower, the plant that produces the flower.
- Prin'cess (s. from prince) The wife of a prince, daughter of a king; a lady of rank next to a queen, a sovereign lady.
- PRINCIPAL (adj. from the Lat. principalis) Chief, pital, essential; princely. Spenser.
- Principal (s. from the adj.) A chief, the head of a house in an university; one originally engaged; the capital or sum of money out at interest.
- Principalty (s. from prince) The country which gives title to a prince; a prince, one invested with authority; one of an order of angels; superiority, dominance, supreme power.
- Principally (adv. from principal) Chiefly, above the rest.
- Principals (s. from principal) The state of being principal.
- PRINCIPIA (s. from the Lat.) First principles.
- PRINCIPIATION (s. from the Lat. principium a beginning, but not used) An analysis into elementary principles. Bacon.
- PRINCIPLE (s. from the Lat. principium a beginning) A constituent part, an element; a fundamental truth, a ground of action; an original cause, an operative cause; a tenet, a settled opinion.
- Prin'ciple (v. t. from the sub.) To establish in a tenet, to impress with a tenet, to establish firmly in the mind.
- Principled (p. from principle) Impressed with a principle, fixed in opinions; with with; as, "Principled with an opinion."
- Prin'ciple (p. a. from principle) Impressing with a tenet, establishing in the mind.
- Prin'cock (s. a cant word) A coxcomb, a pert young rogue.
- Prin'cox (s. from princock) A conceited fellow, a young rogue.
- Prin'dle (s. a local word) A croft, a small close.
- PRINK (v. int. from the Dutch [rinken]) To deck show, to prank.
- Prin'king (p. a. from prink) Dressing up for show.
- PRINOS (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
- PRINT (v. t. from the Lat. premo to press) To mark, to press one thing on another, to form by impressing letters and words on paper by means of a press.
- Print (v. int.) To publish by printing.
- Print (s. from the verb) The mark made by impressing, a piece of cloth printed; the form, and arrangements of the letters or types in print, the state of being published by printing, a single printed and sold; a form, a formal method.
- Printed (p. from print) Impressed with some or mark, impressed by the printer, formed by pressing.
- Print'er (s. from print) One that prints books, one who prints.
- Print'ing (p. a. from print) Marking by impressing with letters, publishing by putting in print.
- Print'ing (s. from the part.) The act or process of pressing letters and words; the process of printing.
- Print'ishode (s. an obsolete spelling) An apprenticeship.

PRI

Printless (adj. from print) Void of any impression, leaving no impression.

PRIOR (adj. from the Lat.) Former, antecedent, anterior.

PRIOR (s. from the Lat.) The head of a convent of monks, an ecclesiastic inferior to an abbot, one in a church who presides over others in the same church.

PRIORESS (s. from prior) A lady superior of a convent of nuns.

PRIORITY (s. from prior) The state of being prior, precedence in place.

PRIORSHIP (s. from prior) The state or office of a prior.

PRIORY (s. from prior) A convent in dignity below an abbey; the temporalities of a prior.

PRIS (s. an old spelling) Praise. Chaucer.

PRISAGE (s. from prize) The share that belongs to the king or commander in chief, all lawful prize taken at sea; butlerage, a custom by which the prince challenges out of every bark laden with wine two tons at his own price.

PRISCA (s.) A man's name. 2 Tim.

PRISCIAN (s.) A man's name; a famous grammarian cotemporary with Justinian.

PRISCILLA (s.) The name of a woman.

PRISCILLIAN (s.) A man's name.

PRISCILLIANIST (s. in church history, from Priscillian) A follower of Priscillian who held it lawful to take false oaths in support of what he called the truth.

PRISCUS (s.) A man's name.

PRIZE (s. not so common a spelling) The price, value, esteem; a prize.

PRIZE (s. obsolete) Praise. Chaucer.

PRIZER (s. from prize) A prize fighter. Shakespeare.

PRISM (s. from the Greek πρίσμα) An oblong solid whose two bases are parallel and equal; it is generated by the motion of a rectangular figure descending through a right line parallel to itself.

PRISMATIC (adj. from prism) Formed like a prism, belonging to a prism, formed by a prism.

PRISMATICAL (adj. from prismatic) Prismatic.

PRISMATICALLY (adv. from prismatic) In the form of a prism.

PRISMOID (s. from the Greek πρίσμα a prism, and εἶδος a shape) A solid body approaching to the form of a prism.

PRISON (s. from the French) A gaol, a strong hold in which persons are confined.

PRISON (v. t. from the sub.) To shut up in hold, to restrain from liberty, to confine, to captivate, to enchain.

PRISON (adj. from the sub. sometimes used in composition) Belonging to a prison, suited to a prison.

PRISONBARS (s. from prison, and bars) Prison bars, a rural play. Johnson.

PRISONBASE (s. from prison, and base) A kind of rural play.

PRISONDOOR (s. from prison, and door) The door of a prison.

PRISONED (p. from prison) Shut up in a prison, confined. Milton.

PRISONER (s. from prison) One shut up in a prison, a captive, one under arrest.

PRISONER (s. from prison, and fee) The money paid by a prisoner on going out of a prison.

PRISONGARMENT (s. from prison, and garment) A garment worn in prison.

PRISONHOUSE (s. from prison, and house) A gaol, a hold in which persons are confined.

PRISONING (p. a. from prison) Confining, shutting up in prison.

PRISONMENT (s. from prison) Imprisonment, confinement. Shakespeare.

PRISONWALL (s. from prison, and wall) The wall of a prison.

PRISTINE (adj. from the Lat. pristinus) First, ancient, original.

PRISTIS (s. in ichthyology) The sawfish.

PRITHLEE (v. int. from pray, and thee, used only in familiar style) Pray thee, let me intreat thee.

PRITTEPRATTLE (s. a cant word, from a reduplication of prattle) Idle talk, insignificant conversation. Scott.

PRIVACY (s. from private) The state of being secret, secrecy, retirement; taciturnity; privacy; but this sense is judged improper. Arbutnot.

PRIVADO (s. from the Spanish) A secret friend. Bacon.

PRIVATE (adj. from the Lat. privatus) Secret, alone, unaccompanied; particular, personal, opposed to public.

PRIVATE (s. from the adj.) A secret message. Shakespeare.

PRIVATE (s. from the adj.) A secret place, a place not exposed. "He did it in private."

PRO

PRIVATEER (s. from private) A ship fitted out by private people to plunder an enemy.

PRIVATEER (v. t. from the sub.) To fit out ships against an enemy at the charge of private persons, to plunder an enemy by private ships of war.

PRIVATEERED (p. from privateer) Plundered by private ships of war.

PRIVATEERING (p. a. from privateer) Fitting out private ships of war, plundering an enemy by private ships of war. Scott.

PRIVATEERING (s. from the part.) The act of plundering an enemy in private ships of war.

PRIVATELY (adv. from private) Secretly, in private.

PRIVATENESS (s. from private) The state of being private.

PRIVATER (adj. comp. of private) Private in a greater degree.

PRIVATEST (adj. sup. of private) Private in the greatest degree.

PRIVATION (s. from private) The removal of any part, the removal of any quality; the act of degrading from any office or dignity, the act of the mind by which we separate a principal subject from any thing appendant.

PRIVATIVE (adj. from the Lat. privativus) Causing privation, consisting in privation.

PRIVATIVE (s. from the adj.) That which consists in privation as darkness in the absence of light.

PRIVATIVELY (adv. from privative) Negatively, by the absence of some part or quality.

PRIVATIVENESS (s. from privative) The state of being privative.

PRIVED (p. an obsolete spelling) Proved. Chaucer.

PRIVET (s. in botany) The name of a plant, a kind of phyllegrea.

PRIVIES (s. a law term) Persons related, persons connected in a law sense.

PRIVILEGE (s. from the Lat. privilegium) A peculiar advantage, an immunity, a public right.

PRIVILEGE (v. t. from the sub.) To invest with immunities, to exempt from censure or danger, to exempt from paying imposts.

PRIVILEGED (p. from privilege) Invested with immunities, exempted from any thing burdensome, favoured; with from; as, "Privileged from tithes."

PRIVILEGING (p. a. from privilege) Investing with immunities, exempting from any thing burdensome.

PRIVILY (adv. from privy) Privately, secretly.

PRIVITIES (s. plu. from privy) The parts of generation, the secrets.

PRIVITY (s. from privy) Private communication, conscientiousness, joint knowledge, private concurrence.

PRIVY (adj. from the French privé) Private, assigned to secret uses; secret, clandestine; admitted to the secrets of state; conscious to any thing, admitted to a participation of knowledge.

PRIVY (s. from the adj.) A necessary house.

PRIVY (s.) The privy seal of king Arthur.

PRIZE (s. from the French prix) A reward, a reward gained by contest; something taken by adventure, something obtained by hazard; plunder, booty.

PRIZE (v. t. from the sub.) To rate, to value at a price; to esteem, to value highly.

PRIZED (p. from prize) Rated, valued at a price; esteemed, highly valued.

PRIZER (s. from prize) One that prizes.

PRIZEFIGHTER (s. from prize, and fight) One that fights for a prize.

PRIZEOFFICE (s. from prize, and office) The office where the shares of prizes taken in war are determined and distributed.

PRO (adv. from the Lat. most suited to droll style) For, on one side against another. "Argued pro and con."

PRO (s. from the adv.) One who is on the positive side of the question. "The pros and the cons." Johnson.

PROBABILIST (s. from probable) One of a sect amongst the papists who hold the doctrine of probable opinions.

PROBABILITY (s. from probable) Likelihood, appearance of truth, evidence arising from the preponderation of argument.

PROBABLE (adj. from the Lat. probabilis) Likely, having a preponderation of evidence.

PROBABLY (adv. from probable) With probability.

PROBACY (s. obsolete) Proof by witnesses. Chaucer.

PROBAT (s. from the Lat.) The proof of a last will and testament, the copy of the will delivered from the office to the executor.

PROBAT (adj. an old word) Proved by witnesses, requiring proof by witnesses.

PROBATE (s. a different spelling) The probat, the proof of a last will and testament.

Probatical

PRO

Probat'ical (adj. from probat, but not used) Belonging to probation. Cole.
PROBAT'ICK (adj. from the Greek προβατον a sheep) Belonging to sheep, applied to the famous pool of Bethesda. Phillips.
Probat'ife (adj. obsolete) Probatick. Chaucer.
Probat'ike (adj. obsolete) Probatick. Chaucer.
PROBA'TION (s. from the Lat. probatio to prove) Proof, evidence, trial, examination.
Probational (adj. from probation, but not used) Probationary, serving for trial. Cole.
Probationary (adj. from probation) Serving for trial.
Probationer (s. from probation) One who is on trial, a novice.
Probationership (s. from probationer) The state of being a probationer, the noviciate.
Probat'or (s. a law term) A prover, one who proves a crime charged upon another.
PROBATORY (adj. from the Lat. probatio to prove) Serving for trial, probationary.
PROBATUM EST (v. int. from the Lat.) It is proved.
Probatum est (s. from the verb) An attestation of being proved. "I put to it my probatum est."
PROBE (s. from the Lat. probatio to prove) A slender kind of wire by which surgeons prove the depth of a wound.
Probe (v. t. from the sub.) To search, to try the depth of a wound.
Pro'bed (p. from probe) Searched, examined by a wound.
Pro'besissors (s. from probe, and scissors) Scissors used to open wounds having a button on one point.
Pro'bing (p. a. from probe) Searching, trying the depth of wounds.
Pro'bity (s. from the Lat. probitas) Honesty, sincerity, veracity.
PROBLEM (s. from the Greek πρόβλημα) A question proposed, a mathematical question.
Problematical (adj. from problem) Uncertain, disputable, admitting doubt.
Problematically (adv. from problematical) With uncertainty, in a manner to be doubted.
PRO'BOLE (s. from the Greek προβωλη, first, and βάλλω to throw) The process of a bone; a production in which the thing produced is supposed to subsist at least semi-nally in the thing that produces it.
Probos'cide (s. an old spelling) The proboscis of an elephant. Cole.
PROBOS'CIS (s. from the Lat.) The snout, the trunk of an elephant.
PROBUS (s.) A man's name.
PROCA'CIOUS (adj. from the Lat. procax) Loose, pert, petulant. Johnson.
Procast'ity (s. from procacious) Pertness. Cole.
PRO/CAS (s.) The name of a woman; the mother of Romulus.
Procatar'ic (adj. from procatarxis) Forerunning, antecedent.
PROCATAR'XIS (s. from the Greek) The preexistent cause of a disease.
Proced'ure (s. from proceed) The act of proceeding, the manner of proceeding; process, operation; a produce, the thing produced.
PROCEE'D (v. int. from the Lat. pro before, and cedo to go) To pass on, to go forward, to advance, to issue, to arise, to come by generation; to prosecute, to transact an affair.
Proce'd (s. from the verb, a law term) A produce.
Proce'der (s. from proceed) One who goes forward, one who makes a progress.
Proce'ding (p. a. from proceed) Going forward, advancing, issuing.
Proce'ding (s. from the part.) A progress, a series of conduct; a legal process.
Proceusmatic (adj. from proceusmaticus) Belonging to the proceusmaticus.
PROCEUSMATICUS (s. in ancient poetry) A foot consisting of four short syllables.
PROCELLARIA (s. in ornithology) The stormbird, a genus of birds.
PROCEP'TION (s. obsolete) Preoccupation. King Charles.
PRO/CERE (adj. from the Lat. procerus, but not used) Tall. Cole.
Procer'ity (s. from procerus) Tallness, height of stature. Addison.
PRO/CERS (s. in glass making) Long irons, with hooks at the ends.
PRO/CCESS (s. from the Lat. processus) A progressive course, a regular progress, a methodical management; a course of law; the protuberance of a bone.

PRO

Pro'cess (s. obsolete) An harangue, a continued discourse.
Proces'sion (s. from process) A solemn train, a formal march of several persons in rank and order.
Proces'sion (v. int. from the sub.) To go in formal order. Johnson.
Proces'sional (adj. from procession) Belonging to procession.
Proces'sionary (adj. from procession) Consisting in procession.
PROCES'SUS (s. from the Lat.) The protuberance of a bone, a process.
PRO/CHEINA/MEY (s. from the French) A friend near at hand. Bailey.
PRO/CHEINA/NCY (s. a law term) One next in kin to a minor.
PRO/CHORUS (s.) A man's name. Addison.
PRO/CHRONISM (s. from the Greek, προ before, and χρόνος time) The act of dating a thing before it came to pass, an error in chronology.
Pro'cidence (s. from procidentia) The act of falling down, a dependence below the natural place.
PROCIDEN'TIA (s. from the Lat.) A procidence, a dependence below the natural place.
Procid'uous (adj. from procidence, but not used) Belonging to a prolapsion. Cole.
PRO/CINCT (s. from the Lat. procinctus prepared) A preparation for immediate action. Milton.
PROCLAIM (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and clamare to cry) To promulgate, to spread abroad, to declare openly.
Proclaim'ed (p. from proclaim) Published, spread abroad, declared openly, published by proclamation.
Proclaim'er (s. from proclaim) One that proclaims.
Proclaim'ing (p. a. from proclaim) Publishing by proclamation, declaring openly.
Proclama'tion (s. from proclaim) A declaration announced by public authority; a publication by the authority of the state; an open declaration.
PROCLIVE (adj. from the Lat. proclivus, but not used) Easy, apt, inclinable. Cole.
Procliv'ity (s. from proclive) A tendency, a natural inclination, readiness, facility.
Procliv'ous (adj. from proclive) Inclinable, tending by nature. Johnson.
PROCLUS (s.) A man's name; a Platonic philosopher who taught at Athens.
Procon'dyl (s. plu. from procondylus) The bones of the fingers next the back of the hand.
PROCON'DYLUS (s. in anatomy) The first joint of the finger next the back of the hand.
PROCON'SUL (s. from the Lat.) A Roman officer, the governor of a province with consular authority.
Procon'sulship (s. from proconul) The office of a proconsul.
PROCO'PIUS (s.) A man's name; a Greek historian who wrote the wars of Belisarius.
PROCRAS'TINATE (v. t. from the Lat. pro fur, and cras to-morrow) To put off, to defer, to delay, to put off from one day to another.
Procras'tinate (v. int.) To be dilatory.
Procras'tinated (p. from procrastinate) Delayed, put off from day to day.
Procras'tinating (p. a. from procrastinate) Delaying, putting off from day to day.
Procrastina'tion (s. from procrastinate) A delay, dilatoriness.
Procrastina'tor (s. from procrastinate) One that procrastinates; a dilatory person.
PRO/CREANT (adj. from the Lat. procreo to generate) Productive, pregnant. Shakespeare.
PRO/CREATE (v. t. from the Lat. procreo to generate) To generate, to produce.
Pro'created (p. from procreate) Generated, produced.
Pro'creating (p. a. from procreate) Generating, producing.
Procrea'tion (s. from procreate) Production, generation.
Pro'creative (adj. from procreate) Productive, generative.
Pro'creativeness (s. from procreate) The power of generation.
Procrea'tor (s. from procreate) One that procreates.
PRO/CRIS (s.) The name of a woman; the wife of Cephalus the grandson of Æolus. Ovid.
PROCRUS'TES (s.) The name of a noted tyrant, who measured his guests by the length of his bed; if too long he cut them shorter, if too short he stretched them longer.
Proctor (s. from procurator) A manager of another man's affairs, an attorney in the spiritual court, a magistrate of an university. Proctor.

PRO

Proctor (v. t. from the sub. a cant word) To manage. Shakespeare.
Proctorship (s. from proctor) The office or dignity of a proctor.
PROCLAMATION (s. from the Lat. pro before, and calco to tread, but not used) The act of trampling under foot.
PROCUMBENT (adj. from the Lat. procumbo to lie down) Lying down, prone.
Procurable (adj. from procure) Capable of being procured.
Procuration (s. from procure) The management of any thing. Johnson.
Procurement (s. from procure) The act of procuring.
Procure (s. from procure) A manager, one that transacts affairs for another.
Procuratorial (adj. from procurator) Made by a proctor, done by a procurator.
Procuratorium (s. in old writings) The procuratory.
Procuratory (s. from the adj.) The instrument authorizing a proctor to appear for any one in a court of judicature. Phillips.
Procuratory (adj. from procurator) Tending to procuration.
PROCURER (v. t. from the Lat. pro for, and curo to take care) To manage, to transact for another; to obtain, to acquire; to persuade, to prevail on; to contrive, to forward.
Procurer (v. int.) To act the part of a pimp, to act the part of a bawd.
Procured (p. from procure) Obtained, acquired; contrived, forwarded; managed, transacted for another.
Procurement (s. from procure) The act of procuring.
Procurer (s. from procure) One that procures; a pimp, a pandar.
Procurers (s. from procure) A bawd, a female who procures persons to gratify the unlawful pleasures of others.
Procuring (p. a. from procure) Obtaining, acquiring, managing, acting the part of a pimp, acting the part of a bawd.
PROCYON (s. in astronomy) A star of the second magnitude in the constellation of Canis Minor.
PRODES HOMES (s. in old records) The barons.
PRODICTATOR (s. in Roman antiquity) An officer who supplied the place of the dictator.
PRODIGAL (adj. from the Lat. prodigalis) Profuse, wasteful; expensive, lavish.
Prodigal (s. from the adj.) A spendthrift, one who lavishes away his substance.
Prodigality (s. from prodigal) Profusion, waste, extravagance.
Prodigally (adv. from prodigal) Profusely, extravagantly, wastefully.
PRODIGENCE (s. from the Lat. prodigentia, but not used) Wastefulness. Cole.
Prodigious (adj. from prodigy) Very great, amazing, enormous, monstrous.
Prodigiously (adv. from prodigious) Amazingly, enormously; very, in a great degree. "I am prodigiously pleased." Pope.
Prodigiousness (s. from prodigious) The state of being prodigious.
PRODIGY (s. from the Lat. prodigium) Something amazing, any thing out of the common course of nature; a monster.
PRODITION (s. from the Lat. proditio) Treason, treachery. Ainsworth.
PRODITOR (s. from the Lat. but not used) A traitor. Shakespeare.
Proditorious (adj. from proditor) Treacherous, perfidious; apt to betray secrets. Wotton.
PRODROMUS (s. from the Greek, προ before, and δρομος a course) A forerunner; a disease which introduces another.
Prodrome (s. from prodromus) A forerunner. Cole.
PRODUCE (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and duco to lead) To bring forward, to bring as an evidence; to bear, to bring forth; to generate, to beget.
Produce (s. from the verb) A product, the issue, the amount; profit, gain.
Produced (p. from produce) Brought forward, exhibited to view, brought forth, generated.
Product (s. from produce) One that offers, one that exhibits.
Producer (s. from produce) One that produces, one that generates.

PRO

Producible (adj. from produce) Capable of being produced.
Produciableness (s. from producible) The state of being producible.
Producing (p. a. from produce) Bringing forward, exhibiting to view, generating, bringing forth.
PRODUCT (s. from the Lat. productus) That which is produced; a work, a composition, an effect; the sum arising from the multiplication of two or more numbers into each other.
Productible (adj. from product) Capable of being produced.
Production (s. from product) The act of producing, the thing produced; a composition, a work, a publication.
Productive (adj. from product) Having the power to produce, fertile, efficient, generative.
Productiveness (s. from productive) The state of being productive.
PROEC'THESIS (s. from the Greek) A running out before; a figure in rhetoric, in which the author defends himself by offering reasons for what he has said.
PROEUGMENA (s. with physicians) The predisposing course of a disease as distinguished from the immediate.
PROEM (s. from the Greek, προημα) A preface, an introduction.
PROEMP'TOSIS (s. from the Greek) The appearance of the new moon a day later, by means of the lunar equations.
PROEPIZEUXIS (s. from the Greek) A grammatical figure in which the verb is placed between two substantives, instead of being placed after, which is the most common order.
PRÆTIDES (s. in the mythology of the poets) The daughters of Prætus who preferred themselves to Juno, and for their crime were punished with madness, and imagined themselves to be cows. Ovid.
PRÆTUS (s.) A man's name, king of the Argives, and father of the Prætidæ.
Prof (s. an old word) An inquest. Cole.
Proface (v. used in the imperative mode) Much good may it do you. Shakespeare.
Profanation (s. from profane) The act of violating any thing sacred, irreverence.
PROFANE (adj. from the Lat. pro before, and fanum a fane) Violating things sacred, irreverent; secular, not sacred; polluted, unpurified by sacred rites.
Profane (v. t. from the sub.) To violate, to put to a wrong use, to pollute.
Profaned (p. from profane) Violated, put to a wrong use, polluted.
Profanely (adv. from profane) With irreverence to things sacred, in a profane manner.
Profaneness (s. from profane) The state or quality of being profane.
Profaner (s. from profane) One that profanes.
Profaner (adj. comp. of profane) Profane in a greater degree.
Profanest (adj. sup. of profane) Profane in the greatest degree.
PROFECTION (s. from the Lat. proficiscor to go) The act of departing, a going forward. Brown.
Profectitious (adj. from profectio) Gone, departed, belonging to a departure. Cole.
PROFER (s. a correct but not so common a spelling) A proffer.
PROFER (v. t. a correct but not so common a spelling) To proffer.
PROFER (s. from the Lat. pro for, and fero to bring) The time appointed twice a year for passing accounts in the Exchequer.
Proffered (p. from profer, a correct spelling) Proffered.
Profferer (s. from profer, a correct spelling) A profferer.
Proffering (p. a. from profer, a correct spelling) Proffering.
PROFESS (v. t. from the Lat. pro for, and fateor to confess) To declare in strong terms, to declare publicly, to declare one's skill in any art or profession; to make a show of sentiments by loud declarations.
Profess (v. int.) To declare openly; to declare friendship; but this sense is not used. Shakespeare.
Professed (p. from profess) Declared in strong terms, declared publicly.
Professedly (adv. from professed) By open declaration by profession.
Professing (p. a. from profess) Declaring publicly, declaring simply, making a profession.

PRO

Profes'sion (s. from profess) A public declaration, the act of declaring; a vocation, a calling, a known employment.

Profes'sional (adj. from profession) Relating to some particular profession.

Profes'sor (s. from profess) One who declares himself to be of some particular party; one who publicly practices or teaches any art or science; one who makes more than common pretensions to religion.

Profes'sorship (s. from professor) The station of a professor in any art or science; the office of a public teacher.

Profe'st (v. t. pret. of profess) Did profess.

Profe'st (p. from profess) Professed. Dryden.

PROFFER (v. t. from the Lat. pro for, and fero to bring) To offer, to propose; to attempt.

Proffer (s. from the verb) An offer, something proposed; an essay, an attempt.

Proffered (p. from proffer) Proposed, offered, attempted.

Profferer (s. from proffer) One that proffers.

Proffering (p. a. from proffer) Proposing, offering, attempting.

Pro'ficiency (s. from proficient) Advancement, progress, improvement; an intellectual acquisition.

Pro'ficiency (s. from proficiency) Progress, advancement, profit.

PROFICIENT (s. from the Lat. pro for, and facio to make) One who has made advances in any study or business.

PROFICUOUS (adj. from the Lat. proficuum) Advantageous, useful. Harvey.

Profil (s. not so common a spelling) A profile. Phillips.

PROFILE (s. from the French) The side face, the half face; a draught in which the perpendicular section of any building is represented; the outlines of a figure.

Profile (v. t. from the sub.) To represent in a design. Dict. of Arts.

Pro'fied (p. from profile) Represented in profile.

Pro'filing (p. a. from profile) Representing in profile.

Pro'filing (s. from the part.) The method of representing in profile; the art of designing by rule and compass. Dict. of Arts.

PROFIT (s. from the French) Gain, advantage, improvement, pecuniary advantage.

Profit (v. t. from the sub.) To benefit, to advantage; to improve, to advance.

Profit (v. int.) To gain advantage, to make improvement, to be of use.

Profitable (adj. from profit) Gainful, lucrative, advantageous, useful.

Profitableness (s. from profitable) The state of being profitable.

Profitably (adv. from profitable) With gain, with advantage.

Pro'fited (p. from profit) Benefited.

Pro'fiting (p. a. from profit) Benefiting, advancing, improving.

Pro'fiteless (adj. from profit) Void of profit, useless.

Pro'fitrolles (s. in cookery) Small round leaves farced and placed in the middle of a dish of pottage. Bailey.

PROFLIGATE (adj. from the Lat. profligatus) Abandoned, shameless, lost to virtue and decency.

Profligate (s. from the adj.) An abandoned shameless wretch.

Profligately (adv. from profligate) In a profligate manner.

Profligateness (s. from profligate) The quality of being profligate.

Proflu'ence (s. from profluent) A progress, a course.

PROFLUENT (adj. from the Lat. pro before, and fluo to flow) Flowing forward.

PROFLUVIUM (s. from the Lat.) A flux, a liquid evacuation.

PROFUND (adj. from the Lat. pro before, and fundus deep) Descending far below the surface, deep, not easily fathomed; lowly, humble; deep in contrivance, learned beyond the common reach.

Profound (s. from the adj.) The deep, the sea, the abyss.

Pro'fou'nd (v. int. from the sub.) To dive, to penetrate. Gauville.

Profound'er (adj. comp. of profound) Profound in a greater degree.

Profound'est (adj. sup. of profound) Profound in the greatest degree.

Profound'ly (adv. from profound) Deeply, with deep concern; with depth, with depth of knowledge.

Profound'ness (s. from profound) Depth of place, depth of knowledge.

PRO

Profound'ity (s. from profound) Depth, the state of being profound.

Profu'd'ure (s. from profound, but not used) Profundity.

PROFUNDUS (s. in anatomy) A muscle which bends the fingers.

PROFUSE (adj. from the Lat. pro before, and fundo pour out) Lavish, prodigal, exuberant.

Profusely (adv. from profuse) In a profuse manner with profusion.

Profuseness (s. from profuse) The state or quality of being profuse.

Profuser (adj. comp. of profuse) Profuse in a greater degree.

Profust (adj. sup. of profuse) Profuse in the greatest degree.

Profusion (s. from profuse) Prodigality, extravagance, superfluous effusion; abundance, exuberant plenty.

Prog (v. int. a kind of cant word) To rob, to steal, to shift meanly for provisions.

Prog (s. from the verb, a cant word) Victuals, provisions. Johnson.

PROGENERATION (s. from the Lat. progenere to beget) Propagation.

PROGENITOR (s. from the Lat. pro before, and gigno to beget) A forefather, an ancestor.

PROGENY (s. from the Lat. progenies) An offspring, race, a generation.

Pro'gging (p. a. from prog) Robbing, stealing, making low shifts for victuals. L'Estrange.

PRO'NE (s. in the mythology of the poets) The sister of Philomela, said to have been transformed into a swallow. Ovid.

PROGNOSIS (s. from the Greek) Foreknowledge, prognostication.

PROGNOSTIC (adj. from the Greek, pro before, and gnosco to know) Shewing before hand, predicting.

Prognos'tic (s. from the adj.) A prediction, the act of foretelling the diseases or recovery.

Pognos'ticable (adj. from prognostic) Capable of being prognosticated.

Prognos'ticate (v. t. from prognostic) To foreflew, to predict.

Prognos'ticated (p. from prognosticate) Foretold, shewed beforehand.

Prognos'ticating (p. a. from prognosticate) Foreflew, predicting.

Prognos'tication (s. from prognosticate) The act of foreflew, a prediction.

Prognos'ticator (s. from prognosticate) One that prognosticates.

PROGRAMMA (s. in the universities) A billet or advertisement inviting to an oration or other college exercise.

PROGRESS (s. from the Lat. pro before, and gradior to go) A course, a procession, a removal from one place to another, a journey of state, an intellectual improvement.

Pro'gress (v. int. from the sub.) To move forward; with on: "Doth progress on thy cheeks." Shakespeare.

Progres'sion (s. from progress) A progress, a regular and gradual advance; a course, a passage; a series gradually increasing or decreasing; a rule in arithmetic.

Progres'sional (adj. from progression) Belonging to progression, going forward.

Progres'sive (adj. from progress) Going forward, advancing.

Progres'sively (adv. from progressive) By gradual steps, in a regular course.

Progres'siveness (s. from progressive) The state of being progressive.

Pro'heme (s. an obsolete spelling) A proem, a preface. Chaucer.

PROHIBIT (v. t. from the Lat. prohibeo) To forbid, to interdict by authority; to debar, to hinder.

Prohibited (p. from prohibit) Forbidden, interdicted.

Prohibiter (s. from prohibit) One that prohibits.

Prohibiting (p. a. from prohibit) Forbidding, interdicting; debarring, hindering.

Prohibition (s. from prohibit) The act of forbidding, an interdict.

Prohibitory (adj. from prohibit) Containing a prohibition, forbidding.

PROJE'CT (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and jacio to throw) To throw out, to cast forward; to exhibit a form; to contrive, to scheme.

Project (v. int.) To shoot out, to come out beyond the parts adherent. Project

PRO

Project (s. from the verb) A scheme, a design, a contrivance.
Projected (p. from project) Thrown forward, exhibited to view; schemed, contrived.
Projecter (s. from project, not so common a spelling) A projector, one that projects.
Projectile (s. from project) A body put into motion, a body thrown up into the air.
Projectile (adj. from the sub.) Impelled forward.
Projecting (p. a. from project) Shooting forward; scheming, contriving.
Projection (s. from project) The act of shooting forward, that which shoots forward; a scheme, a plan of action; a delineation; an operation in chymistry, the crisis of an operation, the moment of transmutation.
Projectitious (adj. from project, but not used) Exposed, cast out. Cole.
Projector (s. from project) One who forms schemes, a designer; one who forms wild and impracticable schemes.
Projecture (s. from project) That part which juts out, that part which projects beyond the rest.
Projecturing (adj. in architecture, from projecture) Belonging to that part which projects beyond the rest. Scott.
Prune (v. t. corrupted from prone) To lop, to cut, to trim, to prune. B. Johnson.
Pruning (p. a. from pruin) Lopping, trimming, pruning. R. Johnson.
OLABIA (s. in anatomy, from pro before, and labium lip) That part of the lips which jut out.
OLAPSE (v. t. from pro before, and labor to slide) To protrude.
Olapse (v. int.) To fall forward.
Olapsed (adj. from prolapse) Protruded beyond its natural position. Dict. of Arts.
Olapsion (s. from prolapse) A prolapsus, the state of any part of the body protruded beyond its natural situation.
OLAPSIUS (s. in surgery, from the Lat.) A prolapsion, the protrusion of any part from its natural situation.
OLATE (adj. in geometry from the Lat. pro before, and ero latus to bring) Belonging to a spheroid, generated by the rotation of a semiellipsis about its greater diameter.
OLATE (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and ero latus to bring) To pronounce. Howell.
Olated (p. from prolate, but not used) Pronounced.
Olating (p. a. from prolate, but not used) Pronouncing.
Olation (s. from prolate) A pronunciation, an utterance; the act of shaking or making several inflexions of the voice on the same note or syllable in singing; the act of deterring, a delay.
Olant (v. int. an uncommon spelling) To prowl, to hunt about in search of prey. Scott.
OLEGOMENA (s. from the Greek) A previous discourse, introductory observations.
OLEPSIS (s. from the Greek) A figure in rhetoric in which objections are anticipated.
OLEPTIC (adj. from prolepsis) Previous, antecedent.
oleptical (adj. from proleptic) Previous, antecedent.
oleptically (adv. from proleptical) By way of anticipation.
OLLES (s. from the Lat.) An issue, an offspring, a race.
oleaneous (adj. from proles) Having a numerous offspring; mean, wretched. Cole.
oleaneous (adj. a different spelling) Proletaneous. Cole.
olearious (adj. from proles) Mean, vile, vulgar. Hudibras.
OLIFIC (adj. from the Lat. proles an offspring, and facio to make) Fruitful, pregnant, productive.
olifical (adj. from prolific) Generative, fruitful, pregnant, productive.
olifically (adv. from prolific) Fruitfully, pregnantly.
olification (s. from prolific) The production of children.
olifick (adj. the less modern spelling) Prolific.
olifickness (s. from olifick) The state of being prolific. Scott.
OLIX (adj. from the Lat. prolixus) Long, tedious, contrary to concise; long as to duration: but this is not the common use of the word. "A term too prolix." Ayliffe.

PRO

Prolixious (adj. from prolix, but not sufficiently authorized) Tedious, dilatory. Shakespeare.
Prolixity (s. from prolix) Tediousness, the want of brevity.
Prolixly (adv. from prolix) With prolixity, tediously.
Prolix'neis (s. from prolix) Tediousness, want of conciseness.
Prolle (v. int. obsolete) To prowl, to look out in order to pilfer. Chaucer.
PROLOCUTOR (s. from the Lat. pro before, and loquor to speak) The speaker of the convocation.
Prolocutorship (s. from prolocutor) The office or dignity of prolocutor.
PROLOGUE (s. from the Greek $\pi\rho\omicron$ before, and $\lambda\omicron\gamma\omicron\varsigma$ a word) A preface, an introduction to a discourse or performance; the speech made at the introduction of a dramatic performance.
Prologue (v. t. from the sub.) To introduce with a formal preface. Shakespeare.
Prologued (p. from prologue) Introduced with a prologue.
PROLONG (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and longus long) To lengthen out, to continue beyond due bounds; to delay, to put off to a distant period.
Prolongation (s. from prolong) The act of lengthening out, a delay to a longer time.
Prolonged (p. from prolong) Lengthened out, delayed.
Prolonging (p. a. from prolong) Lengthening out, delaying.
PROLUSION (s. from the Lat. pro before, and ludo to play) A prelude, an entertainment, a performance for diversion.
PROLYTA (s. from the Greek, $\pi\rho\omicron$ before, and $\lambda\omicron\upsilon\tau\omicron$ to dissolve, but not used) A licentiate, one who has studied the law four years. Cole.
PROMENADE (s. from the French) A walk in the fields to take the air.
Promesse (s. an old spelling) A promise. Cole.
PROMETHEUS (s. in heathen mythology) A man who was supposed to have animated an image which he had made of clay, with fire stolen from heaven; for which act of presumption, as the poets tell us, his body was chained to a rock, that a vulture might continually prey on his liver: In ancient astronomy, the constellation now called Hercules.
Prominence (s. from prominent) A protuberance, a part standing out beyond the rest.
Prominency (s. from prominence, but not so common a word) A prominence.
PROMINENT (adj. from the Lat. promineo to stand out) Protuberant, standing out beyond the rest.
PROMISCOUS (adj. from the Lat. pro before, and misceo to mingle) Mingled, confused, thrown together without distinction.
Promiscuously (adv. from promiscuous) With confused mixture, indiscriminately.
Promiscuousness (s. from promiscuous) The state of being promiscuous.
PROMISE (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and mitto to send) To assure by a prior declaration.
Promise (v. int.) To make a promissory declaration.
Prom'ise (s. from the verb) A prior engagement to bestow some benefit; the expectation raised by favourable appearances; the thing promised.
Prom'isebreach (s. from promise, and breach, but not used) A violation of promise. Shakespeare.
Prom'isebreaker (s. from promise, and breaker) One that violates his promise.
Prom'ised (p. from promise) Assured by a prior declaration.
Prom'iser (s. from promise) One that promises.
Prom'ising (p. a. from promise) Assuring by a prior engagement, raising expectations by favourable appearances.
Prom'ising (s. from the part.) The act of assuring by a prior declaration.
Prom'issary (s. from promise) One to whom a promise is made. Scott.
Prom'issorily (adv. from promissory) By way of promise. Scott.
Prom'issory (adj. from promise) Containing some promise.
PROMONT (s. a contraction of promontory) A promontory. Suckling.
PROMONTORY (s. from the Lat. pro before, and mons montis a mount) A headland, a cape, a high land jutting into the sea.
PROMOTE

PRO

PROMOTE (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and moveo to move) To forward, to advance; to elevate, to exalt, to prefer.

Promoted (p. from promote) Forwarded, advanced, preferred.

Promoter (s. from promote) One that promotes, an informer, a makebate: but this sense is now grown obsolete. Tupper.

Promoting (p. a. from promote) Forwarding, advancing, preferring.

Promotion (s. from promote) Encouragement, advancement, preferment.

PROMOVE (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and moveo to move, but little used) To promote. Suckling.

PROMPT (adj. from the Lat. promptus) Quick, ready, smart; present, told down; unlucky, petulant.

Prompt (v. t. from the Lat.) To assist by private instruction; to incite, to instigate; to remind, to put in remembrance.

Prompted (p. from prompt) Assisted by private instruction, reminded, instigated.

PROMPTMENT (adv. from the Italian, in music books) Pronto, with quickness. Bailey.

Prompter (s. from prompt) One that prompts, one that puts another in remembrance.

Prompter (adj. comp. of prompt) Prompt in a greater degree.

Promptest (adj. sup. of prompt) Prompt in the greatest degree.

Prompting (p. a. from prompt) Assisting by private instruction, instigating, putting in remembrance.

Promptitude (s. from prompt) Readiness, quickness.

Promptly (adv. from prompt) Readily, quickly.

Promptness (s. from prompt) Readiness, quickness.

PROMPTUARY (s. from the Lat. promptuarium) A storehouse, a repository. Woodward.

Prompture (s. from prompt, but not used) A suggestion, an instigation. Shakespeare.

PROMULGATE (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and mulgo to publish) To publish, to make known by public declaration.

Promulgated (p. from promulgate) Published, made known by public declaration.

Promulgating (p. a. from promulgate) Publishing, making known by public declaration.

Promulgation (s. from promulgate) A publication, an open exhibition.

Promulgator (s. from promulge) One that teaches openly, one that publishes.

PROMULGE (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and mulgo to publish) To promulgate, to teach openly, to publish.

Promulged (p. from promulge) Promulgated, taught openly, published to the world.

Promulger (s. from promulge) A promulgator, a publisher.

Promulging (p. a. from promulge) Promulgating, publishing to the world.

Promuscis (s. a different spelling) The proboscis, the trunk of an elephant. Phillips.

PRONAOS, PRONAUS (s. in the ancient architecture) A porch to a church or other great building.

Pronation (s. with anatomy) That position of the hand in which the palm is turned downwards.

PRONATOR (s. in anatomy) One of the muscles of the arm.

Pronatores (s. plu. of pronator) The two muscles of the radius which serve to turn the palm of the hand downwards; the pronators.

PRONE (adj. from the Lat. pronus) Bending downwards, lying with the face downwards; declivous, sloping; inclined, propense, disposed; with to; as "Prone to sedition."

Pronefs (s. from prone) The state of bending downwards, the state of lying on the face; descent, declivity; inclination, propension.

Pronephew (s. not used) The son of a nephew. Cole.

Proner (adj. comp. of prone) Prone in a greater degree.

Pronest (adj. sup. of prone) Prone in the greatest degree.

PRONG (s. from the Dutch prongen to squeeze) A fork.

Prong'hee (s. from prong, and hoe) An instrument used in husbandry to break the earth among roots and plants.

Proneity (s. from prone, but not used) Proneness. Mire.

Pronominal (adj. from pronoun) Belonging to a pronoun, having the nature of a pronoun.

PRO

PRO'NOUN (s. from the Lat. pro before, and nomen name) One of the parts of speech in grammar, word used instead of a noun.

PRONOUN'CE (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and nuncio to speak) To utter, to speak, to speak with solemnity; to articulate; to utter rhetorically.

Pronounce (v. int.) To speak with confidence or authority; with of; as, "However confidently he pronounces of themselves." Decay of Faith.

Pronounced (p. from pronounce) Uttered, spoken with solemnity, uttered with authority.

Pronouncer (s. from pronounce) One that pronounces.

Pronouncing (p. a. from pronounce) Uttering, speaking with solemnity, uttering with authority.

PRON'TO (adv. from the Italian, in music) Quick with speed.

PRONUBA (s. in beaten mythology) One of the names of Juno, so called as being supposed to preside over marriage.

Pronunciation (s. from pronounce) The act or mode of utterance.

Proof (s. from prove) An evidence, a testimony; an experiment, a trial; firmness, hardness; arms hardened till it will abide a certain trial; the rough draft of a sheet when first printed.

Proof (adj. from the sub.) Impenetrable, able to resist with to or against; as, "To make him proof against the burning ray." "Proof to the sun it now secures lies."

Proofless (adj. from proof) Void of proof, having no proof.

PROP (v. t. from the Dutch proppen) To support, to sustain, to support by placing something under near, to support by standing under or near.

Prop (s. from the verb) A support, a stay, that on which any thing rests.

Propagable (adj. from propagate) Capable of being propagated.

PROPAGATE (v. t. from the Lat. pro for, and pago plant) To generate, to encrease; to extend, to widen to promote, to carry from place to place.

Propagate (v. int.) To have offspring.

Propagated (p. from propagate) Generated, increased, spread, promoted, carried from place to place.

Propagating (p. a. from propagate) Generating, creating, spreading, carrying from place to place.

Propagation (s. from propagate) A continuance by generation, a progressive production.

Propagator (s. from propagate) One who propagates.

PROPA'LED (adj. from the Lat. propala, a retailer, but used) Published abroad. Bailey.

PROPEL (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and pello drive) To drive forward.

Propelled (p. from propel) Driven forward.

Propelling (p. a. from propel) Driving forward.

PROPE'ND (v. int. from the Lat. pro before, and pendere to hang) To incline forward, to be disposed toward any thing.

Propend'ency (s. from propend) An inclination, a desire to any thing.

PROPEN'DENCY (s. from the Lat. pro before, and pendere to weigh) Propensity, deliberation.

PROPEN'SE (adj. from the Lat. pro before, and pendere to think) Inclined, disposed in mind.

Propen'sion (s. from propense) Propensity, inclination tendency.

Propens'ity (s. from propense) Propension, inclination tendency.

PROPER (adj. from the Lat. proprius) Peculiar, belonging to an individual; natural, original; suitable, exact, just; tall, well proportioned, comely with bulk; plain, literal.

PROPERATE (v. int. from the Lat. propero, but used) To make haste.

Properation (s. from properate) The act of making haste.

Properer (adj. comp. of proper) Proper in a greater degree.

Properest (adj. sup. of proper) Proper in the greatest degree.

Properly (adv. from proper) In a proper manner.

Properness (s. from proper) The state or quality of being proper.

PROPERITIUS (s.) A man's name; a very elegant elegiac poet cotemporary with Horace.

Proper

Proerty (s. from proper) A peculiar quality, a natural disposition; possession held in one's own right, the thing possessed, a right of possession; an appendage, something peculiarly adapted; a tool, a blind, a talking horse: but this sense is now grown obsolete.
Proerty (v. t. from the Lat. but now grown obsolete) To invest with qualities, to appropriate, to hold. Sb.
Proertyed (p. from property, but now grown obsolete) Invested with properties. Shakespeare.
Prophane (adj. an incorrect spelling) Profane. Scott.
Prophasia (s. with physicians, from the Greek) The prognosis, the foreknowledge of diseases.
Prophetic (adj. from prophecy, but not used) Belonging to prophecy. Cole.
Prophecies (s. a law term) The predictions of a wizard or witch.
Prophecy (s. from the Greek, προφητεια) A prediction, the declaration of a prophet, a declaration of something to come.
Propheied (p. from prophecy) Predicted, foretold, foretold.
Propheier (s. from prophecy) One who prophesies.
Prophesy (v. t. from the Greek προ before, and φημι to say) To predict, to foretell; to prognosticate, to foretell.
Propheiy (v. int.) To utter predictions; to preach.
Propheying (p. a. from prophecy) Predicting, foretelling, preaching.
Propheying (s. from the part.) The act of predicting, the thing predicted.
Prophet (s. from the Greek προ before, and φημι to say) One who foretells future events, one divinely inspired to foretell futurity; a divine teacher.
Prophetess (s. from prophet) A woman who foretells future events, a woman inspired with the spirit of prophecy.
Prophetic (adj. from prophet) Belonging to a prophet, foretelling futurity; with of, as, "Prophetic of the event." Dryden.
Prophetical (adj. from prophetic) Belonging to a prophet, foretelling future events, comprising prophecy.
Prophetically (adv. from prophetic) In the manner of a prophecy, with knowledge of futurity.
Propheticalness (s. from prophetic) The state of being prophetic.
Prophetize (v. int. from prophet) To give predictions.
Prophetizing (p. a. from prophetize) Uttering predictions. Daniel.
Prophylactic (adj. from the Greek, προ before, and φημι to keep) Preventive, preservative.
Prophylactice (s. from prophylactic) That part of physic which prescribes preventive medicines.
Propine (v. int. obsolete) To drink to one, to give one a drink. Chaucer.
Propinquit (s. an obsolete spelling) Propinquity, kinship. Chaucer.
Propinquity (s. from the Lat. propinquo to draw near) Proximity, nearness, neighbourhood; kindred, nearness of blood.
Propitiable (adj. from propitiate) Capable of being propitiated.
Propitiate (v. t. from the Lat. propitio) To induce, to favour, to conciliate, to render propitious.
Propitiated (p. from propitiate) Induced to favour, rendered propitious.
Propitiating (p. a. from propitiate) Inducing to favour, rendering propitious.
Propitiation (s. from propitiate) The act of making propitious, an atonement, an offering by which favour is obtained.
Propitiator (s. from propitiate) One that propitiates.
Propitiatoriness (s. from propitiatory) The state or quality of being propitiatory.
Propitiatory (adj. from propitiator) Having power to render propitious.
Propitiatory (s. from the adj.) The mercy seat, the covering of the ark in the temple of the Jews.
Propitious (adj. from the Lat. prope near) Kind, favourable.
Propitiously (adv. from propitious) Kindly, favourably.
Propitiouness (s. from propitious) Kindness, mercifulness.
Proplasm (s. from the Greek, προ before, and πλασμα to form) A mould, a matrix.
Proplastic (s. from proplasm) The art of making moulds for casting, the art of forming figures in moulds.
Prophetides (s. in the mythology of the poets) Certain women who despised Venus, became prostitutes, and were said to have been turned into stones. Ovid.

Propolis (s. in natural history) The glutinous substance with which the chinks of a prosperous hive of bees are closed.
Propoma (s. from the Greek, προ before, and πω to drink) A draught taken before meat, a whet; a drink made of wine, honey, and fugar.
Proponent (s. from the Lat. pro before, and pono to put) One that makes a proposal.
Propontis (s. in geography) The narrow sea which divides Europe from Asia, the Straights of the Dardanelles.
Proporeitas (s. a law term) The declaration of an affize, the verdict of affize; the declaration of a jury.
Proportion (s. from the Lat. pro for, and portio a portion) The comparative relation of one thing to another; an equal degree, an harmonic degree; symmetry, form, size; a very useful and comprehensive rule in arithmetic.
Proportion (v. t. from the sub.) To adjust by comparative relation; to form with symmetry.
Proportionable (adj. from proportion) Adjusted according to due proportion.
Proportionably (adv. from proportionable) According to proportion.
Proportionableness (s. from proportionable) The state or quality of being proportionable.
Proportional (adj. from proportion) Adjusted according to due proportion.
Proportional (s. from the adj.) A quantity in proportion to other quantities; one of the terms in the rule of proportion.
Proportionality (s. from proportional) The quality of being proportional.
Proportionally (adv. from proportional) In due proportion.
Proportionate (adj. from proportion) Adjusted according to proportion.
Proportionate (v. t. from proportion) To adjust in due proportion.
Proportionated (p. from proportionate) Adjusted according to proportion.
Proportionateness (s. from proportion) The state or quality of being proportionate.
Proportionating (p. a. from proportionate) Adjusting according to due proportion.
Proportioned (p. from proportion) Adjusted by proportion.
Proportioning (p. a. from proportion) Adjusting by proportion.
Proprium (s. an old law term) The purport, the tenor.
Proposal (s. from propose) Something proposed, an offer.
Propose (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and pono to put) To offer to consideration, to lay down: with to: "Who have chiefly proposed to themselves."
Propose (v. int. but not used) To lay schemes. Shakespeare.
Proposed (p. from propose) Offered, offered to consideration.
Proposer (s. from propose) One that proposes.
Proposid (adj. obsolete) Designed. Chaucer.
Proposing (p. a. from propose) Offering to consideration.
Proposition (s. from propose) A sentence in which any thing is proposed; a proposal, an offer of terms.
Propositional (adj. from proposition) Considered as a proposition, containing proposals.
Propotisma (s. from the Greek) The act of taking a dose of physic.
Propound (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and pono to put) To propose, to offer to consideration; to offer, to exhibit.
Propounded (p. from propound) Proposed; offered to consideration.
Propounder (s. from propound) One that propounds; one that makes a proposal.
Propounding (p. a. from propound) Proposing, offering to consideration.
PROPPED (p. from prop) Supported by a prop.
Propping (p. a. from prop) Supporting by a prop.
PROPREFECT (s. from the Lat. in Roman antiquity) The substitute of the prefect.
Proprietary (s. from propriety) A possessor in his own right.
Proprietary (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to a certain owner.
Proprietor (s. from propriety) One who possesses in his own right, one who possesses any thing with the utmost degree of right.

Proprietress

Proprietress (s. from proprietor) A woman who has possession in her own right.

PROPRIETY (s. from the Lat. proprietas) Peculiarity of possession, exclusive right; accuracy, justness.

Propt (v. t. pret. of prop) Did prop.

Propt (p. from prop) Propped, supported by a prop. Pope.

PROPTOSIS (s. from the Greek, πρὸς before, and πτωσις a fall) The falling down of some part of the body, a kind of prolapsion.

PROPU'DIOUS (adj. from the Lat. pro before, and pudeo to be ashamed, but not used) Shameful. Cole.

PROPU'GN (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and pugno to fight) To defend, to vindicate.

Propugnacie (s. from propugn, but not used) A fortress. Cole.

Propugna'tion (s. from propugn) A defence. Shakesp.

Propug'ned (p. from propugn) Defended, vindicated.

Propug'ner (s. from propugn) One that defends, one that vindicates.

Propug'ning (p. a. from propugn) defending, vindicating.

Propug'ning (s. from the part.) The act of defending.

PROPULSA'ION (s. from the Lat. pro before, and pello to force, but not used) The act of driving back. Cole.

PROPULSION (s. from the Lat. pro before, and pello to force) The act of driving forward.

PROPUL'SORY (adj. from the Lat. pro before, and pello to force) Serving to drive back. Cole.

PROPYLÆUM (s. in architecture, from the Greek, πρὸς before, and πύλαι gates) A porch before a temple or great hall.

PROQUESTOR (s. in Roman antiquity) The substitute of the questor.

PRO'RA (s. in anatomy) A bone of the cranium.

PRORE (s. from the Lat. prora, used perhaps for the sake of rhyme) The prora, the fore part of a ship. Pope.

PROREP'TION (s. from the Lat. pro before, and repto to creep, not much used) The act of creeping on. Cole.

PRO'REX (s. from the Lat. pro for, and rex a king) A viceroy. Cole.

Pro'ritate (v. t. but not used) To stir up. Cole.

Proroga'tion (s. from prorogue) A continuance, a prolongation; the interruption of the session of parliament by the king's authority.

PRORO'GUE (v. t. from the Lat. pro for, and rogo to intreat) To protract, to prolong; to put off, to delay; to put off a session of parliament to some distant period.

Pro'rogued (p. from prorogue) Protracted, put off to some distant period.

Pro'roguing (p. a. from prorogue) Protracting, putting off to some distant period.

PRORUP'TION (s. from the Lat. pro before, and rumpo to break) The act of bursting out.

PRO'SA (s. in heathen mythology) The goddess who was supposed to cause the infant to come into the world in the right way.

Prosa'ic (adj. from prose) Done in prose, resembling prose.

PROSCARABÆ'US (s. in the history of insects) The oil beetle.

PROSCENIUM (s. in antiquity) The fore part of the scene, a building supported on pillars raised as high as the portico of the theatre.

PROSCRIBE (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and scribo to write) To censure capitally, to doom to destruction; to interdict. Dryden.

Proscri'bed (p. from proscribere) Censured capitally, doomed to destruction.

Proscri'ber (s. from proscribere) One who dooms to destruction.

Proscri'bing (p. a. from proscribere) Censuring capitally, dooming to destruction.

Proscrip'tion (s. from proscribere) A doom to death, a doom to confiscation.

PROSE (s. from the Lat. prosa) Language not confined to the rules of poetry, common language.

Prose (adj. from the sub.) Unrestrained by the rules of poetry, done in common language. "A prose writer."

PROSECUTE (v. t. from the Lat. pro for, and sequor to follow) To pursue, to continue, to carry on; to proceed against by legal measures; to sue at law.

Prosecuted (p. from prosecute) Pursued, continued, carried on; proceeded against by legal measures, sued at law.

Prosecuting (p. a. from prosecute) Pursuing, continuing, carrying on; proceeding by legal process, suing at law.

Prosecution (s. from prosecute) A pursuit, an endeavour to carry on any design; a process at law.

Prosecutor (s. from prosecute) One who pursues a purpose; one who carries on a legal process against another.

PROSELYTE (s. from the Greek, πρὸς to, and εἵλωμαι come) A convert, one brought over to a new opinion in religion.

Prose'lyte (v. t. from the sub.) To convert, to make proselyte.

Prose'lyted (p. from proselyte) Converted, brought over to some new opinion in religion.

Prose'lyting (p. a. from proselyte) Converting, bringing over to some new opinion in religion.

PROSEMINA'TION (s. from the Lat. pro before, and semen a seed) A propagation by seed.

PROSER'PINA (s. in heathen mythology) The supposed queen of hell, the wife of Pluto.

PROSERPINE (s. from Proserpina) The wife of Pluto, the supposed queen of hell.

Prosmet'rical (adj. from prose, and metre) Done partly in prose, and partly in verse.

PROSO'DIA (s. from the Greek, πρὸς to, and αἰσώω to know) Profody, that part of grammar which teaches the quantity and accent of syllables.

Proso'dian (s. from prosodia) One skilled in profody.

Pro'sody (s. from prosodia) That part of grammar which teaches the quantity and accent of syllables, pronunciation according to measure and accent.

PROSONOMA'SIA (s. from the Greek) A figure in theoric, in which there is an allusion to the likeness found in several names or words.

PROSOPOPE'IA (s. from the Greek, πρὸς to, and ποιέω to make) A personification, a figure in rhetoric, in which things are spoken of in language suited to persons.

PROSPECT (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and specio to look, but not much used) To look forward. Johnson.

Prospect (s. from the verb) A view of something distant, a place which affords an extensive view, a series of objects opening to the view, the object of view, view into futurity; a regard to something future.

Prospective (adj. from prospect) Viewing at a distance, ading with foresight.

PROSPER (v. t. from the Greek, πρὸς to, and σπεύω bring) To favour, to make prosperous.

Pros'per (v. int.) To thrive, to come forward.

Pros'pered (p. from prosper, scarcely used) Made prosperous, favoured.

Pros'pering (p. a. from prosper) Favouring, making prosperous.

Prosperity (s. from prosper) Success, good fortune, the attainment of one's wishes.

Pros'perous (adj. from prosper) Successful, fortunate.

Pros'perously (adv. from prosperous) With prosperity.

Pros'perousness (s. from prosperous) The state of being prosperous.

PROSPHERE'MA (s. from the Greek, πρὸς to, and φέρω to bring) Food and medicine taken inwardly.

PROSPHYSIS (s. from the Greek, πρὸς to, and σφύω grow) The union or growing together of any parts which ought to be separate.

PROSPIC'IENCE (s. from the Lat. pro before, and specio to look) The act of looking forward.

Pro'sses (s. an old spelling) A proceeding, a process. Chambers.

PROSTA'TÆ (s. in anatomy) Two glandules placed near the passage of the semen.

PROSTERNATION (s. from the Lat. pro before, and sterno to throw down) The act of casting down, a prostration.

PROS'THESIS (s. from the Greek, πρὸς to, and στήνω to brace) The fore part of the breast, the little protuberance in the palm of the hand or sole of the foot answering to the joint of the finger or toe; the which rises to fill up what was wanting, the flesh that fills up a wound.

PROSTHAPHÆRESIS (s. in astronomy, from the Greek) The difference between the true and mean motion of a planet.

PROS'THESIS (s. in grammar, from the Greek) A sign in which a letter or syllable is added to the beginning of a word.

PROS'TITUTE (v. t. from the Lat. pro for, and stare to set up) To expose to crimes for a reward, to sell wickedness, to expose upon vile terms.

Pros'titute (adj. from the verb) Vicious for hire, sold wickedness.

Pros'titute (s. from the adj.) An hireling, a mercenary, a woman of ill fame, a public strumpet. Pros'titute stituted (p. from prostitute) Sold to vice, exposed in vile terms.

stituting (p. a. from prostitute) Setting to sale for wickedness, exposing on vile terms.
stitution (s. from prostitute) The act of setting to sale for vile purposes, the state of being set to sale for vile purposes; the life of a common trumpet.
OSTO'MIA (s. in anatomy) The prolabia, the red part of the lips that juts out.
OSTRATE (v. t. formerly accented by some of the poets on the last syllable, from the Lat. pro before, anderno to throw down) To lay flat, to throw down; to fall down in adoration.
strate (adj. from the sub. formerly accented by some of the poets on the last syllable) Lying at length, lying at length, fallen down in humblest adoration.
strated (p. from the verb) Laid flat, thrown down in adoration.
strating (p. a. from prostrate) Laying flat, throwing down, falling down in humble adoration.
stration (s. from prostrate) A dejection, a depression, the act of falling down in adoration.
OSTYLE (s. in architecture, from the Greek, προ before, and στυλος a pillar) A building with pillars only in front.
OSYLOGISM (s. from the Greek, προ before, and συλλογισμός a syllogism) An argument produced to confirm or strengthen one of the premises of a syllogism.
OSYMNIA (s. in heathen mythology) One of the names of Juno.
OTAGORAS (s.) A man's name, the first, it is said, who taught rhetoric for hire.
OTASIS (s. from the Greek, προ before, and τείνω to stretch out) The first part of a comedy or tragedy in the ancient drama; a maxim, a proposition.
otatic (adj. from protasis, the modern spelling) Prootatic (adj. the less modern spelling, from protasis) otaticus (s. from protasis) A person who appeared only in the protasis.
OTEA (s. in botany) A genus of plants; the silver tree.
OTEC'T (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and tego to cover) To shield, to cover from evil, to defend.
otected (p. from protect) Shielded, covered from harm, defended; with from: as, "He was protected from the violence of party."
otect'ing (p. a. from protect) Defending, securing from evil.
otect'ion (s. from protect) Defence, shelter; a passport, an exemption from being molested.
otector (s. from protect) A defender, one that protects; an officer who had the care of the kingdom during the minority of the sovereign.
otectorate (s. from protector) The office or jurisdiction of a protector.
otectorship (s. from protector) The office or jurisdiction of a protector.
otectress (s. from protector) A woman that protects.
otectrix (s. from protector) A protectress.
OTELATION (s. from the Lat. pro before, and telum a dart, but not used) The act of driving away.
OTEND (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and tendo to stretch) To stretch forth, to hold out.
otended (p. from protend) Held out, stretched forth.
otending (p. a. from protend) Stretching forth, holding out.
OTE'ERVE (adj. from the Lat. protervus, but not used) Peevish, petulant.
oter'vity (s. from proterve) Peevishness, petulance.
OTE'IST (v. int. from the Lat. pro before, and testor to bear witness) To make a solemn declaration; with against: as, "He protested against your votes."
otest (v. int.) To prove, to shew, to call as a witness.
otest (s. from the verb) A solemn declaration, a protestation.
otestancy (s. from protestant) The religion of protestants.
otestant (adj. from protest) Belonging to protestants, belonging to those who protest against the errors of the church of Rome.
otestant (s. from the adj.) One of those who at the beginning of the reformation protested against the errors of the papists, one who discovers the errors of popery, one who professes the reformed religion.

Protestantism (s. from protestant) The religion of protestants.
Protest'ed (p. from protest) Declared, solemnly declared, proved, shewed.
Protes'ter (s. from protest) One who utters a solemn declaration.
Protesta'tion (s. from protest) A solemn declaration; a solemn declaration of a resolution, fact, or opinion.
Protest'ing (p. a. from protest) Making a solemn declaration; calling as a witness.
PROT'EUS (s. in heathen mythology) A supposed sea god who could assume all manner of shapes.
Prothon'otari'hip (s. from prothonotary) The office or jurisdiction of a prothonotary.
PROTHON'OTARY (s. from the Lat. prothonotarius) The first or chief notary, the chief register.
PROTHYR'IDES (s. in architecture) The coins or corners of walls, the cross beams of rafters.
PROTHY'RIS (s. in architecture, from the Greek, προ before, and θυρα a gate) A cross beam, the coin or corner of a wall.
PROTHY'RUM (s. in architecture, from the Greek, προ before, and θυρα a gate) A porch, a portal.
PROTOCOL (s. from the Greek, πρωτος first, and κωλον a member) The first draft of a deed, the first copy, a precedent book; the title at the top of a leaf.
PRO'TOFOLE (s. from the Greek, πρωτος first, and φυλλον a leaf) The first leaf.
PROTOFORESTA'RIOUS (s. in old records) A kind of judge within the jurisdiction of a forest.
PROTOL'OGY (s. from the Greek, πρωτος first, and λογος a word) A preface.
PRO'TOMARTYR (s. from the Greek, πρωτος first, and μαρτυρ a witness) The first martyr.
PROTON'OTARY (s. a different spelling) A prothonotary.
PROTOPA'THIA, PRO'TOPATHY (s. from the Greek, πρωτος first, and παθος suffering) An original disease.
PRO'TOPLAST (s. from the Greek, πρωτος first, and πλασσω to form) An original, the thing which is first formed as a copy to be imitated.
PRO'TOTYPE (s. from the Greek, πρωτος first, and τυπος a type) The original, the exemplar, the archetype.
PRO'TOTYPON (s. from the Greek) A primitive word.
PROTRA'CT (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and traho to draw out) To lengthen, to delay, to draw out to unnecessary length.
Protra'ct (s. from the verb) A tedious continuance.
Protra'ct'ed (p. from protract) Drawed out, delayed, lengthened out.
Protra'ct'er (s. from protract) One that protracts.
Protra'ct'ing (p. a. from protract) Drawing out, lengthening out beyond what is necessary.
Protra'ction (s. from protract) The act of drawing out to unnecessary length.
Protra'ctive (adj. from protract) Dilatory, delaying, drawing out to unnecessary length.
PROTREP'TICAL (adj. from the Greek, προ before, and τρεπω to turn) Conveying persuasion, hortative.
PROTREP'TICON (s. from the Greek) An exhortation.
PROTRU'DE (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and trudo to thrust) To thrust forward.
Protru'de (v. int.) To thrust itself forward, to come forward.
Protru'ded (p. from protrude) Thrust forward.
Protru'ding (p. a. from protrude) Thru'ing forward.
Protru'sion (s. from protrude) The act of thrusting forward; a thrust, a push.
PROTU'BERANCE (s. from protuberant) A prominence, a tumour, something swelling out beyond the other parts.
PROTU'BERANT (adj. from the Lat. pro before, and tubero to swell) Prominent, swelling out.
Protu'berantness (s. from protuberant) The state of being protuberant.
PROTU'BERATE (v. int. from the Lat. pro before, and tubero to swell) To swell forward, to swell out beyond the parts adjacent.
Protu'berating (p. a. from protuberate, but not much used) Swelling forward, swelling out.
PRO'TYPE (s. from the Greek, προ before, and τυπος a type, but not used) A prototype.
PROVAN'GO (s. in surgery) A whale-bone instrument to cleanse the stomach.
PROUD (adj. from the Sax. prude) Too much pleased with one's self, valuing one's self; arrogant, haughty; daring.

PRO

daring, presumptuous; splendid, magnificent; specious, ostentatious; fungous, exuberant; being in heat, solliciting the male.
Proud'er (adj. comp. of proud) Proud in a greater degree.
Proudest (adj. sup. of proud) Proud in the greatest degree.
Proud'ish (adj. from proud) Somewhat proud.
Proud'ly (adv. from proud) With pride, in a proud manner.
PROVE (v. t. from the Lat. probō) To evidence, to shew by argument, to shew by testimony; to try, to make trial of; to experience.
Prove (v. int.) To make trial, to be found by experience, to be found in the event.
Prove (s. obsolete) A proof. Chaucer.
Provable (adj. from prove) Capable of being proved.
Proved (p. from prove) Evidenced, tried, experienced.
PROVEDITOR (s. from the Italian, proveditore) One who provides for an army.
PROVEDORE (s. from the Italian, proveditore) A proveditor. Friend.
Prov'end (s. not so common a word) Provender. D. of Ar.
Prov'ende (s. obsolete) A preierment, a provision, a prebend. Chaucer.
PROV'ENDER (s. from the French, provende) Dry meat for brutes, hay and corn.
Prov'endre (s. obsolete) A prebendary. Chaucer.
PROVENZA'LIA (s. in botany) The calla.
PROVERB (s. from the Lat. pro far, and verbum a word) An adage, a short pithy sentence; a short observation commonly received and uttered.
Prov'erb (v. t. from the sub. but not much used) To mention in proverb, to furnish with a proverb.
Prov'erbe (v. int.) To speak in proverbs. Chaucer.
Prov'erbed (p. from proverb) Mentioned in a proverb, provided with a proverb. Milton.
Proverbial (adj. from proverb) Belonging to a proverb, mentioned in a proverb, suited to a proverb, comprized in a proverb.
Proyer'bialist (s. from proverbial, but not much used) One who speaks in proverbs, one who makes proverbs.
Poyer'bially (adv. from proverb) In a proverb, after the manner of a proverb.
PROVIDE (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and video to see) To procure beforehand, to get ready, to supply, to furnish; to stipulate; with with: as, "She provided him with gold." Sometimes with of, but not so properly: as, "Let some better artist provide him of some softer canvas." Dryden.
Provide (v. int.) To take care beforehand, to take measures for escaping beforehand; with for and against: as "To provide for the future." "Provide against the extremes of want."
Provided (p. from provide) Supplied, prepared, got ready, furnished, stipulated; with with: as, "He was provided with all necessities." Sometimes with of: as, "Well provided of all requisite things." But this construction is now grown obsolete. Burnet.
Provided (adv. from the part.) On this condition, on these terms. "I will live with you provided you commit no outrage."
Provid'ence (s. from provide) Foresight, timely care; prudence, frugality; divine superintendence, the care of the Divine Being over his creatures.
Provid'ent (adj. from provide) Careful beforehand, prudent respecting futurity.
Provid'ential (adj. from providence) Effected by providence, referrible to providence.
Provid'entially (adv. from providential) By the care of providence.
Provid'ently (adv. from provident) In a provident manner, with foresight.
Provider (s. from provide) One that provides.
Provid'ing (p. a. from provide) Procuring beforehand, taking care beforehand, furnishing, stipulating.
PROVINCE (s. from the Lat. pro before, and vinco to conquer) A division of a country, a conquered country, a country governed by a delegate; the proper office, the proper business of any one.
Provin'cial (adj. from province) Belonging to a province, related to an archiepiscopal jurisdiction; rude, unpolished.
Provin'cial (s. from the adj.) A spiritual governor.
Provin'ciate (v. t. from province, but not used) To turn to a province. Herz.

PRU

PROVINE (v. int. from the Lat. pro for, and vinco to win) To increase vines by laying the branches. Job.
PROVIS'ION (s. from the Lat. pro before, and video visus to see) The act of providing beforehand, a measure taken beforehand; food laid up in store; a stipulation, a point stipulated.
Provis'ional (adj. from provision) Provided for present need.
Provis'ionally (adv. from provisional) By way of provision.
PROVI'SO (s. from the Lat.) A provisional stipulation, a condition.
PROVI'SOR (s. in the university) One who has the care of providing necessities.
Provo'cation (s. from provoke) An act by which anger is raised, something suited to imitate the passions; an appeal to a judge. Aylmer.
Provo'cative (adj. from provoke) Tending to revive a lost appetite.
Provo'cative (s. from the adj.) That which tends to revive a lost appetite.
Provo'cativeness (s. from provocative) The quality of being provocative.
Provo'catory (adj. from provoke) Tending to provocation. Scott.
PROVO'KE (v. t. from the Lat. pro before, and voco to call) To rouse, to awake; to anger, to offend, to enrage; to induce, to challenge; to cause, to promote.
Provo'ke (v. int.) To produce anger; to appeal. Dry.
Provo'ked (p. from provoke) Roused, angered, offended, irritated, caused, promoted.
Provo'ker (s. from provoke) One that provokes; a promoter.
Provo'king (p. a. from provoke) Rousing, angering, irritating, promoting.
Provo'kingly (adv. from provoking) In a provoking manner.
PROVO'ST (s. from the French) The chief of any body of men, the head of a college, the executioner of an army; the chief magistrate of a city or town in Scotland.
Provo'stal (adj. from provost) Belonging to a provost.
Provo'stmarshal (s. from provost and marshal) An officer in the army who is to apprehend deserters and other criminals, and see execution done upon them; an officer in the navy who has the care of prisoners. Scott.
Provo'stry (s. from provost, but now grown obsolete) Provostship.
Provo'stship (s. from provost) The office or jurisdiction of a provost.
PROW (s. from the Lat. prora) The head or fore part of a ship.
Prow (adj. obsolete) Valiant, courageous. Spenser.
Prowe (s. obsolete) Honour, profit, advantage. Chaucer.
Prow'ess (s. from prow) Bravery, valour.
Prow'esse (s. obsolete) Honour, honesty, integrity. Chaucer.
Prow'est (adj. sup. of prow) Bravest, most valiant. Mel.
PROWL (v. t. of uncertain etymology) To rove over, to rove over in quest of prey. Sidney.
Prowl (v. int.) To wander for prey, to plunder.
Prowler (s. from prowl) One that roves about for prey.
Prowling (p. a. from prowl) Roving about in quest of prey.
PROXENE'TA (s. from the Lat.) An agent, one who makes marriages.
Proxene'tæ (s. plu. of proxeneta) Agents in any business, especially in cases of matrimony.
Proxene'tes (s. a different spelling) A proxeneta. D. of Ar.
Prox'ies (s. from proxy) The annual payments of the parochial clergy to the bishop at the visitation.
PROXIMATE (adj. from the Lat. proximus) Next in the series, near, immediate.
Prox'imately (adv. from proximate) Immediately without intervention.
PROX'IME (adj. from the Lat. proximus) Next, immediate, proximate.
Proxim'ity (s. from proxime) Nearness; the state of being next.
Prox'y (s. contracted from procuracy) The person deputized to answer or do business for another, the agent of another. Spenser.
Pruned (adj. obsolete) Pruned.
PRUCE (s. an old spelling) Prussia.
Pruce (s. from the foregoing) Prussian leather.
PRUDE (s. from the French) A woman over nice, scrupulous, a woman affectedly modest. Prudent.

prudence (s. from prudent) Wisdom applied to practice.
 PRUDENCE (s.) The name of a woman.
 PRUDENT (adj. from the Lat. prudens) Wise in practice, foreseeing by a kind of natural instinct.
 PRUDENTER (adj. comp. of prudent) Prudent in a greater degree.
 PRUDENTEST (adj. sup. of prudent) Prudent in the greatest degree.
 PRUDENTIAL (adj. from prudent) Belonging to prudence, eligible on principles of prudence.
 PRUDENTIAL (s. from the adj. chiefly used in the plural) A maxim of prudence.
 PRUDENTIALITY (s. from prudential) The state or quality of being prudential.
 PRUDENTIALLY (adv. from prudential) With prudence, in a prudential manner.
 PRUDENTIALNESS (s. from prudential) The state or quality of being prudential.
 PRUDENTLY (adv. from prudent) With prudence, in a prudent manner.
 PRUDERY (s. from prude) The manners of a prude.
 PRUDISH (adj. from prude) Like a prude, affectedly grave.
 PRUINA (s. from the Lat.) The hoar frost.
 PRUINOUS (adj. from pruina) Belonging to the hoar frost.
 PRUINA (s. in surgery, from the Lat.) A carbuncle, a plague sore, a fiery botch.
 PRUNE (v. t. the etymology is uncertain) To lop, to clear trees of useless branches, to clear from excrescences.
 PRUNE (v. int.) To dress, to prink in droll style.
 PRUNE (s. from the Lat. prunum) A dried plum.
 PRUNED (p. from prune) Lopped, cleared from useless branches; dressed, prinked.
 PRUNEL (s. from prunella) The name of an herb.
 PRUNELLA (s. in surgery from the Lat. pruna, a burning coal) The dryness of the throat and tongue in continual fevers.
 PRUNELLA (s. in botany) The name of an herb, the prunel.
 PRUNELLA (s. in commerce) A kind of stuff, prunello.
 PRUNELLE (s. from the French) A kind of plum.
 PRUNELLO (s. from prunelle) A kind of plum; a kind of stuff, the stuff of which clergymen's gowns are made.
 PRUNER (s. from prune) One that prunes trees.
 PRUNIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. prunum a plum, and fero to bear) Bearing plums.
 PRUNING (p. a. from prune) Lopping, clearing of useless branches.
 PRUNING (s. from the part.) The act of clearing trees of useless branches.
 PRUNINGHOOK (s. from pruning, and hook) A hook used in pruning trees.
 PRUNINGKNIFE (s. from pruning, and knife) A knife used in pruning trees.
 PRUNUS (s. in botany) The plum tree.
 PRURIENCE (s. from prurient) An itching, a great desire.
 PRURIENCY (s. from prurience) An itching desire.
 PRURIENT (adj. from the Lat. prurio, to itch) Itching.
 PRURIGINOUS (adj. from the Lat. prurio to itch) Tending to the itch.
 PRURITUS (s. from the Lat.) A dryness of the skin, a roughness of the skin; the itch.
 PRUSSIA (s. in geography) A province of Poland, which gives the title of king to the elector of Brandenburg.
 PRUSSIAN (adj. from Prussia) Belonging to Prussia.
 PRUSSIAN (s. from the adj.) A native of Prussia.
 PRUSSIANBLUE (s. with painters) A colour.
 PRUTONIC (adj. in astronomy) Applied to a set of astronomical tables dedicated to the Duke of Prussia.
 PRY (v. int. the derivation is not known) To peep narrowly, to inspect officiously; with into: as, "To pry into the secrets of state."
 PRYANTIN (s. in natural history) A kind of tin found mixed with gravelly earth.
 PRYING (p. a. from pry) Peeping, inspecting officiously, looking into any thing with curiosity or impertinence.
 PRYTANEI (s. in antiquity) The senators who composed the grand council at Athens.
 PRYTANES (s. in Grecian antiquity) The presidents of the senate.
 PRYTANEUM (s. in antiquity) The room at Athens where the prytanei assembled.

PRYTENEUS (s. in antiquity) The first magistrates in the cities of Greece.
 PSADURIA (s. in natural history) A genus of stones.
 PSALLOCITHARIST (s. from the Greek, ψαλλω to sing, and κιθαρα a harp) One that sings to the harp.
 PSALM (s. from the Greek, ψαλλω to sing) A sacred song, one of the scripture songs which compose the book of psalms.
 PSALMIST (s. from psalm) A writer of psalms.
 PSALMODY (s. from the Greek, ψαλμος a psalm, and αειδω to sing) The act or practice of singing psalms.
 PSALMOGRAPHIST (s. from psalmography) A writer of psalms.
 PSALMOGRAPHY (s. from the Greek, ψαλμος a psalm, and γραφω to write) The act of composing psalms.
 PSALTER (s. from the Greek, ψαλτεριον) A book of psalms, the book of psalms.
 PSALTERY (s. from psalter) A kind of musical instrument, the instrument to which the psalms were sung.
 PSAMMISMUS (s. from the Greek, ψαμμος sand) A bottle of dry warm sand to be applied to the feet.
 PSAMMODEA (s. from the Greek, ψαμμος sand, and ειδος a shape) The sandy matter in urine.
 PSAMMODYTES (s. in ichthyology) The sand eels.
 PSAMMOS (s. from the Greek, ψαμμος sand) The sand or gravel which generates in human bodies.
 PSATYRION (s. in church history) A kind of Arian, one of a sect who held that Christ was the most perfect of all creatures.
 PSALTER (s. an old spelling) The psalter, the psalms of David.
 PSECADES (s. from pseca, in antiquity) Dressing women who perfumed the heads of their mistresses with a kind of liquid dew.
 PSE/CAS (s. from the Greek) A drop, a dew.
 PSEPHISM (s. from the Greek, ψηφισμα, but not used) A decree.
 PSEPHOMANCY (s. from the Greek, ψηφος a stone, and μαντεια magic) A kind of divination by pebble stones, drawn after the manner of lots.
 PSEUDACORUS (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the flower de luce.
 PSEUDANCHUSA (s. in botany) The wild bugloss.
 PSEUDANGELIST (s. from the Greek, ψευδος false, and αγγελω to tell) A false messenger.
 PSEUDAPOSTLE (s. from the Greek, ψευδος false, and αποσολος an apostle) A false apostle.
 PSEDESADOMNON (s. from the Greek, in architecture) A building with walls of unequal thickness.
 PSEUDOADELPHUS (s. from the Greek, ψευδος false, and αδελφος a brother) A false brother.
 PSEUDASPHODELUS (s. in botany) The bastard aphodel.
 PSEUDOBUNION (s. in botany) The name of an herb, the winter cresses.
 PSEUDOCORONOPHUS (s. in botany) The bastard crowfoot.
 PSEUDODICTAMNUM (s. in botany) The name of an herb, the bastard dittany.
 PSEUDODIPTERE, PSEUDODIPTERON, (s. in architecture) A building surrounded with only one row of pillars, a false dipteron.
 PSEUDODOX (s. from the Greek, ψευδος false, and δόξος glory, but not used) False glory.
 PSEUDOGRAPHY (s. from the Greek, ψευδος false, and γραφω to write) A counterfeit writing, a counterfeit hand.
 PSEUDHELEBORUS (s. in botany) The wild hellebore.
 PSEUDOPHATHORIUM (s. in botany) The bastard agrimony.
 PSEUDOTHERMOACTYLUS (s. in botany) The name of an herb, the dogs tooth.
 PSEUDOLOGER (s. from pseudology) A liar, one that practices pseudology.
 PSEUDOLGY (s. from the Greek, ψευδος false, and λογος a word) The act of speaking falsely, a lie, falsehood.
 PSEUDOMARTYR (s. from the Greek, ψευδος false, and μαρτυρ a martyr) A counterfeit martyr; a false witness.
 PSEUDOMEDICUS (s. from the Greek, ψευδος false, and the Lat. medicus a physician) A pretender to physic.
 PSEUDOMECHANICS (s. from the Greek, ψευδος false, and μηχανηρι False mechanics, a procedure contrary to the rules of mechanism.

PSY

PSEUDOMELAN'THUM (s. in botany) The cockle, the corn rose.
PSEUDOME'NOS (s. from the Greek) A sophistical argument, a fallacy in reasoning.
PSEUDOMO'LY (s. in botany) The yellow daffodil, the crows bill.
PSEUDONARCIS'SUS (s. in botany) The yellow daffodil.
PSEUDONAR'DUS (s. in botany) The bastard speck-nard.
Pseudon'yml (adj. from pseudonymous) Having a false name, having a fictitious signature.
PSEUDON'YMOUS (adj. from the Greek, ψευδος false, and ονομα a name) Having a fictitious signature.
PSEUDON'YMUS (s. from the Greek) An author who publishes a book under a feigned name.
PSEUDOPEREPTERON (s. in architecture, from the Greek) A building in which the pillars were set within the wall, so as to inclose the space usually allowed for the portico of the perepteron.
PSEUDOPHILOS'OPHER (s. from pseudophilosophy) A false or counterfeit philosopher.
PSEUDOPHILOS'OPHY (s. from the Greek, ψευδος false, and φιλοσοφια philosophy) False philosophy.
PSEUDOPOR'TICUS (s. in architecture) A false porch.
PSEUDOPRO'PHET (s. from the Greek, ψευδος false, and προφητης a prophet) A false prophet.
PSEU'DOSPHECE (s. in the history of insects) A kind of wasp.
PSEUDOSTEL'LA (s. from the Greek, ψευδος false, and the Lat. stella a star) A kind of meteor resembling a star.
PSEUDOSTO'MATA (s. from the Greek, ψευδος false, and σωμα a mouth) A mouth or opening besides the principal one, one of the lesser openings by which a river disembogues itself.
PSEUDOTHY'RUM (s. in architecture, from the Greek, ψευδος false, and θυρα a gate) A postern, a back gate.
PSHAW (interj.) Expressing contempt.
PSHAW (s. from the interj.) An expression of contempt, "With pishes, and phaws." Spe&ator.
PSID'IUM (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
PSIL'OTHRIX (s. in pharmacy) A depilatory.
PSIL'OTHRON (s. in pharmacy) A depilatory, a medicine to take off superfluous hair.
PSIL'OTHRON (s. in botany) The briony.
PSIMMY'THIUM (s. in natural history) The cerufs, the white lead.
PSIT'TA (s. in ichthyology) The plaice.
PSIT'TACUS (s. in ornithology) The parrot.
PSO'AS (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the thigh, a muscle of the loins.
PSO'RA (s. from the Greek) The itch.
PSORI'ASIS (s. from the Greek) An itching scab.
PSO'RICA (s. from the Greek) Medicines for the itch, medicines to prevent itching.
PSORO'LIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the itch tree.
PSOROPHTHAL'MIA (s. with physicians, from the Greek, ψωρα a scab, and οφθαλμος an eye) A disease of the eye, a kind of inflamed and itching scab on the eye.
PSOROPHTHAL'MY (s. from psorophthalmia) A kind of itching scab on the eye.
PSY'CHE (s. in the mythology of the poets) A young lady so exceedingly beautiful that Cupid himself fell in love with her.
PSYCHOGO'GICA (s. from the Greek, ψυχη the soul, and αγωγος a leader) Medicines which immediately raise the spirits in fainting fits.
PSYCHOL'OGIST (s. from psychology) One who treats on the soul.
PSYCHOL'OGY (s. from the Greek, ψυχη the soul, and λογος a discourse) A discourse on the nature and properties of the soul.
PSYCHOM'ACHY (s. from the Greek, ψυχη the soul, and μαχη a fight) A contention between the body and soul.
PSYCHOM'ANCY (s. from the Greek, ψυχη the soul, and μαντεια magic) Divination by consulting the ghosts of deceased persons.
PSYCHOT'ROPHON (s. in botany) The betony.
PSYCHROM'ETER (s. from the Greek, ψυχρος cold, and μετρεω to measure) An instrument to measure the degrees of cold or heat in the air, a thermometer.
PSYCROLUSIA (s. from the Greek, ψυχρος cold, and λουσι a washing) A cold bath.
PSYCRO'LYSY (s. from psycrolusia) A cold bath. Scott.

PUB

PSYCROPHO'BIA (s. from the Greek, ψυχρος cold, and φοβος fear) An aversion to any thing cold, a dread of any thing cold.
PSYC'TICA (s. with physicians) Cooling medicaments to be applied to incrustated ulcers.
PSYDRA'CION (s. with physicians, from the Greek) A small ulcer in the head, a blister on the skin.
PSYL'LI (s. in antient geography) A people of Africa, whose bodies were said to be an antidote against the poison of serpents.
PSYL'LUM (s. in botany) The flea wort.
PTAR'MICA (s. from the Greek, πταγω to sneeze) Medicines to promote sneezing, sternutatories.
PTAR'MICA (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the sneeze-wort.
PTE'LEA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
PTERIGOI'DES (s. a different spelling) The pterygoides.
PTERIS (s. in botany) The fern.
PTER'NA (s. in anatomy) The second bone of the foot.
PTEROCEPH'ALUS (s. in botany) A species of scabies.
PTERON (s. from the Greek) The wing of a bird.
PTEROPH'ORI (s. from the Greek, πτερον a wing, and φερω to bear) The couriers among the Romans, so called because they bore wings on the points of their pikes.
PTERYGIUM (s. from the Greek, πτερυγιον) A little wing.
PTERYGOI'DE (s. from the Greek, πτερυγιον a wing, and εidos a shape) Something in the shape of a wing, the processes of the sphenoides.
Pterygoi'de (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the process of the sphenoides. Dict. of Art.
Pterygoi'des (s. in anatomy, from pterygoide) One of the wing-like processes of the sphenoid.
Pterygoi'des (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the processes of the sphenoid. "The pterygoi'des process." Dict. of Art.
PTERYGOI'DEUS (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the jaw.
PTERYGOPALATINUS (s. in anatomy) A muscle arising from the process of the sphenoides.
PTERYGOPHARINGÆ'US (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the jaw.
PTERYGOSTAPHYLINUS (s. in anatomy) A muscle arising from the upper part of the pterygoides.
PTI'SAN (s. from the Greek, πτισαν) A cooling drink made of pearl barley decocted with raisins and liquorice.
Ptis'na (s. from ptisan) A ptisan, a medical cooling drink. Phillips.
Ptolema'an (adj. from Ptolemæus) Belonging to the system of Ptolemy. Dict. of Art.
PTOLEMÆ'US (s.) A man's name, a celebrated Egyptian astronomer who supposed the earth to be fixed in the centre of the universe.
Ptolema'ic (adj. from Ptolemæus) Belonging to the system of Ptolemy in which the earth is supposed to be fixed in the centre of the universe.
PTOLEMA'IS (s. in ancient geography) The name of a city. Apocrypha.
Ptolema'ites (s. from Ptolemy) A branch of the Gnostics. Apocrypha.
PTOL'EMEE (s.) A man's name. Apocrypha.
PTOLEME'US (s.) A man's name. Apocrypha.
PTOL'EMY (s.) A man's name.
PTYALISM, PTYALIS'MUS (s. from the Greek, πτυαλισμος) An effusion of spittle, a salivation.
PTY'ALON (s. from the Greek, πτυω to spit) Spittle.
PTY'AS (s. in zoology) A kind of adder of a green colour.
PTYLO'SIS (s. with physicians) A disease of the eyes in which the lids grow thick, and the hair falls off.
PTYS'MAGOGUE (s. from the Greek, πτυσμα spittle, and αγω to drive) A medicine to provoke spitting.
PU'A (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.
PUBERTY (s. from the Lat. pubertas) Ripeness of age, the time of life in which the hair begins to grow on the pudenda.
PUBES (s. from the Lat.) The pudenda.
Pubes'cence (s. from pubes) The state of puberty, an entrance on the state of puberty.
Pubes'cent (adj. from pubes) Arriving at the state of puberty.
PUB'LIC (adj. from the Lat. publicus) Open, notorious, generally known; open for general entertainment; general, done by many; belonging to the state, opposed to private. Public.

P U D

(s. from the adj.) The general body of the people; open view, general notice.
can (s. from public) A gatherer of the Roman people among the Jews; one who keeps a house of general entertainment, an inn-keeper.
ation (s. from public) The act of publishing, a publication; that which is made public, an edition of a book.
ity (s. from public, but not used) Publickness. Bailey.
ck (adj. the less modern spelling) Public.
ck (s. the less modern spelling, from the adj.) The general body of the people, the people; open view, general notice.
ckly (adv. from public) Openly, without comment; in the name of the community.
ckness (s. from public) The state of being public.
ckspirited (adj. from public and spirited) Having regard for the public.
LISH (v. t. from the Lat. publico) To make known, to discover to mankind; to put forth a book; with as, "And publishes to every land."
shed (p. from publish) Made known, discovered to the world, dispersed abroad as the copies of a printed book.
ther (s. from publish) One who makes any thing public, one who puts out a book.
shid (adj. an old spelling) Published. Wickliffe.
shing (p. a. from publish) Making public, spreading abroad.
LIUS (s.) A man's name.
ELAGE (s. from the French) The state of virginity. Johnson.
ly (s. obsolete) A virgin, a maid. Chaucer.
ERON (s. from the French) A genus of winged insects with fewer than six pair of legs, the vine-weaver.
ia (s. in old records) A bag, a pouch.
g (s. the derivation is not certain) A supposed spirit of the fairies. Shakespeare.
ball (s. from pucker, and ball) A kind of mushroom of dust.
er (v. t. probably from pucker) To contract into folds, to make up in complications.
er (s. from the verb) A fold, a complication; a nest of caterpillars.
ered (p. from pucker) Drawn up in folds, made up in complications.
er (s. from pucker) One that puckers.
er (s. a local word) A nest of caterpillars. Cole.
ering (p. a. from pucker) Drawing up in folds, making up in complications.
ift (s. from pucker, and fit) A kind of round mushroom full of dust.
er (v. int. from pucker) To pother, to make a tumult, to make a bustle.
er (v. t.) To pother, to perplex. Locke.
ered (p. from pudder) Pothered, perplexed.
ering (p. a. from pudder) Pothering, making a tumult, perplexing.
ering (s. from the part.) A pother, a tumult, a kind of perplexity. Locke.
DING (s. from the Brit. potten an intestine) A compound food generally made of flower, milk, and eggs; the bowel of an animal stuffed with various ingredients, and dressed for food; a kind of wreath or complication of cordage used on board a ship.
ingbag (s. from pudding, and bag) The bag in which a pudding is boiled.
ingcloth (s. from pudding, and cloth) The cloth in which a pudding is boiled.
ingcup (s. from pudding, and cup) A pudding pan.
ingdish (s. from pudding, and dish) The dish in which a pudding is boiled, the dish in which the pudding is put to table.
inggroils (s. in botany) The pennyroyal.
ingpan (s. from pudding, and pan) The pan in which a pudding is boiled or baked.
ingpie (s. from pudding, and pie) A pudding with fruit baked in it.
ingstring (s. from pudding, and string) The string in which a pudding cloth is tied.
ingtime (s. from pudding, and time) The beginning of a meal, the time at which pudding is set at table, dinner time; the nick of time, the critical moment.
OLE (s. supposed to be from the Lat. puteolus a dirty plash of water) le (v. t. from the sub.) To pollute with dirt, to soil with dirt and water.
ed (p. from puddle) Polluted with dirt,

P U G

Pud'dling (p. a. from puddle) Polluting with dirt, mixing dirt and water.
Pud'dly (adj. from puddle) Muddy, dirty, abounding with puddles.
Pud'dock (s. a local word) A paddock, a small inclosure.
PU'DENCY (s. from the Lat. pudens modest) Modesty, shamefacedness.
PUDEN'DA (s. from the Lat. pudeo to be ashamed) The private parts, the secrets.
PUD'ENING (s. a sea term) A kind of thick wreath or circle of cordage.
PU'DENS (s.) A man's name.
Pud'hepee (s. in the forest law) The felling of wood in a park or forest. Cole.
PU'DIBUND, PUDIBUN'DOUS (adj. from the Lat. pudibundus) Shamefaced. Scott.
PU'DICAPLAN'TA (s. in botany) The sensitive plant.
PUDICIT'IA (s. in heathen mythology) The supposed goddess or patroness of modesty.
PUDIC'ITY (s. from the Lat. pudens, modest, but not much used) Modesty, chastity. Johnson.
PU'DICOUS (adj. from the Lat. pudicus, but not used) Chaste, modest. Bailey.
PU'DOR (s. from the Lat.) Shamefacedness. Cole.
Pud'zeld (s. an old word) The woodgeld.
Puefel'low (s. a cant word) A partner. Shakespeare.
Puel'la (s. in geomancy) The figure representing Mars retrograde.
PU'ERILE (adj. from the Lat. puer a boy) Boyish, childish.
Pueril'ity (s. from puerile) Boyishness, childishness.
PUE'RITY (s. from the Lat. puer a boy, but not used) Puerility. Bailey.
PUER'PEROUS (adj. from the Lat. puer a child, and pario to bring forth) Bearing children. Scott.
PU'ET (s. in ornithology) A kind of water fowl.
PUFF (s. from the Dutch, pof) A quick blast, a small blast; any thing light and porous; a kind of mushroom; a machine for sprinkling powder; an ostentatious speech.
Puff (v. int. from the sub.) To blow with a quick blast, to swell with wind, to blow with scornfulness, to breathe thick and hard, to move with hurry, to swell as with wind.
Puff (v. t.) To swell with wind, to drive with wind, to swell with praise, to elate with pride.
Puff'ed (p. from puff) Swelled with wind, driven by the wind, elated with pride, swelled with praise; with up: as, "That no one of you be puffed up one against another."
Puff'er (s. from puff) One that puffs.
Puffier (adj. comp. of puffy) Puffy in a greater degree.
Puff'iest (adj. sup. of puffy) Puffy in the greatest degree.
PUFF'IN (s. from the Italian, puffino) A water fowl, a kind of fish; a puckball. Ainsworth.
Puff'ing (p. a. from puff) Swelling up with wind, breathing quick and hard, elating with praise, swelling up with pride.
Puff'ing (s. from the part.) The act of swelling up with wind; that which is puffed up with wind, the act of breathing quick and hard; a kind of cake.
Puff'ingapple (s. from puffing, and apple) A kind of apple.
Puff'ingly (adv. from puffing) With shortness of breath, with tumidity.
Puffy (adj. from puff) Windy, flatulent, tumid, turgid.
PUG (s. from the Sax. piga a girl) The name of a monkey, the name of a dog, a kind of dog.
Pug (adj. from the sub.) Like a monkey, belonging to a particular kind of dog.
Pug'gered (adj. from pucker) Complicated, drawn up in folds. More.
Puggy (s. from pug) A fond name for a girl. "My puggy." Scott.
Pugh (interj. from puff) Expressing contempt.
PU'GIL (s. from the French, pugille) A quantity that may be taken up between the thumb and two fingers; a fist fighter. Cole.
Pugilla'tion (s. from pugil) The exercise of fighting with the fist. Cole.
PUGNA'CIOUS (adj. from the Lat. pugnax) Inclined to fight, quarrelsome.
PUGNA'CITY (s. from the Lat. pugnax, fighting) An inclination to fight, quarrelsome.
PUG'NAX (s. in ornithology) The ruff, a kind of fighting bird.

PU'ISNE

PUL

PUI'SNE (adj. from the French) Younger, later in time; petty, small. "One of the puiſne judges."
Puis'sance (s. from puiſſant) Power, strength, valour.
PUI'SANT (adj. from the French) Powerful, strong, valiant.
Puis'santly (adv. from puiſſant) Powerfully, forcibly, valiantly.
Puis'santneſs (s. from puiſſant) Puiſſance, power, valour.
Pu'ite (s. from Pua) A deſcendent of Pua.
PUKE (s. of uncertain etymology) A vomit, a medicine to promote vomiting.
Puke (v. int. from the ſub.) To vomit, to ſpew.
Puke (v. t.) To bring up by puking.
Puk'ed (p. from puke) Brought off the ſtomach by puking.
Puk'er (s. from puke) A puke. Garib.
Puk'ing (p. a. from puke) Vomiting, bringing up any thing from the ſtomach by vomiting.
PUL (s.) The copper money current in the Perſian empire.
PUL (s. from the Heb. ſignifying deſtruction) A man's name, the name of a country.
PUL'CHRITUDE (s. from the Lat. pulcher fair) Beauty, comelineſs, the oppoſite to deformity.
PULE (v. int. from the French, piauler) To cry like a chicken, to whine.
PUL'GIUM (s. in botany) The pennyroyal.
PUL'LEX (s. from the Lat.) A flea.
PUL'IC (s. in botany) The name of an herb. Scott.
PULICA'RIA (s. in botany) The flea wort.
PULICA'RIS (s. with phyſicians) The petecial fever.
Pul'icine (adj. from pulex) Belonging to a flea. Cole.
Pul'icofe (adj. from pulex) Abounding with fleas.
Pulicoſity (s. from pulicoſe) The ſtate of abounding with fleas. Bailey.
Pul'ling (p. a. from pule) Crying like a chicken, whining; weakly, ſickly.
PUL'LIOL (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
Pul'liolmountain (s. in botany) The pennyroyal.
Pul'liolroyal (s. in botany) The pennyroyal.
PULL (v. t. from the Sax. pulian) To draw with violence, to draw forcibly. "To pull down," to demolish, to ſubvert, to degrade. "To pull up," to extirpate, to eradicate.
Pull (s. from the verb) The act of pulling, an effort to draw forward.
Pul'la (s. in old records) A pool.
Pul'laile (s. obsolete) Poultry. Chaucer.
PULLA'TION (s. from the Lat. pullatio, but not uſed) The act of hatching chickens. Bailey.
Pull'ed (p. from pull) Drawn with violence, drawn forcibly.
Pull'er (s. from pull) One that pulls.
PUL'LEN (s. from the French, pulain) Poultry.
PUL'LET (s. from the French, poulet) A young hen.
PULLEY (s. from the French, poulie) A ſmall wheel receiving a rope and turning on a pivot; one of the mechanical powers.
Pul'leypiece (s. from pulley, and piece) Armour for the knees, that part of a boat which covers the knees.
Pul'id (p. obsolete) Pulled, ſtripped of feathers. Chaucer.
Pul'ing (p. a. from pull) Drawing with violence, drawing forcibly.
Pul'ing (s. from the part.) The act of drawing with violence, the act of ſtripping off the feathers of a fowl.
PUL'LULATE (v. int. from the Lat. pullulo) To bud, to germinate.
Pul'lulating (p. a. from pullulate) Budding, ſhooting forth.
PULMENTA'RIOUS (adj. from the Lat. pulmentum pottage) Belonging to pottage, belonging to water gruel. Cole.
Pul'mo (s. in anatomy) The lungs.
PULMONA'RIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the lung wort.
Pulmona'ria (s. in medicine) An inflammation of the lungs.
Pulmona'rious (adj. from pulmo) Diſeaſed in the lungs. Cole.
Pul'monary (adj. from pulmo) Belonging to the lungs.
Pulmo'neous (adj. from pulmo) Pertaining to the lungs, reſembling the lungs.
Pulmo'nic (adj. from pulmo) Belonging to the lungs, ſeated in the lungs.
Pulmo'nical (adj. from pulmonic) Belonging to the lungs. Cole.

PUM

PULP (s. from the Lat. pulpa) The ſoft part of any ſoft maſs.
Pulp'ier (adj. comp. of pulpy) Pulpy in a degree.
Pulp'ieſt (adj. ſup. of pulpy) Pulpy in the degree.
PUL'PIT (s. from the Lat. pulpitu) A place raiſed a ſpeaker to ſtand on; the higheſt deſk in a church place of worſhip from whence the ſermon is pronounced.
PUL'PITUM (s. in antiquity) The ſtage on which theatrical entertainments were exhibited.
Pulp'ous (adj. from pulp) Soft, full of pulp.
Pul'pouſneſs (s. from pulpous) The ſtate of being pulpous.
Pul'py (adj. from pulp) Soft, conſiſting of pulp.
PULSATILLA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
Pulſation (s. from pulſe) The act of beating with ſtrokes againſt any thing, the motion of the pulſe.
Pulſa'tor (s. from pulſe) A ſtriker, a beater.
PULSE (s. from the Lat. pello pulſus to beat) The motion of an artery, the motion of the blood as driven by heart; a vibration, an alternate approach and retreat. "To feel one's pulſe," to try one's mind.
PULSE (s. in botany) Peaſe, beans, legume.
Pulſe (v. int. from the ſub.) To beat as an artery the motion of the blood.
Pul'ſion (s. from pulſe) The act of driving forward.
Pulſura (s. in old records) A previous examination.
PULTIFICAL (adj. from the Lat. pultis pottage, facio to make) Producing pottage, ſerving pottage.
Pul'trie (s. an old ſpelling) Poultry.
PUL'VERABLE (adj. from the Lat. pulvis pulveris) Capable of being reduced to powder.
Pul'vereous (adj. not uſed) Duſty.
Pulverifa'tion (s. from pulveriſe) The act of reducing to powder, the act of reducing to duſt.
PUL'VERISE (v. t. from the Lat. pulvis pulveris) To reduce to powder, to reduce to duſt.
Pul'veriſed (p. from pulveriſe) Reduced to powder, reduced to duſt.
Pul'veriſing (p. a. from pulveriſe) Reducing to powder.
Pul'verulence (s. from pulverulent) Duſtineſs, full of duſt.
PULVER'ULENT (adj. from the Lat. pulvis veris duſt) Duſty, full of duſt.
PUL'VIL (s. from the Lat. pulvillum) Perfumes, ſcents.
Pul'vil (v. t. from the ſub.) To ſprinkle with powder.
PULVI'LIO (s. in architecture) The pulvinata.
Pul'villed (p. from pulvil) Sprinkled with powder.
Pul'villing (p. a. from pulvil) Sprinkling with powder.
PULVIL'LUS (s. from the Lat.) A cuſhion, a little pillow uſed in dreſſing wounds.
Pulvina'ta (s. in architecture) A frieze ſwelling out like a pillow.
Pul'vinated (adj. in architecture) Ornamented with pulvinata.
PUL'VIS (s. from the Lat.) Duſt.
PUM'EX (s. in natural hiſtory) The pumice ſtone.
PUM'ICATE (v. t. from the Lat. pumex a pumice ſtone) To ſmooth with a pumice ſtone.
Pum'icated (p. from pumicate) Smoothed with pumice ſtone.
Pum'icating (p. a. from pumicate) Smoothing with pumice ſtone.
PUM'ICE (s. in natural hiſtory from the Lat. pumex) A ſlag or cinder of ſome ſoſſil.
Pumiceſtone (s. in natural hiſtory) The cinder of ſoſſil generally thrown up by a volcano.
Pum'mel (s. not ſo common a ſpelling) A pommel.
Pum'mel (v. t. a colloquial word) To beat.
Pum'meled (p. a colloquial word from pommel) Beating.
Pum'meling (p. a. a colloquial word, from pum'mel) Beating.
PUMP (s. from the French, pompe) An engine by which water is drawn up out of a well; a ſhoe with ſole.
Pump (v. int. from the ſub.) To work a pump, to draw out water by a pump.
Pump (v. t.) To raiſe by means of a pump, to draw out by means of a pump; to examine artfully, to draw out a ſecret.
Pump/brake (s. from pump, and brake) The brake of a pump.

break (s. a different spelling) A pumpbrake, the of a pump.
 dole (s. a sea term) The trough into which the is pumped from the hole of a ship.
 ed (p. from pump) Raised by means of a pump,
 mined artfully.
 er (s. from pump) One that pumps.
 ing (p. a. from pump) Raising by means of a pump, examining artfully.
 ing (s. from the part.) The act of raising by means pump, the act of drawing out a secret.
 ION (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the of a plant.
 ion (s. a cant word) A heavy insipid fellow. Sh.
 kin (s.) The pumpion. Phillips.
 vale (s. a sea term) The trough which conveys water from the pump.
 s. of unknown derivation) A quibble, an equition.
 u. int. from the sub.) To quibble, to use the same in different senses.
 H (s. from the French poinçon) A pointed instru-for making holes, an instrument that makes a or impression driven by a hammer.
 (s. from the Italian, punchino) The buffoon or equin in a puppet show; a short well set strong e; a short fat fellow in ridicule.
 (s. a cant word) A factitious liquor in which ts, water, sugar, and the juice of lemons are ed together.
 (v. t. from the sub.) To make a hole or impression driving a pointed instrument.
 (adj. from the sub.) thick, strong well put together.
 bowl (s. from punch, and bowl) A basin or bowl which punch is made and brought to the table.
 ed (s. from punch) Perforated by means of a ch, impressed or driven by a punch.
 CHENEL/LO (s. from the Italian) The buffoon in a et show.
 CHEON (s. from the French, poinçon) A measure liquids containing eighty-four gallons.
 er (s. from punch) A punch, an instrument for ing holes; one that punches holes.
 in (s. with builders) A puncheon, a short thick ce of timber so placed as to bear some considerable ght.
 ing (p. a. from punch) Perforating by means of a ch, making impressions by means of a punch.
 ion (s. a different spelling) A puncheon. Scott.
 ion (s. with builders) A short piece of timber ed so as to bear some considerable weight.
 ladle (s. from punch, and ladle) The small ladle h which punch is taken out of the bowl to fill the es.
 CTATED (adj. from the Lat. punctum a point)
 wn into a point, consisting of a single point.
 CIL/IO (s. from the Lat. punctillum) A nice point, mall nicety of behaviour.
 ilious (adj. from punctilio) Nice, exact, need-ly exact, superstitiously punctual.
 iliousness (s. from punctilious) The state or qua-of being punctilious.
 ion (s. in surgery) A puncture, an aperture made the lower belly for the discharge of water in drop-al subjects.
 C/O (s. from the Lat. punctum) The point in ing; a punctilio, a nice point in ceremonious avour.
 CTUAL (adj. from the Lat. punctum a point) mprised in a point, consisting in a point, exact, e, punctilious.
 tuality (s. from punctual) Nicety, scrupulous exnes.
 ctually (adv. from punctual) Nicely, exactly, scrupulously.
 ctualness (s. from punctual) Punctuality, the state being punctual.
 CTUATION (s. from the Lat. punctum a point) e act of pointing, the method of dividing the parts a sentence by points.
 CTUM (s. from the Lat.) A point.
 ture (s. from punctum) A small aperture, a hole ade with a sharp point.
 CTULATE (v. t. from the Lat. punctulum a all point but not much used) To mark with small spots.
 ctulated (p. from punctulate) Marked with small ots. Woodward.
 ctulating (p. a. from punctulate, but not much used) arking with small spots.

Pund/breach (s. from pound and breach) The act of refucuing cattle contrary to law. Phillips.
 Pund/bretch (s. an old word) The act of taking cattle out of a pound contrary to law, a pound breach,
 Pundfal'da (s. an old word) A pound, a pinfeld.
 Pund'le (s. a cant word) A short fat woman. Ainsworth.
 PUN/GA (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish.
 Pun'gency (s. from pungent) The power of pricking, acrimoniousness; the power to pierce the mind.
 PUN/GENT (adj. from the Lat. pungo to prick) Pricking, acrid, sharp on the tongue, piercing.
 PU'NIC (adj. from the Lat. Pœni the Carthaginians who were notorious for breach of faith) False, faithless, treacherous.
 PU'NICA (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the pomegranate.
 PU'NICE (s. in the history of insects) The crablouse, the bugg.
 Pu'nice (v. t. an obsolete spelling) To punish. Chaucer.
 PUNICEOUS (adj. from the Lat. puniceus) Purple.
 PUNICUMMA/LUM (s. in botany) The pomegranate.
 Pun'ier (adj. comp. of puny) Puny in a greater degree.
 Pun'iest (adj. sub. of puny) Puny in the greatest degree.
 Pun'iness (s. from puny) The state of being puny.
 PUN'ISH (v. t. from the Lat. punio) To chastise, to inflict penalties for a crime, to put to pain, to revenge a crime by pain or death.
 Pun'ishable (adj. from punish) Capable of being punished, fit to be punished.
 Pun'ishableness (s. from punishable) The state or quality of being punishable.
 Pun'ished (p. from punish) Chastised, put to pain, subjected to penalties for crimes.
 Pun'isher (s. from punish) One that punishes.
 Pun'ishing (p. a. from punish) Chastising, putting to pain, inflicting penalties for crimes.
 Punishment (s. from punish) The pain or penalty inflicted for a crime.
 PUNITION (s. from the Lat. punio to punish) A punishment. Ainsworth.
 PU'NITIVE (adj. from the Lat. punio to punish) Avoiding punishment, inflicting a penalty.
 Pun'itiveness (s. from punitive) The state or quality of being punitive. Scott.
 PU'NITORY (adj. from the Lat. punio to punish) Punishing, tending to punishment.
 PUNK (s. a low word of uncertain etymology) A woman of ill fame, a common prostitute. Shakespeare.
 PUN'NING (p. a. from pun) Quibbling, dealing in puns.
 PU'NON (s. from the Heb. signifying a precious stone)
 The name of a place. Numb. 33.
 Pun'ner (s. from pun) One that quibbles, one that deals in puns.
 PUNT (v. int. the derivation is not noted) To play at basfet, to play at ombre.
 Punt'er (s. from punt) The person that plays at basfet against the banker.
 PU'NY (adj. from the French, puisne) Young, petty, inferior; tender, sickly.
 Pu'ny (s. from the adj.) One who is young in practice,
 a petty practitioner.
 Pup (v. int. from puppy) To bring forth whelps.
 Pup (v. t.) To bring forth young as as a bitch.
 Pup (s. from puppy, a colloquial word) A puppy.
 PU'PIL (s. in anatomy from the Lat. pupilla) The apple of the eye, the aperture in the middle of the iris through which the rays of light pass to form the object on the retina.
 PU'PIL (s. from the Lat. pupillus) A scholar, one under the care of a tutor; a ward, one under the care of a guardian.
 Pu'pilage (s. from pupil) The state of being a scholar;
 the state of wardship or minority.
 Pupilarity (s. from pupil) The state or condition of a pupil.
 Pu'pilary (adj. from pupil) Belonging to a pupil, belonging to a ward.
 PUPIL'LA (s. in anatomy) The pupil of the eye.
 Pu'ple (s. an old spelling) The people. Wickliffe.
 Puppe (s. an old spelling) The pope. Chaucer.
 Pup'ped (p. from pup) Brought forth as of a bitch.
 PUP/PET (s. from the Lat. pupus) A small image moved by wires in a mock drama; one moved at the will of another; a word of tenderness to a child.
 Pup'petman (s. from puppet, and man) The master of a puppet show.
 Pup'petshew (s. from puppet, and shew) A mock drama performed by little images moved by wires.
 Pup'pet how

- Pup/petshow (s. from puppet, and show) A puppetshow.
Pup/pied (p. from puppy) Brought forth as of a bitch.
Pup/ping (p. a. from pup) Bringing forth whelps.
PUP/PIS (s. from the Lat.) The stern, the hinder part of a ship.
PUP/PIS (s. in anatomy) The vein that spreads itself over the hinder parts of the head.
PUP/PUS (s.) The name of a man; a tragic poet famous for exciting the passion of grief. Horace.
PUP/PY (s. from the French poupée) A whelp, a young dog; a man in contemptuous language.
Pup/py (v. int. from the sub.) To bring forth whelps.
Pup/py (v. t.) To bring forth young as a bitch.
Pup/pyheaded (adj. from puppy, and head) Having a head like that of a puppy; dull, heavy in the head. Shakespeare.
Pup/pying (p. a. from puppy) Bringing forth whelps.
Pup/pula (s. a different spelling) The pupilla.
PUR (s. from the Heb. signifying a lot) The method of determining by lot, a lot.
Pur (adj. obsolete) Pure. Chaucer.
Pur/blind (adj. corrupted from pore, and blind) Near-sighted, shortsighted.
Pur/blindness (s. from purblind) The state of being shortsighted.
Pur/chace (v. t. an obsolete spelling) To purchase, to procure, to obtain. Chaucer.
Pur/chasable (adj. from purchase) Capable of being purchased.
PUR/CHASE (v. t. from the French pourchasser) To buy, to obtain at any expence, to buy at a dear rate.
Pur/chafe (v. int. a sea term) To draw in, to have its effect.
Pur/chase (s. from the verb) That which is bought with a price; that which is obtained.
Pur/chase (s. in mechanics) The force, the power, that which produces the effect.
Pur/chased (p. from purchase) Bought, procured.
Pur/chaer (s. from purchase) One that purchases.
Pur/chasing (p. a. from purchase) Buying, obtaining; drawing in, taking effect.
Pur/chesse (v. t. an obsolete spelling) To purchase. Ch.
PURE (adj. from the Lat. purus) Unfalsified, clear, unpolluted; unmixed, unconnected; guiltless, innocent; chaste, uncorrupt; mere, confined to one view.
Pur/ely (adv. from pure) Without mixture, without guilt; merely, simply.
Pur/eness (s. from pure) Clearness, innocence, simplicity, the state of being unmixed.
Pur/er (adj. comp. of pure) Pure in a greater degree.
Pur'est (adj. sup. of pure) Pure in the greatest degree.
PUR/FIL, PUR/FILE (s. from the French pourfilée) A kind of trimming formerly used for women's gowns.
Pur/fild (p. obsolete) Fringed. Chaucer.
PUR/FLE (v. t. from the French, pourfiler) To embroider.
Pur/le (s. from the verb) A border, an edge of embroidery.
Pur/led (p. from purle) Embroidered: with with: as "Purled with gold." Spenser.
Pur/flew (s. from purle) A border, an edge of embroidery. Johnson.
Pur/flew (s. in heraldry) A border of fur.
Pur/ling (p. a. from purle) Ornamenting with a border.
Pur/lo (s. from purle) A border, a fringe. Cole.
PURGANTIA (s. in pharmacy from the Lat.) Purgatives.
PURGATION (s. from the Lat. purgo to purge) The act of cleansing from vicious mixtures, the act of purging the body by stool, the act of clearing from the imputation of guilt.
PUR/GATIVE (adj. from the Lat. purgo to purge) Cathartic, purging.
Pur/gative (s. from the adj.) A medicine to purge the body by stool.
Purgato/rial (adj. from purgatory) Belonging to purgatory.
PUR/GATORY (s. from the Lat. purgo to purge) A place in which departed souls are suppoied by the papists to be purged from their carnal impurities before they are received into heaven; a place under the fire to receive the ashes, a grate that covers the place under the fire where the ashes are received.
Pur/gatoryfire (s. from purgatory, and fire) The fire of purgatory, the fire which the papists suppose is to purify the souls of the dead before they are received into heaven.
PURGE (v. t. from the Lat. purgo to purify) To cleanse, to clear from impurity, to clear from guilt; to evacuate the body by stool.
- Purge (v. int.) To have frequent stools.
Purge (s. from the verb) A cathartic, any medicine to evacuate the body by stool.
Purged (p. from purge) Purified, cleansed, evacuated by stool.
Purger (s. from purge) One who purges, that purges; a purge, a cathartic medicine.
Purg'ing (p. a. from purge) Purifying, cleansing, evacuating by stool.
Purg'ing (s. from the part.) The act of cleansing, looseness.
Purifica'tion (s. from purify) The act of making the act of cleansing from guilt; a rite performed the Jews after child-bearing.
Pur'ificative (adj. from purify) Having a tendency to purify.
Pur'ificatory (adj. from purify) Having the power to make pure, purificative.
Pur'ified (p. from purify) Cleansed, made pure.
Pur'ifier (s. from purify) One that purifies, a cleanser, a refiner.
PURIFY (v. t. from the Lat. purus pure, and facere make) To make pure, to free from extraneous mixtures, to make clear, to free from guilt, to free from ceremonial pollution; to clear from the impropriety of language.
Pur'ify (v. int.) To become pure.
Pur'ifying (p. a. from purify) Making pure.
Pur'ifying (s. from the part.) A purification, the making pure; the rite by which ceremonial pollution is removed. "The purifying of the Jews."
Pur'ile (s. an incorrect spelling) Purulence.
Pur'im (s. from pur) A feast of the Jews in commemoration of their deliverance from Haman's conspiracy.
Pur'ist (s. from pure) One superstitiously nice in the use of words.
Pur'itan (s. from pure) A dissenter from the church of England, formerly so called by way of reproach, pretending to greater purity of life and doctrine, of the primitive nonconformists.
Puritan'ic (adj. from puritan) Belonging to the puritans, resembling the primitive nonconformists.
Puritan'ical (adj. from puritanic) Belonging to puritans, resembling the primitive nonconformists.
Pur'itanism (s. from puritan) The doctrine and discipline of the primitive nonconformists.
Pur'ity (s. from pure) The state of being pure.
Purl (s. from purlo) A kind of puckered border.
PURL (s. of uncertain derivation) A kind of medicinal malt liquor.
PURL (v. int. perhaps from the sound) To murmur, to flow with a gentle noise.
Purl (v. t. from the sub.) To decorate with fringe, to broider.
Purled (p. from purl) Decorated with fringe, broidered.
PUR/LIEU (s. from the French, A border, an inclosure) the grounds on the borders of a forest.
Pur'lieuman (s. from purlieu, and man) One who land within the purlieus of a forest with a privilege to hunt on his own grounds under certain limitations.
Pur'lin (s. with builders) The piece of timber that supports the rafters in the middle, a side-piece.
Pur'ling (p. a. from purl) Murmuring, making a gentle noise; decorating with fringe, embroidering.
Pur'ling (s. from the part.) The murmuring noise of a small stream of water; the fringed ornament in the border of a garment.
Purlo'ck (s. not so common a spelling) A putlock, the put into a scaffoldhole.
PURLOIN (v. t. of doubtful etymology) To steal, to steal by theft.
Purloi'ned (p. from purloin) Stolen, taken away by theft.
Purloi'ner (s. from purloin) One that purloins.
Purloi'ning (p. a. from purloin) Stealing, taking away by theft.
Pur'lue (s. not so correct a spelling) A purlieu.
Pur'lueman (s. not so correct a spelling) A purlieu man.
Pur/pais (s. a law term) A purparty, a part in division.
PUR/PARTY (s. from the French pour to, and part share) A share, a part in division.
PUR/PLE (adj. from the Lat. purpureus) Red tinged with blue; red in poetry.
Purple (s. from the adj.) The column of red tinged with blue; the garb of royalty.
Purple (v. t. from the sub.) To make red, to make purple colour.
Pur'pled (p. from purple) Tintured with a purple colour.

PUR

PURPLES (s. plu. from purple) The spots of a livid red which break out in malignant fevers; a purple fever.

PURPLING (p. a. from purple) Tincturing with a purple colour.

PURPLISH (adj. from purple) Tending to a purple colour.

PURPORT (s. from the French, pourporte) The design, the tendency of a writing or discourse.

PURPORT (v. t. from the sub.) To intend, to point out the meaning.

PURPORTED (p. from purport) Intended, pointed out as the meaning.

PURPORTING (p. a. from purport) Intending, pointing out the meaning.

PURPOSE (s. from the Lat. propositum) An intention, a design; an effect, a consequence; an instance, an example; the point in hand.

PURPOSE (v. t. from the sub.) To intend, to design, to resolve.

PURPOSE (s. obsolete) A discourse. Chaucer.

PURPOSED (p. from purpose) Intended, designed, resolved.

PURPOSELY (adv. from purpose) By design, by intention.

PURPOSING (p. a. from purpose) Intending, designing, resolving.

PURPLE (adj. an old spelling) Purple. Chaucer.

PURPRESURE (s. a different spelling) The pourpresure. Phillips.

PURPRISE (s. a law term, from the French) A manor; a close, an inclosure. Bacon.

PURPRISUM (s. in old records) The purprise.

PURPURA (s. with physicians) The purples, the purple fever.

PURPURA'TI (s. in antiquity) The sons of kings and emperors who wore a border of purple on their garments.

PURPURE (s. in heraldry) The purple colour consisting of much red and a little black.

PURR (s. in ornithology) The sea lark. Ainsworth.

PURR (v. int. from the sound) To murmur as the cat when pleased.

PURREL (s. in old statutes) The list of kersey cloth, so wrought as to prevent frauds in the diminution of the length.

PURRING (p. a. from purr) Making a noise as the cat when in pleasure.

PURRING (s. from the part.) The noise of a cat or leopard when pleased.

PURROCK (s. a corruption of parrock) A small inclosure, a paddock.

PURSE (s. from the Brit. purs) A small bag, a little bag in which money is carried.

PURSE (v. t. from the sub.) To put into a purse; to draw up in form of a purse.

PURSED (p. from purse) Put into a purse, drawn up like a purse.

PURSENET (s. from purse, and net) A net the mouth of which is drawn together with a string.

PURSEPROUD (adj. from purse, and proud) Puffed up with the conceit of being rich.

PURSER (s. from purse) The paymaster of a ship.

PURSEVANT (s. not so correct a spelling) A pursuivant. Scott.

PURSY (adj. comp. of purfy) Purfy in a greater degree.

PURSYEST (adj. sup. of purfy) Purfy in the greatest degree.

PURSYNESS (s. from purfy) Shortness of breath.

PURSYING (p. a. from purfy) Putting into a purse, contracting like a purse.

PURSIVE (adj. from the French, pouffif) Purfy, fat.

PURSIVENESS (s. from pursive) Shortness of breath. Johns.

PURLAIN (s. in botany) The name of an herb.

PURLANE (s. a different spelling) The purlain. Phillips.

PURSUABLE (adj. from pursue) Capable of being pursued.

PURSUANCE (s. from pursue) A prosecution, a process.

PURSUANT (adj. from pursue) Done in consequence of some measure; with to: as, "Pursuant to your order."

PURSUER (v. t. from the French, poursuivre) To follow, to chase; to prosecute, to continue; to imitate, to follow as an example.

PURSUER (v. int.) To proceed, to go on.

PURSUER (s. from pursue) One that pursues.

PURSUED (p. from pursue) Followed, chased; prosecuted, continued; imitated, followed as an example.

PURSING (p. a. from pursue) Following, chasing, prosecuting, continuing, imitating.

PUT

PURSUIT (s. from pursue) The act of following, the prosecution of a design, an endeavour to attain.

PURSUIVANT (s. from the French, poursuivant) A state messenger, a herald, an attendant on a herald.

PURSY (adj. from the French, pouffif) Puffed up with fat, short breathed.

PUR'TENANCE (s. from appurtenance) An appurtenance; the pluck of an animal.

PUR'TREING (s. obsolete) A pourtraiture. Chaucer.

PUR'TREITURE (s. an obsolete spelling) A pourtraiture. Chau.

PURVEI'ABLE (adj. obsolete) Careful, provident. Chaucer.

PURVEI'ANCE (s. an old spelling) Purveyance, foresight. Chaucer.

PURVEID (p. obsolete) Provided. Chaucer.

PURVEIE (v. t. an old spelling) To purvey. Chaucer.

PURVEIGH (v. t. an old spelling) To provide. Chaucer.

PURVEIGHAUNCE (s. obsolete) Purveyance, providence, foresight. Chaucer.

PURVEIGHED (p. obsolete) Provided. Chaucer.

PURVEY (v. t. from the French, pourvoir) To procure; to provide with conveniencies; but this sense is now grown obsolete. Spenser.

PURVEY (v. int.) To buy in provisions. Milton.

PURVEY'ANCE (s. from purvey) Provisions, the act of procuring victuals.

PURVEY'D (v. t. an old spelling) Purveyed. Chaucer.

PURVEY'ED (p. from purvey) Procured, furnished with conveniencies. Dryden.

PURVEY'ING (p. a. from purvey) Procuring, providing victuals.

PURVEY'OR (s. from purvey) One that provides victuals; a procurer, a pimp. Addison.

PURVIEW (s. a law term) The proviso, the providing clause.

PUR'ULENCE (s. from purulent) The state of being purulent.

PUR'ULENCY (s. from purulence) The generation of pus; the state of being purulent.

PUR'ULENT (adj. from the Lat. purulentus) Consisting of pus, running with morbid matter, discharging matter as a wound.

PUR'ULENTNESS (s. from purulent) The state of being purulent. Scott.

PUS (s. from the Lat.) The matter discharged from a wound, well digested matter.

PUSE (s.) The fond name for a cat. Scott.

PUS'ELL (s. obsolete) A virgin, a maid. Chaucer.

PUSH (v. t. from the French, pousser) To thrust, to force by impulsion, to force by continued violence; to press forward, to urge, to drive; to importune, to tease.

PUSH (v. int.) To make a thrust, to make an effort, to make an attack.

PUSH (s. from the verb) A thrust, an impulse, an assault, a strong effort; an exigence, a sudden emergence; a pimple, an efflorescence of the skin.

PUSH'ED (p. from push) Pressed with violence, assaulted, driven to extremities.

PUSH'ER (s. from push) One that pushes.

PUSH'ING (p. a. from push) Thrusting, pressing with continued violence, urging, driving forward, driving to extremities; enterprising.

PUSH'PIN (s. from push and pin) A child's play in which pins are pushed with an endeavour to cross them.

PUSILLANIMITY (s. from the Lat. pusillus weak, and animus the mind) Cowardice, meanness of spirit.

PUSILLANIMOUS (adj. from the Lat. pusillus weak, and animus the mind) Cowardly, mean spirited.

PUSILLANIMOUSNESS (s. from pusillanimous) Cowardice, meanness of spirit.

PUS'IE (s. a local word) A dirty wench. Bailey.

PUS'MA (s. in rhetoric) An earnest question. Bailey.

PUSS (s. the derivation is uncertain) The fondling name of a cat; the sportsman's cant for the hare.

PUS'TES (s. in ichthyology) A kind of whale.

PUS'TULE (s. from the Lat. pustula) A small swelling, a pimple, a push; a variolous eruption.

PUS'TULOUS (adj. from pustule) Full of pustles, full of pimples.

PUT (v. t. supposed to be from the Danish, putter to plant) To lay in any place, to place in any situation, to place in any state or condition, to repose, to trust, to expose, to push into action; to propose, to state, to commit to writing; to offer, to advance; to unite, to place as an ingredient. "To put by," to divert, to turn off, to thrust aside. "To put down," to crush, to degrade, to bring into disuse, to confute. "To put forth," to propose, to extend, to exert. "To put put in, to interpose. "To put off," to defer, to lay aside, to delay, to discard, to vend, to pass fallaciously. "To put on," to invest with, to forward, to inflict, to assume, to act by way of deception. "To put over," to refer. "To put out," to place at interest, to extinguish, to emit, to publish, to disconcert. "To put to," to join horses to a carriage, to assist with, to kill with. "To put to death," to kill. "To put together," to accumulate, to mix. "To put up," to pass without taking revenge, to hoard, to hide, to start, to expose. "To put upon," to impose, to incite, to instigate.

PUT

Put (v. int.) To shoot, to germinate; to move, to steer. "To put forth," to germinate. "To put in," to enter, to offer a claim. "To put off," to leave the land. "To put over," to fail across. "To put up," to offer one's self as a candidate, to advance to. "To put up with," to pass by an affront.

Put (s. from the verb) A particular game at cards; an emergent juncture of affairs; a rustic, a clown.

Put (v. int. from the sub.) To play at put.

Put (v. t. pret. of the verb) Did put.

Put (p. from the verb) Placed, placed in any situation.

PUTAGE (s. a law term, from the French, putain) A prostitution on the woman's part, fornication on the man's part.

Putaine (s. obsolete) A woman of ill fame, a prostitute. Chaucer.

PUTANISM (s. from the French, putain) The trade or life of a prostitute.

PUTATION (s. from the Lat. putatio, but not used) The act of pruning trees. Cole.

PUTATIVE (adj. from puto to think) Supposed, repeated.

Putatory (adj. not used) Pruning, belonging to the act of pruning trees. Cole.

PUTCHAMINE (s. in botany) A kind of damson.

PUTTEAL (adj. from the Lat. puteolus a well) Belonging to a well. Cole.

PUTEOLI (s.) The name of a city in Italy. Acts 28.

PUTID (adj. from the Lat. putidus) Mean, low, worthless.

Putidness (s. from putid) Meanness, vileness.

PUTI'EL (s. from the Heb. signifying God my father) A man's name.

Putlock (s. with builders) A short piece of timber used in building scaffolds.

Putlog (s. a different spelling) A putlock, the short piece of timber put into the scaffold hole. Moxon.

Putour (s. obsolete) A whoremonger. Chaucer.

Putre (s. obsolete) Whoredom, the state of a prostitute. Chaucer.

PUTREDINOUS (adj. from the Lat. putredo rottenness) Rotten, stinking.

PUTREFACTION (s. in physics) The things which cause the flesh to putrefy. Bailey.

Putrefaction (s. from putrefy) The state of being putrefied, the state of being rotten; that which is putrefied, that which is rotten.

Putrefactive (adj. from putrefy) Tending to putrefaction, causing rottenness.

Putrefactiveness (s. from putrefactive) A tendency to putrefaction. Scott.

Putrefied (p. from putrefy) Rotten, corrupted with rottenness.

PUTREFY (v. t. from the Lat. putris rotten, and facio to make) To make rotten, to corrupt with rottenness.

Putrefy (v. int.) To rot, to become putrid.

Putrefying (p. a. from putrefy) Rotting, tending to putrefaction, making putrid.

Putrefying (s. from the part.) The act of making putrid, a putrefaction.

Putrescence (s. from putrescent) The state of being putrefied.

PUTRESCENT (adj. from the Lat. putresco to grow rotten) Growing rotten.

PUTRID (adj. from the Lat. putridus) Rotten, corrupt.

Putridness (s. from putrid) Rottenness, corruption.

Putter (s. from put) One who puts. "Putter on," an inciter, an instigator.

Puttiden (v. t. old pret. of put) Did put. Wicliffe.

Puttied (p. from putty) Overlaid with putty, filled up with putty.

Putting (p. a. from put) Placing, placing in any situation.

Puttinstone (s. from putting, and stone) A stone to be thrown by hand. Pope.

PUTTOCK, PUTTOCK (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird, the buzzard; a bittern, a kite. Chaucer.

PYR

PUTTY (s. from the French, potée) A powder used in polishing glass; a kind of cement used by glaziers.

Putty (v. t. from the sub.) To lay on a kind of cement to fill up deficiencies with putty.

Puttying (p. a. from putty) Overlaying with putty, filling up with putty.

Putura (s. in old records) The practice of exacting provisions of the tenants in the precincts of a fortress, hundred.

Puzzle (v. t. from pose) To perplex, to confound, to make intricate, to entangle.

Puzzle (v. int.) To be confused, to be awkward.

Puzzle (s. from the verb) An embarrassment, a perplexity, a kind of riddle.

Puzzled (p. from puzzle) Perplexed, confounded, made intricate.

Puzzler (s. from puzzle) One who puzzles.

Puzzling (p. a. from puzzle) Perplexing, confusing, making intricate.

Puzzlingness (s. from puzzling) Perplexedness, confusion.

PYANEP'SIA (s. from the Greek) A festival celebrated by the Athenians in the month of September.

PYANEP'SION (s. from the Greek) One of the Athenian months; it answered to our September.

PYBALD (adj. from pie, and bald) Spotted with white or some other colour.

Pybaldness (s. from pybald) The state or quality of being oddly marked as a horse with two colours.

PYCE (s.) An Indian coin worth something more than our farthing.

Py'cer (s. in old statutes) A kind of ship.

PYCNOSTYLE, PYCNOSTYLOS (s. in ancient architecture) A kind of building in which the columns stand very close to each other.

PYCNOTICS (s. from the Greek, πυκνός denoting) Condensing medicines.

Pye (s. not so common a spelling) The pie, the name of a bird.

Pye'bald (adj. a different spelling) Pybald. Philips.

PYELOS (s. from the Greek, πυελος) A vessel to wash in, a hollow vessel to wash in.

Pye'ard (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird. And.

PYGARGUS (s. in zoology) A wild beast of the kind.

PYGMA (s. from the Greek, πυγμα a measure of length from the fist to the elbow) A pigmy, a dwarf.

PYGMÆGERANOM'ACHY (s. from the Greek, πυγμα a pigmy, γερανος a crane, and μάχη a fight) The famous fight or war between the pygmies and cranes.

PYGME (s. from the Greek) A measure of length from the fist to the elbow.

Pygmean (adj. from pygmy) Belonging to a pygmy.

PYGMY (s. from pygme) A dwarf, one of a fabulous nation said to be only three spans high.

Pygmy (adj. from the sub.) Pygmean, belonging to pygmy.

PY'GON (s.) A Grecian measure of twenty fingerbreadth.

Pyk'er (s. a different spelling) A pycar, a small ship, herring boat.

PYLA'DES (s.) A man's name; the friend of Orestes.

Pyla'dion (s. a different spelling) The piladion, a kind of dance.

PYLO'RUS (s. in anatomy, from the Greek) The lower orifice of the stomach.

PYLOS (s. in ancient geography) The name of the several cities in the Peloponnesus.

PYLO'TIS (s. in beaten mythology) A title of Minerva.

Py'nande (adj. obsolete) Painful.

Py'nant (s. an old word) A starveling.

Pyne (s. an obsolete spelling) Pain.

PY'ON (s. from the Greek) Pus, matter discharged from a well digested wound.

Py'ony (s. in botany, but not so common a spelling) Piony.

PYOSIS (s. with physicians, from the Greek) A collection of matter in any part of the body.

Py'powder (s. a different spelling) Piepowder. Johnson.

PYRACAN'THA (s. in botany, from the Greek, πυρα and ακανθος a thorn) A kind of evergreen tree, which bears berries resembling the colour of fire.

PYRAMID (s. from the Greek, πυρ fire, which ascends in a conical form) A solid figure whose base is a polygon and sides plain triangles, all terminating in a point.

Pyramidal (adj. from pyramid) Having the form of a pyramid.

PYRAMIDALES (s. in anatomy) Certain muscles which take their name from their resemblance to a pyramid.

PYRAMIDAL

P Y R

P Y X

Pyramidalia (s. in anatomy) The pyramidal muscles, the pyramidales; the ispermatic vessels.
Pyramidalis (s. in anatomy) A small muscle of the abdomen.
Pyramidal (adj. from pyramid) Belonging to a pyramid, resembling a pyramid.
Pyramidally (adv. from pyramidal) In the form of a pyramid.
Pyramidalness (s. from pyramidal) The state or quality of being pyramidal.
Pyramidographer (s. from pyramidography) A describer of pyramids.
Pyramidography (s. from the Greek, πυραμῖς a pyramid, and γραφω to describe) A description of pyramids.
Pyramidal (s. from pyramid) The parabolic spindle.
Pyramis (s. from the Greek) A pyramid, a pillar of fire or smoke.
Pyramus (s. in the mythology of the poets) The name of a Babylonian youth who fell in love with Thisbe, and slew himself on a supposition that she had been devoured by a wild beast.
Pyrate (s. not so common a spelling) A pirate. D. of Arts.
Pyrausta (s. in the history of insects) The fire fly, the salamander fly.
Pyre (s. from the Greek, πυρ fire) A pile to be burnt, the funeral pile.
Pyrene (s. in fabulous history) A damsel who being defoured wandered up and down and perished on the mountains that divide France and Spain, which were afterwards called by her name.
Pyrenean (adj. from Pyrene) Belonging to the Pyrenes.
Pyrenes (s. from Pyrene) The ridge of mountains which divide France and Spain, the Pyrenean mountains.
Pyrenoides (s. in anatomy) The process of the second vertebra of the neck.
Pyrethrum (s. in botany) The wild pellitory.
Pyretic (s. from the Greek, πυρετός a fever) A medicine for a fever.
Pyretology (s. from the Greek, πυρετός a fever, and λόγος a description) A treatise on fevers.
Pyris (s. from the Greek, πυρ fire) A precious stone which being rubbed will burn the fingers.
Pyris (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the thigh.
Pyris (s.) The pearmain, a kind of apple.
Pyrites (s. from the Greek) The fire stone, a semimetal supposed to be the marcasite of copper.
Pyrmont (s. in geography) A district or county in Germany, the capital of that county famous for the best mineral waters in Germany.
Pyrmont (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Pyrmont, brought from Pyrmont.
Pyroboli (s. from the Greek, πυρ fire, and βάλλω to throw) The fireworks of the ancients, fireballs.
Pyrobolic (adj. from pyroboli) Belonging to the fireballs or bombs of the ancients.
Pyrobolist (s. from pyroboli) A maker of fireworks.
Pyroboly (s. from pyroboli) The art of making or throwing fireworks.
Pyrochus (s. from the Greek, πυρ fire, and οὖρος urine) The rectified spirit of wine.
Pyroet (s. in the manae) An entire and very narrow turn made by a horse on one tread.
Pyrogonos (s. in the history of insects) The firefly.
Pyrola (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the wintergreen.
Pyromancy (s. from the Greek, πυρ fire, and μαντεία magic) Divination by fire.
Pyropus (s. in natural history) A carbuncle, a ruby.
Pyros (s. in botany, from the Greek) A kind of wheat.
Pyrosis (s. from the Greek) A morbid redness of the face.
Pyrotechnian (s. from pyrotechnic) A maker of fireworks.
Pyrotechnic (adj. from the Greek, πυρ fire, and τέχνη art) Skilled in fireworks.
Pyrotechnical (adj. from pyrotechnic) Versed in the art of fireworks, belonging to the art of managing fire.
Pyrotechnician (s. from pyrotechnic) A maker of fireworks. Scott.

Pyrotechnics (s. from pyrotechnic) The art of employing fire to the purposes of use or pleasure.
Pyrotechny (s. from pyrotechnic) The art of managing fire.
Pyrotic (adj. from the Greek, πυρ fire) Cautic, burning.
Pyrotic (s. from the adj.) A cautic, a medicine which burns like fire.
Pyrroha (s. in the mythology of the poets) The wife of Deucalion and supposed mother of mankind.
Pyrhic (adj. from Pyrrhus) Belonging to a quick kind of dance first used by Pyrrhus.
Pyrhic (s. from the adj. put absolutely) A quick kind of dance in armour.
Pyrrochius (s. in poetry, from the Greek, πυρρῆχος) A foot consisting of two short syllables.
Pyrroho (s.) The name of a man; a Greek philosopher who held that there was no certainty in any thing.
Pyrrochocorax (s. in ornithology) A kind of crow, a Cornish chough so called from the redness of its bill.
Pyrrohoan (s. from Pyrrho) One of the disciples of Pyrrho, a sceptic. D. of Arts.
Pyrrohoi (s. plu. from Pyrrho) The disciples of Pyrrho. Philips.
Pyrrohoian (s. a different spelling, from Pyrrho) A disciple of Pyrrho, a sceptic. D. of Arts.
Pyrrohoism (s. from Pyrrho) Scepticism, universal doubt.
Pyrrohoicilos (s. in natural history) A kind of marble of which the Egyptians made the obelisks which they dedicated to the sun.
Pyrrohuia (s. in ornithology) The bulfinch.
Pyrrohus (s. in the mythology of the poets) A man's name, the son of Achilles who is said to have danced in armour at his father's tomb, the inventor of the pyrrhic dance.
Pyrus (s. in botany) The pear tree, the fruit of the pear tree.
Pythagoras (s.) The name of a man, one of the most celebrated of the ancient philosophers.
Pythagorean (adj. from Pythagoras) Belonging to Pythagoras, taught by Pythagoras.
Pythagorean (s. from the adj.) A follower of Pythagoras.
Pythagoreanism (s. from Pythagorean) The doctrine or principles of the Pythagoreans.
Pythagoric (adj. from Pythagoras) Belonging to a point, a line, a surface, of a solid; pertaining to the tetractis of the ancients.
Pythagorical (adj. from Pythagoric) Belonging to Pythagoras. Cole.
Pythagoricism (s. from Pythagoric) The doctrine of the Pythagoreans. Cole.
Pythia (s. in antiquity) The priestess of Apollo at Delphos.
Pythia (s. in antiquity) The Pythian games.
Pythian (adj. from Pythia) Belonging to Apollo, pertaining to the games celebrated at Delphos in honour of Apollo.
Pythius (s. in beaten mythology) Apollo so called on account of his killing the Python.
Pytho (s. in ancient geography) The city of Delphos, so called from the oracle of Apollo.
Pythion (s. in beaten mythology, from the Greek, πύθω to corrupt) A monstrous serpent supposed to have been engendered of the mud after the deluge, and said to have been shot by Apollo.
Pythion (s. from Pythius, Apollo) A spirit of divination, one possessed with a spirit of prophecy.
Pythoneis (s. from Python) A woman possessed with a spirit of divination, a female possessed with the spirit of Python; a sorceress.
Pythonic (adj. from Python) Belonging to the spirit of Python. Cole.
Pythionism (s. from Python) The art of foretelling future events by the spirit of Python. Cole.
Pyulcus (s. in surgery, from the Greek, πυλῆξ, and ἐλκεω to draw) An instrument to extract matter from a sinuous ulcer.
PYX (s. from the Greek, πύξ) The vessel in which the Papists keep the consecrated water.
PYXACANTHA (s. in botany) The boxthorn, the barberry tree.
PYXID'IUM (s. in botany) A genus of mosses; the cup moss.
PYXIS (s. in anatomy) The cavity of the hip bone.

QUA

PYXISNAUTICA (s. from the Lat. pyxis a box, and nauticus a seaman) The mariner's compass.

Q.

Q. (s.) The sixteenth letter of the English alphabet; as an old Latin numeral it stands for five hundred, and with a dash over it for five hundred thousand; as a contraction it stands for the Lat. quod which, quasi as if, quantum a quantity, and Quintus a man's name.

Quaak (v. int. from the sound) To quack, to cry like a duck. Johnson.

Quacking (p. a. from quaak) Making the cry of a duck.

QUAB (s. supposed to be from the Lat. gobius) The name of a fish.

QUACK (v. int. from the Dutch. quacken) To cry like a duck; to chatter, to boast, to talk ostentatiously; to act the part of a boasting pretender to physic; with of: as, "To quack of universal cures."

Quack (s. from the verb) An empiric, a boastful pretender to physic, an artful tricking pretender to physic; a pretender to any art or profession.

Quack (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to a pretender in physic, prescribed by a pretender to physic. "A quack medicine."

Quackery (s. from quack) The practice of a pretender to physic, the prescriptions of a quack.

Quacking (p. a. from quack) Making the cry of a duck; practising in any art or profession without a due knowledge of it.

Quacking (s. from the part.) The cry of a duck. Bailey.

Quackingheat (s. a cant word) A duck.

Quackism (s. from quack) The practice of quackery.

Quacksalver (s. from quack, and salve) A quack, a boastful pretender to physic. Boston.

Quad, Quade (adj. obsolete) Bad, unhappy. Chaucer.

QUAD/RI (s. in old geography) An ancient people of Germany.

QUAD/RA (s. in architecture) A square frame or border.

QUADRAGEM/INI (s. in anatomy) Four muscles of the thigh.

QUADRAGEN/VOUS (adj. from the Lat. quadragenarius, but not used) Consisting of forty. Cole.

QUADRAGES/IMA (s. from the Lat.) The time of Lent, so called because it continues forty days.

Quadragesimal (adj. from quadragesima) Belonging to Lent, used in Lent.

Quadragesimal (s. from the adj.) The offering made on midlent Sunday.

QUAD/RAN (s. in poetry) A stanza consisting of four verses.

QUADRANG/LE (s. from the Lat. quadratus quartered, and angulus a corner) A square, a surface with four right angles.

Quadrangular (adj. from quadrangle) Having four right angles.

QUAD/RANS (s. from the Lat.) The fourth part of any thing; three ounces, the fourth part of an as.

Quad/rant (s. from quadrans) The fourth part, the quarter; the quarter of a circle, an instrument much used in taking altitudes.

Quadrant/a (s. in old records) A quarter of an acre.

Quadrant/al (adj. from quadrant) Included in the fourth part of a circle.

QUAD/RAT (s. in astrology) The quartile, the aspect which includes a fourth part of the heavens.

Quad/rat (s. in printing) A piece of metal formed like a letter to fill up the void space between the words.

QUADRA/TA (s. among the Romans) A legion consisting of four thousand men.

QUAD/RATE (v. int. from the Lat. quadro to quarter) To suit, to be accommodated; with with: as, "To quadrate exactly with the heroic poems."

Quad/rate (adj. from the verb) Having four equal and parallel sides, divided into four equal parts; suited, applicable; with to: as, "Quadrate to both." Harvey.

Quad/rate (s. from the adj.) A square, a surface with four right angles; an aspect including one fourth part of the heavens.

QUADRAT/IC (adj. from the Lat. quadratus) Belonging to a square, containing the second power.

Quadrat/ic (s. from the adj.) An equation in algebra containing the second and no higher power of the unknown quantity.

QUA

QUADRA/TO, QUADRA/TUM (s. from the Lat.) The fourth power, a number or quantity multiplied four times into itself.

QUADRA/TRIX (s. in geometry) A square, a square figure; a mechanical line to determine the length of any part of a circle or curve.

QUAD/RATURE (s. from the Lat. quadratura) The act of squaring, the state of being square; the first and last quarter of the moon.

QUADRA/TUS (s. in anatomy) The name of several muscles denominated by the parts of the body in which they are situate.

QUAD/REL (s. in ancient architecture) An artificial form of a square form.

QUADREN/NIAL (adj. from the Lat. quatuor four, and annus a year) Comprising four years, happening once in four years.

QUAD/RIBLE (adj. from the Lat. quadro to square) Capable of being squared.

QUADRICAP/SULAR (adj. in botany, from the Lat. quatuor four, and capsula a seed vessel) Having the seed vessel divided into four partitions.

QUAD/RICORNOUS (adj. from the Lat. quatuor four, and cornu a horn) Having four horns.

QUAD/RIFID (adj. from the Lat. quatuor four, and findo to cleave) Cloven into four divisions.

QUAD/RIGA (s. in antiquity) A car, a chariot drawn by four horses.

QUADRIG/AMIST (s. from the Lat. quatuor four, and the Greek, γαμος a marriage, but not used) One four times married.

Quadrigr/amous (adj. from quadriga) Belonging to a chariot drawn by four horses.

QUADRIGEM/INUS (s. in anatomy) An assemblage of muscles serving to turn the thigh outward.

QUADRIGENA/RIOUS (adj. from the Lat. quadrigenarius) Consisting of forty.

QUADRILAT/ERAL (adj. from the Lat. quatuor four, and latus a side) Having four sides.

Quadrilat/eralness (s. from quadrilateral) The state or property of having four rectilinear sides and as many angles.

QUAD/RILL, QUADRIL/LA (s. in old customs) A small troop of cavaliers dressed and mounted in a pompous manner for jousts and tournaments, or other diversions of gallantry.

QUADRIL/LE (s.) A particular game at cards.

QUAD/RIN (s. from the Lat. quadrinus) A mite, a small piece of money in value about one farthing.

QUADRINGENA/RIOUS (adj. from the Lat. quadrigenarius, but not used) Containing four hundred.

QUADRINOM/IAL (adj. from the Lat. quatuor four, and nomen a name) Consisting of four denominations, consisting of four terms in algebra.

Quadrinom/ial (s. from the adj.) A quantity consisting of four terms or numbers in algebra.

Quadrinom/ical (adj. a different spelling) Quadrinom/ial. Johnson.

QUAD/RIPARTITE (adj. from the Lat. quatuor four, and pars a part) Having four parts, divided into four parts.

Quad/ripartitely (adv. from quadripartite) With four parts, in four parts.

Quadriparti/tion (s. from quadripartite) A division by four.

QUADRIPHYL/LOUS (adj. from the Lat. quatuor four, and the Greek φύλλον a leaf) Having four leaves.

QUADRIRE/ME (s. from the Lat. quatuor four, and remus an oar) A galley with four benches of oars.

QUADRIRE/MIS (s. from the Lat.) A galley with four benches of oars.

QUADRISYL/LABLE (s. from the Lat. quatuor four, and the Greek συλλαβή a syllable) A word consisting of four syllables.

QUADRIVAL/VES (s. from the Lat. quatuor four, and valva folds) Doors with four leaves or folds.

QUADRIV/IAL (adj. from the Lat. quatuor four, and via a way) Having four ways meeting in one point.

QUADRIV/IVUM (s. from the Lat.) A place where four ways meet.

Quadruga/ta (s. in old records) As much land as can be filled with four horses.

QUAD/RUPED (s. from the Lat. quatuor four, and pes a foot) An animal that goes on four feet.

Quad/ruped (adj. from the sub.) Having four feet, going on four feet.

Quad/rupedal (adj. from quadruped) Having four feet, going on four feet.

QUA

QUA

quadrupedant (adj. from quadruped) Going on four feet.
quadrupede (s. a different spelling) A quadruped. Scott.
quadrupedian (adj. from quadruped) Represented by four-footed beasts.
quadrupedous (adj. from quadruped) Quadrupedal, going on four feet. Scott.
quadruplatores (s. in the court of exchequer) The promoters who in penal actions have a part of the profits assigned them by the law.
quadruple (adj. from the Lat. quadruplus) Fourfold, told four times over.
quadrupled (adj. from quadruple) Made fourfold.
quadruplicate (v. t. from the Lat. quatuor four, and plico to fold) To make fourfold.
quadruplicate (s. from the verb) That which is folded four times. Scott.
quadruplicated (p. from quadruplicate) Made fourfold.
quadruplicating (p. a. from quadruplicate) Folding twice, making fourfold.
quadruplication (s. from quadruplicate) The act of making fourfold.
quadruply (adv. from quadruple) In a quadruple proportion.
quære (v. int. from the Lat. used only in the imperative mode) Enquire, seek, suppose.
quære (s. from the verb) A question, a doubt.
quære (v. int. a different spelling) Quære, suppose. Scott.
quæried (p. from quære) Asked, enquired, doubted.
quæry (s. from quære) A quære, a doubt.
quærying (p. a. from quære) Enquiring, questioning, doubting.
quæsta (s. in antiquity) An indulgence or remission of penance expiated to sale by the pope.
quæstor (s. in old customs) A Roman officer who had the care of the public money.
quæstus (s. from the Lat.) Gain, advantage; land gained by labour or industry not depending on hereditary right.
quæsty (s. from quæsta) A remission of penance, quæsta.
quaff (v. t. of uncertain etymology) To drink, to swallow in large draughts.
quaff (v. int.) To swallow luxuriously.
quaffed (p. from quaff) Drunk off in large draughts.
quaffer (v. int.) To make a noise like ducks in groping out their meat. Durham.
quaffer (s. from quaff) One who quaffs.
quaffing (p. a. from quaff) Drinking, drinking off in large draughts.
quaffed (v. t. pret. of quaff) Did quaff. Shakespeare.
quaffed (p. from quaff) Quaffed, drunk off in large draughts.
quag (s. perhaps from quake) A bog, a quagmire.
quaggy (adj. comp. of quaggy) Quaggy in a greater degree.
quaggiest (adj. sup. of quaggy) Quaggy in the greatest degree.
quaggy (adj. from quag) Boggy, soft, shaking under the feet.
quagmire (s. from quag, and mire) A bog, a bog that trembles under the feet.
quaggy (adj. obsolete) Crushed, dejected, depressed. Sp.
quaglia (s. from the Italian quaglia) The name of a bird.
quail (v. t. from the Sax. cwellen) To quell, to crush, to overpower. Daniel.
quail (v. int. from the Dutch quailen) To languish, to sink into dejection. Herbert.
quailed (p. from quail) Dejected, depressed. Johnson.
quailing (p. a. from quail) Languishing, sinking into dejection; crushing, quelling. Hazewell.
quailing (s. from the part.) Dejection. Shakespeare.
quailpipe (s. from quail, and pipe) A pipe to allure quails.
quaint (adj. from the Lat. comptus) Nice, scrupulously exact, having petty elegance; neat, pretty; the spirit, subtly excogitated: affected, foppish; dejected, overpowered; but these senses are not so proper, or now become obsolete.
quaint (adj. the old spelling) Nice, neat, odd, strange. Chaucer.
quainter (adj. comp. of quaint) Quaint in a greater degree.
quaintest (adj. sup. of quaint) Quaint in the greatest degree.
quaintures (s. an old word) Odd kind of fits. Bailey.

quaintly (adv. from quaint) Nicely, exactly, with petty elegance; artfully, ingeniously; but these senses are not current.
quaintness (s. from quaint) Nicety, petty elegance.
quaire (s. an obsolete spelling) A quire, a little book, a pamphlet. Chaucer.
quake (v. int. from the Sax. cwacan) To shake, to tremble, to shiver with cold or fear.
quake (s. from the verb) A shudder, a tremulous motion.
quaker (s. from quake) One of a religious sect which made its first appearance in England during the protectorship of Oliver Cromwell, and were so called from some unusual tremblings with which they were seized at their first meetings.
quakerism (s. from Quaker) The principles or religion of the Quakers.
quaking (p. a. from quake) Shaking, trembling, shivering with cold or fear.
quaking (s. from the part.) A shivering fit.
quakinggrass (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
quakk (s. from the sound) The inarticulate noise which one makes at any hard labour. Chaucer.
qualification (s. from qualify) An accomplishment, that which makes fit; that which puts a man under the protection of the law in any office or profession.
qualificator (s. from qualify) An ecclesiastic appointed to qualify or prepare a proposition to be laid before a spiritual court.
qualified (p. from qualify) Fitted for, accomplished; softened, diminished; made capable of any employment or privilege.
QUALIFY (v. t. from the Lat. qualis such, and facio to make) To fit for, to furnish with proper accomplishments; to abate, to soften, to assuage, to modify, to render capable of any employment or privilege.
qualifying (p. a. from qualify) Fitting for, furnishing with requisite accomplishments; softening, modifying, rendering capable of any employment or privilege.
QUALITY (s. from the Lat. qualitas) The property, the nature, particular efficacy, disposition, temper, rank, superiority of birth or station, people of rank.
qualityman (s. from quality, and man) One appointed to determine the quality of any thing.
qualitymen (s. plu.) More than one qualityman.
qually (adj. a cant word) Turbulent, foul as wine.
QUALM (s. from the Sax. cwealm) A sudden fit of sickness, a sudden seizure of sickly languor. qualm (s. an old word) A calm, calmness; the noise or cry of ravens. Cole.
qualme (s. the old spelling) A qualm; grief, sickness. Chaucer.
qualmish (adj. from qualm) Sickish at the stomach, seized with a sudden sickness.
qualmishness (s. from qualmish) The state of being qualmish.
QUAMOCUIT (s. in botany) The ipomæa, a genus of plants.
QUANDARY (s. a low or droll word) A difficulty, an uncertainty, a doubt. Johnson.
QUANDO (s. with metaphysicians, from the Lat.) The duration of being in time. Scott.
quantitative (adj. from quantity) Estimable according to quantity.
QUANTITY (s. from the Lat. quantitas) The weight, the measure, the bulk; a portion, a large portion; the measure of time in pronouncing a syllable.
QUANTUM (s. from the Lat.) the quantity, the amount.
Quap, Quappe (v. int. an old word) To quake. Ch.
QUARANTAIN, QUARANTINE (s. from the French) The space of forty days, being the time which a ship suspected of infection is obliged to forbear intercourse with the inhabitants of the place where it arrives.
Quarantain (s. a law term) The right of a widow to remain in the chief messuage or mansion-house of her husband for the space of forty days after his decease.
Quarantine (s. a different spelling) The quarantain. Swift.
Quaranty (s. from quarantain) The space of forty days, a quarantain. Cole.
QUARDECUE (s. from the French) The fourth part of a French crown.
QUARE (s. a law term) The title prefixed to several writs.
Quarel (s. obsolete) A short kind of dart shot out of a cross bow. Chaucer.
Quarel (s. a law term) A complaint, an action at law. Cole.

QUA

QUA

Quar'entain (s. a different spelling) The quarantain, the space of forty days in which a ships company suspected of infection are prohibited commerce. Scott.

Quar'ente'na (s. in old records) A furlong, a quantity of land containing forty perches.

Quar'entene (s. a different spelling) Quarantain. Cole.

QUAR'IATES (s. in ancient geography) A people of France near the Alps.

Quar'ria (s. in old records) A quarry of stone.

QUAR'REL (s. from the French querelle) A petty fight, a scuffle; a dispute, a contest; a cause of debate, something that gives rise to mischief; objection, ill will.

Quar'rel (v. int. from the sub.) To debate, to fall out, to squabble; to fight, to combat; to find fault, to raise objections.

Quar'rel (s. obsolete) An arrow with a square head. Cam.

Quar'rel (s. a colloquial word) A square pane of glass.

Quarrel'ler (s. from quarrel) One that quarrels.

Quarrell'ing (p. a. from quarrel) Falling out, debating, combating, finding fault.

Quarrell'ing (s. from the part.) The act of falling out, a quarrel, a dispute.

Quarrellous (adj. from quarrel) Petulant, quarrelsome. Shakespeare.

Quarrellsome (adj. from quarrel) Inclined to quarrel, cholerick, petulant.

Quarrellsome (adv. from quarrel) With inclination to quarrel, with petulance.

Quarrellomeness (s. from quarrellsome) Petulance, inclination to quarrel.

QUAR'RIL (s. from the Spanish) A piece of coin in value about three half-pence.

Quar'rington (s.) The name of an early apple.

Quar'ron (s. a cant word) A body, the body.

QUARRY (s. from the French quarré) A square, an arrow with a square head, a square piece of glass.

QUARRY (s. from the Irish carrig) A stone mine, a place where stones are digged.

Quar'ry (s. in falconry) The game flown at by a hawk, the game killed by the hawk.

Quar'ry (v. int. from the sub.) To prey upon. Johnson.

Quar'rying (p. a. from quarry) Preying on. L'Estrange.

Quar'tyman (s. from quarry, and man) A man who digs stones in a quarry.

QUART (s. from the French) The fourth part of a gallon, the vessel in which strong beer is generally retailed; a sequence of four cards at piquet; a quarter, a fourth part. Spenser.

QUARTA (s. in music-books) The fourth in number.

QUARTAGOTTA (s. from the Italian) A small balloon.

QUART'AN (adj. from the Lat. quartanus) Returning every fourth day.

Quart'an (s. from the adj.) An ague returning every fourth day, that kind of ague in which the patient has two fits in four days, the third day's ague.

QUARTARIUS (s. from the Lat.) The fourth part of the Roman congius.

QUARTARY (s. from the Lat. quatuor four, but not much used) The fourth part of a sextary; a quarter of a pound. Cole.

QUARTATION (s. from the Lat. quartus) A method of refining gold in which three parts of silver and one of gold are melted together, and afterwards separated by a solution of aqua fortis.

Quart'blanche (s. at piquet, from quart and blanche) A sequence of four small cards.

Quart'ebanche (s. a different spelling) A quartblanche, a sequence of four small cards. Hayle.

QUAR'TELOIS (s.) A kind of surtout, the habit of our ancient English knights in their warlike expeditions. Scott.

QUAR'TER (s. from the Lat. quatuor four) A fourth part; a region of the skies; a particular part of a city or town, a particular region of the country, one of the four parts of the world; a station, a place where soldiers are quartered; the shoulder and fore leg, the hip and hinder leg of a horse; the side of a horse's hoof comprehended between the toe and the heel; the piece of leather or cloth that hangs below the skirt of a saddle; the treatment shown to an enemy; the remission of the mercy granted by a conqueror; a small piece of timber sawed out for joists or rafters; a measure of eight bushels; frien ship, amity; but this sense is not sufficiently authorized. Shakespeare.

Quarter (v. t. from the sub.) To divide into four parts, to divide into distinct regions; to lodge, to diet, to station or lodge soldiers; to bear as an appendage to hereditary arms.

Quarter (adj. from the sub. much used in composition) Consisting of a fourth part.

Quarterage (s. from quarter) A quarterly allowance.

Quarterbill (s. a sea term) The list or roll containing the different stations of all the officers and men of ships crew in time of action.

Quarterbullet (s. from quarter, and bullet) A bullet divided into four or eight parts.

Quartercloth (s. a sea term) A long piece of painted canvas extending from the upper part of the gallery to the gangway.

Quarterday (s. from quarter, and day) The day which begins any one of the four quarters of the year.

Quarterdeck (s. a sea term) The short upper deck of a ship.

Quartered (p. from quarter) Divided into four parts, lodged as soldiers.

Quartergallery (s. a sea term) A sort of small balcony on the quarter of a ship.

Quartergunner (s. from quarter, and gunner) An inferior officer under the direction of the master gunner on board a ship of war.

Quarteridge (s. not so common a spelling) Quarterage, quarterly allowance.

Quartering (p. a. from quarter) Dividing into four parts, lodging, stationing as soldiers.

Quartering (s. from the part.) The act of dividing into four parts, that which is divided into four parts.

Quarteringwind (s. a sea term) A quarterwind.

Quarterintrenched (s. a military term) A place fortified with a ditch and a parapet.

Quarterization (s. from quarter) That term of punishment in which the criminal is to be drawn and quartered. Dict. of Law.

Quarterly (adj. from quarter) Containing a fourth part, done every quarter.

Quarterly (adv. from the adj.) Once in the quarter, a year, one to every quarter.

Quartermaster (s. from quarter, and master) An officer who regulates the quarters of soldiers.

Quartertern (s. from quarter) A gill, a quarter of a pint, a quarter.

Quarternetting (s. a sea term) A sort of network extending along the rails on the upper part of a ship's quarter.

Quarteround (s. in architecture) A member or ornament consisting of one fourth part of a circle.

Quarterpierced (adj. in heraldry) Having a hole square figure in the middle of a cross.

Quarterrail (s. a sea term) One of the narrow moulded planks reaching from the top of the stern to the gangway.

Quarters (s. the plu. more used than the singular) The part of a clock which strikes every quarter of an hour, the place where soldiers are quartered.

Quarteressions (s. from quarter, and sessions) A court held every quarter by the justices in every county.

Quarterstaff (s. from quarter, and staff) A staff of defence formerly much in use.

Quarterwaiter (s. from quarter, and waiter) An officer who attends in his turn for a quarter of a year of princes court.

Quarterwatch (s. from quarter, and watch) The watch in which one quarter of the ship's company are employed.

Quarterwheeling (s. a military term) That motion in which the front of a body of men takes the place of the flank by moving in the quarter of a circle.

Quarterwind (s. a sea term) A side wind.

QUAR'TILE (s. in astrology) That aspect of any two of the heavenly bodies in which they are ninety degrees distant from each other.

Quart'major (s. from quart, and major) A sequence of the four best cards at piquet.

QUARTO (s. from the Lat. quartus the fourth) A book in which every sheet makes four leaves.

QUARTODECIMAN (s. in church history) One of the christians in the second century who contended for observation of Easter on the fourteenth day of the moon of the first month in conformity to the custom of the Jews.

QUARTODECIMANI (s. plu.) The quartodecimans.

QUARTUS (s.) A man's name.

QUARTZUM (s. in natural history) A kind of mineral.

QUASH (v. t. from the Lat. quasso to shake) To squeeze, to subdue, to overpower; to annul, to make void.

Quath (v. int.) To be shaken with a noise.

Quath (s. in botany) A pompion.

QUE

quashed (p. from quash) Crushed, subdued, made void, annulled.
 quashing (p. a. from quash) Crushing, subduing, annulling.
 quashing (s. from the part.) The act of annulling, the act of setting aside an indictment.
 QUASICONTRACT (s. a law term) An act which, though it has not the form, yet is supposed to have the force of a contract.
 QUASITIME (s. in civil law) The action of a person who does damage involuntarily.
 QUASIDELICT (s. in civil law) The act of doing an injury involuntarily which is to be compensated by repairing the damage with interest.
 QUASIMODO (adj. from the first words of the hymn sung at mass on Low Sunday) Belonging to Low Sunday, belonging to the next Sunday after Easter.
 QUASSATION (s. from the Lat. quassid to shake) The act of brandishing a weapon, the act of shaking any thing to pieces.
 QUATER (s. from the Lat. quater four times) A four.
 QUATERCOUSIN (s. from quater, and cousin) A cousin of the fourth degree, the last degree of kindred; a quatercousin.
 QUATERNARY (s. from the Lat. quaternarius) The number four.
 QUATERNARY (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to a quaternary.
 QUATERNIO (s. an old word) A quarto. Bailey.
 QUATERNION (s. from the Lat. quaternio) the number four.
 QUATERNITY (s. from quater) The number four.
 QUATERNUS (s. an old word) A quarto. Bailey.
 QUATORZE (s. at piquet) Four cards of the same denomination.
 QUATRAIN (s. from the French) A stanza of four lines rhyming alternately.
 QUATRE (s. at backgammon) A four.
 QUATREPOINT (s. at backgammon) The fourth point.
 QUATRIO (s. in anatomy) One of the bones which constitute the tarsus.
 QUATORVIR (s. in Roman antiquity) A magistrate who had three more joined with him in the administration.
 QUAVER (s. in music, from the Lat. quatio to shake) A note equal in time to half a crotchet; a shake of the voice.
 QUAVER (v. int. from the sub.) To shake the voice, to utter with a tremulous voice; to tremble, to vibrate.
 QUAVERING (p. a. from quaver) shaking the voice, trembling, vibrating.
 QUAVERING (s. from the part.) The act of shaking the voice.
 QUAVYVER (s. in ichthyology) The sea dragon.
 QUAY (s. from the French quai) A key, an artificial bank on which goods are conveniently unladen.
 QUAY (s. an old word) A quick set; a place overgrown with bushes. Scott.
 QUEAN (s. of uncertain derivation, and now grown nearly obsolete) A slut, a drab, a worthless woman, a woman of ill fame. Swift.
 QUEASINESS (s. from queasy) The sickness of a nauseated stomach.
 QUEASY (adj. of uncertain derivation) Sick with a nausea, causing a nausea, squeamish; with of, as, "Queasy of digestion." Dryden.
 QUEBEC (s. in geography) The capital of New France in North America now subject to the English.
 QUEENBORD (s. an old word) An unlawful kind of game prohibited by 17. Edw. IV.
 QUECK (v. int. perhaps from quick) To shrink at, to shew pain. Bacon.
 QUEED (s. an old word) The devil. Bailey.
 QUEEM (v. t. obsolete) To please. Spenser.
 QUEEN (s. from the Sax. cwen a wife) The wife of a king; a woman who is sovereign of a kingdom; a card on which a queen is depicted; one of the moveable pieces at chess.
 QUEEN (v. int. from the sub.) To act the part of a queen. Shakespeare.
 QUEENAPPLE (s.) The name of an apple.
 QUEENBOROUGH (s.) A borough town in Kent; it is situated in the life of Sheppey, has a market on Monday and Thursday, sends two members to parliament, and is 45 miles from London.
 QUEENBOROUGH (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Queenborough, made at Queenborough.
 QUEENDOWAGER (s. from queen and dowager) The widow of a king who lives on her dowry.

QUE

QUEEN/GOLD (s. from queen, and gold) A royal revenue belonging to the queen of England during the life of the king.
 QUEEN/ING (p. a. from queen) Acting the part of a queen. Shakespeare.
 QUEEN/ING (s.) The name of an apple.
 QUEENS/COUNTY (s. in geography) A county in Ireland.
 QUEENS/FERRY (s.) A town in Scotland about ten miles west of Edinburgh.
 QUEEN/SUIT (s. from queen and suit) That suit of cards in which you have the queen.
 QUEER (adj. the derivation is not noted) Odd, strange, original, particular.
 QUEERER (adj. comp. of queer) Queer in a greater degree.
 QUEEREST (adj. sup. of queer) Queer in the greatest degree.
 QUEERLY (adv. from queer) In a queer manner.
 QUEERNESS (s. from queer) Oddness, particularity.
 QUEEST (s. a local word) The wood pigeon, a ring-dove. Johnson.
 QUE'ESTATE (s. a law term) A plea in which a man alleges that the same estate which another man had he now holds from him.
 QUE'ESTMEME (s. a law term) The direct and positive justification of the very act complained of by the plaintiff.
 QUEIN (s. obsolete) A quean, a drab. Chaucer.
 QUEINT, QUEINTE (adj. obsolete) Quenched, put out. Ch.
 QUEIN/TICE, QUEIN/TISE (s. obsolete) Strangeness, oddness. Chaucer.
 QUEIN/TIE (adv. from queint, obsolete) Strangely, oddly. Chaucer.
 QUEK (s. obsolete) A sort of game. Chaucer.
 QUEL (v. t. obsolete) To destroy, to kill. Chaucer.
 QUELL (v. t. from the Sax. cwellen) To crush, to subdue; to kill; but this sense is now obsolete.
 QUELL (v. int.) To die. Spenser.
 QUELL (s. from the verb, but now grown obsolete) Murder. Shakespeare.
 QUELL'ED (p. from quell) Crushed, subdued; with with as, "Quelled with pain."
 QUELL'ER (s. from quell) One that quells.
 QUEMLING (p. a. from quell) Crushing, subduing.
 QUEL/QUECHOSE (s. from the French) A trifle, a kickshaw. Donne.
 QUEME (s. an old word) To please. Skinner.
 QUEMEN (v. t. obsolete) To please. Chaucer.
 QUENCH (v. t. from the Sax. cwencan) To put out, to extinguish fire; to allay thirst; to still any passion, to destroy.
 QUENCH (v. int.) To grow cool.
 QUENCHABLE (adj. from quench) Capable of being quenched.
 QUENCH'ED (p. from quench) Put out, extinguished, allayed, destroyed.
 QUENCH'ER (s. from quench) One that quenches.
 QUENCH/ING (p. a. from quench) Putting out, extinguishing, allaying.
 QUENCH'LESS (adj. from quench) Incapable of being quenched.
 QUENE (s. in heraldry) The tail of a beast.
 QUENE (s. an old spelling) A queen; a quean. Chaucer.
 QUEN/TISE (s. obsolete) Quaintness. Chaucer.
 QUEN/TIE (adv. obsolete) Quaintly. Chaucer.
 QUER/CINE (adj. not used) Belonging to the oak. Cole.
 QUER/CULA (s. in botany) The oak of Jerusalem.
 QUER/CULA MI'NOR (s. in botany) The germander.
 QUER/CULANE (adj. from quercus) Belonging to the oak, oaken. Cole.
 QUER/CUS (s. in botany from the Lat.) The oak.
 QUERO (s. an old spelling) A quire, a small book, a pamphlet. Chaucer.
 QUER'ELA (s. from the Lat.) A complaint exhibited in a court of justice.
 QUER'ELLE (s. from querela) A complaint to a court. Ayl.
 QUER'ELOUSE (adj. obsolete) Querulous.
 QUER'RENS (s. a law term from the Lat.) A plaintiff in some particular actions at law. Dict. of Arts.
 QUE'RENT (s. from querens) A complainant, a plaintiff. Johnson.
 QUE'RIED (p. from query) Questioned.
 QUERIMONIOUS (adj. from the Lat. querimonia a complaint) Querulous, complaining.
 QUERIMONIOUSLY (adv. from querimonious) With complaints, querulously.
 QUERIMONIOUSNESS (s. from querimonious) The state of being full of complaints.

QUE'RIST

QUE

QUE'RIST (s. from the Lat. quæro to enquire) An enquirer, one that proposes questions.

Queris'ta (s. in old records) A quirister.

Quer'ister (s. not so correct a spelling) A quirister, one that sings in a choir. Phillips.

Querk (s. not so common a spelling) A quirk, a quibble in law. Scott.

QUERN, QUERNE (s. from the Sax. cweorn) A hand mill; a churn.

QUER/PO (s. from cuerpo) A waistcoat, a dress close to the body. Dryden.

QUERQUED'ULA (s. in ornithology) The name of a water fowl, the teal.

Quer'rour (s. obsolete) A quarryman, one that digs in a quarry. Chaucer.

QUER'RY (s. from equerry) a groom belonging to a prince; the stable of a prince.

QUER'ULOUS (adj. from the Lat. querulus) Habitually complaining, mournfully complaining.

Quer'ulously (adv. from querulous) In a querulous manner, with habitual complaints.

Quer'ulousness (s. from querulous) The state of being querulous, the habit of complaining.

QUE'RY (s. from the Lat. quære) A question, an enquiry to be resolved.

Que'ry (v. int. from the sub.) To ask questions.

Que'ry (v. t.) To doubt of.

Que'rying (p. a. from query) Asking questions, starting a doubt.

QUESE (v. t. from the Lat. quæso to seek, but not used) To search after. Milton.

Quest'ed (s. in astrology) The person or thing enquired after.

QUEST (s. from the Lat. quæso to seek) A search, an act of seeking; an enquiry, an examination; people sent on some enquiry; a request, a desire; an empanelled jury, an inquest.

Quest (v. int. from the sub.) To go in search.

Ques'ta (s. in old records) An inquest.

Questant (s. from quest) A seeker, one that goes in quest of any thing.

Ques'ting (p. a. from quest) Going in search.

QUESTION (s. from the Lat. quæstio) An interrogation, an enquiry; a dispute, a subject of debate, a doubt; a thing to be determined; judicial examination; an endeavour to find. Shakespeare.

Ques'tion (v. t. from the sub.) To examine by questions, to doubt of, to have no confidence in.

Ques'tion (v. int.) To enquire, to debate by interrogations.

Ques'tionable (adj. from question) Doubtful, disputable; suspicious, liable to question.

Ques'tionableness (s. from questionable) The state of being questionable.

Ques'tionary (adj. from question) Asking questions, enquiring.

Ques'tioned (p. from question) Doubted, considered as doubtful.

Ques'tioner (s. from question) One that puts questions, an enquirer.

Questioning (p. a. from question) Asking questions, disputing, doubting.

Questionist (s. from question) One that puts questions; a candidate for bachelor of arts at Cambridge.

Ques'tionless (adj. from question) Certain, having no doubt.

Ques'tionless (adv. from the adj.) Without question, certainly.

Quest'man (s. from quest, and man) A stater of lawfuits, one who draws up prosecutions; one who enquires into the state of weights and measures in the city of London.

Quest'men (s. plu. of questman) More than one questman; the officers in the city of London who are authorized to enquire into the state of weights and measures.

Quest'monger (s. from quest, and monger) A questman, one that states lawfuits.

QUEST'OR (s. in Roman antiquity) An officer who had the management of the public treasure.

Quest'rif (s. from quest) A seeker, a pursuer. Shak.

QUES'TUARY (adj. from the Lat. quæstus gain) Studious of profit. Brown.

QUES'TUS (s. a law term) A real estate acquired by industry and not by hereditary right.

Quetch (v. int. a colloquial word) To quek, to budge, to winch. Scott.

Queth (v. t. obsolete) To bequeath. Chaucer.

QUEVE (s. in fortification) The swallows tail.

QUI

QUIB (s. the derivation is not noted) A sarcasm, a bitter kind of jest.

QUIB'BLE (v. int. from the Lat. quidlibet) To pun, to play on the sound of words; with upon: as "discourse and quibble upon in a formal way."

Quib'ble (s. from the verb) A pun, a play on the mere sound of words.

Quib'bler (s. from quibble) One that deals in quibbles, a punster.

Quib'bling (p. a. from quibble) Playing on the mere sound of words, punning.

QUICK (adj. from the Sax. cwic) Swift, nimble, done with speed; active, sprightly, ready; living, having life or feeling.

Quick (adv. from the adj.) Nimble, speedily, readily.

Quick (s. from the adj.) The living flesh, the sensitive parts; a living animal, a living plant; quick feet.

Quick'beam (s. in botany) A kind of wild ash.

Quick'e (adj. an old spelling) Quick, alive. Chaucer.

Quick'en (v. t. from quick) To make alive; to sharpen; to excite; to hasten, to accelerate.

Quick'en (v. int.) To come to life, to move with activity.

Quick'ened (p. from quicken) Made alive, sharpened; excited; hastened, accelerated.

Quick'ener (s. from quicken) One who quickens.

Quick'ening (p. a. from quicken) Making alive, exciting, hastening.

Quick'entree (s. in botany) The quickbeam.

Quick'er (adj. comp. of quick) Quick in a greater degree.

Quick'est (adj. sup. of quick) Quick in the greatest degree.

Quick'lime (s. from quick, and lime) Unslacked lime.

Quick'ly (adv. from quick) Nimble, speedily, actively.

Quick'ness (s. from quick) Swiftnefs, speed, briskness; activity; sensibility; sharpness, pungency.

Quick'sand (s. from quick, and sand) A kind of quagmire, a moving sand, unsolid ground.

Quick'set (s. from quick, and set) A living plant set to grow, a young plant of hawthorn.

Quick'set (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to living plants set to grow, composed of hawthorn plants set to grow.

Quick'sighted (adj. from quick, and sight) Having sharp sight.

Quick'sightedness (s. from quick and sighted) Sharpness of sight.

Quick'silver (s. in natural history, from quick, and silver) A mineral substance resembling melted silver.

Quick'silver (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to quicksilver, producing quicksilver.

Quick'silvered (adj. from quicksilver) Overlaid with quicksilver.

Quick'witted (adj. from quick, and wit) Having sharp wit.

Quick'work (s. a sea term) That part of a ship which is under the surface of the water.

Quid (s. a low word, probably from cud) A morsel to be held in the mouth and chewed, a small quantity of tobacco held in the mouth.

Quid (v. int. from the sub.) To chew tobacco.

QUID/DAM (s. from the Lat.) Somebody.

Quid'danet (s. a different spelling) Quiddany.

Quid'dant (s. from quiddany) A kind of confect which quiddany is a principal ingredient.

QUID/DANY (s. from the Lat. cydonium) Marmalade, confect of quinces.

Quid'deny (s. a different spelling) Quiddany, a confect of quinces. Phillips.

Quid'ding (p. a. a low word from quid) Chewing tobacco.

QUID'DIT (s. a low word from the Lat. quidlibet) An equivocation, a subtlety.

Quid'ditative (adj. from quiddity, a scholastic term) Essential to a thing.

QUID'DITY (s. a scholastic term. from the Lat. quidditas) The essence, that which answers to the question, what is it? A trifling suit, a cavil, a tedious question.

Quide (s. from cud) The cud; the inner part of the throat in beasts.

Quiente (adj. obsolete) Quenched, put out.

Quies'cence (s. from quiescent) Rest, repose.

Quies'cency (s. from quiescence) Rest, repose.

Quies'cent (adj. from the Lat. quiesco to rest) Lying at repose.

QUI

QUIET (adj. from the Lat. quietus) Still, free from disturbance, peaceable, unruffled, calm, smooth.
QUIET (s. from the adj.) Rest, repose, tranquillity, peace, security.
QUIET (v. t. from the adj.) To calm, to lull, to still, to pacify.
QUIETA'LIS (s. in heathen mythology) One of the names of Pluto.
QUIETA'RE (v. t. in old records) To acquit, to release.
QUIETED (p. from quiet) Stilled, laid to rest, appeased.
QUIETER (s. from quiet) One that quiets.
QUIETER (adj. comp. of quiet) Quiet in a greater degree.
QUIETEST (adj. sup. of quiet) Quiet in the greatest degree.
QUIETING (p. a. from quiet) Stilling, lulling, appeasing, satisfying.
QUIETISM (s. from quiet) The principles of the quietists; a perfect tranquillity.
QUIETIST (s. from quiet) One of a sect among the papists who hold that religion consists in the internal rest and recollection of the mind.
QUIETLY (adv. from quiet) Calmly, peaceably, without violence, without offence.
QUIETNESS (s. from quiet) Peace, tranquillity; stillness, calmness; coolness of temper.
QUIETNESS (adj. from quiet, but now grown obsolete) Calm, still, undisturbed. Spenser.
QUIETUDE (s. from quiet) Rest, repose, tranquillity. Wot.
QUIETUS (s. from the Lat.) A discharge, a full discharge from the exchequer; rest, death.
QUIKE (adj. obsolete) Quick, alive, living. Chaucer.
QUILL (s. probably from the Lat. caulis a stalk) The hard or strong feather of the wing; the instrument of writing; the instrument with which musicians strike their strings; the prick of a porcupine; the reed on which the weavers wind their threads for the shuttle.
QUILLER (s. from the Lat. quidlibet) A subtilty, a quibble, a fraudulent distinction. Hudibras.
QUILT (s. from the Lat. calcita) A covering for a bed, a petticoat for a woman made by stitching one cloth over another with some soft substance between.
QUILT (v. t. from the sub.) To stitch one cloth upon another with some soft substance between.
QUILTED (p. from quilt) Stitched together with some soft substance between.
QUILTER (s. from quilt) One that quilts.
QUILTING (p. a. from quilt) Stitching together with some soft substance between.
QUILTING (s. from the part.) The method of stitching pieces of cloth together severally with some soft substance between, that which is quilted.
QUILTING (adj. from the part.) Belonging to quilting, used in quilting.
QUINQUINA (s. not so common a word) The quinquina, the bark. Dict. of Arts.
QUINARIUS (s. from the Lat.) The number five; a Roman coin.
QUINARY (adj. from quinary) Consisting of five.
QUINCE (s. from the German quidden) The name of a tree, the fruit of the tree.
QUINCE TREE (s. in botany) The tree that produces the quince.
QUINCH (v. int. the derivation is not certain) To stir, to rouse as in pain or resentment. Johnson.
QUINCUNX (s. from the Lat. quinque five, and pes a foot) A rod five foot in length. Phillips.
QUINCUNXIAL (adj. from quincunx) Having the form of quincunx.
QUINCUNX (s. from the Lat.) A plantation of five trees disposed in a square one at each corner and the fifth in the middle, which repeated again and again forms a regular grove or orchard; five ounces, five twelfths; a measure of about half a pint, an aspect comprehending five signs.
QUINQUE DAL (adj. from the Lat. quinque five, and pes a foot) Consisting of five feet. Cole.
QUINQUE CAGON (s. in geometry, from the Lat. quinque five, and the Greek deca ten, and ywixa a corner) A plain figure of fifteen sides and angles.
QUINQUEMIR (s. from the Lat.) One of the quinquaginta.
QUINQUEMIRI (s. in Roman antiquity) A college of fifteen magistrates who presided over the sacrifices.
QUINGENARIUS (adj. from the Lat. quingenarius) Consisting of five hundred. Cole.
QUINQUEMIR (s. obsolete) A treble. Chaucer.
QUINGENARIUS (s. in Roman antiquity) An officer who had the command of fifty men.

QUI

QUINQUAGESIMA (adj. from the Lat.) Consisting of fifty, belonging to the first Sunday in Lent.
QUINQUAGESIMA (s. from the adj.) The first Sunday in Lent, Shrove Sunday.
QUINQUANGLE (adj. but not used) Quinquangular. Cole.
QUINQUANGULAR (adj. from the Lat. quinque five, and angulus an angle) Having five angles.
QUINQUARTICULAR (adj. from the Lat. quinque five, and articulus an article) Consisting of five articles.
QUINQUARTIA (s. in Roman antiquity) The festivals celebrated in honour of Minerva.
QUINQUE (adj. from the Lat.) Five; having five parts.
QUINQUEANGULED (adj. from the Lat. quinque five, and angulus an angle) Having five angles. Phillips.
QUINQUECAPSULAR (adj. from the Lat. quinque five, and capsula a seed vessel) Having the seed vessel divided into five partitions.
QUINQUEFID (adj. from the Lat. quinque five, and fido to cleave) Cloven into five parts.
QUINQUEFOLIATED (adj. from the Lat. quinque five, and folium a leaf) Having five leaves.
QUINQUELIBRAL (adj. from the Lat. quinque five, and libra a pound) Consisting of five pounds. Cole.
QUINQUENALIA (s. in Roman antiquity) The festivals celebrated every fifth year in honour of their deified emperors.
QUINQUENALIS (s. in Roman antiquity) A magistrate in the colonies who had much the same office as the ædile at Rome.
QUINQUENAL (adj. a different spelling) Quinquennial. Co.
QUINQUENNAL (adj. from the Lat. quinque five, and annus a year) Continuing five years, happening once in five years.
QUINQUEPARTITE (adj. from the Lat. quinque five, and pars a part) Consisting of five parts; divided into five parts.
QUINQUEREMIS (s. from the Lat. quinque five, and remus an oar) A galley with five oars on a seat.
QUINQUINA (s. in pharmacy) The Peruvian bark.
QUINSEY (s. not so common a spelling) A quinsy. Scott.
QUINSEY (s. from the Greek πυρρην) A tumid inflammation of the throat which sometimes induces suffocation.
QUINT (s. from the French) A set of five, a sequence of five cards of the same colour.
QUINTAIN (s. from the French) A quintin, a post driven into the ground with a buckler fixed to it for the performance of some military exercise.
QUINTAL (s. supposed to be from the Lat. centum) A hundred pound weight.
QUINTESSENCE (s. from the Lat. quinta fifth, and essentia essence) An exact form of any thing containing all its virtues in a small quantity; a fifth being. Watts.
QUINTESSENTIAL (adj. from quintessence) Containing the quintessence.
QUINTEXACT (s. a law term) The last call to a person sued to an outlawry.
QUINTIA (s.) The name of a woman.
QUINTIAN (adj. from Quintius) Belonging to a great family in Rome. Ainsworth.
QUINTILE (s. in astrology) An aspect of the planets comprehending seventy two degrees or a fifth part of the heavens.
QUINTILIA (s.) The name of a woman.
QUINTILIAN (s.) A man's name; a noted rhetorician.
QUINTILIAN (s. in church history, from Quintilia) One of an ancient sect who admitted women to perform the sacerdotal functions.
QUINTILIS (s. in the Roman Calendar) The month answering to our July.
QUINTIN (s. of uncertain derivation) A quintain, an upright post for the exercise of tilting; the exercise of tilting.
QUINTIN (s.) A man's name.
QUINTIUS (s.) A man's name, the head of a large family in Rome.
QUINTIMAJOR (s. from quint, and major) A sequence of the five best cards.
QUINTUPLE (adj. from the Lat. quintuplus) Fivefold.
QUINZAIN (s. from the French) A stanza consisting of fifteen lines.
QUINZEME, QUINZIEME (s. from the French) A fifteenth, a kind of tax; the fifteenth day after a festival.
QUINZY (s. not so common a spelling) A quinsy. D. of A.
QUIP (s. supposed to be from whip) A smart jest, a sarcasm.
QUIP (v. t. from the sub.) To rally with sarcasms.
QUIPPED (p. from quip) Rallied with sarcasms.

Quip/ping (p. a. from quip) Rallying with sarcasms.
QUIRE (s. from the Lat. chorus) A chorus, a body of singers; that part of a church where the service is sung.
QUIRE (s. from the French cahier) A bundle of paper usually consisting of twenty-four sheets.
QUIRE (v. int. from the sub.) To sing in concert.
QUIR'INAL (adj. from Quirinus) Belonging to Romulus.
Quirina'lia (s. from Quirinus) A festival celebrated in honour of Romulus.
Qui'ring (p. a. from quire) Singing in concert.
QUIR'INUS (s.) Romulus, the founder of the Roman empire so called after his consecration.
Qui'rister (s. from quire) A chorister, one who sings in concert.
QUIRITES (s. in ancient geography) The people of Rome; the Sabines.
QUIRK (s. of uncertain derivation) A quick stroke, a smart taunt, a subtilty, an artful distinction; a light kind of tune; a place taken out of a ground plot to make a court yard.
Qui'r'y (s. not so common a spelling) A query. Bailey.
QUIS (s. in natural history) A kind of marcasite of copper.
Quis'in (s. an old spelling) A cushion. Chau.
Quis'in (s. an old spelling) A cushion. Bailey.
Quis'trel (s. a local word) A proud tattling gossip. Rai.
Quis'tron (s. obsolete) One who went about soliciting alms under pretence of selling indulgences. Chaucer.
QUIT (v. t. from the French quiter) To discharge, to let free, to clear one's self, to vacate obligations, to clear a debt, to absolve, to acquit, to abandon, to forsake, to resign, to give up.
Quit (adj. from the verb) Free, clear, discharged.
Quit'able (s. from the Spanish) An umbrella.
Quitch (s. in botany) A kind of grafs very injurious to land.
Quitch'grafs (s. in botany) A rough kind of grafs which runs in ground and greatly impoverishes the land, couchgrafs. Mortimer.
Quit'claim (s. a law term) A release, a discharge; the act of quitting any claim or title to an estate.
QUITE (adv. the derivation is not certain) Completely, perfectly.
Quite (v. t. obsolete) To pay, to repay; to discharge, to free. Chaucer.
Quite (adj. obsolete) Free, quit. Chaucer.
Quit'rent (s. from quit, and rent) A small reserved rent.
Quits (interj. from quit) Implying that all is even.
Quit'tance (s. from quit) A receipt, a discharge from a debt, an acquittance, a recompence, a repayment.
Quit'tance (v. t. from the sub. but not used) To repay, to recompence. Shakespeare.
Quit'ted (p. from quit) Discharged, set free; abandoned, forsaken.
Quit'ter (s. from quit) One that quits.
Quit'ter (s. in natural history) The drofs of tin.
QUIT'TER (s. in farriery) A hard round swelling about the coronet of a horse's hoof.
Quit'terbone (s. in farriery) The quitter, a hard swelling on the foot of a horse just above the coronet.
Quit'ting (p. a. from quit) Discharging, setting free, carrying through, performing, acquitting, absolving, forsaking, resigning, giving up.
QUIVER (s. perhaps from cover) A case for arrows.
QUIVER (v. int. the etymology is uncertain) To quake, to shiver, to shudder.
Quiv'er (adj. not much used) Active, nimble. Shakespeare.
Quiv'ered (adj. from quiver) Furnished with a quiver, heated as in a quiver.
Quiv'ering (p. a. from quiver) Quaking, shivering, shaking.
Quiv'ering (s. from the part.) A shaking fit, a tremulous motion.
Quob (v. int. a low word) To move as the heart in throbbing. Johnson.
Quoddity (s. a burlesque word) A subtilty, a quiddity.
QUOD'LIBET (s. from the Lat.) A nice point, a subtilty.
Quodlibeta'rian (s. from quodlibet) One who talks on a nice point, a subtle disputant.
Quodlibet'ical (adj. from quodlibet) Nice, subtle, debated for curiosity or entertainment.
QUOIF (s. from the French coiffe) A cap, the cap of a sergeant at law.
Quoif (v. t. from the sub.) To cap, to furnish with a headdress.
Quoif'ed (p. from quoif) Furnished with a headdress.
Quoif'ure (s. from quoif) A headdress.
Quoif'ing (p. a. from quoif) Furnishing with a headdress.

Quoil (s. not so common a spelling) A coil, a turn, a bufile; a round of a rope.
Quoil (v. t. a sea term) To lay a rope in rounds or circles, to coil.
Quoil'ed (p. from quoil) Coiled, laid up in rounds as a rope.
Quoil'ing (p. a. from quoil) Coiling, laying in rounds as a rope.
Quoil'ing (s. from the part.) The turns of a rope, the act of laying up a rope in rounds.
QUOIN (s. from the French coin) A coiner; an instrument for raising warlike engines; a kind of wedge. Ainsworth.
QUOIT (s. from the Dutch coets) The discus of the ancients; something to be thrown at a distance to a certain point.
Quoit (v. t. from the sub.) To throw underhand.
Quoit'ed (p. from quoit) Thrown as a quoit.
Quoit'ing (p. a. from quoit) Throwing as a quoit.
Quoits (s. from quoit) The game in which the quoit or discus is thrown.
QUON'DAM (adj. from the Lat. used in droll style) Having been formerly.
Quook (v. t. the old pret. of quake) Did quake. Spenser.
QUORUM (s. from the Lat.) A bench of justices, a number of commissioners sufficient to do business; one or more commissioners without which the rest cannot proceed to business.
QUO'TA (s. from the Lat. quotus) A share, a proportion assigned to each.
Quota'tion (s. from quote) A citation, a passage adduced out of some author as an evidence or illustration.
QUOTE (v. t. from the French quoter) To quote an author, to cite a passage; to bring the words of another by way of evidence or illustration.
Quo'ted (p. from quote) Cited, adduced by way of evidence or illustration.
Quo'ted (adj. an old word) Cloyed, glutted. Bailey.
Quoter (s. from quote) One that quotes.
QUOTH (v. int. defective, and now used only in droll style) To say. "Quoth I," "Quoth you," "Quoth he."
Quoth'est (v. int. second person of quoth, but this is judged to be improper) Sayest. Sidney.
QUOTID'IAN (adj. from the Lat. quotidie) Daily, happening every day.
Quotidian (s. from the adj.) An ague or fever which returns every day.
QUOTIENT (s. from the Lat. quoties as often as) The number produced by the division of one given number by another.
Quo'ting (p. a. from quote) Citing from another, adducing by way of evidence or illustration from the words or works of another.
Quo'ted (adj. an old word) Cloyed, glutted. Colley.
Quoyl (s. an uncommon spelling) A coil, the round of a rope.
Quyke (s. an old word) A living beast. Pitt.
Quy're (s. an old hunting term) That part of a boar's trails which was given to the dogs.
Quys'taken (s. an old spelling) A cushion. Colley.

R.

R. (s.) The seventeenth letter, and thirteenth consonant of the English alphabet: as an old numeral it stands for eighty, and with a dash over it, for eighty thousand; as a contraction, it is frequently put for the Lat. rex a king, regina a queen, regius royal, and with physicians, for recipe take.
Raa (s. obsolete) A roe. Chaucer.
RA'AMAH (s. from the Heb. signifying a company) A man's name. Gen. 10.
RA'AMSES (s.) A city in Egypt. Exod. 1.
RA'BATE (v. int. in fa'conry, from the French rabattre) To descend, to recover the fist as a hawk after the hand has been lowered.
Ra'bating (p. a. from rabate) Descending, recovering the fist after the hand has been lowered.
RABA'TO (s. from the French rabat) An ornament for the neck, a kind of ruff. Shakespeare.
RAB'BAH (s. from the Heb. signifying powerful) A city of the Ammonites.
RAB'BATH (s. a different spelling) Rabbah, the name of a city.
RAB'BET (s. in zoology, of uncertain derivation) A rabbit, a well known animal. Scott.
RAB'BET

R A C

RABBIT (v. t. from the French rabattre) To pare down the edge of a board or piece of timber in order to join another to it, to join by putting one edge over another.

Rabbet (s. from the verb) The joint made by letting the edge of one board or piece of timber into the other; the groove which is made on the edge of one board or piece of timber in order to let in another.

Rabbeted (p. from rabbet) Joined by a rabbet, furnished with a groove on the edge.

Rabbeting (p. a. from rabbet) Joining with a rabbet, making a groove on the edge.

Rabbeting (s. from the part.) The act of making a groove on the edge, the method of joining with a rabbet.

Rabbeted (p. from rabbet, not so analogical a spelling) Rabbeted. Moxon.

RABBI (s. from the Heb. signifying master) A doctor or teacher among the Jews.

RABBIN (s. a different spelling) A rabbi, a Jewish doctor.

Rabbinical (adj. from rabbin) Relating to the rabbies.

Rabbinist (s. from rabbin) One well versed in the writings and opinions of the rabbies.

RABBIT (s. in zoology, from the Dutch robbeken) A well known animal; it lives on herbage, burrows in the ground, and is excellent food.

Rabbit (adj. from the sub. sometimes used in composition) Belonging to a rabbit.

Rabbit-hole (s. from rabbit, and hole) The burrow of a rabbit.

Rabbit-warren (s. from rabbit, and warren) A park or burrow for rabbits.

RABBLE (s. from the low Lat. rabula) A tumultuous crowd, an assembly of low people.

Rabblement (s. from rabble, but now grown obsolete, or used only in droll style) A crowd, an assembly of low people.

RHABDOIDES (s. in anatomy) The rhabdoides, the fatal future of the skull.

RHABDOLOGY (s. from the Greek ραβδος a rod, and λογος a word) Rhabdology, the method of computation by rods.

RHABDOMANCY (s. from the Greek ραβδος a rod, and μαντικη magic) Rhabdomancy, divination by means of rods.

Rabiate (adj. obsolete) Enraged, mad. Chaucer.

RABID (adj. from the Lat. rabidus) Furious, fierce, mad.

RABIES (s. from the Lat.) Madness.

RABINET (s. in gunnery) A piece of small ordnance, having the diameter of the bore one inch and a half.

Rabidity (s. from rabies) Fury, madness, fierceness.

RABMAG (s. from the Heb. signifying one who destroys multitude) A man's name. Jerem. 39.

RABACES (s.) The name of a man. Aboc.

RABARIS (s. from the Heb. signifying the master of the mounds) A man's name.

RABSHAKEH (s. from the Heb. signifying a chambering to the prince) A man's name.

RACA (s. from the Syrian signifying empty) A vain empty fellow.

COUPEE (adj. in heraldry) Coupee, cut shorter than usual.

Coupey (adj. in heraldry) Coupee, cut shorter than usual.

CE (s. from the Lat. radix a root) A genealogy, a family, a generation; a particular breed; a root of anger; a particular taste or strength of wine; a natural force of intellect. Temple.

CE (s. from the Islandick ras) A contest in running, course on the feet, a progress, a train, a process.

CE (v. t. obsolete) To tear, to pluck off, to draw out by force. Chaucer.

CE (s. a local word) Rennet, the maw of a calf with which milk is turned to curds in making cheese. Bai.

CEHORIE (s. from race, and horie) A running horse, a horse bred to run for prizes.

CEMATION (s. from the Lat. racemus) A cluster like that of grapes.

CEMIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. racemus a branch, and fero to bear) Bearing clusters.

CEMOSE (adj. from the Lat. racemus a branch) Full of clusters.

CE (s. from race) A runner, one that runs a race, a running horse.

CHAL (s. a different spelling) Raca, a term of reproach.

CHAL (s. from the Heb. signifying injurious) The name of a city. Sam.

R A D

RA'CHEL (s. from the Heb. signifying sheep) The name of a woman.

Rach'et (s. a law term) The fine for the redemption of a thief.

RACHLÆ'I (s. a different spelling) The rachitæ. Scott.

RACHI'TÆ (s. in anatomy) Muscles belonging to the back.

RACHITIS (s. with physicians) The rickets in children.

Ra'cier (adj. comp. of racy) Racy in a greater degree.

Ra'ciet (adj. sup. of racy) Racy in the greatest degree.

Ra'ciness (s. from racy) The state of being racy.

Ra'cing (adj. from race) Running in a race.

Ra'cing (s. from the adj.) The exercise of running in a race. Dict. of Arts.

RACK (s. from the Dutch racken to stretch) An engine to torture; torture, extreme pain; any instrument by which extension is performed, a frame on which cloth is stretched and put to dry; a kind of distaff. Dryden.

RACK (s. from the Dutch racke a track) An assemblage of clouds as extended and driven by the wind. Dryden.

RACK (s. from the Sax. wracca the binder part of the head) A neck of mutton cut for the table.

RACK (s. from the Islandick praeca binges) A grate, a wooden grate in which hay is served up to cattle.

RACK (s. in the manage) A pace between a trot and a walk, an amble.

RACK (s. in commerce) Arrac, a kind of spirit.

Rack (v. t. from the sub.) To torture, to harass, to screw, to stretch, to draw off from the lees.

Rack (v. int.) To stream as clouds before the wind. Job.

Rack'ed (p. from rack) Tortured on the rack, tormented, stretched on a rack, drawn off from the lees.

RACK'ET (s. from the French raquette) An instrument to strike the ball at tennis; an irregular clattering noise; a bustle, a disturbance; chiefly used in droll style.

Rack'ety (adj. from racket) Noisy, making a racket.

Rack'ing (p. a. from rack) Putting to the rack, torturing, stretching on a rack, streaming as clouds before the wind, drawing off the lees, ambling.

Rack'ing (s. from the part.) The process of stretching cloth on a rack to dry, the act of drawing off liquors from the lees.

Rack'ingpace (s. in the manage, from rack, and pace) A pace between an amble and a trot.

Rack'rent (s. from rack, and rent) Rent raised to the utmost.

Rack'renter (s. from rackrent) One who pays the utmost rent.

RACCOON (s. in zoology) An American animal resembling a badger.

RACY (adj. the derivation is not certain) Strong, flavoured, tasting of the soil.

Rad (v. t. the old pret. of read) Did read. Spenser.

Radd (v. t. the old pret. of read) Did read, did advise. Chaucer.

Rad'dings (s. in building) The arched copings of a wall.

RAD'DOCK (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird. Sb.

RAD'EGUND (s. from the Sax.) The name of a woman.

Rad'evore (s. obsolete) Tapestry, loomwork. Baucher.

Radgon'des (s. an old word) A kind of ulcer. Cole.

RADIÆ'I (s. in anatomy) The muscles of the radius.

RADIÆ'US (s. in anatomy) One of the muscles of the radius.

RA'DIAL (adj. in geometry, from radius) Belonging to a spiral curve whose ordinates terminate in a point as so many rays.

RADIÆ'LIS (s. in anatomy) One of the muscles of the radius.

Rad'iance (s. from radiant) Splendor, glitter.

Rad'iancy (s. from radiance) Brightness, sparkling lustre.

RA'DIANT (adj. from the Lat. radio to shine) Shining, sparkling, sending forth rays.

Rad'iantheis (s. from radiant) Radiance.

RAD'IMATE (v. int. from the Lat. radio to shine) To shine, to sparkle, to send forth rays.

Rad'iate (adj. from the verb, in botany) Having flower leaves in the manner of rays.

Rad'iated (adj. from radiate) Having rays, adorned with rays.

Rad'iating (p. a. from radiate) Sending forth rays.

Radia'tion (s. from radiate) The emission of rays, an emission from a point every way.

RAD'ICAL (adj. from the Lat. radix a root) Pertaining to the root, primitive, original; implanted by nature, serving to origination.

Radical'ity (s. from radical) The state of being radical, origination.

Rad'ically (adv. from radical) Originally, primitively.

Rad'icalness (s. from radical) The state of being radical.

R A G

Ra'dicant (adj. in botany) Taking root, growing deeply.

RAD'ICATE (v. t. from the Lat. radix a root) To root firmly, to plant deeply.

Ra'dicated (p. from radicate) Rooted, planted deeply.

Ra'dicating (p. a. from radicate) Rooting, planting deeply.

Ra'dica'tion (s. from radicate) The act of fixing deeply.

RAD'ICLE (s. from the Lat. radix a root) That part of the seed of a plant which becomes its root.

RAD'ICOSE (adj. from the Lat. radicosus) Having many roots. Scott.

RADIC'ULA (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the silybrium.

Ra'dicule (s. a different spelling) The radicle. Scott.

RA'DII (s. plu. of radius) More than one radius.

RADIOM'ETER (s. from the Lat. radius, and the Greek μέτρον to measure) The forestaff.

RA'DIOSE (adj. from the Lat. radiosus) Having many rays.

RAD'ISH (s. in botany, from the Lat. radix a root) The name of a plant cultivated in gardens for the root which is used as a salad.

RA'DIUS (s. from the Lat.) The semidiameter of a circle; a spoke of a wheel; a ray or beam of light; the lesser bone of the arm, the larger bone of the leg.

RA'DIX (s. from the Lat.) The root of a plant, the sole of the foot, a primitive word.

Ra'dknight (s. a different spelling) A rodknight, one that holds by service on horseback. Scott.

Ra'dling (s. with builders) The windings of a wall, the coping of a ramped wall. Bailey.

RAD'NOR (s.) The chief town of Radnorshire in South Wales; it has a market on Thursday, sends one member to parliament, and is 157 miles from London.

Ra'dnor (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Radnor, made at Radnor.

RAD'NORSHIRE (s. from Radnor, and shire) One of the six counties in South Wales; it is about twenty-nine miles in length and eighteen in breadth, the air is sharp, and for the most part the soil is barren; it contains four market towns and fifty-two parishes, and sends two members to parliament, one for the county and one for the town of Radnor.

Ra'dnorshire (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the county of Radnor, produced in the county of Radnor.

RA'DULPH (s.) A man's name, Ralph.

Rae (s. obsolete) A roe. Chaucer.

Raers (s. a local word) The rails on the top of a cart. Sc.

Raff (v. t. from raffle) To sweep, to take hastily without any distinction. Carew.

Raff'd (p. from raff) Huddled up, taken hastily without distinction.

Raff'ing (p. a. from raff) Sweeping away at once, taking without distinction.

RAFFINAGE (s. from the French, but not used) That which is refined, the quintessence. Cole.

RAFF'LE (v. int. from the French raffler to snatch) To cast dice for a prize, to put in for a prize by way of game or lottery.

Raffle (s. from the verb) A kind of game or lottery in which prizes are determined by chances.

Raff'd (p. from raffle) Determined by throwing dice, determined by way of chance or lottery; with for: as, "The value of the thing raffled for." Scott.

Raff'net (s.) A sort of fishing net.

Raff'ing (p. a. from raffle) Casting dice for a prize, putting in for a prize by way of chance or lottery.

Raff'ing (s. from the part.) The practice of determining prizes by way of chance or lottery; a play with three dice.

RAFT (s. probably from the Lat. ratis) A float made of pieces of timber framed together or laid across each other.

Raft (p. obsolete, from reave) Reaved, raffed, torn, rent. Spenser.

Rafte (v. t. an old pret.) Deprived, took away, killed. Chaucer.

RAFT'ER (s. from the Sax. rafter) The secondary timbers of the roof, the timbers which are fastened to the beams of the roof.

Raft'ered (adj. from rafter) Built with rafters, furnished with rafters.

Raftic (adj. in architecture) Projecting beyond the rest of the work in the corners of a building.

Ra'full (s. an old word) A company, a rabble. Cole.

RAG (s. perhaps from the Greek γάρος) A piece of cloth torn from the rest, a tatter; worn out clothes, a fragment of dress; a remnant, a small quantity of any thing; a ragstone.

R A I

Rag (s. a hunting term) A company or herd of young colts.

Ragamuffin (s. from rag) A sorry ragged fellow.

RA'GAU (s. from the Heb. signifying a friend) A man's name.

Rag'bolt (s. in ship-building) Iron pins jagged on each side.

RAGE (s. from the French) Violent passion, excessive anger; the vehement exacerbations of any thing painful.

Rage (v. int. from the sub.) To become furious, to be excessively angry; to be exceedingly painful; to rage, to exercise fury; to act with mischievous impetuosity; to play the rogue; but this sense is now grown obsolete. Chaucer.

Ra'geful (adj. from rage) Full of rage, furious, violent.

Ra'gerie (s. obsolete) Roguery, wanton tricks. Chaucer.

RA'GES (s.) A city of Media.

Rag'ged (adj. from rag) Rent into tatters, dressed in rags; uneven, rugged.

Rag'gedness (s. from ragged) The state of being ragged.

Rag'guled (adj. a different spelling) Raguled.

Ra'ging (p. a. from rage) Acting with fury, discovering excessive anger, making devastation, giving great pain.

Ra'ging (s. from the part.) The prevalence of rage, an act of outrage, the exacerbation of any thing painful.

Ra'gingly (adv. from raging) With vehement anger, with rage.

Rag'man (s. from rag, and man) A man who deals in old rags, a statute of Edward the Third for hearing and determining all complaints of five years standing.

Rag'man (s. an old word) Madnefs.

RAGOO' (s. in cookery) A high seasoned dish, a sauce to whet the appetite.

RA'GOT (s. in the manage) A short legged strong bodied horse.

Ra'gounes (s. obsolete) A kind of precious stones. Chaucer.

RAGOUT (s. in cookery) A ragoo.

Rag'stone (s. from rag, and stone) A kind of stone which breaks in a ragged uneven manner; a kind of white stone.

RAGUEL (s. from the Heb. signifying the friend of God) A man's name.

RAG'ULED (adj. in heraldry, applied to a cross) Having ragged shafts, jagged, knotted.

Rag'wort (s. in botany) The name of an herb.

RA'HAB (s. from the Heb. signifying extension) The name of a woman.

RA'JA (s.) The title of an Indian prince.

RA'JA (s. in ichthyology) A genus of fishes.

RAJA'NIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

Raide (p. obsolete) Dressed. Shakespeare.

Raie (s. obsolete) Array, order. Chaucer.

Raie'd (adj. obsolete) Spattered, defiled. Shakespeare.

Raie'd (p. from ray, but now grown obsolete or local) Raved.

RAIL (s. from the German riegal) A cross beam fixed to an upright post at each end, a series of cross beams supported by posts.

RAIL (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird.

Rail (s. from the Sax. rægle, it is now grown obsolete, retained only in nightrail) A woman's upper garment.

Rail (v. t. from the sub.) To inclose with rails; to range in a line.

RAIL (v. int. from the French railler) To use opprobrious language, to speak in reproachful terms. with at: as, "And rail at arts he did not understand."

Raie'd (p. from rail) Inclosed with a rail.

Raie'd (v. int. pret. obsolete) Flowed, did flow.

Raie'r (s. from rail) One that rails.

Raillery (s. not so common a spelling) Raillery.

Raill'ing (p. a. from rail) Inclosing with rails, using opprobrious language.

Raill'ing (s. from the part.) The act of using opprobrious language, reproachful speech.

Raillery (s. from rail) A slight kind of satire, a kind of satirical merriment.

Ra'iment (s. from array) Vesture, clothes, dress; now chiefly confined to poetry.

RAIN (v. int. from the Greek ὀρέω) To fall in drops from the clouds. "It rains." The water falls from the clouds.

Rain (v. t.) To pour down as drops of water from the clouds.

Rain (s. from the verb) The drops that fall from the clouds.

Rain'bow (s. from rain, and bow) The bow of various colours which appears in showery weather.

RAIN'DEER (s. from the Lat. rangifer) A kind of deer.

R A L

large horns used in the northern countries to wedges over the snow.
(v. int. an obsolete spelling) To reign. Chaucer.
(p. from rain) Poured down as rain.
(adj. comp. of rainy) Rainy in a greater degree.
(adj. sup. of rainy) Rainy in the greatest degree.
(s. from rain) The state of being rainy.
(p. a. from rain) Dropping down as rain, pouring down as rain.
(s. from rain, and water) The water which falls from the clouds preserved for use.
(adj. from the sub.) Pertaining to the water that falls from the clouds preserved for use.
(s. from rain) Disposed to rain, showery.
(v. t. from the Danish raifer) To lift, to heave;
to exert, to build up; to elevate, to exalt; to enlarge, to enlarge; to excite, to stir up; to bring forth, to bring into being; to call into view, to bring from the dead; to collect, to levy. "To raise paste." To turn paste into pies without a dish. "To raise a siege." To make him work on curvetts. "To raise a siege." To give over the attack of a place. "To raise a plan." To reduce the plan of a fortification to a proper scale for delineation.
(p. from raise) Lifted up, erected, exalted, preferred, levied, brought into being, produced as from seeds.
(s. from raise) One that raises; that part which is in the front to raise a step.
(s. from the French) A dried grape.
(p. a. from raise) Lifting up, building up, extending, preferring, levying.
(s. in building) The piece that lies under the end of the beam in a wall of stone or brick.
(s. an obsolete spelling) Reason. Chau.
(adj. not so common a spelling) Reity, restiff. Sc.
(s. a local word) The weeds and rubbish thrown up by a flow of water.
(s. a local word) The act of laying any thing green in water in order to season it. Scot.
(s. from the Sax. race) An instrument with a row of teeth for dividing the surface of the ground, or gathering up any light bodies.
(s. from the French racaille, a low rabble) A loose disorderly fellow, a man addicted to pleasure.
(v. t. from the sub.) To gather with a rake, to divide the surface of the earth with a rake, to clear with a rake; to draw together by violence, to scour, to draw the dung from a horse by hand; to heap together, to cover up; to fire on a ship in the direction of the head and stern.
(v. int.) To search, to grope.
(p. from rake) Gathered with a rake, cleared with a rake, fired upon as a ship in the direction of the head and stern.
(adj. in falconry) Flying out too far from the game.
(s. the etymology is uncertain) A wild dissolute fellow.
(s. a different spelling) A rakehell, a wild debauched fellow. Swift.
(adj. from rakehell) Wild, dissolute.
(s. from rake) One that rakes.
(s. from rake, and shame) A loose dissolute fellow. Scott.
(s. obsolete or local) The handle of a rake. Ch.
(adj. obsolete) Inconstant. Chaucer.
(adj. an obsolete spelling) Ragged. Chaucer.
(adj. obsolete) Rash, hasty. Chaucer.
(p. a. from rake) Gathering with a rake, clearing with a rake, heaping up, searching, firing on a ship in the direction of the head and stern.
(s. from the part.) The act of gathering with a rake, that which is gathered with a rake.
(s. in architecture) A member hallowed in the square of a pedestal.
(adj. from rake) Loose, dissolute.
(s. from rakish) The quality of being rakish.
(s. from the Heb. signifying empty) The name of a city. Josh. 19.
(s. from the Heb. signifying void) The name of a city. Josh. 19.
(adj. obsolete) Rash, hasty. Chaucer.
(s. not so common a spelling) Raillery, a slight kind of satire. Scott.
(p. from rally) Brought again into order, treated with satirical merriment.
(v. t. from the French rallier) To put dispersed

R A M forces into order, to regulate the disorder of an army nearly defeated.

(v. t. from the French rallier) To treat with sar-castical merriment, to treat with slight contempt.
(v. int.) To come together in a hurry, to come again into order; to exercise satirical merriment.
(p. a. from rally) Bringing again into order, returning again to order; treating with satirical merriment.
(s.) A man's name.
(s. from the Sax.) A male sheep, a tup, an engine to batter walls.
(s. from the Heb. signifying sublime) A man's name.
(v. t. from the sub.) To drive with violence, to fill with any thing driven hard together.
(s. from the Heb. signifying high) The name of a city in the land of Israel.
(s.) A kind of Lent observed by the Mahometans; the name of one of the months with the Turks.
(s. from the Lat. ramus a branch) The branches of trees.
(s. from ramage, and falcon) A ramage hawk, a wild hawk that has been long among the branches.
(s. from ramage, and hawk) A hawk that has been long among the branches, a wild hawk.
(s. from ramage, and velvet) Velvet so figured as to represent stalks and branches.
(adj. from ramage) Wild, flying among the boughs. Chaucer.
(s. from the Heb. a different spelling) Rama.
(s. from the Lat.) A dead bough cut off from a tree.
(s. from the Heb. signifying lofty) The name
of a city. Josh. 19.
(s. from the Heb.) Ramah.
(s. from the Heb.) The name of a city. 1 Sam. 1.
(s. from the Heb. signifying the elevation of the jaw) The name of a place. Judg. 15.
(s. a different spelling) The ramadan. Scott.
(v. int. from the Lat. ambulo to walk) To wander, to go up and down, to rove about.
(s. from the verb) An excursion, an irregular kind of journey for amusement or pleasure.
(s. from ramble) One that rambles.
(p. a. from ramble) Roving, making an irregular excursion for amusement or pleasure.
(s. from the part.) The act of wandering about for amusement or pleasure, a ramble. "The ramblings of fancy."
(s. a cant word) A drink made of wine, ale, eggs and sugar.
(s. a different spelling) Rambooze.
(v. int. a local word) To reach. Bailey.
(s. in cookery, from the French ramequin)
Small slices of bread covered with a farce of cheese and eggs.
(s. from the Lat. ramenta) Scrapings, shavings. Jobnson.
(s. in cookery, from the French) Slices of bread covered with a farce of cheese and eggs.
(s. in ancient geography) A district in Egypt. Gen. 47.
(s. from ramify) The act of branching out,
a division into branches.
(p. from ramify) Separated into branches.
(v. t. from the Lat. ramus a branch, and tacio to make) To separate into branches.
(v. int.) To be parted into branches.
(p. a. from ramify) Dividing into branches.
(s. in old records) The branches of trees cut or blown down.
(s.) A follower of one Peter Ramus noted for reducing many of the liberal arts into elegant abridgements.
(p. from ram) Driven with violence, filled with any thing driven hard together.
(s. from ram) An instrument with which any thing is driven hard together, the stick with which the charge is forced into a gun.
(p. a. from ram) Driving with violence, filling with something driven hard together.
(s. from the part.) The act of driving with violence, that which is forced into any thing in order to fill it.
(adj. from ram) Having a strong scent.
(s. from ramuish) The state of being ram-uish.

RAMOLA/DE

RAMOLA'DE (s. in cookery) A kind of high sauce in which the principal ingredient is anchovy.

RAMOSE (adj. from the Lat. ramosus) Ramous, full of branches, doubly alated.

RAMOTH (s. from the Heb. signifying eminent) A city in the land of Israel.

RAMOTHGIL'EAD (s.) Ramoth.

RAMOUS (adj. from the Lat. ramosus a branch) Consisting of branches, full of branches.

Ramouinefs (s. from ramous) The state or quality of being ramous.

RAMP (v. int. from the Sax. rempen) To leap with violence, to climb as a plant; to play, to gambol, to wanton.

Ramp (s. from the verb) A leap, a spring, a gambol, the rise in a wall or fence turned with a kind of arch.

Ramp (v. t.) To form a wall or fence with a rise or fall turned off with a curve.

Rampall'ian (s. a cant word, not used) A mean wretch. Sb.

Rampaney (s. from rampant) Prevalence, exuberance.

RAMPANT (adj. from the French) Exuberant, overgrown; raised as a lion on his hinder legs as ready to combat with an enemy.

Rampart (s. in fortification) The wall round a fortified place, the platform of the wall behind the parapet.

Rampart (v. t. but not used) To fortify with ramparts. Jobnson.

Ramp'ped (p. from ramp) Formed with a ramp.

RAMPHASTOS (s. in ornithology) A genus of birds.

Ramp'pic (s. a local word) A tree which through age begins to decay at the top. Scott.

Ramp'pier (s. in fortification, but not so much used) A rampart. Scott.

Ramp'ping (p. a. from ramp) Leaping with violence, wantoning, climbing as a plant, forming with a ramp.

RAMPIONS (s. in botany) The name of a plant whose root is eaten like that of a radish.

Ramp'pire (s. not so common a spelling) A rampart.

Ramp'pire (v. t. from the sub. but not used) To fortify with ramparts.

Ramp'pied (p. from rampire) Fortified with a rampart. Shakespeare.

Rampt (v. int. pret. of ramp) Did ramp.

RAMSEY (s.) A town in Huntingdonshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 68 miles from London.

Ramsey (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Ramsey, made at Ramsey.

Rams'head (s. a sea term) The great block belonging to the fore and main halliards; an iron lever to raise great stones.

RAM'IONS (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

RAMMUS (s. from the Lat.) A branch, the branch of a tree.

RAMUS (s. in anatomy) Any branch of a larger vessel.

Ran (v. int. pret. of ran) Did run.

RANNA (s. with physicians) The ranula, a soft swelling under the tongue.

RANNA (s. in zoology) The frog.

RANAPISCAT'RIX (s. in ichthyology) The frogfish.

Ranch (v. t. corrupted from wrench) To sprain, to injure by a violent contortion.

Ranch'ed (p. from ranch) Sprained, injured by a violent contortion.

Ranch'ing (p. a. from ranch) Spraining, injuring by a violent contortion.

RAN/CID (adj. from the Lat. rancidus) Having a strong scent.

Rancid'ity (s. from rancid) A strong scent as of old grease or oil.

Ran'cidnefs (s. from rancid) The state or quality of being rancid.

RAN/COR (s. a correct spelling, from the Lat.) Malice, inveterate malignity, hatred.

Ran'corous (adj. from rancor) Malignant, spiteful in the greatest degree.

Ran'corousnefs (s. from rancorous) The state of being rancorous.

RAN/COUR (s. the less modern spelling, from the French rancœur) Rancor.

RAND (s. from the Dutch) A seam, a border.

RAND'AL (s.) A man's name.

RAN'DIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

RAN'DOM (s. from the French randon) The want of direction, the want of method, an irregular motion.

Ran'dom (adj. from the sub.) Done by chance, roving without direction.

RAN/FORCE (s. in gunnery) That ring or moulding of a gun which is next the touchhole.

Ran'force (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the ring next before the touchhole.

Rang (v. t. pret. of ring) Did ring.

RANGE (v. t. from the French ranger) To place in order, to put in ranks; to wander, to rove over.

Range (v. int.) To rove at large; to be in rank order.

Range (s. from the verb) A rank, any thing placed in order; a class, an order; an excursion, a wandering room for excursion, a compass for excursion; the path of a bullet from the mouth of the gun to the place where it lodges; the step of a ladder; a kitchen grate.

Ran'ged (p. from range) Placed in order, put in rank.

Ran'ger (s. from range) One that ranges, a dog that beats the ground, an officer who superintends the game in a forest or park.

RAN/GIFER (s. in zoology) The reindeer.

Ran'ging (p. a. from range) Placing in order, putting in ranks; roving about.

Ran'ging (s. from the part.) The act of placing in order that which is placed in order.

RAN/NÆ (s. in anatomy) The veins under the tongue.

Ran'ne (adj. from rana) Resembling a frog, belonging to the veins under the tongue.

RANK (s. from the French) A row, a line of men, places, a class, an order; a degree of dignity, high station.

RANK (adj. from the Sax. ranc) Growing high, strong, luxuriant; fruitful, bearing strong plants.

Rank (adj. from the Lat. rancidus) Rancid, strong, scented, high tasted, gross, coarse, set as a tool so as to have a great effect.

Rank (v. t. from the sub.) To place in a row, to range in any particular class.

Rank (v. int.) To fall into rows, to be placed in order.

Rank'e (adj. obsolete) Hoarse. Chaucer.

Rank'ed (p. from rank) Placed in rows, placed in order.

Rank'er (adj. comp. of rank) Rank in a greater degree.

Rank'est (adj. sup. of rank) Rank in the greatest degree.

Rank'ing (p. a. from rank) Placing in ranks, putting into proper classes.

Ran'kle (v. int. from rank) To fester, to breed corruption; to be inflamed.

Ran'kled (p. from rankle) Festered, inflamed. Thomson.

Ran'kling (p. a. from rankle) Festering, giving great uneasiness.

Ran'kly (adv. from rank) Coarsely, grossly.

Ran'knefs (s. from rank) Superfluity of growth, exuberance.

RAN'NY (s. in zoology) The shrewmouse.

RAN/SACK (v. t. from the Sax. ran, and the Swed. saka to search for) To search narrowly, to plunder, to pillage; to violate, to deflower.

Ran'sacked (p. from ransack) Searched narrowly, robbed, plundered.

Ran'sacking (p. a. from ransack) Searching narrowly, robbing, plundering.

RAN/SOM (s. from the French rancon) The fine paid for redemption from captivity or punishment; the fine of redemption.

Ran'som (v. t. from the sub.) To redeem, to redeem from captivity or punishment, to pay the fine of redemption.

Ran'some (s. a different spelling) A ransom. Jobnson.

Ran'some (v. t. a different spelling) To ransom. Jobnson.

Ran'somed (p. from ransom) Redeemed from captivity or punishment.

Ran'somer (s. from ransom, not used) One that ransoms.

Ran'soming (p. a. from ransom) Redeeming from captivity or punishment.

Ran'somless (adj. from ransom) Free from ransom, requiring no ransom. Chaucer.

Ran'son (s. an old spelling) A ransom.

RANT (v. int. from the Dutch randon to rave) To rage, to utter high sounding language without propriety, thought or dignity.

Rant (s. from the verb) High sounding language unsupported by dignity or sentiment.

Rant'er (s. from rant) A raving noisy fellow.

Rant'ing (p. a. from rant) Raving, uttering high sounding language without dignity or sentiment.

Rant'ipole (s. a kind of cant word, and now used in a droll style) A rakish fellow, a wild giddy girl.

Rant'ipole (adj. from the sub.) Wild, giddy, rakish.

Rant'ipole (v. int. from the adj.) To run about in a wild giddy manner.

Rant'ipoling (p. a. from rantipole) Running about in a wild giddy manner.

RAN'ULA (s. from the Lat.) A soft swelling under the tongue.

R A R

ULA'RES (s. in anatomy) The two principal veins under the tongue.

UNCULUS (s. in botany) The crowfoot, a kind of flower.

UR (v. int. from the Sax. hræppan) To strike with a quick smart blow.

UR (v. t. from the Lat. rapio to snatch) To affect with violence, to snatch away; to seize by violence.

UR (s. from the verb) A quick smart blow.

UR (s. in botany, from the Lat.) A turnep.

URCIOUS (adj. from the Lat. rapax) Given to plunder, taking by violence.

URCIOUSLY (adv. from rapacious) With rapacity, with violence, by rapine.

URCIOUSNESS (s. from rapacious) The quality of being rapacious.

URCITY (s. from the Lat. rapax) The state or quality of being rapacious.

UR (s. from the Lat. raptus violated) The violation of chastity, criminal conversation with a woman by an act of violence; a privation, the act of taking away; that which is taken away; a division of a county.

UR (s. in botany) The rape, a plant from which oil is expressed; grapes plucked from the cluster without being bruised.

UR (s. obsolete) Haste. Chaucer.

UR (adj. obsolete) Hasty, speedy. Chaucer.

UR (s. from rape, and seed) The seed of the rape.

UR (s. from rape, and wine) A kind of low wine.

UR (s. in anatomy) The ridge or line which runs along the under side of the penis.

UR (s. signifying a relaxation) A man's name.

UR (s. from the Heb.) The name of an angel; the name of a man.

UR (s. in botany) A kind of flowerdeluce.

UR (s. in botany) The radish, the root of the radish.

UR (s. in anatomy) A suture.

UR (s. in zoology) A genus of four winged insects.

UR (s. in ancient geography) The name of a place.

UR (s. from the Heb.) A man's name, Rapha.

UR (adj. from the Lat. rapidus) Quick, swift.

UR (s. from rapid) Speed, swiftness.

UR (adv. from rapid) Swiftly, with great speed.

UR (s. from rapid) Swiftness, rapidity.

UR (s. from the French rapier) A small sword used in thrusting.

UR (s. in ichthyology) The swordfish.

UR (adj. from the Lat. rapa a turnip, and rum a leaf) Having a leaf like a turnip.

UR (adv. obsolete) Hastily. Chaucer.

UR (s. from the Lat. rapina) The act of plundering, violence, force, plunder.

UR (adj. from rapine, but not much used) Rave- nous, given to rapine. Cole.

UR (s. in botany) Wild mustard, carloc.

UR (s. from the Lat. rapio to snatch) An Irish robber.

UR (p. from rap) Affected with an extasy; snatched away.

UR (s. from rap) One that raps; a great oath; but is rather colloquial. Scott.

UR (p. a. from rap) Striking with a quick and smart blow; snatching away.

UR (s. from the part.) The act of striking with a quick and smart blow; the sound of smart quick and repeated blows.

UR (s. from the French rapport, but not used) Pro- portion, reference. Temple.

UR (s. from rapsody) The author of a rapsody. Co-

UR (s. not so common a spelling) A rhapsody. Scott.

UR (p. from rap) Affected with a rapture; snatched away; with with: as, "I'm rapt with joy." Pope.

UR (s. from rap) A trance, an extasy.

UR (p. a. from rapt, but judged improper) Filling with rapture.

UR (s. from the Lat. raptura) An extasy, a tran- sient; rapidity, haste.

UR (adj. from rapture) Ravished, transported.

UR (adj. from rapture) Extatic, transporting.

UR (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

UR (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the melia.

UR (adj. from the Lat. rarus) Scarce, uncommon; excellent, incomparable; thinly scattered, thin, subtle; not fully dressed. Dryden.

UR (s. a cant word) A shew carried in a box.

R A T

RAREFACIENTIA (s. in physic) Rarefactive, medicines to rarefy.

RAREFAC'TION (s. from rarefy) An extension of the parts of a body by which it takes up more room than in its natural state, the contrary to condensation.

RAREFAC'TIVE (adj. from rarefy) Tending to rarefaction.

RAREFAC'TIVE (s. from the adj.) A medicine to open the pores and give a larger vent to perspiration.

RA'REFABLE (adj. from rarefy) Capable of being rarefied.

RA'REFIED (p. from rarefy) Made thin, expanded so as to take up more room than in a natural state.

RA'REFY (v. t. from the Lat. rarus thin, and facio to make) To make thin, to expand.

RA'refy (v. int.) To become thin.

RA'refying (p. a. from rarefy) Making thin, expanding.

RA'rely (adv. from rare) Seldom, not often; finely, ac- curately.

RA'reness (s. from rare) Uncommonness, scarceness.

RA'rer (adj. comp. of rare) Rare in a greater degree.

RA'rest (adj. sup. of rare) Rare in the greatest de- gree.

RA'riety (s. from rare) Uncommonness, scarcity, any thing valued on account of its scarcity; thinness, the contrary to density.

RA'rant (adj. in fortification) Belonging to that part of a flank from which the shot glances along the face of the opposite bastion.

RA'sberry (s. a different spelling) The raspberry. Johnson.

RAS'CAL (s. from the Sax. rascal, a lean beast) A mean fellow, a scoundrel.

Rascal'ion (s. from rascal) One of the lowest of the people, a base fellow.

Rascal'ity (s. from rascal) The lowest of the people.

Rascal'ion (s. a different spelling) A rascalion. Hudibras.

Ras'cally (adj. from rascal) Mean, worthless.

RASE (v. t. from the Lat. rado rarus to scrape, the s is sounded soft) To skin, to strike on the surface; to erase, to blot out by rasure; to overthrow, to destroy.

Rase (s. an obsolete spelling) A race. Chaucer.

RA'sed (p. from rase) Erased, blotted out.

RASET'TA (s. in anatomy) The carpus, the wrist.

RASH (adj. from the Dutch, raich) Hasty, violent, pre- cipitate.

Rash (s. from the adj.) A kind of cuticular eruption, an efflorescence of the skin.

Rash (s. in clock work, a different spelling) The ratch. Job.

Rash (s. in commerce) Sattin. Minsbeur.

RASH'ER (s. from the Lat. rado rarus to scrape) A thin slice of bacon.

Rash'er (adj. comp. of rash) Rash in a greater de- gree.

Rash'est (adj. sup. of rash) Rash in the greatest degree.

Rash'ly (adv. from rash) Hastily, violently, without due consideration.

Rash'ness (s. from rash) Precipitation, inconsiderate heat of temper, a foolish contempt of danger.

Ra'sing (p. a. from rase) Erasing, blotting out.

RA'SION (s. from the Lat. rado rarus to scrape) The scraping of a bone.

RA'SIS (s. in natural history) A kind of pitch.

Ras'kail (s. obsolete) The rabble. Chaucer.

Ras'kel (s. an old word) Trash, trumpery. Philips.

RA'SOR (s. from the Lat. rado rarus to shave, but not so common a spelling) A razor, the instrument used in taking off the beard.

RASP (s. in botany, from the Italian, raspo) The rasp- berrybush, the fruit of the raspberrybush.

RASP (v. t. from the Dutch, raspen) To rub to powder with a coarse kind of file, to rub with a coarse kind of file.

Rasp (s. from the verb) A coarse kind of file.

Ras'patory (s. from rasp) A surgeon's rasp. Wise man.

Rasp'berry (s. from rasp and berry) A species of beam- ble, the raspberrybush, the fruit of the rasp.

Rasp'berrybush (s. from rasp berry, and bush) The rasp, the shrub that produces the raspberry.

Rasp'berrywine (s. from raspberry, and wine) A kind of wine made of the raspberry.

Ras'ped (p. from rasp) Rubbed with a rasp.

Ras'ping (p. a. from rasp) Rubbing with a rasp.

Ras'ping (s. from the part.) The act of rubbing with a rasp, that which is rubbed off by the action of the rasp.

Ras'pisberry (s. in botany) The raspberry, the fruit of the rasp; a kind of strawberry. Philips.

RA'SURE (s. the s is pronounced soft, from the Lat. rado rarus to scrape) The act of scraping, the mark in writing where something has been rubbed out.

RAT (s. in zoology, from the French) An animal of the mouse kind, but larger. "To smell a rat," to sus- pect peril danger, to suspect some secret design. Hudibras.

RAT

Ra'table (adj. from rate) Let at a certain value, capable of being set at a certain value.
Ra'tably (adv. from ratable) In proportion.
RATAFIA (s.) A delicious kind of spirituous liquor prepared from the kernels of several sorts of fruits.
RATA'N (s.) An Indian cane.
Rat'catcher (s. from rat, and catch) One that catches rats.
RATCH (s. in clock work) A kind of wheel having twelve fangs, which serve to lift up the detents and make the clock strike every hour.
Ratch'et (s. in clock work) One of the small teeth at the bottom of the fufy which stops it in winding up.
RATE (s. from the Lat. ratus) A price fixed, an allowance settled; a degree, a comparative height or value; a standard, a proportion; the manner in which any thing is done; a tax adjusted according to the value of lands, the register or warrant by which the parochial payments are collected.
Rate (v. t. from the sub.) To value at a certain price, to lay on a tax according to the value of lands in a parish.
RATE (v. t. from the Islandick reita) To chide, to reprove with some degree of vehemence. South.
Rate (s. an old word) The spleen. Cole.
Rate (adj. an old word) Advised, counselled. Cole.
Rated (p. from rate) Set at a certain price, taxed according to the value of lands in a parish, put down in a rate; reprov'd with vehemence; but this sense is now used only in colloquial or droll style.
Ratee'n (s. in commerce) A kind of stuff for garments.
RATH (s. the derivation is not known) A hill. Spenser.
RATH (adj. now obsolete, from the Sax.) Early, coming before the time. Milton.
Rath (adv. now obsolete, from the adj.) Early, soon. May.
Rat'he (adj. obsolete) Early. Spenser.
Rat'her (adv. from rath) More willingly, with better liking, with better reason, with more propriety, especially, in a greater degree. "He had rather mark'nd should adore him as their benefactor." "He seems to have rather an aversion to that exercise." These modes of construction are now used by the best writers, though some have doubted the propriety of them.
Rat'ian (s. a different spelling) A ration, a portion of provision or forage in the army.
Ratification (s. from ratify) The act of ratifying, a confirmation.
Rat'ified (p. from ratify) Confirmed, settled.
Rat'ifier (s. from ratify) One that ratifies.
RATIFY (v. t. from the Lat. ratus firm, and facio to make) To confirm, to settle.
Rat'ifying (p. a. from ratify) Confirming, settling.
Rat'ing (p. a. from rate) Fixing at a certain price, making a rate; scolding, reprov'ing with some degree of vehemence.
Rat'ing (s. from the part.) The act of making a rate, a scolding. Locke.
RA'TIO (s. from the Lat.) A proportion, the rule of proportion.
Ratiocinability (s. from ratiocinable) Reasonableness. Scott.
RATIOCINABLE (adj. from the Lat. ratiocinabilis, but not used) Reasonable.
RATIOCINATE (v. int. from the Lat. ratiocinor to reckon) To reason, to argue. Johnson.
Ratiocinating (p. a. from ratiocinate, but not used) Reasoning, arguing.
Ratiocination (s. from ratiocinate) The act of reasoning, the act of deducing consequences from premises.
Ratiocinative (adj. from ratiocinate) Argumentative, advancing by way of discourse or argument.
Ra'tion (s. from ratio) A portion of forage, bread or ammunition delivered to each man in an army.
Rat'ionably (adv. from ratio, but not used) Reasonably, rationally. Scott.
RAT'IONAL (adj. from the Lat. rationalis) Having the power of reasoning, agreeing with reason; wise, judicious.
RATIONALE (s. from the Lat.) A detail with reasons.
Ra'tionalist (s. from rational) One who professes to attend only to reason.
Rationality (s. from rational) The power of reasoning, reasonableness.
Rationally (adv. from rational) Reasonably, according to reason.

RAV

Rat'ionalness (s. from rational) The state of being rational.
Rat'ionary (adj. from ratio, but not used) Belonging to accounts.
RATIO'NIS (s. in anatomy) The bone of the forehead.
Rat'killer (s. from rat, and killer) One that kills rats.
Rat'le (s. in botany) The cock's comb.
Rat'le (v. int.) To cry as a goat.
Rat'line (s. a sea term) The line that makes a ladder.
Rat'ling (s. a sea term and different spelling) A rat, a horizontal line forming one step of a rope ladder.
Ratoo'n (s. in zoology) A kind of American fox.
Rats'bane (s. from rat, and bane) Poison for rats, a nick.
Rat'tail (s. in the manage) A horse that has little hair on his tail.
Rattee'n (s. in commerce) A kind of stuff.
RAT'TLE (s. from the Dutch ratelen) A quick frequently repeated, loud empty talk, a toy to children.
RAT'TLE (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
Rat'tle (v. int. from the sub.) To make a quick with frequent repetitions, to speak eagerly noisily.
Rat'tle (v. t.) To move any thing so as to make a rattling noise, to run with noise, to drive with a rattling noise, to scold, to rail at.
Rat'tled (p. from rattle) Stunned with noise, rattled with noise, moved so as to make a clattering noise, scolded, railed at.
Rat'tler (s. a cant word) A coach.
Rat'tleheaded (adj. from rattle, and head) Giddy, heady.
Rat'tlebate (s. from rattle, and pate) A noisy fellow.
Rat'tleskull (s. from rattle, and skull) A noisy fellow.
Rat'tlesnake (s. from rattle, and snake) A kind of serpent with a rattle in its tail.
Rat'tlesnakeroot (s. from rattlesnake, and root) The root of the rattlesnake; the Indians use it as a certain remedy against the bite of the rattlesnake.
Rat'tling (p. a. from rattle) Making a quick rattling noise, rattling with noise, scolding.
Rat'tling (s. from the part.) The act of making a quick repeated noise, the noise produced by the wheels of a carriage in swift motion, a rattle.
Rat'tlingcove (s. a cant word) A coachman.
Rat'tlingmumpers (s. a cant word) Beggars at a coach.
Rat'trap (s. from rat, and trap) A trap to catch rats.
RAVAGE (v. t. from the French ravager) To lay waste, to sack, to pillage, to plunder.
Ravage (s. from the verb) Spoil, ruin, waste.
Ravaged (p. from ravage) Laid waste, plundered.
Ravager (s. from ravage) One that ravages.
Ravaging (p. a. from ravage) Laying waste, pillaging, plundering.
RAUCE/DO (s. from the Lat. raucedo to be hoarse) Hoarseness.
RAUCITY (s. from the Lat. raucus hoarse) Hoarseness, a loud rough noise.
RAUCO'MEN (s. in botany) The name of an American tree producing a fruit like a gooseberry, the fruit of the tree.
RAVE (v. int. from the Dutch raven) To talk as if deprived of reason, to burst out into furious exclamations.
RAVEL (v. t. from the Dutch ravelen) To entangle, to perplex; to unweave; with out: as, "To unravel a piece of knitwork."
Ravel (v. int.) To fall into perplexity, to work in perplexity.
Rav'elbread (s. an old word) A kind of brown bread.
RAVELIN (s. in fortification, from the French) A bastion of half-moon.
RA'VEN (s. in ornithology) A large black bird remarkably voracious.
RA'VEN (v. t. from the Sax. hræfian) To devour, to devour with great eagerness and rapacity.
Ra'ven (v. int.) To prey with rapacity.
Rav'ened (p. from raven) Devoured with rapacity.
RAV'ENGLASS (s.) A town in Cumberland; it has a market on Saturday, and is 282 miles from London.
Rav'englass (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Ravens, made at Ravensglass.
Rav'ening (p. a. from raven) Devouring with greediness, preying with rapaciousness.

RAY

wening (s. from the part.) The act of devouring with greediness, the act of preying with rapacity.
 venish (adj. obsolete, from raven) Black as a raven. Ch.
 VEN'NA (s. in geography) A city of Italy, the capital of Romania.
 venous (adj. from raven) Rapacious, hungry to rage.
 venously (adv. from ravenous) Rapaciously, voraciously.
 venousness (s. from ravenous) The state or quality of being ravenous.
 veining (adj. obsolete) Rapid. Chaucer.
 ought (v. t. the old pret. of reach) Did reach; did snatch. Shakespeare.
 ought (p. obsolete, from reach) Reached, snatched, rent. Knolles.
 win (s. from raven) Prey, food gotten by violence; rapine, rapacity.
 vine (s. the old spelling) Ravin. Chaucer.
 vinefs (s. from ravine, obsolete) Ravin, rapine.
 ving (p. a. from rave) Talking as one delirious, breaking out into furious exclamations.
 ving (s. from the part.) The rant of a madman, furious exclamations.
 vingly (adv. from raving) With distraction, with the ravings of a madman.
 vinour (s. obsolete) A robber, a plunderer. Chaucer.
 vifable (adj. obsolete) Greedy, ravenous. Chaucer.
 VISH (v. from the French) To violate the chastity of a woman by force; to take away by violence; to transport with delight, to put into rapture.
 vished (p. from ravish) Forced, consuprated; taken away by violence; transported with pleasure, filled with rapture.
 visher (s. from ravish) One that ravishes.
 vishing (p. a. from ravish) Violating the chastity of a woman by force; taking away by violence; transporting with pleasure, filling with rapture.
 vishing (adj. obsolete) Rapid, swift. Chaucer.
 vishment (s. from ravish) A forceable violation of chastity; a transport, a rapture.
 VIS'SANT (adj. in heraldry) Half raised, just springing on the prey. with (v. t. pret. obsolete) Bereaveth, taketh away. Ch.
 uk (v. t. a local word) To snatch. Bailey.
 undon (s. an old word) Random. Cole.
 unge (s. an old spelling) A range. Cole.
 unger (s. an old spelling) A ranger. Cole.
 unrom (v. t. obsolete) To fet a price for one's ransom. Chaucer.
 unson (s. an old spelling) A ransom. Cole.
 unfounde (p. obsolete) Put to ransom. Chaucer.
 VOL'FA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 vyne (s. obsolete) Raving. Chaucer.
 vything (adj. obsolete) Rapid. Chaucer.
 W (adj. from the Sax. hreaw) Unboiled, unroasted; having the skin stripped off, sore; immature, unripe, unseasoned, unexperienced; unconcocted, undigested; bleak, chill.
 wboned (adj. from raw, and bone) Having large and prominent bones, having bones scarcely covered with the skin.
 wer (adj. comp. of raw) Raw in a greater degree.
 west (adj. sup. of raw) Raw in the greatest degree.
 whead (s. from raw, and head) A supposed spectre mentioned to frighten children. Locke.
 wly (adv. from raw) In a raw manner.
 whels (adv. from raw) The state of being raw.
 Y (s. from the Lat. radius) A beam of light, a lustre corporeal or intellectual.
 Y (s. in ichthyology, from the Lat. raia) The name of a fish.
 y (s. in botany) The name of an herb, the lolium; the leaf of a radicated flower.
 y (v. t. from the sub. but now grown obsolete) To break, to mark in long lines. Spenser.
 y (v. t. from array, now a colloquial word) To array, to dress. Spenser.
 y (v. t. a local word) To fan, to separate from the chaff.
 ycloth (s. in commerce) Cloth that was never dyed. Bailey.
 yed (p. from ray, but now grown obsolete or local) streaked, marked with rays; arrayed; fanned, separated from the chaff.
 yes (s. an old word) Roundelais, songs. Cole.
 yfish (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish, the raja.
 ygrafs (s. in botany) Riegrafs, a kind of grafs. Bai.
 ylid (p. obsolete) Arrayed, adorned. Chaucer.
 ying (p. a. from ray, but now obsolete or colloquial)

REA

Streaking, making long lines; arraying; fanning, separating from the chaff.
 Ray'ingieve (s. a local word, from ray, and sieve) A sieve used in separating the bad corn from the good.
 RAY'LEIGH (s.) A town in Essex; it has a market on Saturday, and is 36 miles from London.
 Ray'leigh (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Rayleigh, made at Rayleigh.
 Ray'lid (adj. an old spelling) Railed, inclosed with rails. Chaucer.
 RAY'MOND (s.) A man's name.
 Ray'nous (adj. an old word) Scabbed. Cole.
 Ray'onant (adj. in heraldry) Darting forth rays.
 Ra'zant (adj. in fortification, a different spelling) Ra'fant. Phillips.
 RAZE (v. t. from the Lat. rado rasus to scrape) To overthrow, to ruin, to subvert, to efface, to extirpate.
 Ra'zed (p. from raze) Subverted, effaced, extirpated.
 Ra'zer (s. a different spelling) A razor, the tusk of a boar. Phillips.
 Ra'zing (p. a. from raze) Subverting, effacing, extirpating.
 RA'ZIS (s.) A man's name. Apoc.
 RA'ZOR (s. from the Lat. rado rasus to shave) The instrument with which the beard is taken off; the tusk of the boar.
 Ra'zorable (adj. from razor, but not in use) Fit to be shaved.
 Ra'zorbill (s. in ornithology) The alka.
 Ra'zorfish (s. from razor, and fish) The name of a fish; it is about the length and bigness of a man's finger.
 Ra'zour (s. a different spelling) A razor. Phillips.
 Ra'zourable (adj. from razor, but not used) Fit to be shaved.
 RA'ZURE (s. from the Lat. rasura) The act of erasing. Sh.
 RE (adv. from the Lat. used only in composition) Again, over again.
 Reac'cels (s. from re, and accels) A return, a visit renewed.
 REACH (v. t. from the Sax. ræcan) To touch with the hand extended; to arrive at, to attain to, to hold out, to stretch forth.
 Reach (v. int.) To be extended, to make efforts to attain, to endeavour after.
 Reach (s. from the verb) The act of reaching, the power of reaching, a contrivance, an artful scheme; an extent, a tendency to distant consequences.
 Reach (s. a sea term) The distance between any two parts of land lying in a line along the shore.
 Reached (p. from reach) Touched with the hand extended, stretched out, attained.
 Reach'ing (p. a. from reach) Touching with the hand, extending, holding forth, penetrating far, making efforts, attaining.
 Reach'less (adj. from reach) Negligent, heedless. Scott.
 Rea'ct (v. t. from re, and act) To return the impulse, to resist the impression.
 Rea'ced (p. from react) Acted on by reciprocation: with on or upon: as, "An animal fluid must be reacted upon as strongly." Arbutnot.
 Rea'cing (p. a. from react) Returning the impulse, resisting the impression.
 Reaction (s. from react) The resistance given to a force impressed, the reciprocal action which one body has upon another in pressure or collision.
 READ (s. from the Sax. rædan) To peruse any thing written, to discourse by characters or marks, to learn by observation, to know.
 Read (v. int.) To perform the act of reading, to be conversant with books, to know by reading.
 Read (v. t. pret. from the verb, pronounced as though it were written red) Did read.
 Read (p. from the verb, pronounced as though written red) Perused, pronounced out of a book or writing, known by marks and characters.
 Read (s. from the verb, but now grown obsolete) Advice, counsel; a saying, a proverb. Spenser.
 Read (v. t. obsolete) To advise; to guess, to divine. Sp.
 Readep'tion (s. from re, and adept) A recovery, the act of regaining. Bacon.
 Read'er (s. from read) One that reads, one who is studious in books, one whose office it is to read in churches.
 Read'ership (s. from reader) The office of a reader in a church or college.
 Read'ier (adj. comp. of ready) Ready in a greater degree.
 Read'iest (adj. sup. of ready) Ready in the greatest degree.

REA

Read'ily (adv. from ready) Without hesitation, without delay, in an apt manner.

Read'iness (s. from ready) The state of being ready, preparedness, willingness.

Read'ing (p. a. from read) Pronouncing what is written, perusing what is written, understanding by marks and characters.

Read'ing (s. from the part.) The act of pronouncing what is written; the act of perusing books, learning acquired by the study of books; the words or manner in which any thing is read.

READ'ING (s.) A borough town in Berkshire; it has a market on Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 30 miles from London.

Read'ing (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Reading, made at Reading.

Read'ing (adj. from the part, sometimes used in composition) Used for the purpose of reading; appropriated to reading.

Read'ingdesk (s. from reading, and desk) The pew in a church in which the prayers are read, the desk on which a book is placed to be read.

Read'ingschool (s. from reading, and school) A school in which children are taught to read.

Readjourn (v. t. from re, and adjourn) to adjourn again. Bailey.

Readjourn'ed (p. from readjourn) Adjourned a second time, adjourned again.

Readjourn'ing (p. a. from readjourn) Adjourning again.

Readmis'sion (s. from re, and admission) The act of admitting again.

Readmit (v. t. from re, and admit) To admit again.

Readmitt'ed (p. from readmit) Admitted again.

Readmitt'ing (p. a. from readmit) Admitting again.

Readorn (v. t. from re, and adorn) To deck anew, to adorn again.

Readorn'ed (p. from readorn) Decked anew, adorned again.

Readorn'ing (p. a. from readorn) Decking anew, adorning again.

READY (adj. from the Sax. ræd) Prompt, immediate; prepared, willing; opportune, near, quick, nimble; "To make ready," to make preparation, to prepare for a discharge of fire arms.

Ready (adv. from the adj.) Readily, without delay.

Ready (s. from the adj. not used) Present payment, ready money. Arbutnot.

Rel'as (s. from raven) The flag of the Danes.

Reaffir'mance (s. from re, and affirmance) A renewed affirmation. Ayliffe.

Reaffor'ested (adj. from re, and afforest) Afforested a second time.

Reagravation (s. from re, and aggravation, in the Romish church) The last admonition published before excommunication.

REAK'S (s. from the Dat. rex a king) The act of domineering, mad pranks. Bailey.

REAL (adj. from the Lat. realis) Relating to things and not to persons, consisting of land; true, genuine.

REAL (s.) A Spanish coin, a rial. Scott.

RE'ALGAR (s. in natural history) Red arsenick, the sandarach.

Re'alist (s. from real, in school philosophy) One who holds that universals are realities and have an actual existence out of the idea or imagination.

Real'ity (s. from real) Truth, verity; something of importance.

Re'alize (v. t. from real) To bring into being; to bring into act, to press home as a reality on the imagination; to convert money into land.

Re'alized (p. from realize) Brought home as real to the imagination, brought into act; converted as money into land.

Re'alizing (p. a. from realize) Bringing into act, bringing home as real to the imagination; converting money into land.

Re'ally (adv. from real) Actually, truly, verily.

REALM (s. from the French, royaume) A kingdom, the dominion of a king.

RE'ALTY (s. from the Spanish, reale loyal) Loyalty. Mil.

Ream (s. from the French, rame) A bundle of paper containing twenty quires.

Rean'imate (v. t. from re, and animate) To revive, to restore to life.

Rean'imated (p. from reanimate) Revived, restored to life.

Rean'imating (p. a. from reanimate) Reviving, restoring to life.

Reanne'x (v. t. from re, and annex) To annex again.

REA

Reannex'ed (p. from reannex) Annexed again.

Reannex'ing (p. a. from reannex) Annexing again.

REAP (v. t. from the Sax. ræpan) To cut corn at harvest to gather, to obtain.

Reap (v. int.) To perform the act of reaping; to gather the harvest.

Reap'ed (p. from reap) Cut as corn in harvest with a hook or sickle; gathered, obtained.

Reap'er (s. from reap) One that reaps.

Reap'ing (p. a. from reap) Cutting corn in harvest with a hook or sickle, gathering the harvest; obtaining, getting advantage.

Reap'ing (s. from the part.) The act of cutting corn in harvest with a hook or sickle.

Reap'ing (adj. from reap, sometimes used in composition) Used in reaping.

Reap'inghook (s. from reaping, and hook) A hook used to cut corn in harvest.

Reapt (v. t. pret. of reap) Did reap.

Reapt (p. from reap) Reaped.

REAR (s. from the French, arriere) The hinder part, the hinder troop of an army, the hinder line of a fleet of ships; the last class, the last in company.

REAR (adj. from the Sax. hrere, but now grown obsolete) Raw, half roasted. Johnson.

Rear (adj. a local word) Early.

Rear (adv. a local word) Soon, early.

REAR (v. t. from the Sax. araran) To raise up, to lift up, to move upwards, to exalt, to elevate, to raise, to stir up, to bring to maturity, to educate, to instruct.

Rearad'miral (s. from rear, and admiral) The admiral of the third or last division of a royal fleet.

Rear'ed (p. from rear) Raised up, reared, exalted, brought up, educated.

Rear'guard (s. from rear, and guard) The guard that passes last or follows the main body.

Rear'ing (p. a. from rear) Raising up, exalting, bringing up, educating.

Rear'ing (s. from the part.) The act of raising up, the act of bringing to maturity.

Rear'mice (s. plu. of rearmouse) More than one rearmouse. Shakespeare.

Rear'mouse (s. in zoology) The rearmouse, the bat.

Rear'rank (s. from rear, and rank) The last rank of a battalion.

Rear'ward (s. from rear, and ward) The rear, the hinder troop of an army; the end, the latter part.

Reascend (v. t. from re, and ascend) To climb again, to ascend again.

Reascend (v. int.) To mount again.

Reascend'ed (p. from reascend) Ascended again, mounted again.

Reascend'ing (p. a. from reascend) Ascending again, mounting again.

REA'SON (s. from the Lat. ratio) The power by which we deduce one proposition from another, a discerning faculty, clearness of faculties, ratiocination; right justice; a just account, a reasonable claim; moderation; a principle; a cause, a motive.

Rea'son (v. int. from the sub.) To argue rationally, to debate, to raise disquisitions.

Rea'son (v. t. from the sub.) To persuade by argument, to examine rationally.

Rea'sonable (adj. from reason) Having the faculty of reason, endued with reason; just, rational; moderate, tolerable.

Rea'sonableness (s. from reasonable) The faculty of reason, the state or quality of being reasonable.

Rea'sonably (adv. from reasonable) With reason, with moderation.

Reasoned (p. from reason) Influenced by argument, examined rationally.

Reasoner (s. from reason) One that reasons, one engaged at managing an argument.

Reasoning (p. a. from reason) Deducing one proposition from another, debating; persuading by argumentation.

Reasonless (adj. from reason) Void of reason.

Reasonpiece (s. in architecture) An architrave.

Reassemble (v. t. from re, and assemble) To call anew, to call together again.

Reassembled (p. from reassemble) Collected again, called together again.

Reassembling (p. a. from reassemble) Collecting again, gathering together again.

Reassert (v. t. from re, and assert) To assert anew, to affirm again.

Reassert'ed (p. from reassert) Asserted anew; affirmed again.

Reassert'ing (p. a. from reassert) Asserting anew; affirming again.

REB

sign (v. t. from re, and assign) To assign again.
signa'tion (s. from reassign) An assignation repeated, appointment renewed.
signed (p. from reassign) Assigned anew.
sign'ing (p. a. from reassign) Assigning anew.
sume (v. t. from re, and assume) To assume anew, take up again with some degree of dignity.
sum'ed (p. from reassume) Resumed with authority, assumed again.
sum'ing (p. a. from reassume) Resuming with authority, taking up again.
sum'ing (s. from reassume) A reassumption. Bailey.
sumption (s. from re, and assumption) The act of assuming.
TE (s. in botany) A kind of small long grafts that grows in water. Walton.
then (adv. an old word) Soon, early. Bailey.
attach'ment (s. a law term, from re, and attachment) (second attachment).
VE (v. t. from the Sax. ræfian, but now grown obsolete) To take away, to take away by violence. Sb.
ved (p. obsolete from reave) Taken away, taken away by theft or violence.
ving (p. a. obsolete, from reave) Taking away, taking away by stealth or violence, bereaving.
BA (s. from the Heb.) A man's name. Numb. 31.
bapt'iant (s. from re, and baptize) A baptist, one who denies the validity of infant baptism. D. of A.
baptiza'tion (s. from rebaptize) A renewal of baptism, baptism repeated.
baptize (v. t. from re, and baptize) To baptize again.
baptized (p. from rebaptize) Baptized again.
baptizer (s. from rebaptize) One that baptizes again; one of a sect in the third century who rebaptized all heretics upon their return to what they supposed to be the Orthodox faith.
bapt'izing (p. a. from rebaptize) Baptizing again.
BA'TE (v. t. from the French, rebattre) To blunt, to deprive of keenness. Dryden.
bate (v. t. with artificers) To channel, to chamfer.
bate (v. int. in commerce) To discount, to make an allowance on a bill for payment before due.
bate (v. t. in heraldry) To put a mark of dishonour on a coat armorial.
bate (s. from the verb) That which is discounted or allowed for the payment of a draught before due.
bated (p. from rebate) Channeled, chamfered; discounted, lessened by a mark of dishonour; blunted, deprived of keenness.
batement (s. from rebate) An abatement for ready money; a diminution of a bearing in a coat of arms.
bating (p. a. from rebate) Channeling, chamfering, discounting, blunting, depriving of keenness.
ba'to (s. not used) A head dress. Bailey.
BEC (s. a correct spelling, from the French) A musical instrument with three strings, a kind of violin.
BEC'CAH (s. a different spelling) Rebekah.
beck (s. the less modern spelling) The rebec. Milton.
'beck (s. an old word) Rebekah; an old woman. Chaucer.
BECK'AH (s. from the Heb. signifying plump) The name of a woman.
B'EL (s. from the Lat. rebellis) One who opposes lawful authority, one who takes up arms against his sovereign.
BE'L (v. int. from the Lat. rebello) To rise in opposition to lawful authority, to take up arms against ones sovereign; "with against: as, part of the angels rebelled against God."
BEL'LER (s. from rebel) One that rebels.
bell'ing (p. a. from rebel) Opposing lawful authority, taking up arms against ones sovereign.
bell'ion (s. from rebel) An insurrection against lawful authority.
bell'ious (adj. from rebel) Opponent to lawful authority, disposed to rebellion; "with against: as, "rebellious against the Lord."
bell'iously (adv. from rebellious) With rebellion, in a rebellious manner.
bell'iousness (s. from rebellious) The quality of being rebellious.
bel'low (v. int. from re, and bellow) To bellow in return, to echo back a loud noise.
bel'lowing (p. a. from rebellow) Bellowing in return, echoing back a loud noise.
bel'lum (s. an old law term) A rejoinder in the court of equity.

REC

Rebe'sk (v. int. from arabesque) To flourish with branched work. Scott.
Rebina're (v. t. in old records) To plough a second time.
REBISO'LA (s. with the chymists) A medicine prepared from urine good for the jaundice. Bailey.
REBOA'TION (s. from the Lat. rebo, to rebellow) The return of a loud bellowing noise.
Reboun'd (v. int. from re, and bound) To beat back, to return after a stroke, to fly back.
Rebou'nd (s. from the verb) The act of flying back after a stroke, a resilience.
Rebound'ed (p. from rebound) Reverberated, beaten back.
Rebound'ing (p. a. from rebound) Flying back, reverberating.
REBU'FF (s. from the French, rebuffade) A quick sudden resistance, a repercussion.
Rebu'ff (v. t. from the sub.) To oppose with sudden violence, to beat back.
Rebuff'ed (p. from rebuff) Opposed with sudden violence, beaten back.
Rebuff'ing (p. a. from rebuff) Opposing with sudden violence, beating back.
Rebui'd (v. t. from re, and build) To build again, to repair, to reedify.
Rebuild'ed (p. from rebuild) Reedified, repaired.
Rebuild'ing (p. a. from rebuild) Reedifying, building again, repairing.
Rebuild'ing (s. from the part.) The act of building again, that which is rebuilt.
Rebui'lt (v. t. pret. of rebuild) Did rebuild.
Rebui'lt (p. from rebuild) Rebuilt, reedified.
Rebui'kable (adj. from rebuke) Capable of being rebuked, worthy of rebuke.
REBU'KE (v. t. from the French, rebauquer) To chide, to reprehend.
Rebu'ke (s. from the verb) A reprehension, a chiding; a check.
Rebu'ked (p. from rebuke) Reprehended, chidden, checked.
Rebu'ker (s. from rebuke) One that rebukes, a reprehender.
Rebu'king (p. a. from rebuke) Reprehending, chiding.
RE'BUS (s. from the Lat.) A name or word represented by things, a kind of riddle; a coat of arms having some resemblance to the name of the family that bears it.
REBU'T (v. int. from the French, but now grown obsolete) To retreat. Spenser.
Rebut'ter (s. a law term, from rebut) An answer to a rejoinder.
Reca'l (v. t. from re, and call) To call back, to revoke.
Reca'l (s. from the verb) A revocation, an act of power revoked, the act of calling back.
RECAL'CITRATE (v. t. from the Lat. recalcitro, but not used) To kick backwards, to kick back with the heel. Bailey.
Reca'll (v. t. a different spelling) To recal, to call back, to revoke. Johnson.
Reca'll (s. from the verb) A recal, a revocation. Johnson.
Recall'ed (p. from recal) Called back, revoked.
Recall'ing (p. a. from recal) Calling back, revoking.
RECA'NT (v. t. from the Lat. recanto to sing again) To recal, to retract, to contradict what one has said or done before.
Recanta'tion (s. from recant) A declaration contrary to a former declaration.
Recant'ed (p. from recant) Retracted.
Recant'er (s. from recant) One that recants.
Recant'ing (p. a. from recant) Retracting, contradicting a former declaration.
Recapac'itate (v. t. from re, and capacitate) To capacitate again. Scott.
Recapac'itated (p. from recapacitate) Capacitated again.
Recapac'itating (p. a. from recapacitate) Capacitating again.
Recapit'ulate (v. t. from re, and capitulate) To repeat again, to detail again, to mention particulars over again.
Recapit'ulated (p. from recapitulate) Mentioned over again, detailed again.
Recapit'ulating (p. a. from recapitulate) Mentioning particulars over again, detailing again.
Recapitula'tion (s. from recapitulate) A distinct repetition of heads or particulars, a detail of particulars mentioned over again.

REC

Recapitulatory (adj. from recapitulate) Repeating again.

RECAPTION (s. a law term) A second distress of one formerly distrained for the same cause; a writ lying for one so distrained.

Recarried (p. from recarry) Carried back.

Recarry (v. t. from re, and carry) To carry back.

Recarrying (p. a. from recarry) Carrying back.

RECEDE (v. int. from the Lat. recedo) To retreat, to fall back, to desert; with from: as, "they had not authority to recede from one proposition."

Receding (p. a. from recede) Retreating, falling back, deserting.

RECEIPT (s. from the Lat. receptum) The act of receiving, the place of receiving; a reception, an admission; a note acknowledging that money has been received; a prescription of ingredients for any composition.

Receivable (adj. from receive) Capable of being received.

RECEIVE (v. t. from the Lat. recipio) To take, to obtain; to take as due, to take as communicated; to take into any place, to take into any state; to conceive in the mind, to entertain as a guest; to allow, to admit.

Received (p. from receive) Taken, obtained; allowed, admitted.

Receivedness (s. from received) The state of being generally received. Boyle.

Receiver (s. from receive) One that receives; an officer of the public revenue: the vessel into which spirits are emitted from the still; the vessel with which experiments are made with the air pump.

Receivergeneral (s. from receiver, and general) An officer who receives the revenues of any district.

Receiving (p. a. from receive) Taking, obtaining, admitting, allowing.

Recelebrate (v. t. from re, and celebrate) To celebrate anew. Ben. Johnson.

Recelebrated (p. from reccelebrate) Celebrated anew.

Recelebrating (p. a. from reccelebrate) Celebrating anew.

Recency (s. from recent) Newness, a new state.

RECENSION (s. from the Lat. recensio) A review, an enumeration. Everh.

RECENT (adj. from the Lat. recens) New, late, fresh.

Recently (adv. from recent) Newly, lately, freshly.

Recentness (s. from recent) The state or quality of being recent.

RECEPTACLE (s. from the Lat. receptaculum) A vessel or place into which any thing is received.

RECEPTACULUM (s. from the Lat.) A receptacle.

RECEPTARI (s. with physicians) Those who practise physic on the recipes of others without any knowledge of their own.

RECEPTARY (s. from the Lat. receptus, but not used) The thing received. Brown.

Receptibility (s. from receptible) The possibility of receiving. Glanville.

RECEPTIBLE (adj. from the Lat. recipio to receive, but not used) Capable of being received.

RECEPTION (s. from the Lat. receptus) The act of receiving, the state of being received; the act of containing; a readmission, treatment at first coming; an affection of the mind, a passion; an opinion generally received. Locke.

RECEPTITIOUS (adj. from the Lat. receptitius) Receiving to one's own use what should be applied to the use of another. Scott.

RECEPTIVE (adj. from the Lat. receptus) Disposed to receive, having the quality of admitting what is communicated.

Receptive (s. from the adj.) That which receives.

Receptivity (s. from receptive) The state of being receptive. Cole.

RECEETORY (adj. from the Lat. receptus) Generally received. Brown.

RECESS (s. from the Lat. recessus) A retreat, a withdrawal; a place of retirement, a secret abode; remission, a suspension of any procedure; a secret part; a part withdrawn or set in some other part.

Recess (s. from recess) The act of retreating; the recess of the equinoctial points which is observed to be about fifty seconds in a year.

RECEVOIR (s. from the French) A large basin, a receptacle for water.

REC

RECHAB (s. from the Heb. signifying a chariot) A name.

Re'chabite (s. from Rechab) A descendant of Rechab.

Recha'ce (v. t. from re, and chace) To drive back the place from whence first started.

Recha'ced (p. from rechace) Driven back to the place from whence started.

Recha'cing (p. a. from rechace) Driving back to the place from whence started.

Recha'nge (v. t. from re, and change) To change again.

Rechan'ge (s. in commerce) The price of exchange paid a second time on the same bill in case of its being protested and returned.

Rechan'ged (p. from rechange) Changed again.

Rechan'ging (p. a. from rechange) Changing again.

Recha'rge (v. t. from re, and charge) To attack anew to accuse in return.

Recharg'ed (p. from recharge) Attacked anew, accused in return.

Recharg'ing (p. a. from recharge) Attacking anew, accusing in return.

Recha'fe (v. t. a different spelling) To rechace. Cham.

Reche (v. t. obsolete) To value, to esteem, to take care for. Cham.

RECHEAT (s. a hunting term) The lesson which the huntman winds on the horn when the dogs are at fault to bring them back from pursuing a common scent.

Rech'elefness (s. obsolete, from rechelefs) Negligence, carelessness. Cham.

Rech'elese (adj. obsolete) Rash, negligent, careless. Cham.

Rech'lefs (adj. a more modern spelling) Careless, negligent. Cham.

Rech'lefsness (s. from rechlefs) Carelessness, negligence. Cham.

Recidiv'ation (s. from recidiuous) A relapse, the act of falling back.

RECIDIVOUS (adj. from the Lat. recidivus) Falling back, subject to fall again.

RECIDIVUS MORBUS (s. from the Lat. with physicians) The relapse of a disease.

RECIPE (s. from the Lat. with physicians) A medical prescription.

RECIPIAN'GLE (s. from the Lat. recipio to take, angulus an angle) An instrument for measuring angles; a recipient angle in fortification.

RECIPIENT (adj. from the Lat. recipiens) Receiving, capable of receiving.

Recip'ient (s. from the adj.) That to which any thing is communicated, a vessel to receive any thing.

RECIPROCAL (adj. from the Lat. reciprocus) Mutually equal on both sides, acting by turns; convertible, capable of being interchanged; having the fourth term or number so much less than the second as the third is greater than the first.

Recip'rocally (adv. from reciprocal) Mutually, interchangeably.

Recip'rocalsness (s. from reciprocal) The state of being reciprocal.

Recip'rocate (v. int. from reciprocal) To act alternately.

Recip'rocating (p. a. from reciprocate) Acting alternately.

Reciprocation (s. from reciprocate) An alternation, action interchanged.

RECIPROCOR'NOUS (adj. from reciprocus turning back, and cornu a horn) Having horns that turn backwards and forwards like those of a ram.

RECISION (s. from the Lat. recisus) The act of cutting off.

Recital (s. from recite) A repetition, a rehearsal; an enumeration.

Recitation (s. from recite) A rehearsal, a repetition.

Recitative (adj. from recite) Done with a kind of musical pronunciation, done in a kind of chaunt.

Recitativ'e (s. from recitative) A recitative, a chaunt.

Recitati'vo (s. from the adj.) A chaunt, a kind of musical pronunciation.

RECITE (v. t. from the Lat. recito) To rehearse, repeat, to tell over again.

Recite (s. from the verb, but not used) A recital. Temple.

Recit'ed (p. from recite) Rehearsed, repeated, told over again.

Recit'ing (p. a. from recite) Rehearsing, repeating, telling over again.

RECK (v. int. from the Sax. recan, still retained in Scotland) To heed; to be in care.

Reck (v. t.) To care for. Shakespeare.

REC

(s. an old word) Care.
 (v. t. obsolete) To reckon.
 (s. a local word) Pothooks.
 (v. t. obsolete) To care for.
 (p. a. from reck, but now grown obsolete)
 ing, caring for.
 (s. from reckless) Carelessness.
 (adj. from reck) Careless, heedless, unaffected.
 (Shakespeare.)
 (v. t. from the Sax. reccan) To number, to int; to value, to esteem; to assign in an account.
 (v. int.) To compute, to state an account, to state an account, to call to punishment; to have dependence; with for, with, on and upon: as, "they all reckon for it." To reckon with them." You reckon upon losing your friend's kindness."
 (p. from reckon) Put into account, brought a reckoning; numbered, counted.
 (s. from reckon) One who reckons.
 (p. a. from reckon) Computing, or numbering, placing to account, settling an account, depending on.
 (s. from the part.) A computation, an account; money charged for entertainment at an inn;
 item, estimation.
 (v. t. from the Lat. reclaimo to call back) To bring to correct; to recall, to tame, to reduce to a state desired.
 (p. from reclaim) Reformed, corrected,
 tamed, reduced to a state desired, tamed.
 (p. a. from reclaim) Reforming, taming, taming, reducing to a state desired.
 (s. from reclaim) The act of crying out against a complaint. Scott.
 (s. from recline) The act of leaning backwards.
 (v. t. from the Lat. reclino) To lean back,
 lean sidewise.
 (adj. from the verb) Reclined, leaning backward. Milton.
 (p. from recline) Bent backward, turned sidewise.
 (s. from recline) A reclining dial.
 (p. a. from recline) Leaning backwards, leaning sidewise.
 (v. t. from re, and close) To close again.
 (p. from reclose) Closed again.
 (p. a. from reclose) Closing again.
 (v. t. a scientific word, from the Lat. recludo open) To unstop, to open.
 (p. from reclude) Opened, unstoppered.
 (p. a. from reclude) Opening, unstoppering.
 (adj. from the Lat. reclusus) Shut up, recluse; with to, and from: as, "Recluse from human converse." "Recluse to Ceres."
 (s. from the adj.) One shut up, one retired from the world.
 (s. from reclude) The state of a recluse.
 (s. from re, and coagulation) A second coagulation.
 (v. int. from re, and cogitate) To think again. Bailey.
 (p. a. from recogitate) Thinking again.
 (s. from the French) An acknowledgment, a token; a bond for the payment of money entered in a court of record; the verdict of a jury on an assize.
 (v. i. from the Lat. recognosco to acknow- ledge) To remember, to acknowledge, to mention as own, to review, to examine.
 (p. from recognise) Acknowledged, mentioned as known.
 (s. from recognise) One in whose favour a bond or recognizance is given.
 (p. a. from recognise) Acknowledging, mentioning as known.
 (s. from recognise) One who enters into a recognizance.
 (s. from recognise) An acknowledgment, renewal of acquaintance, a review, an acknowledgment of any person or thing as known.
 (s. not so correct a spelling) A recognizance. Scott.
 (v. t. not so correct a spelling) To recognize. Scott.
 (s. not so correct a spelling) A recognizee.
 (s. not so correct a spelling) A recognizer. Sc.
 (v. int. from the French, reculer) To fly back in consequence of resistance, to fall back, to fail, to sink.

REC

(s. from the verb) A rebound, the rebound of a gun after the discharge.
 (p. a. from recoil) Rebounding, falling back, falling, shrinking.
 (v. t. from re, and coin) To coin over again.
 (s. from recoin) The act of recoinage.
 (p. from recoin) Coined over again.
 (p. a. from recoin) Coining over again.
 (v. t. from re, and collect) To recall to memory, to recover reason, to recover resolution; to gather again, to collect what has been scattered.
 (s. in church history) A kind of Franciscan.
 (p. from recollect) Recalled to memory, collected again.
 (p. a. from recollect) Recalling to memory, recovering resolution, collecting what has been scattered.
 (s. from recollect) A revival in the memory, the act of recalling to the mind.
 (v. t. from re, and comfort) To console again, to comfort again; to give new strength.
 (p. from recomfort) Comforted again, strengthened again.
 (s. from the part. put absolutely) One recomforted, the people recomforted. Shakespeare.
 (p. a. from recomfort) Comforting again, giving new strength.
 (v. t. obsolete) To recommend. Ch.
 (v. t. from re, and commence) To begin anew.
 (p. from recommence) Commenced a-
 new.
 (s. from recommence) A commencement renewed, the point of time from which any thing renewed takes date.
 (p. a. from recommence) Beginning
 anew.
 (v. t. from re, and commend) To make acceptable, to speak in praise of one to another, to commit with prayers.
 (adj. from recommend) Worthy of commendation.
 (s. from recommend) The act of recommending, that which secures a kind reception.
 (adj. from recommend) Belonging to recommendation, containing recommendation.
 (p. from recommend) Made acceptable, praised to another, commended.
 (s. from recommend) One who recommends.
 (p. a. from recommend) Commending to another, making acceptable, committing with prayers.
 (v. t. from re, and commit) To commit
 anew.
 (s. from recommit) A commitment renewed.
 (p. from recommit) Committed anew.
 (p. a. from re, and commit) Committing anew.
 (v. t. from re, and compact) To join anew.
 (p. from recompact) Joined anew.
 (p. a. from recompact) Joining anew.
 (s. not so correct a spelling) To recompense. Scott.
 (v. t. from the French recompenser) To repay, to requite; to compensate, to give in requital;
 to redeem, to pay for.
 (s. from the verb) The act of rewarding,
 a compensation; an equivalent.
 (p. from recompense) Repaid, requited, compensated.
 (p. a. from recompense) Repaying, re-quiting, compensating.
 (s. from re, and compilement) A new compilement. Bacon.
 (v. t. from re, and compose) To compose anew, to quiet again, to form anew.
 (p. from recompose) Composed anew.
 (p. a. from recompose) Composing
 anew.
 (s. from recompose) A renewed composition.
 (v. t. from the Lat. reconcilio) To compose different parties, to bring to like again, to restore to favor; to make consistent, to obviate seeming contradictions.
 (adj. from reconcile) Capable of being reconciled.
 Reconcilableness

Reconcilable (s. from reconcile) The state of being reconcilable.

Reconciled (p. from reconcile) Restored to former friendship, brought to a reconciliation, restored to favour; made consistent.

Reconciliation (s. from reconcile) A reconciliation, a renewal of friendship.

Reconciler (s. from reconcile) One that reconciles.

Reconcilia'ti (v. t. an old law term) To consecrate afresh.

Reconcilia'tion (s. from reconcile) A renewal of friendship, a solution of seeming contrarieties, an agreement of things seemingly opposite.

Reconciliative (adj. from reconciliation) Tending to reconciliation.

Reconciliatory (adj. from reconciliation) Belonging to reconciliation.

Reconciling (p. a. from reconcile) Bringing to a reconciliation, restoring to favor, making consistent.

Recondense (v. t. from re, and condense) To condense anew.

Recondensed (p. from recondense) Condensed anew.

Recondensing (p. a. from recondense) Condensing anew.

RECON/DITE (adj. from the Lat. reconditus) Secret, hidden, abstruse.

Recon'ditory (s. from recondite) A repository, a storehouse.

Recondu'ct (v. t. from re, and conduct) To conduct again, to conduct back.

Recondu'cted (p. from reconduct) Conducted back.

Recondu'ct'ing (p. a. from reconduct) Conducting back.

Reconjoin (v. t. from re, and conjoin) To join anew.

Reconjoin'ed (p. from reconjoin) Joined anew.

Reconjoin'ing (p. a. from reconjoin) Joining anew.

RECONNOI'TRE (v. t. a military term, from the French) To take a view of, to observe the strength or position of a fleet or army.

Reconnoit'ed (p. from reconnoitre) Viewed, observed.

Reconnoit'ing (p. a. from reconnoitre) Viewing, observing the strength or position of a fleet or army.

Reconquer (v. t. from re, and conquer) To conquer again.

Reconquered (p. from reconquer) Conquered again.

Reconquering (p. a. from reconquer) Conquering again.

Reconsecrate (v. t. from re, and consecrate) To consecrate anew.

Reconsecrated (p. from reconsecrate) Consecrated anew.

Reconsecrating (p. a. from reconsecrate) Consecrating anew.

Reconvene (v. t. from re, and convene) To assemble anew.

Reconven'ed (p. from reconvene) Convened anew.

Reconven'ing (p. a. from reconvene) Assembling anew.

Reconven'tion (s. a law term, from reconvene) A contrary action brought by the defendant.

Reconvey (v. t. from re, and convey) To convey again.

Reconvey'ed (p. from reconvey) Conveyed again.

Reconvey'ing (p. a. from reconvey) Conveying again.

RECO/RD (v. t. from the Lat. recordor to remember) To register, to cause to be remembered.

Rec'ord (s. from the verb) A register, an authentic memorial; a register laid up or entered in a court or public office.

Recor'da (s. a law term) The records of the pleadings, suits and issues of the causes tried in the court of Exchequer.

Recorda'tion (s. from record, but not used) A remembrance. Shakespeare.

Record'ed (p. from record) Registered, laid up as a record, kept in remembrance.

Record'er (s. from record) One whose business is to register events, the keeper of the rolls in a city; a kind of lute.

Record'ing (p. a. from record) Registering, keeping in memory.

Recouch (v. int. from re, and couch) To lie down again.

Recouch'ing (p. a. from recouch) Lying down again.

RECOV'ER (v. t. from the Lat. recupero) To restore from sickness, to repair, to regain, to attain, to reach; to release, to obtain liberty.

Recov'er (v. int.) To grow well from any disease.

Recoverable (adj. from recover) Capable of being restored from sickness, capable of being regained.

Recoverableness (s. from recoverable) The state of being recoverable.

Recovered (p. from recover) Restored, restored from sickness, regained.

Recovering (p. a. from recover) Growing well from sickness, restoring, regaining.

Recov'ery (s. from recover) A restoration from sickness, the power or act of regaining, the act of effectually cutting off an entail, the deed by which the entail is cut off.

Recou'nt (v. t. from re, and count) To relate in detail, to tell over distinctly.

Recount'ed (p. from recount) Related in detail, over distinctly.

Recount'ing (p. a. from recount) Relating in detail, telling over distinctly.

Recount'ment (s. from recount) A relation, a detail.

RECOU'PE (v. t. from the French recouper) To cut again; to discount.

Recou'pe (s. a law term) A quick and sharp reply, a peremptory demand.

Recou'ped (p. from recoupe) Cut short, discounted.

Recou'ping (p. a. from recoupe) Cutting short, discounting.

Re'cour (s. obsolete) A recovery.

Recour'ed (p. obsolete) Recovered.

RECOU'RSE (s. from the Lat. recursus) An application for help or protection, access; a return, a retreat; a frequent passage; but these last senses are now obsolete.

Recoy'l (v. int. an obsolete spelling) To recoil.

Re'creandise (s. an old word) Infidelity.

RE'CREANT (adj. from the French recriant) Cowardly, mean-spirited; apostate, false; with to: as, "Turn recreant to God."

Re'creantise (s. from recreant) Cowardice.

RE'CREATE (v. t. from the Lat. recreo) To refresh, to toil, to delight, to gratify, to revive, to relieve.

Re'created (p. from recreate) Refreshed, delighted, revived, relieved.

Re'creating (p. a. from recreate) Refreshing, gratifying, relieving.

Recreation (s. from recreate) Relief after toil, amusement, diversion.

Re'creative (adj. from recreate) Refreshing, giving relief, amusing, diverting.

Re'creativeness (s. from recreative) The quality of creating.

Re'creance (s. obsolete) Treason, falsehood, infidelity.

Re'creandise (s. obsolete) Treason, falsehood, infidelity.

Re'creant (s. obsolete) An infidel, one that betrays trust.

Recreden'tial (s. from re, and credential) An answer to the credential letters of an ambassador.

RE'CREMENT (s. from the Lat. recrementum) Drunkenness, the superfluous part of any thing.

Recremen'tal (adj. from recrement) Drizzly, consisting of the refuse of any thing.

Recrementit'ious (adj. from recrement) Drizzly, mental, consisting of the refuse.

RECRIMINATE (v. int. from the Lat. recriminor) To return one accusation for another, to return an accusation.

Recrim'inate (v. t. but not much used) To accuse in return.

Recrim'inating (p. a. from recriminate) Returning accusation with another, returning an accusation.

Recrimina'tion (s. from recriminate) The return of accusation with another.

Recrimina'tor (s. from recriminate) One who returns one charge or accusation with another.

Re'crudes'cence (s. from recrudescere) The state of growing raw or sore again; a kind of relapse.

RECRUDES'CENT (adj. from the Lat. recrudescere) Growing painful again, growing worse again.

Recrudescen'tia (s. with physicians) A kind of relapse, the state of growing worse.

RECRUIT (v. t. from the French recruter) To replenish, to strengthen by fresh supplies, to supply an army with fresh men.

Recruit (v. int.) To raise new soldiers.

Recruit (s. from the verb) A new supply, a new soldier.

Recruit'ed (p. from recruit) Repaired, furnished with a fresh supply, furnished with new soldiers.

Recruit'ing (p. a. from recruit) Repairing, furnishing with fresh supplies, supplying with new soldiers.

Recruit'ing (s. from the part.) The act of procuring fresh supplies, the act of strengthening the army with new soldiers.

RECTAN'GLE (s. from the Lat. rectus right, and angulus) angle A plain figure with one or more right angles; a right angle; a parallelogram.

REC

RED

angled (adj. from rectangle) Consisting of one or more right angles.
angular (adj. from rectangle) Right angled, having one or more angles of ninety degrees.
angularity (s. from rectangular) The state or quality of being rectangular.
angularly (adv. from rectangular) With right angles.
angularness (s. from rectangular) Rectangularity, quality of having right angles.
REACTIO, RECTATION (s. a law term) A claim of right, an appeal to the laws for the recovery of a right.
rectifiable (adj. from rectify) Capable of being rectified.
rectification (s. from rectify) The act of setting right; mensuration of a curve line; a double distillation.
rectifier (s. from rectify) One that rectifies; an instrument to determine the variation of the compass.
RECTIFY (v. t. from the Lat. rectus right, and facio make) To make right, to reform, to redress; to rectify, to improve by distillation repeated; to measure a curve line.
rectifying (p. a. from rectify) Making right, reforming, improving by repeated distillation, measuring a curve line.
RECTILINEAL (adj. from the Lat. rectus right, and a line) Rectilinear, consisting of right lines.
RECTILINEAR (adj. from the Lat. rectus right, and a line) Consisting of right lines.
RECTILINEOUS (adj. from the Lat. rectus right, and a line) Consisting of straight lines. Ray.
RECTIMINOUS (s. in anatomy) Two small muscles of the head.
RECTITUDE (s. from the Lat. rectus right) Straightness, the opposite to crookedness; uprightness, freedom from moral obliquity.
rectitudes (s. a law term) Rights, lawful dues.
RECTITY (s. from the Lat. rectus right, but not used) Rectitude, rightness. Bailey.
RECTOR (s. a law term) A writ of right.
RECTOR (s. from the Lat.) A ruler, a governor; the head of an unimpropriated living.
rectorial (adj. from rector) Belonging to a rector.
rectorship (s. from rector) The rank or office of a rector.
rectory (s. from rector) A parsonage or spiritual living comprehending the great as well as the small tithes, a spiritual living composed of lands, tithes and other possessions of the people; the house or mansion of the rector.
RECTUM (s. in anatomy) The last of the intestines, the straight gut which descends to the anus.
RECTUS (s. in anatomy) The name of several muscles called on account of the straightness of their fibres.
RECUBATION (s. from the Lat. recubo to lie down) The act of lying down.
recube (v. t. obsolete) To recoil. Spenser.
recumbence (s. from recumbent) The posture of lying, the posture of leaning, rest, repose.
recumbency (s. more commonly used) Recumbence.
RECUMBENT (adj. from the Lat. recubo to lie down) Lying down, leaning.
recoverable (adj. obsolete) Recoverable. Chaucer.
RECOVERY (s. from the Lat. recupero to recover) Recovery, the act of recovering. Scott.
RECOVERATORY (adj. from the Lat. recupero to recover) Belonging to recovery. Scott.
RECUR (v. t. from the Lat. recurro) To come back, to rise in the mind from past remembrance; to have recourse to, to take refuge in; with to: as, "The second cause we know, but trouble not ourselves to recur to the first."
recure (v. t. from re, and cure) To recover from sickness, to recover from sickness.
recure (s. from the verb) A remedy, a recovery.
recured (p. from recure) Restored, recovered; with as, "The wanton boy was well recured of his madness." Spenser.
recured (p. obsolete) Recured, recovered. Chaucer.
recuring (p. a. from recure) Recovering, making well.
recurrence (s. from recur) A return.
recurrency (s. from recurrence, but not so common a word) A recurrence.
recurrent (adj. from recur) Returning from time to time.
recurrent (s. in anatomy, from the adj.) The large branch of the nerve that spreads itself over the thorax.
recursion (s. from recur) A return.

RECURVATION (s. from the Lat. recurvo to bend back) A recurvity, a flexure backwards.
RECURVED (adj. from the Lat. recurvo to bend backwards) Bent backward.
Recurvedness (s. from recurved) Recurvity, the state of being bent backwards. Scott.
RECURVOSTRA (s. in ornithology, from the Lat. recurvus bent backwards, and rostrum a beak) A genus of birds having the bill depressed and bent backwards; the name of a bird.
RECURVITY (s. from the Lat. recurvo) The state of being bent backwards.
RECURVOUS (adj. from the Lat. recurvo to bend back) Bent backwards.
Recusable (adj. from recuse) Refusable, fit to be refused.
Recusancy (s. from recusant) The state of a recusant, nonconformity.
Recusant (s. from recuse) A nonconformist, one who refused to take certain oaths, one who does not acknowledge the supremacy of the king in matters of religion.
Recusant (adj. from recuse) Refusing terms of communion, refusing to take certain oaths.
Recusation (s. from recuse, a law term) The act by which a judge is desired to refrain trying a cause in which he is supposed to be personally interested.
RECUSE (v. int. a law term, from the Lat. recuso) To refuse.
Recused (p. from recuse) Refused.
Recusing (p. a. from recuse) Refusing.
RECUSABLE (adj. from the French) Capable of being beaten back. Scott.
RECUSION (s. from the Lat. recusio) The act of shaking back, the state of being beaten back. Scott.
RED (adj. from the Sax.) Having the colour of blood, being of that colour which is composed of the least refrangible rays.
Red (s. from the adj.) The colour of blood, that primary colour which is composed of the least refrangible rays, a red colour.
REDACED (adj. from the Lat. redactus, but not used) Forced backwards. Cole.
REDAMANCY (s. from the Lat. redamo to love those that love us, but not used) The act of reciprocal love. Cole.
REDAMATION (s. from the Lat. redamo) The act of reciprocal love. Cole.
REDAN (s. in fortification) A kind of work with salient and reentering angles. Scott.
REDANS (s. in fortification) The redan. Dict. of Arts.
Redant (s. in fortification) The redan, a kind of indented work.
REDARGUE (v. t. from the Lat. redarguo, but not used) To refute. Hakewell.
Redargution (s. from redargue) A confutation. Scott.
Redberried (adj. in botany) Bearing red berries.
Redbook (s. in the exchequer) An ancient manuscript containing a list of those who held lands in baronage.
Redbreast (s. in ornithology) The robin, a small bird so called from the colour of its breast.
Redcoat (s. a cant word, from red, and coat) A soldier in contempt.
Redde (adj. obsolete) Advised. Chaucer.
Redden (v. t. from red) To make red.
Redden (v. int.) To grow red.
Reddened (p. from redder) Made red.
REDDENDUM (s. a law term) The clause by which the rent is reserved to the lessor.
Reddening (p. a. from redder) Making red, becoming red.
Redder (adj. comp. of red) Red in a greater degree.
Reddest (adj. sup. of red) Red in the greatest degree.
Reddish (adj. from red) Tending to redness.
Reddishness (s. from reddish) A tendency to redness.
REDDITORIUM (s. in old records) A rental.
Redditiarius (s. in old records) A tenant.
REDDITION (s. from the Lat. reddo to render) The act of giving again, the surrender of a place; a judicial acknowledgement that a thing belongs to the demandant.
Redditive (adj. from reddition) Belonging to reddition; answering to an interrogation.
RED'DITUSASSISUS (s. from the Lat.) A fixed rent.
Reddle (s. in natural history) A kind of red chalk.
Reddour (s. obsolete) Violence. Chaucer.
Rede (s. from the Sax. but now grown obsolete) Advice, counsel; a reed. Chaucer.
Rede (v. t. from the sub. obsolete) To advise, to counsel, to guess, to explain, to read. Shakespeare.
REDEEM (v. t. from the Lat. redimo) To ransom, to rescue, to recover, to recompense, to make an atonement, to save from sin and its consequences.
Redeemable

RED

Redee'mable (adj. from redeem) Capable of being redeemed.

Redee'mableness (s. from redeemable) The state of being redeemable.

Redee'med (p. from redeem) Ransomed, rescued, saved from sin and its consequences.

Redee'mer (s. from redeem) One who redeems; the Saviour.

Re'deless (adj. an old word) Helpless. Bailey.

Redeliv'er (v. t. from re, and deliver) To deliver back.

Redeliv'ered (p. from redeliver) Delivered back.

Redeliv'ering (p. a. from redeliver) Delivering back.

Redeliv'ery (s. from redeliver) The act of delivering back.

Redema'nd (v. t. from re, and demand) To demand back.

Redemand'ed (p. from redemand) Demanded back.

Redemand'ing (p. a. from redemand) Demanding back.

Rede'mir (s. an old spelling) The Redeemer. Chaucer.

Redemi'se (v. t. a law term) To grant back.

Redemi'sed (p. from redemise) Granted back.

Redemi'sing (p. a. from redemise) Granting back.

Redemption (s. from redeem) A ransom, a release, a deliverance; the deliverance from sin and the consequences of it by the death of Christ.

Redemp'tional (adj. from redemption) Belonging to redemption.

Redemp'tory (adj. from redemption) Belonging to redemption, procuring redemption.

REDEN'IGRATE (v. t. from the Lat. denigro to make black, but not used) To cover again with black. Bailey.

Red'ens (s. in fortification) The redent. Dict. of Arts.

RED'ENT (s. in fortification) A kind of indented work with salient and re-entering angles.

Rede'vable (adj. an old word) Indebted, obliged. Sc.

Red'gum (s. from red, and gum) A disease incident to infants.

REDHIB'ITION (s. a law term) An action to oblige the seller to take back a commodity on the buyer's finding it damaged.

Red'hot (adj. from red, and hot) Heated to redness; agitated with violent anger.

REDIC'ULUS (s. in heathen mythology) An imaginary deity who was supposed to have frightened Hannibal from Rome.

REDIN'T'EGRATE (adj. from the Lat. redintegratus) Restored, renewed. Bacon.

REDIN'TEGRATE (v. t. from the Lat. redintegrare) To renew, to restore. Scott.

Redin'tegrated (p. from redintegrate) Restored, renewed.

Redin'tegrating (p. a. from redintegrate) Restoring, renewing.

Redintegration (s. from redintegrate) A renovation, a restoration, the process of reducing any mixed body to its former constitution by chymical operations.

Rediffeis'in (s. a law term) A second diffisin.

Redit'ta (s. in music books) A repeat.

REDIT'UARY (s. in ecclesiastical history) A kind of Franciscan.

Red'lead (s. from red, and lead) Minium.

Red'olence (s. from redolent) A sweet scent.

Red'olency (s. from redolence) A sweet scent.

RED'OLENT (adj. from the Lat. redoleo to sent forth a sweet smell) Sweet of scent, having a grateful smell.

RED'ONATE (v. t. from the Lat. redono to give again, but not used) To restore. Cole.

Red'onated (p. from redonate, but not used) Restored.

Red'onating (p. a. from redonate, but not used) Restoring.

Redou'ble (v. t. from re, and double) To repeat often, to increase by the addition of the same quantity over and over again.

Redou'ble (v. int.) To become twice as much.

Redoub'led (p. from redouble) Repeated over again, increased by an addition of the same quantity.

Redoub'ling (p. a. from redouble) Repeating over again, increasing by an addition of the same quantity.

REDOUT (s. in fortification, from the French redoute) A fortress, the out-work of a fortification.

Redoubt'able (adj. from redoubt) Formidable, terrible to foes.

REDOU'BTE (v. t. obsolete) To fear, to reverence. Ch.

Redoubt'ed (p. from redoubt) Feared, revered, dreadful, awful. Shakespeare.

Redoubt'ing (s. obsolete, from redoubt) Honour, reverence. Chaucer.

REDOU'ND (v. int. from the Lat. redundo to abound) To come by consequence, to conduce in consequence; to come back by reaction; with from, and to: as,

RED

There will no small use redound from them to manufacture."

Redound'ing (p. a. from redound) Coming back by action, coming as a consequence, conducting by sequence.

Redou'te (s. a different spelling) A redoubt. Dict. of Arts.

REDRE'SS (v. t. from the French redresser) To set to amend, to relieve, to remedy.

Redre'ss (s. from the verb) A reformation; an amendment, a relief, a remedy; one who gives relief.

Redre'ssed (p. from redress) Amended, remedied, relieved.

Redre'ssin (v. t. an old spelling) To redress. Ch.

Redre'ssing (p. a. from redress) Amending, remedying, relieving.

Redre'ssive (adj. from redress) Tending to redress.

RED'SEA (s. in geography, from red, and sea) The Arabian gulph; it separates Africa from Asia.

Red'sear (v. int. in iron works) To break under the hammer in consequence of being over heated in the fire.

Red'sear (v. int. a different spelling) To redsear, to break under the hammer.

RED'SHANK (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird.

Red'shank (s. a cant word) A Scotchman in a tempt.

Red'shanks (s. in botany) The arsefmarkt.

Red'shire (v. int. a different spelling) To redsear.

RED'START (s. in ornithology) The name of a small bird.

Red'streak (s. from red, and streak) The name of an apple reckoned very good for cyder; the cyder from the redstreak.

Redu'ber (s. a law term) One who buys cloth knowing it to be stolen and reduces it to some other form of colour in order to prevent a discovery.

REDUCE (v. t. from the Lat. reduco) To bring to former state, to bring to order, to subdue, to reduce to a rule.

Reduced (p. a. from reduce) Restored, brought to former state, subdued, subjected, brought to power.

Redu'cement (s. from reduce) The act of bringing to the act of reforming, the act of diminishing.

Redu'cer (s. from reduce) One that reduces.

Redu'cible (adj. from reduce) Capable of being reduced.

Redu'cibleness (s. from reducible) The quality of being reducible.

Reduc'ing (p. a. from reduce) Bringing back to former state, bringing to order, subduing, bringing to poverty or misery.

Redu'it (s. in building) A little place or corner taken off a larger to make it more uniform.

Redu'it (s. in fortification) A place to which an army retire with advantage in case of a surprize.

Reduction (s. from reduce) The act of reducing; in arithmetic by which two or more numbers of different denominations are reduced to one denomination.

Reductive (adj. from reduce) Having the power to reduce.

Reductively (adv. from reductive) By reduction, consequence.

Redu'it (s. in fortification) A reduct.

REDUL'CERATE (v. t. from the Lat. redulcero, but not used) To renew a wound.

Redul'cerated (p. from redulcerate, but not used) Renewed as a wound.

Redul'cerating (p. a. from redulcerate, but not used) Renewing a wound.

Redund'ance (s. from redundant) A superabundance, superfluity.

Redund'ancy (s. from redundant) A redundancy, a superfluity.

REDUND'ANT (adj. from the Lat. redundo, to back) Superabundant, superfluous; using more words or images than necessary.

Redun'dantly (adv. from redundant) Superabundantly, superfluously.

Redu'plicate (v. t. from re, and duplicate) To double.

Redu'plicate (adj. from the verb) Doubled, reduplicated.

Redu'plicated (p. from reduplicate) Doubled.

Redu'plicating (p. a. from reduplicate) Doubling.

Reduplica'tion (s. from reduplicate) The act of doubling.

Redu'plicative (adj. from reduplicate) Double, fold.

REDU'VIA (s. from the Lat.) The looseness of the skin about the root of the nails; the cast skin of a viper.

REDU'VIUS (s. in zoology) The sheep's tick. Red.

water (s. in farriery) The matter issuing from a wound or sore.
 wing (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird.
 (v. t. the etymology is unknown) To riddle, to Mortimer.
 (s. in Portugal) A small coin, the fortieth part of a ryal.
 echo (v. int. from re and echo) To echo back.
 echoing (p. a. from reecho) Echoing back.
 eh'y (adj. from reek) Smoky, sooty.
 ed (p. from ree) Sifted.
 ED (s. from the Sax. reed) A plant with a hollow dotted stalk growing in wet grounds; a small pipe; an arrow.
 ed (adj. from reed) Covered with reeds.
 en (adj. from reed) Consisting of reeds.
 er (adj. comp. of reedy) Reedy in a greater degree.
 iest (adj. sup. of reedy) Reedy in the greatest degree.
 ified (p. from reedify) Rebuilt, rebuilt.
 ify (v. t. from re, and edify) To rebuild, to build again.
 ifying (p. a. from reedify) Rebuilding, building again.
 ifless (adj. from reed) Void of reeds.
 y (adj. from reed) Full of reeds, abounding with reeds.
 (s. a sea term) That part of a sail in which there is a row of eyelet holes from one side to the other; a chain of rocks lying near the surface of the water.
 (v. t. from the sub.) To reduce the sail by drawing the reefs.
 band (s. a sea term, from reef, and band) A piece of canvas sewed on to strengthen the sail where the reefs are formed.
 ed (p. from reef) Reduced by having the reef drawn up.
 ing (p. a. from reef) Reducing the sail by drawing up the reef.
 ing (s. from the part.) The process of reducing a sail by drawing up the reefs.
 lines (s. a sea term) Small cords used about the reef of a sail.
 (s. a different spelling) The reef.
 tackle (s. from reef, and tackle) The tackle used in reefing a sail.
 topmast (s. a sea term) The upper part of a topmast after the lower part has been broken or cut off.
 K (s. from the Sax. rec) Smoke, steam, vapour.
 K (s. from the German reke) A pile of corn, a pile of hay; a mow.
 k (v. int. from the sub.) To smoke, to steam, to emit vapour.
 k (v. t. obsolete) To reckon. Spenser.
 ing (p. a. from reek) Smoking, emitting vapour.
 ravel (s. a country word) The frame of wood on which a reek of corn or hay is built, a stable for a reek.
 y (adj. from reek) Smoky, tanned, black.
 L (s. from the Sax. reol) A frame on which yarn is wound into skeins.
 (v. t. from the sub.) To gather yarn into skeins off the spindle.
 L (v. int. from the Dutch rollen) To stagger, to incline from one side to the other in walking.
 lect (v. t. from re, and elect) To elect again.
 lect (p. from reelect) Elected again.
 lecting (p. a. from reelect) Electing again.
 lection (s. from reelect) A repeated election.
 led (p. from reel) Wound on a reel.
 ing (p. a. from reel) Putting on a reel; staggering, inclining from side to side in walking.
 in (v. int. a local word) To cry. Cole.
 naet (v. t. from re, and enact) To enact anew.
 naet (p. from reenact) Enacted anew.
 naet (p. a. from reenact) Enacting anew.
 nforce (v. t. from re, and enforce) To strengthen with new forces; to strengthen by an addition of force.
 nforced (p. from reenforce) Strengthened by an addition of force.
 nforcement (s. from reenforce) A fresh assistance.
 nforcing (p. a. from reenforce) Strengthening by additional forces.
 nge (v. t. from re, and engage) To engage again.
 nged (p. from reengage) Engaged again.

Reenga'gement (s. from reengage) A renewed engagement.
 Reenga'ging (p. a. from reengage) Engaging again.
 Reenjo'y (v. t. from re, and enjoy) To enjoy anew.
 Reenjoy'ed (p. from reenjoy) Enjoyed anew.
 Reenjoy'ing (p. a. from reenjoy) Enjoying anew.
 Reenjoy'ment (s. from reenjoy) A renewed enjoyment.
 Reen'ter (v. t. from re, and enter) To enter again, to enter anew.
 Reen'tered (p. from reenter) Entered anew.
 Reen'tering (p. a. from reenter) Entering anew.
 Reenthro'ne (v. t. from re, and enthrone) To replace on the throne.
 Reenthro'ned (p. from reenthrone) Replaced on a throne.
 Reenthro'ning (p. a. from reenthrone) Replacing on a throne.
 Reen'trance (s. from reenter) The act of entering again.
 Reen'try (s. from reenter) The act of entering again; the act of taking possession a second time.
 Reer'mouse (s. in zoology) The bat, the rearmouse.
 Reestab'lish (v. t. from re, and establish) To establish anew.
 Reestab'lished (p. from reestablish) Established anew.
 Reestab'lisher (s. from reestablish) One that reestablishes.
 Reestab'lishing (p. a. from reestablish) Establishing anew.
 Reestab'lishment (s. from reestablish) The act of reestablishing, a restoration.
 REEVE (s. from the Sax. gerefa) A steward, a bailiff of a manor. Dryden.
 Reeve (v. t. a sea term) To pass the end of a rope through any hole or block.
 Ree'ved (p. from reeve) Passed through as the end of a rope.
 Ree'ving (p. a. from reeve) Passing through as the end of a rope.
 Reexamine (v. t. from re, and examine) To examine anew.
 Reexam'ined (p. from reexamine) Examined anew.
 Reexam'ining (p. a. from reexamine) Examining anew.
 Reexamination (s. from reexamine) A renewed examination.
 Re'extent (s. a law term) A second extent on complaint that the first was imperfectly executed.
 REFECT (v. a. from the Lat. reficio, but not used) To refresh, to restore.
 Refect'ed (p. from relect) Refreshed, restored. Brown.
 Refect'ing (p. a. from relect, but not used) Refreshing, restoring.
 Refect'ion (s. from relect) Refreshment after hunger or fatigue.
 Refect'ive (adj. from relect) Refreshing.
 Refect'ive (s. from the adj.) A restorative, a medicine to refresh and strengthen.
 Refec'tory (s. from relect) An eating room, a room for refreshment. Dryden.
 Refect'uary (s. from relect) A dining room. Scott.
 REFUSE (v. t. from the Lat. refello) To refuse, to refuse. B. Johnson.
 Refel'led (p. from refel) Refuted, repressed.
 Refel'ling (p. a. from refel) Refuting, repressing. Watts.
 REFERR (v. t. from the Lat. refero) To dismiss for information or judgment, to betake for decision, to put to reference; to reduce as to an order or class; with to or unto: as, "I referred him to you."
 Refer'r (v. int.) To respect, to have relation, to have recourse to.
 Refere'e (s. from refer) One to whom any thing is referred.
 Reference (s. from refer) Relation, respect, allusion, dismission for information or judgment; the act of referring.
 Referen'dary (s. from refer) A referee; an officer who in ancient times presented the petitions of the people to the king.
 Referment (v. t. from re, and ferment) To ferment anew.
 Referment'ed (p. from referment) Fermented anew.
 Referment'ing (p. a. from referment) Fermenting anew.
 Refer're (v. t. obsolete) To return, to requite. Chaucer.
 Refer'ed (p. from refer) Dismissed for information, reduced as to a class or order.
 Refer'rible (adj. from refer) Capable of being referred.
 Refer'ring (p. a. from refer) Putting to reference, reducing as to a class or order, having relation.

Refiguring (p. a. obsolete) Recollecting. Chaucer.
REFINE (v. t. from the French, raffiner) To purify, to clear from dross, to polish, to make elegant.
Refine (v. int.) To improve in point of accuracy, to grow pure.
Refined (p. from refine) Purified, cleared from dross; polished, made elegant.
Refinedly (adv. from refined) With affected elegance.
Refinement (s. from refine) The act of refining, an improvement in elegance, an affectation of elegant improvement.
Refiner (s. from refine) One who clears metals from dross; one who deals in superfluous refinements.
Refining (p. a. from refine) Clearing from dross or recement; improving in elegance, making unnecessary refinements.
Refining (s. from the adj.) The process of clearing from dross; a refinement.
Reft (v. t. from re, and fit) To repair, to restore after damage.
Refted (p. from reft) Repaired, restored after damage.
Refting (p. a. from reft) Repairing, restoring after damage.
Refting (s. from the part.) The act of repairing.
REFLECT (v. t. from the Lat. reflecto) To throw back.
Reflect (v. int.) To return light, to bend back, to consider attentively, to throw reproach, to bring reproach; with on or upon: as, "Nor do I in the least reflect upon his late Majesty."
Reflect (adj. from the verb) Done by reflection.
Reflect (s. with painters) That part which is supposed to be enlightened by reflections.
Reflected (p. from reflect) Thrown back.
Reflected (adj. from reflect) Bending back, flying back.
Reflector (s. from reflect) One that reflects, that which reflects.
Reflecting (p. a. from reflect) Throwing back, considering, throwing reproach, bringing reproach.
Reflection (s. from reflect) The act of throwing back, the act of bending back; that which is reflected, the light thrown back; thought reflected of thrown back on the past, the act of the mind on itself; attentive consideration, censure.
Reflective (adj. from reflect) Throwing back; attentive to things past.
Reflector (s. from reflect) One that reflects, that which reflects, a reflecting telescope.
REFLEX (adj. from the Lat. reflexus) Directed backwards.
Reflex (s. from the adj.) A reflection. Hooker.
Reflex (s. in painting) That part of a picture which is supposed to be illuminated by a reflected light.
Reflexibility (s. from reflexible) The quality of being reflexible.
Reflexible (adj. from reflex) Capable of being reflected.
Reflexibility (s. from reflexible) Reflexibility. Scott.
Reflexion (s. from reflex, but not so common a spelling) A reflection.
Reflexive (adj. from reflex) Having respect to something past.
Reflexively (adv. from reflexive) In a backward direction.
Reflexivity (s. from reflexive) The quality of being reflexive. Phillips.
Reflow (s. from re, and float) A reflux, an ebb.
REFLORESCENCE (s. from the Lat. refloresco to begin to flourish) The act of beginning to blossom again.
Reflourish (v. int. from re, and flourish) To flourish anew. Milton.
Reflourishing (p. a. from reflourish) Flourishing anew.
Reflow (v. int. from re, and flow) To flow back.
Reflowing (p. a. from reflow) Flowing back.
REFLUENT (adj. from the Lat. refluxo to flow back) Flowing back, running back.
REFLUX (s. from the Lat. refluxus) A backward course of water.
REFOCILLATION (s. from the Lat. refocillo) A restoration by nourishment, a refecution.
REFORM (v. t. from the Lat. reformo) To change for the better, to amend; to disband a regiment, to reduce a company of soldiers.
Reform (v. int.) To grow better.
Reform (s. from the verb) A reformation.
Reforma'do (s. from reform) A reformed officer.
Reformation (s. from reform) A change for the better; the reformation of religion from the corruptions of popery; the happy change in which the protestant religion was established in several parts of Europe, by the instrumentality of Luther, Calvin, and others.

Reform'd (p. from reform) Changed for the better, amended; recovered from the errors of popery, become protestant; disbanded as a regiment, reduced to a company of soldiers.
Reform'd (s. from the part. put absolutely) The protestants so called as being recovered from the errors of popery.
Reformer (s. from reform) One who makes a change for the better; one concerned in bringing about the reformation of religion from the corruptions of popery.
Reforming (p. a. from reform) Changing for the better, amending; reducing a company, disbanding a regiment.
Reforming (s. from the part.) The act of changing for the better; the act of reducing a company or regiment.
Reformist (s. from reform) A monk whose discipline and rules have been reformed.
REFRACT (v. t. from the Lat. refrango) To break the natural course of rays, to turn a ray of light out of its natural course.
Refractarily (adv. from refractory) Refractorily.
Refractariness (s. from refractory) Refractoriness.
Refractory (adj. not so common a spelling) Refractory.
Refracted (p. from refract) Broken from its natural course, turned out of its proper direction; with from: as, "Refracted from yon eastern cloud."
Refracting (p. a. from refract) Breaking the natural course of a ray.
Refraction (s. from refract) The variation of a ray of light from its direct course on entering into a different medium, the state of being refracted.
Refractive (adj. from refract) Having the power to refract.
Refractor (s. from refract) That which has the power of refracting, a glass or lens that magnifies an object by refraction.
Refractorily (adv. from refractory) Obstinate, willfully, stubbornly.
Refractoriness (s. from refractory) Obstinacy, stubbornness.
Refractory (adj. from refract) Obstinate, perverse, contumacious.
REFRAGABLE (adj. from the Lat. refrago to resist) Capable of confutation, producing conviction.
Refragableness (s. from refragable) The state of being refragable.
REFRAIN (v. t. from the Lat. frænum a bridle) To hold back, to keep from action.
Refrain (v. int.) To forbear, to abstain.
Refraine (s. obsolete) The burden of a song. Chaucer.
Refraining (p. a. from refrain) Holding back, keeping from action.
Refraining (s. obsolete, from refraine) The act of withholding the burden of a song. Chaucer.
Refrangibility (s. from refrangible) The state of being refrangible.
REFRANGIBLE (adj. from the Lat. refrango to break) Turned out of a direct course in passing out of one medium into another.
Refrangibleness (s. from refrangible) The state of being refrangible.
Refrain'de (v. int. obsolete) To refrain, to cool, to slacken. Chaucer.
Refrain (v. int. obsolete) To refrain. Chaucer.
REFRENTION (s. from the Lat. fræno to restrain with a bridle) The act of restraining. Jobyn.
REFRESH (v. t. from the Lat. refrigero) To recreate, to deliver from pain or fatigue, to improve by new touches, to cool, to allay.
Refresh'd (p. from refresh) Recreated, supplied with refreshments, exhilarated, repaired.
Refresh'er (s. from refresh) That which refreshes.
Refreshful (adj. from refresh) Refreshing, affording refreshment. Dorset.
Refreshing (p. a. from refresh) Exhilarating, recreating, repairing.
Refreshing (s. from the part.) The act of commanding refreshment, refreshment.
Refreshment (s. from refresh) Relief; that which gives relief, food, rest.
REFRET (s. from the French refrain) The burden of a song. Scott.
Refrete (s. an old spelling) A refret, the burden of a song. Chaucer.
Refrete (p. obsolete) Full fraught. Religion.

REG

Refrigerant (v. t. an old word) To cool. Bailey.
Refrigerant (v. int. an old word) To refrain through heat. Bailey.
Refrigerant (adj. from refrigerate) Cooling, mitigating heat.
REFRIGERATE (v. t. from the Lat. refrigero) To cool, to refresh by allaying heat.
Refrigerated (p. from refrigerate) Cooled, refreshed.
Refrigerating (p. a. from refrigerate) Cooling, refreshing.
Refrigeration (s. from refrigerate) The act of cooling, the state of being cooled.
Refrigerative (adj. from refrigerate) Cooling, having the power to cool.
Refrigerative (s. from the adj.) A cooling medicine.
Refrigerativeness (s. from refrigerative) The state or quality of being refrigerative.
Refrigeratory (adj. from refrigerate) Cooling, having the power to cool.
Refrigeratory (s. from the adj.) The vessel which is filled with water to condense the vapour in distillation; a cooling medicine.
REFRIGERIUM (s. from the Lat.) A refrigeration.
Refrigid (v. t. obsolete) To cool. Chaucer.
Refringed (adj. an old word in falconry) Neezing as a hawk, casting water through the nostrils. Cole.
Refring (v. t. pret. of reave) Did reave, did take away. Spenser.
Refring (p. from reave) Deprived, taken away. Shakspeare.
Refring (p. from reave) Taken away. Chaucer.
Refring (s. obsolete) A chink, a crevice. Chaucer.
Refring (s. an old spelling) Refuge, help. Chaucer.
REFUG (s. from the Lat. refugium) Shelter, protection; that which gives shelter; an expedient, an expedient in distress.
Refuge (v. t. from the sub.) To shelter, to protect. Dry.
Refuged (p. from refuge) Sheltered, protected.
Refugee (s. from refuge) One who flies to shelter, one who flies for protection.
Refuging (p. a. from refuge, but not much used) Sheltering, protecting.
Refulgence (s. from refulgent) Splendor, brightness.
Refulgency (s. from refulgence, but not so common a word) Refulgence.
REFULGENT (adj. from the Lat. refulgeo to shine) Bright, shining, glittering, splendid.
REFUND (v. t. from the Lat. refundo) To pour back; to repay, to restore.
Refunded (p. from refund) Paid back; poured back, restored.
Refunding (p. a. from refund) Paying back, pouring back, restoring.
Refusal (s. from refuse) The act of refusing, a denial; the right or claim of having any thing before another.
REFUSE (v. t. from the French, refuser) To deny a request, to reject, to dismiss without a grant.
Refuse (v. int.) To forbear acceptance.
Refuse (adj. from the verb) Left behind, unworthy of acceptance.
Refuse (s. from the verb) That which is refused, that which remains when the rest is taken.
Refused (p. from refuse) Left; denied, rejected.
Refuser (s. from refuse) One that refuses.
Refusing (p. a. from refuse) Denying, rejecting.
Refusal (s. from refuse) A refutation.
Refutation (s. in old records) An acquittance.
Refutation (s. from refute) The act of refuting, a proof of falsehood or error.
REFUTE (v. t. from the Lat. refuto) To prove false, to prove to be erroneous.
Refuted (s. obsolete) Refuge, help. Chaucer.
Refuted (p. from refute) Proved false, proved to be erroneous.
Refuting (p. a. from refute) Proving to be false, proving to be erroneous.
Regain (v. t. from re, and gain) to recover, to obtain anew.
Regained (p. from regain) Recovered, obtained anew.
Regaining (p. a. from regain) Recovering, obtaining anew.
REGAL (adj. from the Lat. regalis) Belonging to a king, royal.
REGAL (s. from the French, regale) A musical instrument.
Regal (s. from the adj.) A royal feast, a sumptuous entertainment.
Regal (v. t. not so common a spelling) To regale. Phil.
REGALE (s. from the Lat.) The prerogative of monarchy.

REG

Regale (v. t. from regal) To refresh, to entertain, to gratify.
Regale (s. from the verb) A magnificent treat, a sumptuous entertainment.
Regaled (p. from regale) Refreshed, gratified with delicious fare.
Regalment (s. from regale) Refreshment, entertainment.
REGALIA (s. from the Lat.) The ensigns of royalty.
Regalie (s. obsolete) Royalty, sovereignty. Chaucer.
REGALIS AQUA (s. from the Lat.) A corrosive spirit much used in dissolving gold, the aqua regia.
Regality (s. from regal) Royalty, sovereignty.
Regals (s. from regal) The regalia. Chaucer.
REGARD (v. t. from the French, regarder) To value, to attend to as worthy of notice, to observe, to remark; to respect, to have relation to.
Regard (s. from the verb) Attention, respect, reverence; note, eminence; relation, reference; look, aspect; oversight, inspection; prospect, an object of sight; but this sense is judged improper. Shakspeare.
Regardable (adj. from regard) Observable, worthy of notice.
Regardant (adj. in heraldry) Looking behind, looking backward as though upon guard.
Regarde (s. obsolete) A view, a pleasant prospect.
Regarded (p. from regard) Respected, valued, observed, remarked.
Regarder (s. from regard) One that regards.
Regardful (adj. from regard) Attentive, mindful.
Regardfully (adv. from regard) Attentively, respectfully.
Regardfulness (s. from regardful) The state or quality of being regardful.
Regardless (adj. from regard) Heedless, negligent, inattentive.
Regardlessly (adv. from regardless) Carelessly, inattentively.
Regardlessness (s. from regardless) The state or condition of being regardless.
REGEL (s. in astronomy) A fixed star of the first magnitude in the left foot of Orion.
REGEM (s. from the Heb. signifying stoned) A man's name.
REGEMME/LECH (s. from the Heb. signifying one that stones the king) A man's name.
Regency (s. from regent) The government of a regent, the persons to whom government is committed in the absence of the king; precarious government, the district governed by a regent.
REGENERATE (v. t. from the Lat. regenero) To produce anew, to renew by a spiritual change.
Regenerate (adj. from the verb) Produced anew, renewed by a spiritual birth.
Regenerated (p. from regenerate) Produced anew, renewed by a spiritual change.
Regenerateness (s. from regenerate) The state of being regenerate.
Regenerating (p. from regenerate) Producing anew, renewing by a spiritual birth.
Regeneration (s. from regenerate) The new birth, the state of being renewed by a spiritual birth.
REGENT (s. from the Lat. regno to reign) One invested with vicarious royalty, one that governs in the absence of the sovereign; a governor, a ruler.
Regent (adj. from the sub.) Exercising vicarious authority, ruling, governing.
Regentship (s. from regent) The office or dignity of a regent.
REGERMINATE (v. int. from the Lat. regermino, but not used) To spring again, to bud again. Bailey.
Regerminating (p. a. from regerminate, but not used) Springing again, budding anew.
Regermination (s. from regerminate) The act of sprouting again.
REGIBLE (adj. from the Lat. rego to rule) Governable, capable of being governed. Johnson.
REGICIDE (s. from the Lat. rex a king, and cado to kill) One who murders his king; the murder of a king by a subject.
REGIFICAL (adj. from the Lat. rex regis a king, and facio to make, but not used) Royal, kingly, magnificent. Bailey.
REGIFUGE (s. from the Lat. rex regis a king, and fugio to fly) A festival among the Romans to commemorate the expulsion of their kings.
REGIMEN (s. from the Lat.) A course of diet, a medical course of diet.
Regiment (s. from regimen) A body of soldiers under one colonel; established government, polity, rule, authority; but these last senses are now grown obsolete. Hale.

REG

Regimental (adj. from regiment) Belonging to a regiment, military.

Regimental (s. from the adj. mostly used in the plural) A part of dres belonging to a soldier, a part of dres belonging to the uniform of a regiment.

REGION (s. from the Lat. regio) A tract of land, a country; any tract of space; a part of the body within; a place, or rank.

REGIONARY (s. in church history) One who had the charge of ecclesiastical affairs in a particular district.

REGISTER (s. from the Lat. registrum) A list, an account of any thing regularly kept; an officer who keeps a regular account of things pertaining to his office: one of the holes in the side of a furnace used by chymists to regulate the heat.

Register (v. t. from the sub.) To record, to set down in a list, to preserve from oblivion by a proper enrolment.

Registered (p. from register) Recorded, set down in a register.

Registering (p. a. from register) Recording, setting down in a register.

Registry (s. from register) The place where a register is kept; a series of facts as set down in a register; the act of inserting in a register.

REGIUS MORBUS (s. from the Lat.) The jaundice.

REGIUS PROFESOR (s. from the Lat.) The reader of the five lectures in the universities founded by king Henry the Eighth.

REGLEMENT (s. from the French, but now grown obsolete) A regulation. Brown.

REGLET (s. in architecture) A flat narrow moulding.

REG'LET, REG'LETTE (s. with printers) The ledge of wood by which the lines are separated in pages widely printed.

Regl'inate (v. t. from re, and glutinate) To glue again; to unglue. Cole.

REGNANT (adj. from the Lat. regno to rule) Reigning, prevalent, predominant.

Regnard (s. a different spelling) Renard, a fox. Cole.

Regnardise (v. int. from regnard) To act the part of a fox. Cole.

Regnardism (s. from regnardise) The craft of a fox. Col.

Regnatise (adj. obsolete) Reigning, fit for government. Chaucer.

REGNI (s. in ancient geography) The old inhabitants of Surry, Suffex, and part of Hampshire.

REGOLA (s. in musick books) A rule, a canon.

Regorge (v. t. from re, and gorge) To throw back, to vomit up; to swallow eagerly.

Regorged (p. from regorge) Thrown back, vomited up; swallowed with eagerness.

Regorging (p. a. from regorge) Throwing back, vomiting up, swallowing with eagerness.

Regraft (v. t. from re, and graft) To graft anew.

Regrafted (p. from regraft) Grafted anew.

Regrafting (p. a. from regraft) Grafting anew.

Regrant (v. t. from re, and grant) To grant back.

Regranted (p. from regrant) Granted back.

Regranting (p. a. from regrant) Granting back.

REGRATE (v. t. from the French, regrater to scratch again) To offend the ear, to shock; to forestal, to engross.

Regrate (s. obsolete) Regret, sorrow; regard. Chaucer.

Regrated (p. from regrate) Engrossed, forestalled.

Regrater (s. from regrate) A forestaller, an engrosser.

Regrateria (s. in old records) The act of regrating; the act of selling by retail.

Regraterv (s. from regrate) The act of forestalling; the act of selling by retail. Phillips.

Regrating (p. a. from regrate) Forestalling, engrossing; selling by retail.

Regrator (s. from regrate) A regrater, a forestaller; one that sells by retail.

Regreet (v. t. from re, and greet) To resalute, to greet a second time.

Regreet (s. from the verb, but not in use) An exchange of salutation. Shakespeare.

Regreeted (p. from regreet) Saluted again, greeted a second time.

Regreeting (p. a. from regreet) Saluting again, greeting a second time.

REGRESS (s. from the Lat. regressus) The act of passing back, the contrary to progress.

Regre's (v. int. from the sub.) To go back, to return back; with to or unto: as, "Naturally regre's unto their former solidities." Brown.

REJ

Règres'ing (p. a. from regrefs) Returning, going back.

Regres'sion (s. from regrefs) The act of going back, return.

REGRE'T (s. from the French) Grief, sorrow, vexation at something past; dislike, aversion; but this sense is judged improper.

Regre't (v. t. from the sub.) To grieve at, to repent; to be uneasy at; but this is judged improper. Glavin.

Regretted (p. from regret) Grieved at, lamented.

Regretting (p. a. from regret) Grieving at, repenting.

Reguer'don (s. obsolete) A reward, a recompence.

Reguer'don (v. t. obsolete, from the sub.) To reward, to recompence.

Reguer'doned (p. obsolete, from reguerdon) Rewarded, recompensed. Shakespeare.

REG'ULA (s. from the Lat.) A rule, a pattern.

Regular (adj. from regula) Agreeable to rule, consistent with the mode prescribed; having sides or surfaces composed of equal figures; initiated according to established forms.

Regular (s. from the sub. mostly used in the plural) Instituted according to established modes of instruction or discipline.

Regular'ity (s. from regular) The state of being regular, method, order.

Regularly (adv. from regular) In a regular manner, with regularity.

Regulate (v. t. from regula) To adjust, to direct according to rule.

Regulated (p. from regulate) Adjusted, directed according to rule.

Regulating (p. a. from regulate) Adjusting, directing according to rule.

Regulation (s. from regulate) The act of regulating, that which is regulated; method, order.

Regulator (s. from regulate) One that regulates; the part of a machine which regulates the motion, a time piece supposed to perform with great exactness.

Regule (s. in chymistry) The regulus.

REG'ULUS (s. in chymistry) The most weighty and pure part of any metallic or mineral substance.

REG'ULUS (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird of the motacilla kind.

REG'ULUS (s. in astronomy) The lion's heart, a star the first magnitude in the constellation of Leo.

REGUR'GITE (v. t. from the Lat. gurgere to swallow) To throw back, to pour back.

Regur'gite (v. int.) To return back.

Regur'gitated (p. from regurgitate) Poured back, swallowed back.

Regur'gitating (p. a. from regurgitate) Pouring back, swallowing back.

Regurgitation (s. from regurgitate) The act of swallowing back, a resorption.

REHAB'AH (s. from the Heb. signifying breadth) man's name.

Rehabilitate (v. t. from re, and habilitate) To restore to a former capacity for office.

Rehabilitated (p. from rehabilitate) Restored to a former capacity for office.

Rehabilitating (p. a. from rehabilitate) Restoring to a former capacity for office.

REHABILITA'TION (s. in common law) The act of restoring to former ability or capacity for office.

Rehear (v. t. from re, and hear) To hear again.

Rehear'd (p. from rehear) Heard again.

Rehearing (p. a. from rehear) Hearing again.

Rehear'al (s. from rehearse) A recital, the recital of thing previous to a more public exhibition.

Rehearse (v. t. from rehear) To repeat, to recite, to relate, to tell; to recite previous to a public exhibition.

Rehears'd (p. from rehearse) Repeated, recited, related, recited previous to a public exhibition.

Rehears'ing (p. a. from rehearse) Repeating, reciting, relating, reciting prior to a public exhibition.

Re'hete (s. obsolete) Comfort.

Re'heting (p. a. obsolete from re'hete) Comforting.

Re'heting (s. from the part. obsolete) A remembering, the act of stirring up any thing afresh in the mind.

RE'HOB (s. from the Heb. signifying space) The name of a city.

REHOB'AM (s. from the Heb. signifying a delivered) man's name.

REHOB'OTH (s. from the Heb. signifying spaces) name of a city; the name of a place.

RE'HUM (s. from the Heb. signifying merciful) name of a man.

RE'I (s. from the Heb. signifying my shepherd) name.

REJE'CT (v. t. from the Lat. rejicio) To dismiss, to ant or compliance, to cast off, to refuse, to throw able (adj. from reject) Fit to be rejected. Phil.

 ean/eous (adj. from reject, but not used) Cast off, worthy of acceptance. Bailey.

ed (p. from reject) Dismissed without grant or compliance, cast off, refused, thrown aside.

ing (p. a. from reject) Refusing, casting off.

tion (s. from reject) The act of casting off, the act refusing.

(v. t. a local word) To snatch, to snatch away. Cole.

ht (p. obsolete) Reached. Cole.

GLE (s. from the French, regle) A groove or hollow for any thing to run in. Scott.

lement (s. from reigle) The act of ruling, the act marking out lines. Cole.

GN (v. int. from the Lat. regno to rule) To exercise sovereign authority; to prevail, to obtain power or dominion.

gn (s. from the verb) Sovereignty, royal authority;
 the time of a king's government; a kingdom, a dominion.

ne (s. an obsolete spelling) A reign; a queen. Ch.

ne (v. int. an obsolete spelling) To reign, to govern. Chaucer.

ning (p. a. from reign) Exercising sovereign authority, prevailing, domineering.

ning (adj. a sea term, from the part.) Belonging to the winds which prevail on any particular coast.

nous (adj. obsolete) Ruinous. Bailey.

led (v. int. obsolete) Flowed, did flow. Chaucer.

mbark (v. t. from re, and imbark) To put on board a ship a second time.

mbark (v. int.) To go on board a ship a second time; to go again as a deer to his lodge.

mbarkation (s. from reimark) The act of going again on shipboard.

mbarked (p. from reimark) Put again on board a ship.

mbarking (p. a. from reimark) Putting again on board a ship, going again on shipboard.

mbattled (adj. from re, and imbattle) Put again in order of battle.

mbodied (p. from reimbody) Imbodied again.

mbody (v. t. from re, and imbody) To imbody
 again.

mbodying (p. a. from reimbody) Imbodying again.

mbolice (v. int. an old hunting term) To return to the wood; to lie in ambush again. Cole.

mburfe (v. t. from re, and imburse) To repay, to repair loss.

mbursed (p. from reimburse) Repayed, repaired by an equivalent.

mburfsment (s. from reimburse) A repayment, a compensation by an equivalent for expenses.

mbursing (p. a. from reimburse) Repaying, repairing loss.

mpregnate (v. t. from re, and impregnate) To im-pregnate anew.

mpregnated (p. from reimpregnate) Impregnated
 anew.

mpregnating (p. a. from reimpregnate) Impregna-
 ting anew.

mpress (v. t. from re, and impress) To impress
 again.

mpressed (p. from reimpress) Impressed anew.

mpressing (p. a. from reimpress) Impressing anew.

mpression (s. from reimpress) A renewed impression.

N (s. from the French, resnes) That part of the bridle which extends from the head of the horse to the hand of the rider; an instrument of government.

To give the rein, to give license.

(v. t. from the sub.) To govern by a bridle, to restrain, to control.

(v. t. obsolete) To run. Chaucer.

ard (s. from the French, renard) A fox.

deer (s. from rein, and deer) A large and beautiful species of the deer kind much used in northern countries as a beast of draught.

(s. obsolete) Power, government. Chaucer.

ed (p. from rein) Governed by a bridle; restrained, controlled.

ette (s.) The rennet, the name of an apple. Johnson.

fect (v. t. from re, and infect) To infect again.

fect (p. from reinfect) Infected again.

fecting (p. a. from reinfect) Infecting again.

force (v. t. from re, and inforce, but not so common spelling) To reinforce. Scott.

Reinfor/ced (p. from reinforce, but not so common a spelling) Reenforced.

Reinfor/cement (s. from reinforce, but not so common a spelling) A reenforcement.

Reinfor/cing (p. a. from reinforce, but not so common a spelling) Reenforcing.

Reinga/ge (v. t. from re, and ingage) To reengage. Scott.

Reinga'ged (p. from reingage) Reengaged.

Reinga'ging (p. a. from reingage) Reengaging.

Reingra'tiate (v. t. from re, and ingratiate) To get into favour again.

Reingra'tiated (p. from reingratiate) Gotten into favour
 again.

Reingra'tiating (p. a. from reingratiate) Getting into favour again.

Rein'ing (p. a. from rein) Governing by a bridle; controlling, restraining.

REINS (s. from the Lat. renes) The kidneys, the lower part of the back.

Reinse/rt (v. t. from re, and insert) To insert anew.

Reinse/rted (p. from reinsert) Inserted again.

Reinse/rting (p. a. from reinsert) Inserting again.

Reinspi/le (v. t. from re, and inspire) To inspire again.

Reinspired (p. from reinspire) Inspired again.

Reinspir'ing (p. a. from reinspire) Inspiring a second time.

Reinsta'l (v. t. from re, and instil) To instil again.

Reinstall'ed (p. from reinstal) Installed again.

Reinstall'ing (p. a. from reinstal) Installing again.

Reinsta'te (v. t. from re, and instate) To put again in possession.

Reinsta'ted (p. from reinstate) Put again into possession.

Reinsta'ting (p. a. from reinstate) Putting again into possession.

Rein'tegrate (v. t. from re, and integrate) To repair, to restore to a former state. Johnson.

Rein'tegrated (p. from reintegrate) Restored, repaired, brought to a former state. Bacon.

Rein'tegrating (p. a. from reintegrate, but not used)
 Restoring to a former state, repairing.

Reinve/ft (v. t. from re, and invest) To invest anew.

Reinvest'ed (p. from reinvest) Invested anew.

Reinvest'ing (p. a. from reinvest) Investing anew.

Reinvig/orate (v. t. from re, and invigorate) To invigorate anew.

Reinvig/orated (p. from reinvigorate) Invigorated anew.

Reinvig/orating (p. a. from reinvigorate) Invigorating anew.

Reinvigora'tion (s. from reinvigorate) The act of invigorating anew.

REJOI/CE (v. int. from the French, rejouir) To joy, to be glad, to exult for joy.

Rejoice (v. t.) To gladden, to make joyful.

Rejoic'ed (p. from rejoice) Gladdened, made joyful.

Rejoic'er (s. from rejoice) One that rejoices.

Rejoic'ing (p. a. from rejoice) Joying, exulting; gladdening, making glad.

Rejoic'ing (s. from the part.) An act of exultation; joyfulness.

Rejoice (v. int. obsolete) To rejoice. Chaucer.

Rejoi'n (v. t. from re, and join) To join again, to meet again.

Rejoi'n (v. int.) To answer to a reply.

Rejoind'er (s. from rejoin) A reply to an answer, a reply, an answer.

Rejoind'ure (s. not so common a spelling) A rejoinder. Shakespeare.

Rejoind'ed (p. from rejoin) Joined again, met again.

Rejoind'ing (p. a. from rejoin) Joining again, meeting
 again.

Rejoint (v. t. from re, and joint) To fill up the joints of stones in building.

Rejoint'ed (p. from rejoin) Filled up in the joints.

Rejoint'ing (p. a. from rejoin) Filling up the joints of stones in building.

Rejoint'ing (s. from the part.) The method of filling up the joints of stones with mortar or cement. D. of Arts.

Rejoit (s. from re, and jolt) A shock, a concussion.

Rejou'n (v. t. not used) To readjourn. Cole.

Rejoynd'er (s. a different spelling) A rejoinder. D. of A.

Re's (s. a different spelling) A ree.

Reise (v. t. obsolete) To raise. Chaucer.

Rei'sin (s. obsolete) A grape. Chaucer.

Reister (s. an old word) One of the German horse that formerly served in France. Phillips.

REIT (s. the derivation is not noted) Sedge; a kind of sea weed.

Reit'erate (v. t. from re, and iterate) To repeat, to repeat again and again. Reit'rated

Reit'rated (p. from reiterate) Repeated, repeated again and again.

Reit'rating (p. a. from reiterate) Repeating, repeating again and again.

Reiteration (s. from reiterate) A repetition.

Reive (s. obsolete) A bailiff, a steward. Chaucer.

Rejud'ge (v. t. from re, and judge) To reexamine, to bring to a new trial.

Rejud'ged (p. from rejudge) Reexamined, brought to a new trial.

Rejud'ging (p. a. from rejudge) Reexamining, bringing to a new trial.

Rejumb'le (v. int. from re, and jumble, a local word) To rise again as in the stomach; to ferment, to work again. Bailey.

REJUVENES/CENCY (s. from the Lat. rejuvenescere to grow young again) The quality of growing young again. Scott.

Reke (v. int. obsolete) To smoke; to care for. Chaucer.

Reke (s. an old spelling) A rick, a mow. Ch.

Re'kelagis (s. obsolete) Revellings. Chaucer.

Re'kelness (s. an old word) Rashness. Cole.

Re'ken (v. int. an obsolete spelling) To reckon. Cole.

Re'kilness (s. an old word) Rashness. Chaucer.

Rekin'dle (v. t. from re, and kindle) To kindle again.

Rekind'led (p. from rekindle) Kindled again.

Rekind'ling (p. a. from rekindle) Kindling again.

Rekk (v. int. obsolete) To care for. Chaucer.

Relai's (s. in fortification) The breme. Phillips.

Relai'yes (s. an obsolete spelling) Relays, fresh sets of horses or dogs, the places where such horses or dogs are kept. Chaucer.

RELAPS (s. from the Lat. relapsus) The act of returning to vice or error, a falling back again, a return to any former state, the return of a disease.

Relaps (v. int. from the subj.) To slide back, to fall back into vice or error, to return, to fall back into a former state, to return as a disease.

Relap'ing (p. a. from relaps) Falling back, sliding back, returning to vice or error, growing worse after amendment.

RELATE (v. t. from the Lat. refero relatus) To tell, to recite; to bring back, to restore. Spenfer.

Relate (v. int.) To have reference, to have respect; with to; as, "It relates to matrimony."

Related (p. from relate) Allied by kindred; declared, told.

Relater (s. from relate) One that relates.

Relat'ing (p. a. from relate) Telling, declaring; having reference, having respect to.

Relation (s. from relate) A reference, a respect to, the connection between one thing and another; an alliance of kindred, a person related; a narration, a tale.

Relat'ist (s. from relate) One that relates. Bailey.

Relative (adj. from relate) Having relation, respecting, close in connection.

Relative (s. from the ad.) A relation, a kinsman, a kinswoman; that which has respect to something else; the pronoun in grammar which answers to the antecedent.

Relatively (adv. from relative) In a relative manner.

Relativeness (s. from relative) The state of having relation.

RELAX (v. t. from the Lat. relaxo) To slacken, to remit, to ease, to divert, to open, to loose.

Relax (v. int.) To become mild, to become less vigorous.

Relax (p. from the verb) Relaxed. "The sinews are more relax." Bacon.

Relax'ate (v. t. from relax, but not much used) To loosen, to relax.

RELAXANTIA (s. from the Lat.) Loosening medicines.

Relaxa'tion (s. from relax) Diminution of rigor, a remission of application, the relief from close study; the state of being relaxed. Cole.

Relax'ed (p. from relax) Unbent, slackened, made less tense.

Relax'ing (p. a. from relax) Unbending, making less tight, remitting, making less rigorous.

Relay' (s. from re, and lay) A fresh set of horses or dogs to relieve others on the road or in the chase.

Relay' (s. in tapestry) An opening left in a piece to be filled up after the rest of the work is done.

RELEA/SE (v. t. from the Lat. relaxo) To set free from confinement, to set free from pain, to free from obligation; to quit, to let go; to relax, to slacken. Hooker.

Releat'e (s. from the verb) A dismissal from confinement or restraint, the remission of a claim, the relaxation of a penalty; a deed by which an estate is conveyed; a legal discharge from debt or demand.

Relea'sed (p. from release) Freed from confinement or obligation, set at liberty, discharged.

Relea'sement (s. from release) The act of releasing, discharge.

Relea'sing (p. a. from release) Setting at liberty; discharging.

Rele'se (s. an old spelling) A relief, a remainder.

RE/LEGATE (v. t. from the Lat. relego) To banish, exile.

Relegated (p. from relegate) Banished, exiled.

Re'legating (p. a. from relegate) Banishing, exiling.

Relegation (s. from relegate) Exile, banishment.

RELE/NT (v. int. from the French, relenir) To grow less rigid; to melt, to grow moist; to grow tender, to feel compassion.

Relen't (v. t.) To slacken, to mollify; but now obsolete.

Relen'ting (p. a. from relent) Softening, growing tender, feeling compassion.

Relen'ting (s. from the adj.) The act of growing tender, a soft emotion of the mind.

Relen'tless (adj. from relent) Unpitied, unmoved, tenderness; unrelenting.

Relen'tment (s. from relent) The act of relenting.

Rel'es (s. an obsolete spelling) A release. Chambers.

RELE/VANT (adj. from the Lat. relevo to raise) Lifting up, relieving.

Rele'vate (v. t. from releve, but not used) To raise again.

Relevation (s. from the Lat. relevo to lift up) The act of raising, the act of lifting up.

Rele've (s. an obsolete spelling) Relief. Chambers.

Rele'ved (p. obsolete from releve) Raised.

Rele'vid (p. obsolete from releve) Relieved, revived. Chambers.

Rele'vish (v. t. a law term) To admit to mainprize, surety, to admit to bail.

Rele'vish (p. from relevish) Admitted to bail.

Rele'vish (p. a. from relevish) Admitting to bail.

Reliance (s. from rely) Trust, dependance, confidence; with on; as, "a firm reliance on the promise."

REL/IC (s. from the Lat. relinquere to leave) That which is left, that which remains of any thing; that which is kept in memory with a kind of religious veneration; the body after the soul is departed.

Rel'ick (s. the less modern spelling) A relic.

Rel'ickly (adv. from relic) In the manner of a relic.

REL/ICT (s. from the Lat. reliqua) A widow.

Rel'ied (p. from rely) Relied on, depended upon, trusted in.

RELIE/F (s. from the Lat. relevo to lift up) Charitable assistance afforded to one in distress, comfort, succor; the prominence of a sculpture or painting; a remission of wrongs at law; the dismissal of a sentinel from his post.

Relief (s. a law term) A fine paid to a chief lord by a tenant who comes into possession of lands held in capite.

Relie'vable (adj. from relieve) Capable of being relieved.

RELIE/VE (v. t. from the Lat. relevo) To succor, assistance, to support; to cause pain or sorrow to be right by law; to set a sentinel free by placing another in his post.

Relie'ved (p. from relieve) Assisted, succored; freed from pain or sorrow, redressed by a legal process, freed from duty by a substitute.

Relie'ver (s. from relieve) One that relieves.

Relie'ving (p. a. from relieve) Assisting, succoring, easing from pain or sorrow, redressing by a legal process, freeing from duty by a substitute.

RELIE/VO (s. from the Italian) The prominence of a figure in sculpture, the seeming prominence of a picture.

RE/LIGATE (v. t. from the Lat. religo, but not used) To bind fast.

Relight (v. t. from re, and light) To light anew.

Relight'ed (p. from relight) Lighted anew.

Relight'ing (p. a. from relight) Lighting anew.

RELIGION (s. from the Lat. religo to bind fast) The true fear of God in the heart, a particular system of divine faith and worship.

Religionary (s. from religion) A strict observer of external rites of religion, a bigot to any religious persuasion.

Religionist (s. from religion) A bigot to any religious persuasion.

RELIGIOUS (adj. from the Lat. religiosus) Disposed gion, teaching religion, belonging to religion; strict.

REL

REM

 ious (s. from the adj. with the papists) The people bind themselves by some particular and religious vow.
 ous/ite (s. obsolete) The religious. Chaucer.
 ously (adv. from religious) In a religious manner; exactly.
 ousness (s. from religious) The state or quality being religious.
 e (s. an old spelling) A relic. Chaucer.
 NQUISH (v. t. from the Lat. relinquo) To forsake, abandon; to quit, to give up, to release; to forsake, to depart from.
 quished (p. from relinquish) Forsaken, quitted, given up.
 quishing (p. a. from relinquish) Forsaking, quitting, giving up.
 quishment (s. from relinquish) The act of forsaking.
 QUÆ (s. in Roman antiquity) The ashes or bones of the dead; relics. Dict. of Arts.
 quary (s. from relique) The shrine or casket in which relics are kept.
 ator (s. from the Lat.) A tenant in arrears, one who is behind hand in payment.
 ue (s. a different spelling) A relic. Dict. of Arts.
 QUÆ (s. from the Lat.) The ashes of the dead, &c.
 SH (v. t. from the French relecher to lick again) To taste; to give a taste to.
 h (v. int.) To have a flavour, to have a pleasing taste, to give pleasure; with of, and to: as, "It may be of wit." "It would not relish to their palates."
 h (s. from the verb) A taste, a pleasing taste, the taste of any thing on the palate; a small quantity, a quantity just sufficient to ascertain the flavour; a relish, a delight in any thing; a cast, a manner; a power of perceiving; with for: as, "We have a relish for faction."
 able (adj. from relish) Having a relish, capable of being relished.
 ableness (s. from relishable) The quality of having an agreeable flavour.
 ed (p. from relish) Tasted, flavoured; liked, approved.
 ing (p. a. from relish) Tasting, giving a relish; approving.
 e (v. int. from re, and live) To live anew, to revive.
 en (v. int. from *re*live) To relive, to revive. Spens.
 ing (p. a. from *re*live) Reviving, living anew.
 (s. in zoology) The dormouse.
 ALEUM (s. with chymists) A peculiar virtue.
 ve (v. t. from re, and love) To love in return. ed (p. from *re*love) Loved in return. ing (p. a. from *re*love) Loving in return.
 CENT (adj. from the Lat. releuco to shine) Shining, transparent.
 CT (v. t. from the Lat. reluctor) To struggle against, to resist.
 tance (s. from *re*luct) Unwillingness, a struggle in opposition.
 tancy (s. from *re*luctance, but not so much used) A reluctance.
 tant (adj. from *re*luct) Unwilling, acting with reluctance.
 tate (v. t. from *re*luct) To struggle against, to resist.
 tate (v. int.) To shew unwillingness, to struggle in opposition.
 tating (p. a. from *re*luctate) Shewing unwillingness, struggling against.
 ation (s. from *re*luctate) A struggle in opposition. Bacon.
 ME (v. t. from the Lat. relumino) To light anew, to rekindle.
 ed (p. from *re*lume) Rekindled, lighted anew.
 MINE (v. t. from the Lat. relumino) To relume, to light anew.
 ined (p. from *re*lumine) Rekindled, lighted anew.
 ing (p. a. from *re*lume) Rekindling, lighting anew.
 ining (p. a. from *re*lumine) Rekindling.
 (v. int. from re, and lie) To lean upon with confidence, to confide in; with on, or upon: as, "No man can rely on that man who is a rebel to his word."

Rely'ing (p. a. from *re*ly) Leaning on with confidence, trusting in, depending on.
 Rema'de (p. from *re*make) Made anew.
 REMAI'N (v. int. from the Lat. remaneo) To continue, to endure; to be left out of a greater quantity, to be kept after any event, to be left so as not to be comprised.
 Remain (v. t.) To await, to be left to. Milton.
 Remain (s. from the verb, generally used in the plural) That which is left, a relic, the body after the soul is departed; an abode, a habitation; but this sense is now grown obsolete. Shakespeare.
 Remain'der (s. from *re*main) That which is left, that which remains after subtraction; the body after the soul is departed; that which is given after the decrease of another, an entail.
 Remain'der (adj. from *re*main) Remaining, left. Shakespeare.
 Remain'ing (p. a. from *re*main) Continuing, abiding, being left.
 Remains (s. plu. not much used in the singular) The body after the soul is departed; that which is left, the remaining parts.
 REMAL'IAH (s. from the Heb. signifying rejected of the Lord) A man's name.
 Rema'ke (v. t. from re, and make) To make anew. Glan.
 Rema'king (p. a. from *re*make) Making anew.
 REMAN'CIPATE (v. t. from the Lat. remancipo) To sell a commodity to the person of whom it was bought.
 Reman'cipated (p. from *re*man'cipate) Sold to one of whom it was bought.
 Reman'cipating (p. a. from *re*man'cipate) Selling to the person of whom it was bought.
 REMA'ND (v. t. from the Lat. remando) To order back, to call back, to send back.
 Remand'ed (p. from *re*mand) Ordered back, sent back.
 Remand'ing (p. a. from *re*mand) Ordering back, calling back, sending back.
 Reman'ent (s. an old spelling) A remnant, a piece remaining. Bacon.
 Remanen'tes (s. in old records) The tenants belonging to a manor.
 Reman'fi (s. in old records) The tenants belonging to a manor.
 REMAN'SION (s. from the Lat. remaneo, but not used) A continuance. Cole.
 Rema'rk (v. t. from re, and mark) To observe, to note, to distinguish, to point out, to mark again.
 Rema'rk (s. from the verb) An observation, a note.
 Remark'able (adj. from *re*mark) Observable, worthy of notice, uncommon.
 Remark'ableness (s. from *re*markable) The state of being remarkable.
 Remark'ably (adv. from *re*markable) In a remarkable manner.
 Remark'ed (p. from *re*mark) Observed, noticed.
 Remark'er (s. from *re*mark) One that remarks.
 Remark'ing (p. a. from *re*mark) Observing, noting.
 Rema'rry (v. int. from re, and marry) To marry again.
 Rema'rrying (p. a. from *re*marry) Marrying again. Sc.
 Rem'ble (v. t. a local word) To remove.
 Reme (v. t. an old word) To take away.
 Re'med, Re'mede (s. obsolete) A remedy. Chaucer.
 Re'mede, Re'med (v. t. obsolete) To remedy, to cure. Ch.
 Remed'iable (adj. from *re*medy) Capable of remedy.
 Remed'iate (adj. from *re*medy, but now grown obsolete) Medicinal, affording remedy.
 Remed'ied (p. from *re*medy) Cured, healed, repaired, prevented as an evil.
 Remed'iless (adj. from *re*medy) Incurable, admitting of no remedy.
 Remed'ilessness (s. from *re*mediless) The state of being remediless.
 REM'EDY (s. from the Lat. remedium) A medicine by which any illness is cured, that which counteracts any evil, a separation, the cure of any uneasiness.
 Remed'y (v. t. from the sub.) To cure, to heal, to repair, to remove or counteract mischief.
 Remed'ying (p. a. from *re*medy) Curing, healing, repairing, removing mischief.
 REME'LIGO (s. in ichthyology) The remora.
 Remelt (v. t. from re, and melt) To melt again.
 Remelt'ed (p. from *re*melt) Melted again.
 Remelt'ing (p. a. from *re*melt) Melting again.
 REMEM'BER (v. t. from the Lat. reminitor) To retain in the memory, to keep up in remembrance; to recollect, to call to mind; to remind, to be in remembrance; to mention.
 Remem'berance

REM

Remem'brance (s. from remember) A retention in the memory, a recollection, a memorial, a token by which any thing is remembered, notice of what is absent.

Remem'branceoffice (s. from remembrance, and office) An office in the exchequer.

Remem'brancer (s. from remembrance) One that reminds; an officer of the exchequer.

Remem'bered (p. from remember) Kept in memory, recollected, reminded, mentioned.

Remem'berer (s. from remember) One that remembers.

Remem'bering (p. a. from remember) Keeping in memory, recollecting, reminding.

Remer'cie (v. t. obsolete) To thank. Spenser.

Remer'cyed (p. obsolete, from remercie) Thanked. Bai.

Remes (s. obsolete) Realms, kingdoms. Chaucer.

Rem'e'ved (p. obsolete) Removed. Chaucer.

Remew' (v. t. an old word) To refuse. Bailey.

Remew'ed (p. obsolete) Removed. Chaucer.

REMIGRATE (v. int. from the Lat. remigro) To rove back again.

Remi'grating (p. a. from remigrate) Roving back again.

Remigra'tion (s. from remigrate) A removal back again.

Remi'nd (v. t. from re, and mind) To put in mind, to force a recollection: with of: as, "When age itself shall remind us of our mortality."

Remind'ed (p. from remind) Put in remembrance.

Remind'ing (p. a. from remind) Putting in mind, bringing to remembrance.

REMINIS'CENCE (s. from the Lat. reminiscor to remember) A recollection, a recovery of thoughts.

Reminis'cency (s. from reminiscence, but not so common a word) Reminiscence. Scott.

Reminiscent'ial (adj. from reminiscence) Belonging to reminiscence.

REMINIS'CERE (s. from the Lat.) The second Sunday in Lent.

REMI'SS (adj. from the Lat. remitto to remit) Slothful, slack, useless; relaxed.

Remis'fals (s. obsolete) Remnants. Chaucer.

Remis'sibil'ity (s. from remissible) The state or quality of being pardonable.

Remis'sible (adj. from remit) Capable of being remitted, capable of forgiveness.

Remis'sion (s. from remis) Abatement, relaxation; forgiveness, pardon; the abatement of a distemper without a perfect intermission.

Remis'sly (adv. from remis) Carelessly, negligently, slackly.

Remis'sness (s. from remis) Carelessness, negligence; coldness, want of ardor.

REMI'T (v. t. from the Lat. remitto) To relax, to make less rigorous, to forgive, to pardon; to give up, to resign, to refer; to put again in custody; to send money to a distant place.

Remit' (v. int.) To grow less intense, to abate; to grow less violent without a perfect intermission.

Remit'ment (s. from remit) The act of remitting to custody.

Remit'tance (s. from remit) The act of paying money at a distant place, a sum of money or draught sent to a distant place.

Remit'ted (p. from remit) Relaxed, made less intense; forgiven, pardoned; given up, resigned; put again into custody; sent as a sum of money to a distant place.

Remit'ter (s. from remit) One that remits.

Remit'ter (s. a law term) The process by which a man is confirmed in the possession of lands or tenements by a more ancient and indisputable title than that by which he first became possessed of them.

Remit'ting (p. a. from remit) Relaxing, making less tense; forgiving, pardoning; giving up, resigning, referring; putting again into custody; abating, growing less violent; sending money or bills to a distant place.

Remix (v. t. from re, and mix) To mix a second time.

Remix'ed (p. from remix) Mixed a second time.

Remix'ing (p. a. from remix) Mixing again.

REM'MON (s. from the Heb. signifying great) The name of a city. Josh. 19.

REM'NANT (s. the more common spelling, from the Lat. remaneo to remain) A remanent, the residue, that which is left after the principal part is gone.

Rem'nant (adj. from the sub.) Remaining, left behind.

Remol'ten (p. from remelt) Melted again.

Remon'strance (s. from remonstrare) A strong representation, an address containing strong reasons; a shew, a discovery. Shakespeare.

Remon'strant (adj. from remonstrare) Expostulatory, containing strong reasons.

REM

Remon'strant (s. from the adj.) One that joins in a remonstrance one that remonstrates, a German protestant.

REMONSTRATE (v. int. from the Lat. remonstrare) To make a strong representation, to make appear in strong terms.

Remon'strating (p. a. from remonstrare) Making a representation in strong terms, addressing with strong arguments.

REMO'RA (s. in ichthyology) The suckfish; a fish which it is said often sticks to the bottoms of ships and retards their motion.

REMO'RA (s. in surgery) An instrument for setting broken bones.

REMORA'DE (s. in farriery) A kind of poultice, charge.

Re'morate (v. t. from remora, but not much used) To hinder, to delay.

Re'morated (p. from remorate, not much used) Hindered, delayed.

Re'morating (p. a. from remorate) Hindering, delaying.

Remor'd (v. t. an old word) To cause remorse.

Remor'de, Remor'din (v. t. obsolete) To check, to cause remorse.

REMOR'SE (s. from the Lat. remordeo to bite) The pain of guilt, sorrow for sin; tenderness, pity.

Remor'seful (adj. from remorse) Full of remorse; tender, pitiful.

Remor'seless (adj. from remorse) Void of remorse, cruel, savage.

REMO'TE (adj. from the Lat. removeo to move) Removed far off, distant, foreign, alien; abstracted.

Remo'tely (adv. from remote) At a distance, abstractedly.

Remo'teness (s. from remote) The state of being remote.

Remo'ter (adj. comp. of remote) Remote in a greater degree.

Remo'test (adj. sup. of remote) Remote in the greatest degree.

Remo'tion (s. from remote) The act of removing, the state of being removed at a distance.

Remo'veable (adj. from remove) Capable of being removed.

Remo'val (s. from remove) The act of putting out of one place into another, the state of being removed, a dismission from office or employment.

REMO'VE (v. t. from the Lat. removeo) To put from its place, to place at a distance.

Remo've (v. int.) To change place, to go from one place to another.

Remo've (s. from the verb) A change of place, the act of moving, the state of being moved, a movement, cheis or draughts; a stop in the scale of gradation, small distance.

Remo'ved (p. from remove) Put out of its place, placed at a distance.

Remo'vedness (s. from removed) The state of being moved. Shakespeare.

Remo'ver (s. from remove) One that moves, one that removes.

Remo'ving (p. a. from remove) Putting out of place, placing at a distance.

Remo'ving (s. from the part.) The act of moving, the act of removing; motion, agitation.

Remoun't (v. t. from re, and mount) To mount again.

Remoun't (v. int.) To ascend again.

Remount'ed (p. from remount) Mounted again, again on horseback.

Remount'ing (p. a. from remount) Mounting again, ascending again.

REM'PHAN (s. in heathen mythology) The name of an idol which some think to be Saturn.

REMPLE' (adj. in heraldry) Having the chief filled with a square piece of another tincture.

REMPLI' (adj. a different spelling) Having the chief filled up with a square piece of a different tincture.

Rem'ply (adj. in heraldry) Having the chief filled with a square piece of a different colour. D. of A.

Remu'able (adj. obsolete) Removable. Chaucer.

REM'ULUS (s. in anatomy) The narrow part of the ribs, the turning joints of the backbone.

Remunerabil'ity (s. from remunerable) Rewardableness.

Remu'nerable (adj. from remunerate) Rewardable, to be rewarded.

REMUNERATE (v. t. from the Lat. remunerare) To reward, to repay, to recompence.

Remu'nerated (p. from remunerate) Rewarded, recompenced.

Remu'nerating (p. a. from remunerate) Rewarding, compensating.

REN

munera'tion (s. from remunerate) The act of rewarding, a reward, a recompence.
munerative (adj. from remunerate) Exercised in giving rewards, tending to compensation.
MURIA (s. in Roman antiquity) The festivals celebrated in honour of Remus the brother of Romulus.
murmur (v. t. from re, and murmur) To utter back murmurs, to repeat in a low hoarse voice.
murmur (v. int.) To murmur back, to echo in a low hoarse sound.
murmured (p. from remurmur) Returned back in murmurs.
murmuring (p. a. from remurmur) Returning back murmurs, uttering in a low hoarse voice.
MUS (s.) The twin brother of Romulus the founder of the Roman empire.
murmure (v. int. an obsolete spelling) To run. Chaucer.
murable (adj. obsolete) Ready.
murable (adv. obsolete) Readily. Chaucer.
mural (adj. from reins) Belonging to the reins.
WARD (s. from the French, in fable) The fox.
ardism (s. from renard) The cunning of the fox. Co.
ASCENT (adj. from the Lat. renascor to rise again) roduced anew, rising again into being.
ascibility (s. from renascible) The possibility of being produced again.
ascible (adj. from renascible) Capable of being produced again.
ascibility (s. from renascible) The possibility of being produced again.
avigate (v. t. from re, and navigate) To sail back, pass back with a boat or ship.
avigated (p. from renavigate) Repassed in a ship or boat.
avigating (p. a. from renavigate) Repassing in a ship or boat.
avigation (s. from renavigate) The act of sailing back.
COUNTER (s. from the French rencontre) A clash, collision, a personal opposition, a loose or casual engagement.
counter (v. int. from the sub.) To skirmish, to clash.
counter (v. t.) To fight hand to hand, to oppose, affail.
countered (p. from encounter) Fought, opposed casual engagement, assailed.
countering (p. a. from encounter) Fighting hand to hand, opposing in casual engagements.
COUNTRÉ (adj. in heraldry) Having the head in front, shewing a full face as though coming directly wards one.
D (v. t. from the Sax. rendan) To tear, to tear with violence.
D (s. a sea term) A seam, the jointure of the planks of the sides of the ship.
DER (s. from rend) One that rends.
DER (v. t. from the French rendre) To return, to go back, to restore, to give back; to make, to invest with qualities; to represent, to exhibit; to translate, turn out of one language into another; to offer, to give.
der (s. from the verb) A surrender.
dered (p. from render) Returned, repaid, made, vested with qualities, translated out of one language into another; offered, given.
dering (p. a. from render) Returning back, re-giving, making, producing, translating out of one language into another, offering, giving.
devous (s. not so common a spelling) A rendezvous. Scott.
DEZVOUS (s. from the French) An assembly, a place of meeting; the place where the several divisions of a fleet or army are to assemble.
dezdous (v. int. from the sub.) To meet at a place appointed.
dezvousing (p. a. from rendezvous) Meeting at a place appointed.
dition (s. from render) A surrender, the act of surrendering.
BALMIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
ga'de (s. from renegado) An apostate, a revolter.
EGA'DO (s. from the Spanish) A renegade, one who deserts from the faith, one who deserts to the enemy.
gate (s. an old spelling) A renegade. Chaucer.
E'GE (v. t. from the Lat. renego, but now grown obsolete) To deny, to disown. King Cha.
ged (p. now grown obsolete, from renego) Denied, disowned.

REN

Reneging (p. a. from renego, but now grown obsolete)
Denying, disowning.
RENES (s. a different spelling) The reins.
Renew (v. t. from re, and new) To restore to a former state, to renovate; to begin again, to repeat; to make anew, to transform to newness of life.
Renewable (adj. from renew) Capable of being renewed.
Renewal (s. from renew) The act of renewing, a renovation.
Renewed (p. from renew) Restored to a former state, renovated, made anew, begun again, repeated.
Renewing (p. a. from renew) Restoring to a former state, renovating, repeating.
Renewing (s. from the part.) The act of making anew,
a renewal, a renovation.
Reney (v. t. obsolete) To deny. Chaucer.
REN/FREW (s.) One of the shires in Scotland; the capital of that shire.
Reng'd (adj. an old word) Compassed about. Bailey.
Ren'gis (s. obsolete) Ranks. Chaucer.
Ren'iant (s. obsolete) A renegade. Chaucer.
Renie' (v. obsolete) To deny. Chaucer.
RENIFORM (adj. from the Lat. renes the reins, and forma a form) Having the shape of the reins.
Renitency (s. from renitent) The resistance of bodies pressed or impelled one against another.
RENITENT (adj. from the Lat. reniteor to resist) Resisting an impulse by an elastic power.
Renk (s. an obsolete spelling) A rank. Bailey.
Renn (v. int. an obsolete spelling) To run. Spenser.
Renne (v. int. an obsolete spelling) To run. Chaucer.
Ren'net (s. a different spelling) Runnet, the ingredient with which milk is coagulated in order to make cheese.
Ren'net (s.) The name of an apple.
Ren'neting (s.) The rennet, the name of an apple.
Ren'nir (s. an obsolete spelling) The runner. Chaucer.
Ren'nish (adj. a local word) Furious, passionate. Bailey.
Ren'nogate (s. an obsolete spelling) A renegade. Chau.
RE/NODATE (v. t. from the Lat. renodo, but not used)
To untie, to unravel; to tie again, to tie fast. Bai.
Reno'me (s. obsolete) Reputation, a good name. Chau.
Reno'mie (s. obsolete) Renown, a good name. Chau.
REN'OVATE (v. t. from the Lat. renovo) To renew, to restore to a former state.
Ren'ovated (p. from renovate) Renewed, restored to a former state.
Ren'ovating (p. a. from renovate) Renewing, restoring to a former state.
Renova'tion (s. from renovate) The act of renewing,
the state of being renewed.
Renovel'ances (s. an old word) Renewing. Bailey.
Renovel'aunces (s. obsolete) Renewals. Chaucer.
Renove'le (v. t. obsolete) To renew. Chaucer.
Renove'len (v. t. obsolete) To renew. Chaucer.
RENOU'NCE (v. t. from the Lat. renuncio) To disown, to give up, to quit upon oath.
Renoun'ce (v. int.) To declare a renunciation.
Renoun'ce (s. at quadrille) The act of not following the leading suit when it was in the power of the player to have done it.
Renoun'ce (v. int. at quadrille) To play contrary to the leading suit when it was in the power of the player to have followed it.
Renoun'ced (p. from renounce) Disowned, given up,
given on oath.
Renoun'cement (s. from renounce) The act of renouncing, a renunciation.
Renoun'cid (adj. obsolete) Renounced. Chaucer.
Renoun'cing (p. a. from renounce) Disowning, giving up, quitting on oath.
Renoun'cing (p. a. at rubic) Playing contrary to suit when it was in the power of the player to have followed it.
RENOWN (s. from the French renommé) Fame, praise widely spread.
Renown (v. t. from the sub.) To make famous. Pope.
Renowned (p. from renown) Made famous, celebrated, famed.
Renowned (s. from the part. but absolutely) People who have rendered themselves famous. "The renowned of the congregation."
Renownedly (adv. from renowned) With reputation, with renown. Scott.
Renown'dness (s. from renowned) The state of being renowned. Scott.
Rent (s. from rend) A break, a laceration.
Rent (v. t. pret. of rend) Did rend.

Rent (p. from rend) Torn, lacerated.
 Rent (v. t. from rend) To rend, to tear, to lacerate. Ec.
 Rent (v. int. nearly obsolete) To rant, to roar, to bluster.
 RENT (s. from the French rente) A revenue, an early payment; money paid for any thing held of another.
 Rent (v. t. from the sub.) To hold of another on the payment of a fixed sum of money for any determinate time; to let to a tenant.
 Rent'able (adj. from rent) Capable of being rented.
 Rent'al (s. from rent) An account or list of rents.
 Rent'charge (s. from rent, and charge) A charge or encumbrance on an estate recoverable in the same manner as rent.
 Rent'ed (p. from rent) Held of another on the payment of a fixed sum of money for any determinate time; let to a tenant.
 Rent'er (s. from rent) One that holds by paying rent, a tenant.
 Rent'er (v. t. from rent) To sew cloth after a particular manner, to fine draw.
 Rent'ered (p. from renter) Fine drawn, sewed as cloth in a particular manner.
 Rent'ering (p. a. from renter) Sewing cloth in a particular manner, fine drawing.
 Rent'erwarden (s. from renter, and warden) The officer who receives the rents due to a corporation or company.
 Rent'ing (p. a. from rent) Tearing, lacerating; holding at a fixed rent.
 Rent'ing (s. from the part.) The act of tearing with violence, a laceration; the act of holding at a fixed rent.
 Rent'roll (s. from rent, and roll) A rental, a roll or list of rents.
 Rent'seck (s. a law term) A yearly charge on an estate but not recoverable as rent.
 Rent'service (s. a law term) A tenure by fealty service and certain rent.
 Rent'y (adj. a local word) Handsome, well shaped as a horse or cow. Bailey.
 Rent'ue (v. t. an old word) To pull, to get. Coie.
 RENUEN'TES (s. in anatomy) A pair of muscles which serve to throw the head backwards as an air of refusal. Scott.
 Renverse' (adj. in heraldry) Inverted, fet with the head downwards.
 Renvers'ed (adj. from renverse) Overturned. Spenser.
 RENU'MERATE (v. t. from the Lat. renumerare, but not used) To pay back. Coie.
 Renu'merated (p. from renumerare, but not used) Paid back.
 Renu'merating (p. a. from renumerare, but not used) Paying back.
 RENUN'CIATE (v. int. from the Lat. renuncio, but not used) To bring back intelligence. Coie.
 Renun'ciating (p. a. from renunciate, but not used) Bringing back intelligence.
 Renun'ciation (s. from renunciate) The act of renouncing.
 RENUN'CULUS (s. in anatomy) A little kidney.
 RENUN'CULUS (s. in botany) The ranunculus, the name of a plant, the name of a flower, the crow-foot. Scott.
 RENVOY' (s. from the French, but not used) A sending back. Coie.
 Re'ny (v. t. obsolete) To deny. Chaucer.
 Reobrai'n (v. t. from re, and obtain) To procure again, to obtain again.
 Reobtained (p. from reobtain) Obtained again.
 Reobtain'ing (p. a. from reobtain) Obtaining again.
 Reordai'n (v. t. from re, and ordain) To ordain again.
 Reordain'ed (p. from reordain) Ordained again.
 Reordain'ing (p. a. from reordain) Ordaining again.
 Reordination' (s. from reordain) An ordination repeated.
 Repac'ified (p. from repacify) Pacified again.
 Repac'ify (v. t. from re, and pacify) To pacify again.
 Repac'ifying (p. a. from repacify) Pacifying again.
 Repai'd (p. from repay) Paid back, requited.
 REPAIR (v. t. from the Lat. reparo) To restore, to amend, to fill up anew.
 Repair' (v. int.) To go to, to betake one's self.
 Repair'r (s. from the verb) A reparation, a supply of loss, a restoration after dilapidation.
 Repair'r (s. from the verb) An abode, a resort, the resort of a hare; the act of betaking one's self to any place.
 Repair'able (adj. from repair) Capable of being repaired.
 Repair're (s. an old spelling) A resort, a return. Chau.
 Repair're (v. int. obsolete) To return. Chaucer.
 Repair'ed (p. from repair) Restored, amended.

Repair'er (s. from repair) One that repairs, an amender.
 Repair'ing (p. a. from repair) Restoring, amending.
 Repair'ing (s. from the part.) The act of amending, restoration.
 Repan'dity (s. from repandous) The state of being upwards.
 REPAN'DOUS (adj. from the Lat. repandus) Being upwards.
 REPARABLE (adj. from the Lat. reparo to repair) Capable of being repaired.
 Repar'ably (adv. from reparable) In a manner capable of being repaired.
 REPARATION (s. from the Lat. reparo to repair) The act of repairing, the supply of what has been with a recompense.
 Repar'ative (adj. from repair) Tending to repair.
 Repar'ative (s. from the adj.) That which repairs, which makes amends for loss or injury.
 Repar't (v. t. in the manage) To put a horse on, to a horse on the next faster pace.
 Repar'ted (p. from report) Put on as a horse.
 REPARTEE' (s. from the French, repartie) A smart reply.
 Reparte'e (v. int. from the sub.) To make smart reply.
 Reparte'ing (p. a. from repartee) Making smart replies.
 Reparti'tion (s. from re and partition) The act of dividing a gain into shares, the regulation of a case such a manner that no one may be overruled.
 Rep'arty (s. not so common a spelling) A repartee, a reply.
 Repa'se (v. t. an obsolete spelling) To repass.
 Repa'sis (v. t. from re, and pass) To pass again, to back.
 Repa'sis (v. int.) To go back in a road.
 Repa'sed (p. from repa'sis) Passed again.
 Repa'sing (p. a. from repa'sis) Passing again, going back, returning the same road.
 Repa'sing (s. from the part.) The act of returning the same road or river.
 Repa'st (v. t. pret. of repa'sis) Did repass.
 Repa'st (p. from repa'sis) Repassed.
 REPA'ST (s. from the Lat. repastus) A meal, a repast, food, victuals.
 Repa'st (v. t. from the sub.) To feed, to feast.
 Repa'st'ed (p. from repast, but not used) Fed, feasted.
 Repa'st'inate (v. t. from repast, but not used) To feed again about vines.
 Repa'st'inated (p. from repastinate, but not used) About his vines a second time.
 Repa'st'inating (p. a. from repastinate) Digging about vines a second time.
 Repa'st'ing (p. a. from repast, but not used) Feasting.
 Repa'sum (s. in old records) A meal given to several servants when at work for their lord.
 Repa'sure (s. from re, and pasture, but not used) A entertainment. Shakspeare.
 REPA'TRIATE (v. int. from the Lat. patria a country, but not used) To return to one's own country.
 Repatri'ating (p. a. from repatriate, but not used) Turning to one's own country.
 Repay' (v. t. from re, and pay) To pay back, to repay to recompense, to reimburse.
 Repay'ing (p. a. from repay) Paying back, repaying, reimbursing.
 Repay'ment (s. from repay) The act of repaying, thing or sum repaid.
 Repe (v. int. obsolete) To scrape together.
 REPEAL (v. t. from the French rapeller) To abrogate, to revoke, to annul, to recall; but this sense is now of use.
 Repeal' (s. from the verb) A revocation, an abrogation, a recall from exile; but this sense is now grown obsolete.
 Repeal'able (adj. from repeal) Capable of being repealed.
 Repealed (p. from repeal) Abrogated, revoked.
 Repeal'ing (p. a. from repeal) Abrogating, revoking, annulling.
 Repeal'ing (s. from the part.) The act of revoking, the abrogation of a law.
 REPEAT (v. t. from the Lat. repeto) To speak to do again, to try again; to recite, to rehearse.
 Repeat' (s. from the verb) A repetition, the music for a repetition.
 Repeat'ed (p. from repeat) Spoken again, done over.
 Repeat'edly (adv. from repeated) Over and over, repetitions.
 Repeat'er (s. from repeat) One that repeats; a which that repeats the hours as often as touched for at purpose.

Repeating (p. a. from repeat) Saying over again, saying over again.

Repeating (s. from the part.) The act of saying or saying over again, a repetition.

Repeating (s.) A particular hand of cards at piquet.

REPEHAM (s.) A town in Norfolk; it has a market Saturday, and is 109 miles from London.

Repeham (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Repeham, made at Repeham.

REPEL (v. t. from the Lat. repello) To drive back, to drive back an assailant; to prevent an afflux of humors.

Repelling (v. int.) To act with a contrary force.

Repellence (s. from repel) The act of repelling. Cole.

Repelled (p. from repel) Driven back, resisted by a contrary force.

Repellent (adj. from repel) Having a power to repel.

Repellent (s. from the adj.) A medical application endowed with a repelling power.

REPELLENTIA (s. from the Lat.) Repellents. Phillips.

Repeller (s. from repel) One that repels.

Repelling (p. a. from repel) Driving back, resisting by contrary force.

Recompensation (s. not used) The act of recompensing. Co.

RENT (v. int. from the Lat. poenapain) To think on that is passed with sorrow; to express sorrow, to weep for sorrow for sin.

Repent (v. t.) To remember with sorrow, to sorrow for sin, to feel contrition. "I repent me that the day is slain." "It repenteth me that I made man."

Repentance (s. obsolete) Repentance. Chaucer.

Repentance (s. from repent) Sorrow for any thing past, sorrow for sin.

Repentant (adj. from repent) Sorrowful for what is done, sorrowful for sin, expressing repentance.

Repentant (adj. an old spelling) Repentant. Chaucer.

Repented (p. from repent) Thought on with sorrow, ended with repentance; with of: as, "Not to be repented of."

REPENTINE (adj. from the Lat. repentinus, but not used) Sudden. Bailey.

Repenting (p. a. from repent) Feeling sorrow for what is past, expressing repentance.

Repenting (s. from repent) The act of sorrowing for what is past.

Repeople (v. t. from re, and people) To stock anew with people.

Repleated (p. from repeople) Stocked anew with people.

Repleating (p. a. from repeople) Stocking anew with people.

Repleating (s. from the adj.) The act of stocking anew with people.

REPERCUSS (v. t. from the Lat. repercutio repercutissus, not much used) To put back, to drive back, to rebound.

Reperculated (p. from repercutis) Beaten back, driven back. Bacon.

Repercuting (p. a. not used, from repercutis) Beating back, rebounding.

Repercussion (s. from repercutis) The act of driving back, a rebound.

Repercussive (adj. from repercutis) Having a power to drive back, repellent; rebounding; but this sense has been judged improper. "The repercussive roar." Thom.

REPERTIVIOUS (adj. from the Lat. reperio to find) Found by finding, found. Johnson.

REPERTORY (s. from the Lat. repertorium) A treasury, a book in which any thing may be found.

REPETITION (s. from the Lat. repeto to repeat) A recital, the act of reciting, the same thing said or done over again.

REPEL (s. from the Heb. signifying a sovereign measure) A man's name.

REPHAIM (s. from the Heb. signifying giants) The name of a place, the name of a valley in the land of Canaan; an inhabitant of Rephaim.

REPHIDIM (s. from the Heb. signifying places of rest) The name of a district on the borders of Canaan.

REPINO (adj. in music books) Full, filled up with all parts.

Repino (s. from the adj.) A violin which plays now and then to make the music more full.

Repino (s. a different spelling) A repiano. Scott.

Repining (v. int. from re, and pine) To fret, to discover discontent; with at, and against: as, "The ghosts repined at violated night."

Repining (p. from repine) Murmured at. "The furies imposed were the more repined against because they were assigned to the building of Saint Paul's church." Clar.

Repiner (s. from repine) One that repines.

Repining (p. a. from repine) Fretting, murmuring, shewing discontent.

Repining (s. from repine) The act of shewing discontent.

REPIQUE (s. at piquet) The number ninety which is reckoned by one who makes thirty in hand before the adversary has reckoned one.

Repique (v. t. from the sub. at piquet) To gain the repique on the adversary.

Repiqued (p. from repique at piquet) Beaten by the repique of the adversary.

Repiquing (p. a. from repique, at piquet) Gaining the repique on the adversary.

Replace (v. t. from re, and place) To put into its former place, to put into a new place.

Replaced (p. from replace) Put into a former place, put in a new place, succeeded by another in place.

Replacing (p. a. from replace) Putting into a former place, putting into a new place, putting into the place of another.

Replacing (s. from replace) The act of putting into place.

Replait (v. t. from re, and plait) To fold one part over another. Scott.

Replaited (p. from replait) Folded as one part over another. Dryden.

Replaiting (p. a. from replait) Folding one part over another.

Replant (v. t. from re, and plant) To plant anew.

Replanted (p. from replant) Planted in another place, planted anew.

Replanting (p. a. from replant) Planting anew.

Replanting (s. from the part.) The act of planting anew.

Replantation (s. from replant) The act of planting anew, a new plantation.

Replead (v. int. from re, and plead) To plead to any thing a second time.

Repleader (v. int. a law term) To replead. Phillips.

Repleading (p. a. from replead) Pleading to the same thing a second time.

Replegiare (v. t. a law term) To deliver to the owner upon pledges of surety.

REPLENISH (v. t. from the Lat. repleo) To stock, to fill.

Replenish (v. int. not used) To become fully stocked. Ba.

Replenished (p. from replenish) Stocked, filled.

Replenishing (p. a. from replenish) Stocking, filling.

Replenishment (s. from replenish, but not much used) The act of replenishing, the state of being replenished. Scott.

REPLETE (adj. from the Lat. repletus) Full, completely filled: with with; as, "Replete with humours."

Repleteneffs (s. from replete) Fullness, repletion. Scott.

Repletion (s. from replete) The state of being full, the state of being too full.

Replevable (adj. from replevy) Capable of being replevied.

Replevied (p. from replevy) Taking back on giving security, set at liberty on proper security given.

REPLEVIN (v. t. a law term) To take back on security, to set at liberty any thing which has been seized on proper security given.

Replevined (p. from replevin) Replevied.

Replevining (p. a. from replevin) Replevying.

Replevish (v. t. a law term) To let to bail, to set to liberty on bail.

Replevished (p. from replevish) To admit to bail, to set at liberty on bail.

Replevishing (p. a. from replevish) Admitting to bail, setting at liberty on bail.

REPLEVY (v. t. a law term) To replevin, to take back what has been seized on giving legal security.

Replevying (p. a. from replevy) Taking back what has been seized on giving legal security.

Replication (s. from reply) A reply, an answer; a rebound, a repercussion. Shakespeare.

Reply (v. int. from re, and ply) To answer, to make return to an answer.

Reply (s. from the verb) An answer, a return to an answer.

Reply (v. t. not much used) To return for an answer. Milton.

Replyed (p. from reply) Returned for an answer.

Replyer (s. from reply) One that replies.

Replying (p. a. from reply) Answering, returning for an answer.

Repolish (v. t. from re, and polish) To polish again, to polish anew.

Repolished

REP

Repolished (p. from repolish) Polished anew.
Repolishing (p. a. from repolish) Polishing anew.
REPONCES (s. in botany) A kind of small wild radishes.
REPORT (v. t. from the French rapporter) To relate on popular rumour; to give an account of; to give back a sound, to return as an echo; to refer. Chau.
Report (s. from the verb) A rumour, popular false, repulse; an account returned, an account given of cases in law; a sound, a loud noise, a repercussion.
REPORTA'TOR (s. from the Lat. reporto to carry back, but not used) One that carries back. Cole.
Reported (p. from report) Told from one to another, given out as a common rumour, returned as an echo; given as an account of any thing that has passed elsewhere.
Report'er (s. from report) One that reports, one that gives an account.
Report'ing (p. a. from report) Telling from one to another, giving out as a common rumour, giving an account of what has passed elsewhere, returning as an echo.
Report'ingly (adv. from reporting) By report, by common fame. Shakespeare.
Reposit (s. from repose) The act of reposing.
REPOSE (v. t. from the Lat. repono, to lay down) To lay to rest, to lodge, to lay up; to place in confidence.
Repos'e (v. int.) To sleep, to be at rest, to rest in confidence.
Repos'e (s. from the verb) Sleep, rest, quiet; the cause of rest.
Repos'ed (p. from repose) Laid to rest, lodged, laid up, placed as in confidence.
Repos'edly (adv. from repos'ed) With repose, quietly. Sc.
Repos'edness (s. from repos'ed) The state of being at rest.
Repos'ing (p. a. from repose) Laying to rest, resting, sleeping, placing confidence.
REPOSITE (v. t. from the Lat. repono repositus) To lay up, to lay up as in a place of safety.
Repos'ited (p. from repose) Laid up, laid up as in a place of safety.
Repos'iting (p. a. from reposite) Laying up, laying up in a place of safety.
Repos'ition (s. from repose) The act of reposing.
Repos'itory (s. from repose) A place where any thing is laid up in safety, a storehouse.
Repos'ite (v. t. not used) To possess again. Cole.
Repos's'ed (v. t. from re, and posses) To possess again.
Repos's'ed (p. from repossess) Possessed again.
Repos's'ing (p. a. from repossess) Possessing again.
Repos's'e (s. obsolete) Reproof. Bailey.
REP'REHE'ND (v. t. from the Lat. reprehendo) To reprove, to chide, to blame, to censure, to detect of fallacy, to charge with a fault.
Reprehend'ed (p. from reprehend) Reproved, chidden, blamed, charged with a fault.
Reprehend'er (s. from reprehend) One that reprehends.
Reprehend'ing (p. a. from reprehend) Reproving, chiding, blaming, charging with a fault.
Reprehens'ible (adj. from reprehend) Blameable, culpable, worthy of reprehension.
Reprehens'ibleness (s. from reprehens'ible) The state of being reprehensible.
Reprehens'ibly (adv. from reprehens'ible) Blameably, culpably.
Reprehens'ion (s. from reprehend) Reproof, open censure.
Reprehens'ive (adj. from reprehension) Given to reproof, containing reproof.
REPRESENT (v. t. from the Lat. repræsentō) To describe, to shew in any particular character, to exhibit, to appear in the place of another, to personate.
Representa'tion (s. from represent) An image, a likeness; a various character, a respectful declaration.
Representative (adj. from represent) Bearing the character or power of another, exhibiting a similitude.
Represent'ative (s. from the adj.) One exercising the vicarious power given by another, one that personates another, one who exhibits the likeness of another; one thing or quality which supplies the place or gives the resemblance of another.
Represent'ed (p. from represent) Described or exhibited, personated.
Represent'er (s. from represent) One that represents.
Represent'ing (p. a. from represent) Describing, exhibiting, filling the place of another; personating.
Represent'ment (s. from represent) A description, an image exhibiting the likeness of any thing. Taylor.

REP

REPRESS (v. t. from the Lat. reprimo repressus) To put down, to subdue, to crush.
Repress'ed (s. from the verb, but not used) A repression, act of crushing.
Repress'a (s. in music books) A repeat.
Repress'ed (p. from repress) Put down, subdued, crushed.
Repress'ing (p. a. from repress) Putting down, subduing, crushing.
Repress'ion (s. from repress) The act of repressing.
Repress'ive (adj. from repress) Having power to repress, tending to repression.
Reprove (s. obsolete) A reproof. Cham.
REPRI'EVE (v. t. from the French reprandre) To give a respite, to respite after sentence or death; with as, "Company may relieve a man from his misdeeds." Cham.
Relieve (s. from the verb) A respite, the warrant suspend the execution of a malefactor.
Relieved (p. from relieve) Respite, permitted to live as a criminal beyond the time appointed for execution.
Reliev'ing (p. a. from relieve) Respite, permitting to live beyond the time fixed for execution.
REPRIMA'ND (v. t. from the Lat. reprimo) To check, to reprove.
Reprimand (s. from the verb) A reproof, a reprimand.
Reprimand'ed (p. from reprimand) Reproved, reprimanded.
Reprimand'ing (p. a. from reprimand) Reproving, reprehending.
Reprime'nde (v. t. an old spelling) To reprimand.
Reprint (v. t. from re, and print) To print anew, print again.
Reprint'ed (p. from reprint) Printed again.
Reprint'ing (p. a. from reprint) Printing again, printing a new edition.
Reprinting (s. from the part.) The act of printing anew.
Repris'al (s. from reprise) That which is seized by way of recompense for any act of fraud or violence, seizure by way of indemnification.
REPRISE (s. from the French) A reprisal, the burden of a song.
Reprise (s. a law term) A yearly sum charged on a manor.
Repri've (v. t. not so common a spelling) To reprove. Diff. of Repris'al (s. a different spelling) A reprisal. D. of Reprize (s. from re, and prize) A ship retaken from enemy, which if it be within twenty-four hours after it was first taken shall be restored to the owner, annual deduction or payment out of a manor or other land, to be made to the lord of the manor.
REPROA'CH (v. t. from the French reprocher) To reprove as a crime, to charge with a fault, to upbraid.
Reproach (s. from the verb) A censure, a blame, scandal.
Reproach'able (adj. from reproach) Worthy of reproach.
Reproach'ableness (s. from reproachable) The state of being reproachable.
Reproach'ed (p. from reproach) Censured, blamed, treated with infamy.
Reproach'ful (adj. from reproach) Scurrilous, opprobrious; infamous, vile.
Reproach'fully (adv. from reproachful) Opprobriously; scurrilously; shamefully, infamously.
Reproach'fulness (s. from reproachful) The state of being reproachful; a disposition to reproach.
Reproach'ing (p. a. from reproach) Censuring, upbraiding, charging with a fault, upbraiding.
REP'ROBATE (adj. from the Lat. reprobus) Lost virtue, given up to wickedness.
Rep'robate (s. from the adj.) A man lost to virtue, wretch abandoned to wickedness.
REP'ROBATE (v. t. from the Lat. reprobo to disapprove) To disallow, to reject, to abandon to wickedness, give up to destruction.
Rep'robated (p. from reprobate) Disallowed, rejected, abandoned to wickedness, given up to destruction.
Rep'robateness (s. from reprobate) The state of being reprobate.
Rep'robating (p. a. from reprobate) Disallowing, rejecting, abandoning.
Reprobation (s. from reprobate) The act of abandoning the state of being abandoned; a condemnatory sentence.
Reproduce (v. t. from re, and produce) To produce again, to produce anew.

REP

RIES

Produced (p. from reproduce) Produced anew, produced again.
Producing (p. a. from reproduce) Producing anew, producing again.
Production (s. from reproduce) The act of producing anew.
Reprove (v. from reprove) Reprehension, censure, blame the face.
Reprovable (adj. from reprove) Worthy of blame, worthy of reproof.
Reprovable (s. from reprove) The state of being reprovable.
Reprove (v. t. from the French reprovuer) To blame, censure, to check, to chide, to charge with a fault, to face, to refute, to disprove; with of, a. "To reprove one of laziness." But more properly with for: "She reproveth him for breach of faith."
Reproved (p. from reprove) Reprehended, charged with a fault to the face, chidden.
Reprover (s. from reprove) One that reproves.
Reproving (p. a. from reprove) Reprehending, chiding, cursing to the face.
Reprune (v. t. from re, and prune) To prune again.
Repruned (p. from reprune) Pruned again, pruned a second time.
Repruning (p. a. from reprune) Pruning again, pruning a second time.
Repruning (s. from the part.) The act of pruning a second time.
Rever (s. an old word) The money annually paid by vile tenants to be excused from reaping for the lord the manor.
Reptile (adj. from the Lat. repo to creep) Creeping, creeping on many feet.
Reptile (s. from the adj.) A creeping thing, an animal that creeps on many feet.
Reptitious (adj. from reptile) Creeping, creeping on many feet.
Republic (s. from the Lat. respublica) A commonwealth, a state or government in which the supreme power is lodged in more than one.
Republican (adj. from republic) Belonging to a republic, having the supreme power lodged in more than one.
Republican (s. from the adj.) One that adheres to that form of government in which the supreme power is lodged in more than one person; one who holds that commonwealth without monarchy is the best form of government.
Republic (s. the less modern spelling) A republic.
Republique (s. an antique spelling) A republic. Cole.
Republiable (adj. from repudiate) Fit to be repudiated, to be rejected.
Repudiate (v. t. from the Lat. repudio) To divorce, reject, to put away.
Repudiated (p. from repudiate) Divorced, put away, rejected.
Repudiating (p. a. from repudiate) Divorcing, putting away, rejecting.
Repudiation (s. from repudiate) A divorce, a rejection.
Repudious (adj. from repudiate, but not used) Vile, hateful. Cole.
Repute (s. obsolete) A divorce. Chaucer.
Repute (v. t. from the Lat. repugno) To resist, to contradict. Chaucer.
Repugnance (s. from repugn) Inconsistency, contrariety; reluctance, unwillingness.
Repugnancy (s. from repugnance) Repugnance.
Repugnant (adj. from repugn) Contrary, opposite, discordant, uncomplying.
Repugnantly (adv. from repugnant) With repugnance, with contrariety.
Repugnance (s. an old spelling) Repugnance. Chaucer.
Repullulate (v. int. from the Lat. repululo) To bud again.
Repullulating (p. a. from repullulate) Budding again.
Repullulation (s. from repullulate) The act or state of budding anew. Philips.
Repulse (v. t. from the Lat. repello repulsus) To beat back, to drive off.
Repulse (s. from the verb) A repulsion, the state of being repulsed, the act of driving back.
Repulsed (p. from repulse) Driven back, driven off.
Repulsing (p. a. from repulse) Driving back, driving off.
Repulsion (s. from repulse) The act or power of repelling, the power of driving off.
Repulsive (adj. from repulse) Driving off, having the power of repulsion.
Repulsory (adj. from repulse) Tending to repulse, having the power to repel.

Repumicate (v. t. from the Lat. repumicatio) To rub with a pumice stone, to smooth. Cole.
Repumicated (p. not used, from repumicate) Smoothed with a pumice stone.
Repumicating (p. a. not used, from repumico) Smoothing with a pumice stone.
Repurchase (v. t. from re, and purchase) To buy again.
Repurchased (p. from repurchase) Purchased again.
Repurchasing (p. a. from repurchase) Buying again.
Repurge (v. t. from re, and purge) To purge again.
Repurged (p. from repurge) Purged again.
Repurging (p. a. from repurge) Purging again.
Reputable (adj. from reputo) Having reputation, honourable.
Reputably (adv. from reputable) With reputation, honourably.
Reputation (s. from reputo) Credit, honour, a good character.
Repute (v. t. from the Lat. reputo) To think, to account, to hold.
Repute (s. from the verb) Character, reputation, an established opinion.
Reputed (p. from reputo) Thought, accounted, held.
Reputless (adj. from reputo) Void of repute. Shakespeare.
Reputing (p. a. from reputo) Thinking, accounting, holding.
Requalified (p. from requale) Qualified a second time.
Requalify (v. t. from re, and qualify) To qualify a second time.
Requalifying (p. a. from requale) Qualifying a second time.
Requisite (v. t. from the Lat. requiro requisitus to seek again) To solicit, to entreat.
Requisite (s. from the verb) A petition, an entreaty; repute, credit, demand.
Requited (p. from request) Asked, solicited, entreated.
Requester (s. from request) A petitioner, one that makes request.
Requesting (p. a. from request) Asking, soliciting, entreating.
Requickened (v. t. from re, and quicken) To quicken again, to reanimate.
Requickened (p. from requicken) Quickened anew, reanimated.
Requickening (p. a. from requicken) Quickening anew, reanimating.
Requiem (s. from the Lat.) A hymn in which rest is implored for the dead; rest, quiet, peace. Sandys.
Requirable (adj. from require) Fit to be required.
Require (v. t. from the Lat. requiro) To ask as of right, to demand, to demand as necessary.
Required (p. from require) Asked as of right, demanded, demanded as necessary.
Requiring (p. a. from require) Asking as of right, demanding, demanding as necessary.
Requisite (s. from the Lat.) Things required. Scott.
Requisite (adj. from the Lat. requisitus) Necessary, needful, required by the nature of things.
Requisite (s. from the adj.) A thing necessary, that which is required by the nature of things.
Requisitely (adv. from requisite) Necessarily, in a requisite manner.
Requisiteness (s. from requisite) The state of being requisite.
Requit (s. from requite) The return of a good or bad office, a retaliation; a reward, a recompense.
Requite (s. from the French requiter) To repay, to retaliate, to recompense.
Requited (p. from requite) Repaid, recompensed, retaliated.
Requiting (p. a. from requite) Repaying, recompensing, retaliating.
Rere (adv. obsolete) Backwards, in the rear. Chaucer.
Rere (v. t. obsolete) To raise up, to rear up. Chaucer.
Rereboiled (adj. a local word) Half boiled. Bailey.
Re-recount (s. an old word) Same place appointed for the receipt of the king's money after the county court is adjourned.
Re-renew (s. plu. of re-renew) More than one re-renew.
Re-renew (s. in zoology) The bat.
Re-reward (s. from rere, and ward) The rear of an army, the last troop.
RES (s. in old records, from the Lat.) A thing, a matter, a business.
Res (s. obsolete) Rage, a mad prank. Chaucer.
Resagor (s. an old word) Ratsbane, poison for rats. Cole.
Refail (v. int. from re, and fail) To re-navigate, to fail back.
Refailing (p. a. from refail) Sailing back.
Refale (s. from re, and fale) A tale at second hand.
Refalu (s. from re, and fale) A tale at second hand.

Re salute (v. t. from re, and salute) To salute anew, to salute a second time.

Re salute'd (p. from re salute) Saluted again.

Re salute'ing (p. a. from re salute) Saluting anew.

Re salute'tion (s. from re salute) The act of giving a second salute.

Re sarcele'e (adj. in heraldry) Having one cross put on another.

Re seel't (s. a law term) An admittance of plea; the admittance of a third person to plead his right in a cause originally commenced by two.

RESCIND (v. t. from the Lat. rescindo) To cut off, to abrogate.

Rescind'ed (p. from rescind) Cut off, abrogated.

Rescind'ing (p. a. from rescind) Cutting off, abrogating.

Re cis'sion (s. from rescind) The act of cutting off, an abrogation.

Re cis'so'rian (adj. not used) Rescissory.

Re cis'sory (adj. from rescind) Having the power to rescind.

Re cou's (s. a law term) One that rescues or detains any thing seized according to law; a rescue, a defence.

RESCRI'BE (v. t. from the Lat. rescribo) To write back, to write over again.

Re scri'bed (p. from rescribe) Written back, written over again.

Re scriben'a'ry (s. in the court of Rome) An officer who sets a value on indulgences.

Re scrib'ing (p. a. from rescribe) Writing back, writing over again.

RESCRIPT (s. from the Lat. rescriptum) The edict of an emperor.

Re scue'd (p. obsolete) Rescued.

RESCUE (s. from the Lat. rescusus) A deliverance from violence, confinement or danger; a resistance against lawful authority; an act of violence by which any person or thing is rescued from lawful custody.

Re scue (v. t. from the sub.) To set free from violence, danger or confinement, to recover by violence any person or thing from lawful custody.

Re scued (p. from rescue) Delivered from violence, danger or confinement, recovered by violence from lawful custody.

Re scuer (s. from rescue) One that rescues.

Re scuing (p. a. from rescue) Delivering from violence, danger or confinement, recovering from legal custody by violence.

RESCUS (s. from the Lat. rescusus) A deliverance from violence, a rescue.

Re cus'sor (s. from rescus) One that commits an unlawful rescue.

Re cus'su (s. a law term) A writ which lies against one who has committed an unlawful rescue.

Re se (v. int. obsolete) To rise, to rage.

Re sea'rch (v. t. from re, and search) To examine, to enquire; to search again.

Re sea'rch (s. from the verb) An enquiry, an elaborate research.

Re search'ed (p. from research) Examined, searched again.

Re search'ing (p. a. from research) Enquiring, examining, searching again.

Re seat (v. t. from re, and seat) To seat again.

Re seat'ed (p. from reseat) Seated again.

Re seat'ing (p. a. from reseat) Seating again.

Re secele'e (adj. a different spelling) Resarcele'e.

RESEDA (s. in botany) The bane rocket, a genus of plants.

Re sei'ser (s. a law term) One who seizes again, the act by which lands revert to the king.

Re sei'ze (v. t. from re, and seize) To seize again.

Re sei'zed (p. from re seize) Seized again.

Re sei'zer (s. from re seize) One that seizes again.

Re sei'zing (p. a. from re seize) Seizing again.

Re sei'zure (s. from re, and seizure) A second seizure, a repeated seizure.

Re sem'blable (adj. obsolete) Like, resembling.

Re sem'blance (s. from resemble) Likeness, similitude, representation; with of, and to: as, "A great resemblance to each other." "Fairest resemblance of thy mother fair."

RESEM'BLE (v. t. from the French ressembler) To give the likeness of, to compare.

Re sem'bled (p. from resemble) Represented as a likeness, compared.

Re sem'bling (p. a. from resemble) Representing as a likeness, having some resemblance to, comparing.

RESEN (s. from the Heb. signifying a bridle) The name of a city.

Re send (v. t. from re, and send) To send back, to send again.

Re send'ing (p. a. from re send, but not used) Sending back, sending again.

Re sent (v. t. pret. of re send, but little used, the s is pronounced sharp) Did send back.

Re sent (p. from re send, but little used, the s is pronounced sharp) Sent back, sent again.

RESENT (v. t. the s is pronounced flat, from the French ressentir) To take ill, to consider as an affront; to be well or ill.

Re sent'ed (p. from resent) Taken ill, considered as an affront.

Re sent'er (s. from resent) One that resents.

Re sent'ful (adj. from resent) Easily provoked, given to resent, malignant.

Re sent'ing (p. a. from resent) Taking ill, considering as an affront.

Re sent'ingly (adv. from resenting) With strong passion; with resentment.

Re sent'ment (s. from resent) A sense of injury, a strong perception.

Re serva'tion (s. from reserve) Reserve, a concealment in the mind; something kept back, something given up; the state of being kept up, custody.

Re serv'a'tory (s. from reserve) The place in which a thing is reserved.

RESE'VE (v. t. from the Lat. reservo) To keep in store, to save to some other purpose; to retain, keep, to hold; to lay up to a future time.

Re se'rv'e (s. from the verb) A store laid up, something kept for exigence; something concealed in the mind, an exemption; modesty, caution in conversation, caution in behaviour.

Re se'rv'ed (p. from reserve) Laid up, kept in store, up in the mind.

Re se'rv'ed (adj. from the part.) Modest, cautious in conversation, sparing of words; sullen, close.

Re se'rv'edly (adv. from reserved) With reserve, coldness.

Re se'rv'edness (s. from reserved) The want of openness, coldness.

Re se'rv'er (s. from reserve) One that reserves.

Re se'rv'er (adj. comp. of reserve) Reserve in a greater degree.

Re se'rv'est (adj. sup. of reserve) Reserve in the greatest degree.

Re se'rv'ing (p. a. from reserve) Laying up, keeping in store.

RESERVOIR (s. from the French) The place where a thing is kept in store, a large basin or cistern of water.

Re set (v. t. a law term, from re, and set) To receive stolen goods.

Re set'ted (p. from re set, a law term) Received, conveyed as stolen goods.

Re set'ter (s. from re set) One that receives stolen goods.

Re set'ter (s. from re set) One that receives or entertains an outlawed or proscribed person.

Re set'ting (p. a. from re set) Receiving stolen goods.

Re set'tle (v. t. from re, and settle) To settle again.

Re set'tled (p. from re settle) Settled again.

Re set'tlement (s. from re settle) The act of settling again, the state of being settled again.

Re set'tling (p. a. from re settle) Settling again.

Re si'ance (s. a law term, from resiant) Residence, abode.

RESIANT (adj. from the French resiant) Resident, settled in a place.

Re si'ant (s. from the adj.) A resident, a person that resides in any place.

RESI'DE (v. int. from the Lat. resideo) To dwell, have abode, to be present.

RESI'DE (v. int. the s is pronounced sharp, from the Lat. residere) To sink, to subside, to fall to the bottom.

Re si'dence (s. from reside) The act of dwelling in a place, a place of abode, a dwelling.

Re si'dence (s. from reside) A sediment, that which settles at the bottom of liquors.

Re si'dent (adj. from reside) Residing, dwelling, having an abode.

Re si'dent (s. from the adj.) An agent, a minister residing in some distant place in quality of ambassador, one that resides.

Re si'den'tia'rius (s. an old law term) A canon residing.

Re si'den'tiary (adj. from resident) Holding residence.

Re si'den'tiary (s. from the adj.) One who is installed in the privileges and profits of a residence.

Re si'ding (p. a. from reside) Dwelling, abiding.

Re si'ding (p. a. with the s sharp) Subsiding, falling to the bottom.

Re si'dual (adj. from residue) Belonging to the residue, belonging to that which is left.

ary (adj. from residue) Residual, belonging to that which is left.
 DUE (s. from the Lat. residuum) The remaining, that which is left.
 UUM (s. from the Lat.) The residue, that which is left after a distribution.
 To defeat, to beat again.
 ed (p. obsolete, from refuge) Defeated, seated.
 ing (p. a. obsolete, from refuge) Seating again.
 GN (v. t. from the Lat. resigno) To give up a claim, yield up; to submit, to submit without resistance; to give up in confidence; with up: as, "all things resign up yourselves to the will of God."
 nation (s. from resign) The act of resigning, submission without murmuring to the will of God.
 ed (p. from resign) Given up, yielded up, reconciled to providence in affliction.
 nee' (s. from resign, a law term) The party to whom any thing is resigned.
 ner (s. from resign) One that resigns.
 ning (p. a. from resign) Yielding up, giving up, submitting.
 nment (s. from resign) The act of resigning.
 nce (s. from resilient) The act of leaping back.
 ncy (s. from resilience) The act of starting back in consequence of a collision.
 LIENT (adj. from the Lat. resilio to leap) Rebounding, starting back in consequence of collision.
 nentness (s. from resilient) Resilient.
 tion (s. from resilient) Resilience, the act of springing back.
 IN (s. from the Lat. refina) The viscid juice of a vegetable, the fat sulphureous part of a vegetable.
 NA (s. in natural history) A resin, the more common juice of a vegetable.
 cious (adj. from refina) Yielding resin, having the nature of resin.
 NIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. refina resin, and to bear) Producing resin.
 nous (adj. from resin) Containing resin, consisting of resin.
 nousness (s. from resinous) The state of being resinous.
 ny (adj. from resin) Resinous.
 PISCENCE (s. from the Lat. resipiscencia) Repentance, after wisdom.
 ST (v. t. from the Lat. resisto) To oppose, to resist, to oppose so as not to receive impression.
 vance (s. a common spelling) Resistance.
 ved (p. from resist) Opposed, acted against.
 vance (s. the correct spelling, from resist) The act of resisting, opposition, the quality that opposes an external force or impression.
 ibility (s. from resistible) The state or quality of resisting.
 ible (adj. from resist) Capable of being resisted.
 ing (p. a. from resist) Opposing, acting against.
 ible (adj. from resist) Irresistible, incapable of being resisted.
 vable (adj. from resolve) Capable of being resolved, capable of analysis or separation.
 vableness (s. from resolvable) The state or quality of being resolvable.
 OLUBLE (adj. from the French) Capable of being dissolved, capable of being melted.
 OLVE (v. t. from the Lat. resolvo) To solve, to clear, to free from doubt; to fix, to confirm; to melt, to dissolve; to analyze.
 live (v. int.) To melt, to dissolve; to determine, to come to a resolution; with on, or upon: as, "I am fully resolved upon that measure." Sometimes with of: "Let men resolve of that as they please."
 live (s. from the verb) A resolution, a fixed determination.
 ved (p. from resolve) Solved, cleared up; melted, dissolved; determined, fixed; analyzed; reduced to constituent parts.
 vedly (adv. from resolve) With resolution, with firmness.
 vedness (s. from resolved) Resolution, constancy, firmness.
 vend (s. in arithmetic) The number arising from creating the remainder after subtraction in extracting the square or cube root.
 vent (s. from resolve) A menstruum, that which has the power of dissolving.
 ver (s. from resolve) One that resolves; that which resolves.

Resolving (p. a. from resolve) Solving, clearing up; fixing, determining; analyzing, reducing to first principles.
 RESOLUTE (adj. from the Lat. resolutus) Determined, fixed, constant, steady, firm.
 Resolutely (adv. from resolute) Firmly, constantly, steadily.
 Resoluteness (s. from resolute) The state or quality of being resolute.
 Resolution (s. from resolute) A fixed determination, a settled thought; the determination of a cause in a court of justice; constancy, firmness; the act of clearing up difficulties, analysis, dissolution.
 Resolutive (adj. from resolute) Having the power to dissolve.
 Reson (s. obsolete) An account.
 Resonabliche (adv. obsolete) Reasonably.
 Resonance (s. from resonant) A sound, a resound.
 RESONANT (adj. from the Lat. resono to resound) Resounding.
 RESORT (v. int. from the French resortir) To repair to, to go publicly, to have recourse; to fall back, to revert in law.
 Resort (s. from the verb) A concourse, a confluence; the act of visiting; a movement, a spring, an active power.
 Resorting (p. a. from resort) Repairing to, having recourse to, going publicly.
 Refoun (s. an obsolete spelling) Reason.
 RESOUND (v. t. from the Lat. resono) To sound back, to echo, to tell so as to be heard far, to found.
 Refound (v. int.) To be echoed back.
 Refound (s. from the verb) The return of a sound, a loud kind of echo.
 Resounded (p. from resound) Sounded back, echoing, telling so as to be heard far, founding.
 RESOURCE (s. from the French ressource) An expedient, a resort, an unexpected means of support.
 Refow' (v. t. from re, and sow) To sow anew, to sow again.
 Refowing (p. a. from refow) Sowing again, sowing anew.
 Refow'n (p. from refow) Sown anew, sown again.
 Refow'ne (v. t. obsolete) To resound.
 Respeak'k (v. t. from re, and speak) To speak again, to answer.
 Respeak'ing (p. a. from respeak) Speaking again, answering.
 RESPECT (v. t. from the Lat. respicio respectus) To regard, to consider with a degree of reverence; to look forward, to have relation to.
 Respect (s. from the verb) Affectionate regard, reverential regard; good will, partial regard; a consideration, a motive; a relation, a reference to any thing.
 Respected (p. from respect) Regarded, treated with respect, treated with reverence.
 Respector (s. from respect) One that has a partial regard.
 Respectful (adj. from respect) Full of respect, civil, ceremonious.
 Respectfully (adv. from respectful) In a respectful manner, with some degree of reverence.
 Respectfulness (s. from respectful) The quality or circumstance of being respectful, a behaviour shewing respect.
 Respecting (p. a. from respect) Regarding with some degree of reverence; relating to, having a reference to.
 Respective (adj. from respect) Particular, respecting particulars; relative, belonging to; accurate, nice, worthy of respect; but these last senses are now grown obsolete.
 Respectively (adv. from respective) Particularly, as each belongs to each; relatively, partially, with great reverence; but this sense is now obsolete.
 RESPER'SION (s. from the Lat. resperio) The act of sprinkling.
 Respiration (s. from respire) The act of breathing; relief from labour.
 RESPIRE (v. int. from the Lat. respiro) To breathe, to catch breath; to rest, to take rest from labour.
 Respiring (p. a. from respire) Breathing, taking breath; resting, resting from toil.
 RES'PIT (s. from the French) A reprieve, a suspension of a capital sentence; a pause, an interval.
 Res'pit (v. t. from the sub.) To relieve by a pause, to suspend, to delay.
 Res'pite (s. a different spelling) A respite.
 Res'pite (v. t. a different spelling) To respite.
 Res'pited (p. from respit) Relieved by a pause, suspended, delayed.

Res'piting

Res'piting (p. a. from respit) Relieving by a pause, suspending a capital sentence, delaying.
Resplen'dence (s. from resplendent) Lustre, brightness.
Resplen'dency (s. from resplendence) Splendor, brightness.
RESPLEND'ENT (adj. from the Lat. resplendo to shine) Bright, shining, having lustre.
Resplend'ently (adv. from resplendent) With lustre, with brightness.
RESPOND (v. int. from the Lat. respondeo but little used) To correspond, to suit, to answer. Brown.
Respond'ent (s. from the verb) One who puts in an answer in a suit at law; one who is to answer objections.
Respond'ing (p. a. from respond, but not used) Corresponding, answering.
Respons'aile (s. obsolete) An answer, a response. Cb.
Respons'al (s. from response) A response, an answer.
Respons'al'is (s. a law term) The attorney who excuses the absence of his client; one who puts in his answer.
RESPONSE (s. from the Lat. responsum) An answer, a reply to an objection in a formal disputation; the answer of the congregation speaking alternately with the priest in public worship.
Respon'sible (adj. from response) Answerable, accountable; capable of discharging an obligation.
Respons'ibleness (s. from responsible) The state or quality of being responsible.
Respon'sion (s. from response) The act of answering. Johnson.
Respon'sive (adj. from response) Answering, making answer; correspondent, suited to.
Respon'sary (adj. from response) Containing a response, containing an answer.
Respor'te (s. obsolete) Respect, regard. Chaucer.
RESSAULT (s. in architecture) The effect of any body or member which either projects or recedes so as to be out of the level or perpendicular.
Res'side (adj. an old word) Rusty. Cole.
Res'sort (s. a law term) The jurisdiction of a court; a resort.
RESSOUR'CE (s. a correct spelling, from the French) A resource. Johnson.
REST (s. from the Sax.) Cessation from bodily labour, stillness, cessation of motion; quiet, peace; sleep, repose; a pause, a place of repose, a final hope; a support, that on which any thing leans; the stillness of death, repose in the grave; the repose and blessedness of the heavenly state.
Rest (v. int. from the sub.) To cease from labour, to cease from motion; to slumber, to sleep, to die; to be quiet, to be at peace; to lean, to depend upon.
Rest (v. t.) To lay to sleep, to quiet, to calm, to place on a support.
REST (s. from the Lat. resto to remain) The remainder, that which is left.
Rest (v. int. from the sub.) To remain, to be left.
Rest (v. int. the old pret. of rise) Did rise. Chaucer.
Restag'nant (adj. from restagnate) stagnant, remaining without motion.
Restag'nate (v. int. from re, and stagnate) To stand without flowing. Wise.
Restag'nating (p. a. from restagnate) Stagnating, standing without motion.
Restagna'tion (s. from restagnate) Stagnation, the state of being stagnant.
RESTAURA'TION (s. from the Lat. restauro to restore) The act of recovering a former state.
Rest'ed (p. from rest) Laid to rest, placed on some support.
Reste'm (v. t. from re, and stem) To force back, to force against the current.
Restem'med (p. from restem) Forced back against the current.
Restem'ming (p. a. from restem) Forcing back against the current.
Rest'ful (adj. from rest) Quiet, full at rest.
Rest'harrow (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
Res'tible (adj. a local word) Tilled every year. Cole.
RES'TIFF (adj. from the French, restif) Resolute against going forward, stubborn.
Res'tif (adj. not used) Being at rest, being less in motion. Johnson.
Res'tifness (s. from restif, but not used) The state of being restif. Johnson.
Res'tily (adv. from resty) Stubbornly, untowardly.
RESTINC'TION (s. in chymistry) The act or process of quenching a body in some liquor in order to give it some new quality.
Rest'ing (p. a. from rest) Ceasing from labour, ceasing from motion, taking rest, sleeping, leaning on support.

Rest'ing (s. from the part.) The act of ceasing from labour or motion; the act of leaning on support.
Res'tituted (adj. with antiquaries) Restored, belonging to the medals which were struck by the emperor to retrieve the memory of their predecessors.
RESTITU'TION (s. from the Lat. restituo to restore) The act of restoring what has been taken away, the act of recovering a former state or posture.
RES'TIVE (adj. from the Lat. resto to withstand) Stubborn; being at rest, being more at rest.
Res'tiveness (s. from restive) The state or quality of being restive. King.
Rest'less (adj. from rest) Being without sleep, void of rest, unquiet, unsettled, turbulent.
Rest'lessly (adv. from restless) Without rest, in a restless manner.
Rest'lessness (s. from restless) The want of quiet, continued motion, agitation.
Resto'rable (adj. from restore) Capable of being restored.
Restora'tion (s. from restore) A restoration, the placing in a former state; recovery.
Resto'rative (adj. from restore) Having power to restore.
Resto'rative (s. from the adj.) A medicine to restore life, a medicine to restore lost vigor.
RESTO'RE (v. t. from the Lat. restauro) To give back what has been taken away, to bring back, to retrieve, to recover.
Resto'red (p. from restore) Given back, recovered, retrieved.
Resto'rer (s. from restore) One that restores.
Resto'ring (p. a. from restore) Giving back that which was lost or taken away, bringing back, retrieving, recovering.
RESTRAIN (v. t. from the Lat. restringo) To hold, to keep in; to repress, to keep in awe, to abridge, to limit, to confine.
Restrain'able (adj. from restrain) Capable of being restrained.
Restrain'ed (p. from restrain) Withheld, kept in, pressed, suppressed, abridged, limited.
Restrain'edly (adv. from restrain) With restraint, with limitation.
Restrain'er (s. from restrain) One that restrains, one that withholds.
Restrain'ing (p. a. from restrain) Withholding, repressing, abridging, limiting.
Restrain't (s. from restrain) An abridgement of liberty, a prohibition, a restriction, a hinderance.
RESTRICT (v. t. from the Lat. restringo) To limit, to confine.
Restrict'ed (p. from restrict) Limited, confined.
Restrict'ing (p. a. not much used, from restrict) Limiting, confining.
Restriction (s. from restrict) A limitation, a confinement.
Restrict'ive (adj. from restrict) Expressing a limitation, attringent, styptic. Wise.
Restrict'ively (adv. from restrictive) With restriction, with limitation.
RESTRI'NGE (v. t. from the Lat. restringo) To limit, to confine.
Restr'ing'd (p. from restringe) Limited, confined, bound up.
Restr'ing'ent (adj. from restringe) Confining, binding up, styptic.
Restr'ing'ent (s. from the adj.) That which has power to restrain, a medicine to brace up, styptic.
Restr'ing'entness (s. from restringent) The quality of being restringent.
Restr'ing'ing (p. a. from restringe) Limiting, confining, binding up.
Res'ty (adj. from restif) Obstinate of standing still, born, unruly.
Resubli'me (v. t. from re, and sublime) To sublime a second time, to sublime again.
Resubli'med (p. from resublime) Sublimed again.
Resubli'ming (p. a. from resublime) Subliming again.
RESUDA'TION (s. from the Lat. resudo to sweat) but not used) A sweating.
Res'very (s. an old word) Rage, madness.
RE'SULAL'LAH (s. from the Turkish, signifying messenger of God) Mahomet.
RESU'LT (v. int. from the Lat. resulto) To fly back as a consequence or conclusion; with from: as,

RET

the parts that result from the analysis."
(s. from the verb) The act of flying back, a revenge; a consequence, an effect produced by the confluence of cooperating causes, an inference; a result, a decision; but this sense is judged im- proper. Swift.
Revenge (s. from result) The act of resulting.
Revenge (s. from resultance, but not so common a word) Resultance. Scott.
Retaking (p. a. from result) Flying back, arising as a consequence or conclusion.
Retainable (adj. from resume) Capable of being resulted.
RETAKE (v. t. from the Lat. refumo) To take back what has been given, to take again; to begin what was broken off.
Retaken (p. from resume) Taken back, taken up again,
again after it had been broken off.
Retaking (p. a. from resume) Taking back, taking up, beginning any thing again after it has been broken off.
Retainers (s. from re. and summons) A second summons to answer an action.
Retention (s. from resume) The act of resuming.
Retentive (adj. from resume) Taking back.
Retentive (s. from the adj.) A restorative. Bailey.
Retentive (adj. from resupine, but not sufficiently authorized) Lying with the face upwards. Bailey.
Retentive (s. from resupinate) The act of lying with the face upwards. Johnson.
RETINE (adj. from the Lat. resupinus, but not used) Lying the face upwards, lying with the face upwards. Bailey.
RETIGE (v. int. from the Lat. refurgo) To rise again. Scott.
Rising (p. a. from refurge, but not used) Rising
again.
RECREATION (s. from the Lat. refurgo to rise again) Revival of the dead, the act of raising up the dead of the dead at the last day.
Recreation (adj. from the sub. sometimes used in composition) Belonging to the resurrection, restoring in the resurrection.
Recreationday (s. from resurrection and day) The day on which the dead shall be raised.
Recreationmorn (s. from resurrection, and morn) Morning of the day on which the dead shall be raised.
REVIEW (v. t. from re, and survey) To survey again,
review.
Reviewed (p. from refurvey) Surveyed again, reviewed.
Reviewing (p. a. from refurvey) Surveying again, reviewing.
RESCITE (v. t. from the Lat. resuscito) To revive, to stir up anew.
Rescited (p. from resuscitate) Revived, stirred up
anew.
Resciting (p. a. from resuscitate) Reviving, raising up. Bacon.
Resuscitation (s. from resuscitate) The act of stirring up, the act or state of reviving. Pope.
RETAIL (v. t. from the French, retailer to cut again)
To divide into small parcels, to sell in small quantities, to sell off second hand, to sell in broken parts.
(s. from the verb) A sale by small quantities.
Retail (p. from retail) Sold by retail, vended in small quantities.
Retailer (s. from retail) One that sells by small quantities.
Retailing (p. a. from retail) Selling by small quantities.
RETRACT (v. t. from the Lat. retineo) To keep, to keep in, to keep in pay, to hire.
Retained (v. int.) To belong to, to depend on, to continue. Brown.
Retainable (adj. from retain) Capable of being retained.
Retained (p. from retain) Kept, kept in pay, hired.
Retainer (s. from retain) An adherent, a dependant; one who serves on particular occasions but does not dwell in his master's house, the act of keeping dependant, the state of being dependant.
Retaining (p. a. from retain) Keeping, keeping in pay, hiring, feeling an advocate to insure his service or prevent his pleading on the opposite side.

RET

Retain'ing (s. from the part.) The act of keeping, the act of seeing counsel by way of precaution.
Retake (v. t. from re, and take) To take again.
Retaken (p. from retake) Taken again.
Retaking (p. a. from retake) Taking again.
RETALIATE (v. t. from the Lat. retalio) To repay, to requite, to return by giving like for like.
Retaliated (p. from retaliate) Requited, returned by giving like for like.
Retaliating (p. a. from retaliate) Requiring, returning like for like.
Retaliation (s. from retaliate) A requital, a return of
like for like.
RETA'RD (v. t. from the Lat. retardo) To hinder, to obstruct, to delay, to put off.
Retard (v. int.) To stay back. Brown.
Retardation (s. from retard) A hinderance; the act of delaying.
Retarded (p. from retard) Hindered, kept back, delayed.
Retarder (s. from retard) One that retards.
Retarding (p. a. from retard) Hindering, keeping back, delaying.
Retare (v. t. in old records) To implead, to prosecute at law.
RETCH (v. t. from the Sax. hrwcan) To force up from the stomach.
Retch (v. int.) To make an offer to bring any thing off
the stomach.
Retches (v. t. obsolete) To esteem, to regard, to care for. Chaucer.
Retch'ed (p. from retch) Forced up from the stomach.
Retch'ing (p. a. from retch) Forcing any thing off the stomach, making an effort to bring any thing off the stomach.
Retch'ing (s. from retch) The act of forcing any thing off the stomach, an effort to bring any thing off the stomach.
Retch'less (adj. from reckless) Reckless, careless. Dry.
Retch'lessness (s. from reckless) Carelessness, slothfulness. Scott.
RETE (s. from the Lat.) A net.
RETEC'TION (s. from the Lat. retego to uncover) The act of discovering to the view. Bye.
RETEM'IRABLE (s. in anatomy from the Lat.) A small and curious net work of vessels in the brain.
Retenementum (s. an old law term) A retention, a restraint.
RETE'NT (adj. from the Lat. retineo to hold back)
Held back, unbent. Cole.
Retention (s. from retent) The act of retaining; the retentive faculty, the memory; limitation, custody, confinement.
Retentive (adj. from retent) Having the power of retention, having memory.
Retentiveness (s. from retentive) The state or quality of being retentive.
Reth'oric (s. an old spelling) Rhetoric, oratory. Chaucer.
RETIA'RII (s. in Roman antiquity) A kind of combatants who fought with a trident in one hand and a net in the other.
Retiary (s. from retiarum) One of the retiarii.
RETICENCE (s. from the Lat. reticeo to hold one's peace)
A concealment by silence.
Reticency (s. from reticence, but not so common) Reticence, a concealment by silence. Scott.
RETIC'LE (s. from rete) A small net, a reticula.
RETIC'ULA (s. from the Lat.) A small net; a kind of micrometer used in measuring the quantity of an eclipse.
Reticular (adj. from reticula) Having the form of a small net.
RETICULA'RIS PLEX'US (s. in anatomy, from the Lat.)
The choroides, one of the coats of the eye, the folding of the carotid artery.
Reticulated (adj. from reticula) Consisting of net work, formed like a net.
RETIC'ULUM (s. in anatomy) The caul or inner membrane that covers the bowels; one of the stomachs of ruminating animals.
RETIFORM (adj. from the Lat. rete a net, and forma a shape) Having the form of a net.
RETIFORMISLACIS (s. in anatomy, from the Lat.)
The reticulate.
RETIFORMISTU'NICA (s. in anatomy, from the Lat.)
One of the tunics or coats of the eye.

RET'INA

RET

RET'INA (s. in anatomy, from the Lat. retineo to retain) That curious expansion of the optic nerve which is supposed to receive the image of the object in vision.

RET'INACLE (s. from the Lat. retinaculum) A stay, a stop, that by which any thing is kept back.

Retinen'tia (s. in old records) A retinue.

RETIN'UE (s. from the French, retenue) A train, a number attending on a principal person.

RETIRA'DE (s. in fortification) A kind of retrenchment.

RETIRE (v. int. from the French, retirer) To withdraw, to retreat; to go from a public station, to withdraw from company.

Reti're (v. t.) To withdraw, to take away. Shak.

Reti're (s. from the verb) A retreat, a recession; a retirement, a place of safety. Milton.

Reti'red (adj. from retire) Secret, private, withdrawn; with from: as, "We find the mind in sleep retired from the senses."

Reti'redly (adv. from retired) Solitary, in retirement.

Retiredneis (s. from retired) The state of retirement, a place of retirement. Atterbury.

Reti'rement (s. from retire) A private abode, a secret habitation, the act of withdrawing, a private life.

Reti'ring (p. a. from retire) Withdrawing, retreating.

Reto'ld (v. t. pret. of retell) Did retell.

Reto'ld (p. from retell) Told again, related again.

Retornel (s. from retorneo) A short symphony.

RETORNELLO (s. in music) A short symphony.

RETORT (v. t. from the Lat. retorqueo to wreath back) To throw back, to return an argument; to bend back.

Retort (s. from the verb) A censure or incivility returned; a chymical vessel with a bent neck.

Retort'ed (p. from retort) Thrown back, bent back.

Retort'er (s. from retort) One that retorts.

Retort'ing (p. a. from retort) Throwing back, bending back.

Retor'tion (s. from retort) The act of retorting, that which is retorted.

Reto'ls (v. t. from re, and tofs) To tofs back.

Reto'ls'ed (p. from retofs) Tossed back.

Reto'ls'ing (p. a. from retofs) Tossing back.

Reto'ft (v. t. pret. of retofs) Did retofs.

Reto'ft (p. from retofs) Tossed back. Pope.

Retou'ch (v. t. from re, and touch) To touch again, to improve by new touches.

Retouch'ed (p. from retouch) Touched again, improved by new touches.

Retouch'ing (p. a. from retouch) Touching again, improving by new touches.

Re'tour, Re'toure (s. an old spelling) An orator; a return. Chaucer.

Retra'ce (v. t. from re, and trace) To trace back.

Retra'ced (p. from retrace) Traced back.

Retra'cing (p. a. from retrace) Tracing back.

RETRA'CT (v. t. from the Lat. retrahere to draw back) To recant, to recall, to take back, to resume.

RETRA'CT (s. in farriery) The injury done to the foot of a horse by driving a nail to the quick and drawing it out again, a prick in the foot of a horse.

Retracta'tion (s. from retract) The act of retracting, a recantation; the contraction of a part.

Retract'ed (p. from retract) Recanted, recalled, taken back, resumed.

Retract'ing (p. a. from retract) Recalling, retracting, resuming.

Retrac'tion (s. from retract) The act of recalling, a recantation, the act of withdrawing a claim.

RETRAC'TOR (s. in anatomy) One of the muscles which serve to draw up the upper lip and restrict the nostrils.

Retra'cto'res (s. plu. of retractor) The muscles which draw up the upper lip and restrict the nostrils.

RETRA'HENS (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the external ear.

Retrai't (s. obsolete) A retreat; a cast of the countenance. Spenser.

Retrai't (s. in farriery) A retract, a prick in a horse's foot.

Retrai't (s. obsolete) A picture, a portrait. Spenser.

RETRAI'TE (s. from the French) A terme, a kind of outwork in fortification; a shelter, a retreat.

RETRANCHEE (adj. in heraldry) Having the field cut athwart bendwise, divided by diagonal lines crossing each other.

RETRAX'IT (s. a law term from the Lat. be retractis) The act of the plaintiff when he comes into court in his own person and declares he will proceed no farther.

RET

RETREA'T (s. from the French, retraite) A privacy, a retirement; a place of safety, an act of drawing back from a superior force.

Retreat (v. int. from the sub.) To go out of a place, to go to a private abode, to go to a place of safety; to retire from an enemy.

Retreated (p. from retreat) Retired, gone into privacy.

Retreat'ing (p. a. from retreat) Going to a place of safety, going to a place of security; retiring from an enemy.

RETRE'NCH (v. t. from the French, retrancher) To cut off, to pare away, to lessen.

Retre'nch (v. int.) To live with less expence; to cut up a retrenchment.

Retrench'ed (p. from retrench) Cut off, pared, lessened.

Retrench'ing (p. a. from retrench) Cutting off, cutting away; casting up a retrenchment.

Retrench'ment (s. from retrench) The act of retrenching, the act of lessening superfluous expences; an additional work in fortification, a colonnade, a trenchment so contrived as to dispute the ground by inch.

RE'TRIBUTE (v. t. from the Lat. retribuere) To give back, to recompence; with to: as, "To retribute him."

Re'tributed (p. from retribute) Paid back, repaid.

Re'tributing (p. a. from retribute) Paying back, giving retribution.

Re'tribution (s. from retribute) Repayment, recompence.

Re'tributive (adj. from retribute) Repaying, tending to retribution.

Re'tributory (adj. from retribute) Making recompence, tending to retribution.

Retrie'veable (adj. from retrieve) Capable of being retrieved.

Retrie'veableness (s. from retrieve) The state or quality of being retrievable.

RETRIE'VE (v. t. from the French, retroaver) To recover, to regain, to call back.

Retrie'ved (p. from retrieve) Recovered, recalled back.

Retrie'veing (p. a. from retrieve) Recovering, recovering, calling back.

RE'TRIMENT (s. from the Lat. retrimentum) A refusal.

RETROAC'TION (s. from the Lat. retro actio) The act of forcing backwards.

Retroac'tive (adj. from retroaction) Driving back, forcing back.

RETROCE'DE (v. int. from the Lat. retro cedere to go) To go backwards.

Retroce'ding (p. a. from retrocede) Going backwards.

Retroces'sion (s. from retrocede) The act of going back; the backward motion of the equinoxes, which is observed to be about fifty seconds a year.

RETROCOPULA'TION (s. from the Lat. retro copula, and copulo to couple) Backward copulation performed by some animals.

RETRODUC'TION (s. from the Lat. retro ducere and ducere to lead, but not used) The act of leading back.

Retrograda'tion (s. from retrograde) The act of going backwards.

RET'ROGRADE (v. int. from the Lat. retro gradi and gradi to go) To go backward.

Ret'rograde (adj. from the verb) Going backward, contrary, opposite; moving as a planet in a direction contrary to the order of the signs.

Retromin'gency (s. from retromingent) The quality of voiding urine backwards as in most quadrupeds the female kind.

RETROMIN'GENT (adj. from the Lat. retro mittere and mittere to send) Stealing backwards, voiding urine backwards.

Retromin'gent (s. from the adj.) One of that class of animals which make water backwards, male and female.

RETROPANNA'GIUM (s. in old records) The feeding hogs in a forest on condition of not being run after the mast is eaten.

RE'TROSPECT (s. from the Lat. retro specere specio to look) A look thrown back on things past.

Retrospec'tion (s. from retrospect) The act of looking backwards.

pective (adj. from retrospect) Belonging to retrospection, looking backwards.

USE (adj. from the Lat. retrudo to thrust back, but used) Hidden. Phillips.

ND (v. t. from the Lat. retundo) To blunt, to blunt the edge. Ray.

ded (p. from retund, but not much used) Blunted.

ding (p. a. from retund, but little used) Blunting.

rn (v. int. from re, and turn) To come to the place, to come back to the same state; to retort, to retaliate.

rn (v. t.) To repay, to give back, to hand back, to remit.

rn (s. from the verb) The act of coming back, a return, profit, advantage, remittance, repayment, restitution, a relaps; the continuation of a moulding member in architecture in turning a corner.

nable (adj. from return) Capable of being returned; allowed to be reported back as in a court of law.

nday (s. from return, and day) A day set apart for particular business in the courts of law.

ned (p. from return) Come back, sent back, repaid, continued as a moulding in the turn of a corner.

ner (s. from return) One who remits money.

ning (p. a. from return) Coming back, sending back, repaying, restoring.

ning (s. from the part.) The act of coming back, the act of sending back.

(s. from the Heb. signifying his friend) A man's name. Bailey.

(s. an old word) A fist, the hand closed.

BEN (s. from the Heb. signifying the vision of the) A man's name, one of the tribes of Israel.

benite (s. from Reuben) A descendant of Reuben.

(s. in old customs) The bailiff of a manor or franchise; a custom or duty formerly paid on exports and imports.

(v. t. an old word) To bereave. Bailey.

(s. an old word) Spoil. Cole.

EAL (v. t. from the Lat. revelo) To show, to lay open, to discover; to impart from heaven.

alled (p. from reveal) Shewed, laid open, discovered, imparted from heaven.

aller (s. from reveal) One that reveals, a discoverer.

alling (p. a. from reveal) Shewing, laying open, covering, imparting from heaven.

IL/LE (s. from the French) The beat of drum out day break to give notice to the soldiers that it is time to rise.

EL (s. from the Heb. signifying the shepherd of God) A man's name.

EL (s. supposed to be from the French, reveiller to wake) A feast with loose and noisy mirth.

el (v. int. from the sub.) To feast with loose and noisy merriment.

EL (v. t. a scientific word from the Lat. revello) To retract, to draw back. Harvey.

elation (s. from reveal) A discovery, a communication; a supernatural discovery from heaven, the truths and doctrines contained in the bible; the title of the last book of the New Testament.

elled (p. a scientific word from revel) Drawn back, retracted.

eller (s. from revel) One that frequents revels.

elling (p. a. from revel) Feasting with loose and noisy mirth.

elling (p. a. a scientific word, from revel) Retracting, drawing back.

elous (adj. from revel) Revelling, addicted to revelry. Chaucer.

elrout (s. from revel, and rout) A mob, an unlawful assembly.

elry (s. from revel) Loose or noisy merriment, festive mirth.

ENE (v. int. from the Lat. revenio, but not used) To return. Cole.

ENGE (s. from the French revanche) The return of an injury, the return of an injury with some malignity of mind.

ence (v. t. from the sub.) To return an injury, to indicate by the punishment of an enemy, to wreak one's wrongs on the person that was the author of them.

enged (p. from revenge) Vindicated by the punishment of an enemy, satisfied by taking revenge: puth on, or upon: as, "I will be revenged on him."

engeful (adj. from revenge) Vindictive, full of revenge.

Reven'gefully (adv. from revengeful) Vindictively, with revenge.

Reven'gefulness (s. from revengeful) The quality of being revengeful.

Reven'gement (s. from revenge) Revenge, vengeance. Raleigh.

Reven'ger (s. from revenge) One that revenges, one who punishes crimes.

Reven'ging (p. a. from revenge) Returning an injury, vindicating by the punishment of an enemy, returning an injury with a kind of malignant pleasure.

Reven'gingly (adv. from revenging) With vengeance, with revenge.

REVENUE (s. from the Lat. revenio to come again, formerly accented on the middle syllable) An income, profits arising yearly, the amount of an impost or tax laid on the public for the purposes of government.

Rev'enue (s. a hunting term) A diseste incident to deer which makes their horns fall off; the new tail of a partridge growing after the old one has been lost.

Rev'enue (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to an yearly income, connected with the revenues of the state.

Rever'rb (v. t. from reverberate, but seldom used) To reverberate, to strike against. Shakespeare.

Rever'berant (adj. from reverberate) Beating back, rebounding.

REVERBERATE (v. t. from the Lat. reverbero) To beat back; to heat in a reverberating furnace.

Rever'berate (v. int.) To rebound; to rebound.

Rever'berate (adj. from the verb) Reverberant, beating back. Shakespeare.

Rever'berated (p. from reverberate) Beaten back; heated in a furnace so contrived as to throw back the flame and heat of the fire.

Rever'berating (p. a. from reverberate) Beating back.

Reverbera'tion (s. from reverberate) The act of beating back.

Rever'beratory (adj. from reverberate) Beating back, returning.

REVERE (v. t. from the Lat. revereor) To reverence, to regard with awe.

Rever'ed (p. from revere) Reverenced, regarded with awe.

Rever'ence (s. from revere) Veneration, respect; an obeisance, a bow, a courtesy; the title of the clergy; the title of a father in poetry. Shakespeare.

Rever'ence (v. t. from the sub.) To revere, to treat with a kind of religious respect.

Rever'enced (p. from reverence) Revered, regarded with a kind of religious respect.

Rever'encer (s. from reverence) One who reveres, one who regards with reverence.

Rever'encing (p. a. from reverence) Revering, treating with a kind of religious respect.

Rever'end (adj. from revere) Venerable, deserving respect, claiming reverence from outward appearance; belonging to the clergy, distinguishing the clergy from the laity.

Rever'end (s. from the adj.) A clergyman. "One of the right reverends."

Rever'ent (adj. from revere) Humble, expressing submission, testifying veneration.

Rever'ential (adj. from reverent) Expressing reverence, proceeding from a kind of religious respect.

Rever'entially (adv. from reverential) With appearance of reverence, with veneration.

Rever'ently (adv. from reverent) With reverence, with awe.

Rever'ier (s. from revere) One that reveres.

Rever'ing (p. a. from revere) Reverencing, regarding with awe.

Rever'sal (s. from reverse) A change of sentence, a sentence recalled.

REVERSE (v. t. from the Lat. revertio reversus) To turn upside down, to put in the place of another; to overturn, to subvert; to turn back; to contradict, to recal, to repeal.

Rever'se (v. int.) To return, to come back. Spenser.

Rever'se (s. from the verb) A change, a vicissitude; a contrary, an opposite; the side of a coin opposite to that on which the head is impressed.

Rever'sie (p. from the verb) Reverted. Milton.

Revers'ed (p. from reverse) Changed, turned upside down, put one in the place of another, turned back, recalled, repealed.

Revers'ible (adj. from reverse) Capable of being reversed.

Revers'ing (p. a. from reverse) Turning upside down, putting one in the place of another, recalling, repealing.

REV

Reversion (s. from reverse) A right after the death of the present possessor, a succession, a right of succession.

Reversionary (adj. from reversion) Belonging to reversion, having a right in succession.

REVERT (v. t. from the Lat. reverti) To change, to turn to the contrary, to reverberate.

Revert (v. int.) To return, to come back, to fall back.

Revert (s. in music) A return, a recurrence.

Reverted (p. from revert) Changed, turned to the contrary.

Reversible (adj. from revert) Returnable, capable of being reverted.

Reverting (p. a. from revert) Turning back, returning.

REVERIE (s. from the French reverie) A loose musing, an irregular thought.

Reves (s. an old word) Rents, tithes. Bailey.

REVEST (v. t. from the Lat. revestio) To clothe again, to reinvest.

Revested (p. from revest) Clothed again, reinvested, placed again in office.

Revestiary (s. from revest) The place where dresses are deposited.

Revestin (v. t. obsolete) To revest, to clothe again. Ch.

Revesting (p. a. from revest) Dressing again, reinvesting.

Revestry (s. from revest) The place in a church where the priest's vestments are kept.

REVIVIFICATION (s. from the Lat. revivo to revive) A return to life, a revival. Bacon.

Revidual (v. t. from re, and vidual) To stock again with provisions.

Revidualled (p. from revidual) Stored again with provisions.

Revidualing (p. a. from revidual) Storing again with provisions.

Revidualing (s. from the part.) The act of storing again with provisions.

Review (v. t. from re, and view) To look back, to see again, to survey, to overlook, to consider over and over, to examine, to reexamine.

Review (s. from the verb) A survey, a reexamination.

Reviewed (p. from review) Looked over again, surveyed over again, considered over again, examined, reexamined.

Reviewer (s. from review) One that reviews.

Reviewing (p. a. from review) Looking over again, looking back upon, surveying again, examining, reexamining.

Revile (v. t. from re, and vile) To vilify, to reproach, to treat with contumely.

Revile (s. from the verb, but not used) Reproach, contumely. Milton.

Reviled (p. from revile) Vilified, reproached, treated with contumely.

Reviler (s. from revile) One who reviles.

Reviling (p. a. from revile) Vilifying, treating with contumely.

Reviling (s. from the part.) Reproach, the act of vilifying, contumely.

Revilingly (adv. from reviling) With reproach, with contumely.

Revill (s. obsolete) Revelry. Chaucer.

Revisal (s. from revise) A review, a reexamining.

REVISE (v. t. from the Lat. revideo) To review, to overlook.

Revise (s. from the verb) Review, reexamination; the second proof of a sheet corrected in printing.

Revised (p. from revise) Reviewed, overlooked.

Reviser (s. from revise) One that revises.

Revising (p. a. from revise) Reviewing, overlooking.

Revision (s. from revise) A review.

Revisit (v. t. from re, and visit) To visit again.

Revisited (p. from revisit) Visited again.

Revisiting (p. a. from revisit) Visiting again.

Revival (s. from revive) A recovery, a return to accustomed vigour or splendour.

REVIVE (v. int. from the Lat. revivo) To return to life; to rise from languor, oblivion or obscurity.

Revive (v. t.) To restore to life, to cheer, to quicken, to rouse, to renew, to bring to the memory.

Revived (p. from revive) Returned to life, raised from languor, quickened, cheered; raised from oblivion or obscurity, brought to memory.

Reviver (s. from revive) That which revives, any thing that cheers or quickens.

REVIVIFICATE (v. t. from the Lat. revivo to revive, and facio to make) To recal to life.

Revivified (p. from revivificate) Recalled to life.

Revivifying (p. a. from revivificate) Recalling to life.

REV

Revivification (s. from revivificate) The act of recalling to life.

Reviving (p. a. from revive) Returning to life, rising from a state of languor, oblivion or obscurity; cheering, quickening, renewing.

REVIVISCENCE (s. from the Lat. revivisco to revive again) A renewal of life.

Revi'vor (s. a law term) A bill brought into chambers to carry on the suit of a deceased person.

Reuk (s. an old spelling) A rook.

Reul (v. int. a local word) To be rude, to be tumulterously.

REUMAH (s. from the Heb. signifying lofty) A woman's name.

Reunion (s. from re, and union) A restoration of union or concord; a return to a state of cohesion, the act of rejoining.

Reunite (v. t. from re, and unite) To join again, to reconcile.

Reunited (v. int.) To return to a state of union.

Reunited (p. from reunite) United again, joined again, reconciled.

Reuniting (p. a. from reunite) Joining again, reconciling.

Revocable (adj. from revoke) Capable of being revoked.

Revocableness (s. from revocable) The quality of being revoked.

REVOCATE (v. t. from the Lat. revoco) To recall, to revoke.

Revocated (p. from revoke) Recalled, called back, annulled.

Revocating (p. a. from revoke) Recalling, calling back.

Revocation (s. from revoke) The act of repealing, the state of being recalled, a repeal, a reversal.

REVOKE (v. t. from the Lat. revoco) To recall, to reverse, to check, to repress, to draw back.

Revoke (s. at whist) The act of not following the leading suit when it is in the player's power.

Revoke (v. int. at whist) To play contrary to the leading suit when it was in your power to have followed it.

Revoked (p. from revoke) Recalled, reversed, repealed.

Revokement (s. from revoke) A revocation, a repeal, recall. Shakespeare.

Revoking (p. a. from revoke) Recalling, reversing, repealing.

Revoking (p. a. at whist) Playing contrary to the leading suit when it was in your power to have followed it.

REVOLT (s. from the French revolte) A desertion, a change of sides, a departure from duty or allegiance.

Revolt (v. int. from the sub.) To fall off from one another; with from, and to: as, "All will revolt from me." "He revolted to the enemy."

Revolted (p. from revolt) Gone off from duty or allegiance.

Revolver (s. from revolt) One that revolts.

Revoluting (p. a. from revolt) Falling off from one to the other, departing from duty or allegiance.

REVOLVE (v. int. from the Lat. revolve) To roll in a circle, to perform a revolution; to devolve, to fall on a regular course.

Revolve (v. t.) To turn any thing round, to consider in the mind, to meditate on.

Revolved (p. from revolve) Turned round, considered, turned over in thought.

Revolving (p. a. from revolve) Turning round in a circle, performing a revolution; turning any thing round, considering, meditating upon.

Revolution (s. from revolve) The course of any thing which returns to the point from which it set out, the space measured by a circular course; a change in the government of a state, the change produced by the admission of King William and Queen Mary.

Revolutioner (s. from revolution) One who approves the change produced by the admission of King William and Queen Mary.

Revomit (v. t. from re, and vomit) To vomit, to vomit again.

Revomited (p. from revomit) Vomited, vomited again.

Revomiting (p. a. from revomit) Vomiting, vomiting again.

Re'ule (v. t. a local word) To extol, to commend highly.

REVULSION (s. from the Lat. revellio revullus to pull back) The act of drawing humours from a remote part of the body, the act of forcing humours to a common part.

R H A

a part of any substance taken off from the whole formed into a distinct existence. Scott.

live (adj. from revulsion) Pulling back.

ria (s. with physicians) The stoppage of an hemorrhage by opening a vein in some remote and contiguous part of the body.

(v.) A term used in a game at cards. Phil.

(s. a local word) A rank; a row. Scott.

(v. t. obsolete) To rue, to grieve, to pity. Spenser.

kin (v. int. obsolete) To waken again. Chaucer.

RD (s. from the Sax.) A recompense, a recompense some good; a recompense for evil.

rd (v. t. from the sub.) To give in return, to re-to recompense.

able (adj. from reward) Capable of being rewarded, fit to be rewarded.

rd (s. obsolete) Regard. Chaucer.

rd (p. from reward) Recompensed, repaid.

rd (s. from reward) One that rewards.

rd (p. a. from reward) Recompensing, rewarding.

ET (s. from the French rouet) The lock of a gun. Sc.

y (adj. from rew) Full of rows, unevenly light. Phillips.

h (adj.) Inclined to copulation as doves.

e (s. obsolete) A realm. Wicliffe.

rd (v. t. from re, and word) To repeat in the words. Shakespeare.

rd (p. from reward) Repeated in the same words.

rd (p. a. from reward) Repeating in the same words.

(s. obsolete) A kind of songs, roundels. Chaucer.

(s. an old spelling) Rain, clear water. Chaucer.

ing (s.) The name of an apple.

OLD (s.) A man's name.

(s. from the Heb. signifying voluntary) The name man.

N (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.

BARA (s. in pharmacy) The rhubarb.

urate (adj. from rhabarbara) Tinctured with rhubarb.

IDES (s. in anatomy) The sagittal suture of skull.

IOLOGY (s. from the Greek ραβδος, a rod, and a word) The act of computation by Napier's rods.

OMANCY (s. from the Greek ραβδος, a rod, and a magic) Divination performed by rods.

DOS (s. from the Greek) A wand, a rod; a mean in the form of a straight rod.

IS (s. in anatomy) The spine of the back.

ASAG'RA (s. with physicians) The gout in the the gout in the parts adjoining to the back bone.

ITÆ (s. in anatomy) The muscles that lie over back bone.

ITÆI (s. in anatomy) The rhachitæ.

ITIS (s. from the Greek) The rickets; a disease children.

MAN'THUS (s. in the mythology of the poets) One supposed judges of the infernal regions.

GES (s. in anatomy, but not used) The rhachitæ. Cole.

DIS (s. from the Greek) A chop or cleft in any of the skin; a small ulcer in the fundament.

DIOLIDES (s. in botany) The lapsana.

DIOLUS (s. in botany) The lapsana.

ON (s. from the Greek) The stone of a small spider.

ON (s. in zoology) A little venomous spider resembling the stone of the black grape.

IDES (s. in anatomy) The third coat of the eye, membrana.

OPDES (s. in botany) The hippophæ, the swallow.

SUS (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the white le.

IX (s. in geography) An ancient subdivision of Wales.

RES (s. in anatomy) The internal corners of eyes.

ANUS (s. in botany) The radish, the root of radish.

E (s. in anatomy, from the Greek) A suture of skull.

IUS (s. in zoology) The name of a beast, a spotted wolf.

ONTICODES (s. in botany) The centaury.

ONTICUM (s. in botany) The centaury.

DI (s. in antiquity) The rhapsodists.

R H I

Rhapsod'ical (adj. from rhapsody) Composed after the manner of a rhapsody.

Rhapsodist (s. from rhapsody) One of the ancient rhapsodi who went about singing detached pieces of Homer's Iliad and Odyssey; one who writes a rhapsody.

RHAPSODOM'ANCY (s. from the Greek ραψωδία a rhapsody, and μαντεία magic) A kind of divination drawn from any detached piece of poetry that might occur for that purpose.

RHAPSODY (s. from the Greek ραψωδία to sew, and ωδή an ode) A discourse or poem consisting of a number of parts joined together without any necessary dependance or natural connection.

RHE'A (s. in beathen mythology) The goddess Cybele, the supposed wife of Saturn and mother of the gods.

RHEGIUM (s. in ancient geography) A port town in the ancient Calabria. Acts.

RHEG'MA (s. from the Greek) A rupture, that which is broken.

RHEIDEA (s. in botany) A genus of plants not perfectly ascertained.

RHE'SA (s. from the Heb. signifying wild) A man's name.

Rhetor'ian (s. from Rhetorius) A follower of Rhetorius.

RHET'ORIC (s. from the Greek ρητορ a declaimer) The act of speaking with art and eloquence, the art of persuasion, oratory.

Rhetoric (adj. from the sub, not so much used) Rhetorical.

Rhetoric'ical (adj. from rhetoric) Belonging to rhetoric, oratorical.

Rhetoric'ically (adv. from rhetorical) With rhetoric, in a rhetorical manner.

Rhetoric'alness (s. from rhetorical) The state or circumstance of being rhetorical.

Rhetoric'ate (v. int. from rhetoric) To play the orator, to affect the passions by the arts of rhetoric.

Rhetoric'ating (p. a. from rhetoricate) Playing the orator, moving the passions by the arts of rhetoric.

Rhetoric'ation (s. from rhetoricate) A rhetorical term;
an argument more florid than substantial.

Rhetoric'ian (s. from rhetoric) A master of rhetoric, one that teaches the art of rhetoric, an orator.

Rhetoric'ian (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to an orator, suited to a master of rhetoric. Blackmore.

Rhetoric'ian (s. in church history) A rhetorian.

RHETOR'IUS (s. in church history) A man's name, the head of a sect in the fourth century who held that all heretics who went before him had reason on their side, and were consequently right in opposing the orthodox faith.

RHEUM (s. from the Greek ῥεῦμα to flow) A thin watery matter oozing through the glands especially about the mouth.

Rheumat'ic (adj. from rheum) Proceeding from rheum, belonging to the rheumatism, tending to the rheumatism.

Rheumat'ick (adj. the less modern spelling) Rheumatic.

Rheumat'ickness (s. from rheumatic) The state or circumstance of being rheumatic. Scott.

RHEUM'ATISM (s. from the Greek ρευματισμός) A painful disease supposed to proceed from acrid humours.

Rheum'y (adj. from rheum) Full of rheum, abounding with sharp moisture.

RHEX'IA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

RHEX'IS (s. in physics) A rupture, a rupture of the cornea of the eye.

Rhime (s. not so correct a spelling) Rhyme. DiEt. of Arts.

RHINANTHUS (s. in botany) A genus of plants; the yellow rattle.

RHINE (s.) A river which takes its rise in Switzerland, runs through a part of Germany, and dividing into several channels continues its course through the united provinces and empties itself into the German ocean.

Rhineland, Rhineandrod (s. in fortification) A measure of two fathoms or twelve feet used by the Dutch and German engineers.

RHINEN'CHITES (s. in surgery, from the Greek ῥίς the nostril, and ἵκνω to pour in) A kind of syringe to inject a medical liquor into the nostrils.

Rhi'no (s. a cant word) Ready money.

RHINOBA'TUS (s. in ichthyology) A species of raja having one single row of prickles on the back.

Rhinoc'eral (adj. from rhinoceros) Belonging to the rhinoceros, like the rhinoceros.

RHINOC'EROS (s. in zoology, from the Greek ῥίς a nostril, and κερας a horn) A beast with a horn on its nose and without a trunk, but in other respects resembling an elephant.

Rhinoc'erosbird (s. in ornithology) A large bird about the size of a raven so called from a horn which rises from the root of the beak.

the

R H U

RHIPHE'US (s. in the mythology of the poets) One of the Centaurs.

RHIZAG'RA (s. in surgery, from the Greek ρίζα a root, and αγρα a rupture) An instrument to draw out the stump of a tooth or splinter of a bone.

RHIZOT'OMIST (s. from the Greek ρίζα a root, and τέμνω to cut, but not used) One who cuts roots. Barley.

RHO'DA (s. from the Greek ρόδη a rose) The name of a woman. Acts. 12.

RHODACE'LEUM (s. from the Greek ρόδη a rose, and ελαιον oil) The oil of roses.

RHODE (s.) The name of a woman, Rhoda.

RHODES (s. in geography) An island in the Mediterranean sea, the capital of that island.

RHO'DIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

Rho'dian (adj. from Rhodes) Belonging to Rhodes.

Rho'dian (s. from the adj.) An inhabitant of Rhodes.

RHODIO'LA (s. in botany) A genus of plants; the rhodia.

RHODIRA'DIX (s. in botany) The name of an herb, the rosewort.

RHODI'TES (s. in natural history) A precious stone of a rose colour.

RHO'DIUM (s. in botany, and medicine) The aspalathum, a kind of wood.

RHODIUM'LIG'NUM (s. in botany, and pharmacy) The rhodium, the aspalathum.

RHODODAPH'NE (s. in botany, from the Greek) The rose baytree.

RHODODEN'DRON (s. in botany, from the Greek) The rhododaphne, the rose baytree.

RHODODEN'DROS (s. a different spelling) The rhododendron.

RHO'DOMEL (s. in pharmacy) The honey of roses.

RHO'DON (s. in pharmacy) A compound medicine in which roses make the chief ingredient; the rose.

RHOD'OPE (s. in ancient geography) A high mountain in Thrace said to be covered with snow, all the year round. Virgil.

RHODO'RA (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

RHODOSAC'CARUM (s. in pharmacy) The sugar of roses.

RHODOSTAG'MA (s. in pharmacy) Rosewater.

RHO'DUS (s. in ancient geography) An island in the Mediterranean, Rhodes.

RHO'E (s. in botany) The fumach.

RHO'EAS (s. in botany) The red poppy.

RHCE'TUS (s. in the mythology of the poets) The name of one of the Centaurs.

Rhomb (s. from rhombus) A rhombus, a square put out of its natural position.

Rhom'bic (adj. from rhomb) Having the shape of a rhombus.

Rhomb'line (s. a sea term) A line prolonged from any point of the compass on a sea chart between the cardinal points.

RHOM'BOID (s. in geometry, from rhombus) A quadrangular plain figure having its opposite sides equal, a parallelogram put out of its natural position.

Rhomboid'al (adj. from rhomboid) Belonging to a rhomboid.

Rhomboid'es (s. from rhombus) A rhomboid.

RHOMBOI'DES (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the scapula so called from its form.

RHOM'BUS (s. in geometry, from the Greek) An oblique angled quadrilateral plain figure whose sides are equal, a square put out of its natural position; a kind of bandage in surgery so called from its figure.

RHONCHISO'NANT (adj. from the Greek ρονχος a snoring, and the Lat. sonus a sound) Uttering a noise like that of snoring. Scott.

RHON'CHUS (s. from the Greek ρονχος) The act of snoring, the noise made in snoring.

RHOPA'LIC (adj. from the Greek ροπαλον a club) Belonging to a kind of verse among the ancients beginning with monosyllables and increasing gradually to the last which was the longest word of all.

Rhopa'lic (s. from the adj.) A verse beginning with a monosyllable and increasing the syllables to the last which was the longest word.

RHOPA'LO'N (s. from the Greek) The water lily so called because its root resembles a club.

RHOPOG'RAPHER (s. from the Greek ροπος a toy, and γραφω to write) A painter who confines himself to beasts, birds, trees and other low subjects; one who paints in mixed colours. Scott.

RHOPOGRA'PHI (s. plu. in antiquity) Painters who exercised their talents on low subjects.

RHU'BARB (s. from the Lat. rhubarbarum) A root much used in medicine as a gentle cathartic.

R I B

Rhumb (s. in navigation) The vertical circle of a given place, the intersection of the vertical circle with the horizon.

Rhumb'line (s. a sea term) The rhombline, a line or course which intersects the meridians through all points it passes at equal angles.

RHUS (s. in botany) The fumach.

RHY'AS (s. in surgery, from the Greek) A disease of the eyes, a continued weeping.

RHYME (s. from the Greek ρυμος a rule) An harmonious succession of sounds, the correspondence of the sound or syllable of one verse to that of another, poetry, a poem.

Rhyme (v. int. from the sub.) To agree in sound, to make verses in rhyme.

Rhy'mer (s. from rhyme) One who makes rhymes, a rhymster.

Rhy'ming (p. a. from rhyme) Corresponding in sound, making verses in rhyme.

Rhy'mster (s. from rhyme) A versifier, a poet in a temple.

RHYPTICA (s. in medicine) Cleansing medicaments.

Rhyptics (s. from rhyptica) Detergent remedies.

RHYTHM (s. in music, from the Greek ρυθμος a rule, proportion of the movements to each other; the)

Rhyth'mica (s. from rhythm) That part in the music of the ancients which regulated the rhythm.

Rhyth'mical (adj. from rhythm) Harmonical, having a proportion of sounds.

RHYTHMOPO'IA (s. from the Greek ρυθμος rhythm, ποιω to do) That part of music which prescribes the movements.

RHYTI'DOSIS (s. with surgeons, from the Greek ρυτίς a wrinkle) A kind of fold or wrinkle in any part of the body.

R'IAL (s.) An old gold coin of ten shillings value.

Ri'al (adj. an old spelling) Royal.

Ri'ally (adv. an old spelling) Royally.

RIAL'TA (s.) The famous marble bridge of Venice.

Rial'tie (s. an obsolete spelling, from rial) Royalty.

Ri'ant (adj. from the French rire) Laughing.

RIB (s. from the Sax. ribbe) The incurvated side of an animal; any piece of timber or other material which strengthens the side; a wise in droll style.

RIB'ALD (s. from the French ribaud) A loose, dissipated wretch.

Rib'alicious (adj. from ribald) Debauched, obscene.

Rib'altry (s. from ribald) Loose obscene language, obscenity.

RIB'AND (s. a correct spelling, from the French) A file of silk, a narrow web of silk chiefly used as an ornament; the sash worn by a knight of any particular order; the eighth part of a head in heraldry; a long flexible piece of timber nailed to the ribs of a ship.

Rib'andmaker (s. from riband, and maker) One who makes ribands, a ribandweaver.

Rib'andweaver (s. from riband, and weaver) One who weaves ribands.

Rib'aning (s. an old word) Ribands, lace set on ribbands.

Rib'aud, Rihaude (s. an old word) A luxurious, dissipated, one abandoned to lewdness.

Rib'audry (s. an old spelling) Ribaldry.

Rib'ban (s. not so correct a spelling) A riband.

Rib'band (s. a common but not so correct a spelling) A riband.

Rib'bandscrawshell (s. in natural history) The ribbandshell.

Rib'bandweaver (s. a different spelling) A ribbandweaver.

Rib'bed (adj. from rib) Furnished with ribs, provided with the body with ribs.

RIB'BLE (s.) The name of a river which takes its rise in Yorkshire, runs through Lancashire and empties itself into the Irish channel.

Rib'blerab'ble (s. a low word, from the reduplication of rabble) A rabble, a mob.

Rib'bon (s. not so correct a spelling) A riband.

RIB'ES (s. in botany) The currant bush; a genus of plants.

RIBE'SIUM (s. in botany) The ribes.

Ri'bi (v. t. imper. mode) Drink away.

Rib'ibe (s. an old word) An old baud.

Rib'ible (s. obsolete) A fiddle, a gittern.

RIB'LAH (s. from the Heb. signifying a quarrel) A place of a place.

Ribol'la (s.) A strong kind of wine.

Rib'roast (v. t. from rib, and roast) To beat down, to droll style.

Rib'roasted (p. from ribroast) Beaten soundly, droll style.

Rib'roasting (p. a. from ribroast) Beating soundly, droll style.

roasting (s. from the part.) The act of heating, a and beating. Butler.
 wort (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
 (s. in falconry) A disease incident to hawks, a kind swelling on the head.
 (s. an old word, from the Sax.) A kingdom, domi-
 on.
 CA (s. from the Lat.) A kind of veil with which the oman ladies covered their faces.
 CIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 E (s. from the Italian oryza) A foreign esculent rain.
 (s. obsolete) Small rods, small twigs. Chaucer.
 emilk (s. from rice, and milk) Milk boiled up and thickened with rice.
 epudding (s. from rice, and pudding) A pudding made with rice.
 erate (s. in music) A kind of extempory prelude.
 H (adj. from the French riche) Wealthy, opulent, bounding in wealth; valuable, precious, splendid,
 mptuous; fertile, fruitful.
 HARD (s.) A man's name.
 ed (adj. from rich) Rich, enriched. Shakefp.
 er (adj. comp. of rich) Rich in a greater degree.
 es (s. from rich) Wealth, money, possessions; a lendid appearance.
 efie, Rich'esse (s. an obsolete spelling) Riches. Chau.
 est (adj. sup. of rich) Rich in the greatest degree.
 ily (adv. from rich) With riches, with plenty;
 uly, abundantly. "A chastisement which they so chly deserve."
 HMOND (s.) A borough town in Yorkshire; it is a market on Saturday, sends two members to rliament, and is 22 miles from London; a royal illa in the county of Surry.
 'mond (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Richmond,
 ade at Richmond.
 'mondshire (s. from Richmond, and shire) A district Yorkshire.
 'ness (s. from rich) Wealth, opulence; finery, endour; fertility; an abundance of any quality.
 t (adj. obsolete) Right. Chaucer.
 NOCAR'PUS (s. in botany) The mercurialis; the alypa, the sea nettle.
 NOIDES (s. in botany) The croton, a genus of ants.
 NUS (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 K (s. a more common spelling) A rick, a stack or pile corn or hay.
 (v. t. from the sub.) To pile up hay or corn.
 ed (p. from rick) Put up in a rick.
 ing (p. a. from rick) Piling up in a rick.
 ing (s. from the part.) The act of piling up hay or thrashed corn in a rick.
 UETS (s. from the Greek γαζις) A disease incident children arising from an unequal distribution of nou-ment.
 etty (adj. from rickets) Troubled with the rickets. Sc.
 ety (adj. a different spelling) Ricketty, troubled th the rickets.
 LUS (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
 MANSWORTH (s.) A town in Hertfordshire; it is a market on Saturday, and is 17 miles from ondon.
 mansworth (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Rickmanworth, made at Rickmanworth.
 TURE (s. from the Lat. rictura) A gaping. Johnson.
 (v. t. from the Sax. hridan) To set free, to redeem, clear, to disencumber, to dispatch, to drive away, destroy.
 v. t. pret.) Did ride.
 (p. from the verb) Freed, cleared.
 v. t. pret. of ride) Did ride.
 ance (s. from rid) A deliverance, the act of clear-away any encumbrance.
 elid, Rid'dilid (adj. obsolete) Plaited. Chaucer.
 en (p. from ride) Managed in riding, used for rid-, managed with infolence, managed at will.
 er (s. from rid) One that rids; a rudder, a kind sieve. Pbhillips.
 erroll (s. a law term) A schedule or small strip of chment added to a roll or record. Pbhillips.
 ing (p. a. from rid) Setting free, clearing away bin.
 OLE (s. from the Sax. hridel) A puzzling question, enigma, any thing puzzling.
 OLE (s. from the Sax. hridde) A coarse kind of ce.
 le (v. int. from the sub.) To speak obscurely, to ke enigmas.

Rid'dle (v. t.) To solve, to unriddle; to separate by a coarse sieve.
 Rid'dled (p. from riddle) Separated by a coarse sieve.
 Rid'dling (p. a. from riddle) Making riddles, speaking enigmatically; solving, unriddling; separating by a coarse sieve.
 Rid'dling (s. from the part.) The act of separating with a coarse sieve, that which is separated by a coarse kind of sieve.
 Rid'dlingly (adv. from riddling) Enigmatically, in the manner of a riddle.
 RIDE (v. int. from the Sax. hridan) To travel on horseback, to travel in a vehicle; to perform the several acts of horfemanship; to remain in the water, to be supported by something suited to one's purpose.
 Ride (v. int.) To manage in the exercise of riding, to manage inofolently and at will.
 Ride (s. from the verb) A small excursion on horseback;
 a clump or number of sprigs growing out of the same root.
 RIDEAU' (s. in fortification) A small elevation of earth to cover a camp or strengthen a post.
 Rid'er (s. from ride) One who rides, one who manages or breaks horses; a tradesman who rides for orders; an inserted leaf in a book, an after clause added to a bill while depending in parliament; a large timber to strengthen a ship which has been too slightly built.
 Rid'erroll (s. from ride, and roll) A schedule of parchment affixed to some part of a roll or record.
 Ridg'ully (s. a cant word) A goldsmith. Cole.
 RIDGE (s. from the Sax. hrigg the back) The rising or keen part of the back; the rough top of any thing resembling the back, a steep protuberance, the upper part of a roof rising to an angle, the ground thrown up by the plough, a wrinkle or rising of flesh in the mouth of an horie.
 Ridge (v. t. from the sub.) To throw up or form in ridges.
 Ridg'eband (s. from ridge, and band) That part of the harness that crosses the back of the horie.
 Ridged (p. from ridge) Thrown up in ridges, formed in ridges.
 Ridgel (s. the derivation is uncertain) The male of a beast half gelt.
 Ridg'etile (s. from ridge, and tile) A cretile, a tile to put on the ridge of an house.
 Ridgil (s. a different spelling) A ridgel. Dryden.
 Ridg'ing (p. a. from ridge) Throwing up in ridges, forming in ridges. Scott.
 Ridg'ing (s. from the part.) The act of forming in ridges, that which is formed in ridges.
 Ridg'ling (s. from ridgel) A ridgel, the male of a beast half gelded.
 Ridg'y (adj. from ridge) Full of ridges.
 RID'ICULE (s. from the Lat. ridiculum) Jest, mockery, wit producing laughter.
 RID'ICULE (v. t. from the Lat. rideo to laugh) To expose to laughter, to treat with contemptuous merriment.
 Rid'iculed (p. from ridicule) Exposed to laughter, treated with contemptuous merriment.
 Rid'iculing (p. a. from ridicule) Exposing to ridicule, treating with a kind of contemptuous merriment.
 Ridic'ulous (adj. from ridicule) Fit to be laughed at, exciting contemptuous merriment.
 Ridic'ulously (adv. from ridiculous) With ridicule, in a ridiculous manner.
 Ridic'ulousness (s. from ridiculous) The state or quality of being ridiculous.
 Rid'ing (p. a. from ride) Traveling on horseback, traveling in a carriage, performing the several acts of horfemanship, remaining on float, weathering out a storm at sea; managing at will.
 Rid'ing (adj. from the part.) Used on horseback, belonging to the act of horfemanship.
 Rid'ing (s. from the part.) The act of traveling on horseback or in a carriage; an excursion on horseback;
 horfemanship; a circuit to be performed on horseback;
 a division of a county.
 Rid'ingclerk (s. from riding, and clerk) One of the six clerks in chancery.
 Rid'ingcloak (s. from riding, and cloak) A cloak used for riding.
 Rid'ingcoat (s. from riding, and coat) A coat used in riding, a coat to keep out the weather.
 Rid'inghabit (s. from riding, and habit) A lady's riding drefs.
 Rid'inghood (s. from riding, and hood) A hood used by women when they ride.

Rid'ing,

R I G

Riding-knot (s. from riding, and knot) A running knot.
RIDIT'TA (s. in music) A repeat. Bailey.
RIDIT'TO (s. in music) An entertainment of singing, an opera.
RIE (s. a different spelling) Rye, an esculent grain, a kind of grain resembling wheat but not nearly so valuable.
Ri'efield (s. from rie, and field) A field appropriated to the culture of rie.
Ri'eland (s. from rie, and land) A light kind of land, land fit for the culture of rie.
RIENS (s. a law term) Nothing.
Rier, Rier'county (s. a law term) The place appointed by the sheriff for receiving the king's money after the adjournment of the county court.
RIFE (adj. from the Sax. ryfe) Prevalent, abounding as any distemper.
Rife (v. t. obsolete spelling) To rive, to pierce, to stab, to force asunder. Chaucer.
Ri'fely (adv. from rife) Prevalently, abundantly.
Ri'feness (s. from rife) Prevalence, abundance.
Ri'ffer (adj. comp. of rife) Rife in a greater degree.
Rife'raff (s. the derivation is not certain) The scum, the refuse.
Ri'fett (adj. sup. of rife) Rife in the greatest degree.
RIFLE (v. t. from the Dutch rifelen) To rob, to pillage, to plunder.
Ri'fled (p. from rifle) Robbed, plundered.
Ri'flier (s. from rifle) A robber, a plunderer.
Ri'fletum (s. in old records) A coppice, a thicket.
Ri'fpling (p. a. from rifle) Robbing, pillaging.
Ri'fpling (s. from the part.) The act of pillaging.
Rift (s. from rive) A cleft, an opening, a breach.
Rift (v. t. from the sub.) To split, to cleave asunder.
Rift (v. int.) To burst, to open; to belch, to break wind.
Ri'fled (p. from rift) Split, cloven.
Ri'fving (p. a. from rift) Splitting, cleaving.
Rifts (s. in farriery, from rift) A disease of the mouth incident to horses.
RIG (s. from the Sax. hrigg) A back, the back; a romping girl; a woman of ill fame; a ridgel. Scott.
Rig (v. t. from the sub.) To dress, to furnish with cloaths; to fit with tackle. "To rig about," To be wanton.
RIGADOO'N (s. from the French, rigadon) A kind of dance.
RIGA'TION (s. from the Lat. rigo to water) The act of watering. Johnson.
RI'GEL (s. in astronomy) The left foot of Orion.
Rigg (s. obsolete) The back. Chaucer.
Rigg'ed (p. from rig) Dressed, furnished with cloaths, fitted with tackle.
Rig'ger (s. from rig) One that rigs, one that dresses, one who is employed in fitting the rigging of a ship.
Rig'ginbone (s. obsolete) The backbone.
Rig'ging (p. a. from rig) Dressing, furnishing with cloaths, fitting with tackle.
Rig'ging (s. from the part.) Cloaths, dress; the sails and tackle of a ship.
Rig'gish (adj. from rig) Wanton, whorish. Shakespeare.
Rig'gle (v. int. not so common a word) To wriggle, to move backwards and forwards as shrinking from pain.
Rig'gling (p. a. from riggle) Wriggling, moving backwards and forwards.
RIGHT (adj. from the Lat. rectus) Fit, proper, becoming, true, just, honest; straight, direct, perpendicular, including ninety degrees; opposite to the left; convenient, happy.
Right (s. from the adj.) The opposite to wrong, justice, equity; the side opposite to the left; a just claim, property, interest, power, prerogative, privilege.
Right (adv. from the adj.) Properly, justly; in a direct line; in a great degree, very; but this sense is nearly obsolete except in titles of honor. "The right reverend."
Right (interj. from the adj.) Expressing approbation.
Right (v. t. from the adj.) To do justice to, to relieve from wrong; to put any thing in its proper position. "Right the helm."
Right'ed (p. from right) Set right, relieved from wrong.
Right'eous (adj. from right) Just, honest, equitable, virtuous, uncorrupt.
Right'eously (adv. from righteous) Honestly, virtuously.
Right'eousness (s. from righteous) Justice, honesty, virtue, goodness.
Right'ful (adj. from right) Having a right, having a just claim; honest, just.
Right'fully (adv. from rightful) In a rightful manner, with right, with equity.

R I N

Right'fulness (s. from rightful) The state of being right, rectitude.
Right'ly (adv. from right) Properly, suitably, honestly, uprightly, exactly, straightly, directly.
Right'ness (s. from right) Rectitude, straightness, conformity to truth.
Right'wise (adj. obsolete) Righteous.
Right'wised (adj. obsolete from rightwise) Rightly, aright.
Right'whiteness (s. obsolete from rightwise) Rightness.
Rig'id (adj. from the Lat. rigidus) Stiff, unpliant; severe, inflexible; sharp, cruel.
Ri'gider (adj. comp. of rigid) Rigid in a greater degree.
Rig'idest (adj. sup. of rigid) Rigid in the greatest degree.
Rigid'ity (s. from rigid) Stiffness, severity; the want of ease or elegance.
Rig'idly (adv. from rigid) Stiffly, severely, inflexibly.
Rig'idness (s. from rigid) Stiffness, severity, inflexibility.
RIG'LET (s. from the French, regulet) A flat thin piece of wood; a strip of wood used in printing to accommodate the distance between the lines or the width of the margin.
RIG'OL (s. from the French, regale) A circle, a diadem.
RIG'OR (s. a correct spelling, from the Lat.) Cold, severity, a convulsive shuddering from a sense of cold, severity, sharpness, hardness, inflexibility; rage, cruelty.
Rig'orous (adj. from rigor) Stiff, severe.
Rig'orously (adv. from rigorous) Severity, without tenderness or mitigation.
Rig'oroufness (s. from rigorous) Harshness, severity.
RIG'OUR (s. the less modern spelling, from the French, rigueur) Rigor.
RILL (s. from the Lat. rivulus) A small brook, a small stream.
Rill (v. int. from the sub.) To run in small streams.
Rillet (s. from rill) A small stream.
Rill'ing (p. a. from rill) Running in small streams.
RIM (s. from the Sax. rima) A margin, a border; the which incircles.
RIME (s. from the Sax. hrime) The hoar frost, a kind of fog generally attended with frost.
Rime (v. int. from the sub.) To freeze with hoar frost.
RIME (s. from the Lat. rima) A chink, a hole.
Rime (s. an incorrect spelling) Rhyme. D. of A.
RI'MER (s. in beaten mythology) The chief god worshipped at Damascus.
Ri'mier (adj. comp. of rimy) Rimy in a greater degree.
Ri'miest (adj. sup. of rimy) Rimy in the greatest degree.
Ri'ming (p. a. from rime) Freezing with hoar frost.
RIM'MON (s. from the Heb. signifying exalted) The name of a city, the name of a rock in the land of Israel.
RI'MOSE (adj. from the Lat. rimosus) Full of chinks.
Rimos'ity (s. from rimose) The state or quality of being rimose.
Rim'peled (p. not so common a spelling) Rimples.
Rim'ple (v. t. perhaps from crimple) To pucker, to draw up into plaits.
Rim'pled (p. from rimple) Puckered, drawn up into plaits.
Rim'plid (adj. obsolete) Withered, wrinkled, dried up.
Rim'pling (p. a. from rimple) Puckering, drawing up into plaits.
RIM'ULA (s. from the Lat.) A small chink, an orifice.
Ri'my (adj. from rime) Foggy, misty.
Rin (v. int. obsolete) To run.
RINA'US (s. in anatomy) The muscle of the nose.
RIND (s. from the Sax.) The bark, the husk of any thing; the thin pellicle that covers the pulp of fruit; the inner bark of a tree.
Rind (v. t. from the sub.) To take off the bark, to take off the skin, to take off the husk. Johnson.
Rind'ed (p. from rind) Stripped of the rind.
Rind'ing (p. a. from rind) Taking off the rind.
RIND'LE (s. from the Teut. rinne) A small gutter, a small water course.
Rind'y (adj. from rind) Having a rind, having a thin skin as fruit.
Rine (v. t. a local word) To touch.
Ri'ner (s. a local word) A good cast, a good throw at bowls.
RING (s. from the Sax. hring) A circle, an orbicular line; a circle of gold or other metal worn for ornament.

R I P

ent; a circular handle; a circular course, a circle persons made by standing round; a number of bells harmoniously tuned, the sound of bells, the sound of sonorous body.
G (v. t. from the Sax. hringan) To strike bells, to like any sonorous body so as to make it sound; to circle, to surround; to fit with rings, to restrain a vine by putting a wire in his nose.
g (v. int.) To sound, to give a sound, to tinkle;
be filled with a rumor; to practice on bells.
g/bolt (s. in shipbuilding) An iron bolt which serves to fasten the planks.
g/bone (s. in farriery) A callous substance growing in the hollow of the pattern just above the coronet.
g/dial (s. from ring, and dial) A pocket fundal in form of a ring.
G'DOVE (s. in ornithology) A kind of pigeon.
ged (p. from ring) Furnished with a ring, in-circled.
ger (s. from ring) One that rings, one skilled in ringing.
g/head (s. with clothiers) An instrument for stretching woollen cloth.
g/hedge (s. from ring, and hedge) A hedge that compasses several inclosures.
g/ing (p. a. from ring) Sounding, resounding, sounding on bells; furnishing with rings; surrounding, incircling.
g/ing (s. from the part.) The act of making music on bells.
g/leader (s. from ring, and leader) One that is foremost in any mischief, one that leads on a riotous body of people.
g/let (s. from ring) A small ring, a curl, a circle.
g/louzil (s. in ornithology) A species of black turdus with a white ring about its neck a little larger than the common blackbird.
g/rope (s. a sea term) A short rope occasionally tied to the ring bolt of the deck.
g/streaked (adj. from ring, and streaked) Marked with circular streaks.
g/tail (s. in ornithology) A kind of kite with a whitish tail.
g/tail (s. a sea term) A small triangular sail used occasionally, a kind of sliding sail.
G'WOOD (s.) A town in Hampshire; it has a market on Wednesday, and is 95 miles from London.
g/wood (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Ringwood, made at Ringwood.
g/worm (s. from ring, and worm) The surpigo, a circular tetter.
SE (v. t. from the German, rein pure) To wash, to cleanse by washing.
sed (p. from rinse) Washed, cleansed by washing.
ser (s. from rinse) One that rinses, one that washes.
sing (p. a. from rinse) Washing, cleansing by washing.
N'DO (s. in ichthyology) A species of red zeus.
OT (s. from the Italian riotto) Loose festivity; edition, uproar; a number of disorderly people assembled together with a manifest intention to break the peace or commit violence. "To run riot," to move without restraint.
ot (v. int. from the sub.) To revel, to give a loose to luxurious enjoyments, to become tumultuous, to raise an uproar, to raise sedition.
oter (s. from riot) One who is given up to luxury and excess; one who is concerned in making a riot, one who raises sedition.
oting (p. a. from riot) Giving a loose to luxurious enjoyments, making a riot, raising sedition.
oting (s. from the part.) Loose festivity, excess in eating or drinking, the act of raising sedition.
otise (s. from riot, now grown obsolete) Luxury, dissoluteness.
otous (adj. from riot) Wanton, licentious, luxurious, turbulent, seditious.
otously (adv. from riotous) In a riotous manner.
otousness (s. from riotous) The state of being riotous.
ot (v. t. from the Sax. hripan) To tear, to lacerate, to tear up, to disclose, to bring to view.
PA'RIÆ (s. in old records) Any waters that run between banks.
arious (adj. from ripariæ) Belonging to the banks of a river.
aricus (s. from ripariæ) A fisherman.
arior (s. in old records) A fisherman.
PE (adj. from the Sax.) Mature, come to perfection in growth, fit for use; finished, consummate; fully qualified by gradual improvement, brought to the point of taking effect.

R I S

Ripe (v. int. from the sub.) To become mature, to ripen.
Ripe (v. t.) To mature, to make ripe. Shakespeare.
Ri'pely (adv. from ripe) Maturely, at the proper time.
Ri'pen (v. t. from ripe) To mature, to make ripe.
Ri'pen (v. int.) To grow ripe.
Ri'pened (p. from ripe) Matured, made ripe.
Ri'peness (s. from ripe) Maturity, the state of being ripe; perfection, completion; fitness, qualification.
Ri'pening (p. a. from ripen) Maturing, making ripe, growing ripe.
Ri'per (adj. comp. of ripe) Ripe in a greater degree.
Ri'pest (adj. sup. of ripe) Ripe in the greatest degree.
RIP'HÆ'AN (adj. in geography) Belonging to a ridge of mountains in Scythia, hyperborean.
Ri'PHATH (s. from the Heb. signifying a remedy) A man's name.
RIPHE'US (s. in the mythology of the poets) One of the Centauri.
Ripia'no (s. a different spelling) The repiano, a violin which plays now and then to fill up the music in a concerto. Bailey.
Ripie'r (s. a local word) One who carries fish from the coast into the inland country. Phil.
RIP'LEY (s.) A town in Yorkshire; it has a market on Friday, and is 204 miles from London.
Rip'ley (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Ripley, made at Ripley.
Rip'ling (s. a sea term) A broken interrupted noise produced by a current on the sea coast. Falconer.
Ripp (s. a local word) A wicker or basket to carry fish. Phillips.
Rip'ped (p. from rip) Torn, lacerated, broken up, exposed to view.
Rip'pel (v. t. not so common a spelling) To ripple, to clean flax by drawing it through a kind of iron comb. Bail.
Rip'per (s. from rip) One who rips.
Rip'per (s. an old word from ripariæ) A fisherman. Ph.
Rip'per (s. a local word) A pedlar, a badger. Bailey.
Rip'ping (p. a. from rip) Tearing, lacerating.
Rip'ping (s. from the part.) The act of tearing, a laceration.
RIP'PLE (v. int. prob. from the Lat. ripa a bank) To flow over, to flow against, to fret on the surface.
Rip'ple (v. t.) To clean flax by drawing it through kind of iron rake.
Rip'pled (p. from ripple) Drawn through a kind of iron rake.
Rip'pling (p. a. from ripple) Laving as water the banks, fretting on the surface; cleaning flax by drawing it through an iron rake.
Rip'pling (s. from the adj.) The noise of water running on the coast; the act of laving or fretting on the surface; the method of cleaning flax or hemp by drawing it through a kind of iron rake.
RIP'PON (s.) A borough town in Yorkshire; it has market on Thursday, sends two members to parliament, and is 210 miles from London.
Rip'pon (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Rippon, made at Rippon.
RIPRES'SA (s. in music) A repeat.
Ript (v. t. pret. of rip) Did rip.
Ript (p. from rip) Torn, lacerated.
Rip'towel (s. an old word) A gratuity or reward given by the lord of a manor to his tenants for cutting down his corn. Johnson.
RISAGAL'LUM (s. in pharmacy) The white arsenic.
RIS'BOROUGH (s.) A town in Buckinghamshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 37 miles from London.
Ris'borough (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Risborough, made at Risborough.
RISE (v. int. from the Sax. risan) To get up from a reclined posture, to get up from rest, to get up from a fall; to swell, to ascend, to move upwards; to appear in view, to come above the horizon as the sun or stars; to be excited, to be roused, to make insurrection, to make hostile attack; to increase in price; to increase in value; to come by chance, to be revived from death; to be elevated in situation, to elevate the style.
Rise (s. from the verb, the s is sounded sharp) The act of rising, an ascent, an elevation, a beginning, an original, an increase, an eruption, a swell, an overflowing of water, the first appearance of the sun or stars

R I V

stars in the heavens, an advance of price, an increase in value.

Rife (s. obsolete) Beauty. Chaucer.

Ris'en (p. from rise) Gotten up from an inclined posture, elevated, gotten above the horizon, increased in price, increased in value, revived from the dead.

Ris'er (s. from rise) One that rises; that part on which a step or stair is raised.

Rishe (s. an old spelling) A rush. Chaucer.

Risibility (s. from risible) The quality of being risible, laughableness.

RISIBLE (adj. from the Lat. rideo risus to laugh) Having the power of laughing, capable of laughing, laughable, exciting laughter.

Ris'ing (p. a. from rise) Getting up from an inclined posture, getting above the horizon, elevating, increasing in price or value, reviving from the dead, forming into a tumultuous or hostile assembly.

Ris'ing (s. from the part.) The act of getting up from an inclined posture, an elevation, an eminence; an appearance above the horizon; an advance of price or value; an hostile or tumultuous assembly, a revival from the dead; one of the upright timbers that support the decks of a ship.

Ris'ing (s. a local word) Barm. Phillips.

Ris'ingline (s. in ship building) An incurved line drawn on the plane of the elevation which determines the floor timbers and the figure of the bottom.

RISK (s. from the French risque) A hazard, a chance, danger.

Risk (v. t. from the sub.) To hazard, to endanger, to put to chance.

Risk'ed (p. from risk) Hazarded, put to chance.

Risk'er (s. from risk) One who risks.

Risk'ing (p. a. from risk) Hazarding, putting to chance.

RISQUE (s. from the French) Risk, hazard.

Ris (v. int. the old pret. of rise) Did rise, rose. B. Job.

RIS'SAH (s. from the Heb. signifying distillation) The name of a place in the wilderness through which the Israelites passed in their way to Canaan.

RISSOLE (s. in cookery, from the French) A kind of minced pie.

Ris't (v. int. the old pret. of rise) Did rise, rose. Ch.

RI'SUS SARDO'NICUS (s. with physicians, from the Lat.) A contraction of each jaw which produces a convulsive kind of grinning.

RITE (s. from the Lat. ritus) A solemn act of religion, an external observance.

RITERNEL'LO (s. in music) The burden of a song.

Ritt (v. int. the old pret. of rid) Did ride, rode. Chau.

Rit'ual (adj. from rite) Belonging to some religious rite, religiously ceremonious.

Rit'ual (s. from the adj.) A book in which religious rites are set down and determined.

Rit'ualist (s. from ritual) One skilled in the ritual.

RI'VAGE (s. from the French, but not in use) A bank, a coast. Shakespeare.

Ri'vage (s. obsolete) The banks of a river; a voyage by water. Chaucer.

RI'VAL (s. from the Lat. rivalis) A competitor, one who is in pursuit of the same thing with another; a competitor in love.

Ri'val (adj. from the sub.) Emulous, standing in competition, making the same claim.

Ri'val (v. t. from the sub.) To oppose as a competitor, to stand in competition with another, to emulate, to endeavour to equal or excel.

Ri'val (v. int. but not used of late) To act the part of a competitor. Shakespeare.

Ri'valed (p. from rival) Opposed by a competitor.

Ri'valing (p. a. from rival) Opposing as a competitor, standing in competition, emulating, endeavouring to equal or excel.

Rival'ity (s. from rival, but not much used) Competition, rivalry. Johnson.

Ri'valry (s. from rival) Competition, emulation.

Ri'valship (s. from rival) The state or condition of a rival.

Ri'valty (s. from rival, but little used) Rivalry. Scott.

RIVE (v. t. from the Sax. ryft broken) To split, to cleave, to force asunder, to thrust, to stab; but this sense is now grown obsolete. Chaucer.

Rive (v. int.) To part asunder, to fall into pieces, to become shivered.

Rive (v. t. not used) To point, to direct. Shakespeare.

Ri'ved (p. from rive) Riven, rent.

RIV'EL (v. t. from the Sax. gerified rumpel) To draw up into wrinkles.

Riv'eled (p. from rivel) Drawn up in wrinkles.

R O A

Riv'eling (p. a. from rivel) Drawing up in wrinkles.

Riv'eling (adj. but now grown obsolete) Wrinkled.

Riv'en (p. from rive) Split, cloven, forced asunder.

Riv'er (s. from the Lat. rivus) A stream of fresh water, a current of water larger than a brook, a current of water running in a channel from its source into the sea.

Riv'er (adj. from the sub. sometimes used in composition) Belonging to a river, produced in a river.

Riv'erdragon (s. from river, and dragon) The codile.

Riv'ergod (s. from river, and god) A supposed divinity presiding over rivers.

Riv'erhorie (s. from river, and horse) The hippopotamus.

Riv'et (s. from rive) A pin clinched at both ends.

Riv'et (v. t. from the sub.) To fasten with a pin clinched at both ends; to fasten strongly, to fix immovably.

Riv'etted (p. from rivet) Fastened with a rivet; fast immovably.

Riv'etting (p. a. from rivet) Fastening with a rivet, fixing firmly.

RIVINA, RIVIN'IA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

RIVULET (s. from the Lat. rivulus) A little river, little brook.

RIXATION (s. from the Lat. rixor to brawl) A quarrel, a scolding.

RIX'DOLLAR (s.) A German silver coin in value about four shillings and sixpence.

RIZ'PAH (s. from the Heb. signifying extension) A woman's name.

ROACH (s. in ichthyology) The name of a well known river fish.

Roach (adj. from the sub. sometimes used in composition) Belonging to the roach, fit for the roach.

ROACH (adj. from the French roche a rock) Belonging to a kind of alum.

Roach (v. t. from the adj.) To crystalize alum.

Roach'ed (p. from roach) Crystalized as alum.

Roach'fishing (s. from roach, and fishing) The method of fishing for roach.

Roach'hook (s. from roach, and hook) A hook for catching roach.

Roach'ing (p. a. from roach) Crystalizing alum.

Roach'ing (s. from the adj.) The last process in making alum, the crystalizing of alum.

ROAD (s. from the French rode) A path, a way, a large public way; the ground where ships may anchor, an inroad, an incursion; a journey.

Road'er (s. a sea term) A ship riding at anchor, a ship lying in the road.

ROAM (v. int. the derivation is uncertain) To wander without any certain purpose, to ramble, to rove.

Roam (v. t.) To range, to wander over.

Roam'er (s. from roam) One that roams.

Roam'ing (p. a. from roam) Wandering, roving.

ROAN (adj. from the French rouan) Bay sorrel or bay mixed with gray or white spots.

Roan (s. from the adj.) A variegated colour, the colour composed of bay sorrel or black plentifully mingled with gray or white spots.

ROAR (v. int. from the Sax. roran) To cry as a lion or other wild beasts; to make a loud noise, to sound the wind or sea; to cry out in great distress, to raise a clamour of mirth.

Roar (s. from the verb) The cry of the lion or other wild beast; an outcry of distress, a clamour of lament; a loud noise, the sound of the wind or sea.

Roar'ing (p. a. from roar) Crying out, making a great noise.

Roar'ing (s. from the part.) The cry of a lion or other wild beast; the cry of distress, a loud noise.

ROAR'Y (adj. from the Lat. rores the dew) Dewy, moist.

ROAST (v. t. from the Lat. rostrum a grate) To dress meat by putting it before the fire, to dress at the fire without water, to heat any thing violently; to roast greatly.

Roast (s. from the verb) That which is roasted; a roast, a matter in which many are concerned. "Rule the roast."

Roast (adj. from the verb) Roasted. "We live on roast meat."

Roast'ed (p. from roast) Dressed as meat at the fire without water; heated violently; teased greatly, but this sense is rather colloquial.

Roast'ing (p. a. from roast) Dressing at the fire without water, heating violently, teasing greatly.

Roast'ing (s. from the part.) The act of dressing meat at the fire without water, the act of heating violently.

ROC

(v. t. from the French rober) To deprive of, to under, to take away by unlawful violence.
 (s. in pharmacy) An inspissated juice, the juice of thing inspissated till it acquires the consistence of honey.
 and (s. a sea term) A rope band.
 (p. from rob) Plundered, deprived of any thing by unlawful violence.
 (s. from rob) A thief, a plunderer, one that robs.
 (s. from robber) Theft perpetrated by stealth and violence.
 (p. a. from rob) Thieving, plundering, taking away by unlawful violence.
 (s. from the part.) The act of taking away by theft or unlawful violence.
 (s. a sea term) Small ropes through the oilet-holes to fasten the sails to the yards.
 (s. from the French robbe) A vest that covers the whole body, a gown of state, a dress of dignity.
 (v. t. from the sub.) To dress pompously, to invest.
 (p. from robe) Dressed pompously, invested; as, "Robed in loose array."
 (s. a different spelling) A roberfman. Cole.
 (s. in old statutes) A stout bold audacious thief.
 (s.) A man's name.
 (s. in botany) The name of an herb, a kind of animum.
 (s. in church history) One of a particular order so called from one Robert their founder.
 (s. in cookery) A kind of sauce made of onions, hard butter pepper and vinegar.
 (s. in old statutes, supposed to be from Robin) A stout audacious thief, a bold daring robber.
 (s.) A man's name, the inventor of certain arts for the transmutation of figures.
 (s. from Robervol) Belonging to the arts invented by Robervol.
 (s. in antiquity, from Robigus) The festivals celebrated at Rome in honour of Robigus.
 (s. from the Lat. robigo mildew) Blast-mildew.
 (s. in heathen mythology) A supposed deity who preserved corn from mildew.
 (s. in familiar style) A man's name, Robert.
 (s. in ornithology) The redbreast, a well known bird.
 (s.) A kind of pear.
 (s.) A famous robber in the reign of Edward the first.
 (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 (s. in ornithology) The robin, the redbreast, the rubecula.
 (s. a sea term) The robbers. Ainsworth.
 (s. in physic) Medicines to strengthen the heart. Scott.
 (s. from roborantia) Medicines to strengthen the parts and give vigor to the constitution.
 (s. from the Lat. robur, but not used) Confirmation of strength. Cole.
 (s. from the Lat. robur an oak) Having the nature of an oak, made of oak.
 (s. from the Lat. robur an oak) Made of oak. Johnson.
 (s. from the Lat. robur, but not used) Oak. Cole.
 (s. from the Lat. robur an oak) Strong, vigorous, forceful; boisterous, violent; requiring strength.
 (s. from robust, now used only in droll) Robust, boisterous in contempt.
 (s. from robust) Strength, vigour.
 (s. in botany) A kind of wild garlick.
 (s. in commerce) A kind of alga used in dying blue.
 (s. supposed to be from the Sax. roc) A great kind of cloak or coat. Scott.
 (s.) A town in Lancashire: it has a market on Tuesday, and is 195 miles from London.
 (s. from the sub.) Belonging to Rochdale, at Rochdale.
 (s. from the French, but now grown obsolete) A boast. Chaucer.
 (s. in medicine, and commerce) Alum crystal, the purer sort of alum.
 (s.) A city in Kent; it is the see of a bishop, has a market on Wednesday and Friday, sends two members to parliament, and is 30 miles from London.

ROD

(s. from the sub.) Belonging to Rochester, made at Rochester.
 (s. from the French) A surplice, the white upper garment of an officiating clergyman.
 (s. in ornithology) The name of a fish, a roach.
 (s.) A town in Essex; it has a small market on Thursday, and is 41 miles from London.
 (s. from the sub.) Belonging to Rochford, made at Rochford.
 (s. from the French roche) A vast mass of stone, a very large stone; figuratively, a protection, a defence.
 (s. from the sub. frequently used in composition) Belonging to a rock.
 (s. from the Italian rocco) A distaff held in the hand from which the thread was spun by twirling a ball below.
 (v. t. from the French rocquer) To shake, to move backwards and forwards, to move the cradle; figuratively, to lull, to quiet.
 (v. int.) To move from side to side, to be violently agitated.
 (s. in confectionary) A kind of sweetmeat.
 (s. in zoology) A species of deer.
 (p. from rock) Shaken, moved from side to side; lulled, quieted.
 (s. from rock) One who rocks.
 (s. a kind of cant word with lapidaries) A kind of garnet.
 (s. from the Italian rochetto) A kind of artificial firework of a cylindrical form so constructed as to mount up to a great height in the air.
 (s. comp. of rocky) Rocky in a greater degree.
 (s. sup. of rocky) Rocky in the greatest degree.
 (s. from rocky) The state or quality of being rocky.
 (p. a. from rock) Shaking, moving from side to side, moving the cradle; lulling, quieting.
 (s. from the part.) The act of moving from side to side, the motion of a cradle, any motion like that of a cradle.
 (s.) A town in Northamptonshire; it has a market on Thursday, and is 85 miles from London.
 (s. from the sub.) Belonging to Rockingham, made at Rockingham.
 (s. from rock) Void of rocks.
 (s. from rock, and pigeon) A kind of pigeon which builds in the rocks by the sea coast.
 (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
 (s. from rock, and salt) A mineral salt.
 (s. from rock, and water) Fine clear water issuing from a rock.
 (s. from rock, and work) Masonry representing the asperities of rocks.
 (s. from rock) Full of rocks, abounding with rocks, resembling rocks; hard, stoney, odurate.
 (s. from the Dutch roede) A long twig, any thing long and slender; an instrument of measuring, an instrument of correction.
 (s. from the French) An ancient fine for passing with a cart through a lordship. Cole.
 (v. int. pret. of ride) Did ride.
 (s. a local word) Complexion. Bailey.
 (s. obsolete) The cross. Chaucer.
 (s.) A man's name.
 (s. in ornithology) A kind of water fowl something less than a duck.
 (s. from the Sax.) A man's name.
 (s. an old word) A tenant who held lands by service on horseback.
 (s. with fowlers) A net to catch blackbirds, snipes, or woodcocks.
 (s.) A man's name.
 (s. from Rodomonte) A vain blustering fellow. Cole.
 (s. from Rodomonte) Empty bluster, rant.
 (v. int. from the sub.) To make an empty boast.
 (p. a. from rodomontade) Talking in an empty boasting manner.
 (s. a different spelling) Rodomontade.
 (s.) A fictitious name of a boasting blustering hero.

ROL

Rodondel'us (s. in old records) A roundel; an old riding coat.
 Ro'dy (adj. obsolete) Ruddy. Chaucer.
 Ro'dylefs (adj. obsolete) Void of colour, pale. Chaucer.
 ROE (s. from the Sax. ra) A kind of deer.
 Roe (in ichthyology) The spawn of fish; the milt, the spawn.
 Roe'buck (s. from roe, and buck) The male of the roe.
 ROEL'LA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 Rose (v. t. the old pret. of rive) Did rive.
 Rosetile (s. an old spelling) A ridgetile, a roof tile, a crest-tile. Cole.
 RO'GA (s. in antiquity) A present from a sovereign to a subject; the common pay of a soldier.
 RO'GAE (s. plu. of roga) The gifts of emperors and other sovereigns to their subjects.
 Ro'gal (adj. from rogas) Belonging to a funeral pile.
 Rogal'ian (adj. from rogal) Rogal, belonging to a funeral pile. Cole.
 ROGA'TION (s. from the Lat. rogo to pray) A desire, a prayer, a litany.
 Rogat'ionday (s. from rogation, and day) One of the fast days in the week preceding Whitsunday.
 Rogat'ionweek (s. from rogation, and week) The week immediately preceding Whitsunday, so called on account of extraordinary prayers and processions then made for the preservation of the fruits of the earth.
 Rogatist (s. in church history) One of the moderate sort of Donatists.
 RO'GER (s.) A man's name.
 ROG'er (s. an old word) A cloakbag. Bailey.
 Rogg (v. t. obsolete) To rock. Chaucer.
 RO'GITATE (v. int. from the Lat. rogitto, but not used) To ask often. Cole.
 ROGUE (s. of uncertain etymology) A knave, a villain, a dishonest fellow; a vagrant, a wandering beggar; a wag; a name of slight endearment. "Alas, poor rogue."
 Rogue (v. int. from the sub.) To act the part of a knave, to play the vagabond.
 Ro'guery (s. from rogue) The life of a rogue, the tricks of a rogue; waggery, arch tricks.
 Ro'gueship (s. from rogue) The qualities or state of a rogue.
 Ro'gues yarn (s. a sea term) Rope yarn.
 Ro'guing (p. a. from rogue) Playing the part of a rogue.
 Ro'guish (adj. from rogue) Knavish, fraudulent; vagrant, vagabond; waggish, wanton, slightly mischievous.
 Ro'guishly (adv. from roguish) In a roguish manner.
 Ro'guishness (s. from roguish) The state of being roguish.
 RO'GUS (s. from the Lat.) A funeral pile.
 Ro'guy (adj. from rogue, but not to be imitated) Knavish, roguish. LFStrange.
 Ro'hob (s. from rob) The rob, an inspissated juice.
 Ro'valiche (adj. obsolete) Royally. Chaucer.
 Roig'nous (adj. obsolete) Ruinous. Chaucer.
 Roile (v. int. obsolete) To range, to rove. Cole.
 Roill (v. int. obsolete) To wander, to rove. Chaucer.
 Roin (s. obsolete) A scab. Chaucer.
 Roin'ous (adj. obsolete, from roin) Scabby. Chaucer.
 ROIST (v. int. probably from the Islandick rister a violent man) To bluster, to act at discretion, to be at free quarters.
 Roist'er (v. int. from roist) To roist, to bluster.
 Roist'er (s. from the verb) A turbulent blustering brutal fellow.
 Roist'erer (s. from roister) A turbulent brutish blustering fellow. Johnson.
 Roist'ering (p. a. from roister) Blustering; acting at discretion. Swift.
 Roist'ing (p. a. from roist) Blustering, acting at discretion. Shakespeare.
 Roke (s. a local word) A great sweat. Phillips.
 Ro'kette (s. obsolete) A frock. Chaucer.
 Ro'king (p. a. an old spelling) Rocking. Chaucer.
 Role (s. not so common a spelling) A roll, a bundle. Bailey.
 ROLL (v. t. from the Lat. roto to turn round) To move any thing round on its axis, to move in a circle; to enwrap, to involve; to form by rolling; to pour in a stream of waves.
 Roll (v. int.) To turn on wheels, to perform a revolution; to fluctuate, to move as waves of water; to move on tumultuously.
 Roll (s. from the verb) A bundle of any thing rolled up together, that which is formed by rolling; the act of rolling, the state of being rolled; a writing rolled on itself, a public writing, a record, a catalogue, a register, a chronicle; any thing rolling, a round cylindrical body drawn over any surface to make it smooth, a roller; a part, an office, a warrant; but these senses are now grown obsolete. Shakespeare.

ROM

 Roll'able (adj. from roll) Capable of being rolled.
 Roll'ed (p. from roll) Turned round, enwrapped, made up by rolling, pressed by a roller.
 Roll'er (s. from roll) Any thing that turns round on its own axis, a cylindrical stone or other substance to level the surface of the ground; a bandage, a fillet.
 Roll'ing (p. a. from roll) Turning round, moving in a circle, performing a revolution, fluctuating, moving on as waves in succession; enwrapping; involving, making up in rolls.
 Roll'ing (s. from the part.) The act of revolving, the process of pressing the surface by means of a roller.
 Roll'ingpin (s. from rolling, and pin) The cylindrical pin with which paste is rolled.
 Roll'ingpress (s. from rolling, and press) A press for printing pictures on a copperplate.
 ROL'LO (s.) A man's name.
 Rolls (s. from roll) The office where the records of a chancery are kept.
 Roll'ypooly (s. from roll) A kind of unlawful game in which a ball is thrown on the ground to run into a certain place in order to win.
 ROM'AGE (s. from the French ramage) A tumult, a battle, an active tumultuous search for any thing.
 ROMAN'TIE'ZER (s. from the Heb. signifying the station of help) A man's name.
 Ro'man (adj. from Rome) Belonging to Rome, belonging to the people of Rome; popish, professing the religion of the papists.
 Ro'man (s. from the adj.) A native of Rome, one of the people of Rome; a papist, one who professes the religion of the pope.
 Ro'manbeam (s.) The stilliards.
 ROMAN'CE (s. from the French, roman) A kind of tale, a tale of wild adventures in war or love; a fiction.
 Roman'ce (v. int. from the sub.) To forge, to lie, to tell strange stories.
 Roman'cer (s. from romance) A liar, one who tells strange stories.
 Roman'cing (p. a. from romance) Telling lies, telling strange stories.
 Roman'cist (s. from romance) A writer of romance.
 ROMA'NIA (s. from Rome) A province of the provinces in Italy; the modern name of the modern Thracians.
 Ro'manist (s. from Roman) A papist, one who professes the religion of the church of Rome.
 Ro'manize (v. t. from Roman) To latinize, to fill with the idioms of the Latin tongue.
 Ro'manized (p. from romanize) Latinized, filled with the idioms of the Roman language.
 Ro'manizing (p. a. from romanize) Latinizing, filling with the modes of the Roman language.
 Ro'mans (s. from Roman) The people of Rome; the title of one of Paul's epistles.
 Ro'mant (s. from Roman) The politer dialect of the French language. Diff. of French.
 Ro'mant (s. obsolete) A romance. Urry's Class.
 Roman'tic (adj. from romance) Wild, improbable, resembling romance; fanciful; false, fictitious.
 Roman'tick (adj. the less modern spelling) Romantic.
 Roman'ticness (s. from romantic) The state of being romantic.
 Roman'nce (s. an old spelling) A romance. Chaucer.
 Romau'nt (s. obsolete) A romance, a tale. Chaucer.
 Romboy'led (adv. an old word) With a warrant, posed to have been founded by Romulus, and the mistress of the world.
 Ro'mer (adj. obsolete) Larger, wider.
 Ro'mescot (s. an old word) Rome'scot, peterpence.
 Ro'mescot (s. from Rome, and scot) Peterpence.
 Ro'min (v. int. obsolete) To roam.
 Ro'mir (adj. obsolete) Wider larger.
 Ro'mish (adj. from Rome) Popish, adhering to the religion of the papists.
 ROM'NEY (s.) A town in Kent; it is one of the ports, has a market on Thursday, sends two members to parliament, and is 70 miles from London.
 Rom'ney (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Romney, made at Romney.
 ROMP (s. the derivation is not noted) A rude boisterous untaught girl; rough rude play.
 Romp (v. int. from the sub.) To play rudely, to play with a kind of noisy violence.

R O O

R O S

rope (s. in heraldry) Broken, having the upper part off.
romp (adj. in heraldry) Rompee. DiEt. of Arts.
romping (p. a. from romp) Playing rudely, playing with a kind of noisy violence.
rough (s. from the adj.) A rough kind of play.
rough (adj. from romp) Inclined to rough play.
ROULUS (s.) A man's name, the supposed founder of Rome.
round (s. an old word) A round target. Cole.
rounder (s. from rondache) One that bears a round target. Cole.
roudeau (s. in poetry and music) A kind of ancient poetry commonly consisting of thirteen lines of which eight have one rhyme, and five another, divided into couplets, and at the end of the second and third the beginning of the piece is repeated if possible in an equivocal sense; any song or tune which ends with the first strain.
rouel (s. in fortification) A kind of round tower. Cole.
rouel (s. in music) A roundelay.
rouel (s. in heraldry) A round ball, a rondle.
rouel/tia (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
rouel'er (s. an old word) One who uses a round target, one who makes round targets. Cole.
rouel (s. obsolete) A roundelay. Chaucer.
rouel (s. in heraldry) The representation of a roundel. Peacocks.
roue (v. int. pret. obsolete) Rained, did rain. Chaucer.
roue (v. int. pret. obsolete) Did ring, rung. Chaucer.
roue (s. obsolete) The round of a ladder. Chaucer.
roue (v. int. pret. obsolete) Rung, did ring. Chaucer.
roue (s. a different spelling) A ronyon. Johnson.
roue (s. the derivation is not noted) An animal stunted in the growth. Spenser.
roue (s.) A kind of pear.
roue (s. of unknown derivation) A fat woman. Shak.
roue (s. from rod) The fourth part of an acre; a pole or perch.
roue (s. from the Sax. rode) The cross.
roue (v. int. the old pret. of ride) Did ride. Chaucer.
roue (s. obsolete) The cross. Chaucer.
roue (s. obsolete) The cross. Chaucer.
roue (s. from food, and lost) The shrine on which the crucifix was placed in churches. Phillips.
roue (s. from the Sax. hroft) The cover of a house, the upper part of a building which keeps out the rain; the vault, the inside of an arch that covers a building; the palate, the upper part of the mouth.
roue (v. t. from the sub.) To cover with a roof, to inclose a house.
roue (p. from roof) Covered with a roof.
roue (p. a. from roof) Covering with a roof.
roue (v. t. pret. of roof) Roofed, did roof.
roue (v. t. from roof, and tile) A cretile, a tile to put in the upper part of a roof.
roue (s. from roof, and tree) One of the timbers which go from the half deck to the forecabin of a ship.
roue (adj. from roof) Furnished with roofs, having roofs.
roue (s. in ornithology, from the Sax. hroc) A species of black corvus, a well known bird; a cheat, a tricking fellow.
roue (s. from the Italian rocco) A mean man at the game of chess.
roue (v. int. from the sub.) To act the part of a cheat, to rob.
roue (s. from rook) The place where rooks build and hatch their young.
roue (p. a. from rook) Cheating, robbing.
roue (adj. from rook) Inhabited by rooks.
roue (s. from the Sax. rum) Space, extent of space, place or space unoccupied; the place of another, undistracted opportunity; an apartment in a house, a part of an house inclosed within partitions. Wotton.
roue (s. from room) Space, place.
roue (s. from room) A very large ship.
roue (adj. comp. of roomy) Roomy in a greater degree.
roue (adj. sup. of roomy) Roomy in the greatest degree.
roue (s. from roomy) The state or quality of being roomy.
roue (adj. from room) Spacious, wide, large.
roue (s. a local word) Hoarseness. Bailey.
roue (s.) An East-India coin in value two shillings and sixpence. Cole.
roue (s. an old word) An uproar. Bailey.
roue (v. int. the old pret. of rise) Did rise, rose. Chau.

ROOST (s. from the Sax. hroast) That on which a bird sits to sleep; a state of sleep.
Roost (v. int. from the sub.) To sleep as a bird; to lodge in droll style.
Roosting (p. a. from roost) Sleeping as a bird, lodging in droll style.
ROOT (s. from the Swedish rot) That part of a plant which strikes into the ground, that part of a plant from which the stem receives its nourishment; a plant of which the root is eatable; the bottom, the lower part; the original, the first cause, the first ancestor; impression, durable effect, fixed residence.
Root (v. int. from the sub.) To take root, to strike far into the earth; to search in the earth.
Root (v. t.) To fix deep in the earth, to impress deeply; to turn up out of the ground, to radicate, to destroy; with out, and up: "We must root him out." "Root up wild olives."
Rooted (p. from root) Fixed as a root in the ground, impressed deeply; with in; as, "It was deeply rooted in the heart."
Rooted (adj. from the part.) Fixed, radical.
Rootedly (adv. from rooted) Deeply, strongly.
Rooting (p. a. from root) Taking root, fixing in the ground; searching into the earth; radicating, extirpating; with in, and up, or out; as, "It was rooting itself in the memory." "They were rooting up all the trees in the garden."
Rooting (s. from root) The small root of a plant.
Rooty (adj. from root) Full of roots.
ROOVE (s. in commerce) The arrobas, a foreign weight from ten to forty pounds. Phillips.
ROPE (s. from the Sax. rap) A cord, a string, a halter; any row of things depending; an intestine; any thing resembling a cord.
Rope (v. int. from the sub.) To draw out in a line as viscous matter by pulling, to become ropy.
Ropeband (s. a sea term) A piece of small rope or braided cordage to fasten the sail to the yard.
Ropedancer (s. from rope, and dancer) An artist who dances on a rope.
Ropedancing (adj. from ropedancer) Dancing on a rope.
Ropedancing (s. from the adj.) The act of a ropedancer, the exhibition of a ropedancer.
Ropemaker (s. from rope, and maker) One that makes ropes.
Ropen (v. t. an old word) To reap. Cole.
Ropen (p. obsolete) Reaped. Chaucer.
Roper (s. from rope) A ropemaker. Scott.
Ropery (s. from rope) Roguery. Shakespeare.
Ropetrick (s. from rope, and trick) A trick that deserves the halter. Shakespeare.
Ropewalk (s. from rope, and walk) The place or walk where ropes are made.
Ropewort (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
Ropeyarn (s. a sea term) The untwisted yarn of a rope.
Ropier (adj. comp. of ropy) Ropy in a greater degree.
Ropiest (adj. sup. of ropy) Ropy in the greatest degree.
Ropinests (s. from ropy) The state or quality of being ropy.
Ropish (adj. from rope) Ropy, tending to ropiness. Scott.
Ropishness (s. from ropish) The state or quality of being ropy.
Ropy (adj. from rope) Tenacious, glutinous, viscous.
ROQUELAURE (s. from the French) A man's cloak. Gay.
Roquelo (s. a different spelling) A roquelaure, a kind of cloak for men.
RO'RAL (adj. from the Lat. ros roris dew) Dewy. Cole.
RORATION (s. from the Lat. ros roris dew) The falling of the dew.
RO'RID (adj. from the Lat. ros roris dew) Dewy.
RORIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. ros due, and fero) Producing dew.
RORIFLUENT (adj. from the Lat. ros due, and fluo) Flowing with due.
RORIFLUOUS (adj. from rorifluent) Flowing with due. Sc.
RORIGENOUS (adj. from the Lat. ros dew, and gigno) Produced of dew.
RO'RULENT (adj. from the Lat. rorulentus) Full of dew.
ROS (s. from the Lat.) The dew; a kind of moisture by which the animal frame is cherished.
RO'SA (s. in botany, from the Lat.) A rose.
Ros'acious (s. from rosa) Composed of several petals or flower leaves disposed after the manner of the rose.
Ros'ade (s.) A liquor made of pounded almonds milk and sugar. Rosalia

ROS

Rosa'lia (s. in physic) A disease resembling the measles incident to young children.

ROS'AMUND (s. from the Lat. rosa a rose, and mundus the world) The name of a woman.

ROS'ARY (s. from the Lat. rosarium) The bunch of beads on which the papists number their prayers; a mass or form of devotion addressed to the Virgin Mary.

ROS'SASO'LIS (s. from the Lat. ros dew, and sol splits the sun) A pleasant kind of liquor made of brandy, cinnamon, sugar and other ingredients.

ROSA'TUM (s. from the Lat.) Wine in which rose leaves have been infused.

Ros'cid (adj. from ros) Dewy, abounding with dew.

ROS'CIUS (s.) A man's name, a famous actor who taught Cicero the art of pronunciation, and action.

ROSCOMMON (s.) An inland county of Ireland.

Rose (s. from rosa) A well known shrub, the flower of the shrub. "Under the rose," in private, between friends.

Rose (adj. from the sub. much used in composition) Belonging to the rose.

ROSE (s.) The name of a woman.

Rose (v. int. pret. of rise) Did rise.

Ros'ciate (adj. from rose) Rosy, full of roses; blooming, fragrant; purple, having the colour of a rose.

Ros'ebud (s. from rose, and bud) The bud of a rose, the flower of the rose just appearing.

Ros'ebush (s. from rose, and bush) The rose tree.

Ros'e'copper (s. from rose, and copper) A fine kind of copper, copper well refined.

Ros'ed (adj. from rose) Flushed, crimsoned, painted with the colour of a rose.

Ros'e'leaf (s. from rose, and leaf) The leaf of a rose.

Ros'e'leaves (s. plu. of rose'leaf) The leaves of roses.

Ros'elly (adj. a different spelling) Roselly. Johnson.

Ros'emallow (s. in botany) The larger mallow.

Ros'emary (s. in botany) The name of a medicinal and fragrant shrub.

Ros'emarybush (s. from rosemary, and bush) The rosemary.

Ros'emaryflower (s. from rosemary, and flower) The flower of the rosemary.

Ros'emarytree (s. from rosemary, and tree) The rosemarybush.

Ros'en (adj. obsolete) Rosy. Chaucer.

Ros'enoble (s.) An old English coin in value sixteen shillings and eight pence.

Ros'eppear (s.) A kind of pear. Bailey.

Ros'eplat (s. from rose, and plat) A bed of roses. Cole.

Ros'ere (s. obsolete) A bed of roses. Cole.

Ros'ered (adj. obsolete) Red as a rose. Chaucer.

Ros'eroyal (s.) An ancient gold coin in value one pound ten shillings.

Ros'et (s. from rose) A red colour used in painting.

ROSETUM (s. from the Lat.) A garden of roses.

Ros'ewater (s. from rose, and water) Water distilled from roses.

Ros'ewood (s. from rose, and wood) A kind of shrub; the rodium.

Ros'ewort (s. in botany) The name of an herb.

ROSH (s. from the Heb. signifying the head) A man's name.

Ros'ial (adj. an old word) Red, having the colour of a rose. Cole.

ROSICRU'CIAN (s.) One of the sect of hermetical philosophers who styled themselves brothers of the holy cross.

RO'SIER (s. from the French) A rosebush.

Ros'ier (adj. comp. of rosy) Rosy in a greater degree.

Ros'iere (s. obsolete) The rosebush. Spenser.

Ros'iest (adj. sup. of rosy) Rosy in the greatest degree. Bailey.

Ros'il (s. a different spelling) Rosel. Bailey.

Ros'illy (adj. a different spelling) Roselly. Bailey.

Ros'in (s. not so correct a spelling) Resin, the inspissated juice of the pine, any inspissated juice of vegetables which will dissolve in spirits. Chaucer.

Ros'in (adj. obsolete) Rosy.

Ros'in (v. t. from the sub.) To rub with rosin.

Ros'ined (p. from rosin) Rubbed with rosin.

Ros'ingredde (adj. obsolete) Red as a rose. Chaucer.

Ros'ining (p. a. from rosin) Rubbing with rosin.

Ros'iny (adj. from rosin) Abounding with rosin, resembling rosin.

RO'SION (s. from the Lat. rodo to gnaw) A gnawing. Bailey.

Ros'ir (s. obsolete) The rosebush. Chaucer.

Ros'land (s. a local word) Heathy land, watery moorish land. Bailey.

ROT

Ro'soth (s. a local word) The dung of black cattle.

ROSS (s.) A county in Scotland.

ROSS (s.) A town in Herefordshire; it has a market Thursday, and is 119 miles from London.

Rofs (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Rofs, made of Rofs.

ROSSA'LIA (s. with physicians) A kind of cutaneous eruption, red spots breaking out in the skin.

ROSSE (s.) A port town in Ireland about 20 miles west of Kinsale.

ROS'SEL (s. the derivation is not noted) A light kind of land.

Ros'selly (adj. from rossil) Light as to soil.

Ros'sily (adj. a different spelling) Roselly.

ROSS'OLIS (s. from the Lat. ros dew, and sol splits the sun) The sun dew, a pleasant kind of liquor made of brandy, sugar, cinnamon, and other ingredients.

Ros'ed (adj. a colloquial and cant word) Arrested, taken into custody.

Ros'ing (s. a different spelling) Roasting, the act of roasting.

Ros'trated (adj. from rostrum) Adorned with the beak of ships; furnished with a beak.

Rostr'ation (s. from rostrum) The act of putting in the bill.

ROS'TRIFORM (adj. from the Lat. rostrum a beak, and forma a form) Having the form of a beak.

ROS'TRIFORMIS (s. in anatomy) The coracoides, the shoulder blade.

ROS'TRUM (s. from the Lat.) The beak of a bird, the beak of a ship; a kind of pulpit made of the prow of a ship, the place from which the orators were wont to make their harangues to the people; the pipe which conveys the distilled liquor into the receiver in a common alembic.

ROS'TRUM (s. in surgery) A crooked pair of scissors used in the dilatation of wounds.

Ros'ry (adj. from rose) Having the bloom of a rose.

Ros'sy (adv. from the adj.) With some resemblance to rose, with the bloom of a rose. "So rosy colour Helen is the pride of Lacedemon."

Ros'ycrucian (s. a different spelling) A rosicrucian. D. of A.

ROT (v. int. from the Sax. rotan) To putrify, to lose the cohesion of parts, to become rotten.

Rot (v. t.) To make putrid, to bring to corruption.

Rot (s. from the verb) A distemper incident to sheep and some other animals in which the liver is wasted, putrefaction, rottenness.

Rot (s. an old word) A file of soldiers.

Ro'ta (s. from the Lat.) A wheel, the first jurisdiction of the court of Rome; a list, a list of persons who are to serve in turn.

Ro'tan (s. a cant word) A carriage, a cart.

Ro'tary (adj. from rota) Turning round as a wheel.

Ro'tated (adj. from rota) Turned round as a wheel.

Ro'tation (s. from rota) The act of turning round as a wheel, the state of being turned round as a wheel, a revolution, the act of taking any thing in turn.

Ro'tator (s. from rota) That which gives a circular motion.

ROTATO'RES (s. in anatomy) The oblique muscles of the eye.

Rotch'ette (s. obsolete) A rocket, a bishop's rocket, a kind of frock, a short coat formerly worn. Chaucer.

ROTE (s. from the French routine) Words uttered by mere memory, the memory of words without knowing their meaning.

Rote (v. t. from the sub.) To fix in the memory without informing the understanding.

Rote (s. an obsolete spelling) A root.

Rote (s. from the old French, obsolete) A harp.

Ro'ted (p. from rote) Fixed in the memory only, by heart without understanding the meaning.

Rot'ed (p. obsolete) Rotted, rotten.

Rot'gut (s. a cant word) Bad beer.

Roth (s. obsolete) Pity.

Roth'er (s. an obsolete spelling) A rudder.

Roth'erbeasts (s. in old statutes, and still used in the north of England) Horned cattle, black cattle.

ROTH'ERHAM (s.) A town in Yorkshire; it has a market on Monday, and is 163 miles from London.

Roth'erham (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Rotherham, made at Rotherham.

Roth'er nail (s. from rother, and nail) A nail with a large head used in fastening the rudderiron.

Roth'er soil (s. a local word) The dung of black cattle.

Roth'ir (s. an obsolete spelling) A rudder. ROTH'S

ROU

RU'SAY (s.) A parliament town in Scotland situate the Isle of Bute.

RU'WELL (s.) A town in Northamptonshire; it has market on Monday, and is 77 miles from London.

ru'well (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Rothwell, made at Rothwell.

ru'id (adj. an old spelling) Rooted. Cb.

ru'ing (p. a. from rote) Fixing in the memory without informing the understanding. Cb.

ru'ing (p. obsolete) Rotten.

RU'ON'DO (s. a different spelling) A retundo; the ancient pantheon at Rome.

ru'ed (p. from rot) Rotten, decayed.

RU'ELLO (s. from the Italian) A weight consisting of four pounds and odd ounces.

ru'en (p. from rot) Putrified, rotted.

ru'eness (s. from rotten) The state of being rotten, putrefaction.

RU'ETERDAM (s.) A city of the United Provinces situate about thirty miles south of Amsterdam.

ru'ing (p. a. from rot) Putrefying, turning to putrefaction, decaying.

RU'ULA (s. in anatomy, from the Lat.) The bone of the kneecap.

RU'ULUS (s. from the Lat.) A roll, a book or writing after the manner of a roll.

RU'UND (s. from the Lat. rotundus) A round, a round building, a rotundo.

RU'UNDIFOLIOLUS (adj. from the Lat. rotundus and, and folium a leaf) Having round leaves.

ru'ndity (s. from rotund) Roundness, sphericity.

RU'UNDO (s. from the Lat. rotundus round) A building in a circular form both within and without.

RU'UNDUS (s. in anatomy) The name of several vessels so called from their circular form.

ru'adj. an old word) Ugly, froward. Phillips.

ru' (v. int. from the Dutch roffer) To ramble, to range, to wander.

ru' (v. t.) To wander over.

ru' (s. from rove) One that roves, a wanderer; a restless man; a robber, a pirate. "At rovers," without any particular aim. "This is a sort of shooting at rovers." Addison.

RU'GE (s. from the French) Red paint.

RU'GROIS (s.) The name of one of the heralds or purveyors at arms.

RU'EDRAGON (s.) The name of one of the purveyors at arms.

RU'GH (adj. from the Sax. hrug) Rugged, uneven on surface; hard featured, indelicate; coarse, harsh, rude, severe; harsh to the taste, ungrateful to the ear; unpolished, unrefined by art; tempestuous; stormy; terrible, dreadful.

ru' (s. from the adj.) The state of being unpolished.

ru'cast (s. from rough, and cast) A rude model, a cast in its first principles; a kind of plaster with qualities on the surface.

ru'cast (v. t. from the sub.) To form any thing in its first rudiments, to mould without nicety; to cast with asperities, to put on a kind of rough surface.

ru'cast (v. t. pret. of the verb) Did roughcast.

ru'cast (p. from the verb) Moulded without nicety, covered with rough kind of mortar.

ru'caster (s. from roughcast) One that puts on a kind of rough mortar.

ru'casting (p. a. from roughcast) Moulding without nicety, forming with asperities, putting on a rough kind of mortar.

ru'casting (s. from the part.) The act of forming the first rudiments, the act of putting on a rough kind of mortar, the rough mortar on the surface of building.

RU'draught (s. from rough, and draught) A draught in its first rudiments.

ru'draw (v. t. from rough, and draw) To trace in outline, to delineate coarsely.

ru'drawing (p. a. from roughdraw) Delineating coarsely, drawing the first sketch.

ru'drawn (p. from roughdraw) Drawn in its first rudiments, delineated coarsely.

ru'drew (v. pret. of roughdraw) Did roughdraw.

ru'en (v. t. from rough) To make rough.

ru'en (v. int.) To grow rough.

ru'ened (p. from roughen) Made rough.

ru'ening (p. a. from roughen) Making rough, making rough.

ROU

Rough'er (adj. comp. of rough) Rough in a greater degree.

Rough'est (adj. sup. of rough) Rough in the greatest degree.

Rough'hew (v. t. from rough, and hew) To hew into the first appearance of form, to form any thing in a rough manner.

Rough'hewing (p. a. from roughhew) Hewing into the first appearance of form, forming in a rough manner.

Rough'hewn (p. from roughhew) Hewn into the first appearance of form, formed in a rough manner.

Rough'ings (s. from rough) Later pastures, the grass that comes after reaping or mowing.

Rough'ly (adv. from rough) With uneven surface, with asperities; harshly, rudely; severely, without tenderness; with austerity to the ear, with harshness to the taste; boisterously, tempestuously.

Rough'ness (s. from rough) Unevenness of surface, coarseness of features, inelegance of dress, ruggedness of temper, austerity of taste, harshness to the ear, severity, violence, boisterousness.

Rought (v. int. the old pret. of reach) Reached, did reach. Shakespeare.

Rought (v. t. pret. obsolete of rue) Did pity, had pity. Cb.

Rought (v. t. pret. obsolete of reche) Did care for, regarded. Chaucer.

Rough'tree (s. a sea term) A mast rough and unfinished, a mast or pole used occasionally.

Rough'work (v. t. from rough, and work) To work coarsely, to work without any kind of nicety.

Rough'working (p. a. from roughwork) Working coarsely.

Rough'wrought (v. t. pret. of roughwork) Did roughwork. Moxon.

Rouk, Rouk'in (v. int. obsolete) To snore; to lie down. Chau.

Roul (v. int. a military term) To mount guard and relieve each others as officers of the same rank.

Roul'ing (p. a. from roul, a military term) Relieving one another as officers of the same rank.

Roume (s. an old spelling) Room. Cb.

Roume (adj. obsolete) Round. Cb.

Roun (v. int. obsolete) To whisper. Cb.

Rounce (s. perhaps from round) The handle of a printing press.

ROUN'CEVAL (s. in gardening) A kind of pea.

Roun'cy (s. obsolete) A tit, a poney. Cb.

ROUND (adj. from the Lat. rotundus) Circular, spherical, orbicular; plain, clear, candid; consisting of unbroken parts, whole; smooth, having no defect in found; quick, brisk; large, full.

Round (s. from the adj.) A circle, a sphere, an orb; a rundle, a step of a ladder; a revolution, a circular course; a walk performed by a guard or officer.

Round (adv. from the adj.) Every way, on all sides, by an indirect course, in a revolution.

Round (prep. from the adj.) On every side of, about, all over.

Round (v. t. from the adj.) To surround, to encircle, to make spherical, to raise in relief, to mould into smoothness, to move round about any thing; to manage a horse on rounds.

Round (v. int.) To grow into a round form, to go rounds; to whisper from one to another.

Round'about (adj. from round, and about) Ample, extensive: loose, indirect.

Round'ed (p. from round) Surrounded, encircled, raised in relief, smoothed, polished, made round.

Round'el (s. from round) A roundelay; a round form, a round figure, the representation of a bell in heraldry.

Round'elay (s. from round) A kind of poetry in which the first lines are repeated at the end of the piece or stanza; a song or tune in which the first strain is repeated; a kind of dance.

Round'elet (s. a different spelling) A rundlet, a small cask.

Round'ell (s. a different spelling) A roundel, a song beginning and ending with the same sentence, a roundelay. Cb.

Round'er (adj. comp. of round) Round in a greater degree.

Round'er (s. from round) An inclosure, a circumference. Shakespeare.

Round'est (adj. sup. of round) Round in the greatest degree.

Round'head

ROW

RUB

Round-head (s. from round, and head) One of the old puritans, one of the parliament party in the time of the civil war so called from a custom which prevailed amongst them of cutting their hair in a round form.

Round-house (s. from round, and house) A kind of prison in which disorderly persons are confined for a night, the uppermost room in the stern of a ship.

Round'il (s. obsolete) A ring, a circle, any thing round. Chaucer.

Round'ing (p. a. from round) Making round, raising in relief, surrounding, performing rounds.

Round'ing (s. from the part.) The act of making round, that which is made round; something bound about a rope or cable to prevent it from fretting.

Round'ing in, Rounding up (s. a sea term) The act of pulling a rope in a direction nearly horizontal.

Round'ish (adj. from round) Tending to roundness.

Round'ly (adv. from round) In a round form, in a round manner; openly, plainly; briskly, swiftly; completely, to purpose.

Round'ness (s. from round) The state of being round, the state or quality of running smoothly.

Round'o (s. a different spelling) A roundel, a roundelay. Dict. of Arts.

Rounds (s. in masonry) The fragments of statues.

Round'plice (s. a sea term) A particular method of splicing a rope.

Round'top (s. a sea term) A round frame of boards near the top of the mast.

Roune (v. int. an old word) To cease. Cole.

Rount (s. in the manage) A kind of flesh colour.

Roup (s. from rump) A disease incident to poultry. Bai.

Roup (s. in the Scotch dialect) An auction, a public sale.

Rou'rise (v. t. an old word) To gnaw. Bailey.

Rouise (v. t. from raise) To wake from rest, to excite to thought, to stir up to action, to drive a beast from his laire; to haul in part of a rope which lies slack in the water.

Rouise (v. int.) To awake from slumber, to rise to action.

Rouise (s. from the verb) A dose of liquor rather too large.

Rouise (s. obsolete) A wile, a cunning trick. Ch.

Rou'fied (p. from rouise) Raised from sleep, excited to thought, stirred up to action, driven from a laire.

Rou'fer (s. from rouise) One that rouses.

Rou'fing (p. a. from rouise) Raising from sleep, exciting to thought, stirring up to action; pulling together without the assistance of tackle.

Rou'fing (s. from the part.) The act of raising from a state of inactivity, the act of pulling all together at a rope without the assistance of tackle.

ROUSSELET (s.) A delicious kind of small pear.

ROUSSEROLLE (s. in ornithology) The king's fisher.

ROUS'SIN (s. in the manage) A thick set well made horse.

Rou'sty (adj. an obsolete spelling) Rusty. Ch.

ROUT (s. from the Dutch, rot) A clamorous multitude, a noise, a riot, a rabble, there or more persons met together in a riotous manner; the confusion of an army dispersed, the defeat of an army; an irregular kind of assembly among great people at their own houses.

Rout (v. t. from the sub.) To put into confusion, to dissipate by defeat.

Rout (v. int.) To assemble in clamorous and tumultuous crouds.

Rout (v. int. a local word) To snore, to snort. Cole.

ROUTE (s. from the French) A road, a way, a journey.

Route (v. int. in falconry) To lift up and shake itself as a hawk.

Rout'ed (p. from rout) Defeated, thrown into confusion, dissipated.

Routhe (s. obsolete) Pity, compassion. Ch.

Routh'elese (adj. from routhe, obsolete) Having no pity, void of mercy. Ch.

Routh'ful (adj. obsolete) Pitiful, sorrowful.

Routh'fully (adv. obsolete, from routh'ful) Compassionately, sorrowfully. Ch.

Rouze (v. t. a hunting term) To raise a hart from its harbour. Scott.

Rouze (v. t. not so common a spelling) To rouse. Scott.

Rouzed (p. from rouze) Roused, raised as a hart from its harbour.

Rouzing (p. a. from rouze) Rousing.

ROW (s. from the Sax.) A rank, a file, a number of persons or things ranged in a line.

ROW (v. t. from the Sax. rofan) To impel a vessel in the water by oars.

Row (v. int.) To use oars in order to impel a vessel in the water.

Row (adj. obsolete) Rough. Ch.

Rowe (v. int. obsolete) To whisper. Ch.

Row'ed (p. from row) Impelled by oars.

Row'el (s. from the French, rouelle) The points of a spur turning on an axis.

Row'el (s. in farriery) A kind of issue, a string put into a wound to keep it from healing and provoke a discharge.

Row'el (v. t. from the sub.) To cut a kind of issue in a horse, to put a thread into a wound to keep it open and provoke a discharge.

Row'eled (p. from rowel) Furnished with a rowel.

Row'eling (p. a. from rowel) Making a rowel.

Row'en (s. in husbandry) A field kept up till Michaelmas for the waste corn to spring.

ROW'E'NA (s.) The name of a woman, the daughter of Hengist and wife of Vortigern.

Row'enhay (s. in husbandry) A second crop of hay, the second mowing.

Row'er (s. from row) One that rows, one that manages an oar.

Row'galley (s. from row and galley) A small vessel managed with oars as well as sails.

Row'ing (p. a. from row) Managing an oar, impelling a vessel with oars.

Row'ing (s. from the adj.) The act of impelling a vessel with oars; the method of smoothing cloth with a roller.

Row'inguard (s. from rowing, and guard) The guard appointed to row round the harbour or place where ships of war are laid up in ordinary.

Row'ith (s. obsolete) Pity, compassion.

Row'lack (s. from row, and lack) That part of the wale on which the oar rests in the action of rowing.

ROW'LAND (s.) A man's name.

ROWNE (v. int. from the Sax. rounian) To whisper.

Row'ney (s. an old word) A cart horse.

Row'n'ing (s. an old word) Silence, a whisper in the ear.

Row'pand (p. a. obsolete) Calling, lowing.

Rowie (v. t. not so common a spelling) To rouse, to stir up.

Rowse (v. t. a sea term) To haul or pull in.

Row'fied (p. from rowse) Pulled in.

Row'fing (p. a. from rowse) Pulling in.

Row'sing (s. from the part.) The act of pulling in; the act of driving a deer from its resting place.

Rowt (s.) A company, a number of wolves.

Rowt (v. int. a local word) To low as an ox or cow.

Rowte (s. obsolete) A rout, a company.

Rowt'y (adj. in husbandry) Rank, over rank as grass in corn.

ROY'AL (adj. from the French, roy a king) Becoming a king, regal, done by the king; noble, illustrious.

Roy'al (s. from the adj.) One of the shoots of a deer's antler.

Roy'al (s. a sea term) The highest sail of a ship.

Roy'alist (s. from royal) An adherent to a king.

Roy'alize (v. t. from royal) To make royal.

Roy'alized (p. from royalize) Made royal.

Roy'alizing (p. a. from royalize) Making royal.

Roy'ally (adv. from royal) Regally, in a manner becoming a king.

Roy'alty (s. from royal) Kingship, the office or character of a king, the state of a king, the emblem of kingly authority, a manor of which the king is lord.

ROY'ENE (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

ROY'E'NIA (s. in botany) The loeselia, a genus of plants.

Royne (v. t. from the French, rogner) To gnaw, to bite.

Roy'ned (p. from royne) Gnawn, bitten.

Roynes (s. in old records) A water course, a stream of water.

Roy'ning (p. a. from royne) Gnawing, biting.

ROY'NISH (adj. from the French, rogneux) Proud, mean, rude, clownish. Shakespeare.

Roy'ter (s. a different spelling) A roister, a rude fellow.

ROYSTON (s.) A town in Hertfordshire; it is a market on Wednesday, and is 37 miles from London.

Roy's'on (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Royston, made at Royston.

RUB (v. t. from the Brit. rhubio) To clean by rubbing, to move one body upon another, to smooth by rubbing, to touch over so as to leave something behind, to polish, to retouch, to touch hard, to obtain friction. "To rub up," to furbish, to polish.

Rub (v. int.) To fret, to make a friction; to go through difficulties.

Rub (s. from the verb) A collision, an obstruction.

RUB

RUD

of rubbing, an inequality of ground which retards motion; a difficulty, a cause of uneasiness.
RUBACE, RU'BACEL (s. in natural history) A kind of precious stone. Phillips.
RUBARB (s. a different spelling) Rhubarb. D. of A.
RUBAGE (s. from rub, but not used) Rubbish. Wotton.
RUBBED (p. from rub) Cleaned by rubbing, touched over, taken off by rubbing, polished, touched hard.
RUBBER (s. from rub) One that rubs, an instrument with which any thing is rubbed, a whetstone, a coarse file; a game, a contest, two games out of three.
RUBBING (p. a. from rub) Cleaning by friction, touching over again and again, moving one body on another, touching hard.
RUBBING (s. from the part.) The act of moving one body on another, friction.
RUBBISH (s. from rub) The ruins of buildings, fragments of stone or mortar used in building; any thing vile and refuse; a confused mingled mass.
RUBBLE (s. from rub) Rubbish, rubble stones.
RUBBLESTONE (s. from rub, and stone) Fragments of stone, unhewn stone.
RUBECULA (s. in ornithology) The red breast.
RUBELIO (s. in ichthyology) The roach.
RUBELIUS (s. in ichthyology) The roach.
RUBEO'LA (s. with physicians) A kind of smallpox, a kind of measles.
RUBET (s. from rubeta) The toadstone, a stone said to be found in the head of a toad.
RUBETA (s. in zoology) A red kind of toad, a land toad.
RUBETARIANA'TRIX (s. in zoology) A kind of water snake.
RUBETARIUS (s. in falconry) A kind of hawk.
RUBETRA (s. in ornithology) The stonechatter, a kind of bird.
RUBETUM (s. in old records) An inclosure, a ground full of brambles and rushes. Chaucer.
RUBIUS (s. obsolete) Mars direct.
RUBIA (s. in botany) The clivers.
RUBIATINCTORUM (s. in botany) The madder.
RUBIASYLVESTRII (s. in botany) The wood ruff.
RUBICAN (adj. in the manage) Mixed roan.
RUBICEL'US (s. in natural history) A pale ruby.
RUBICIL'LA (s. in ornithology) The bulfinch.
RUBICON (s. in antiquity) A pillar in the environs of Rome at which every one was to put off his armour, without which, if he passed it but ever so little, he was not suffered to retreat, but was immediately secured as a rebel and enemy to his country.
RUBICUND (adj. from the Lat. rubicundus) Inclined to redness. Johnson.
RUBICUNDITY (s. from rubicund) A disposition to redness. Scott.
RUBID (adj. from the Lat. rubidus) Reddish, red. Sc.
RUBIED (adj. from ruby) Red as a ruby. Milton.
RUBIFY (adj. from rubify) Making red.
RUBIFICK (adj. the less modern spelling) Rubific.
RUBIFIED (p. from rubify) Made red.
RUBIFORM (adj. from the Lat. ruber red, and forma a form) Having the form of red. Newton.
RUBIFY (v. t. from the Lat. ruber red, and facio to make) To make red.
RUBIFYING (p. a. from rubify) Making red.
RUBIGINOUS (adj. from rubigo) Rusty.
RUBIGALIA (s. in antiquity) A feast celebrated by the Romans in honour of Rubigus.
RUBIGO (s. from the Lat.) Rust, rustiness; mildew.
RUBIGO (s. in beaten mythology) A goddess who was supposed to preserve corn from blast or mildew.
RUBIGUS (s. in beaten mythology) A god who was supposed to preserve corn from rust or mildew.
RUBINUS (s. in natural history) The ruby.
RUBIOUS (adj. from the Lat. rubeus, but not used) Red, ruddy. Shakespeare.
RUBRIC (adj. from the Lat. rubrica) Red, marked in red.
RUBRIC (s. from the adj.) Directions in the liturgy and prayer book so called because formerly distinguished by red letters, a title or article in antient law books written in red letters. Johnson.
RUBRIC (v. t. from the adj.) To adorn with red. Johnson.
RUBRICA (s. with physicians) A kind of ringworm, a red letter.
RUBRICA (s. in natural history) Red marking stone, red oker.
RUBRICATED (adj. from rubrica) Done over with red, painted with red.
RUBRIC (s. the less modern spelling) The rubric.

RUBUS (s. in botany) The bramble.
RUBY (s. in natural history) A precious stone of a red colour.
RUBY (s. with physicians) A blain, a carbuncle.
RUBY (s. from the foregoing) A red colour, redness, any thing red; the red colour in the coats armorial of the nobility.
RUBY (adj. from the sub.) Having a red colour.
RUCK (s. in ornithology) A bird said to be of prodigious size and strength.
RUCK (v. int. a local word) To stoop down as though about to ease nature.
RUCKING (p. a. from ruck, obsolete or local) Stooping down as though about to ease nature, lying, lurking. Chaucer.
RUCKLE (v. int. a local word) To make a sort of rustling noise, to wave in small risings. Scott.
RUCKLING (p. a. from ruckle) Making a kind of rustling noise.
RUCTA'TION (s. from the Lat. ructo to belch) A belching, the act of breaking wind upwards.
RUCTUOSITY (s. from the Lat. ructuosus) A frequent eructation. Bailey.
RUD (v. t. from the Sax. rudu redness) To make red.
RUDE (s. obsolete) A colour, a bluish, ruddiness of complexion. Chaucer.
RUDDED (p. from rud) Made red. Spenser.
RUDDER (s. from the Dutch, roeder) The instrument at the stern of a vessel by which the course is governed; any thing which guides or governs a course.
RUDDER (s. a local word) A wide sort of sieve for separating the corn from the chaff.
RUDDERIRON (s. from rudder, and iron) One of the checks on the rake of the rudder.
RUDDEROPE (s. from rudder, and rope) A rope let through the stern post and the head of the rudder.
RUDIER (adj. comp. of ruddy) Ruddy in a greater degree.
RUDIEST (adj. sup. of ruddy) Ruddy in the greatest degree.
RUDINESS (s. from ruddy) The state or quality of being ruddy.
RUDLE (s. in natural history) A kind of red earth, red oker.
RUDLE (v. t. from the sub.) To mark with red oker.
RUDLED (p. from ruddle) Marked with ruddle.
RUDDLING (p. a. from ruddle) Marking with ruddle.
RUDDOC (s. from the Sax. rudu redness) The red breast; the land toad.
RUDDOCK (s. the more common spelling) The ruddoc.
RUDDY (adj. from the Sax. rudu redness) Approaching to redness, full red; yellow, having the colour of gold. Dryden.
RUDE (adj. from the Lat. rudis) Rough, savage, uncivil, brutal; violent, tempestuous, turbulent, boisterous; uneven, shapeless; artless, inelegant; done by mere strength without art.
RUDE (s. obsolete) Colour, a ruddy complexion. Chaucer.
RUDELY (adv. from rude) In a rude manner.
RUDENESS (s. from rude) Coarseness of manners, incivility; ignorance, rusticity; artlessness, inelegance; boisterousness, violence.
RUDENTURE (s. in architecture, from the Lat. rudis a rope) A member or moulding representing a rope either plain or carved.
RUDENTURED (adj. from rudenture) Furnished with rudentures.
RUDER (adj. comp. of rude) Rude in a greater degree.
RUDERARY (adj. from the Lat. rudera) Belonging to rubbish, consisting of rubbish. Johnson.
RUDERATION (s. in architecture) The method of laying a floor with pebbles or small stones.
RUDSBY (s. a low word) An uncivil turbulent fellow, a rude girl. Shakespeare.
RUDEST (adj. sup. of rude) Rude in the greatest degree.
RUDGE (s. an old spelling) A ridge, the back, the rump.
RUDGEbone (s. from rudge, and bone) The rump-bone. Bailey.
RUDGEWASHED (adj. with clothiers) Washed only on the back of the sheep.
RUDIA'RIOUS (s. in antiquity) A veteran gladiator discharged from the service.
RUDIMENT (s. from the Lat. rudimentum) The first principles, the elements of a science, the first part of education; a rough draught or origin of any thing.

RUI

Rudimen'tal (adj. from rudiment) Relating to first principles, initial.

RU'DIS (s. in antiquity) A rough knotted stick which the pretors gave to the gladiators as a mark of their freedom or dismissal.

Ru'dity (s. from rude) Ignorance. Bailey.

RUE (s. in botany, from the Lat. ruta) The name of an herb.

RUE (v. t. from the Sax. reowfian) To grieve for, to lament, to fret at.

Rue (v. t. obsolete) To pity, to compassionate. Chaucer.

Ru'ed (p. from rue) Lamented, grieved for.

Rue'ful (adj. from rue) Woeful, sorrowful.

Rue'fully (adv. from rueful) Woefully, sorrowfully.

Rue'fulness (s. from rueful) Sorrowfulness.

Ru'elbone (s.) The round bone of the knee. Scott.

RUEL'LE (s. from the French) A little street; a circle, an assembly at a private house.

RUEL'LIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

Ru'eth (s. obsolete) Pity, compassion. Chaucer.

RUFF (s. of uncertain derivation) A puckered ornament worn about the neck; a state of roughness, an unpolished state. "In the ruff of all their glory." L'Estr.

RUFF (s. in ornithology) A species of tringa; it is about the size of a jackdaw.

RUFF (s. in ichthyology) A species of perca, a small river fish.

Ruff (v. int. in falconry) To strike at the prey but not to trust it.

Ruff (v. with card players) To trump a card that is not a trump; to get the better of the game.

Ruffed (p. from ruff) Trumped.

Ruffian (s. perhaps from rough) A brutal fellow, a robber, a murderer.

Ruffian (adj. from the sub.) Brutal, savage.

Ruffian (v. int. but not used) To play the ruffian. Shak.

Ruffianly (adv. from ruffian) Like a ruffian, besitting a ruffian. Bailey.

Ruffing (p. a. from rough) Striking at the prey but not trusting it; trumping a card that is not a trump.

RUF'FLE (v. t. from the Dutch ruyffeden) To disorder, to put out of form, to disturb, to put out of temper; to contract into plaits, to wrinkle, to pucker.

Ruffle (v. int.) To grow rough, to flutter, to jar, to be in contention.

Ruffle (s. from the verb) Plaited linen used for an ornament; disturbance, contention, tumult.

Ruffled (p. from ruffle) Drawn up in plaits, made like a ruffle; disordered, put out of temper, disturbed.

Ruffler (s. a cant word) A notorious villain. Bailey.

Ruffling (p. a. from ruffle) Drawing up in plaits, putting on ruffles; putting into disorder, putting out of temper, disturbing.

Rufftree (s. an incorrect spelling) The roof-tree. Phillips.

RUFIL'LUS (s.) A man's name; a man remarkable for his softness and effeminacy. Horace.

RUFFINUS (s.) A man's name.

Ruffterhood (s. in falconry) A plain leathern hood.

Ru'ful (adj. from rue) Sorrowful. Chaucer.

RUFUS (s.) A man's name.

RUG (s. from the Swedish rugget rough) A coarse nappy kind of cloth, a coarse nappy coverlet for beds, a rough woolly dog.

RUG'BY (s.) A town in Warwickshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 85 miles from London.

Rug'by (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Rugby, made at Rugby.

RUG'ELY (s.) A town in Staffordshire; it has a market on Thursday, and is 125 miles from London.

Ru'gely (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Rugely, made at Rugely.

Rug'ged (adj. from rug) Rough, full of inequality; savage, brutal; sour, surly, discomposed; violent, rude, boisterous; harsh, ungrateful to the ear.

Rug'gedly (adv. from rugged) In a rugged manner.

Rug'gedness (s. from rugged) The state or quality of being rugged.

Ru'gin (s. in surgery) A soft kind of nappy cloth. Wifem.

RUG'INE (s. from the French) A surgeon's rasp.

RUG'LIUS (s. with physicians) A commotion, a grumbling in the intestines.

RU'GOSE (adj. from the Lat. rugosus) Full of wrinkles.

Ru'goseness (s. from rugose) The state or quality of being rugose. Scott.

Rugosity (s. from rugose) Rugoseness. Scott.

RUHA'MAH (s. from the Heb. signifying Mercy) A woman's name. Hol. 2.

RU'IN (s. from the Lat. ruina) The fall of an edifice, the destruction of a building; the remains of a building demolished; destruction, bane, mischief; the loss of fortune.

RUM

Ru'in (v. t. from the sub.) To subvert, to demolish, to impoverish, to destroy.

Ru'in (v. int.) To fall into ruins, to run to ruin, to come to poverty.

Ru'inant (adj. in fortification) Sunk, applied to a battery.

Ru'inate (v. t. from ruin) To ruin.

Ru'inated (p. from ruinate) Ruined.

Ru'inating (p. a. from ruinate) Ruining.

Ruina'tion (s. from ruinate, but now out of use) Ruination, destruction.

Ru'ined (p. from ruin) Fallen into ruins, demolished, impoverished, destroyed.

Ru'ining (p. a. from ruin) Demolishing, impoverishing, destroying.

Ru'inous (adj. from ruin) Fallen into ruin, demolished, lying in ruins; pernicious, baneful, destructive.

Ru'iously (adv. from ruinous) In a ruinous manner.

Ru'inousness (s. from ruinous) The state of being in ruins.

RULE (s. from the Lat. regula) An instrument by which lines are drawn or measured; a precept, a canon, regularity, propriety of behaviour; government, firm dominion.

Rule (v. t. from the sub.) To settle as by a rule, to manage, to govern.

Rule (v. int.) To have power, to have command.

Ru'led (p. from rule) Determined as by a rule, managed, governed.

Ru'ler (s. from rule) An instrument by which lines are drawn; a governor, one that has supreme command.

Ru'ling (p. a. from rule) Drawing lines by a ruler, managing, governing.

RUM (s. in commerce) A kind of spirits distilled from sugar.

Rum (s. a cant word) A country parson. Shak.

Rum (adj. a colloquial word) Odd, queer.

RU'MAH (s. from the Heb. signifying exalted) The name of a city. 2 Kings.

Rumb (s. a different spelling) A rhumb.

RUM'BEG (s.) The title given by the Turks to the pope.

RUM'BLE (v. int. from the Dutch rommelen) To make a hoarse low continued noise.

Rum'bler (s. from rumble) The person that rumbles, the thing that rumbles.

Rum'bling (s. a different spelling) A rumbling.

Rum'bling (p. a. from rumble) Making a kind of hoarse low continued noise.

Rum'bling (s. from the adj.) A hoarse low continued noise.

Rum'boyl (s. a cant word) The watch. Bailey.

Rum'cully (s. a cant word) A rich fool. Bailey.

Rum'dropper (s. a cant word) A vintner. Bailey.

RUME'LIA (s. in geography) The ancient Greece.

RU'MEN (s. from the Lat.) The cud of beasts, the stomach of beasts that chew the cud.

RU'MEN (s. in botany) The sorrel.

RU'MEX (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the sorrel.

RUM'FORD (s.) A town in Essex; it has a market on Tuesday and Wednesday, and is 11 miles from London.

Rum'ford (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Rumford, made at Rumford.

Rum'gutlets (s. a cant word) Canary wine. Bailey.

Rum'hooper (s. a cant word) A drawer. Bailey.

RU'MIA (s. in heathen mythology) The goddess who was supposed to preside over sucking children.

Rum'idg (v. t. an old sea term) To rummage, to search the hold of a ship.

RUMIF'ORATE (v. t. from the Lat. rumor a rumor and foras abroad, but not used) To report, to spread abroad by report. Philos.

RUMIGERATION (s. from the Lat. rumor a report, and gero to carry) The spread of a report.

Ru'minant (adj. from rumen) Chewing the cud.

RUMINATE (v. int. from the Lat. rumino) To chew the cud; to muse.

Ru'minate (v. t.) To chew over again, to muse upon.

Ru'minated (p. from ruminate) Chewed as a cud; involved in the mind.

Ru'minating (p. a. from ruminate) Chewing the cud, musing, revolving in the mind.

Rumination (s. from ruminate) The act of chewing the cud; meditation, reflection.

RU'MINAX (s. in ichthyology) The codfish.

RU'MINUS (s. in heathen mythology) One of the names of Jupiter.

RUM'MAGE (v. t. from the German roumen) To search to empty, to plunder.

Rum'mage (v. int.) To search about. Rum'mage rumaged (p. from rummage) Searched, emptied, plundered.

R U N

rumager (s. from rummage) One that rummages.
rumaging (p. a. from rummage) Searching, emptying, plundering.
rumaging (s. from the part.) The act of searching out in order to plunder.
rummer (s. from the Dutch roemer) A drinking cup, drinking glass.
rumor (s. the modern and correct spelling, from the t.) A flying report, the voice of fame.
rumor (v. t. from the sub.) To report abroad.
rumored (p. from rumor) Reported abroad.
rumorer (s. from rumor) One that spreads a report.
rumoring (p. a. from rumor) Reporting, spreading a report.
rumour (s. the less modern spelling, from the French meur) A rumor.
rumour (v. t. the less modern spelling) To rumor, to report.
rumored (p. from rumour) Rumored.
rumorer (s. from rumour) One that circulates a report.
rumoring (p. a. from rumour) Rumoring, circulating a report.
rump (s. from the German rumpff) The end of the backbone, the buttocks.
rumpia (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
rumpel (v. t. from the Dutch rumpelin) To crush out shape, to crush together in wrinkles.
rump (s. from the verb) A pucker, a rough plait, a wrinkle in a garment.
rumped (p. from rumpel) Crushed out of form, crushed together in wrinkles.
rumping (p. a. from rumpel) Crushing out of form, crushing together in wrinkles.
rumping (s. from the part.) A pucker, a wrinkle in a garment, the act of crushing together in wrinkles.
rumpder (s. a cant word) A highwayman. Bailey.
rumschah (s.) The title given to the pope by the Christians.
runsey (s.) A town in Hampshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 78 miles from London.
runsey (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Rumsfey, the end at Rumsfey.
run (v. int. from the Sax. runian) To use the legs in running, to move swiftly, to pass on the surface, to move violently, to contend in a race, to stream, to flow, to melt, to become liquid, to have its course, to pass, to proceed, to be predominate, to grow luxuriant, to charge matter, to emit liquor. To run after, to chase for. To run away with, to hurry without consent. To run in with, to close, to comply with. To run on, to continue. To run over, to overflow. To run out, to be at an end, to spread exuberantly, to dissipate, to be wasted.
run (v. t.) To pierce, to stab, to force, to drive, to ward, to incur, to import or export without paying duty, to push on, to prosecute. To run down, to run to overbear. To run over, to recount cursorily, to consider hastily. To run through, to pierce to the other surface, to pass over all the articles.
run (s. from the verb) The act of running, a course, motion, a way, a passage, a flow, a cadence, continued success, a modish clamour; the hinder part of a ship's bottom. At the long run, in the end.
run (s. from run) A fugitive, a rebel, an apostate.
run (s. from run) One that flies from danger, a fugitive.
run (s. from the Lat. runco to weed, but not the act of destroying weeds.) Bailey.
run (s. a local word) Dried charlock.
run (s. a local word) Withered charlock.
run (s. a different spelling) A runcinus, a sumpter-horse.
run (s. in beatben mythology) The goddess who is supposed to preside over weeding.
run (s. in old records) A sumpterhorse; a cart or pack horse.
run (s. from round) A round, a step of a ladder; something put round an axis.
run (s. from round) A rundlet, a small cask.
run (s. from run) A water course. Scott.
run (v. t. pret. of ring) Did ring.
run (p. from ring) Made to sound.
run (s. from round) One of the floor timbers that cross the keel of a ship.
run (s. a local word) The round or step of a ladder.
run (s. a sea term) The end of one of the floor beams of a ship.

R U S

runic (adj. of uncertain derivation) Belonging to the Goths, Gothic.
runic (s. from the adj.) The language of the ancient Goths.
runlet (s. from rundlet) A rundlet, a small cask. Johnson.
runnel (s. from run) A rivulet, a small brook.
runner (s. from run) One that runs, a racer, a messenger; a shooting frigate; one of the stones of a mill; a rope which belongs to the garnet and belt tackles on board a ship.
runner (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird.
runnet (s. from the Sax. gerunnah coagulated) The juice drawn from the maw of a calf used in coagulating milk in order to make cheese.
running (p. a. from run) Moving swiftly, using the legs in motion, moving over the surface, contending in a race, taking a course, shooting out into collateral or exuberant branches, discharging matter, emitting liquor.
running (s. from the part.) The act of moving on with speed; the discharge of a wound.
runningout (s. a sea term) The act of carrying the end of a rope out of the ship.
runningrigging (s. a sea term) That part of a ship's rigging which runs through blocks.
runnion (s. from the French rognant scrubbing) A mean poultry wretch. Shakespeare.
run (s. from the Teutonic runte) A cow of the smaller size, an animal below the natural growth; a dwarf.
run (s. in ornithology) A kind of pigeon; a canary bird above three years old.
rupee (s.) An East-India coin in value about two shillings and three-pence.
rupert (s.) A man's name.
rupicapra (s. in zoology) The capri goat.
rupia (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
rupta (s. an old law term) A troop, a company of soldiers.
ruptile (adj. from the Lat. rumpo to break) Broken, easily broken.
ruption (s. from the Lat. rumpo to break) A breach, a dissolution of parts.
ruptory (s. in surgery, from the Lat. rumpo to break) A corrosive medicine, a caustic.
ruptura (s. in old records) Ploughed land.
rupture (s. from the Lat. rumpo to break) The act of breaking, the state of being broken; a breach of peace, an open hostility; a hernia, an eruption of a part of the intestines through the inner coat of the abdomen.
rupture (v. t. from the verb) To break, to burst.
ruptured (p. from rupture) Broken, burst.
rupturewort (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
rupturing (p. a. from rupture) Breaking, bursting.
rus (adj. from the Lat. rus ruris the country) Belonging to the country, rustic.
rural (s. from rural) Ruralness.
ruralness (s. from rural) The state of being rural.
ruricolist (s. from the Lat. rus the country, and colo to cultivate) An inhabitant of the country.
rurigne (adj. from the Lat. rus the country, and gigno to beget) Produced in the country, born in the country. Bailey.
rurigenous (adj. from the Lat. rus the country, and gigno to beget) Born in the country. Johnson.
rusca (s. in old records) A hive, a tub.
ruscum (s. in botany) The ruscus.
ruscus (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the butcher's broom.
russe (s. from the French) Cunning, craft, artifice. Ray.
russe (v. t. obsolete) To praise. Cbauer.
rush (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
rush (s. from the foregoing) Any thing proverbially worthless.
rush (v. int. from the Sax. hrusan) To move with violence, to go on with tumultuous rapidity; with to, into, and upon: as, "The armies rush to battle."
rush (s. from the verb) A violent course.
rushcandle (s. from rush, and candle) A candle in which the wick is made of a rush.
rushgrown (adj. in archery) Having a knob near the point.
rusher (adj. comp. of rushy) Rushy in a greater degree.
rushiest (adj. sup. of rushy) Rushy in the greatest degree.
rushiness (s. from rushy) The state of being rushy.
rushing (p. a. from rush) Moving with violence, going on with tumultuous rapidity.

R U T

Rush'ing (s. from the part.) The act of moving with tumultuous rapidity.
Rush/light (s. from rush, and light) A rush candle.
Rush'y (adj. from rush) Full of rushes, abounding with rushes, made of rushes.
RUS'RI (s. in beaten mythology) One of the rural deities.
RUSK (s. the derivation is not noted) Hard bread for stores.
RUS'MA (s. in natural history) A kind of iron substance used by the women in Turkey with other ingredients to take off their hair.
RUS'SET (adj. from the Lat. rufus) Reddish brown; coarse, homespun, rustic.
Rus'set (s. from the adj.) A country dress; the name of an apple.
Rus'setin (s. from russet) The name of an apple. Phil.
Rus'seting (s. from russet) The russet, the name of an apple.
RUS'SIA (s. in geography) A vast empire comprehending the most northern parts of Europe and Asia.
Rus'sian (adj. from Russia) Belonging to Russia, produced in Russia, imported from Russia.
Rus'sian (s. from the adj.) A native of Russia.
RUST (s. from the Sax.) A kind of reddish crust that grows on iron, the corroded surface of any metal; matter bred by inactivity and corruption, the loss of power by inactivity or want of proper exercise.
Rust (v. int. from the sub.) To gather a kind of corroded crust; to degenerate in idleness.
Rust (v. t.) To make rusty, to impair by time or inactivity.
Rust'd (p. from rust) Affected with rust, impaired by time or inactivity.
RUST'IC (adj. from the Lat. rus the country) Rural, belonging to the country; rude, untaught; artless, simple; plain, unadorned; brutal, savage; rough hewed, done in a rough manner.
Rust'ic (s. from the adj.) An inhabitant of the country, a swain, a clown.
Rust'ical (adj. from rustic) Rude, untaught, boisterous, savage.
Rust'ically (adv. from rustical) Rudely, inelegantly, boisterously, savagely.
Rust'icalness (s. from rustical) The state or quality of being rustical.
RUS'TICATE (v. int. from the Lat. rusticor) To reside in the country.
Rust'icate (v. t.) To banish into the country.
Rust'icated (p. from rusticate) Banished into the country.
Rust'icating (p. a. from rusticate) Banishing into the country.
Rustica'tion (s. from rusticate) The state of dwelling in the country. Cole.
Rust'ici (s. in old records) The country people, peasants; inferior tenants.
Rusticity (s. from rustic) A rural appearance, country life, simplicity; rudeness, savageness.
RUSTIC'ULA (s. in ornithology) The woodcock, the rail, the snipe.
Rus'tick (adj. the less modern spelling) Rustic, rough, imitating nature.
Rus'tier (adj. comp. of rusty) Rusty in a greater degree.
Rus'tiest (adj. sup. of rusty) Rusty in the greatest degree.
Rus'tiness (s. from rusty) The quality of being rusty.
RUSTLE (v. int. from the Sax. hriflan) To make a low continued rattle, to make a noise like that of silks or stuffs when rubbed one against another.
Rus'tling (p. a. from rustle) Making a noise like silks or stuffs, rubbed one against another.
Rus'tling (s. from the part.) The noise resembling that of silks or stuffs rubbed together.
RUS'TRE (s. in heraldry) A bearing of a diamond shape pierced through in the middle.
Rust'y (adj. from rust) Affected with rust, covered with rust; impaired by inactivity.
RUS'Y (adj. from the French ruse) Subtle, empty. Sc.
RUT (s. from the French) The copulation of deer; the dashing of the sea.
RUT (s. from the French route) The track of a wheel.
Rut (v. int. from the sub.) To copulate as deer.
RU'TA (s. in botany) The rue.
Ruta'rii (s. in old records) Mercenary forces.
Rute (v. int. an old word) To cry with vehemence. Co.
Ruth (s. from rue) Pity. Milton.
RUTH (s. from the Heb. signifying satisfied) A woman's name; the title of one of the books of the Old Testament.

R Y V

Ruthe (s. obsolete) Pity, compassion.
Ruth'ful (adj. from ruth) Pitiful, compassionate.
Ruth'fully (adv. from ruthful) Pitifully, miserably.
Ruth'fulness (s. from ruthful) Compassionateness.
Ruth'less (adj. from ruth) Relentless; void of pity.
Ruth'lessly (adv. from ruthless) Without pity, cruelly, barbarously.
Ruth'lessness (s. from ruthless) The want of pity.
RUTH'YN (s.) A town in Derbyshire; it hath a market on Monday, and is 202 miles from London.
Ruth'yn (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Ruthyn, made at Ruthyn.
Ruticil'la (s. in ornithology) The redstart.
RU'TILANT (adj. from the Lat. rutilo to shine) Shining like gold.
RU'TILATE (v. int. from the Lat. rutilo to shine) To appear bright.
Ru'tilate (v. t.) To make bright.
Rutil'ian (adj. from Rutilius) Belonging to an illustrious Roman family.
RUTIL'IUS (s.) A man's name, the name of an illustrious Roman.
RUT'ILUS (s. in ichthyology) The roach.
RUT'LAND (s.) An inland county of England, reckoned the smallest in the kingdom; it is about forty miles in circumference, the soil for the most part fertile and the air salubrious; it contains two market towns and forty-eight parishes, and sends two members to parliament.
Rut'land (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the county of Rutland, produced in the county of Rutland.
Rut'landshire (s. from Rutland, and shire) The county of Rutland.
Rut'landshire (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the county of Rutland, produced in the county of Rutland.
RUTTIE'R (s. from the French routier) A directed old experienced soldier.
Rut'ting (p. a. from rut) Copulating as deer.
Rut'tish (adj. from rut) Wanton, libidinous.
Rut'tishness (s. from rut'tish) Wantonness, libidinousness.
Rut'tler (s. a different spelling) A ruttier, an old soldier.
RUTU'LI (s.) A very ancient people of Italy.
Rutu'lian (adj. from Rutuli) Belonging to the Rutuli.
RY (s. from the Brit.) A shore, a coast, a bank.
RY'AL (s. a different spelling) The rial, an ancient coin of different values in different reigns; a Spanish coin in value about sixpence three farthings.
Ry'as (s. a different spelling) The rhyas, a disease of the eyes.
RYE (s.) A town in Sussex; it is one of the cinque ports, has a market on Wednesday and Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 64 miles from London.
Rye (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Rye, made at Rye.
RYE (s. in botany and agriculture, from the Sax. rye) A coarse kind of bread corn.
Rye (s. in falconry) A disease incident to hawks.
Ry'ebread (s. from rye, and bread) Bread made of rye.
Ry'efield (s. from rye, and field) A field in which rye is cultivated.
RY'E'GATE (s.) A borough town in Surrey; it has a market on Tuesday, sends two members to parliament, and is 23 miles from London.
Ry'egate (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Ryegate, made at Ryegate.
Ry'egrass (s. in botany and agriculture, from rye) A strong kind of grass.
Ry'eland (s. from rye, and land) Land fit for the culture of rye, a light kind of soil.
Ry'felere (s. an old word) A hawk that only takes feathers of a fowl.
Ryff (adj. obsolete) Rife, frequent, common.
Ryme (s. an incorrect spelling) Rhyme, familiarly found in poetry.
Ry'medin (v. int. an old pret. of rhyme) Did make rhymes.
Rym'mer (s. in old records) A vagabond, an idle fellow.
Rynt (v. int. a local word) To stand fair, to give.
RY'SACON (s. in pharmacy) The cassumunar, a root.
RYTH (s. from the Brit.) A ford.
Ryve (adj. obsolete) Rife, common, frequent.
Ryve (v. t. obsolete) To split, to rend; to stab.

S A B

S.

(s.) The eighteenth letter and fourteenth consonant of the English alphabet; it is frequently used as a contraction for the Lat. societas a society, and focius fellow: as, R. S. S. As an old numeral, it stands for seven.
adv. obsolete So, in such a manner. Cb.
(adj. obsolete) Safe. Cb.
ing (p. a. obsolete) Saving, escaping. Cb.
(s. an obsolete spelling) The soul. Cb.
SE/AN (s. from the Heb. signifying conversion) One of a very ancient sect of idolaters. Dict. of Arts.
SE/OTH (s. from the Heb.) Hosts, armies.
SE/SIA (s. not so correct a spelling) The Sabazia.
SE/IOUS (s. an old word) Boots formerly worn by soldiers.
SE/uthian (s. from Sabathius) A follower of Sabathius.
SE/ATHIUS (s.) A man's name, the head of a sect in the fourth century.
SE/zia (s. from Sabazius) A festival in honor of Bacchus, a festival in honor of Jupiter.
SE/ZIUS (s. in beaten mythology) The name given to Bacchus by the Thracians, the name given to Jupiter by the Cretans.
SE/batharian (s. from sabbath) One who keeps the sabbath; one who is strict in the observation of the sabbath.
SE/batharian (adj. from sabbath) Belonging to the sabbath, belonging to those who keep the seventh day as the sabbath.
SE/bATH (s. from the Heb. signifying rest) The seventh day of the week set apart by divine appointment for a holy rest among the Jews, the holy rest among the Jews, the first day of the week among Christians set apart for the purposes of religion; a time of rest, intermission of pain or labour; a holy day, a day devoted to the exercises of public worship.
SE/bathbreaker (s. from sabbath, and breaker) One that violates the sabbath.
SE/bathday (s. from sabbath, and day) The sabbath, the day set apart for public worship.
SE/batic (adj. from sabbath) Resembling the sabbath, pertaining to the sabbath, bringing rest.
SE/batical (adj. from sabbatic) Sabbatic, belonging to the sabbath.
SE/baticalness (s. from sabbatical) The state of being sabbatical. Scott.
SE/bATIVE (s. in the colleges at Paris) A thesis, a proposition in logic or moral philosophy.
SE/batism (s. from sabbath) A time of rest, the keeping of the sabbath, a strict observation of the sabbath.
SE/batum (s. in old records) The sabbath, rest, quiet.
SE/BE/AN (s. the more common spelling) A Sabæan, one of an ancient sect of idolaters, distinguished by their worship of images.
SE/bel (adj. an old spelling) Sable. Chaucer.
SE/bEL/LI (s.) An ancient people of Italy descended from the Sabines.
SE/bellian (adj. from Sabellius) Belonging to the doctrine or followers of Sabellius.
SE/bellian (s. from the adj.) One who embraces the doctrine taught by Sabellius, a follower of Sabellius who denied the distinction of persons in the Godhead.
SE/bEL/LIUS (s.) A man's name, the head of a sect in the third century who denied the personality of the Son and Holy Spirit.
SE/bI/NA (s. in botany) The savin.
SE/bine (adj. from Sabini) Belonging to the Sabini.
SE/bine (s. from the adj.) One of the Sabini.
SE/bINI (s.) A very ancient people of Italy.
SE/BLE (s. in zoology from the Lat. zibella) A little beast producing a fine fur, the fur of the beast.
SE/ble (adj. in heraldry and poetry) Black.
SE/ble (s. from the adj.) The black colour, the black colour in the coats armorial of the gentry.
SE/ble (s. not so common a word) A fabre. Phillips.
SE/blemouse (s. from fable, and mouse) The Norway rat.

S A C

SA/BLIERE (s. from the French) A sand pit; in carpentry, a long slender kind of beam.
SA/BRE (s. from the French) A cymetar, a kind of broadsword.
SABRI/NA (s. from the Lat.) The Severn.
SABTE/CHA (s. from the Heb. signifying wounding) A man's name. Gen.
Sabulona/rium (s. in old records) Liberty to dig gravel or sand within a certain district.
Sabulos/ity (s. from fabulous) The state of abounding with sand or gravel.
SAB/ULOUS (adj. from the Lat. fabulum) Sandy, gravelly.
Sab/ulouficus (s. from fabulous) The state or quality of being fabulous. Scott.
SABUR/RÆ (s. in natural history) A genus of fossils, grit.
Sab/urrate (v. t. from saburrae) To ballast a ship. Cole.
SAC (s. an old law term) The ancient privilege which the lord of a manor claims of holding his court in cases of trespass among his tenants and imposing fines.
Sac/abere, Sac/aburth (s. an old word) One that has been robbed. Cole.
SA/CÆ (s. in geography) An ancient people of Scythia.
SA/CÆ/A (s. a different spelling) The sacæa. Scott.
SACCA/DE (s. in the manage from the French) A violent check given to a horse by the rider.
SAC/CHARINE (adj. from the Lat. saccharum sugar) Having the qualities of sugar, having the taste of sugar.
SAC/CHARUM (s. from the Lat.) Sugar.
SAC/COBENEDIT/TO (s. a different spelling) The saccobenito. Scott.
SAC/COBENI/TO (s. in the inquisition) A kind of linen garment painted over with flames and devils worn by condemned persons as they go to execution. Dict. of Arts.
Sac/culi (s. plu. of faccus) Little bags; the little cells in which the fat of the body is contained.
SAC/CULUS (s. from the Lat.) A little bag, a sachel, a purse.
SAC/CUS (s. from the Lat.) A sack, a bag.
SAC/CUS (s. in anatomy) The rectum.
SACE/A (s. in beaten mythology) A festival held by the Babylonians in honor of Anaitides.
SA/CER (s. in ornithology) The bluelegged falcon.
SA/CER (adj. from the Lat.) Holy, sacred; dreadful, horrid.
Sac/erborth (s. an old word) A pledge, a sufficient surety. Bailey.
SACERDO/TAL (s. from the Lat. sacerdos a priest) Belonging to the priesthood, priestly.
SA/CERIG/NIS (s. from the Lat. sacer holy, and ignis fire, with physicians) A kind of herpes.
SA/CERMOR/BUS (s. from the Lat. sacer holy, and morbus a disease) The epilepsy, the falling sickness.
Sach/baro (s. an old word) One who hears causes, a justice. Bailey.
Sach/el (s. from faccus) A small bag, a little sack.
SA/CHEM (s. with the Indians) A ruler, a great prince.
SACK (s. from the Heb. this word is said to be found, with little variation, in all languages, and therefore supposed to be antediluvian) A large bag, a bag, a pouch; the quantity of four bushels; a certain quantity or weight; a woman's loose robe.
Sack (v. t. from the sub.) To put up in bags.
SACK (v. t. from the Spanith, facer) To plunder, to pillage, to take by storm.
Sack (s. from the verb) The storm of a town, pillage, plunder.
SACK (s. from the French, fac) A kind of sweet wine.
SACK/BUT (s. from the Lat. sambuca) A musical instrument, a kind of pipe.
Sack/cloth (s. from sack, and cloth) The cloth of which sacks are made, a coarse kind of cloth sometimes worn by way of mortification.
Sack/ed (p. from sack) Put up in sacks; plundered, pillaged, taken by storm.
Sack'er (s. from sack) One that plunders, one that takes a town by storm.
Sack/ful (s. from sack, and full) A sack thoroughly filled, the quantity contained in a full sack; a large quantity, a great deal.
Sack/id (adj. obsolete) Wearing sackcloth; wearing a coarse upper garment. Sack'ing

S A C

Sack'ing (p. a. from sack) Putting up in sacks; plundering, pillaging, taking by storm.

Sack'ing (s. from the part.) The cloth of which sacks are made; the coarse cloth which is fixed to a bedstead and supports the bed.

SACK'LESS (adj. from the Sax. sacles, but now become local) Guiltless, innocent. Bailey.

Sackpos'et (s. from sack, and posset) A posset made of sack, a posset made of wine.

Sacks'pettes (s. an old word) Full sacks. Cole.

Sack'whey (s. from sack, and whey) The whey procured from milk curdled with wine.

SAC'RA (s. in anatomy) An artery descending to the pelvis which takes a different course in different subjects and is sometimes entirely wanting.

Sa'crafield (adj. a local word) Belonging to certain small rents paid by some tenant to the lord of a manor. Scott.

SAC'RAMENT (s. from the Lat. sacramentum an oath) The Lord's supper, the eucharist; an outward sign of inward grace; an oath, a ceremony inducing an obligation.

Sacramen'tal (adj. from sacrament) Belonging to the sacrament, constituting a sacrament.

Sacramenta'lia (s. in old records) Offerings made at the sacrament.

Sacramen'tally (adv. from sacrament) After the manner of a sacrament.

Sacramenta'rian (s. from sacrament) One who holds erroneous doctrines concerning the Lord's supper; a protestant so called by the papists.

Sacramenta'rium (s. from sacrament) An ancient church book containing the prayers and ceremonies then used at the celebration of the Lord's supper.

Sacramen'tary (s. from sacrament) The sacramentarium.

SACRAMEN'TUM (s. from the Lat.) An oath; the common form of inquisition by a jury; a sacrament.

Sa'crary (s. an old word) A vestry, an apartment in a church where the vestments are kept. Cole.

Sa'cre (s. obsolete) A coronation, a consecration, the solemnization of matrimony. Chaucer.

Sa'cre (v. t. obsolete) To hallow, to consecrate. Chaucer.

SA'CRED (adj. from the Lat. sacer) Holy, devoted to religious use; dedicated, consecrated; inviolable, strictly to be observed.

Sa'credly (adv. from sacred) Religiously, inviolably.

Sa'credness (s. from sacred) The state of being sacred.

SACRIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. sacer holy, and fero to bring, but not used) Bearing holy things. Bai.

SACRIFIC (adj. from the Lat. sacer holy, and facio to do) Employed in sacrifice.

Sacrificable (adj. from sacrifice) Capable of being offered in sacrifice.

Sacrifica'tor (s. from sacrifice) A sacrificer, one that offers sacrifice.

Sacrifica'tory (adj. from sacrificator) Offering sacrifice, belonging to sacrifice.

SA'CRIFICE (v. t. from the Lat. sacer, holy, and facio to make) To offer up to heaven, to immolate; to devote with loss, to give up for the sake of something else, to destroy, to kill.

Sa'crifice (v. int.) To offer sacrifice, to make an offering.

Sa'crifice (s. from the verb) The act of offering to heaven, the thing offered; any thing given up for the sake of something else, any thing destroyed.

Sa'crificed (p. from sacrifice) Offered in sacrifice, immolated, given up, destroyed, killed.

Sa'crificer (s. from sacrifice) One that sacrifices.

Sa'crificial (adj. from sacrifice) Performing sacrifice, including sacrifice, belonging to sacrifice.

Sa'crificing (p. a. from sacrifice) Offering in sacrifice, giving up for something else, suffering loss, destroying, killing.

Sa'crificing (s. from the part.) The act of offering in sacrifice.

Sa'srifice (v. t. an obsolete spelling) To sacrifice. Cb.

SA'CRILEGE (s. from the Lat. sacer sacred, and lego to gather) The act of appropriating to one's self what is devoted to religion, the crime of violating sacred things.

Sacrile'gious (adj. from sacrilege) Violating sacred things, guilty of sacrilege.

Sacrile'giously (adv. from sacrilegious) With sacrilege.

Sacrile'giousness (s. from sacrilegious) Sacrilege, a disposition to sacrilege. Scott.

Sa'cring (p. a. from sacre) Consecrating. Sb.

Sa'cring (s. from the part.) The act of consecrating. Temple.

Sa'cringbell (s. from sacring, and bell) The little bell that is rung in the procession of the host to notice of its approach in popish countries.

S A F

SA'CRIST (s. from the Lat. sacer sacred) A sexton, who has the care of a church.

Sa'cristan (s. from sacrist) A sexton.

Sa'cristy (s. from sacrist) A vestry, the apartment in a church where the vestments are kept.

SA'CRO'LEUMBA'RIS (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the loins.

SA'CRO'LEUM'BUS (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the loins.

SA'CROS (s.) An Arabian weight, an ounce.

SA'CRUM (s. in anatomy) The lower extremity of the spine, the broadest bone of the back.

SAD (adj. the etymology is not known) Sorrowful, grief, serious, grave; dull, melancholy; calamitous; dark coloured, dusky; bad, vexatious, cohesive, close.

Sadde (adj. an obsolete spelling) Sad.

Sad'den (v. t. from sad) To make sad, to gloom, to make of a dark colour, to cohesive.

Sad'dened (p. from sadden) Made sad.

Sad'dening (p. a. from sadden) Making sad; cohesive.

Sad'der (adj. comp. of sad) Sad in a greater degree.

Sad'dest (adj. sup. of sad) Sad in the greatest degree.

SAD'DLE (s. from the Sax. sadl) The seat or pad which is put on a horse to save the back and accommodate the rider; two loins of mutton cut together, small wooden block hollowed on the upper and lower side nailed to the yard arm of a ship to keep the boom of the studding sail in a firm and steady position.

Sad'dle (v. t. from the sub.) To cover with a saddle; load, to burden.

Sad'dlebacked (adj. from saddle, and back) Having low back with a raised head and neck.

Sad'dled (p. from saddle) Covered with a saddle; loaded, burdened.

Sad'dlegall (s. from saddle, and gall) A hurt from the saddle.

Sad'dlegalled (adj. from saddlegall) Hurt with the saddle.

Sad'dlemaker (s. from saddle, and maker) One who makes saddles.

Sad'dler (s. from saddle) A saddle maker, one who makes or deals in saddles.

Sad'dling (p. a. from saddle) Covering with a saddle; loading, burdening.

SAD'DUCEE (s. probably from Sadok) One of a sect among the Jews who received only the five books of Moses, denied the existence of angels and spirits, the immortality of the soul and the resurrection of the body.

Sadducee'an (adj. from Sadducee) Belonging to the Sadducees.

Sad'ducism (s. from Sadducee) The doctrine of the Sadducees.

Sad'dly (adv. from sad) Sorrowfully, miserably.

Sad'dness (s. from sad) Sorrowfulness, dejection of countenance, dejection of mind, seriousness, gravity.

SA'DOC (s. from the Heb. signifying just) A man's name, the supposed founder of the Sadduceean sect.

SA'DOK (s. a different spelling) A man's name, Sadoc.

SAFE (adj. from the Lat. salvus) Secure from danger, free from hurt, affording security.

Safe (s. from the adj.) A secure place to put valuables in, a pantry, a buttery.

Sa'feconduct (s. from safe, and conduct) A conveyance guard through an enemies country, a pass, a passport.

Sa'feguard (s. from safe, and guard) A defence, a protection; a convoy, a guard through an enemies country, a pass, a passport; a kind of petticoat worn by women on horseback to preserve their other cloaths.

Sa'feguard (v. t. from the sub.) To guard, to protect.

Sa'feguarded (p. from safeguard) Guarded, protected.

Sa'feguarding (p. a. from safeguard) Guarding, protecting.

Sa'fely (adv. from safe) In a safe manner, out of danger, without hurt.

Sa'feness (s. from safe) The state of being safe.

Sa'fepledge (s. a law term) A security for a man's appearance on a certain day.

Sa'fer (adj. comp. of safe) Safe in a greater degree. Sa'fer

S A G

(adj. sup. of safe) Safe in the greatest degree.
 (s. from safe) Security from danger, freedom from hurt; custody, security from escape.
 (obsolete) Saving, excepting. Ch.
 (s. in architecture, but not so common a spelling) Sagitta, the drip of a cornice; the plafond. Sc.
 (s. in botany) A kind of bastard saffron.
 (s. in botany and medicine) The crocus, the root of the crocus preferred for medical uses.
 (adj. from the sub.) Yellow, having the colour of saffron.
 (s.) A town in Essex; it has a market on Saturday, and is 43 miles from London.
 (int. probably from sack) To hang on one side as a bag.
 (int.) To load, to burden.
 (adj. from the Lat. sagax) Quick of sight, quick at making discoveries; quick of intellect.
 (adv. from sagacious) With quickness of penetration, with quick scent.
 (s. from sagacious) The state or quality of being sagacious.
 (s. from sagacious) Quickness in making discoveries, quickness of scent.
 (s. with the native Americans) A king, a supreme ruler; the juice of some unknown plant used in medicine.
 (s. with old chymists) The imaginary spirits of four elements.
 (s. in medicine) The gum of the galingale.
 (s. in commerce) A kind of stuff sometimes dyed with a little silk.
 (s. in natural history) A kind of gem which resembles wood.
 (s. a different spelling) The sagda. Phillips.
 (adj. from the French) Wise, prudent, grave.
 (s. from the adj.) A wise man, a philosopher.
 (s. in botany, from the Lat. favia) A well known bean reckoned by the ancients exceedingly wholesome.
 (s. an old word) One who heard causes, a judge. Bailey.
 (adv. from sage) Wisely, prudently, with discretion.
 (s. in commerce) A Russian measure equal to ten feet.
 (s. from sage) Wisdom, prudence, gravity.
 (adj. comp. of sage) Sage in a greater degree.
 (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the name of a flower.
 (adj. sup. of sage) Sage in the greatest degree.
 (v. int.) To sag, to hang on one side as a bag. Shakespeare.
 (s. a local word) A kind of flag growing by the river's side.
 (p. from sag) Loaden, burdened.
 (s. in botany) The name of a flower.
 (p. a. from sag) Loading, burdening; hanging as a bag on one side; moving as a ship to starboard.
 (s. a sea term) The motion of a ship to starboard.
 (s. a local word) A law. Bailey.
 (s. an old word) A judge, a justice. Pb.
 (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 (v. t. from the Lat. sagino, but not used) To fatten. Coie.
 (s. from the Lat.) An arrow, a dart.
 (s. in astronomy) A constellation of the northern hemisphere.
 (s. in botany) The point or top of any small cone.
 (s. in trigonometry) The versed sine.
 (adj. from sagitta) Belonging to an arrow.
 (adj. in anatomy) Belonging to that future of the skull which resembles an arrow.
 (s. from the adj.) The future of the skull which resembles an arrow.
 (s. in anatomy) The sagittal future.
 (s. in botany) The arrowhead.
 (s. in astronomy) The archer, one of the twelve signs of the zodiac.
 (s. from sagitta) A centaur, the archer, sagittarius.
 (adj. in botany) Having a leaf in the form of an arrow.

S A I

SAGITTIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. sagitta an arrow, and fero to bear) Bearing arrows, bearing a shaft of arrows.
 SAGITTIPOTENT (s. from the Lat. sagitta an arrow, and potum to be able) An expert archer. Coie.
 SAG'MEN (s. in botany) The vervain.
 SA'GO (s. in medicine) A drug, a kind of edible grain reckoned a great restorative.
 SAG'REE (s. in ichthyology) A species of squalus.
 SA'GUM (s. from the Lat.) A kind of military garment worn by the Greeks and Romans; a soldiers cloak.
 Sagun'tine (adj. from Saguntum) Belonging to Saguntum.
 SAGUN'TUM (s.) A city of Spain famous for its attachment to the Romans against Hannibal; the inhabitants were reduced to mere skeletons for want of provisions, and at last chose rather to set fire to the city and perish in the flames than submit to the conqueror.
 SA'IC (s. a different spelling) A saick, a kind of Grecian ketch. Dict. of Arts.
 SA'ICK (s. from the Italian falca) A Turkish vessel appropriated to the carriage of merchandize.
 Said (v. t. pret. of say) Did say.
 Said (p. from say) Spoken, mentioned, mentioned before.
 SAIE (s. in commerce) A kind of stuff.
 Saie (v. t. obsolete) Saw, did see. Chaucer.
 Saig'ner (v. t. in fortification) To empty, to draw water out of a mote by a subterraneous passage or drain.
 SAIL (s. from the Sax. segl) The expanded sheet which catches the wind and moves the vessel on the water, a ship, a vessel; ships, collectively; wings. To strike sail; to lower the sail, to come down, to abate of pomp or superiority. Spenser.
 Sail (v. int. from the sub.) To move by the help of sails, to pass on the sea, to pass smoothly along, to swim.
 Sail (v. t.) To pass with sails, to fly through.
 Saile (s. obsolete) A Sale. Chaucer.
 Saile'd (p. from sail) Passed with sails.
 Saile'r (s. from sail, but not so usual) Sailor.
 Saile'in (v. t. obsolete) To assail, to assault. Chaucer.
 Saile'ing (p. a. from sail) Passing by means of a sail, passing on smoothly, flying.
 Saile'ing (s. from the part.) The art or act of passing on the water with sails; navigation.
 Saile'iant (adj. not so correct a spelling) Saliant. D. of A.
 Saile'or (s. from sail, the common spelling) A sailor, a seaman, one that practises navigation.
 Saile'yard (s. a sea term, from sail, and yard) The pole on which the sail is extended.
 SAIM (s. in the Scotch dialect) Lard, the fat of swine.
 Sain (p. obsolete from see) Seen. Sh.
 Saine (p. obsolete from see) Seen. Ch.
 SAIN'FOIN (s. in botany and agriculture) A kind of grass.
 SAINT (s. from the Lat. sanctus holy) A person eminent for piety and virtue; one who on account of extraordinary piety was honored with a day of religious commemoration amongst the papists, a person canonized.
 Saint (v. t. from the sub.) To put among the saints, to canonize.
 Saint (v. int.) To act with a shew of piety.
 SAINTAL'BANS (s.) A borough town in Hertfordshire; it has a market on Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 21 miles from London.
 SAINTAN'DREWS (s.) A city and university in Scotland.
 SAINTAS'APH (s.) A city in Flintshire; it is the see of a bishop, has a small market on Saturday, and is 209 miles from London.
 SAINTCOL'UMB (s.) A town in Cornwall; it has a market on Thursday, and is 250 miles from London.
 SAINTDAVIDS (s.) A city in Pembrokeshire; it is the see of a bishop, has a market on Wednesday is 272 miles from London.
 Sainted (p. from saint) Numbered among the saints, canonized.
 SAINTGERMAINS (s.) A borough town in Cornwall; it has a small market on Friday, sends two members to parliament, and is 223 miles from London.
 Saint'ing (p. a. from saint) Numbering among the saints, canonizing.
 SAINTJOHNS'WORT (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
 SAINTIVES (s.) A borough town in Cornwall; it has a market on Wednesday and Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 274 miles from London.

SAINTI/VES (s.) A town in Huntingdonshire; it has a market on Monday, and is 64 miles from London.
Saint/like (adj. from faint, and like) Suited a faint; resembling a faint.
Saint/linefs (s. from faint) The state of being faint-like.
Saint/ly (adj. from faint) Resembling a faint.
SAINTMAW'S (s.) A borough town in Cornwall; it has no market, sends two members to parliament, and is 267 miles from London.
SAINTNE/OTS (s.) A town in Huntingdonshire; it has a market on Thursday, and is 57 miles from London.
Saintpi/atre (s. an old word) The palley and cramp together.
Saint/ship (s. from faint) The character of a faint, the state of being a faint.
Saint/wary (s. an old spelling) A sanctuary.
Sai/que (s. a different spelling) The faick. Diff. of Arts.
SAKE (s. from the Sax. fac) The final cause, the end, the purpose; account, regard.
Sa/kebere (s. an old word) One that has been robbed of his goods.
SA/KER (s. in falconry, from the Spanish sacre) A kind of hawk.
Sa/ker (s. from the foregoing) A kind of great gun of which there are three sizes.
Sakere/t (s. from faker) The male of the fakerhawk.
SAL (s. from the Lat.) Salt.
SAL (s. from Sarah, in familiar style) A woman's name, Sarah.
SALA/CIA (s. in zoology) A genus of gymnarthria, a kind of insects with soft and naked bodies furnished with limbs.
SALA/CIA (s. in beaten mythology) The supposed goddess of the sea, the wife of Neptune.
SALA/CIOUS (adj. from the Lat. salacia) Wanton, soliciting the male.
Sala/ciously (adv. from salacious) Wantonly, in a manner soliciting the male.
Sala/ciousness (s. from salacious) Wantonness, salacity.
Salac/ity (s. from salacious) Wantonness, the solicitation of the female.
SAL/AD (s. from the French salade) Raw herbs for food, herbs eaten raw.
SAL/ADE (s. from the French) A salad; a kind of helmet.
SA/LAH (s. from the Heb. signifying mission) A man's name.
Salalka/li (s. from sal, and alkali) An ingredient in making glass.
SAL/AMANDER (s. from the Lat. Salamandra) A fabulous animal supposed to have lived in the fire, and to have been exceedingly poisonous; a kind of lizard.
Sal/amandersblood (s. with chymists) The redness remaining in the receiver after distilling the spirits of nitre.
Sal/amandershair (s. in natural history) A kind of mineral flax.
Sal/amanderswool (s. in natural history) A kind of asbestos, a kind of mineral flax.
SALAMAN/DRA (s. in zoology) The salamander.
Salaman/drine (adj. from salamander) Resembling the salamander, belonging to the salamander.
SAL/AMIS (s. in ancient geography, from the Greek σάλαια to tals) An island in the Aegean sea.
SALAMMO/NIAC (s. from the Lat. sal salt, and the Greek αἰμος sand) A kind of salt formerly dug up in lumps under the sands in some parts of Africa; a kind of artificial salt much used by braziers.
Salana/tron (s. in natural history) Anatron, a kind of native salt.
Sal/arated (adj. from salary) Having a salary.
Sala/rian (adj. from sal, but not used) Belonging to salt, impregnated with salt.
Sala/rian (adj. from Salii) Belonging to a kind of verse sung by the Salii.
Sala/rium (s. in old records) The duty on salt; a salary.
Salarmo/niac (s. a different spelling) Salammoniac.
SAL/ARY (s. from the Lat. salarium) A stated hire, an annual or periodical payment.
SALA/THIEL (s. from the Heb. signifying the loan of God) A man's name.
SALE (s. from the Dutch saal) The act of selling, the power of selling; a vent, a market; a proclamation for selling, an auction; a price, the state of being venal; a kind of wicker basket.
Sa/leable (adj. from sale) Fit for sale, marketable.
Sa/leableness (s. from saleable) The state of being saleable.

Sa/leably (adv. from saleable) In a saleable manner.
Sa/lebrot (s. a different spelling) The fallambrot.
Sale/brity (adj. from salebrous) Roughness, ruggedness.
SALE/BROUS (adj. from the Lat. salebrosus) Rough, uneven.
Sale/broufness (s. from salebrous) Roughness, unevenness.
SA/LEM (s. from the Heb. signifying peace) The name of a city, Jerusalem.
Salen/tine (adj. from Salentini) Belonging to the Salentini.
Salen/tine (s. from the adj.) One of the Salentini.
SALENTI/NI (s. in ancient geography) A people of Italy.
SA/LEP (s. in pharmacy) The root of one particular species of orchis.
Sa/lesman (s. from sale, and man) One who sells ready made; one that sells any commodity by pointment.
Sa/leswork (s. from sale, and work) Work done for work slightly performed.
Sa/let (s. a different spelling) A salade, a light cover for the head, a kind of helmet.
Salew' (v. t. obsolete) To salute.
Salew'ed (p. obsolete, from salew) Saluted.
Salew'ing (p. a. obsolete, from salew) Saluting.
Salv (s. an old word) Salve.
SALGEM'MA (s. in natural history) A fossil salt of parent brightness.
SALGALVEB'RI (s. in medicine) The glaubers salt.
SA/LI (s. in ornithology) The heath cocks.
SAL/IANT (adj. from the French) Leaping; bearing point outward in fortification; depicted as a lion other beast in a leaping posture in coats of arms.
SALIA'RIA (s. in antiquity) A festival in honour of Mars in which the priests danced with targets in their hands.
SAL/IC (adj. from the French salique) Belonging to the famous law in France by which females were excluded of the right of inheritance; incapable of being inherited by females.
SALICA'RIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
SALICAS/TRUM (s. in botany) A kind of wild rose.
SALICOR'NIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
Sal'idone (s. obsolete) A cassidony.
SAL/IENT (adj. from the Lat. salio to leap) Leaping, bounding, moving by leaps, springing, shooting, a quick motion; beating, panting.
Sal'igot (s. in botany) The name of an herb; a thistle.
SA/LII (s. in Roman antiquity) The priests of Mars.
SA/LIM (s. from the Heb. signifying a fox) The name of a place.
Sali'na (s. in old records) A saltpit, a place where salt is made.
Sali'ne (adj. from salt) Consisting of salt, impregnated with salt.
Sali'nenefs (s. from saline) Saltiness.
Salini'trous (adj. from sal, and nitre) Composed of salt, consisting of saltpetre.
SALI/NOSAPONA'CEOUS (adj. from the Lat. salapo soap) Composed of salt and soap, having qualities of salt and soap.
SALI/NOSULPHU'REOUS (adj. from the Lat. sal and sulphur brimstone) Consisting of salt and sulphur having the qualities of salt and brimstone.
Sali'nous (adj. from salt) Consisting of salt, impregnated with salt.
Sali'nousness (s. from salinous) Saltiness.
SAL/IQUE (adj. from the French) Belonging to the law by which females are deprived of the right of inheritance, incapable of being inherited by a female.
SAL/ISBURY (s.) A city in Wiltshire; it is a bishop, has a stately cathedral, a large market, and is 82 miles from London.
Sal'isbury (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the Salisbury, made at Salisbury.
SALI'VA (s. from the Lat.) The spittle; the secretion by the glands of the mouth.
Sali'val (adj. from saliva) Belonging to spitting, the spittle.
Saliva'rious (adj. from saliva) Belonging to the spittle, resembling the spittle.
Sal'ivary (adj. from saliva) Salival.
Sal'ivate (v. t. from saliva) To purge by the salivary glands.
Sal'ivated (p. from salivate) Put into a state of being purged by the salivary glands.

ing (p. a. from salivate) Putting into a salivapurging by the salival glands.
 on (s. from salivate) A purgation by the salival
 s, a kind of cure by promoting a profuse secre-of the saliva.
 NCA (s. in botany) A kind of lavender.
 s (adj. from saliva) Consisting of spittle, resem(spittle).
 (s. in botany) The willow.
 MBROT (s. with chymists) An eager kind of salt.
 ce (s. not used) The act of issuing forth. Scott.
 NA (s. in chymistry) A kind of saltpetre.
 s. a different and less correct spelling) A salad, eaten raw.
 s. in old records) A kind of headpiece or helmet.
 g (s. from sallet) Salad. Mortimer.
 t (s. in botany, a different spelling) The saligot, water caltrop.
 W (s. in botany) A kind of willow. Dryden.
 W (adj. from the German salo black) Yellow, nef s (s. from fallow) A sickly paleness.
 tree (s. in botany) A kind of willow.
 ST (s.) The name of a man, a famous Roman lian.
 (s. the diminutive of Sarah) A woman's name, (s. from the French salie) An eruption from a besieged, a sudden egress; an excursion, a flight;
 ape, a frolick, a volatile exertion.
 v. int. from the sub.) To make an eruption, to out; with from: as, "To sally from one port."
 g (p. a. from sally) Making an eruption, issuing rt (s. from sally, and port) The gate at which are made.
 an (adj. from Salmacis) Belonging to Salmacis.
 CIS (s. in the mythology of the poets) A nymph to have been turned into a fountain of that Ovid.
 andi (s. in cookery) A mixture of chopped meat and herrings with oil, vinegar, pepper and onions.
 RINUS (s. in ichthyology) The salmonpeel. Pb.
 RO (s. in ichthyology) The salmonpeel. Pb.
 andi (s. a different spelling) The salmagundi. Pb.
 undin (s. a different spelling) The salma-
Scott.
 O (s. in ichthyology) The salmon.
 (s. in ichthyology, from salmo) A large fine fish comes from the sea to breed in fresh water.
 ON (s. from the Heb. signifying peaceable) The name an; the name of a place.
 NE (s.) The name of a city. Acts 27.
 ta (s. from salmon) A young salmon.
 NEUS (s. in the mythology of the poets) The of a man, said to have been struck dead by Jupiimitating thunder, on a bridge of brass, which made for that purpose.
 peel (s. in ichthyology) A fish resembling a salpipe (s. from salmon, and pipe) A contrivance line for catching salmon.
 leuse (s. in ichthyology) The fry of salmon.
 spear (s. from salmon, and spear) An instrument ke salmon.
 trout (s. from salmon, and trout) A samlet, a that has some resemblance to a salmon.
 TRUM (s. in pharmacy) Nitre, saltpetre.
 OID (adj. from the Lat. sal salt, and acidus four) g a salt and sour taste. Scott.
 E (s.) The name of a woman. Mark.
 (s. in architecture, from the French) A lofty as hall.
 N (s. a different spelling) Salon.
 (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish, the gold-species of sparus.
 TRÆ (s. in medicine) The nitre.
 us (adj. from saltpetre) Belonging to saltpetre,
 the qualities of saltpetre. Scott.
 ON (s. in cookery) A kind of farce put into leggs of mutton or veal.
 YCHRE/STUM (s. in pharmacy) Saltpetre burnt equal parts of sulphur.
 c (adj. not much used) Belonging to the aurum-ans. Scott.
 NEL/LA (s. in pharmacy) A preparation of salt-GA (s. in the history of insects) A kind of veno-ant.

SAL/SA (s. in botany) The mediola, a genus of plants.
 SALSAMENTA'RIOUS (adj. from the Lat. salsamenta-rius, but not much used) Belonging to salt, pertaining to any thing salt.
 Sal/aparil/la (s. a different spelling) The sarfaparilla. Pb.
 SAL/SIFIE (s. a different spelling) The falsify, the goats-beard. Scott.
 SAL/SIFY (s. in botany) The goatsbeard. Mortimer.
 SALSIPOTENT (adj. from the Lat. sal salt, and potens powerful) Ruling the sea. Bailey.
 SALSOAC/ID (adj. from the Lat. salsus salt, and acidus four) Having a taste compounded of saltness and four-ness.
 SALSO/LA (s. in botany) The kali.
 SALSU'GINOUS (adj. from the Lat. salsugo the liquor at the bottom of salt-pits) Salty, impregnated with salt.
 SAL/SURE (s. from the Lat. falsura) The act of falsing, the state of being falsed. Bailey.
 SALT (s. from the Lat. sal) A substance which has a sharp and pungent taste on the tongue, and easily dissolves in water; it is natural and artificial, and is said to give consistence to all bodies, and to preserve them from corruption; a smack, a taste; wit, merriment.
 Salt (adj. from the sub.) Having the taste of salt, impregnated with salt, abounding with salt; falacious, wanton. Shakespeare.
 Salt (v. t. from the sub.) To season with salt.
 SALT (s. in the manage) A vault, a leap.
 SALT'ANT (adj. from the Lat. salto to leap) Leaping, jumping, dancing.
 SALT'ASH (s.) A borough town in Cornwall; it has a market on Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 220 miles from London.
 Salt'ash (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Saltash, made at Saltash.
 SALTA'TION (s. from the Lat. salto to leap) A leaping,
 a dancing; a palpitation.
 Saltato'rium (s. in old records) A deer leap, a place to keep deer in.
 SALTA'TORY (adj. from the Lat. salto to leap, but not much used) Leaping, belonging to a dance or leap. Bailey.
 Salt/cat (s. from salt, and cat) A lump of salt made at the saltens, and usually put into pigeon houses.
 Salt/celler (s. from salt, and cell) A small vessel for salt on the table.
 Salt'ed (p. from salt) Seasoned with salt.
 Saltee'r (s. a different spelling) A saltier. Pb.
 Salt'er (s. from salt) One who salts, one who deals in salt.
 Salt'er (adj. comp. of salt) Salt in a greater degree.
 Salt'ern (s. from salt) The place where salt is made, a saltwork.
 Salt'est (adj. sup. of salt) Salt in the greatest degree.
 SALT'FLEET (s.) A town in Lincolnshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 162 miles from London.
 Salt'fleet (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Saltfleet, made at Saltfleet.
 SAL'TIER (s. in heraldry, from the French saltiere) A bearing in the form of a Saint Andrew's cross; a Saint Andrew's cross.
 SALTINBAN'CO (s. from the Italian saltare to jump, and banco a bench) A mountebank.
 Salt'ing (p. a. from salt) Seasoning with salt.
 Salt'ing (s. from the part.) The act of seasoning with salt.
 Salt'ish (adj. from salt) Somewhat salt.
 Salt'ishness (s. from salt) The state of being saltish.
 Salt'less (s. from salt) Fresh, insipid.
 Salt'ly (adv. from salt) With the taste of salt.
 Salt'marsh (s. from salt, and marsh) A pasture which is sometimes overflowed by the saltwater.
 Salt'ness (s. from salt) The state of being salt, the taste of salt.
 Salt'pan (s. from salt, and pan) A salt-pit; the pan in which salt is made.
 SALT/PETRE (s. from the Lat. sal salt, and petra a stone)
 Nitre, a kind of salt impregnated with much air.
 Salt/silver (s. from salt, and silver) A duty formerly paid by some tenants to be excused from carrying salt for the lord of the manor.
 SALT'UARY (s. from the Lat. saltuarius) A forester.
 Salt'uose (adj. from saltus) Full of woods, abounding with forests.
 SAL'TUS (s. in old records, from the Lat.) A wood, a high tall wood.
 Saltz (s. in chymistry) A pickle made of salt dissolved by the coldness of a cellar.

S A L

Salvabil'ity (s. from salvable) The possibility of being saved.

SAL/VABLE (adj. from the Lat. salvo to save) Capable of being saved, possible to be saved.

Sal/vableness (s. from salvable) Salvability.

Salvagar'dia (s. a law term) The security given to a foreigner to preserve him from the outrage of the people while seeking his right by a course of law.

SAL/VAGE (adj. a less modern, but correct spelling, from the Lat. filva a wood) Savage, wild, cruel. Johnson.

SAL/VAGE (s. from the Lat. salvo to save) A recompense allowed to those who have assisted in saving goods or merchandise.

Sal/vagemoney (s. from salvage, and money) The allowance to those who have assisted in saving ships, goods or merchandise.

Salva'gius (adj. in old records) Savage, wild.

Salvagar'dia (s. a different spelling) The salvagarda.

SAL/VATEL (adj. in anatomy) Belonging to the vein that runs through the wrist to the third and little fingers. Cole.

SALVATEL/LA (s. a different spelling) The salvatilla. Diët. of Arts.

SALVATIL/LA (s. in anatomy) The branch of the axillary vein which passes between the little finger and the ring finger, so called because it has been supposed that the opening of that vein was a cure for the melancholy. Scott.

SALVATION (s. from the Lat. salvo to save) A preservation from the consequences of sin, an admission to the happiness of heaven.

Salva'tionwork (s. from salvation, and work) The operations of grace in salvation.

SAL/VATORY (s. from the Lat. salvatorium) The place where any thing is preserved; the box in which a surgeon carries his preparations of salve and unguents.

SALU'BRIOUS (adj. from the Lat. salubris) Healthful, wholesome, tending to preserve health.

Salu'briousness (s. from salubrious) Salubrity, the state of being salubrious.

Salu'brity (s. from salubrious) Wholesomeness, healthfulness.

SALVE (s. from the Lat. salvus safe) A medicated glutinous matter applied to wounds, an empiaster; a help, a remedy.

SALVE (v. t. from the sub.) To cure with medicated applications; to save, to preserve; to help, to remedy; to save by an excuse or reservation; to salute; but this sense is now grown obsolete. Spenser.

SALVE (v. int. imp. mode, used in salutation, from the Lat.) Be you well, health to you.

Salu'e' (v. t. obsolete) To salute. Chaucer.

Salved (p. from salve) Cured by medicated applications, helped, saved, reserved, remedied; saluted; but this sense is now grown obsolete. Chaucer.

SALVEDIC'TION (s. from the Lat. salve health to you, and dico to say) A salutation, the act of wishing health.

Sal'ver (s. from salve) One that has saved; a plate on which any thing is presented.

SAL/VIA (s. in botany) The sage.

SALVIA/TI (s. in botany) A kind of pear.

SALV/NIA (s. in botany) The marfilea.

Salu'ing (p. a. from salve, obsolete) Saluting. Chaucer.

Salu'ing (s. from the part. obsolete) A salutation. Chau.

SAL/VO (s. from the Lat. salvo to save) A reservation, an exception, an excuse.

SA/LUS (s.) A gold coin of Henry the Fifth.

SA/LUS (s. in heathen mythology) The supposed goddess of health.

Sal'utariness (s. from salutary) Wholesomeness, the state of being salutary.

SAL/UTARY (adj. from the Lat. salus health) Healthful, wholesome, contributing to health, contributing to safety.

Saluta'tion (s. from salute) A greeting, the act of saluting, the style of saluting.

Salutato'res (s. in church history) A sect of enthusiasts in Spain who pretended to the cure of diseases by touching or breathing on the patient.

SALUTE (v. t. from the Lat. saluto) To greet, to hail; to please, to gratify; to kiss.

Salu'te (s. from the verb) A salutation; a greeting, a kiss.

Salu'ted (p. from salute) Greeted, hailed, kissed.

Salu'ter (s. from salute) One that salutes.

SALUTIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. salus health, and fero to bring) Producing health, wholesome.

SALUTIGEROUS (adj. from the Lat. salus health, and gero to bring) Bringing salutation, bringing commendation.

S A M

Salu'ting (p. a. from salute) Greeting, hailing, kissing.

Sal'z (s. in chymistry) A kind of pickle made of saltz. Diët. of Arts.

Sam (s. a contraction of Samuel) A man's name, Same. Diët. of Arts.

Sam (adj. an obsolete spelling) Same.

Sam'ar (s. an old word) A sort of long robe.

SAM/MARA (s. in botany) The seed of the elm.

SAMA'RIA (s. from the Heb. signifying his throne) name of a city in the land of Canaan.

Samar'itan (adj. from Samaria) Belonging to Samaria.

Samar'itan (s. from the adj.) A native of Samaria, a habitant of Samaria.

Sam'marr (s. a different spelling) The samar, a kind of robe.

SAMBEN/ITO (s. from the Spanish) A coat of sack, the dress of a penitent.

SAMBU/CA (s.) A musical instrument of a triangular form, a kind of dulcimer; a warlike engine, a portable bridge.

SAMBU/CUS (s. from the Lat.) A musical instrument, the ancients resembling a flute; the elder tree.

SAME (adj. from the Gothic samo) Identical, being the same sort or degree; mentioned before.

Same (s. from the adj.) The identical person, the identical thing; equality of import or degree.

SA/MECH (s.) The Hebrew letter which answers in our alphabet.

Sam'eness (s. from same) Identity, the state of being same.

Samet'ti (s. an old word) Sattin. Chau.

Sam'ian (adj. from Samos) Belonging to Samos, being to a kind of medical earth brought from Samos.

Sam'ian (s. from the adj.) A native of Samos.

Sam'min (s. obsolete) The same. Chau.

Sam'ite (s. obsolete) Sattin. Chau.

SAM/LAH (s. from the Heb. signifying raiment) A name.

Sam'let (s. from salmon) A young salmon.

Sam'me (v. t. a local word) To curdle milk, to milk in order to make cheese.

Sam'med (p. a local word, from samme) Curdled, as milk to be made into cheese.

Sam'ming (p. a. a local word, from samme) Curdling milk to make it into cheese.

Sam'my (s. the diminutive of Sam) A man's name, muel.

SAMO/DA (s. in geography) The most northern part of the Russian empire.

SAMO/LUS (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

SAM/MOS (s. in geography) A fertile island in the pelago.

Samofete'nian (s. in church history) One of an sect of antitrinitarians.

Samofete'nian (adj. from Samofetenus) Belonging to sect or doctrine of the Samofetenians.

SAMOSE/TENUS (s.) A man's name, the founder of Samofetenian sect.

SAMOTHRA/CIA (s. in geography) A small island on coast of Thrace.

Samothra'cian (adj. from Samothracia) Belonging to Samothracia.

Samothra'cian (s. from the adj.) A native of Samothracia.

SAM/PHIRE (s. in botany) The name of a plant, frequently preserved in pickle; it usually grows on cliffs of a rock.

Sam'pire (s. a different spelling) The samphire.

Sam'plar (s. from sample) A pattern, a model; a piece of canvas on which girls learn to mark needle work.

Sam'ple (s. from example) A specimen, a part of whole.

Sam'ple (v. t. from the sub.) To shew by something lar. Chau.

Sam'pled (p. from sample) Shewn by something lar.

SAMP/LER (s. from the Lat. exemplar) A pattern, model; a lettered piece of canvas for girls to work on.

Samp'ling (p. a. from sample) Shewing by something similar.

Sampog'na (s. a different spelling) The zampogna, a flute.

SAMPS/EAN (s. in church history) One of an ancient kind of deists, the Essenes.

SAMP/SON (s. from the Heb. signifying his sun) A name.

Samp'sonpost (s. a sea term) A kind of pillar in a with notches which serve as steps to ascend or descend as occasion requires.

U/CHION (s. in pharmacy, from the Greek) An agent in which majoram is the chief ingredient.

SUCHUM (s. in botany) The majoram.

U/CUS (s. in botany) The majoram.

EL (s. from the Heb. signifying herd of God) A name; the title of two of the books of the Old Testament.

la (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

BLE (adj. from the Lat. sano to heal) Capable of being healed, curable.

enefis (s. from sanable) The state of being sanable.

TION (s. from the Lat. sano to heal) The act of healing.

TIVE (adj. from the Lat. sano to heal) Healing, giving power to heal.

enefis (s. from sanative) The state or quality of being sanative.

LET (s. from the Heb. signifying an enemy in war) A man's name.

bell (s. an old word) Without. Chaucer.

bell (s. an old word) The little bell that calls to service, the bell that rings just as the service begins.

HIA (s.) A woman's name.

ication (s. from sanctify) The act of making holy, the state of being freed from sin; a consecration.

fied (p. from sanctify) Made holy, freed from the power of sin; freed from guilt, secured from violation, separated, set apart to religious use or office.

fier (s. from sanctify) One that sanctifies.

TIFY (v. t. from the Lat. sanctus holy, and facio to make) To make holy, to free from the power of sin, to free from guilt, to secure from violation; to consecrate, to set apart to a sacred use or office.

ifying (p. a. from sanctify) Making holy, freeing from the power of sin; consecrating, setting apart to a sacred use or office.

TILOQUENT (adj. from the Lat. sanctus holy, and pro to speak) Declaring sacred things, speaking of things.

monious (adj. from sanctimony) Having the appearance of sanctity. moniousness (s. from sanctimonious) The state or quality of being sanctimonious.

TIMONY (s. from the Lat. sanctimonia) Holiness; appearance of holiness.

TION (s. from the Lat. sanctio) That which gives any thing its obligatory power, a ratification; a decree ratified; but this is judged improper. Denham.

TITUDE (s. from the Lat. sanctus holy) Holiness, holiness, the state of being saintlike.

TITY (s. from the Lat. sanctitas) Holiness; purity, godliness; a saint, a holy being. Milton.

uarise (v. t. from sanctuary) To shelter as in a sanctuary. Shakespeare.

uaried (p. from sanctuarise, but not much used) Sheltered as in a sanctuary.

uarising (p. a. from sanctuarise, but not used) Sheltering as in a sanctuary.

TUARY (s. from the Lat. sanctuarium) A holy place, the most retired part of a temple; a place of devotion, an asylum; protection, security.

uary (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to an asylum, sanctified by the sacredness of the place.

*Of have I heard of sanctuary men,
But sanctuary children ne'er till now.* Shake.

TUM SANCTORUM (s. from the Lat.) The holy places, the most sacred part of the Jewish temple.

CUS (s. in heathen mythology) A god of the Sages, from whom they reckoned their descent.

stones (s. from the Dutch) Small particles of stone not joined, stone broken to powder; a barren country. (v. t. from the sub.) To cover with sand.

DAL (s. from the Lat. sandalium) A loose shoe; a kind of clog formerly worn upon the naked foot instead of a shoe.

ALI (s. in botany and medicine) A kind of wood brought out of India.

ALIS (s. in botany) A kind of palm, a kind of fan.

ALUM (s. from the Lat.) A sandal, a fine rich kind of fanal formerly worn by the Roman ladies.

DALL (s. in commerce) A kind of thin silk like eye.

ALUM (s. in botany) The brank.

ARAC (s. in natural history) A mineral resembling red arsenic; the gum of the junipertree.

SAND/ARACH (s. a different spelling) The sandarac.

SAND/BACK (s.) A town in Cheshire; it has a market on Thursday, and is 161 miles from London.

Sand/back (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Sandback, made at Sandback.

Sand/bag (s. from sand, and bag) A small bag filled with sand much used in sieges.

Sand/blind (adj. from sand, and blind) Purblind, near sighted.

Sand/box (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

Sand/boxtree (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

Sand/eel (s. from sand, and eel) A kind of eel which lies in the sand.

Sand/en (adj. from sand) Covered with sand, marked with small spots like sand; barren.

Sand/erling (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird.

SAN/DERS (s. in botany and commerce) A precious kind of Indian wood.

SAND/EVER (s. in glass work) A kind of sulphureous salarising from the melted metal.

Sand/fire (s. from sand, and fire) An ash fire, a mild fire.

Sand/flood (s. from sand, and flood) A flow of sand from the hills very injurious to some countries.

Sand/floor (s. from sand, and floor) A floor made of sand.

Sand/gavel (s. an old word) A duty paid for digging sand.

Sand/heat (s. from sand, and heat) The heat of warm sand used in chymical operations.

Sand/ier (adj. & mp. of sandy) Sandy in a greater degree.

Sand/iest (adj. sup. of sandy) Sandy in the greatest degree.

Sand/ing (p. a. from sand) Covering with sand, sprinkling with sand.

Sand/ish (adj. from sand) Approaching to the nature of sand.

Sand/iver (s. a different spelling) The sandever. D. of A.

SAN/DIX (s. in natural history) A kind of red lead.

Sand/land (s. from sand, and land) Light sandy land.

Sand/ling (s. from sand) The name of a sea-fish.

Sand/mortar (s. from sand, and mortar) Mortar in which sand is a principal ingredient.

Sand/stone (s. from sand, and stone) A stone composed of sandy particles, the freestone.

Sand/walk (s. from sand, and walk) A walk made of sand.

SAND/WICH (s.) A town in Kent; it is one of the cinque ports, has a market on Wednesday and Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 68 miles from London.

Sand/wich (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Sandwich, made at Sandwich.

Sand/y (adj. from sand) Abounding with sand, full of sand; consisting of sand, loose in texture; yellowish, having the colour of sand.

SAND/YX (s. a different spelling) The sandix. Scott.

SANE (adj. from the Lat. sanus) Sound, healthy; having the due exercise of the rational powers.

San/enefs (s. from sane) The state of being sane. Bailey.

Sang (v. t. pret. of sing) Did sing.

SAN/GIAC (s. in Turkey) The governor of a city or province.

SANG/LIER (s. a hunting term) A wild boar of five years old.

SANG/LOUT (adj. from the French) Bloody. Bailey.

SANGUIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. sanguis blood, and fero to bear) Conveying blood.

Sanguification (s. from sanguify) The production of blood, the conversion of the chyle into blood.

San/guifier (s. from sanguify) That which produces blood.

SANGUIF/LOUS (adj. from the Lat. sanguis blood, and fluo to flow) Flowing with blood.

SAN/GUIFY (v. int. from the Lat. sanguis blood, and facio to make) To produce blood.

San/guifying (p. a. from sanguify) Producing blood.

San/guin (adj. not so common a spelling) Sanguine. Cole.

SANGUINARIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the bloodwort.

San/guinariness (s. from sanguinary) The state or quality of being sanguinary.

SAN/GUINARY (adj. from the Lat. sanguis blood) Bloody, cruel, murderous.

SAN/GUINARY (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the bloodwort.

SAN/GUINE (adj. from the Lat. sanguis blood) Red, having the colour of blood; abounding with blood, full of blood; warm, ardent, confident.

San/guine

San'guine (s. from the adj.) The blood colour.
 San'guineous (s. from sanguine) The state of being sanguine.
 Sanguin'eous (adj. from sanguine) Sanguine, bloody.
 San'guinestone (s. from sanguine, and stone) The blood-stone, a kind of jasper.
 SANGUIN'ITY (s. from sanguine) Nearness of blood; ardour, heat of expectation, confidence.
 Sanguinolent adj. from sanguine) Sanguine, bloody. Co.
 SAN'GUIS (s. in anatomy, from the Lat.) Blood.
 SAN'GUISDRACO'NIS (s. in pharmacy) The dragons blood.
 SAN'GUISHIR'CI (s. in medicine) The dried blood of a goat.
 SAN'GUISSOR'BA (s. in botany) The barret.
 SAN'GUISUGA (s. in zoology) The leech.
 SAN'HEDRIM (s. a different spelling) The sanhedrin.
 SAN'HEDRIN (s. from the Greek, cov with, and edea a seat) The supreme council among the Jews in which the high priest presided.
 SAN'JACK (s. in Turkey) An officer next in dignity to a bashaw. Cole.
 SAN'ICLE (s. in botany, from the Lat. sanicula) The name of a plant.
 SA'NIES (s. from the Lat.) The thin undigested matter that issues from a wound, a ferous excretion.
 SANIDO'DES (s. a different spelling) The saniodes. Sc.
 SANIO'DES (s. from the Greek, cov a table) A disease in which the breast is flattened like a table.
 Sa'nious (adj. from sanies) Discharging an ill digested pus, running with thin ferous matter.
 San'ity (s. from sane) Soundness of mind.
 Sank (v. t. pret. of sink) Did sink.
 Sank'fin (s. an old word) The end of a lineage. Cole.
 Sank'fin (s. an old word and different spelling) The sankfin. Cole.
 SAN'QUHAR (s.) A parliament town in Scotland, in the county of Nithsdale.
 SAN3 (prep. from the French, but not used) Without. Shakespeare.
 SANSPRE'NDRE (s. at quadrille, from the French sans without, and prendre to catch at) The method of play without taking any fresh cards after the deal.
 Sanspre'ndrevole (s. from sansprendre, and vole) The whole vole, all the ten tricks.
 SANTA'LUM (s. in medicine) The sandus.
 SANIER'NA (s. from the Lat.) The artificial borax used in soldering gold.
 SAN'TO (s. from the Italian) A saint, a great saint.
 SANTOL'INA (s. in botany) The lavender cotton.
 SANTOLINO'DES (s. in botany) The anacyclus.
 SANTO'NICA (s. in botany) A kind of wormwood.
 SAN'TONS (s.) A kind of prophets held in great veneration among the Turks.
 SAP (s. from the Sax. saepe) The vital juice of plants, the juice that circulates in trees and herbs.
 SAP (v. t. from the French, sapper) To undermine, to subvert by digging under.
 Sap (v. int.) To proceed by mine, to proceed invisibly.
 Sap (s. from the verb) The operation of digging under a fortification to destroy it; the mine which is dug to destroy a fortification.
 SA'PA (s. in pharmacy) An old form of medicine like rob.
 SAPA'TA (s. a different spelling) The zapata, a kind of Italian festival.
 Sape (s. a less common spelling) Sap, the vital juice of plants. Bailey.
 Sape (v. t. a different spelling) To sap.
 Sap'grun (s. with painters) A kind of green colour.
 SAPH (s. from the Heb. signifying rushes) The name of a giant. 2. Sam.
 SAPH'AE'NA (s. in anatomy) The crural vein.
 SAPHATUM (s. with physicians) A dry scurf on the head.
 SAPH'EN (s. in anatomy) The nether vein, the first branch of the thigh vein.
 SAPH'IR (s. from the Heb.) The name of a city. Mic.
 Saph'ire (s. not so correct a spelling) The sapph'ire. Phillips.
 Sap'id (adj. from the Lat. fapidus) Tasteful, palatable, stimulating the palate.
 Sapid'ity (s. from fapid) Sapidness.
 Sapid'ness (s. from fapid) Tastefulness, the power of stimulating the palate.
 Sap'ience (s. from sapient) Wisdom, prudence, knowledge.

SA'PIENT (adj. from the Lat. sapiens) Wise, prudent.
 Sapien'tal (adj. from sapient) Tending to instruct, affording maxims of prudence as some books of Scripture.
 SAPIENTIF'OTENT (adj. from the Lat. sapiens wisdom, and potens able) Mighty in wisdom.
 SAPI'NA (s. in botany) A kind of pine nut.
 SAPI'NUS (s. in botany) The pine tree.
 SAPI'NUS (s. in botany) A kind of pine.
 Sap'less (adj. from sap) Void of sap; dry, husky.
 Sap'lessness (s. from sapless) The state of being sapless.
 Sap'ling (s. from sap) A young tree.
 SA'PO (s. in medicine) The soap.
 Saponace'ous (adj. from sapo) Resembling soap, having the qualities of soap.
 SAPONA'RIA (s. in botany) The soapwort.
 Saponary (s. from sapo) Saponaceous.
 SA'POR (s. from the Lat.) Taste, the power of stimulating the palate.
 SAPORIF'IC (adj. from the Lat. sapor taste, and facere to make) Having the power to produce tastes.
 Saporif'icness (s. from saporific) The state or quality of being saporific.
 Sa'porous (adj. from sapor) Savoury, stimulating the palate.
 SAPOSAPIEN'TIA (s. with chymists) The soap of soda, common salt.
 SAPO'TA (s. in botany) The achros, the wild pear.
 Sappe (s. a different spelling) A sap. Phillips.
 Sap'ped (p. from sap) Undermined, subverted by means.
 Sapph'ic (adj. from Sappho) Belonging to a kind of verse supposed to be invented by Sappho; consisting of five feet, the first fourth and fifth are trochees, the second a spondee, and the third a dactyle.
 SAPPHI'RA (s.) The name of a woman.
 SAPPH'IRE (s. in natural history) A precious stone of blue colour.
 Sapph'irine (adj. from sapph'ire) Made of sapph'ire, resembling sapph'ire.
 SAPPHI'RUS (s. in natural history) The sapph'ire.
 SAPPH'O (s.) The name of a woman, a famous poetess of Lesbos in the forty fourth olympiad.
 Sap'pier (adj. comp. of sappy) Sappy in a great degree.
 Sap'piest (adj. sup. of sappy) Sappy in the greatest degree.
 Sap'piness (s. from sappy) The state or quality of being sappy.
 Sap'ping (p. a. from sap) Undermining, subverting, digging underneath.
 Sap'ping (s. from the part.) The act of subverting by digging.
 Sap'py (adj. from sap) Full of sap, succulent; young, not confirmed by age.
 SA'RA (s.) A woman's name.
 SA'RABAITES (s. in church history) A kind of heretics among the primitive christians.
 SA'RABAND (s. from the French sarabande) A kind of dance; a musical composition in triple time rather slow and serious.
 SA'RACEN (s. from the Arabic fara a desert) An inhabitant of Arabia; a disciple of Mahomet.
 SAR'ACEN (s. in botany) A kind of birthwort.
 SARACE'NICA (s. in botany) A kind of birthwort.
 SA'RAH (s. from the Heb. signifying the princess of multitude) A woman's name.
 SA'RAI (s. from the Heb. signifying a lady) A woman's name, the name of Abraham's wife before it was changed to Sarah.
 Sarasan'tick (adj. from Saracen) like a Saracen. Bailey.
 SAR'CASM (s. from the Lat. sarcasmus must) A keen reproach, a taunt.
 Sarcastic (adj. from sarcasm) Keen, containing sarcasm.
 Sarcastical (adj. from sarcastic) Keen, containing sarcasm.
 Sarcastically (adv. from sarcastical) In a sarcastic manner, with sarcasm.
 Sarcas'ticalness (s. from sarcastical) The state or quality of being sarcastical.
 SAR'CEL (s. in falconry) The pinion, the first joint of a hawk's wing.
 SARCHEDO'NUS (s.) A man's name.
 Sar'cil (s. a different spelling) The farcel.
 Sar'cin'arious (adj. from farcinatus) Belonging to carrying packs.

S A R

S A S

INATE (v. t. from the Lat. sarcina a pack) To load in packs. Cole.

NET (s. in commerce) A fine thin kind of

LE (v. t. from the Lat. sarculo) To weed Ainsworth.

ed (p. from sarcle) Weeded as corn.

ing (p. a. from sarcle) Weeding.

OLE (s. from the Greek σαρκὸς flesh, and κηλη rupture) An excrescence of the testicles.

OCOLLA (s. from the Greek σαρκὸς flesh, and αἰματή) A kind of Persian gum.

ORPILOACELE (s. from the Greek σαρκὸς flesh, show the omentum, and κηλη a rupture) A kind of leous rupture of the omentum.

OLOGY (s. from the Greek σαρκὸς flesh, and λογος description) A discourse on the fleshy parts of the man body.

OMA (s. from the Greek) A fleshy excrescence.

OMPHALUM (s. from the Greek σαρκὸς flesh, and αλός the navel) An excrescence of flesh at the el.

OPHAGE (s. from the Greek σαρκὸς flesh, and φαγ to eat) A kind of stone which is remarkable for eating flesh; a tomb. Cole.

OPHAGOUS (adj. from the Greek σαρκὸς flesh, and φαγ to eat) Eating flesh, feeding on flesh.

OPHAGUM, SARCOPHAGUS (s. from sarcopha- gus) A medicine to eat off proud flesh.

OPHAGY (s. from the Greek σαρκὸς flesh, and φαγ to eat) The practice of eating flesh.

OSIS (s. from the Greek) The faculty of breeding;
the new flesh that fills up in a wound.

OTIC (adj. from the Greek σαρκὸς flesh) Generating ic (s. from the adj.) A medicine to generate ULATE (v. t. from the Lat. sarculo to weed, but used) To weed, to clear from weeds. Cole.

ation (s. from sarculate) The act of weeding.

atura (s. in old records) The act of weeding corn, service of weeding corn for the lord.

A (s. in natural history) A precious stone of a flesh ur, the cornelian.

A (s. in ichthyology) The pilchard.

ACHATES (s. in natural history) An agate of a colour.

EL (s. in natural history) The fardine stone.

INAPALUS (s.) A man's name, the last king of ria.

ne (adj. from fardius) Belonging to the us.

ne (s. from the adj.) The fardius.

NIA (s. in geography) An island in the Mediteranean sea which gives title to his Sardinian ity.

lian (adj. from Sardinia) Belonging to Sardinia.

lian (s. from the adj.) A native of Sardinia.

IS (s. in geography) The capital of Lydia in Asia in ruins.

IUS (s. in natural history) A precious stone.

IUS LAPIS (s. from the Lat.) The fardine

ON (s. in botany) A poisonous herb.

ian (s. in natural history) The fardonix, the ne.

ian (adj. from fardon) Belonging to an involary or convulsive laughter occasioned by eating fardon.

nic (adj. from fardon) Sardonian; belonging to a pulsive and dangerous kind of laughter occasioned eating the fardon.

ONYX (s. in natural history) A genus of semipeled gems; a cornelian, an onix.

adj. an old word) Sore, tender. Chaucer.

TA (s.) A city of Sidon.

(s. in ichthyology) A species of cyprinus.

to (s. in botany) The sea lentile. Bailey.

ON (s. from the Heb.) The name of a man, a king of Syria.

IUS (s. in ichthyology) A species of sparus.

a different spelling) The shark, a large sea fish.

(s. in the Scotch dialect) A shirt. Arbutnot.

IUS (s. in old records) A kind of unlawful net or me for destroying fish.

Ithe (s. an old word) A kind of sarcenet, a thin
Chaucer.

SARMA'TIA (s. in geography) A large tract of country containing the northern parts of Asia and Europe.

Sarmat'ian (adj. from Sarmatia) Belonging to Sarmatia.

Sarmat'ian (s. from the adj.) A native of Sarmatia.

SARMEN'TIOUS (adj. from the Lat. sarmentum a twig) Sarmentous. Cole.

SARMEN'TOUS (adj. from the Lat. sarmentum a twig)
Full of twigs. Scott.

SARMEN'TUS (s.) The name of a man, a silly buffoon. Juvenal.

Sar'moning (p. an old word) Talking, preaching.

Sar'moning (s. obsolete) The act of talking, the act of preaching. Cb.

SARN (s. from the Brit. but is now become local) A pavement, stepping stones. Johnson.

SA'RON (s. a different spelling) Sharon.

Sarp'cloth (s.) A packing cloth.

SARPE'DON (s. in the mythology of the poets) The supposed son of Jupiter by Laodamia slain at the Trojan war.

Sarp'lar (s. from sarplier) Half a sack of wool; a packet.

Sarp'leris, Sarplesis (s. obsolete or local) Packs, fardels. Chaucer.

Sarp'liar (s. a different spelling) A sarplier. Phillips.

SAR'PLIER (s. from the French sarpilliere) A piece of canvas to pack up goods in, a packing cloth.

SARRACE'NA (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

SAR'RASIN (s. in fortification) A herse, a kind of portcullis.

SARRAS'NE (s. in fortification) A herse, a kind of fort-cullis.

Sar'razin (s. a different spelling) The sarrafin. D. of A.

SARRI'TION (s. in old husbandry) The act of hoeing.

SAR'RITOR (s. in beaten mythology) One of the rural gods.

SARSAPARIL'LA (s. in botany and medicine) An American plant, a sudorific of great efficacy.

SARSE (v. t. from the French sasier) To sift through a fine sieve.

Sarfe (s. from the verb) A fine lawn sieve.

SAR'SECHIM (s. from the Heb. signifying master of the wardrobe) A man's name.

Sar'ied (p. from sarfe) Passed through a sarfe.

Sar'ing (p. a. from sarfe) Sifting through a sarfe.

SARF (s. in agriculture) A piece of woodland turned into tilage.

SAR'TOR (s. from the Lat.) A butcher. Cole.

SARTORIUS (s. in anatomy) That muscle which serves to throw one leg across the other, the taylor's muscle.

SA'RUCH (s. from the Heb. signifying a branch) A man's name.

SA'RUCK (s. with the Turks) A turban.

Sarve (v. t. a sea term) To strengthen a rope by laying on yarn or canvas.

Sar'ved (p. from sarve) Strengthened as a rope with a bandage of yarn or canvas.

Sar'ving (p. a. a sea term) Strengthening with a bandage of yarn or canvas.

SA'RUM (s. a formal sword) Salisbury.

SA'RUM (s.) Old Sarum, a place near Salisbury where it is supposed the old town stood; there is scarcely a house on the spot but, some how or other, it sends two members to parliament.

Sar'fed (adj. an old word) Stuffed. Cole.

SASH (s. the derivation is not known) A belt worn by way of distinction; a silk band worn by officers in the army.

SASH (s. probably from the French chasser a frame) A window composed of wood work with large squares.

Sash'frame (s. from sash, and frame) The outward frame of a sash window.

Sash'line (s. from sash, and line) The cord which draws up a sash.

Sash'oon (s.) A kind of stuffing of leather put into a boot for the ease of the wearer.

Sash'pulley (s. from sash, and pulley) The pulley in which the sashline runs.

Sash'weight (s. from sash, and weight) The weight that runs in the frame and balances the sash.

Sash>window (s. from sash, and window) A window made of a wooden frame and large squares.

SAS/SAFRAS (s. in botany and medicine) A species of the cornelian cherry, the wood of the tree.

SAS'SE (s. from the Belgick) A sluice, a lock on a navigable river.

Sas'.

S A T

Sas'finate (v. t. from assassinate) To assassinate. Cole.
 Sat (v. int. pret. of sit) Did sit.
 Sat (v. t. pret. of sit obsolete) Did become, suited. Ch.
 SA'TAN (s. from the Heb. signifying an adversary) The Devil, the prince of hell.
 Satan'ic (adj. from Satan) Belonging to Satan, infernal.
 Satan'ical (adj. from satanic) Infernal, devilish.
 Satan'icalness (s. from satanical) The state or quality of being satanical.
 SAT'CHEL (s. from the Lat. sacculus) A little bag, the bag in which schoolboys carry their viuals.
 SATÉ (v. t. from the Lat. satio) To satiate, to glut, to pall.
 Sat'ed (p. from fate) Satiated, glutted, palled; with with: "Sated with rage."
 SATEL'LITE (s. from the Lat. satelles an attendant, commonly pronounced in three syllables) A small planet revolving round another, a secondary planet.
 Satel'liteguard (s. from satelkite, and guard) A person who attends another. Scott.
 Satel'liteinstrument (s. from satelkite, and instrument) An instrument to assist in finding out the longitude by the satelkites of Jupiter.
 Satel'lites (s. plu. of satelkite, pronounced by Pope in four syllables) The secondary planets, the attendants of Jupiter and Saturn.
 Satel'litious (adj. from satelkite) Consisting of satelkites, attending as satelkites.
 SA'TIATE (v. t. from the Lat. satio) To satisfy, to fill, to glut, to pall; to impregnate with as much as can be contained; to gratify desire.
 Sati'ate (adj. from the verb) Full to satiety, glutted.
 Sat'iated (p. from satiate) Satisfied, filled, saturated, gratified to the full; with with: as, "Satiated with my blood."
 Sat'iating (p. a. from satiate) Satisfying, filling, saturating, gratifying desire.
 Sati'ety (s. from satiate) The state of being satiated.
 SA'TIN (s. from the French) A soft kind of close shining silk.
 Sat'in (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to satin, made of satin.
 Sat'inet (s. from satin) A kind of slight satin.
 Sat'ing (p. a. from fate) Satisfying, filling, palling.
 Sat'ion (s. from the Lat. satio but not used) A sowing, the act of sowing. Cole.
 Sat'ir (s. a different spelling) A satire.
 Sat'ira (s. in old records) A platter, a bread dish.
 SAT'IRE (s. from the Lat. satira) A kind of general lampoon, a poem in which vice is exposed to ridicule.
 Satir'ic (adj. from satire) Belonging to satire, satirical.
 Satir'ical (adj. from satire) Belonging to satire, conveying censure, containing satire.
 Satir'ically (adv. from satire) In the manner of satire, with satire.
 Satir'icalness (s. from satirical) The quality of being satirical.
 Sat'irist (s. from satire) One who writes satire.
 Sat'irize (v. t. from satire) To censure as in a satire.
 Sat'irized (p. from satirize) Censured in satire.
 Sat'irizing (p. a. from satirize) Censuring as in satire.
 SATISDA'TION (s. from the Lat. satis enough, and do to give, but not used) The act of giving security.
 Satisfaction (s. from satisfy) The act of pleasing to the full, the state of being pleased to the full; an atonement for a crime, a recompence for an injury.
 Satisfac'tive (adj. from satisfaction) Giving satisfaction. Brown.
 Satisfac'torily (adv. from satisfactory) To satisfaction.
 Satisfac'toriness (s. from satisfactory) The state or quality of being satisfactory.
 Satisfac'tory (adj. from satisfaction) Giving satisfaction, giving content, making amends, making atonement.
 Sat'isfied (p. from satisfy) Contented, pleased, led to the full; convinced, freed from suspense.
 SAT'ISFY (v. t. from the Lat. satis enough, and facio to make) To content, to please, to feed to the full; to recompense, to pay to content; to convince, to free from doubt.
 Sat'isfy (v. int.) To make payment.
 Sat'isfying (p. a. from satisfy) Contenting, pleasing, feeding to the full; recompensing, convincing, freeing from doubt.
 SA'TIVE (adj. from the Lat. sero satus to sow) Sowed, sowed in gardens.
 SA'TOR (s. in heathen mythology) One of the rural gods.

S A V

Sato'rious (adj. from sator, but not used) Sown, being to sowing.
 Satour'nade (adj. obsolete) Blackish, yellow, having lead colour.
 Sat'rap (s. from satrapa) The satrapa.
 SATRA'PA (s. from the Greek satrapas) The peer, a chief governor of a province in Persia.
 SATRA'PES (s. from the Greek) The chief governor of a province in Persia.
 Sat'rapy (s. from satrapa) The jurisdiction of a satrapa.
 Sat'ten (s. an incorrect spelling) Satin.
 Sat'tin (s. not so correct a spelling) Satin.
 Sat'tinet (s. not so correct a spelling) Satinet.
 Sat'urable (adj. from saturate) Capable of being saturated; with with; as, "Saturable with the quantity."
 SAT'URANT (adj. from the Lat. saturo to fill) Impregnating to the full.
 Sat'urant (s. from the adj.) An absorbent.
 SATURAN'TIA (s. with physicians) Medicines to thin.
 SAT'URATE (v. t. from the Lat. saturo) To fill to full, to fill till it can receive no more.
 Sat'urated (p. from saturate) Filled to the full; with with; as, "Rain water is plentifully saturated with terrestrial matter."
 Sat'urating (p. a. from saturate) Filling to the full, filling till it can receive no more.
 Sat'urday (s. probably from Saturn, and day) The day of the week, the Jewish sabbath.
 Satur'dayevening (s. from Saturday, and evening) The evening of a Saturday.
 Sat'urdaymorning (s. from Saturday, and morning) The morning of a Saturday.
 Sat'urdaynight (s. from Saturday, and night) The night of a Saturday.
 Sat'urdaystop (s. a local word) The space of time from Saturday evening to Monday morning in which it is not lawful to catch salmon.
 SATURE'A (s. in botany) A genus of plants, a favory.
 SATU'RITY (s. from the Lat. saturo to fill) Representing the state of being saturated.
 SA'TURN (s. in heathen mythology) The supposed father of the gods.
 SA'TURN (s. in astronomy) The planet which is farthest from the sun of any other in our system; it is commedated with an amazing phenomenon called a ring, and five satelkites.
 SA'TURN (s. in hymistry) Lead.
 SA'TURN (s. in heraldry) The black colour in the arms of sovereign princes.
 Satur'nal (s. from Saturn) A feast celebrated in honour of Saturn.
 Saturna'lia (s. from Saturn) The feasts celebrated in honour of Saturn.
 SATUR'NIA (s. in heathen mythology) One of the names of Juno.
 SATURN'IA (s. in palmistry) The line which runs through the middle of the hand to the root of the middle finger.
 Satur'nian (adj. from Saturn) Belonging to Saturn, happy, golden, like what was supposed in the reign of Saturn.
 Satur'nine (adj. from Saturn) Belonging to the planet Saturn; dull, heavy, melancholy.
 SATURNIN'IAN (s. in church history) A kind of persecution.
 SA'TYR (s. in heathen mythology, from the Greek satyros) A sylvan god supposed to be rude and lascivious.
 SA'TYR (s. in zoology) A beast of the monkey kind, approaching very near to the human form.
 Sat'yr (s. not so correct a spelling) A satire, a kind of general lampoon.
 SATYRI'ASIS (s. from the Greek) The extension of the penis, the desire of venery.
 SATYRI'ASIS (s. with physicians) A swelling of the glands behind the ears; a kind of leprosy.
 Satyr'ic (adj. from satyr, but not so correct a spelling) Satire.
 Satyr'ical (adj. from satyric, but not so correct a spelling) Satirical.
 SATYR'ION (s. in botany) The ragwort.
 Sat'yrift (s. from satyr, but not so correct a spelling) Satirist.
 SATYR'IUM (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the ragwort.
 Sat'yrize (v. t. from satyr, but not so correct a spelling) To satirize.
 SAV'AGE (adj. from the French sauvage) Wild, untamed, cruel, untamed, barbarous, untaught.

S A V

S A W

(s. from the adj.) A man untaught, a barbarian.
 (v. t. from the adj. but not sufficiently authorized) make barbarous. Thomson.
 (p. from savage) Made barbarous. Thom.
 (adv. from savage) In a savage manner, barously.
 (s. from savage) Ferocity, wildness, barbarousness.
 (s. from savage) Cruelty, barbarity; wildness. Shakespeare.
 (s. not so common a spelling) A savanna. Scott.
 (s. from the Spanish) An open meadow, pasture ground in America. Locke.
 (adj. a different spelling) Scavant, learned. D. of A.
 (s. from the French) Something eaten with to improve the taste.
 (v. t. from the sub.) To accompany with something of higher relish; to intermix with something bad, to mix in an ironical sense with something bad;
 to gratify with rich tastes. Shakespeare.
 (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
 (s. from fauce, and box, a kind of cant word) saucy pert fellow.
 (p. from fauce) Dressed up with fauce, accompanied with something of higher relish.
 (s. from fauce, and pan) A kind of skillet with long handle to boil fauce or other little things.
 (s. from fauce) A small pan in which fauce is at table, the small plate into which a teacup is set.
 (s. a sea term) The part that receives the pivot of the capstern.
 (v. t. from the Lat. faucio but not used) wound. Cole.
 (s. a different spelling) A sausage. Phillips.
 (adj. comp. of faucy) Saucy, in a greater degree.
 (adj. sup. of faucy) Saucy in the greatest degree.
 (adv. from faucy) In a saucy manner, impu-dently.
 (s. from faucy) Impudence, petulance.
 (s. in cookery) A kind of thick sausage.
 (s. in gunnery) A long train of powder sewed in a roll to fire a bombshell, mine, or other combustible.
 (s. in fortification) A fascine or faggot made of large boughs of trees bound together.
 (adj. from fauce) Pert, petulant, insolent to superiors.
 (v. t. from the Lat. salvo) To preserve from danger, to preserve from destruction, to preserve from final condemnation; to reserve, to lay up; to solve, reconcile; to take opportunely.
 (v. int.) To come at a less expence.
 (adj. from the verb) Excepting, saving. "They are all left save three."
 (adj. an old word) Sage, wise. Cole.
 (s. obsolete) Salvia, the sage. Chaucer.
 (s. from save, and all) A small pan inserted in a candlestick to save the ends of candle.
 (p. from save) Reserved, laid up, freed from eternal condemnation; cured, healed. Chaucer.
 (adv. obsolete) Safely. Chaucer.
 (s. from save) One that saves.
 (v. t. a sea term) To excuse, to give reason for commission of a fault.
 (adj. obsolete) Relished, approved. Chaucer.
 (adj. a local word) Fallow. Bailey.
 (adj. obsolete) Safe. Chaucer.
 (adj. obsolete) Redfaced. Chaucer.
 (adj. a local word) Fallow.
 (v. t. the old pret. of see) Saw, did see. Chaucer.
 (v. int. obsolete) To agree. Chaucer.
 (s. obsolete) The sage. Chaucer.
 (s. in botany) The name of an evergreen shrub.
 (p. a. from save) Reserving; laying up, freeing from eternal condemnation; excepting, leaving out of computation. "They all went saving five."
 (s. from the part.) The act of preserving, a salvation, a preservation; a diminution of expence; an exception in favour.
 (adj. from the part.) Near, penurious.
 (adv. from saving) With parcimony, in a saving manner.
 (s. from saving) Frugality, parcimony; a tendency to salvation. Johnson.
 (s. the modern spelling, from the Lat. servator) saviour, a redeemer, the Lord Jesus Christ.

(s. from the French sauveur) A savior, the redeemer, Jesus Christ.
 (v. t. an obsolete spelling) To favour. Chaucer.
 (s. obsolete) Safety. Chaucer.
 (s. from the Heb. signifying desired) A man's name.
 (s. an old spelling) The foul. Chaucer.
 (s. a different spelling, in heraldry) The saltier, the Saint Andrew's cross. Cole.
 (s. in botany, a different spelling) The sanders.
 (s. an old law word) The end of a pedigree.
 (adv. obsolete) Without doubt. Cole.
 (v. int. probably from the French sans without, and terre land) To wander about, to stroll about, to stroll about as one that has no habitation; to go about any thing in a careless idle manner.
 (p. a. from saunter) Wandering about, going about in an idle careless manner.
 (s. from the part.) The act of sauntering about in an idle careless manner.
 (s. from the French) A washball.
 (s. the modern spelling, from the Lat. sapor) A favour, a taste, the power of affecting the palate; a scent, an odour.
 (v. t. from the sub.) To favour.
 (v. int.) To favour; with of: as, "It favors of pride."
 (p. from favor) Savoured.
 (adv. from savory) Savourily.
 (s. from savory) Savouriness.
 (p. a. from favor) Savouring.
 (adj. from favor) Savoury, sweet. Chaucer.
 (adj. from favor) Savoury.
 (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
 (s. from the French sauveur) A taste, the power to affect the palate; a scent, an odour.
 (v. t. from the sub.) To relish, to like; to season, to make savory.
 (v. int.) To send forth a smell, to give a taste;
 with of: as, "They all favour of a bumble spirit."
 (p. from favour) Relished, liked, seasoned, made favoury.
 (adv. from favoury) With a favour, with a pleasing relish.
 (s. from favoury) A pleasing taste, a pleasing smell.
 (p. a. from favour) Tasting, smelling, relishing, liking, seasoning, giving a favour.
 (s. from the part.) The taste. Chaucer.
 (adj. from favour) Pleasing to the taste, pleasing to the smell.
 (s. in botany, a different spelling) The savory,
 the name of an herb.
 (s. in gardening) A fine kind of cabbage.
 (s. in natural history) A stone found in the belly of a lizard.
 (s. a local word) A dead stinking pool. Bailey.
 (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 (s. in zoology) The lizard.
 (s. in cookery) A kind of pudding boiled in a gut.
 (s. in gunnery, but not so common a spelling) The faucisse.
 (s. in the manage) The fault, the leap.
 (s. obsolete) An assault. Chaucer.
 (s. obsolete) A palfrey. Chaucer.
 (s. an old spelling) A palfrey. Cole.
 (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 (s. from the Sax. faga) A dentated instrument for cutting any thing asunder.
 (v. t. from the sub.) To cut with a dentated instrument.
 (v. t. the pret. of fee) Did fee.
 (s. from the Sax. faga, but now grown obsolete) A saying, a sentence, a proverb. Milton.
 (s. from saw, and dust) The dust or small particles made by the operation of the saw.
 (s. obsolete) An old saying. Chaucer.
 (p. from saw) Cut with the saw.
 (s. from saw) One that saws.
 (s. in ichthyology) A fish with a snout like a saw.
 (p. a. from saw) Cutting with a saw.
 (s. from the part.) The act of cutting with the saw.
 (s. from saw, and mill) An engine for sawing.
 (p. from saw) Sawed.
 (s. from saw, and pit) The pit over which large timber is laid to be sawn.
 (adj. a local word) Red faced. Bailey.
 (s. in botany) The name of an herb. Sawwort

S C A

Saw-wrest (s. from saw, and wrest) The instrument with which the teeth of a saw are set.

Saw-yer (s. from saw) One that saws, one whose trade is to saw timber.

SAX'AFRAS (s. a different spelling) The sassifras, an American wood.

SAXA'TILIS (s. in ichthyology) The sea gudgeon.

SAXIF'ICAL (adj. from the Lat. saxum a stone, and facio to make) Forming into stone, turned into stone. Cole.

SAXIFRA'GA (s. with physicians) Medicines to break the stone in the bladder or kidneys.

SAXIFRA'GANT (adj. from the Lat. saxum a stone, and frango to break) Breaking stones. Cole.

SAX'IFRAGE (s. in botany, from the Lat. saxum a stone, and frango to break) The name of an herb so called on account of its efficacy for the stone.

SAXMUND'HAM (s.) A town in Suffolk; it has a market on Thursday, and is 89 miles from London.

Saxmund'ham (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Saxmundham, made at Saxmundham.

SAX'ON (adj. supposed to be from the Sax. seax a crooked sword) Belonging to a warlike people who inhabited the northern part of Germany, got scoting in Britain about the year 440, and subdued a great part of the island; belonging to the language or country of that people.

Sax'on (s. from the adj.) One of the people described in the foregoing article; the language of the people described in the foregoing article.

SAX'ONLAGE (s. from the Sax. seaxen the Saxons, and laga a law) The laws of the Saxons.

SAX'ONY (s. in geography) One of the two circles of the German empire, distinguished by the epithets upper and lower; one of the electorates of the German empire.

SAX'UM (s. from the Lat.) A stone, a great stone, a part of a rock.

SAY (v. t. from the Sax. facgan) To utter in words, to tell, to alledge.

Say (v. int.) To speak, to utter, to pronounce.

Say (s. from the verb) A speech, what one has to say.

Say (s. from assay) A sample, a trial, an experiment.

Say (s. in commerce) A kind of woolen stuff.

Say (v. t. pret. of see) Did see, saw. Chaucer.

Saying (p. a. from say) Declaring, uttering, alledging.

Say'ing (s. from the part.) An expression, a proverb, an opinion sententiously delivered.

SCAB (s. from the Sax. scab) An incrustation formed over a sore by dry matter, any thing like a scabby incrustation; the itch, a disease incident to sheep; a mean paltry fellow.

SCAB'BARD (s. from the German scap) The sheath of a sword; a sheath for the yard of a horse.

Scab'bed (adj. from scab) Covered with scabs; paltry, mean.

Scab'bedness (s. from scabbed) The state of being covered with scabs.

Scab'bier (adj. comp. of scabby) Scabby in a greater degree.

Scab'biest (adj. sup. of scabby) Scabby in the greatest degree.

Scab'biness (s. from scabby) The quality of being scabby.

Scab'by (adj. from scab) Afflicted with scabs, covered with incrustations.

SCABEL'LUM (s. in architecture) A kind of pedestal to support a bust. Dict. of Arts.

SCAB'IES (s. from the Lat.) The itch, the mange, the scab.

SCABINUS (s. from the Lat.) A sheriff, an alderman, the clerk of a market, a warden.

SCABIO'SA (s. in botany) The scabious.

SCAB'IOUS (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

SCAB'IOUS (adj. from the Lat. scabiosus) Itchy, leprous.

SCAB'ROUS (adj. from the Lat. scaber) Rough, rugged; harsh, unmusical.

Scab'rousness (s. from scabrous) Roughness, ruggedness, harshness.

Scab'wort (s. in botany) The name of an herb.

SCACUR'CULE (s. in chemistry) A kind of spirit drawn from the bone of a hart.

Scad (s. in ichthyology) The shad. Carew.

Scad'le (adj. a local word) Flying from the touch, tender, unable to bear the touch. Bailey.

SCÆ'VA (s.) The name of a man.

SCÆ'VITY (s. from the Lat. scævus sinister) The state of being left handed, unluckiness. Cole.

Scafe (adj. a local word) Wild as boys. Bailey.

SCAF'FOLD (s. from the French échaffaut) A temporary gallery; a frame raised on the side of a building for the workmen to stand on.

S C A

Scaff'old (v. t. from the sub.) To furnish with a frame of timber.

Scaff'oldage (s. from scaff'old) A gallery, a hollow frame.

Scaff'olded (p. from scaff'old) Furnished with a scaffolding.

Scaff'olding (p. a. from scaff'old) Making scaffolds, finishing with scaffolds.

Scaffolding (s. from the part.) The act of forming scaffolds, temporary frames; a building slightly erected.

Scaff'oldpole (s. from scaff'old, and pole) A long pole used in forming scaffolds.

SCA'LA (s. in anatomy) The cochlea of the ear.

SCA'LA (s. in architecture) A staircase.

SCALA'DE (s. from the Lat. scala a ladder) A ladder given to a place by raising ladders against the wall.

SCALA'DO (s. a different spelling) The scalade.

Scal'ar (adj. from scale) Belonging to a scale, belonging to a ladder.

Scal'ary (adj. from scalar) Proceeding by steps, ascending by a ladder.

SCALD (v. t. from the Lat. calidus) To burn with liquor; to fallow land in the height of summer; this sense is local.

Scald (s. from the verb) Scurf on the head.

Scald (adj. from the sub.) Paltry, mean. Shakespeare.

Scald'ed (p. from scald) Burnt with hot liquor.

Scald'head (s. from scald, and head) A loathsome disease, a kind of local leprosy in which the head is covered with a continuous scab.

Scald'ing (p. a. from scald) Burning with hot liquor.

Scald'ing (s. from the adj.) The act of burning with liquor.

SCALE (s. from the Sax.) A balance, one of the scales suspended by a beam in weighing.

SCALE (s. from the Lat. scala a ladder) A regular gradation, a ladder, a means of ascent; any thing made of equal distances, any thing graduated; the act of forming a place by ladders, a scalade; a series of harmonical proportions.

SCALE (s. from the Lat. squama) One of the small scales or cruets which cover the coats of fishes or other animals.

Scale (v. t. from the sub.) To cline as by ladders, to measure or compare by weighing; to pare off a surface, to take off lamina; to clean the inside of a cannon by discharging a small quantity of powder.

Scale (v. int.) To come off in thin particles.

Scal'ed (p. from scale) Climbed by ladders, measured, weighing, cleared of scales or thin surfaces.

Scal'ed (adj. from scale) Squamous, having scales.

SCALE'NE (s. in geometry) A triangle with unequal sides.

Scalene'ous (adj. from scalene) Having unequal sides and angles.

SCALE'NI (s. plu. of scalenus) Three muscles of the neck so called because their three sides are unequal.

SCALE'NUM (s. in geometry) A triangle with unequal sides.

SCALE'NUS (s. in anatomy) One of the three muscles of the chest.

Scal'ier (adj. comp. of scaly) Scaly in a greater degree.

Scal'iest (adj. sup. of scaly) Scaly in the greatest degree.

Scal'iness (s. from scaly) The state of being scaly.

Scal'ing (p. a. from scale) Storming a place by the use of ladders, throwing off scales, weighing in cleaning a cannon by firing a small charge of powder.

Scal'ing (s. from the part.) The method of storming a place by the help of ladders, the method of cleaning a cannon by a small discharge of powder, the throwing off scales.

Scalin'ga (s. in old records) A quarry or pit where stone is dug.

Scal'ion (s. a different spelling) The scallion.

Scall (s. from scald) A morbid baldness, the scabbiness.

SCAL'LION (s. in botany, from the Lat. escaion) A kind of onion.

SCAL'LOP (s. from the French escallope) A fish with pectinated shell; a mark on the edge in the form of the segment of a circle.

Scal'lop (v. t. from the sub.) To mark on the edge with segments of circles.

Scal'loped (p. from scallop) Marked on the edge with small segments of circles.

Scal'loping (p. a. from scallop) Marking on the edge with cutting out pieces of a circular form.

Scal'lophell (s. from scallop, and shell) The shell of a scallop.

SCALP (s. from the Italian scalpo the skull) The covers the head; the skull, the bone that encloses the brain.

(v. t. from the sub.) To deprive the skull of its covering, to take off the skin of the head on which the hair grows.

(p. from scalp) Deprived of the skin of the head on which the hair grows.

SCALPEL (s. in surgery) The instrument to scrape a bone; a dissecting knife.

SCALPER (s. in surgery) The scalpel.

SCALPING (p. a. from scalp) Depriving the skull of its covering, taking off the scalp.

SCALPING-IRON (s. from scalp, and iron) The scalpel.

SCALPING-KNIFE (s. from scalp, and knife) The knife used in scalping.

SCALPING-KNIVES (s. plu. of scalpingknife) More than one scalpingknife.

SCALPTOR (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the arm.

SCALES (adj. from scale) Having scales, covered with scales.

SCANDER (s.) A man's name, the son of Hector and Andromache.

SCAMBLE (v. int. of uncertain derivation) To scramble, to get by struggling with others; to shift awkwardly.

SCAMBLE (v. t.) To mangle, to maul.

SCAMBLE (s. from the verb) A struggle with others, an awkward shift.

SCAMBLER (p. from scramble) Mangled, mauled. Mortifier (s. from scramble, in the Scotch dialect) An insider; one that makes too free with the generosity of another.

SCAMBLING (p. a. from scramble) Acting in a turbulent manner, intruding on the generosity of others, scrambling, getting by a struggle with others, shifting awkwardly; mangling, mauling.

SCAMBLINGLY (adv. from scrambling) In a scrambling manner, with noise and turbulence.

SCAMBLING (s. in ancient architecture) The blocks which serve to raise the other members and shew them greater advantage.

SCAMBLING (s. in ancient architecture) One of the scambles, a block, a footstool.

SCAMMONIA (s. in botany) The name of an herb, the scammony.

SCAMMONIATE (adj. from scammonia) Made with scammony.

SCAMMONIUM (s. in medicine) The juice of scammony.

SCAMMONY (s. in botany and medicine) The name of a plant; a concreted juice drawn from an Asiatic plant.

SCAMMOZZI (s.) The name of a man, an architect who invented the jointed rule.

SCAMMOZZI (s. from Scammozzi) The common jointed rule two feet in length.

SCAMP (v. int. from the Dutch schampen) To fly with speed and trepidation.

SCAMP (s. from the verb) A hasty kind of flight.

SCAMPING (p. a. from scamper) Running away with speed and trepidation.

SCAND (v. t. from the Lat. scando) To examine nicely, to examine a verse by counting the feet.

SCANDAL (s. from the Greek σκανδαλον) An infamy, a reproachful aspersion; an offence given by the fault of another.

SCANDAL (v. t. from the sub.) To treat opprobriously, to charge with false imputations.

SCANDAL (p. from scandal) Treated opprobriously, charged with false imputations.

SCANDAL (p. a. from scandal) Treating with infamy, charging with false imputations.

SCANDALIZE (v. t. from scandal) To reproach, to disgrace, to defame; to offend by something supposed criminal.

SCANDALIZED (p. from scandalize) Reproached, disgraced; offended by something supposed criminal.

SCANDALIZING (p. a. from scandalize) Reproaching, disgracing, offending by something supposed to be criminal.

SCANDALOUS (adj. from scandal) Opprobrious, disgraceful, shameful, openly vile; giving public offence.

SCANDALOUSLY (adv. from scandalous) In a scandalous manner, with public offence.

SCANDALOUSNESS (s. from scandalous) The state or quality of being scandalous.

SCANDALUM MAGNATUM (s. from the Lat. scandala, and magnatum of great men) An offence given to a person of dignity by opprobrious speech or action; a writ to recover damages in such cases.

SCANDENT (adj. from the Lat. scando to climb) Climbing, as the vine by the help of tendrils.

SCAN'DIA (s. in geography) Scandinavia.

SCANDINAVIA (s. in geography) A large country including Sweden, Denmark, and Norway.

SCANDINAVIAN (adj. from Scandinavia) Belonging to Scandinavia.

SCAN'DULAR (adj. from the Lat. scandula a single) Belonging to singles or wooden tiles, done withingles. Co.

SCAN'NED (p. from scan) Examined as verses by counting the feet.

SCAN'NING (p. a. from scan) Examining minutely, examining of verses by counting the feet.

SCAN'NING (s. from the part.) The method of examining verses by counting the feet.

SCAN'SION (s. from scan) The examination of a verse by counting the feet. Johnson.

SCANT (adj. of uncertain derivation) Sparing, parsimonious, scarcely competent.

SCANT (adv. from the adj.) Scarcely, hardly. "O'er yonder hills scant does the dawn appear." Gay.

SCANT (v. t. from the adj.) To limit, to straiten.

SCANT'ED (p. from scant) Limited, straitened.

SCANT'ER (adj. comp. of scant) Scant in a greater degree.

SCANT'EST (adj. sup. of scant) Scant in the greatest degree.

SCANT'IER (adj. comp. of scanty) Scanty in a greater degree.

SCANT'IEST (adj. sup. of scanty) Scanty in the greatest degree.

SCANT'ILONE (s. obsolete) A scantling; a measure. Chaucer.

SCANT'ILY (adj. from scanty) In a scanty manner.

SCANT'INESS (s. from scanty) The state or quality of being scanty.

SCANT'ING (p. a. from scant) Limiting, straitening.

SCANT'ING (s. a sea term) The variation of the wind by which it becomes unfavourable to the ship's course.

SCANT'LET (s. from scant) A small quantity, a small pattern, a little piece.

SCANT'LING (s. from scant) A quantity cut for a particular purpose, a piece that does not hold out its full breadth or thickness, a certain proportion, a small quantity.

SCANT'LING (s. a sea term) The dimensions of a piece of timber respecting its breadth and thickness.

SCANT'LY (adv. from scant) Scarcely, hardly, narrowly, penuriously.

SCANT'NESS (s. from scant) Narrowness, smallness, meanness.

SCANT'Y (adj. from scant) Narrow, small, short of a sufficient quantity; sparing, parsimonious.

SCAPE (v. t. from escape) To escape, to avoid, to shun, to fly.

SCAPE (v. int.) To get away from hurt or danger.

SCAPE (s. from the verb) An escape, a flight from hurt or danger; an evasion, a means of escape; a negligent frolick, a mistake through indolence; a loose act, an act of lewdness.

SCAPELLA'TUM (s. in anatomy) The denudation of the glans, a contraction of the prepuce.

SCAP'HA (s. in anatomy) The inner rim of the ear.

SCAPH'ISM (s. from the Greek σκαπτω to make hollow) A barbarous kind of punishment among the Persians in which the criminal was inclosed in a tree made hollow to receive his body and there tied till his excrements became putrid, and he died a miserable death.

SCAPHO'DES (s. in anatomy) The third bone of the tarsus joined to the ankle and so called on account of its resemblance to a boat.

SCAP'LERIE (s. obsolete) The scapulary. Chaucer.

SCAP'ULA (s. in anatomy) The shoulderblade.

SCAP'ULAR (adj. from scapula) Belonging to the shoulderblade.

SCAP'ULAR (s. from the adj.) The scapulary.

SCAPULA'RIS (s. in anatomy) The scapular vein.

SCAP'ULARY (adj. from scapula) Belonging to the shoulders, scapular.

SCAP'ULARY (s. from the adj.) A kind of cloak worn by the religious of various orders as a badge of their veneration for the Virgin Mary.

SCAP'US (s. in botany) The upright stalk of a plant.

SCAP'US (s. in architecture) The first shaft of a column.

SCAR (s. from the Greek σκαρφα) A cicatrix, a mark made by a wound or burn.

SCAR (v. t. from the sub.) To mark as with a sore or wound.

SCAR (s. an old word) A steep rock.

SCAR'AB (s. in the history of insects, from the Lat. scarabæus) The beetle.

SCARABÆ'US (s. in zoology) The beetle, a genus of insects.

SCAR'ABEE (s. from scarabæus) The beetle.

SCARA

S C A

SCARAMON/GIS (s.) A kind of garment which the ancients wore over a coat of mail.

SCAR/AMOUCH (s. from the French escaramouche) A buffoon in motly dress.

SCAR/BOROUGH (s.) A borough town in Yorkshire; it is famous for conveniences of bathing in the salt water, has a market on Thursday, sends two members to parliament, and is 241 miles from London.

Scar'borough (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Scarborough, made at Scarborough.

SCARCE (adj. from the Italian scarso) Rare, uncommon, not plenty.

Scarce (adv. from the adj.) Scarcely. Dryden.

Scarce (adj. obsolete) Near, niggardly. Chaucer.

Scar'cheed (s. an old word) Scarcity. Bailey.

Scar'cely (adv. from scarce) Hardly, scantily, with difficulty.

Scar'cely (adv. obsolete) Sparingly, parcimoniously. Ch.

Scar'cenels (s. from scarce) Scarcity.

Scar'cer (adj. comp. of scarce) Scarce in a greater degree.

Scar'cest (adj. sup. of scarce) Scarce in the greatest degree.

Scar'city (s. from scarce) Rarities, uncommonness; want of plenty.

SCARE (v. t. from the Italian scare) To frighten, to terrify, to strike with sudden fear.

SCARE (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish.

Scar'crow (s. from scare, and crow) An image set up to frighten birds; something to affright, a vain terror.

Scar'crowgull (s. in ornithology) A kind of larus.

Scar'ed (p. from scare) Frightened, terrified, struck with sudden fear.

Scar'efire (s. from scare, and fire) A fright by fire. Holder.

SCARF (s. from the French escharfe) Any thing that hangs loose on the shoulders, something thrown loose over the common dress; a long piece of silk or fash worn over the shoulder on funeral occasions.

Scarf (v. t. from the sub.) To throw loosely on, to dress in any loose vestment.

Scarf (s. a sea term) A particular method of uniting two pieces of timber in which the extremities are sloped and lapped one over the other.

Scarf (v. t. from the sub. a sea term) To unite timber by sloping the extremities and lapping them one over the other.

Scar'fation (s. not so common a word) A scarification. Sc.

Scar'fied (p. from scarf) Dressed in a scarf; united as timbers by a scarf.

Scar'fing (p. a. from scarf) Dressing in a scarf; uniting timbers by a scarf.

Scar'f/skin (s. from scarf, and skin) The cuticle, the thin outward skin that covers the body.

Scar'fication (s. from scarify) A slight incision of the skin with a lancet, the incisions made in the operation of cupping.

Scar'ficator (s. from scarify) One who scarifies, the pointed instrument made use of in cupping.

Scar'fied (p. from scarify) Slightly touched with a lancet, let blood by the application of the scarificator.

SCARIFY (v. t. from the Greek σκαρῖσαι a scar, and the Lat. facio to make) To mark the skin with slight incisions, to let blood by the application of the scarificator.

Scar'ifying (p. a. from scarify) Marking the skin with slight incisions, letting blood by the application of the scarificator.

Scar'ing (p. a. from scare) Frightening, terrifying, striking with sudden fear.

SCARIO/LA (s. in botany) A kind of endive.

Scarkel'la (s. obsolete) A kind of unlawful fishing instrument.

SCAR/LET (s. from the French escarlate) A beautiful bright red colour, cloth died of a beautiful bright red.

Scar'let (adj. from the sub.) Bright red, died of a beautiful bright red.

Scar'letbean (s. from scarlet, and bean) A kind of red bean, a kind of kidneybean.

Scar'letfever (s. from scarlet, and fever) A kind of malignant fever, the miliary fever.

Scar'letgrain (s. from scarlet, and grain) A kind of scarlet-dye, the kermes.

SCARLETINA (s. with physicians) The scarletfever.

Scar'letoak (s. from scarlet, and oak) The ilex, a kind of oak.

Scar'mage (s. obsolete) A skirmish. Spenser.

Scar'mishe (s. obsolete) A skirmish. Chaucer.

Scar'mishinge (s. obsolete) A skirmish. Chaucer.

Scar'moge (s. obsolete) A skirmish. Johnson.

SCARP (s. in fortification) The slope on that side of a ditch which is next to a fortified place.

SCARPE (s. in heraldry) The scarf, the badge of military command.

S C E

Scarre (s. an old word) A naked rock.

Scar'ed (p. from scar) Marked with scars.

Scar'ring (p. a. from scar) Marking with scars.

Scar'ry (adj. from scar) Full of scars, marked with scars.

Scarves (s. plu. of scarf) More than one scarf.

SCA/RUS (s. in ichthyology) A species of labrus.

SCATCH (s. from the French escatche) A kind of horse-bridle.

SCATCH/ES (s. from the French chasses) Stilts.

SCATE (s. from the Islandick skid) A kind of shoe to slide on the ice.

Scate (v. int. from the sub.) To walk or slide on the ice with scates.

SCATE (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish, a kind of thornback.

Scatebros'ity (s. from scatebrous) The state or quality of being scatebrous.

SCA/TÉBROUS (adj. from the Lat. scatebra) Springing bounding with springs, bubbling, abounding.

Scat'er (s. from scate) One that scates.

SCATH (v. t. from the Sax. scathan) To waste, to destroy, to damage.

Scath (s. from the verb, retained in the Scotch dialect) Waste, damage, mischief.

Scathe (s. obsolete) Damage, mischief.

Scath'ful (adj. from scath) Destructive, mischievous.

Scath'less (adj. from scath, obsolete) Void of hurt.

Scath'liche (adj. obsolete) Hurtful.

Scath'ness (s. obsolete) Damage, hurt.

Scat'ing (p. a. from scate) Walking on the ice with scates.

Scat'ing (s. from the part.) The act of passing on the ice with scates.

SCAT'TER (v. t. from the Sax. scateran) To throw loosely about, to sprinkle, to dissipate, to spread.

Scat'ter (v. int.) To fly abroad in small parcels, to be by little and little.

Scat'tered (p. from scatter) Thrown loosely about, dissipated.

Scat'ter (s. from scatter) One that scatters.

Scat'tering (p. a. from scatter) Throwing loosely about, dissipating.

Scat'tering (s. from the part.) The act of throwing loosely about, that which is scattered.

Scat'teringly (adv. from scattering) Loosely, in a scattering manner.

Scat'terling (s. from scatter) A vagabond, one that straggles about without any settled habitation.

SCAT'URIENT (adj. from the Lat. scaturio to gush) Springing up as a fountain.

SCATURIG/INOUS (adj. from the Lat. scaturig) Full of springs, overflowing.

Scav'age (s. an old word) A duty or custom for carrying goods to sale within certain districts.

SCA/VANT (adj. from the French) Learned.

Scav'elman (s. in the dock yards) A labourer at 6s. per week.

Scav'emen (s. plu. of scavelman) More than one scavelman.

SCA/VENGER (s. from the Sax. scafan to shave) An officer who is to keep the streets clean, one that sweeps away the filth from the streets.

SCAU/RUS (s. from the Lat.) One that hath large feet, one that is clubfooted.

Scaw'rack (s. in botany) A kind of sea weed.

SCEDA/SUS (s.) A man's name, a Boeotian who lent hands on himself because his daughter was ravished and drowned in his absence.

SCELA'SIAS (s. in zoology) An animalcule in the blood of the arthronia.

SCEL'ERAT (s. from the Lat. sceleratus) A wicked wretch.

Scele'stique (adj. not used) Wicked, exceedingly vicious.

Scel'eton (s. an incorrect spelling) A skeleton.

SCEL'ETUS (s. with physicians, from the Greek σκελετος to dry up) A skeleton.

Scel'lum (s. not much used) A wicked fellow, a villain.

SCELOTYR'BE (s. from the Greek σκελετος the leg, τυραννις a tumult) The scurvy, the pain in the legs usually attends a scorbutic habit, a medicine for scurvy.

Scen'ary (s. from scene) The appearance of places, things, the representation of the place in which an action is performed, the disposition and collection of scenes in dramatic representations.

SCENE (s. from the Greek σκηνη) The stage, the theatre of dramatic poetry; the general appearance of an action, the whole contexture of objects; the part presented by the stage, the hangings of the theatre suited to the play, a part of a play.

Scen'ery (s. a different and correct spelling) Scenery, the appearance of place or things.

ic (adj. from scene) Dramatic, theatrical.
 ical (adj. from scenic) Dramatical, theatrical.
 I/TÆ (s. in geography) A people of Arabia who elt in tents.
 graph'ic (adj. from scenography) Drawn in perspective.
 graph'ical (adj. from scenographic) Drawn in perspective.
 graph'ically (adv. from scenographical) In perspective.
 OG/RAPHY (s. from the Greek σκηνη a scene, and γραφω to write) The act of perspective, a representation in perspective.
 OPE/GIA (s. from the Greek) The feast of Tabernacles among the Jews.
 TI (s. from the Lat. sentio to perceive) The power of smelling, the smell; the object of smell, an odour;
 the chase followed by the smell.
 (v. t. from the sub.) To smell, to perceive by the nose; to perfume, to imbue with odour.
 ed (p. from scent) Perceived by the nose, perceived.
 ing (p. a. from scent) Giving a smell, perfuming, perceiving by the smell.
 less (adj. from scent) Void of smell, having no smell.
 el (s. an old word) A bushel.
 ter (s. a different spelling) A sceptre. D. of Arts.
 ic (s. not so common a spelling) A skeptic. Johns.
 ical (adj. from sceptic) Skeptical.
 icalness (s. from sceptical) Skepticalness.
 icism (s. from sceptic) Skepticism.
 TRE (s. from the Greek σκεπτρον) The ensign of royalty borne in the hand; a constellation of the northern hemisphere.
 red (adj. from sceptre) Bearing a sceptre.
 TRI/EROUS (adj. from the Lat. sceptrum a sceptre, and fero to bear) Bearing a sceptre. Cole.
 VA (s.) A man's name.
 age (s. an old spelling) Scavage. Bailey.
 ity (s. from the Lat. scævus sinister) The state of being left handed, unluckiness. Cole.
 age (s. an old word) Scavage. Bailey.
 ll (v. int. an old spelling) Shall. Cb.
 AM/MATHA (s. from the Heb.) A form or kind of communication, the maranatha.
 m'penny (s. an old word) A small duty heretofore levied by some tenants to their lord for being excused from penning up their cattle in his yard for the sake of the dung.
 m'penny (s. a different spelling) The scharnpenny.
 AT (s. in astronomy) A fixed star of the first magnitude in Pegasus.
 DIASM (s. from the Greek σχδιασμος) An extension, a production. Cole.
 DULE (s. from the Lat. schedula) A small roll, a list, an inventory.
 L/DRACUS (s. in ornithology) The black diver.
 LL'ING (s.) A Dutch coin containing six stivers valued at about sixpence three farthings.
 lum (s. a different spelling) A scellum, a villain. Pb.
 MATISM (s. from the Greek σχηματισμος) A composition of the several aspects of the heavenly bodies;
 a particular order or disposition of things.
 matist (s. from schematism) A projector, one that forms schemes.
 ME (s. from the Greek σχημα) A plan, a project, a contrivance; a representation of the several aspects of the heavenly bodies; a figure, a mathematical diagram.
 ne (v. int. from the sub. not much used) To form schemes.
 mer (s. from scheme) One that forms schemes, a projector.
 ming (p. a. from scheme) Forming schemes.
 en (adj. in old records) Shearing.
 en'silver (s. from scheren, and silver) The money heretofore paid by some tenants to their lord for license to shear their sheep.
 SIS (s. from the Greek) A habitude, the relative position of a thing; a rhetorical figure in which a supposed affection or inclination of the adversary is induced in order to be exposed.
 TIC (adj. with physicians, from the Greek σχητινος convenient) Admitting a cure as not yet got into the root; belonging to a disease that has not taken root in the constitution.
 EUCHZERIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 (s. not so common a spelling) A skiff, a small light boat. Cole.
 NUS (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 remote (s. an old word) The solemn meeting of all the free tenants and knights in a county to do fealty to the king, and choose a sheriff.

 SCHI/LUS (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish; it is chiefly found in lakes and seems to be a species between a pike and a perch.
 SCHIN/DEL (s. from the German) A thin board to cover houses; a kind of slate.
 Schirros'ity (s. from schirrus) An induration of the glands.
 Schir'rous (adj. from schirrus) Having an indurated gland, indurated as a diseased gland.
 SCHIR/RUS (s. from the Greek σχιρρος) An indurated gland.
 SCHISM (s. from the Greek σχισω to cleave) A separation, a division in the church.
 Schismatic (adj. from schism) Implying schism, practising schism.
 Schismatic (s. from the adj.) A separatist, one who makes a division in the christian church; a dissenter so called by those who adhere to the established church.
 Schismatical (adj. from schismatic) Implying schism, practising schism.
 Schisma'tically (adv. from schismatical) With schism,
 in a schismatical manner.
 Schis'matize (v. int. from schism) To act the part of a schismatic, to make a breach in the communion of the church.
 Schis'matizing (p. a. from schismatize) Acting the part of a schismatic, dividing the communion of the church.
 SCHIS/TUM (s. in natural history) A kind of alumn.
 Scho (s. obsolete) A shoe. Cbaucer.
 SCHENAN'THUM (s. in botany) The name of a plant,
 the sweet smelling reed.
 SCHENAN'THUS (s. in botany) The schœnanthum, the ischamum.
 SCHÆ'NEIUS (s.) A man's name, the father of Atalanta.
 SCHENOBAT'ES (s. in antiquity from the Greek) A kind of rope dancer.
 SCHENOBAT'ICA (s. from schœnobates) The art of rope dancing.
 SCHENOPRA'SUM (s. in botany) The name of a plant,
 the cives.
 SCHÆ'NOS (s. from the Greek) A rush, a bullrush; a cord, a rope; a measure of land containing sixty stadia.
 SCHÆ'NUM (s. with the antients) A kind of cheap ointment made of sweetmeats.
 SCHÆ'NUS (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 SCHOL'AR (s. from the Lat. schola a school) One who learns of a master, one under instruction; a man of learning; one who has had a liberal education; a man of books, a pedant.
 Schol'arship (s. from scholar) Learning, knowledge; a literary education; an exhibition, a maintenance for a scholar.
 SCHOLAS'TIC (adj. from the Lat. schola a school) Pertaining to the schools, practised in schools, befitting a school.
 SCHOLAS'TICA (s.) The name of a woman.
 Scholas'tical (adj. from scholastic) Belonging to a school, belonging to a scholar, scholastic.
 Scholas'tically (adv. from scholastic) In a scholastic manner, according to the niceties of the schools.
 SCHOLAS'TICI (s. in Roman antiquity) Learned men who were appointed to assist governors of provinces in the discharge of their office, and instruct them in matters of law.
 Scholas'tick (s. not sufficiently authorized) A scholiast. Co.
 Scholas'ticness (s. from scholastic) The state of being qualified with school learning.
 Scho'lay (s. an old word) An exhibition, a scholarship. Cole.
 Schold (v. int. not so common a spelling) To scold.
 Scho'le (s. obsolete) An instruction, an example. Cb.
 Scho'leie (p. obsolete) Educated. Cb.
 SCHOL'IAST (s. from scholium) A writer of explanatory notes, a commentator.
 SCHOL'ION (s. from the Greek) An explanatory note, a comment.
 SCHOL'IUM (s. a different spelling) A scholion, an explanatory observation.
 Scho'ly (s. from scholium) An explanatory note. Hook.
 Scho'ly (v. int. from the sub.) To write expofitions. Hooker.
 Scho'lying (p. a. from scholy, but not used) Writing explanatory notes.
 SCHOOL (s. from the Lat. schola) A house of instruction and discipline, a place of literary instruction; a state

- state of instruction; the scholars that are educated at one place; a system of doctrine; the age of the church succeeding that of the fathers.
- School (v. t. from the sub.) To instruct, to train, to tutor.
- School (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to a school, taught in the schools. "Metaphysics, school divinity, and natural philosophy."
- School/boy (s. from school, and boy) A boy that goes to school, a boy in the rudiments of learning.
- School/dame (s. not much used of late, from school, and dame) A school mistress.
- School/day (s. from school, and day) A day on which school is kept, the age in which youth go to school.
- School'ed (p. from school) Instructed at school.
- School'elay (s. obsolete) An exhibition, a scholarship. Ch.
- School/fellow (s. from school, and fellow) One bred or instructed at the same school.
- School/house (s. from school, and house) A school, the house or room in which a school is kept.
- School'ing (p. a. from school) Instructing, training, tutoring.
- School'ing (s. from the part.) Instruction, learning at school; the premium given to a schoolmaster for instruction.
- School/man (s. from school, and man) One versed in the quibbles and niceties of academical disputation, one skilled in the divinity of the schools.
- School/master (s. from school, and master) One who presides in a school, one who teaches in a school.
- School'men (s. plu. of schoolman) More than one schoolman.
- School/mistress (s. from school, and mistress) A woman who teaches in a school.
- School/room (s. from school, and room) A room in which a school is kept.
- SCHOO'NER (s. a sea term) A small vessel with two masts.
- SCHREIGHT (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish.
- SCHUENAPANA (s. in botany) The caryota.
- SCHWAL'BEA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
- SCIÆ'NA (s. in ichthyology) A genus of acanthopterygious fishes.
- SCI'AGRAPH (s. from the Greek $\sigma\kappa\iota\alpha$ a shadow, and $\gamma\gamma\alpha\phi\omega$ to write) A platform, a description of a building.
- Sciag'rathy (s. from sciagraph) The profile or section of a building; the act of finding the hour by tracing the shadow, the art of dialing.
- SCIAMACHY (s. from the Greek, $\sigma\kappa\iota\alpha$ a shadow, and $\mu\alpha\chi\eta$ a fight) The act of fighting with a shadow.
- SCIAR'RI (s. in natural history) The lava, the matter that runs down from the craters of burning mountains.
- SCI'ATER (s. from the Greek $\sigma\kappa\iota\alpha$ a shadow) An instrument used in designing. Col.
- SCI'ATHERAS (s. from the Greek $\sigma\kappa\iota\alpha$ a shadow, and $\alpha\gamma\alpha\varsigma$ a capture) The pin of a dial which shews the hour by the shadow.
- Sciather'ic (adj. from sciatheras) Belonging to a sundial.
- Sciather'ical (adj. from sciatheric) Pertaining to a sundial.
- SCIAT'IC (adj. from sciatica) Belonging to the gout in the hip, affecting the hip.
- Sciat'ic (s. from the adj.) The hip gout, the sciatica.
- SCIAT'ICA (s. from the Lat.) The gout in the hip, an obstinate pain in the hip.
- Sciat'ical (adj. from sciatic) Belonging to the gout in the hip, affecting the hip.
- SCIDA'CEUM (s. with surgeons) A longitudinal fracture.
- SCIENCE (s. from the Lat. scientia) Knowledge, knowledge grounded on demonstration; one of the seven liberal arts, any art or species of knowledge.
- Scient'ial (adj. from science) Producing science.
- SCIENTIFIC (adj. from the Lat. scientia knowledge, and facio to make) Producing science, belonging to science.
- Scientific'al (adj. from scientific) Producing science, belonging to science.
- Scientifically (adv. from scientific) After the manner of science, in a scientific manner.
- Sci'led (adj. an old word) Closed. Bailey.
- SCIL'LA (s. in botany) A squill, a sea onion.
- Sci'lling (s. an old spelling) A shilling. Camden.
- Sci'llites (s. from scilla) Wine in which squills have been infused.
- SCIL'LY (s. in geography) A cluster of islands near land's end in Cornwall.
- Scim'etar (s. a different spelling) A cimeter.
- Scim'eter (s. a different spelling) A cimeter.
- SCIN'CUS (s. in zoology) A kind of newt resembling crocodile, a small fish used in the composition mithridate.
- Sci'ney (s. in botany) A kind of violet. Airflow.
- Scink (s. a local word) A cast calf.
- SCINTIL'ATE (v. int. from the Lat. scintillo) To sparkle, to send forth sparks.
- Scintil'lating (p. a. from scintillate) Sending sparks, sparkling as the stars.
- Scintilla'tion (s. from scintillate) The act of sparkling, the sparks emitted.
- SCI'OLIST (s. from the Lat. scio to know) One who knows many things superficially. Glamm.
- Sci'olous (adj. from sciolist) Superficially knowing.
- SCIOM'ANCY (s. from the Greek $\sigma\kappa\iota\alpha$ a shadow, and $\mu\alpha\chi\eta$ a fight) The act of fighting with a shadow.
- Scioman'tie (s. a different spelling) Sciomancy.
- SCI'ON (s. from the French) A small twig, a branch taken from one tree to be engrafted into another.
- SCIOP'TIC (adj. from the Greek $\sigma\kappa\iota\alpha$ a shadow, and $\sigma\tau\epsilon\lambda\epsilon\iota\omega$ to see) Belonging to an instrument used in the camera obscura.
- Sciop'tic (s. from the adj.) A sphere or globe with a hole made to turn like the eye and used in experiments made with the camera obscura.
- Sciop'tric (adj. a different spelling) Scioptric.
- SCIO'RA (s. from the Greek $\sigma\kappa\iota\omega\varsigma$) An Athenian festival in honor of Minerva.
- Sciothe'ric (adj. not so correct a spelling) Sciatheric, terminating the hour by the shadow of some of the heavenly bodies.
- SCIP'IO (s.) A man's name, a famous Roman general.
- Scip'per (s. a sea term) The master of a ship, a captain.
- SCIREFA'CIAS (s. a law term) A writ to call a man to shew cause to the court.
- SCI'RON (s.) The name of a man, a famous pirate of antiquity.
- SCIRO'NA (s. with chymists) The dew of autumn.
- SCIR'PEAN (adj. from the Lat. scirpus a rush) Made of bulrushes.
- SCIR'PUS (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the rush.
- SCIRRHOMA (s. from the Greek) The induration of a gland, a scirrhus.
- SCIRRHOSIS (s. from the Greek) The scirrhoma.
- Scirr'hous (adj. from scirrhous) Belonging to a scirrhous, tending to a scirrhus.
- SCIR'RHUS (s. from the Greek $\sigma\kappa\iota\omega\varsigma$) An induration of a gland.
- SCISCITA'TION (s. from the Lat. sciscitatio, but not used) An enquiry. Rail.
- Scis'tars (s. a common but not so correct a spelling) Scissors.
- SCIS'SIBLE (adj. from the Lat. scissus cut) Capable of being cut smoothly by a sharp edge.
- SCIS'SILE (adj. from the Lat. scissus) Capable of being smoothly divided by a sharp edge.
- SCIS'SION (s. from the Lat. scindo scissus to cut) The act of cutting.
- SCIS'SORS (s. from the Lat. scindo scissus to cut) A pair of shears composed of two blades turning on a pivot.
- SCIS'SURE (s. from the Lat. scissura) A rent, a crack, a fissure.
- Sci'tament (s. not used) A pleasant dish, a pleasant courtes.
- Seite (s. an uncommon spelling) A site, the situation. Di. of Art.
- Seite (s. not used) A decree, a statute.
- Sci'turn (s. a local word) A shrewd turn.
- SCI'URUS (s. in zoology) The squirrel.
- Scia'rea (s. in botany) A species of sage.
- SCLA'VI (s. in ancient geography) The old inhabitants of Slavonia.
- Sclaud'er, Sclaud'ir (s. obsolete) Slander. Chambers.
- SCLAVO'NIA (s. in geography) A frontier province on the borders of Turkey in Europe subject to the empire of Austria.
- Slavo'nian (adj. from Slavonia) Belonging to Slavonia, belonging to the language of the Slavonians.
- Slavo'nian (s. from the adj.) A native of Slavonia.
- Slavo'nic (adj. from Slavonia) Belonging to Slavonia, belonging to the language of the Slavonians.
- Slavo'nic (s. from the adj.) The language of the Slavonians.

ans; it is supposed to be one of the most extensive word.

(p. obsolete) Slain. Chaucer.

(v. t. obsolete) To slay. Chaucer.

(re. adj. an obsolete spelling) Slender. Chaucer.

(v. int. an old spelling) To sleep.

AN'THUS (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

OPHTHALMIA (s. from the Greek σκληρος and οφθαλμος an eye) A disease in which the eyes dry and hard.

OPHTHALMY (s. from sclerophthalmia) A disease of the eye in which it becomes dry and hard.

OSARCOMA (s. from the Greek σκληρος hard, and σαρξ flesh) A hard tumor with an ulceration in gums.

OSTIS (s. from the Greek) A hard swelling of the bone.

OTES (s. in anatomy) One of the coats or membranes of the eye, the sclerotica.

OTIC (adj. from the Greek σκληρος hard) Hard, denoting one of the coats of the eye.

OTIC (s. from the adj.) A hardening or consolidating of the eye.

OTICA (s. from sclerotic) One of the coats of the eye.

OTIC (adj. obsolete) Slippery, treacherous. Chaucer.

(v. int. obsolete) To sleep. Ch.

(adj. an old spelling) Sly. Ch.

(v. t. an old pret.) Slit, did slit. Ch.

(s. obsolete) A sleeve. Ch.

(v. t. a local word) To stop a wheel of a carriage cutting a bit of something before it.

(s. with chymists) The icoriae of metal; pot metal.

ON (s. an old spelling) An escutcheon, a coat of arms. Chaucer.

(v. int. from the Dutch scoppen) To treat with contemptuous ridicule, to treat with opprobrious language; with a: as, "And scoffs at the vain wife of the wife."

(s. from the verb) An expression of scorn, contemptuous ridicule.

(s. from scoff) One that scoffs.

(p. a. from scoff) Treating with scorn, treating with contemptuous ridicule.

(adv. from scoffing) In ridicule, with contempt.

(v. int. from the Dutch scholden) To quarrel, clamour, to bawl; to use angry and reproachful words.

(s. from the verb) A clamorous woman, a mean-mouthed woman.

(p. a. from scold) Quarrelling with noise, clamour, using loud and scurrilous language.

(s. from the part.) The act of treating with angry and scurrilous language, noisy scurrilous language.

SCION (s. in zoology) The name of an insect, a kind of scarlet worm.

SCOVDES (s. in anatomy, from the Greek σκωληξ worm, and εidos a form) A process of the cerebellum.

SCYSIS (s. with anatomists) A distortion of the bone.

(s. a different spelling) A scholium. Cole.

(s. an old word) A shoal of fishes.

SCALOP (s. a different spelling) The scallop, the name of a pectinated shell fish.

SCALLOP (s. from scollop, and shell) The shell of the scallop, the representation of the scollop in heraldry.

SCOPAX (s. in ornithology) The woodcock.

SCOPENDRA (s. in zoology) A kind of venomous snake.

SCOPENDRIA (s. in botany) The harts tongue.

SCOPENDRIUM (s. in botany) The name of an herb, plantwort.

SCOPOMACHÆRON (s. from the Greek σκολομαχαιον a scold, and μαχαιρον a knife) A kind of scalpel, surgical instrument so called from its resemblance to the bill of a woodcock.

SCORPUS (s. in botany) The artichoke; a genus of plants.

(s. obsolete) A jest. Cole.

SCORBER (s. in ichthyology) The makeril.

SCORBRUS (s. in ichthyology) The scomber.

SCOM (s. from the Lat. scomma, but now grown into a) A buffoon. L. Estrange.

SCOMA (s. from the Lat. but not used) A jest, a ridiculous jest. Phillips.

SCOE (s. from the German schontz) A pendent candlestick; a candlestick with a mirror behind it to reflect the light; a fort, a bulwark; the head in low or droll style.

Sconce (v. t. from the sub. rather a low word) To mulct, to fine.

Scon'ced (p. from sconce) Mulcted, fined.

Scon'cing (p. a. from sconce) Laying a fine, punishing with a mulct.

SCONE (s.) A town in Scotland, about 30 miles north of Edinburgh, where the kings were usually crowned.

Scool (s. an old word) A shoal of fishes. Bailey.

SCOOP (s. from the Dutch schaape) A kind of large ladle, a shallow vessel with a long handle to throw out liquor, a hollow instrument to take out the pith of an apple; a swab, a stroke with a scoop.

Scoop (v. t. from the sub.) To lade out, to empty by lading; to cut hollow, to cut deep; to carry off in any thing hollow.

Scoop'ed (p. from scoop) Laded out, emptied by lading, cut hollow, cut deep, carried off so as to leave a hollow.

Scoop'er (s. from scoop) One who scoops; the name of a bird.

Scoop'et (s. from scoop) A scoop. Phillips.

Scoop'ing (p. a. from scoop) Lading out, emptying by lading, cutting hollow, cutting deep.

Scoopt (v. t. pret. of scoop) Scooped, did scoop.

Scoopt (p. from scoop) Scooped, made hollow. Ad.

SCOPARIA (s. in botany) A species of plantain.

SCOPE (s. from the Lat. scopus) An aim, an intention, a drift; the thing aimed at, the mark; room, space, liberty, freedom from restraint; an extended quantity, a fally, an act of riot; but these last senses are now grown obsolete.

SCOP'ELISM (s. from the Lat. scopulus a rock) Rockiness. Cole.

Scop'erhole (s. a sea term) The scupper.

Scop'erloit (s. a local word) Time for play, a time of leisure. Bailey.

SCOPS (s. in ornithology) An elegant species of owl.

Scop'tick (s. not used) A jest, a jeer. Cole.

Scopulos'ity (s. from scopulous) The state of being rocky.

SCOP'ULOUS (adj. from the Lat. scopulus a rock) Full of rocks.

Scop'ulousness (s. from scopulous) Rockiness. Scott.

Scor'bute (s. from scorbutus, but not used) The scurvy. Cole.

Scorbu'tic (adj. from scorbutus) Diseased with the scurvy, tending to the scurvy.

Scorbu'tical (adj. from scorbutic) Afflicted with the scurvy, tending to the scurvy.

Scorbu'tically (adv. from scorbutical) With the scurvy, with a tendency to the scurvy.

Scorbu'ticalness (s. from scorbutical) The state of being scorbutical.

SCORBU'TUS (s. from the Lat. with physicians) The scurvy.

Score (s. obsolete) Discourse; the power of reason. Spenser.

SCORCH (v. t. from the Sax. scored) To burn superficially, to burn so as to render the surface hard, to affect with great heat.

Scorch (v. int.) To become dry with heat.

Scorch'ed (p. from scorch) Burnt superficially, burnt so as to harden the surface, affected with great heat; with by and with: as, "scorched by brutal fires." "Scorched with beaten beams."

Scorch'ing (p. a. from scorch) Burning superficially, affecting with great heat.

Scorch'ing (s. from the part.) The act of burning superficially, that which is scorched.

Scorch'ingfennel (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

SCOR'DION (s. in botany) The water germander.]

SCOR'DIUM (s. a different spelling) The water germander.

SCOR'DOTIS (s. in botany) The horehound.

SCORE (s. from the Islandish skora) A notch, a long incision; a line drawn; an account, an account of something past, a debt; a reason, a motive; the musical notes of a song; twenty, twice ten.

Score (v. t. from the sub.) To set down as a debt, to mark by a line; to impute, to charge.

Scor'ed (p. from score) Marked with a line, set down as a debt, imputed, charged.

SCO'RIA (s. from the Lat.) Dross, recement.

Scor'ia (s. plu. of scoria) Dross, recement, the drossy parts.

Scorifica'tion (s. from scorify) The act of reducing to a scoria, that which is reduced to scoriae.

Scor'ified

SCO

scorified (p. from scorify) Reduced to scorize.
SCORIFY (v. t. from the Lat. scoria drofs, and facio to make) To reduce to scorize.
Scorifying (p. a. from scorify) Reducing to scorize.
SCORN (v. t. from the French scerner) To despise, to revile, to slight, to treat with contempt.
Scorn (v. int.) To scoff; with at: as, "He scorned at me."
Scorn (s. from the verb) An act of contumely, contempt.
Scorned (p. from scorn) Despised, treated with contempt.
Scorn'er (s. from scorn) One that scorns, a scoffer.
Scorn'ful (adj. from scorn) Contemptuous, insolent, acting in defiance.
Scorn'ful (s. from the adj.) A scorner, those that treat others with contempt. "Nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful."
Scorn'fully (adv. from scornful) Contemptuously, insolently, with scorn.
Scorn'fulness (s. from scornful) The state or quality of being scornful.
Scorn'ing (p. a. from scorn) Despising, treating with contempt.
Scorn'ing (s. from the part.) The act of treating with scorn, contempt.
Scorn'ing (adj. an old word) Casting off, changing. Co.
SCORODON (s. in botany) A species of garlick.
SCORODONIA (s. in botany) A species of verbena.
SCORODOPRASUM (s. in botany) A species of porrum.
SCORPÆNA (s. in ichthyology) A genus of fishes, the scorpion fish.
SCORPIDES (s. in ichthyology) The scorpena.
Scorpi'ion (s. from scorpion) An engine formerly used to shoot poisoned arrows.
SCORPIO (s. in zoology) A species of wingless insects, a venomous insect having a sting in its tail.
SCORPIO (s. in astronomy) One of the signs of the zodiac.
SCORPIOIDES (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
SCORPION (s. in zoology) A reptile resembling a small lobster; the name of a sea fish.
SCORPION (s. from the foregoing) A scourge so called from its cruelty; scorpio, one of the signs of the zodiac.
Scorpi'ionfish (s. from scorpion, and fish) The scorpena.
Scorpi'ongrass (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
Scorpi'ionena (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
Scorpi'iontail (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
Scorpi'ionwort (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
SCORPITES (s. in natural history) A stone resembling a scorpion.
SCORPIURUM (s. in botany) The turnsole.
SCORPIURUS (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
SCORPIURUS (s. in botany) The scorpiurum.
SCORSE (v. t. from the Italian scoria an exchange, but is now become local) To exchange one thing for another, to swap. Ainsworth.
Scors'd (p. from scorse, local) Exchanged.
Scors'ing (p. a. from scorse, local) Exchanging.
SCORTA'TOR (s. from the Lat. but not used) A man conversant with women of ill fame. Cole.
SCORZONE'RA (s. in botany) The name of a plant; the falsity.
Scofs (v. int. an old word) To change, to make an exchange. Phillips.
SCOT (s. from the Sax. sceat) A part, a portion, the share of a reckoning; a payment. "Scot and lot," parish payments.
Scot (s. from Scotland) A native of Scotland, one of the people of Scotland.
Scot'ale (s. from Scot, and ale) The liberty of selling ale within the precincts of a forest.
SCOTCH (v. t. the derivation is not noted) To cut with superficial incisions.
Scotch (s. from the verb) A slight cut, a hollow incision.
Scotch (adj. from Scotland) Belonging to Scotland, belonging to the people of Scotland.
Scotch (s. from the adj.) The natives of Scotland, the people of Scotland.
Scotch'collops (s. from Scotch, and collops) Veal cut into small pieces.
Scotch'd (p. from scotch) Marked with scotches, marked with slight incisions.
Scotch'die (s. a cant word) The itch.
Scotch'hoppers (s. from scotch, and hop) A play in which boys hop over scotches in the ground.
Scotch'ing (p. a. from scotch) Marking with slight incisions.
Scotch'man (s. from Scotch, and man) A native of Scotland.
Scotch'men (s. plu. of Scotchman) More than one Scotchman.

SCO

Scotch'mist (s. from Scotch, and mist) A sober rain.
Scotch'woman (s. from Scotch, and woman) A woman born in Scotland.
Scotch'women (s. plu. of Scotchwoman) More than one Scotchwoman.
SCOTEL'A (s. in heathen mythology) One of the names of Venus.
Scot'free (adj. from scot, and free) Excused from paying free from punishment.
SCO'TIA (s. in architecture, from the Greek) A method or moulding of a form between the torus and astragal: the roundel on the base of a pillar.
Scot'ist (s. from Scotus) One of the followers of Thomas Scotus a school divine who opposed the Thomists on the articles of predestination and grace.
SCOT'LAND (s.) The northern part of Great-Britain it was an ancient and distinct kingdom but since union it is represented in the British parliament in effect become one with England.
SCOTO'MA (s. with physicians, from the Greek) Dizziness, a giddiness of the head.
Scotom'ical (adj. from scotoma) Affected with scotoma.
Scot'omy (s. from scotoma) A dizziness, a giddiness of the head.
Scot'tering (s. a local word) A custom among boys burning a wad of peasestraw at the end of harvest.
Scot'tish (adj. from Scot) Belonging to the Scots, longing to Scotland.
SCO'TUS (s.) A man's name; Duns Scotus, who was a subtle opposer of the Thomists.
SCO'VEL (s. from the Lat. scopia) A kind of mop sweep an oven, a maulkin.
Scoul (v. int. not so common a spelling) To scowl, look crabbed.
Scoul'ing (p. a. from scoul) Scowling, looking crabbed.
SCOUN'DREL (s. of uncertain derivation) A mean low, a low petty villain.
SCOUR (v. t. from the Danish skurer) To rub so as to clean the surface, to make bright by rubbing; to bleach, to whiten, to blanch; to purge violently; clear away, to drive away with a kind of violence; to pass swiftly over.
Scour (v. int.) To perform the office of cleaning domestic utensils; to become lax, to purge; to range; to scamper away.
Scour (s. from the verb) A part of a brook or river where the water runs with rapidity.
Scour'er (s. from scour) One that cleans by rubbing the surface, one who runs swiftly, a purgative medicine.
SCOURGE (s. from the Lat. corrigia) A whip, an instrument of discipline; a punishment, a punitive affliction; one that afflicts, one that harasses, destroys.
Scourge (v. t. from the sub.) To whip, to lash with whip; to punish, to chastise.
Scourg'd (p. from scourge) Whipped, lashed, chastised, punished.
Scourger (s. from scourge) One that scourges, one that chastises.
Scourg'ing (p. a. from scourge) Whipping, chastising, punishing.
Scourg'ing (s. from the part.) The discipline of scourge.
Scour'ing (p. a. from scour) Rubbing the surface to make it bright, cleansing, passing swiftly.
Scour'ing (s. from the part.) The act or process of scouring the surface of any thing; a scolding in style; a looseness, a disease in horses.
SCOUT (s. from the French escout) One who is sent privately to observe the motions of an enemy.
Scout (v. int. from the sub.) To go out privately to serve the motions of an enemy.
Scout'ing (p. a. from scout) Going out privately to serve the motions of an enemy.
Scout'watcher (s. from scout, and watcher) One who mounts guard at the out post.
SCOWL (v. int. from the Sax scyllan) to frown, look sullen, to knit the brows in anger; with an on: "The things they scowl at." Mens eyes did look on Richard.
Scowl (s. from the verb) A frown, a look of fullness.
Scowl'ing (p. a. from scowl) Frowning, looking full.
Scowl'ing (s. from the part.) The act of looking full.
Scowl'ingly (adv. from scowling) With a sullen look.

er (v. t. not so common or correct a spelling) To Phillips.

AB/BLE (v. int. from the Dutch krabbelen to scratch) To feel with the hands, to paw with the hands.

Ab/bling (p. a. from scrabble) Feeling with the hands, one in the dark, pawing with the hands.

Ab/bling (s. from the part.) The act of pawing with the hands.

AG (s. from the Dutch scraghe) Any thing thin or lean.

Agged (adj. from scrag) Rough, uneven, full of afflictions; lean, thin.

Aggedness (s. from scragged) Unevenness, roughness; leanness.

Aggier (adj. comp. of scraggy) Scraggy in a greater degree.

Aggiest (adj. sup. of scraggy) Scraggy in the greatest degree.

Agginess (s. from scraggy) Unevenness, leanness.

Aggy (adj. from scrag) Lean, thin; rough, ragged.

AW (s. not so common a spelling) A scrawl, a scribble.

AM/BLE (v. int. from the Dutch scraffelen) To reach at any thing eagerly with the hands, to catch in haste to prevent another; to climb by the hands: with with and for: "I scrambled with her for the berries."

Am/ble (s. from the verb) An eager contest in which the endeavours to catch a thing before another; the act of climbing by the help of the hands.

Am/bler (s. from scramble) One that scrambles, one that endeavours to catch a thing before another, one that climbs by his hands.

Am/bling (p. a. from scramble) Endeavouring to reach any thing before others; climbing by the help of the hands.

Am/bling (s. from the part.) The act of endeavouring to catch any thing before others, the act of climbing by the hands.

ANCH (v. t. from the Dutch schrantzter, still retained in the Scotch dialect) To grind between the teeth.

Anch/ed (p. from scran) Ground between the teeth.

Anch/ing (p. a. from scran) Grinding between the teeth.

AN/NEL (adj. the derivation is not noted, and the word is little used) Vile, worthless; grating to the tongue. Milton.

Ap (s. from scrape) A small particle, a little piece, a scrap; a bit of paper. Pope.

AP/E (v. t. from the Sax. screpan) To take off the surface by the light action of a sharp instrument, to scrape; to act on any surface with a hoarse noise; to gather by avaritious and penurious diligence. To scrape acquaintance, to endeavour to get to favour, to solicit familiarity.

Ap (v. int.) To make a disagreeable noise, to make an awkward bow, to play vilely on a fiddle.

AP/E (s. from the Swedish skrap, used in low or droll language) A difficulty, a perplexity.

Ap (p. from scrape) Cleaned by scraping, erased, taken away by scraping.

Ap (s. from scrape) An instrument with which any thing is scraped; a miser, a man who is meanly intent on getting money; a vile fiddler.

Ap (p. a. from scrape) Taking off the surface by the slight action of a keen instrument, cleaning by taking what adheres to the surface, gathering by avaritious and penurious diligence; making a disagreeable noise by passing any thing over a surface, making an awkward bow, playing vilely on a fiddle.

Ap (s. from the part.) The act of taking off the surface by the slight action of a keen instrument; that which is scraped off from any thing; a disagreeable noise, an awkward bow, the sound of a fiddle in the hands of an unskilful player.

AT (s. from the Sax. scritta) An hermaphrodite.

ATCH (v. t. from the Dutch kratzen) To mark the surface with slight and ragged incisions, to tear with the nails, to rub with the nails of the fingers; to wound slightly, to hurt slightly with any thing sharp; to write or draw awkwardly.

Atch (s. from the verb) A slight ragged incision on the surface, a slight wound.

Atch/ed (p. from scratch) Marked on the surface with slight and ragged incisions, torn with the nails, slightly wounded; awkwardly drawn, awkwardly written.

Atch/er (s. from scratch) One that scratches.

Atch/es (s. from scratch) A disease incident to horses.

Atch/ing (p. a. from scratch) Making shallow and unven incisions on the surface, rubbing with the nails, wounding with the nails, wounding slightly, drawing or writing in an awkward manner.

Scratch/ing (s. from the part.) The act of marking a surface with shallow and ragged incisions, the action of the nails in rubbing a part that itches.

Scratch/ingly (adv. from scratching) With the action of scratching. Sidney.

Scratch/ings (s. a local word) The small bits of skin which remain after the fat of a pig is drawn off by melting.

Scratch/work (s. from scratch, and work) A method of painting in fresco.

SCRAW (s. from the Erse) A surface, a turf cut for any purpose.

Scrawl (v. t. supposed to be from scrabble) To mark irregularly, to draw awkwardly, to write inelegantly.

Scrawl (s. from the verb) Inelegant writing.

Scrawl (v. int. from scrawl) To creep like a reptile. Asi.

Scrawl/ed (p. from scrawl) Marked irregularly, written inelegantly.

Scrawl/er (s. from scrawl) One that scrawls, an inelegant writer.

Scrawl/ing (p. a. from scrawl) Marking irregularly, writing or drawing inelegantly; creeping like a reptile.

SCRAY (s. in ichthyology) The sea swallow.

SCRE/ABLE (adj. from the Lat. screibilis) Capable of being discharged by spitting. Johnson.

SCREAK (v. int. from the Danish skrige) To make a shrill hoarse noise.

Scream/ing (p. a. from scream) Making a kind of shrill hoarse noise.

Scream/ing (s. from the part.) The act of making a shrill hoarse noise, a shrill hoarse kind of noise like that of rusty hinges.

SCREAM (v. int. from the Sax. hremen) To cry out shrilly as in fright or agony, to cry shrilly.

Scream (s. from the verb) A quick shrill cry, the cry of terror or pain.

Scream/ing (p. a. from scream) Crying out as in fright or agony.

Scream/ing (s. from the part.) The act of crying out as in fright or agony, the cry of terror or pain.

SCREA/TION (s. from the Lat. screo to spit, but not used) The act of spitting. Bailey.

SCREECH (v. int. from the Islandick skrækia) To cry out as in fright or anguish, to cry as a screechowl.

Screech (s. from the verb) The cry of horror or anguish, a harsh horrid cry.

Screech/ing (p. a. from screech) Crying out as in terror or anguish.

Screech/ing (s. from the part.) The act of crying out as in terror or anguish, the cry of terror or anguish.

Screech/owl (s. in ornithology) The name of a night bird, an owl that makes a dismal cry in the night.

SCREEN (s. from the French écran) A shelter, a concealment, something set up to intercept the view, any thing used to exclude the wind or intercept light; a kind of riddle to sift sand or earth.

Screen (v. t. from the sub.) To shelter, to conceal.

SCREEN (v. t. from the Lat. secerno) To sift, to riddle.

Screen/ed (p. from screen) Sheltered, concealed, defended from cold or heat, sifted.

Screen/ing (p. a. from screen) Sheltering, concealing from the view, defending from heat or cold, sifting.

Screen/ing (s. from the part.) The act of sifting.

Scrive/nishe (adj. obsolete) Like a scrivener; like a pedant. Chaucer.

SCREW (s. from the French escrou) One of the mechanical powers; a kind of nail or pin which enters by turning.

Screw (v. t. from the sub.) To fasten with screws, to turn as with a screw; to distort, to force, to squeeze, to oppress by extortion.

Screw/ed (p. from screw) Turned with a screw, fastened with a screw, distorted, forced, oppressed by extortion.

Screw/ing (p. a. from screw) Turning by a screw, fastening with a screw, distorting, forcing, oppressing by extortion.

Screwing (s. from the part.) The act of fastening with a screw, the act of deforming by distortions, an oppression by extortion.

Screw/tree (s. in botany) The name of a plant, a native both of the East and West Indies.

Scri/bable (adj. obsolete) Fit to write on. Chaucer.

SCRIB/BLÉ (v. t. from the Lat. scribo to write) To fill with artless and useless writing, to write without much coherence or elegance; to mix and card wool.

Scrib/ble (v. int.) To write in a trifling and inelegant manner.

Scrib/ble

SCR

- Scribble (s. from the verb) Worthless writing, inelegant writing.
- Scribbled (p. from scribble) Written in an artless and inelegant manner; mixed and carded as wool.
- Scribbler (s. from scribble) One that scribbles, a petty author; one who mixes and cards wool.
- Scribble/scrabble (s. from scribble, and scrabble) Sorry writing.
- Scribbling (p. a. from scribble) Writing without care or elegance; mixing and carding wool.
- Scribbling (s. from the part.) The act of writing in an artless and trifling manner; the act of mixing and carding wool.
- SCRIBE (s. from the Lat. scribo to write) A writer, a public notary; a teacher of the law among the Jews.
- Scribe (v. t. in joinery, from the sub.) To fit one irregular piece to another by marking it with compasses.
- Scribbed (p. from scribe) Fitted to a joint by scribing.
- Scribber (s. from scribe, but now grown obsolete) A scribe.
- Scribing (p. a. from scribe) Fitting one irregular piece to another by marking it with a proper line drawn by compasses.
- Scribing (s. from the part.) The method of marking one piece of wood by another in order to make a joint.
- SCRIMER (s. from the French escrimeur, but not used) A gladiator, a fencing-master. Shakespeare.
- Scrip (adj. a local word) Scant.
- Scrip/ness (s. a local word) Scantiness. Bailey.
- Scrine (s. from scrinium) A place in which curiosities and things of value are deposited. Spenser.
- SCRINIUM (s. from the Lat.) A coffer, a casket, a place to keep papers, an office or chamber.
- SCRIP (s. from the Islandick skreppa) A small bag, a satchel.
- SCRIP (s. from the Lat. scribo to write) A strip of paper, a schedule, a small writing.
- Scripe (s. an old spelling) A strip of paper, a small writing. Chaucer.
- Scrip/page (s. from scrip) That which is contained in a scrip.
- Script (s. obsolete) A small writing. Chaucer.
- Scriptorian (adj. from scriptory) Scriptory, belonging to writing.
- SCRIPTORY (adj. from the Lat. scribo scriptus to write) Written, written as well as delivered. Swift.
- Scriptural (adj. from scripture) Contained in the scriptures, belonging to the bible.
- SCRIPTURE (s. from the Lat. scribo scriptus to write) A writing, a sacred writing, the bible, a particular part or passage of the bible.
- Scriptures (s. p. u. of scripture) The writings of the Old and New Testament, the bible, more than one passage of scripture.
- Scripturist (s. from scripture) One who makes the scriptures the only rule of faith, one versed in the scriptures.
- Scritch/owl (s. a different spelling) A screechowl. Bailey.
- Scribe (s. obsolete) A scrip, a writing. Chaucer.
- SCRITOIRE (s. a different spelling) A scrutoire. Johnson.
- Scrutoire (s. an uncommon spelling) A scrutoire. Phillips.
- SCRIVENER (s. from the Italian scrivano) One who draws contracts, one whose business it is to place money to interest.
- Scrivenlike (adj. obsolete) Like a scrivener. Chaucer.
- SCROBICLE (s. from the Lat. scrobs a ditch) A furrow, a little ditch.
- SCROBICULUS (s. in old deeds) A little ditch.
- SCROBICULUS (s. with physicians) The pit of the stomach.
- Scrofa (s. in old records) A sow that has had seven litters of pigs.
- SCROFULA (s. from the Lat. scrofa a sow) A depravation of humours, the king's evil.
- Scrofula (s. in old records) A little pig.
- SCROFULARIA (s. in botany) The pilewort, the blind-nettle.
- Scrofulous (adj. from scrofula) Diseased with the scrofula.
- Scrofulousness (s. from scrofulous) The state of being diseased with the scrofula.
- SCROLL (s. of uncertain derivation) A writing wrapped up, a strip or roll of parchment; the voluta in architecture.
- Scrophula (s. not so correct a spelling) The scrofula. Sc.
- Scrophularia (s. in botany, a different spelling) A genus of plants, the figwort.
- Scrophulous (adj. not so correct a spelling) Scrofulous.
- SCROTOCELE (s. from the Lat. scrotum, and the Greek κρηνη a rupture) A rupture of the scrotum.

SCU

- SCROTUM (s. in anatomy, from the Lat.) The membrane that incloses the testicles.
- Scrouge (v. t. a local word) To squeeze, to press.
- Scrowl (s. a different spelling) A scroll. Diff. of
- SCROYLE (s. from the French escrouelle a scrouille) A mean fellow, a rascal.
- SCRUB (v. t. from the Dutch scrobben) To rub, to rub with something coarse and rough.
- Scrub (s. from the verb) A mean fellow, any thing or despicable, a worn out broom.
- Scrub/do (s. from scrub) The itch; a mean fellow.
- Scrub/bed (p. from scrub) Rubbed hard, rubbed with something coarse and rough.
- Scrub/bed (adj. from scrub) Mean, vile, dirty, sorry.
- Scrub/bier (adj. comp. of scrubby) Scrubby in a great degree.
- Scrub/biest (adj. sup. of scrubby) Scrubby in the greatest degree.
- Scrub/bing (p. a. from scrub) Rubbing hard, rubbing with something coarse and rough.
- Scrub/bing (s. from the part.) The act of rubbing with something coarse and rough.
- Scrub/by (adj. from scrub) Mean, vile, dirty, sorry.
- SCRUDLAND (s.) Land allowed for buying apparel.
- Scuff (s. supposed to be from scurf) The agitation of water near the shore, that which is thrown up by the agitation of the water, the foulness left by the tide.
- SCRUPPEAS (s. with physicians) The gout, the humors that produces the gout.
- SCRUPLE (s. from the Lat. scrupulus) A doubt, a difficulty; twenty grains, the third part of a dram, a small quantity.
- SCRUPLE (v. t. from the sub.) To doubt of, to question.
- Scruple (v. int.) To be in doubt, to hesitate.
- Scrupled (p. from scruple) Doubted of, questioned. "was much scrupled by many."
- Scrupler (s. from scruple) One that scruples.
- Scrupling (p. a. from scruple) Doubting, hesitating.
- SCRUPOSE (adj. from the Lat. scruposus, but now obsolete) Full of stones.
- Scruposity (s. from scrupose) The state of being stony.
- Scrupular (adj. from scruple) Belonging to a scruple.
- Scrupulosity (s. from scrupulous) The state of being scrupulous; tenderness of conscience.
- Scrupulous (adj. from scruple) Nicely doubtful, being satisfied in points of conscience, capacious, careful, vigilant, cautious.
- Scrupulously (adv. from scrupulous) With scrupulousness.
- Scrupulousness (s. from scrupulous) Scrupulousness, state of being scrupulous.
- SCRUPULUS (s. from the Lat.) The least denomination of weights used by the ancient Romans, the third part of a dram.
- Scuse (v. t. an old word) To press, to crowd.
- SCRUTABLE (adj. from the Lat. scrutator to search) Searchable, capable of being discovered by examination.
- SCRUTATION (s. from the Lat. scrutator to search) Search, an examination, an enquiry.
- SCRUTATOR (s. from the Lat. scrutator to search) Enquirer, a searcher, an examiner.
- Scrutineer (s. from scrutiny) One who makes a scrutiny, one who strictly examines into any thing.
- Scrutinied (p. from scrutiny, but not used) Scrutinized.
- Scrutinize (v. t. from scrutiny) To search, to examine thoroughly.
- Scrutinized (p. from scrutinize) Searched, thoroughly examined.
- Scrutinizing (p. a. from scrutinize) Searching, examining strictly.
- Scrutinous (adj. from scrutiny, but little used) Enquiries, capacious.
- SCRUTINY (s. from the Lat. scrutator to seek) An enquiry, a search, a minute examination into any thing.
- Scrutiny (v. t. from the sub. but not much used) To scrutinize.
- Scrutiny (s. a law term) The ticket on which an elector writes the name of the person for whom he votes in the mode of election by ballot.
- Scrutinying (p. a. from scrutiny, but not used) Scrutinizing.
- Scrutoir (s. a different spelling) A scrutoire.
- Scrutoire (s. from scrutoir) A case of drawers for writings.
- Scruze (v. t. now become obsolete or local) To squeeze, to compress.
- Scry (s. a local word) A flight, a flock as of birds.
- SCUD (v. int. from the Swedish skutta) To fly, to ay with precipitation; to fly as a ship before a tempest.

 (s. a local word, from the verb) A sudden shower of rain, a flying kind of shower.
 ding (p. a. from scud) Flying, running away with precipitation; flying as a ship before a tempest.
 ding (s. from the part.) The act of flying as a ship before a tempest.
 dle (v. int. from scud, used chiefly in low or droll) To run with a kind of affected haste or precipitation.
 dling (p. a. from scuddle) Running with a kind of affected precipitation.
 fle (s. perhaps from shuffle) A confused kind of fight, tumultuous broil.
 fle (v. int. from the sub.) To fight confusedly, to barrel tumultuously.
 fling (p. a. from scuffle) Fighting in a confused and tumultuous manner.
 LK (v. int. from the Danish sculke) To lie close, to lurk in hiding places.
 der (s. from sculk) One that sculks, one that hides himself for shame or mischief.
 ding (p. a. from sculk) Lying close, concealing one's self for shame or mischief.
 (s. not so correct a spelling) The skull, the arched bone of the head.
 LL (s. supposed to be from the Islandick skola) A small boat, a cockboat; a shoal of fishes.
 cap (s. from scull, and cap) A headpiece, a nightcap.
 der (s. from scull) A cockboat; one who rows a cockboat.
 LERY (s. from the Islandick skola a vessel) The place where common or culinary utensils are kept and cleaned.
 lion (s. from scullery) The lowest domestic servant, one that washes the dishes and kettles in the kitchen scullery.
 LP (v. t. from the Lat. sculpo to carve, but not used) To carve, to engrave, to work in sculpture.
 (s. from the verb) A cut, a print. Scott.
 ved (p. from sculp) Carved, engraved.
 ing (p. a. from sculp) Carving, engraving.
 t (p. from sculp, but not much used) Carved, engraved, with: as, "Sculpt with steel."
 tile (adj. from sculp) Made by carving.
 PTOR (s. from the Lat.) A carver, one who forms wood or stone into images.
 ture (s. from sculp) The act of carving wood or stone, the act of engraving; carved work.
 ture (v. t. from the sub.) To cut in wood or stone, to engrave.
 tured (p. from sculpture) Cut, engraved.
 uring (p. a. from sculpture) Cutting in wood or stone, engraving.
 (s. from the French escume) The froth or foam which rises on the top of any liquor; the dross, the refuse.
 (v. t. from the sub.) To clear off the froth or foam that rises on liquor. Dryden.
 ber (s. a bunting term) The dung of a fox.
 ed (p. not so analogous a spelling) Scummed.
 med (p. from scum) Taken off from the surface, cleared by having the froth or foulness taken off the face.
 mer (s. from scum) A vessel with which liquor is skimmed, a skimmer.
 ming (p. a. from scum) Taking off the surface, skimming from the head or foulness which rises on liquor.
 ming (s. from the part.) The act of clearing off the head or foulness that rises on liquor; the head or foulness taken off from the surface of liquor.
 per (s. a sea term) One of the channels cut through the sides of a ship to carry water off the deck.
 perhole (s. a sea term, from scupper, and hole) One of the holes by which the water is carried off the deck through the sides of the ship. perleather (s. from scupper, and leather) The leather that covers the scupperhole.
 per nail (s. from scupper, and nail) A short nail with a broad head to nail on the scupperleather.
 F (s. from the Sax.) A kind of dry scab, any thing sticking on the surface; a soil, a stain.
 der (adj. comp. of scurfy) Scurfy in a greater degree.
 lest (adj. sup. of scurfy) Scurfy in the greatest degree.

Scurfiness (s. from scurfy) The state of being scurfy.
 Scurfy (adj. from scurf) Full of scurf, abounding with scurf.
 SCUR'RA (s. in ornithology) The jackdaw.
 SCUR'RIL, SCUR'RILE (adj. from the Lat. scurrilis, not much used) Scurrilous. Dryden.
 Scurrility (s. from scurrile) Low language, foul abuse, mean buffoonery.
 scur'rilous (adj. from scurrile) Grossly opprobrious, loudly jocular; low, mean.
 Scur'rilously (adv. from scurrilous) In a scurrilous manner.
 Scur'rilousness (s. from scurrilous) Scurrility, the state of being scurrilous.
 Scur'vier (adj. comp. of scurvy) Scurvy in a greater degree.
 Scur'vief (adj. sup. of scurvy) Scurvy in the greatest degree.
 Scur'vily (adv. from scurvy) Vilely, basely, coarsely.
 Scur'vinefs (s. from scurfy) Baseness, vileness.
 Scur'vy (s. from scurf) A disease arising from some acrimony in the blood, a disease incident to the inhabitants of cold countries.
 Scur'vy (adj. from the sub.) Diseased with the scurvy, scabbed; vile, bad, sorry.
 Scur'vygrass (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the spoonwort.
 Scut (s. from the Islandick skotta) The short tail as of a hare or other animal of the like kind.
 Scut'age (s. from scutagium) Shield money, a tax formerly granted to the king for an expedition to the holy land.
 SCUTA'GIUM (s. in old records) The scutage.
 Scutch (v. t. not much used) To whip, to scourge. Shak.
 SCUTCH'EON (s. from the Lat. scutum a shield) An escutcheon, the field on which a coat armorial is depicted.
 Scute (s. a local word) A small coin of money; a small piece of leather set on a shoe.
 SCUTELLA'RIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 SCUTIFORM (adj. from the Lat. scutum a shield, and forma a form) Having the form of a shield.
 SCUTIFORMIS (s. in anatomy) The thyroids, one of the cartilages of the larynx.
 Scut'tle (s. from scutella) A wide shallow basket, a kind of small grate placed before a hole or window in a wall or door.
 Scut'tle (s. a sea term) A square hole in the deck of a ship to let any thing into the hold, or from one deck to another.
 Scut'tle (v. int. from scud) To run with affected haste.
 Scut'tle (s. from the verb) A quick pace, an affected run.
 Scut'tling (p. a. from scuttle) Running with affected haste.
 SCUTUM (s. from the Lat.) A shield. In anatomy, the kneecap, the round bone of the knee. In surgery, a plaister in the form of a shield to be applied to the stomach.
 SCYAPO'DES (s. in fabulous history) A people of India supposed to have but one leg, and to run with incredible swiftness.
 SCYB'ALON (s. from the Greek) Dung, rubbish. Phil.
 SCYLD (s. an old word, from the Sax.) A default, a debt. Cole.
 Scyl'id (adj. obsolete) Hid, concealed. Chaucer.
 SCYL'LA (s. in the mythology of the poets) The name of a woman, the daughter of Nisus who was supposed to be turned into a lark, the daughter of Phorcus supposed to have been turned into a rock by the enchantments of Circe.
 SCYL'LA (s. in geography) A rock in the straits between Italy and Sicily much celebrated by the ancient poets.
 Scym'itar (s. not so common a spelling) A cimetar.
 SCY'PHUS (s. in anatomy) The passage that conveys the saliva to the palate.
 SCYREGE'MOT (s. an old word) The county court formerly held twice in the year.
 SCY'ROS (s. in geography) An island in the Archipelago where Achilles hid himself in woman's apparel for fear of going to the Trojan war.
 SCYTA'LA (s. in mechanics) A radius or ax spoke standing out of an axis as a handle to turn it; a device among the Lacedemonians for writing letters which could not be read but by placing them on rollers similar to those on which they were written.
 SCYTA'LA (s. in zoology) The field mouse.
 Scy'tale (s. from scytala) The field mouse; the roller or staff on which letters of secret intelligence were written by the Lacedemonians.

SCYTAL'IDES

SCYTALIDES (s. in anatomy) The three small bones in each finger.

SCYTHE (s. a different spelling) A fithe. Pope.

SCYTHIA (s. in geography) The northern part of Europe and Asia now called Tartary.

Scythian (adj. from Scythia) Belonging to Scythia.

Scythian (s. from the adj.) A native of Scythia.

SCYTHICA (s. in botany) The liquorice.

Scythick (adj. from Scythia) Belonging to Scythia. Co.

SCYTHOPOLIS (s.) A city in Syria.

Scythopolitan (adj. from Scythopolis) Belonging to Scythopolis.

Scythopolitan (s. from the adj.) An inhabitant of Scythopolis.

Sdeign (v. t. obsolete) To disdain.

Sdeign'd (p. from sdeign) Disdained. Milton.

Sdeign'ful (adj. obsolete, from sdeign) Disdainful. Spenser.

Sdeign'ing (p. a. from sdeign, obsolete) Disdaining.

Se (s. obsolete) A seat. Chaucer.

Se (v. t. obsolete) To see, to look up, to look upon with regard. Chaucer.

SEA (s. from the Sax. sæ) The ocean, the collection of waters which encompass the earth; a collection of water, a lake; figuratively, any thing rough and tempestuous; a large quantity; an inundation. Half seas over, half drunk.

Sea (adj. from the Lat. much used in composition) Belonging to the sea.

Seabeach (s. from sea, and beach) The seashore.

Sea/beat (adj. from sea, and beat) Beaten by the waves of the sea.

Sea/beaten (adj. from seabeat) Beaten with the waves of the sea.

Sea/bindweed (s. in botany) The name of an herb.

Sea/board (adv. a sea term) Towards the sea.

Sea/boat (s. from sea, and boat) A boat capable of bearing the sea.

Sea/born (adj. from sea, and born) Born of the sea, produced by the sea.

Seaboy (s. from sea, and boy) A boy employed on board a ship.

Seabreach (s. from sea, and breach) An irruption of the sea by breaking the banks.

Sea/bream (s. from sea, and bream) The name of a fish, the fish that abounds on the American coasts.

Seabreeze (s. from sea, and breeze) A breeze blowing from the sea.

Seabuilt (adj. from sea, and built) Built for the sea.

Seacabbage (s. from sea, and cabbage) The name of a plant, sea colewort.

Sea/calf (s. from sea, and calf) An amphibious animal, a seal.

Sea/cap (s. from sea, and cap) A cap made to be worn on shipboard.

Sea/chart (s. from sea, and chart) A map on which the sea coasts are delineated.

Sea/card (s. from sea, and card) A seachart.

Sea/coal (s. from sea, and coal) Coal brought by sea.

Sea/coast (s. from sea, and coast) The shore, the edge of the land bordering on the sea.

Sea/cock (s. in ichthyology) A kind of crab.

Seacolewort (s. from sea, and colewort) The sea-cabbage.

Sea/compass (s. from sea, and compass) The mariners compass, the card and needle by which the course of the ship is directed.

Sea/cow (s. from sea, and cow) The manatee, a fish of the whale kind.

Sea/crow (s. not so common a word) A seagull.

Seadevil (s. from sea, and devil) A monstrous fish in the West Indies.

Sea/dog (s. from sea, and dog) A fish resembling a shark.

Sea/drag (s. from sea, and drag) Any thing that hangs over the side and retards the motion of the ship by dragging in the water.

Sea/dragon (s. from sea, and dragon) The name of a sea fish.

Sea/farer (s. from sea, and fare) A seaman, a traveller by sea.

Sea/faring (adj. from sea, and fare) Travelling by sea.

Seafen'nel (s. from sea, and fennel) The samphire.

Sea/fight (s. from sea, and fight) A battle on the sea.

Sea/fish (s. from sea, and fish) A fish that lives in the sea, the fish of the sea.

SEA/FORD (s.) A borough and port town in Suffex; it has little or no market, sends two members to parliament, and is 60 miles from London.

Sea/ford (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Seaford, made at Seaford.

Sea/fowl (s. from sea, and fowl) Birds that live chiefly at sea, a bird that lives chiefly at sea.

Sea/garland (s. in botany) The name of an herb.

Sea/gate (s. from sea, and gate) The state of two things brought close to each other by a wave or billow.

Sea/girt (adj. from sea, and girt) Encompassed by the sea.

Sea/green (adj. from sea, and green) Resembling the colour of the distant sea.

Sea/green (s. from the adj.) The colour of the distant sea.

Sea/green (s. in botany) The name of a plant, saxifrage.

Sea/gull (s. from sea, and gull) A bird very common on the sea coasts; it is of a light gray colour and about the size of a crow.

SE/AH (s.) A Hebrew measure containing about two gallons and a half.

Seahedge/hog (s. from sea, and hedgehog) The name of a shell fish.

Sea/hog (s. from sea, and hog) The porpus.

Seaholly (s. from sea, and holly) A kind of seaweed.

Sea/holm (s. from sea, and holm) A small uninhabited island; the seaholly.

Sea/horse (s. from sea, and horse) The name of a fish of a singular form, a kind of needle fish; the morse, the riverhorse. Dryden.

SEAL (s. from the Lat. sigillum) A stamp engraved with some particular impression, the impression made by stamp in wax; an act of confirmation.

Seal (v. t. from the sub.) To fasten with wax under impression, to mark with a stamp; to shut, to close, to confirm, to ratify.

Seal (v. int.) To give confirmation by affixing a seal with to or unto: as, "I will seal unto thee my bond." Shakespeare.

Seal (s. in ichthyology) The sea calf.

Sealam'prey (s. from sea, and lamprey) The remora.

Seal'd (p. from seal) Fastened with a seal, marked with a seal, shut, closed, confirmed, ratified.

Seal'er (s. from seal) One that seals.

Seal'ing (p. a. from seal) Fastening with a seal, marking with a seal, closing, shutting, confirming, ratifying.

Seal'ing (s. from the part.) The act of fastening with seal, the act of confirmation by affixing a seal; the impression with which any thing is sealed.

Seal'ingwax (s. from sealing, and wax) The wax used in sealing letters.

Sea/longs (s. a different spelling) The sealings, the froth of the sea.

Seals (s. a hunting term) The knobs of a deer's head.

Sea/lungs (s. a sea term) The froth of the sea.

SEAM (s. from the Sax.) The junction or suture where two edges of cloth are sewed together, the joining of planks in a ship; a scar, a cicatrix; a measure, vessel in which things are held, eight bushels of corn, a load, a horse load; but these last senses are now come local.

SEAM (s. from the Sax. seene) Tallowgrease, lard. Shakespeare.

Seam (s. an incorrect spelling) A sean, a kind of fishing net.

Seam (v. t. from the sub.) To join together by a suture to join the planks in forming the sides of a ship; to mark with a scar.

Sea/maid (s. from sea, and maid) The mermaid.

Sea/mail (s.) A kind of seagull.

Sea/man (s. from sea, and man) A mariner, a sailor, a seaman.

Sea/marge (s. from sea, and marge) A cliff, the margin of the sea. Shakespeare.

Sea/mark (s. from sea, and mark) Something seen at sea as a direction to sailors.

Sea'men (s. plu. of seaman) More than one seaman.

Sea'mew (s. from sea, and mew) The name of a fowl.

Sea'ming (p. a. from seam) Making a seam, joining a future.

Seam'less (adj. from seam) Having no seam, done without a seam.

Sea/monster (s. from sea, and monster) A strange, uncouth formed animal of the sea.

Seams (s. in farriery) A disease incident to horses.

Seam'ster (s. from seam) One who sews or makes linen garments.

Seam'stress (s. from seamster) A woman who makes up linen garments, one who employs herself in sewing.

Seam'y (adj. from seam) Having a seam, full of seams.

S E A

S E C

N (s. from the Lat. sagena) A net) a large kind of fishing net.
navel (s. from sea, and navel) A small shell fish resembling a navel.
navelwort (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
fish (s. from sean, and fish) Fish caught in a sean.
nymph (s. from sea, and nymph, in beaten mythology) A supposed goddess of the sea.
onion (s. in botany and medicine) The squill.
ooze (s. from sea, and ooze) The filth and mud of the sea.
piece (s. from sea, and piece) A picture representing any thing at sea.
pool (s. from sea, and pool) A pool of salt water, a lake of salt water.
port (s. from sea, and port) A town with a harbour or port for ships.
quadrant (s. from sea, and quadrant) The back staff, a kind of quadrant used at sea.
R (v. t. from the Sax. searran to burn) To cauterize, to burn with an iron, to burn.
dry (v. t. from the verb) Dry, withered. Spenser.
breach (s. perhaps for) A sea breach. L. Estrange.
RCE (v. t. from the French fasser) To sift finely.
se (s. from the verb) A fine kind of sieve or bolter.
sifted (p. from searce) Sifted, passed through a searce.
searce (s. from searce) One that searces.
sifting (p. a. from searce) Sifting, passing through a searce.
sift (s. from the part.) The act of sifting finely.
SEARCH (v. t. from the French chercher) To examine, to try, to look for, to look through, to enquire, to seek, to prove. "To search out," to find by seeking.
search (v. int.) To make enquiry, to seek after: with and into: as; "We search for it to no purpose." "They search into every thing." Sometimes with after: as; "Those who seriously search after truth."
search (s. from the verb) An enquiry, an examination, the act of seeking, an enquiry by looking into every suspected place; a quest, a pursuit.
searched (p. from search) Examined, inquired into, sought for.
searcher (s. from search) One that searches, an examiner, an officer in London to examine the bodies of the dead.
searching (p. a. from search) Inquiring, examining, seeking after, exploring, probing.
searching (s. from the part.) The act of seeking, a search.
searcloth (s. from sear, and cloth) A kind of plaister, a large plaister.
seared (p. from sear) Burnt, scorched.
searing (p. a. from sear) Burning, scorching.
searisk (s. from sea, and risk) A venture, a hazard at sea.
searisque (s. a different spelling) A sea risk, a hazard at sea.
searrobber (s. from sea, and robber) One that robs at sea, a pirate.
searrocket (s. from sea, and rocket) The name of a plant.
searoom (s. from sea, and room) Room at sea, a distance from shore.
searover (s. from sea, and rover) A pirate, a sea-robber.
sear (s. a different spelling) A searce, a fine sieve made of lawn. Scott.
sear (v. t. a different spelling) To seize. D. of Arts.
searperpent (s. from sea, and serpent) A serpent supposed to be generated in the sea.
searvice (s. from sea, and service) The duty performed by the officers and sailors of the royal navy, service performed at sea.
searshark (s. from sea, and shark) The shark, a ravenous sea fish.
searshell (s. from sea, and shell) A shell found on the sea shore.
searshore (s. from sea, and shore) The coast of the sea.
sick (adj. from sea, and sick) Sick with the motion of the sea.
sicknefs (s. from seasick) The sickness occasioned by the motion of the sea.
side (s. from sea, and side) The sea shore, the beach.
sin, seasting (s. a sea term) The rope by which the boat is fastened to the ship when she rides in the harbour.
sinaper (s. in ichthyology) A kind of shell fish.

SEA'SON (s. from the French saison) One of the four quarters of the year, a time distinguished from other times, a fit time, an opportunity; a time of no long duration.
SEA'SON (v. t. from the French assaisonner) To give a relish to any thing, to mix with any thing that gives a high relish, to qualify the mixture of some other ingredient, to imbrue, to impregnate; to fit for use or service by habitual exercise, to mature.
Sea'son (v. int.) To become fit for use, to become mature.
Sea'son (s. from the verb) That which gives a high relish.
Sea'sonable (adj. from season) Opportune, suited as to time.
Sea'sonableness (s. from seasonable) Opportunity, propriety as to time.
Sea'sonably (adv. from seasonable) With opportunity, with fitness of time.
Sea'soned (p. from season) Impregnated with something of a high relish, mixed with something savory or piquant, imbrued, matured, fitted for use.
Sea'soner (s. from season) One that seasons, that which gives a relish.
Sea'soning (p. a. from season) Giving a relish, mixing with something savory or piquant, maturing, fitting for use.
Sea'soning (s. from the part.) The act of giving a relish, that which is added to give a relish.
Seafur'geon (s. from sea, and surgeon) A surgeon employed in the sea service.
Seafurround'ed (adj. from sea, and surround) Surrounded with the sea.
SEAT (s. from the Lat. sedes) A chair, a bench, any thing on which one may sit; a chair of state, a throne; a mansion, a residence, a dwelling; a situation, a site.
Seat (v. t. from the sub.) To place on a seat, to cause to sit down, to place in a post of authority, to fix in any particular situation; to fix, to plan firmly.
Seated (p. from seat) Placed in a seat, fixed.
SEAT'ER (s. from the Sax.) The name of an old idol worshipped by our Saxon ancestors.
Sea'term (s. from sea, and term) A word of art used by seamen.
Seateth (v. int. third pers. sing. a hunting term) Taketh to a resting place as a hare pursued by the hounds: takes to her form as a hare. Scott.
Seating (p. a. from seat) Placing in a seat, fixing.
SEA'TON (s.) A port town in Scotland in the county of Lothian.
Sea'turn (s. from sea, and turn) A gale or breeze coming from the sea.
Seaves (s. a local word) Rushes. Bailey.
Seav'y (adj. a local word) Overgrown with rushes.
Sea'ward (adv. from sea, and ward) Towards the sea.
Sea'water (s. from sea, and water) The salt water, the water of the sea.
SEAX (s. from the Sax.) A kind of crooked sword used by the Saxons.
SE'BA (s. from the Heb. signifying a drunkard) The name of a man, the name of a country.
SEBA'CEAN (adj. from the Lat. sebaceus, but not used) Belonging to tallow, made of tallow. Cole.
SEBAR'EE (s. in Jewish antiquity) One of the rabbies who lived and taught after the talmud was finished.
SEBARA'IM (s. plu.) The rabbies who lived and taught after the talmud was finished.
SEBAS'TIAN (s.) A man's name.
SE'BAT (s. from the Heb. signifying a twig) The eleventh month of the Jewish year answering to the moon of our January.
SE'BERT (s. from the Sax.) A man's name.
SEBES'TEN (s. in medicine) A kind of fruit resembling a little plum.
SEBESTE'NA (s. in botany) The cordia, the tree that produces the sebestens.
SE'BUM (s. in anatomy) The suet, human fat.
SE'CALE (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
SECAL'INA (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the secale, the rye.
SE'CAMENT (s. from the Lat. seco to cut, but not used) A chip. Cole.
SE'CANT (s. in geometry, from the Lat. seco to cut) The right line drawn from the center of a circle till it cuts or coincides with the tangent.
SECE'DE (v. int. from the Lat. secedo) To withdraw from.

- from, to separate from the communion of a national church.
- Sece'der (s. from secede) One who withdraws from fellowship.
- Sece'ding (p. a. from secede) Withdrawing from fellowship.
- SECE'RN (v. t. from the Lat. secerno) To separate, to separate finer from grosser matter, to perform the separation of substances in the animal body.
- Secern'ed (p. from secern) Separated as a finer from a grosser matter, separated by the glands in an animal body.
- Secern'ing (p. a. from secern) Separating, separating the proper juices of the animal body.
- SECES'SION (s. from the Lat. secedo secessus to depart) The act of departing, a departure.
- Sech, Seche (v. t. obsolete) To seek. Chaucer.
- Seche (s. obsolete) Cause, occasion. Chaucer.
- Sech'er (s. obsolete) A seeker. Chaucer.
- Sech'in (v. t. obsolete) To seek. Chaucer.
- SE'CLE (s. from the Lat. seculum) A century. Ham.
- SECLU'DE (v. t. from the Lat. secludo) To shut out, to exclude, to shut up from, to shut up apart.
- Seclud'ed (p. from seclude) Shut out, shut up from, shut up apart; with from: as, "None is secluded from the function."
- Seclud'ing (p. a. from seclude) Shutting out, excluding, shutting up, confining apart.
- Seclusion (s. from seclude) The act of secluding, the state of being excluded.
- SEC'OND (adj. from the Lat. secundus) Next in order to the first.
- Se'cond (s. from the adj.) The next in order to the first, one who accompanies another in a duel, a supporter, one who is to take the second place.
- Sec'ond (v. t. from the adj.) To support, to forward, to follow in the next place.
- Sec'ondarily (adv. from secondary) In the second degree.
- Sec'ondariness (s. from secondary) The state of being secondary.
- Secunda'ry (adj. from second) Coming after the first, acting by deputation; arising after a crisis.
- Sec'ondary (s. from the adj.) A delegate, a substitute.
- Sec'onded (p. from second) Supported by an appearance in the second place, promoted by a second.
- Sec'ondhand (s. from second, and hand) The second place of order, the second place in possession. "I have it but at second hand."
- Sec'ondhand (adj. from the sub.) Coming in the second order, derived from another, received from another.
- Sec'ondine (s. not so common a spelling) The secundine. Bailey.
- Sec'onding (p. a. from second) Promoting, supporting by an appearance in the second place.
- Sec'ondminute (s. from second, and minute) The sixtieth part of a minute, a second of time. Wilk.
- Sec'ondrate (s. from second, and rate) The second order, the second in order or dignity.
- Sec'ondrate (adj. from the sub.) Coming in the second order, standing in the second class.
- Sec'ondfight (s. from second, and fight) The power of seeing things future, the power of seeing things distant.
- Sec'ondfought (adj. from secondfight) Endued with secondfight.
- Se'cre (adj. an obsolete spelling) Secret. Chaucer.
- Se'crecy (s. from secret) Privacy, solitude, retirement, forbearance of discovery, fidelity in keeping a secret.
- Se'crement (s. not used) A separate part, a part secreted.
- SE'CRET (adj. from the Lat. secretus) Concealed, private, retired, unseen, unknown, undiscovered, faithful to secrecy; privy, belonging to the privities.
- Se'cret (s. from the adj.) Something studiously hidden, a thing unknown, a thing or matter undiscovered, something that must not be told; privacy, secrecy.
- Se'cret (v. t. from the adj.) To keep private.
- Sec'retari'hip (s. from secretary) The office of a secretary.
- Sec'retary (s. from secret) One intrusted with the management of business, one who writes for another.
- Secrete (v. t. from secret) To hide, to put aside.
- SECRETE (v. t. from the Lat. secerno secretus to secern) To separate as in the animal economy.
- Se'creted (p. from secret) Kept private.
- Secrete'd (p. from secrete) Put aside, hidden; secreted in the animal economy.
- Secrete'ing (p. a. from secret) Keeping private.
- Secrete'ing (p. a. from secrete) Putting aside, hiding, discerning, separating in the animal economy.
- Secre'tion (s. from secrete) The act of separation in the animal economy, the fluid or juice secreted.
- Se'cretist (s. from secret) A dealer in secrets.
- Secrete'tious (adj. from secrete) Separated by secretion.
- Se'cretly (adv. from secret) Privately, in a secret manner.
- Se'cretness (s. from secret) The state of being secret, the faculty of keeping a secret.
- Secre'tory (adj. from secrete) Performing the office of secretion.
- Se'crets (s. from secret) The privities, the organs of generation.
- SECT (s. from the Lat. seco to cut) A body of men divided from others by some particular sentiment or practice; a piece cut off. Shakspeare.
- Secta'rian (adj. from sect) Belonging to a sect.
- Secta'rian (s. from the adj.) One that belongs to a sect or party.
- Secta'rianism (s. from sect) A disposition to follow a sect, opposition to an establishment.
- Secta'ry (s. from sect) One who separates from a public establishment; a follower, a pupil.
- SECTA'TOR (s. from the Lat.) A follower, an imitator, a disciple. Raleigh.
- SECT'IO CÆSA'RIA (s. in anatomy) The hysterotomy, the operation in which the womb is laid open, the mother destroyed to preserve the child, called because it was performed at the birth of Julius Cæsar.
- SECT'ION (s. from the Lat. seco to cut) The act of dividing by a cut, a part divided from the rest, the face or plane of any solid body cut by a line passing through it; a small distinct part of a book or writing.
- SECT'OR (s. from the Lat. seco to cut) The space included between any two radii and the corresponding arch of a circle less than ninety degrees; a mathematical instrument for laying down or measuring angles.
- SEC'ULAR (adj. from the Lat. secularis of the world) Belonging to the world; having no spiritual foundation, opposed to spiritual; not bound by monastic vows; happening once in a century.
- Sec'ular (s. from the adj.) A kind of irregular priest, ecclesiastic not bound by monastic rules.
- Secula'ry (s. from secular) Attention to the things of the present life.
- Seculariza'tion (s. from secularize) The act of converting from regular to secular.
- Sec'ularize (v. t. from secular) To convert from religious to common use; to make worldly.
- Sec'ularized (p. from secularize) Converted from religious to common use.
- Sec'ularizing (p. a. from secularize) Converting from spiritual to common use.
- Sec'ularly (adv. from secular) In a worldly manner.
- Sec'ularness (s. from secular) The state of being secular.
- Sec'uler, Sec'ulere (adj. an old spelling) Secular.
- Sec'ulere (s. an obsolete spelling) A secular, one who is not bound by monastic vows.
- SECUN'DA A'QUA (s. with chymists) Aqua which has been used to dissolve some metal.
- Sec'undary (adj. not so common a spelling) Secondary.
- SECUNDA'TION (s. from secundate, but not much used) The act of forwarding, the act of making prosperous.
- SECUN'DATE (v. t. from the Lat. secundo to make prosperous) To render prosperous.
- SEC'UNDINE (s. from the Lat. secundus second) The afterbirth, the membrane in which the embryo is enclosed in the womb.
- SECURE (adj. from the Lat. securus) Safe, free from danger, easy, exempt from terror; careless, wanton vigilance; with of and from: as, "Secure of safety cannot lose." "Secure from fortune's blows."
- Secu're (v. t. from the adj.) To ascertain, to make safe, to protect, to make safe; to insure; to make safe.
- Secu're'd (p. from secure) Protected, made safe, insured, made fast.
- Secu'rely (adv. from secure) With security.
- Secu'rement (s. from secure) The cause or safety, protection, defence.
- Secu'rer (adj. comp. of secure) Secure in a greater degree.

S E E

et (adj. sup. of secure) Secure in the greatest de-

IDA/CA (s. in botany) A genus of plants; the Idaea, a kind of vetch.

IFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. securis an axe, and ferre to bear, but not used) Bearing an axe. Cole.

ING (p. a. from secure) Making sure, making making fait.

TY (s. from secure) Safety, protection, defence; securus, vicious carelessness, vain confidence.

ORES (s. in antiquity) A kind of gladiators of the Romans.

SED (s. from the Lat. sedes a seat) A chair, a kind of chair carried by two men.

SED (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the close chair which a single person is carried by two men.

SED (s. in pharmacy) Composing medicines.

TE (adj. from the Lat. sedes a seat) Calm, quiet, undisturbed, serene, unruffled.

LY (adv. from sedate) Calmly, with com-ness (s. from sedate) Calmness, tranquillity.

ER (adj. comp. of sedate) Sedate in a greater de-

ED (adj. sup. of sedate) Sedate in the greatest de-

ON (s. from sedate) The act of making se-

VE (adj. from sedate) Composing, relieving. Cole.

CIAS (s.) A man's name. Apoc.

SEDENTARY (s. from sedentary) The state of being sedentary.

SEDENTARY (adj. from the Lat. sedeo to sit) Passed in sitting, wanting motion; torpid, inactive, sluggish, listless.

SED (s. from the Sax. sæg) A kind of long rough rug, a narrow flag.

ER (adj. comp. of sedgy) Sedgy in a greater de-

ED (adj. sup. of sedgy) Sedgy in the greatest de-

ED (adj. from sedge) Full of sedge, overgrown with sedge.

MENT (s. from the Lat. sedeo to sit) That which sits at the bottom of liquor.

SEED (v. int. an obsolete spelling) To seed, to produce seed. Cb.

SEED (s. an obsolete spelling) Seeds. Cb.

SEED (s. from the Lat. seorsim apart, and itio to go) A tumultuous uproar.

SED (adj. from sedition) Inclined to sedition, factious, turbulent.

SED (adv. from sedition) With sedition, with sedition.

SED (s. from sedition) A disposition to sedi-

SEDRE (s.) The high priest of a particular sect among the Persians.

SECE (v. t. from the Lat. seorsim apart, and cedere to lead) To draw aside, to tempt, to corrupt, to lead, to deceive.

SED (p. from seduce) Drawn aside, tempted, corrupted, misled, deceived.

SED (s. from seduce) The practice of seduction, or means of seducing.

SED (s. from seduce) One that seduces.

SED (adj. from seduce) Capable of being seduced.

SED (p. a. from seduce) Drawing aside, corrupting, leading, deceiving.

SED (s. from seduce) The act of seducing.

SED (adj. from seduction) Apt to seduce, apt to seduce.

SED (s. from sedulous) Assiduity, diligence.

SED (adj. from the Lat. sedulus) Assiduous, diligent, laborious, painful.

SED (adv. from sedulous) Assiduously, diligently, laboriously, painfully.

SED (s. from sedulous) The state of being sedulous, industry, assiduity.

SED (s. in botany) A genus of plants; the house-leek.

SED (s. in botany) The valerian, the setwal.

SED (s. from the Lat. sedes a seat) The seat of a bishop, the seat of a bishop.

SED (s. from the Sax. seor) To perceive by the eye, to observe, to find, to descry, to attend, to remark.

SED (v. int.) To have the power of seeing, to have perception; to be attentive, to scheme, to contrive; with through, and into: as, "He sees into my secret soul." "And see through all our fine pretensions."

S E E

SEECH'ING (s.) A town in Norfolk; it has a market on Tuesday, and is 98 miles from London.

Seech'ing (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Seeching, made at Seeching.

SEED (s. from the Sax. sæd) The embryo of a plant or animal; a first principle, an origin; a principle of production; an offspring, a progeny, a race, a generation; a birth, an extraction.

Seed (v. int. from the sub.) To grow to perfect maturity so as to shed the seed, to produce seeds.

Seed (v. t.) To sow with seeds.

Seed (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to seed, containing the seed.

Seed'cake (s. from seed, and cake) A cake interspersed with warm aromatic seeds; a cake made at the end of seed-time.

Seed'ed (p. from seed) Sown with seeds.

Seed'ier (adj. comp. of seedy) Seedy in a greater degree.

Seed'iest (adj. sup. of seedy) Seedy in the greatest degree.

Seed'iness (s. from seedy) The state or quality of being seedy.

Seed'ing (p. a. from seed) Going to seed, producing seed, sowing with seeds.

Seed'ing (s. from the part.) The act or process of sowing lands.

Seed'leep (s. not so common a spelling) A seedlip. Scott.

Seed'ling (s. from seed) A young plant just raised from the seed.

Seed'lip (s. from seed) The vessel in which the sower carries the seed.

Seed'lop (s. a different spelling) A seedlip. Ans.

Seed'ness (s. from seed) Seedtime.

Seed'pearl (s. from seed, and pearl) Small grains of pearl.

Seed'plot (s. from seed, and plot) The ground on which plants are raised from seeds.

Seeds'man (s. from seed, and man) A sower; one who deals in seeds.

Seed'time (s. from seed, and time) The time of sowing.

Seed'y (adj. from seed) Full of seed, abounding with seeds.

Seed'y (adj. applied to French brandy) Having the taste of some seed.

See'ing (p. a. from see) Perceiving by the eye, observing, looking into; perceiving, knowing.

See'ing (s. from the part.) The sense of perceiving by the eye sight, vision.

See'ing (adv. from the part, and in fact perhaps the very same) Since, as it is found. "Seeing it is so I will give up the point."

SEEK (v. t. from the Sax. secan) To look for, to search for, to go to find, to pursue; to solicit, to endeavour to gain.

Seek (v. int.) To make search, to make enquiry, to make pursuit, to apply, to endeavour after; with to, for, and after: as, "All the earth sought to Solomon."

"Who seek after my soul." "I will seek for it as for hid treasure." "To seek," at a loss, in the circumstances of one that seeks after any thing.

Seek'er (s. from seek) One that seeks, an enquirer.

Seek'ing (p. a. from seek) Searching after, looking for, making search, enquiring.

Seek'ing (s. from the part.) The act of making search.

Seek'sorrow (s. from seek, and sorrow) One who makes himself vexation. Sidney.

SEEL (v. t. in falconry, from the French sceller) To close the eyes, to close the eyes of a hawk by drawing a fine thread through the eyelids.

Seel (v. int. a sea term) To lean on one side.

Seel (s. a sea term, from the verb) The violent motion of a ship from one side to the other.

Seel'ed (p. from seel) Closed, shut up, closed as the eyes of a hawk by having a fine thread drawn through the eyelids.

Seel'ing (p. a. from seel) Closing, shutting up, drawing the eye together by a thread passed through the eyelids; rolling from side to side, leaning on one side.

Seel'ing (s. from the part.) The act of closing the eyes by drawing a fine thread through the eyelids, the rolling of a ship from side to side, the state of a ship lying too much on one side.

SEE'LY (adj. from the Sax. seel, a lucky time) Lucky, happy; silly, foolish. Spenser.

SEEM (v. int. from the French sembler) To appear, to have a resemblance, to make a shew, to carry a shew of

S E I

- of truth or probability. It seems, it appears to be, it is likely.
- Seem'er (s. from seem) One that carries an appearance, one that makes pretences.
- Seem'ing (p. a. from seem) Appearing, making a shew, having resemblance, carrying a shew of truth or probability.
- Seem'ing (s. from the part.) An appearance, a shew, a semblance, a fair appearance; an opinion, a meaning.
- Seem'ingly (adv. from seeming) In appearance, in show, in semblance.
- Seem'ingness (s. from seeming) Fair appearance, plausibility.
- Seem'lier (adj. comp. of seemly) Seemly in a greater degree.
- Seem'liest (adj. sup. of seemly) Seemly in the greatest degree.
- Seem'liness (s. from seemly) Decency, comeliness, grace or beauty.
- SEEM'LY (adj. from the Islandick soome decency) Decent, fit, proper, becoming.
- Seem'ly (adv. from the adj.) With decency, with propriety.
- Seen (p. from see) Perceived by the eye, observed, known.
- Seen (adj. from the part.) Skilled, versed. Shaksp.
- Seer (s. a local word) The teat of a cow. Bailey.
- Se'er (s. from see) One that sees; a prophet, one who foresees future events.
- Seer (adj. an old word) Dry, withered. Dryden.
- Seer (adj. not used) Several, divers. Bailey.
- Seer'wood (s. from seer, and wood) Dry wood. Dryden.
- See'saw (s. from saw) A reciprocal motion, playing into each others hand.
- See'saw (v. int.) To move with a reciprocal motion.
- See'saw (adj. from the sub.) Moving with an undulating motion.
- See'sawing (p. a. from see'saw) Moving with a reciprocal motion.
- SEETH (v. t. from the Sax. seadan) To boil, to decoct in hot liquor.
- Seeth (v. int.) To be hot, to boil.
- Seeth'ed (p. from seeth) Boiled, decocted in hot liquor.
- Seeth'er (s. from seeth) A boiler, a pot to boil any thing in.
- Seeth'ing (p. a. from seeth) Boiling, decocting in hot liquor.
- Seeth'ing (s. from the part.) The act or process of decocting in hot liquor.
- Sege (s. obsolete) A siege. Chaucer.
- SEGES'TA (s. in heathen mythology) The goddess who was supposed to preside over corn while in the blade.
- SEGES'TIA (s.) Segesta, the goddess who was supposed to preside over corn in the blade.
- Segge (v. int. obsolete) To say, to speak. Chaucer.
- SEGMENT (s. from the Lat. segmentum) A part cut off or interseced, the space contained between the chord and the arch of a circle.
- Segmen'ta (s. plu. of segmentum) Ornaments of lace, Mosaic pavements. Dict. of Arts.
- Segmentat'ed (adj. from segment) Made of many pieces; divided into segments.
- Segmentleaves (s. in botany) The leaves of a plant naturally divided into several parts or segments. Scott.
- SEGMENTUM (s. from the Lat.) An ornament of lace, a kind of shoulderknot worn by the Roman ladies; a kind of Mosaic pavement.
- SEGMOIDAL (s. in anatomy) One of the femilunar valves.
- Segmoidal (adj. in anatomy) Semilunar, belonging to the valves of the pulmonary artery.
- SEC'NITY (s. from the Lat. segnis) Sluggishness. Sc.
- SEGONTIA'CI (s. in old geography) The ancient people of Hampshire.
- SE'GREANT (adj. in heraldry) Drawn as a griffon in a leaping posture.
- SEG'REGATE (v. t. from the Lat. seorsum apart, and grex a flock) To separate from others, to set apart.
- Seg'regated (p. from segregate) Separated from others, set apart.
- Seg'regating (p. a. from segregate) Separating from others, setting apart.
- Segregation (s. from segregate) The act of separating from others, the act of setting apart.
- SE'GRUM (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
- SE'GUB (s. from the Heb. signifying fortified) A man's name.
- SEI'A (s. in heathen mythology) The goddess who was supposed to take care of the seed while in the earth.

S E L

- SEI'ANCE (adj. in heraldry) Sitting as a cat on a beast with the forelegs strait.
- SEJA'NUS (s.) The name of a man, a great favourite of the emperor Tiberius.
- Seie (v. t. obsolete) To say.
- Seien (v. t. the old pret. of see) Saw, did see.
- Seigh (v. t. an old pret. of see) Saw, did see.
- Seig'neur (s. not so common a spelling) The lord of a manor.
- Seigneu'rial (adj. from seigneur) Independent, independent with large powers.
- SEIGNIOR (s. from the Lat. senior older) A title of honour among the Italians; the lord of a manor or see; the Grand Seignior, the emperor of Turkey.
- Seigniorage (s. from seignior) The right of a lord or lord.
- Seigniorly (s. from seignior) A manor, a lordship, a territory.
- Seignorage (s. from seignior) Authority, an acknowledgement of power.
- Seig'norise (v. t. from seignior) To lord it over.
- Seig'norised (p. from seignorise, but not used) Governed by a lord.
- Seig'norising (p. a. from seignorise) Lording over.
- SEIM'BOLE (s. in commerce) A pipe, half a tun of wine.
- Sein (v. t. an obsolete spelling) To see, to say.
- Sein (p. obsolete) Seen.
- Seinde (v. t. the old pret. of singe) Singed, did singe.
- SEINE (s. from the Sax. signe) A net used in fishing.
- Seine (v. t. an obsolete spelling) To see; to say.
- Seine (p. an obsolete spelling) Seen.
- Sein'er (s. from seine) One that fishes with a seine that fishes with a net.
- Seint (s. obsolete) A girdle.
- Seint'ewarie (s. an old spelling) A sanctuary.
- Seijou're (s. obsolete) A stay.
- SEIR (s. from the Heb. signifying hairy) The name of a man; the name of a country; a mountain on the land of Israel inhabited by the descendants of Esau.
- SEIRIA'SIS (s. from the Greek) An inflammation of the head, a disease incident to infants in which the features subside and make a kind of groove.
- Seis'able (adj. not so common a spelling) Seizable, to be seized.
- Seis'in (s. a different spelling) A seizing, a possession.
- Seis'or (s. a law term) A disseisor, one that takes possession.
- Seit (v. t. an old pret.) Did say.
- SEJU'GATE (v. t. from the Lat. seorsum apart, jugum a yoke, but not used) To separate, to set apart.
- SEJUNC'TION (s. from the Lat. seorsum apart, jungo to join, but not used) The act of putting asunder, a separation.
- Seiz'able (adj. from seize) Capable of being seized, to be seized.
- SEIZE (v. t. from the French saisir) To grasp, to hold on, to fasten on, to take possession of, to take possession by law, to join the ends of two ropes by a cord round them.
- Seize (v. int.) To fix the grasp.
- Seiz'ed (p. from seize) Graped, fastened on, joined the ends of a rope by a cord wound round them; taken into custody, taken into possession by law, possession of; as, "So Pluto seized of Proserpine."
- Seiz'in (s. a law term) Possession, the act of taking possession, the things possessed.
- Seiz'ing (p. a. from seize) Grasping, laying hold, taking into custody; possessing.
- Seiz'ing (s. from the part.) The act of grasping, the act of taking possession by law; the act of making the juncture of a rope by lapping the ends of another and winding a cord about them; the act with which a rope is seized.
- Seiz'ure (s. from seize) The act of seizing, a seizure; the act of taking possession by force of the thing seized, the thing possessed.
- Seke (v. t. an obsolete spelling) To seek.
- Seke (adj. obsolete) Sick.
- Se'kel (a law, obsolete) In like manner.
- Se'keness (s. obsolete, from seke) Sickmess.
- Se'ker (adv. an old word) In like manner.
- SELAGINOIDES (s. in botany) The lyropodium.
- SELA'GO (s. in botany) The hedge hyssop.
- SE'LAH (s. from the Heb. signifying to rest) A pause in the Hebrew music.
- SEL'ANDER (s. in farriery) A kind of scabby disease of horses.

(s.) A town in Yorkshire; it has a market on day, and is 182 miles from London.

(adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Selby, made at th (adj. obsolete) Uncommon, uncouth. Spenser.

elde, Sel'den, Sel'din (adv. obsolete) Seldom. Cb.

M (adv. from the Sax. feldan) Rarely, now and not often.

er (adv. from feldom) More rarely, not so best (adv. from feldom, but not much used) Most

, least feldom.

nefs (s. from feldom) Rareness, uncommon-own (adj. from feld, and shown) Shewn but fel-T (v. t. from the Lat. seorsum apart, and lego ber) To choose out from others, to choose in ference to others.

(adj. from the verb) Choice, nicely chosen,

d out of others; with from; as, "Select from ar bands."

d (p. from select) Chosen out of others, chosen in ference to others; with out of, and from: as, "Sel out of all the provinces." "Selected from the r (adj. comp. of select) More select, choicer.

st (adj. sup. of select) Select in the greatest de-

TI (s. in beaten mythology) The celestial gods.

ng (p. a. from select) Choosing out from others,

ing in preference to others.

on (s. from select) The act of choosing, a is (s. from select) Choiceness.

rs (s. from select) One that selects.

RS (s. in farriery) A disease incident to horses;

nd of sore in the bending of the hoof.

IE (s. in Pagan mythology) The daughter of Cœnd Vesta, the moon.

EU'SIAN (adj. in natural history) Belonging to d of loose earth commonly called mineral agaric.

UTÆ (s. in natural history) The selenites, a class ils.

ITES (s. in natural history) The moon stone to increase and decrease as the moon does.

TIUM (s. in botany) The name of an herb, a kind y.

IUM (s. in botany) A kind of piony.

OG'NUM (s. in botany) The selenium.

raphic (adj. from selenography) Belonging to seraphy.

raphical (adj. from selenographic) Belonging to ography.

raphist (s. from selenography) One who gives a ption of the moon.

OG'GRAPHY (s. from the Greek σελήνη the moon, γραφω to write) A description of the moon.

s. an old spelling) A cellar. Chaucer.

ICIA (s. in ancient geography) A province in Sy-the capital of that province. Acts.

ICIAN (adj. in church history) Belonging to an nt sect who held that God was corporeal.

an (s. from the adj.) One of an ancient sect who that God was corporeal.

CIDÆ (s. in chronology and history) The race of kins who reigned in Syria as successors of Ader the Great, and from whom an era in chrono-was introduced which was supposed to have enced in the twelfth year after the death of prince.

ICUS (s.) A man's name. Apoc.

pron. from the Sax. sylf) The same person, the thing, this above others, the very same, the conscious being.

from the pron.) A regard to one's own self, a selfinciple, personal consideration, one's own person.

d. from the pron. often used in composition) Parti-personal, very, same. "At that self moment (s. from self, and abasement) The act of ng one's self, the state of being abased in one's orrence (s. from self, and abhorrence) The ab-ence of one's self.

use (s. from self, and abuse) The act of abusing self.

uled (adj. from self, and accuse) Accused by one's Selfaccu'sing (adj. from self, and accuse) Accusing one's self.

Selfac'tive (adj. from self, and active) Active of one's self.

Selfac'tivity (s. from selfactive) A selfactive principle.

Selfaffairs (s. from self, and affair) Affairs relating to self.

Selfafright'ed (adj. from self, and affright) Frightened by one's self.

Selfapplau'se (s. from self, and applause) Self praise.

Selfapprobation (s. from self, and approbation) The approbation of one's self.

Selfban'ished (adj. from self, and banish) Banished by one's own choice.

Self'begotten (adj. from self, and begotten) Begotten of one's self, self produced.

Self'born (adj. from self, and born) Born from itself as is fabled of the phoenix.

Selfcompar'ison (s. from self, and comparison) A comparisson drawn from one's self in different conditions. Sb.

Selfcompo'sure (s. from self, and composure) Composure

in one's self.

Selfcent'ered (adj. from self, and centre) Centered in one's self, unmoved.

Self'chain (s. from self, and chain) The same chain. Sb.

Selfchar'ity (s. from self, and charity) Charity for one's self.

Selfcommu'nica'tive (adj. from self, and communicative)

Communicative to self.

Selfconceit (s. from self, and conceit) A too fond opinion of one's self.

Selfconceit'ed (adj. from selfconceit) Puffed up with an opinion of one's self.

Selfconceit'edness (s. from selfconceited) The state or quality of being selfconceited.

Selfconf'idence (s. from self, and confidence) A confidence in one's self.

Selfconf'ident (adj. from self, and confident) Confident in one's self.

Selfconf'id'ing (adj. from self, and confiding) Confiding

in one's self.

Selfconf'icious (adj. from self, and conscious) Conscious

in one's self.

Selfconf'iousness (s. from selfconscious) The state of being selfconscious.

Selfconfid'ering (adj. from self, and consider) Considering with one's self.

Selfconfu'med (adj. from self, and consume) Consumed by itself.

Selfconfur'ming (adj. from self, and consume) Consuming one's self, consuming itself.

Selfcontrad'iction (s. from self, and contradict) A contradiction in itself.

Selfcontrad'ictory (adj. from self, and contradictory) Contradictory in itself.

Selfconvic'tion (s. from self, and conviction) The testimony of conscience.

Selfdeceit (s. from self, and deceit) A deception from one's self.

Selfdecei'ved (adj. from self, and deceive) Deceived of

one's self.

Selfdecei'ver (s. from self, and deceiver) One who de-ceives himself.

Selfdecei'ving (adj. from self, and deceiving) Deceiving

one's self.

Selfdeception (s. from self, and deception) A deception brought on one's self.

Selfdefen'ce (s. from self, and defence) The defence of one's self.

Selfdefend'ed (adj. from self, and defend) Defended by one's own power.

Selfdelu'ded (adj. from self, and delude) Deluded by one's self.

Selfdelu'sion (s. from self, and delusion) A delusion from one's self.

Selfdeni'al (s. from self, and denial) The denial of self.

Selfdeny'ing (adj. from self, and deny) Denying self, mortifying to self.

Selfdestru'yed (adj. from self, and destroyed) Destroyed by one's self.

Selfdetermina'tion (s. from self, and determine) A determination originated in one's self, the power of determination in one's self.

Selfdetermin'ed (adj. from self, and determine) Determined in mind; determined by one's self.

Selfdevour'ing (adj. from self, and devour) Devouring one's self, devouring itself.

Selfdiffu'sive (adj. from self, and diffusive) A diffusing itself abroad.

Selfesteem (s. from self, and esteem) A too fond opinion of one's self.

Selfev'idence

- Selfevidence (s. from selfevident) Clear evidence, full conviction.
- Selfevident (adj. from self, and evident) Evident in itself, commanding immediate assent.
- Selfexamination (s. from self, and examination) A strict or impartial examination of one's self.
- Selfexistance (s. from selfexistent) Existence without origin or dependence.
- Selfexistent (adj. from self, and existence) Existing without origin or dependence.
- Selfflattering (adj. from self, and flattering) Flattering self.
- Selfglorious (adj. from self, and glorious) Glorious in itself, glorying in self.
- Selfharming (adj. from self, and harming) Hurting one's self.
- Selfhomicide (s. from self, and homicide) Selfmurder. Hakewell.
- Selfimparting (adj. from self, and impart) Imparting to one's self.
- Selfimportance (s. from self, and importance) An opinion of one's own importance.
- Selfimportant (adj. from self, and important) Important in one's own opinion.
- Selfimposture (s. from self, and imposture) A self-deception, the act of deceiving one's self.
- Selfinterest (s. from self, and interest) That in which a man is interested as an individual, a regard to self.
- Selfinterested (adj. from selfinterest) Particularly interested, having a mean regard to one's own interest.
- Selfish (adj. from self) Attentive to one's own interest, void of concern for others.
- Selfisher (adj. comp. of selfish) Selfish in a greater degree.
- Selfishest (adj. sup. of selfish) Selfish in the greatest degree.
- Selfishly (adv. from selfish) In a selfish manner.
- Selfishness (s. from selfish) The quality of being selfish, selflove.
- Selfjusticiary (s. not much used) One who justifies himself.
- Selfjustification (s. from self, and justification) The justification of one's self.
- Selfkindled (adj. from self, and kindled) Kindled up of itself.
- Selfknowing (adj. from self, and knowing) Knowing one's self.
- Selfleft (adj. from self, and left) Left to one's self. Milton.
- Selflike (adj. from self, and like) Like one's self. Sidney.
- Selflove (s. from self, and love) The love of self.
- Selfloving (adj. from selflove) Loving one's self.
- Selfmate (s. from self, and mate) The same mate, a mate to one's self. Shakespeare.
- Selfmetal (s. from self, and metal) The same metal. Sb.
- Selfmettle (s. from self, and mettle) Mettle in itself, spontaneous courage. Shakespeare.
- Selfmoved (adj. from self, and moved) Moved by itself.
- Selfmoving (adj. from self, and moving) Moving itself.
- Selfmotion (s. from self, and motion) Spontaneous motion, motion effected by one's own power.
- Selfmovent (adj. from self, and movent) Self moving. Grew.
- Selfmurder (s. from self, and murder) The act of laying violent hands on one's self, murder committed on one's self.
- Selfmurderer (s. from selfmurder) One who murders himself, one who commits selfmurder.
- Selfneglected (adj. from self, and neglected) Neglected of one's self.
- Selfneglecting (adj. from self, and neglecting) Neglecting one's self.
- Selfoffence (s. from self, and offence) Offences committed by one's self. Shakespeare.
- Selfopinion (s. from self, and opinion) An opinion of one's self. Prior.
- Selfopinioned (adj. from selfopinion) Having too good an opinion of one's self.
- Selfpleasing (adj. from self, and pleasing) Pleasing to self, pleasing one's self.
- Selfpossession (s. from self, and possession) The possession of one's self, composure of mind.
- Selfpraise (s. from self, and praise) Praise bestowed on one's self.
- Selfpreservation (s. from self, and preservation) The preservation of one's self, the means used to preserve one's self.
- Selfreproof (s. from self, and reproof) The reproof of conscience.
- Selfreproving (adj. from self, and reproving) Reproving one's self.
- Selfrestrain'd (adj. from self, and restrain) Restrained by one's self.
- Selfrestraint (s. from self, and restraint) A restraint on one's self.
- Selfrighteous (adj. from self, and righteous) Right in one's own opinion.
- Selfrighteousness (s. from selfrighteous) One's righteousness.
- Selfrolled (adj. from self, and rolled) Rolled up of itself.
- Selfsame (adj. from self, and same) Identical, very self.
- Selfseeking (adj. from self, and seeking) Seeking advantage to one's self, solicitous to please self.
- Selfseeking (s. from the adj.) The act of seeking one's own advantage or accommodation.
- Selfslaughter (s. from self, and slaughter) Selfmurder.
- Selfslaughtered (s. from selfslaughter) Slaughtered one's self.
- Selfsubdued (adj. from self, and subdued) Subdued one's self.
- Selfsufficiency (s. from selfsufficient) The state of being self sufficient.
- Selfsufficiency (s. from selfsufficiency) A too fond opinion of one's own sufficiency.
- Selfsufficient (adj. from self, and sufficient) Dependent too much on one's own power, selfconceited.
- Selftormenting (adj. from self, and tormenting) Tormenting one's self.
- SEL'VRA (s. from the Lat.) Half a pound troy ounces.
- SEL'NUM (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
- Se'lie (adj. obsolete) Silly, simple; happy.
- Se'linefs (s. obsolete) Happiness.
- SEL'ION (s.) A ridge of land lying between two rows.
- Seliis (s. obsolete) Seals.
- SEL'KIRK (s.) A parliament town in Scotland in county of Tweeddale.
- SELL (v. t. from the Sax. syllan) To vend, to offer to deliver up for a valuable consideration, to part for a price.
- Sell (v. int.) To have commerce, to keep for a price.
- SELL (s. from the Lat. sellus, but now grown obsolete) A saddle.
- Sell (pron. retained in Scotland) Self.
- Sell (s. an old spelling) A cell.
- Sell (s. with builders) The lowest beam or piece of timber building, the piece of timber next the ground, the lower piece of a window frame. Dict. of Arch.
- SEL'LA (s. from the Lat.) A seat, a chair.
- Se'plander (s. in farriery) A kind of dry scab in the horn of a horse.
- Se'plary (s. from seller) A place accommodated benches.
- Se'pler (s. from sell) One that sells.
- SEL'LERY (s. in botany) The name of an herb with a fallad.
- Sell'ing (p. a. from sell) Vending, alienating, selling for a price.
- Sell'ing (s. from the part.) An alienation, the act of selling with any thing for a price.
- SEL'LI (s. in antiquity) A particular order of the gods of Jupiter.
- Sell'lander (s. a different spelling) The seller.
- Selt (s. a local word) Chance.
- SEL'VAGE (s. of uncertain derivation) The edge of cloth closed by complicating the threads in weaving.
- Sell'vage (s. a sea term) A hank of rope yarn twisted together at several distances.
- Selve (pron. obsolete) Self, the same.
- Selyes (pron. plu. of self) The same persons. "Sight of our past selves."
- Sely (adj. an old word) Silly; silly, simple, plain; next; happy.
- SEM'BLABLE (adj. from the French) Resembling.
- Sem'blableness (s. from sembable) Semblance.
- Sem'blably (adv. from sembable) With resemblance.
- SEM'BLANCE (s. from the French) Resemblance; appearance, shew, figure.
- SEM'BLANT (adj. from the French) Like, resembling.
- Sem'blant (s. from the adj. but not used) Shew, resemblance.
- Sem'blative (adj. from semblant) Suitable, fit, resembling.
- Sem'blance (s. an old spelling) Semblance.
- Sem'blaunt (s. an obsolete spelling) Semblance.
- Sem'blaunte (s. obsolete) A look, a resemblance.
- SEM'BLE (v. t. from the French sembler, but not used) To represent, to make a likeness.
- Sem'ble (v. int. not much used) To appear with a semblance.

S E M

ling (p. a. from semble) Making an appearance. Pr.
 brief (s. an old spelling) A semibrief. Cole.
 e (v. int. old pret. of seem) Did seem.
 (s. a local word) A seam, a horse load. Cole.
 (s. a local word) A measure of corn, eight bushels. Scott.

SI (s. from the Heb. signifying obedience) A man's name.

IO'SIS (s. from the Greek) An observation or remark which may lead to a farther discovery.

NOTICA (s. from the Greek σημειωτική) The semeiotica, that part of physic which considers the signs of health or disease.

NOTICAL (adj. from semeiotica) Pertaining to the semeiosis, shewing the signs of health or disease.

ELE (s. in beaten mythology) The mother of Perseus.

Seemly (adj. obsolete) Seemly, decent. Chaucer.

Seemliness (s. obsolete) Seemliness. Chaucer.

Seemly (adj. an obsolete spelling) Seemly, decent. Chau.

Seemly (s. obsolete) Seemliness, comeliness. Chau.

SEEN (s. from the Lat.) Seed, the seed.

SEMINIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. semen seed, and ferre to bear) Bearing seed.

SEMINATION (s. from the Lat. semen, but not used) Sowing, the act of bringing forth seed. Cole.

SEMINÆ (s. in antiquity) A festival among the Romans to procure a plentiful harvest.

SEMININE (adj. from the Lat. sementinus, but not used) Belonging to seed time. Cole.

SEMITING (p. a. a different spelling) Cementing. Cole.

SEMIT (s. in botany) The anthera; the attire of a stamen.

SEMITAL (adj. from the Lat. used in composition) Half.

SEMITULAR (adj. from semi, and annular) Half round.

SEMITARIAN (s. in church history) One who held that the Father was not of the same but of a substance like to that of the Father.

SEMITARIAN (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the sect or doctrine of the Semitarians.

SEMITIC (s. a different spelling) A semibrief. Harris.

BREVE (s. from the French) A semibrief.

BRIEF (s. from semibreve) A semibreve, a note in music containing half the time of the breve, a note equal in time to two minims.

SEMITIC (s. from semi, and castration) An imperfect castration. Cole.

SEMITIC (s. from semi, and circle) Half a circle.

SEMITIC (adj. from semicircle) Half round, inclosed in a semicircle.

SEMITIC (adj. from semicircle) Half round, comprising half a circle.

SEMITIC (s. from semi, and circumference) Half the circumference.

SEMITIC (s. from semi, and colon) Half a colon, a point denoting a longer pause than a comma.

SEMITIC (adj. from semi, and combust) Half combustible. Bailey.

SEMITIC (s. from semi, and congius) Half a gallon.

SEMITIC (adj. from semi, and conspicuous) Half conspicuous, half visible. Bailey.

SEMITIC (s. from semi, and cope) A kind of half cope.

SEMITIC (s. from semi, and cotyla) Half the cotyla.

SEMITIC (adj. from semi, and cubical) Comprising a cube, having the cubes of the ordinate as the cube of the abscissa.

SEMITIC (s. from semi, and cubit) Half a cubit.

SEMITIC (s. from semicupium) The semicupium. Cole.

SEMITIC (s. with physicians) A half bath, a bath reaching up to the navel.

SEMITIC (s. from semi, and diameter) Half the diameter.

SEMITIC (s. from semi, and diapason) A defective octave, an octave diminished by a lesser semitone.

SEMITIC (s. from semi, and diapente) A defective fifth.

SEMITIC (s. from semi, and diaphaneity) An imperfect transparency.

SEMITIC (adj. from semi, and diaphanous) Half transparent.

SEMITIC (s. from semi, and ditone) The imperfect third.

SEMITIC (s. not much used) A pipe, half a ton. Cole.

SEMITIC (s. from semi, and dolium) A pipe, half a ton.

SEMITIC (adj. from semi, and double) Belonging to the offices in the Roman breviary which are performed with less solemnity than some others.

SEMITIC (adj. from the Lat. semi, half, and fera) Half wild. Cole.

SEMITIC (s. in anatomy) The peroneus, muscle of the tarsus.

SEMITIC (s. not so much used) The semiferulatus. Phillips.

SEMITIC (adj. in botany) Having the upper part of the flower as though obliquely cut off as in the birthwort.

SEMITIC (s. from semi, and floret) A kind of imperfect flower.

SEMITIC (adj. from semi, and floscular) Having an imperfect flower like the dandelion.

SEMITIC (adj. from semi, and flosculous) Having semiflorets.

SEMITIC (s. in botany) A semifloret.

SEMITIC (adj. from semi, and fluid) Imperfectly fluid.

SEMITIC (adj. from semi, and form) Imperfect, half formed.

SEMITIC (adj. from semi, and globular) Comprising half a globe.

SEMITIC (s. from semi, and hyperbola) Half an hyperbola.

SEMITIC (adj. from semihyperbola) Comprising a semihyperbola.

SEMITIC (adj. from semihyperbolic) Comprising a semihyperbola.

SEMITIC (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the thumb.

SEMITIC (s. an obsolete spelling) Seemliness. Chaucer.

SEMITIC (adj. from semi, and lunar) Having the shape of a half moon, like a crescent.

SEMITIC (adj. from semilunar) Resembling the form of a half moon.

SEMITIC (adj. an obsolete spelling) Seemly. Chaucer.

SEMITIC (s. from the Lat. semi half, and mas mares) Half men, castrated men. Bailey.

SEMITIC (adj. from semi, and marine) Half marine.

SEMITIC (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the leg.

SEMITIC (s. from semi, and metal) A kind of fossil, a substance consisting of some metal so mixed with other matter as not to be separated.

SEMITIC (s. from semi, and modius) Half a bushel.

SEMITIC (adj. from the Lat. semen) Pertaining to seed; radical, contained in the seed, proceeding immediately from the seed.

SEMITIC (s. in botany) One of the first two leaves that spring from the seed of most plants.

SEMITIC (s. from feminal) The nature of seed, the power of producing.

SEMITIC (adv. from feminal) In the seed, by virtue of seed.

SEMITIC (s. from seminary) One brought up in a seminary.

SEMINARY (s. from the Lat. semino to sow) A seed plot, the place or flock from which any thing is brought; an origin, a first principle; a feminal state; a school, a place of education.

SEMINATION (s. from the Lat. semino, to sow with seed) The act of sowing.

SEMINERVOSUS (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the thigh.

SEMINIFIC (adj. from the Lat. semen seed, and facio to make) Productive of seed.

SEMINIFIC (adj. from seminisic) Productive of seed.

SEMINIFICATION (s. from seminisic) A propagation from seed.

SEMINIFICK (adj. the less modern spelling) Seminisic.

SEMINIOLUS (s. from semi, and obolus) Half an obolus.

SEMINORDINATE (s. from semi, and ordinate) Half the ordinate.

SEMINIPARABOLA (s. from semi, and parabola) Half a parabola.

SEMINIPARABOLIC (adj. from semiparabola) Comprising half a parabola.

SEMINIPARABOLICAL (adj. from semiparabolic) Comprising half a parabola, belonging to a semiparabola.

SEMIPE'DAL (adj. from semi, and pedal) Consisting of one foot and a half.

SEMIPELAGIAN (adj. from semi, and pelagian) Belonging to the sect or doctrine of the semipelagians.

SEMIPELAGIAN (s. from the adj. in church history) One of a sect who came near to that of the Pelagians.

SEMIPELAGIANISM (s. from semipelagian) The doctrine of the semipelagians, a kind of Pelagianism.

SEMIPELLUCID (adj. from semi, and pellucid) Imperfectly pellucid, imperfectly transparent.

SEMIPROOF (s. a late term) Half a proof, an imperfect proof, the evidence of a single witness.

SEMIQUADRANT

S E M

SEMIFERULA'TUS (s. in anatomy) The peroneus, muscle of the tarsus.

SEMIFIBULA'TUS (s. not so much used) The semiferulatus. Phillips.

SEMIFIS'TULAR (adj. in botany) Having the upper part of the flower as though obliquely cut off as in the birthwort.

Semifloret (s. from semi, and floret) A kind of imperfect flower.

Semiflos'cular (adj. from semi, and floscular) Having an imperfect flower like the dandelion.

Semiflos'culous (adj. from semi, and flosculous) Having semiflorets.

SEMIFLOS'CULUS (s. in botany) A semifloret.

Semiflu'id (adj. from semi, and fluid) Imperfectly fluid.

Se'miform (adj. from semi, and form) Imperfect, half formed.

Semiglob'ular (adj. from semi, and globular) Comprising half a globe.

Semihyper'bola (s. from semi, and hyperbola) Half an hyperbola.

Semihyperbo'lic (adj. from semihyperbola) Comprising a semihyperbola.

Semihyperbol'ical (adj. from semihyperbolic) Comprising a semihyperbola.

SEMIINTEROS'SEUS (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the thumb.

Se'miliness (s. an obsolete spelling) Seemliness. Chaucer.

Semilu'nar (adj. from semi, and lunar) Having the shape of a half moon, like a crescent.

Semilu'nary (adj. from semilunar) Resembling the form of a half moon.

Se'mily (adj. an obsolete spelling) Seemly. Chaucer.

SEMIMARES (s. from the Lat. semi half, and mas mares) Half men, castrated men. Bailey.

Semimari'ne (adj. from semi, and marine) Half marine.

SEMIMEMBRANOSUS (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the leg.

Semimet'al (s. from semi, and metal) A kind of fossil, a substance consisting of some metal so mixed with other matter as not to be separated.

Semimod'ius (s. from semi, and modius) Half a bushel.

Sem'inal (adj. from the Lat. semen) Pertaining to seed; radical, contained in the seed, proceeding immediately from the seed.

Sem'inal (s. in botany) One of the first two leaves that spring from the seed of most plants.

Seminal'ity (s. from feminal) The nature of seed, the power of producing.

Sem'inally (adv. from feminal) In the seed, by virtue of seed.

Sem'inarist (s. from seminary) One brought up in a seminary.

SEMINARY (s. from the Lat. semino to sow) A seed plot, the place or flock from which any thing is brought; an origin, a first principle; a feminal state; a school, a place of education.

SEMINATION (s. from the Lat. semino, to sow with seed) The act of sowing.

SEMINERVOSUS (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the thigh.

SEMINIFIC (adj. from the Lat. semen seed, and facio to make) Productive of seed.

Seminific (adj. from seminisic) Productive of seed.

Seminification (s. from seminisic) A propagation from seed.

Seminifick (adj. the less modern spelling) Seminisic.

Semiobolus (s. from semi, and obolus) Half an obolus.

Semior'dinate (s. from semi, and ordinate) Half the ordinate.

Semiparabola (s. from semi, and parabola) Half a parabola.

Semiparabol'ic (adj. from semiparabola) Comprising half a parabola.

Semiparabol'ical (adj. from semiparabolic) Comprising half a parabola, belonging to a semiparabola.

Semipe'dal (adj. from semi, and pedal) Consisting of one foot and a half.

Semipelagian (adj. from semi, and pelagian) Belonging to the sect or doctrine of the semipelagians.

Semipelagian (s. from the adj. in church history) One of a sect who came near to that of the Pelagians.

Semipelagianism (s. from semipelagian) The doctrine of the semipelagians, a kind of Pelagianism.

Semipellucid (adj. from semi, and pellucid) Imperfectly pellucid, imperfectly transparent.

Semiproof (s. a late term) Half a proof, an imperfect proof, the evidence of a single witness.

SEMIQUADRANT

S E M

Semiqua'drant (s. from semi, and quadrant) Half a quadrant, an arch consisting of forty-five degrees.

Semiqua'drate (adj. from semi, and quadrate) Distant one eighth part of the heavens, comprising one eighth part of a circle.

Semiquar'tile (adj. from semi, and quartile) Comprising one eighth part of the heavens, distant forty-five degrees or one eighth part of a circle.

Semiquar'tile (s. from the adj.) The aspect comprising one eighth part of the heavens.

Semiqua'ver (s. from semi, and quaver) A note in music containing half the time of a quaver.

Semiquin'tile (adj. from semi, and quintile) Comprising one tenth part of the heavens, comprising thirty-six degrees or one tenth part of the circle.

Semiquin'tile (s. from the adj.) The aspect which comprises one tenth part of the heavens.

SE'MIS (s. with the Romans) Half the as.

Semifex'tile (adj. from semi, and sextile) Comprising one twelfth part of the heavens, distant thirty degrees or one twelfth part of the circle.

Semifex'tile (s. from the adj.) The aspect which includes one twelfth part of the heavens.

Sem'ifixth (s. from semi, and fix) The semifextile. John.

Sem'ifoune (s. obsolete) A gentle noise, a soft sound. Ch.

Sem'ispec'ulum (s. in surgery) An instrument to widen a wound in the neck of the bladder.

Sem'isphere (s. from semi, and sphere) Half a sphere.

Semisphere'al (adj. from hemisphere) Comprising half a sphere.

Semispheroid (s. from semi, and spheroid) Half a spheroid.

Semispheroid'al (adj. from semispheroid) Comprising half a spheroid.

SEMISPINA'LIS (s. in anatomy) One of the muscles of the back.

SEMISPINA'TUS (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the breast.

SEMISPINO'SUS (s. in anatomy) The semispinalis.

SEMIS'SIS (s. in Roman antiquity) Half the as.

SEM'ITALUMINO'SA (s. in astronomy) A lucid tract in the heavens which appears about six o'clock a little before the vernal equinox, extending from the western horizon to the Pleiades.

SEM'ITATE (v. t. from semito, but not used) To make paths. Cole.

SEMITENDINO'SUS (s. in anatomy) A muscle of the thigh.

Se'miter (s. a different spelling) A cimeter, a kind of broad sword.

Semiter'tian (adj. from semi, and tertian) Compounded of a tertian and a quotidian ague.

Semiter'tian (s. from the adj.) An ague compounded of a tertian and a quotidian.

Sem'itone (s. from semi, and tone) one of the concinnous intervals in music, half a note, half a tone.

Semito'nic (adj. from semitone) Belonging to a semitone, distinguishing semitones.

SEMIUN'CIA (s. in antiquity) Half an ounce.

Sem'ivowel (s. from semi, and vowel) One of the liquids, one of the consonants which have an imperfect vocal sound.

SEMIUS'TULATE (adj. from the Lat. semi half, and uro ustus to burn, but not used) Half burnt, half consumed by fire. Bailey.

Sem'mit (adj. a local word) Limber. Bailey.

SEMO'NES (s. in heathen mythology) The demigods.

SEMI'ERVIRENT (adj. from the Lat. semper always, and virens green) Evergreen.

Sem'pervive (s. from sempervivum) The name of a plant.

SEMPERVA'VUM (s. in botany, from the Lat. semper always, and vivus alive) A genus of plants which keep green a long time after cut or gathered.

SEMPITER'NAL (adj. from the Lat. semper always, and eternus eternal) Eternal as to futurity; continuing always, eternal.

Sempiter'nity (s. from sempiternal) An eternal duration respecting futurity.

SEMPRO'NIUS (s.) A man's name; the name of several illustrious Romans.

Semp'stress (s. not so common a spelling) A sempstress. Sc.

Sempt (p. obsolete) Seemed. Bailey.

SEMS'TRESS (s. from the Sax. scemstre) A woman employed in sewing, a woman who is well versed in plain work.

Semun'cia (s. a different spelling) The semiuncia.

Semun'cial (adj. from semuncia) Belonging to the semiuncia.

Semybou'ie, Semyboufy (adj. obsolete) Half drunk. Ch.

Sem'ycope (s. an obsolete spelling) A femicope. Chaucer.

S E N

Sem'yriſe (adj. obsolete) Half killed.

SEN'A (s. not so common, but a correct spelling) The na.

SE'NARY (adj. from the Lat. senarius) Containing belonging to the number six.

SEN'ATE (s. from the Lat. senatus) An assembly of counsellors, a body of men set apart to consult together for the public good.

Sen'atehouse (s. from senate, and house) The place where the senate meet.

Sen'ator (s. from senate) A public counsellor, one of those who compose the senate.

Senato'rial (adj. from senator) Belonging to senators, besitting senators.

Senato'rian (adj. not so common a word) Senatorial.

SENA'TUSCONSUL'TUS (s. in old records) A resolution of the Roman senate; an act of parliament.

SEND (v. t. from the Sax. sendan) To dispatch from one place to another, to commission to go and come, to emit, to produce; to diffuse, to propagate; to let to shoot forth; to give, to grant.

Send (v. int.) To deliver, to dispatch a messenger with for: "You may send for me."

Send'al (s. in commerce) A kind of cyprus; fine linen.

Send'er (s. from send) One that sends.

Send'ing (p. a. from send) Dispatching from one place to another, inflicting, giving, emitting.

Send'ing (s. from the part.) The act of dispatching one place to another; the act of pitching into the hollow between two waves.

Sene (v. t. obsolete) To see.

Sene (p. obsolete) Seen.

SEN'ECA (s.) A man's name, an illustrious Roman.

Sen'eca (s. in botany and medicine) The senega snake root.

SENE'CIO (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

SEN'EGA (s. in botany and medicine) The serpent kind of snake root.

Sen'eka (s. a different spelling) The senega. DiE.

SENE'SCE (v. int. from the Lat. senesco, but not used) To grow old.

Senes'cence (s. from senesce) The state of growing the decay of age.

Senes'cent (adj. from senesce) Growing old.

SEN'ESCHAL (s. from the French) A steward, officer of the household.

SEN'ECTUDE (s. from the Lat. senectus old) Long old age, continuance of time.

Seneu'cia (s. not used) A state of widowhood.

Sen'fy (s. a local word) A note, a sign, an appearance.

Sen'gel (adj. an obsolete spelling) Single.

Sen'gid (p. obsolete) Singed.

Sen'gin (v. t. an old spelling) To singe.

SEN'GLE (s. from the French sengler to lasso) girth.

Sen'green (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the leek.

Se'nie (s. from senna) The senna.

SE'NILE (adj. from the Lat. senilis) Belonging to old age, consequent on old age.

SE'NIOR (adj. from the Lat.) Older, farther advanced years.

Se'nior (s. from the adj.) One older than another aged person.

Senior'ity (s. from senior) Priority of birth, elder.

SEN'NA (s. in botany and medicine) The name of a kind of cassia.

SENNACH'ERIB (s. from the Heb. signifying the solitude) A man's name.

Sen'naleaf (s. from senna, and leaf) The leaf of senna much used as a gentle purgative.

Sen'naleaves (s. plu. of sennaleaf) More than one leaf.

Sen'natree (s. from senna, and tree) The name of the senna.

Sen'net (s. an incorrect spelling) Sennight.

Sen'night (s. from seven, and night) A week, space of seven days and nights.

SENO'CULAR (adj. from the Lat. seni six, and oculus an eye) Having six eyes.

Sen'opie (s. in heraldry) The Greek colour, saffron.

SENO'RIA (s. in botany) The bonanatree.

Sen'sa (adv. a different spelling) Senza, without.

Sensation (s. from sense) Perception by the senses.

SENSE (s. from the Lat. sensus) The faculty by which we perceive external objects, one of the five faculties of the mind; perception, sensation; perception; faculties of the mind; sensibility, quickness of judgment; understanding, reason; opinion, notion, consciousness, conviction; meaning, import.

ved (adj. from sense, but not used) Perceived by the senses. Glanville.

ful (adj. from sense) Judicious, full of sense. Nor.

less (adj. from sense) Void of sense, void of life;

feeling, wanting perception; unreasonable; stupid, ish; contrary to reason; wanting sensibility, unconscious; with of; "Senseless of his loss." Dryden.

lessly (adv. from senseless) In a senseless manner.

lessness (s. from senseless) The want of sense.

ibility (s. from sensible) Quickness of sensation, ickness of perception.

ible (adj. from sense) Having the power of perceivby the senses, perceptible by the senses; perived by the mind, having perception; having quick tellectual feelings; convinced, persuaded; rational, ercising the reasoning powers; wise, judicious.

ibleness (s. from sensible) Sensibility, the state of ing sensible.

ibly (adv. from sensible) With perception of the ses, with the perception of the mind, with quick ception, judiciously.

SIPHEROUS (adj. from the Lat. sensus the sense, and to bring, but not used) Producing sensation. Bai.

SILITY (s. from the Lat. sensilitas, but not used) nsibility. Bailey.

ine (adv. a local word) Since then. Bailey.

itive (adj. from sense) Having sense or perception it not reason; shrinking from the touch as the sensitive plant.

itively (adv. from sensitive) In a sensitive manner.

itiveness (s. from sensitive) The state of being sensitive.

ORIUM (s. from the Lat.) The sensory, the seat sense, the organ of sensation, the brain.

ory (s. from sensorium) The sensorium, the organ sensation, the brain.

ual (adj. from sense) Consisting in sense, pleasing to senses, luxurious, carnal, lewd.

ualist (s. from sensual) One given up to sensuality.

uality (s. from sensual) The gratification of sense, mal pleasures.

ualize (v. t. from sensual) To make sensual, to degrade the mind by bringing it into subjection to the senses.

ualized (p. from sensualize) Made sensual.

ualizing (p. a. from sensualize) Making sensual.

ually (adv. from sensual) In a sensual manner, with suality.

ualness (s. from sensual) The state of being sensual,

suality.

osity (s. from sensuous) The state or quality of ing sensuous. Scott.

uous (adj. from sense) Pathetic, full of passion. Mil.

(v. t. pret. of send) Did send.

(p. from send) Dispatched from one place to anoer, transmitted.

TA (s.) The name of a woman; a Roman lady remarkable chastity who had divine honours payed her after her death.

en (v. t. an old spelling) Sent, did send. Cole.

TENCE (s. from the Lat. sententia) A decision, the cision of a judge, the form of condemnation proounced on a criminal; a maxim, an opinion; a short paragraph, a period in writing.

ence (v. t. from the subj.) To pass judgment on a riminal, to condemn.

enced (p. from sentence) Doomed, condemned.

encing (p. a. from sentence) Passing judgment on riminal, condemning.

entiousity (s. from sententious) The state or quality being sententious.

entious (adj. from sentence) Abounding in short ences, short and pithy.

ntiously (adj. from sententious) In a sententious aner, with striking brevity.

ntiousness (s. from sententious) The state or qua-of being sententious.

TICOSE (adj. from the Lat. senticosus, but not ) Full of briars, abounding with briars. Bailey.

ent (adj. from sense) Perceiving, having perception.

ent (s. from the adj.) One that has perception.

IMENT (s. from the Lat. sentio to think) Thought, ion; the sense as distinguished from the language.

TINEL (s. from the Lat. sentio to think) One who ches, one who keeps guard to prevent surprise.

y (s. from sentinel) A sentinel, a watch; the duty sentinel, guard.

ybox (s. from sentry, and box) The stand of a nel, a kind of shed to screen a sentinel from the ther,

Sen'tyn (v. t. obsolete) To scent, to perfume. Chaucer.

SEN'VLE, SEN'VY (s. in botany) The plant that produces mustard.

SEN'ZA (adv. in music books) Without, without accompanyment.

SE'OFRID (s. from the Sax.) A man's name.

SE'PÆ (s. with physicians, from the Greek $\sigma\epsilon\pi\eta\iota$ to pu- trify) A kind of large corrosive pustules.

Separability (s. from separable) The state or quality of being separable.

Sep'arable (adj. from separate) Capable of being separated.

Sep'arableness (s. from separable) Separability.

SEP'ARATE (v. t. from the Lat. separo) To break, to divide into parts, to disunite, to disjoin; to set apart, to sever from the rest; to withdraw.

Sep'arate (v. int.) To part, to become disunited.

Sep'arate (adj. from the verb) Divided from the rest, disunited from the main body.

Sep'arated (p. from separate) Parted, disunited, withdrawn.

Sep'arately (adv. from separate) Singly, apart, distinctly, particularly.

Sep'arateness (s. from separate) The state of being separate.

Sep'arater (s. from separate) One that separates.

Sep'arating (p. a. from separate) Dividing, disuniting, withdrawing.

Separation (s. from separate) The act of separating, a disjunction, the state of being separated, disunion;

a divorce, a breach of the marriage contract; a process by which mixed ingredients are separated.

Sep'aratist (s. from separate) One who separates from a national establishment, a dissenter, a seceder.

Sep'arator (s. from separate) One that separates, a divider; one of the four middle lath of a house.

Sep'aratory (adj. from separate) Used in separation.

Sep'aratory (s. from the adj.) An instrument to break upinters or foulness out of a wound; a vessel used by chymists to separate oil from water.

SEPHAR'VAIM (s. from the Heb.) The name of a place.

SEPHY'ROS (s. with physicians) A kind of impostume.

SE'PIA (s. in ichthyology) The ink fish, the cuttle fish.

Se'piae (v. int. in music books) If you please.

SE'PLÆOS (s. from the Lat.) The bone of the cuttle fish.

SEPIL'IALE (s. from the Lat. sepio to bury) Capable of being buried.

SEP'IMENT (s. from the Lat. sepimentum) A fence, a hedge.

SEPLAS'IARY (s. from the Lat. seplasium) A maker of sweet ointments. Cole.

SEPLASIA'TOR (s. from the Lat. seplasium a sweet oint- ment) A seplasiary. Cole.

SEPOS'ITE (v. t. from the Lat. seorsum apart, and pono to put) To set apart, to separate.

Sepos'ited (p. from seposit) Set apart, separated.

Sepos'iting (p. a. from seposit) Setting apart, separating.

Seposit'ion (s. from seposite) The act of setting apart, a separation.

SEPS (s. in zoology) A kind of lizard.

SEPT (s. from the Lat. septum) A clan, a race, a generation among the Irish, a number of people of the same name in Ireland.

SEPTAN'GLE (s. from the Lat. septem seven, and an- gulus an angle) A heptagon, a plain figure having seven sides and angles.

Septang'ular (adj. from septangle) Having seven angles.

Septang'ularness (s. from septangular) The state or quality of being septangular.

SEPTAOVIL'IA (s. in antiquity) The inclosure where the Roman people chose their magistrates.

SEPTA'RILE (s. in natural history) A genus of fossils.

SEPTEM'BER (s. from the Lat.) The ninth month of the year, the seventh month from March.

SEPTEM'FLUOUS (adj. from the Lat. septem seven, and fluo to flow) Flowing in seven streams. Scott.

SEPTEMPE'DALIS (adj. from the Lat.) Seven foot long, consisting of seven feet. Scott.

Septem'virate (s. from septemviri) The authority or office of the septemviri.

SEPTEM'VIRI (s. from the Lat. septem seven, and vir vir a man) Seven men joined in any office or commission.

SEPTENA'RIOUS (adj. from the Lat. septenarius) Belonging to the number seven, consisting of seven.

SEP'TENARY (adj. from the Lat. septenarius) Belonging to the number seven, consisting of seven.

Sep'tenary (s. from the adj.) The number seven.

- SEPTEN'NIAL (adj. from the Lat. septem seven, and annus a year) Lasting seven years, happening once in seven years.
- SEPTENTA'RIOUS (s. in astronomy) A constellation of the northern hemisphere.
- SEPTEN'TRIO (s. in astronomy, from the Lat.) The north; the greater bear.
- SEPTEN'TRION (s. from septentrio) The north; the constellation more usually called the greater bear.
- Septen'trion (adj. from the sub.) Septentrional, northern.
- Septen'trional (adj. from septentrio) Northern.
- Septen'trional'ity (s. from septentrional) The state of being septentrional.
- Septen'trionally (adv. from septentrional) Northerly, towards the north.
- Septen'trionate (v. int. from septentrio) To tend towards the north.
- Septen'trionating (p. a. from septentrionate) Tending towards the north.
- SEP'TIC (adj. from the Greek σептiкa) Corrupting, producing putrefaction.
- Sept'ic (s. from the adj.) Any thing which has a tendency to produce putrefaction.
- Sept'ica (s. with physicians) Those things which have a tendency to produce putrefaction.
- Sept'ical (adj. from septic) Producing putrefaction. Br.
- SEP'TIEME (s. at piquet) A sequence of seven cards; a seventh.
- SEP'TIER (s. a different spelling) The setier, a French measure of capacity. Dict. of Arts.
- SEPTIFA'RIOUS (adj. from the Lat. septifarius) Having seven different sorts, having seven different ways.
- SEPTIF'LUCOUS (adj. from the Lat. septem seven, and fluo to flow) Flowing in seven streams. Cole.
- Septifolious (adj. from septifolium) Having seven leaves.
- SEPTIFOLIUM (s. from the Lat. septem seven, and folium a leaf, in botany) The fitoil, the ashweed.
- SEPTIFORM (adj. from the Lat. septem seven, and forma a form) Having seven forms.
- SEPTILAT'ERAL (adj. from the Lat. septem seven, and latus a side) Having seven sides.
- SEPTIMA'NE (adj. from the Lat. septem, and mane the morning) Belonging to the order of seven.
- Septima'ne (s. from the adj.) The space of seven days, a week.
- SEPTIMA'RIAN (s. in a monastery) A weekly officer.
- Septimes'tre (adj. not used) Belonging to the space of seven months. Cole.
- SEPTIMI'US (s.) A man's name.
- SEPTINER'VIA (s. in botany) The common plantain so called because it has seven strings or fibres.
- SEP'TIZON (s. in architecture) A building surrounded with seven rows of columns.
- Sept'izone (s. from septizon) A building surrounded with seven rows of columns.
- SEPTIZONIUM (s. in architecture) A septizone.
- SEPTUAGEN'ARY (adj. from the Lat. septuaginta seventy) Belonging to the number seventy.
- SEPTUAGESIMA (s. in the Roman calendar) The first Sunday in Lent so called because it is about seventy days before Easter.
- Septuagesimal (adj. from septuagesima) Pertaining to the number seventy, comprising seventy.
- SEP'TUAGINT (s. from the Lat. septuaginta seventy) The seventy; a Greek version of the Old Testament supposed to have been done by seventy two Jewish interpreters at the request of Ptolemy Philadelphus king of Egypt.
- Sept'uatint (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the translation of the seventy.
- SEP'TUARY (s. from the Lat. septem seven) A week; any thing composed of seven. Cole.
- SEP'TUM (s. in anatomy) A kind of membrane or fleshy part which serves as a division.
- Septum (s. in old records) A hedge, a fence; an inclosure, a fold for sheep.
- Septun'cial (adj. from septunx) Belonging to seven ounces.
- SEP'TUNX (s. in Roman antiquity) A weight of seven ounces.
- SEP'TUPLE (adj. from the Lat. septuplus) Sevenfold, containing seven times as much.
- Se'pulchral (adj. from sepulchre) Belonging to a sepulchre, monumental.
- SEP'ULCHRE (s. from the Lat. sepulchrum) A grave, a tomb.
- Se'pulchre (v. t. from sepulchre, accented by some of the poets on the second syllable) To bury, to entomb.
- Se'pulchred (p. from sepulchre) Buried, entombed.
- Se'pulchring (p. a. from sepulchre) Burying, entombing.
- Sep'ulkre (s. an old spelling) A sepulchre.
- SEP'ULTURE (s. from the Lat. sepultura) A burial, interment.
- Sep'ulture (s. obsolete) A grave, a sepulchre. Cham.
- SEQUA'CIOUS (adj. from the Lat. sequor to follow) Attendant, following; pliant, ductile.
- Sequac'ity (s. from sequacious) Ductility, toughness.
- SE'QUEL (s. from the Lat. sequor to follow) A following part, a conclusion; a consequence, an inference.
- Se'quence (s. from sequent) An order, a series, a succession; a number of cards following in order.
- SE'QUENT (adj. from the Lat. sequor to follow) Following, succeeding, consequential.
- Se'quent (s. from the adj. but not used) A follower.
- Sequent'ially (adv. from sequent) In order, in succession.
- SEQUES'TER (v. t. from the law Lat. sequestrare) To separate, to put aside, to remove, to withdraw for the sake of privacy; to deprive of possessions, to alienate from one to another.
- Seques'tered (p. from sequester) Separated, removed, put aside, put out of possession, alienated from the owner; with from: as, "Why are you sequestered from all your train."
- Seques'tering (p. a. from sequester) Separating, removing from the company of others, depriving of possessions.
- Seques'trable (adj. from sequester) Capable of being sequestered.
- Seques'trate (v. t. from sequestrare) To sequester, to separate from company.
- Seques'trated (p. from sequestrate) Sequestered, separated from company; with from: as, "Being sequestered from mankind."
- Seques'trating (p. a. from sequestrate) Sequestering, separating from company.
- Sequestration (s. from sequestrate) A separation, a removal; a disunion, a disjunction; the state of being sequestered, a deprivation of the use or profits of a possession.
- Sequestrator (s. from sequestrate) One that sequesters, one that takes from another the profits of possession.
- Sequestrer (s. from sequester) A sequestrator; one that is intrusted to keep a possession while it is contested between two parties.
- SERA'GLIO (s. the g is not sounded) The palace of a grand Seigneur where his concubines are lodged; a house where a number of women are kept for the pleasure of one man.
- SER'AH (s. from the Heb. signifying the morning) A man's name.
- SERAI'AH (s. from the Heb. signifying the song of a Lord) A man's name.
- SER'AIN (s. from the French serain, but not used) Evening air, the dampness of the evening.
- SERANGO'DES (s. in surgery) A kind of fistulous tumor.
- SER'APH (s. from the Heb. signifying one that has One of an order of angels.)
- Seraph'ic (adj. from seraph) Belonging to a seraph, suited to a seraph.
- Seraph'ical (adj. from seraphic) Belonging to a seraph, suited to a seraph.
- Seraph'icalness (s. from seraphical) The state or quality of being seraphic.
- Seraph'ick (adj. the less modern spelling) Seraphic.
- Seraph'icness (s. from seraphic) The state of being seraphic.
- Ser'aphim (s. plu. of seraph) More than one seraph.
- Seraphims (s. plu. of seraph, but judged improper) Seraphim.
- SERA'PHIS (s. not so common a spelling) Serapis, an Egyptian idol.
- SERA'PIAS (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the wort.
- SERA'PIES (s. from Serapis) The household gods of the Egyptians.
- SERA'PIS (s. in heathen mythology) An Egyptian deity, the name of an idol worshipped by the Egyptians.
- SERAS'KIER (s. among the Turks) A generalissimo, commander in chief.
- Seras'quere (s. a different spelling) The seraskier.
- SERAVIT'TIA (s.) A town in Italy famous for a variety of kind of marble.
- Seravittian (adj. from Seravittia) Belonging to Seravittia, belonging to the marble brought from Seravittia.
- SER'CIL (s. in falconry) The pinion.
- Ser'cilfeathers (s. from sercil, and feathers) The feathers on the pinion.
- Sere (s. in falconry) The cera, the membrane that rounds the base of the beak; a claw, a talon.

S E R

adj. from the Sax. searon) Dry, withered. Dryd.
(s. from the French) A damp that falls in the ing, a kind of mist dew. Scott.
(s.) A woman's name.
(s. from serenata) A kind of love song sung gallant in the night under the window of his efs.
(v. t. from the sub.) To entertain with music
 e night.
(p. from serenade) Entertained with music
 e night.
(p. a. from serenade) Entertaining with in the night.
ATA (s. from the Italian) A serenade.
(s. a different spelling) A serenade. Milton.
(adj. from the Lat. serenus) Calm, placid, und, undisturbed.
(s. from the adj.) A calm damp evening. B. John.
(v. t. from the adj.) To calm, to quiet; to to brighten; but this sense is judged improper. Pb.
(p. from serene, but not much used) Calmed,
 ed.
(adv. from serene) Calmly, quietly; coolly, serenity.
(s. from serene) Serenity, the state of being
 e.
(adj. comp. of serene) Serene in a greater degree.
(adj. sup. of serene) Serene in the greatest degree.
(p. a. from serene, but not much used) Calming,
 ing.
(s. from serene, but not used) Serenity, calm-of mind.
(s. from serene) Calmness, quietness, peace,
 nefs of temper, coolness of mind.
(s. from the German) A predial slave, a slave emin husbandry.
SSO (s. in botany) A kind of seaweed resembling hire.
(s. from the French) A kind of thin woolen cloth.
(adj. from the sub.) Belonging to serge, made of EANT (s. from the French sergent) An officer who ates the orders of a magistrate, a petty officer in army; a lawyer of rank next to a judge; a title to some of the king's servants.
 entry (s. from sergeant) A peculiar service due the king for the tenure of lands.
 nship (s. from sergeant) The office of a sergeant.
 nry (s. a different spelling) Sergeantry.
 maker (s. from serge, and maker) One who manures serges.
 US (s. a man's name, the name of several illuf- Romans.
(adj. obsolete) Belonging to the cerrus a kind of Chaucer.
 NIA (s. in botany) The paulinia.
 ed (adj. from sericum) Cloathed in silk. Bailey.
 UM (s. in natural history) An animal fluid hard-by the air in threads like silk; the flowers of so called on account of their fibrous texture.
 (adj. obsolete) Dried, withered, closed, shut up. Ch.
 (s. an obsolete spelling) A series, a proceeding. Ch.
 at (s. a different spelling) A sergeant. D. of Arts.
 nry (s. a different spelling) Sergeantry. D. of Arts.
 S (s. from the Lat.) A sequence, a succession, an , a course.
 US (s. in ornithology) The fiskin, the name of a US (adj. from the Lat. serius) Grave, solemn, se-important, weighty, earnest. ly (adv. from serious) Gravely, solemnly, withlevity, in earnest.
 nefs (s. from serious) Gravity, solemnity, ear-nst attention.
 um (s. in botany, from seriphus) The sea worm-n.
 HUS (s. in geography) An island in the Archipe-famous for the produce of sea wormwood.
 (s. in botany) The endive.
 (s. an old spelling) A circle. Chaucer.
 nt (s. obsolete) An oath. Chaucer.
 OCINATE (v. int. from the Lat. fermocinator) To to hold a discourse. Bailey.
 OCINATION (s. from fermocinate) The act of g discourse. Scott.
 OCINATOR (s. from fermocinate) A preacher, one makes speeches.
 OLOGIES (s. from the Lat. sermo a discourse, and Greek λόγος a word) The sermons or homilies of popes or other eminent persons which were formerly read in churches from Christmas to the octave of the epiphany.

S E R

 SER'MON (s. from the Lat. sermo a discourse) A lecture in divinity, a discourse on religion for the edification of a congregation met together for religious worship.
 Ser'mon (v. t. from the sub.) To instruct as in a set discourse, to tutor, to lesson.
 Ser'moned (p. from sermon) Instructed as in a sermon.
 Ser'moning (p. a. from sermon) Instructing as in a sermon, tutoring, preaching, talking.
 Sermo'nium (s. from sermon) A kind of religious interlude heretofore performed by the inferior clergy assisted by children or young people in the body of the church on certain festivals.
 Ser'monize (v. int. from sermon) To make a sermon, to preach a sermon, to give instruction in a formal manner.
 Ser'monizing (p. a. from sermonize) Making sermons, preaching a sermon, instructing in a formal manner.
 SER'MOUNTAIN (s. in botany) The name of a plant,
 the fesei.
 SER'ON (s. in commerce) A weight of two, three, or four hundred as applied to different commodities.
 Serosity (s. from serous) The thin watery part of the blood.
 SE'ROUS (adj. from the Lat. serofus) Watery, thin, belonging to the serum, adapted to the serum.
 Ser'ousness (s. from serous) Serosity.
 SE'ROUTINE (adj. from the Lat. serotinus) Late in the evening.
 SER'PENT (s. from the Lat. serpo to creep) A venomous animal that moves by undulation; a viper, a snake;
 the devil, Satan.
 SERPENTARIA (s. in botany) The name of an herb, the dragonwort.
 SERPENTARIUS (s. in astronomy) A constellation of the northern hemisphere.
 Ser'pentry (s. in botany) The serpentaria, the viperigrafs.
 Ser'pentrywood (s. in botany, and medicine) A kind of wood brought from the East-Indies supposed to have great virtue in expelling poison.
 SERPENTIGENOUS (adj. from the Lat. serpens a ser- pent, and gigno to beget) Bred of a serpent.
 SERPENTIGEROUS (adj. from the Lat. serpens a serpent, and gero to bear) Bearing serpents.
 Ser'pentine (adj. from serpent) Resembling a serpent;
 winding like the course of a serpent.
 Ser'pentine (s. from the adj.) Any thing in the form of a serpent, a pipe of a spiral form.
 Ser'pentine (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
 Ser'pentinestone (s. in natural history) A kind of marble variegated like a serpent, the ophites.
 Ser'pentinaque (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
 Ser'pet (s. an old word) A kind of rush. Bailey.
 SERPHE'RA (s. with chymists) A medicine to dissolve the stone.
 SER'PHUS (s. in zoology) An insect resembling an ant.
 SERPIGO (s. with surgeons, from the Lat.) A ringworm, a tetter.
 SERPYLLUM (s. in botany) A kind of wild betony, a kind of wild thyme.
 SERR (v. t. from the French ferrer, but not used) To drive hard together, to force into a confined space.
 SER'RA (s. in ichthyology) The saw fish.
 SERRATA (s. in botany) The germander, the treacle.
 SER'RATE (adj. from the Lat. serra a saw) Indented on the edge like a saw. Derham.
 Ser'rated (adj. from ferrate) Indented like the teeth of a saw.
 Serra'tion (s. from ferrate) A formation like a saw.
 SERRATULA (s. in botany) The sawwort.
 Serra'tum (s. not much used) An indenture like the teeth of a saw. Scott.
 Ser'ature (s. from ferrate) An indenture like the teeth of a saw.
 SERRA'TUS (s. in anatomy) The name of several muscles from their resemblance to a saw.
 Ser'ried (p. from ferr, but not received) Pressed close, driven hard together. Milton.
 Ser'ring (p. a. from ferr, but not used) Pressing close, driving hard together.
 Ser'ring (s. from the part.) The act of driving close together. Bacon.
 Ser'ry (v. t. from ferr, but not received) To press close,
 to drive hard together. Johnson.
 SERTIL'LA (s. in botany) The melilot, the clavus.
 SERTULARIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 SER'VABLE (adj. from the Lat. servo to preserve) Capable of being preserved. Scott.
 Ser'vage

Ser/vage (s. an old word) Service.

Ser/vand (s. obsolete) A servant.

SER/VANT (s. from the Lat. servus) One who serves, one who obeys the commands of another, the correlative to a master or mistress; one in a state of subjection, a slave; a word of civility to superiors or equals.

Ser/vant (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to one who serves, denominating one that serves.

Ser/vant (v. t. from the sub. but not used) To subject. Shakespeare.

Ser/vanted (p. from servant) Subjected; with to: as, "Servanted to others."

Ser/vantgirl (s. from servant, and girl, a local word) A servant maid.

Ser/vantmaid (s. from servant, and maid) A maid servant.

Ser/vantman (s. from servant, and man) A man servant.

SERVE (v. t. from the Lat. servio) To attend at command, to obey with servility; to obey in military service; to assist, to promote; to stand instead, to comply with; to satisfy, to content, to suffice; to worship the Divine Being. To serve one's self of, to make use of; but this is a mere Gallicism.

Serve (v. int.) To act the part of a servant, to act the part of a slave, to act in war, to perform any office or function, to officiate, to suit, to conduce, to be of use.

Serve (v. t. a sea term) To roll yarn or canvas about anything to keep it from fretting.

Served (p. from serve) Attended, waited on, supplied with; assisted, promoted; bound about with yarn or canvas; placed on the table as viands; with up: as, "It was served up in china."

Ser/vetist (s. from Servetus) A follower of Servetus, an antitrinitarian.

SERVE/TUS (s.) A man's name; he was burnt at Geneva in the year 1553, through the mistaken zeal of the first reformers, for opposing the doctrine of the Trinity.

SER/RUG (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.

Ser/vi (s. in old records) Servile tenants.

Ser/vice (s. from serve) The business done by a servant, the place of a servant, the office of a servant; attendance, subjection; military duty, employment, business; purpose, use; favor, advantage; a course, an order of dishes at table; profession of respect, an office of devotion, public worship.

Ser/vice (s. in botany) The name of a tree, the fruit of the tree.

Ser/viceable (adj. from service) Useful, beneficial; active, diligent, officious.

Ser/viceableness (s. from serviceable) Usefulness, activity, officiousness.

Ser/viceably (adv. from serviceable) Usefully, officiously. Scott.

Ser/vicetree (s. in botany) The shrub or tree that produces services.

SER/VILE (adj. from the Lat. servilis) Slavish, dependant, mean; fawning, cringing.

Ser/vilely (adv. from servile) With servility, meanly.

Servileness (s. from servile) Servility.

Servility (s. from servile) Dependence, slavishness, meanness, slavery, the state of a slave.

Ser/ving (p. a. from serve) Performing service, doing service, acting the part of a servant; strengthening a rope or other tackle by winding yarn or canvas about it.

Ser/ving (s. from the part. a sea term) The act of winding yarn or canvas about anything to keep it from fretting.

Ser/vingman (s. from serving, and man, but now grown obsolete) A man servant. Shakespeare.

Ser/vingmansjoy (s. in botany) The rue.

Ser/visable (adj. obsolete) Officious, obliging. Chaucer.

Ser/vise (s. obsolete) Slavery, servitude. Chaucer.

SER/VITES (s. in church history) An order of religious so called from their attachment to the service of the Virgin Mary.

Servitium (s. a law term) Service, that service which a tenant owes to his lord.

SER/VITOR (s. from the French serviteur) One of the lowest order in the universities; a servant, an attendant; but this sense is now grown obsolete.

Servitour (s. an old spelling) A servitor.

SER/VITUDE (s. from the Lat. servio to serve) The state of a servant, slavery; servants collected. Milton.

SER/RUM (s. from the Lat.) That part of the blood which separates from the grume in coagulation; the thin or watery part that separates from any liquor as whey from the curd.

Ser/vys (s. an old word) The skin of a hawk's foot. Ba.

SESA/MA (s. in botany) A sort of grain, a kind of Indian corn.

SESAMOI/DA (s. a different spelling) The sesamoidea, the Phillips.

Chaucer.

little bones resembling the seeds of the sometimes found in the joints of the toes and SESAMOI/DEA (s. in anatomy) The small bones between the joints of the fingers.

SESA/MUM (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

SESCUN/CIA (s. with the Romans) An ounce and a half.

SES/CUNX (s. with the Romans) An ounce and a half of any thing divided into three parts.

SE/SELI (s. in botany) The name of a plant, a plant.

Ses/selis (s. a different spelling) The seseli, the hennepid (adj. obsolete) Possessed, seized.

SES/QUI (s. from the Lat.) Three halves, a ratio of three to two.

Sesquial/ter (adj. from sesquialtera) Belonging to a ratio of three to two.

SESQUIAL/TERA (s. from the Lat.) A proportion of three to two.

Sesquial/teral (adj. from sesquialtera) Belonging to a ratio of three to two.

Sesquidit/one (s. from sesqui, and ditone) A ratio of five to six.

SESQUIDI/TONUS (s.) The sesquiditone.

SESQUIDU/PPLICATE (adj. from the Lat. sesqui duplico to double) Belonging to the ratio of two to one.

Sesquieighth (s. from sesqui, and eighth) The ratio of nine to eight.

Ses/quififth (s. from sesqui, and fifth) The ratio of five to four.

Ses/quifourth (s. from sesqui, and fourth) The ratio of five to four.

Sesquihem/ina (s. from sesqui, and hemina) A measure containing one hemina and a half.

Sesquijug/erum (s. from sesqui, and jugerum) A measure and a half.

Sesquili/bra (s. from sesqui, and libra) A pound and a half.

Sesquimen/sis (s. from sesqui, and menas) One and a half.

Sesquimod/ius (s. from sesqui, and modius) A bushel and a half.

Ses/qu ninth (s. from sesqui, and ninth) The ratio of ten to nine.

Sesquib/olus (s. from sesqui, and obolus) An obolus and a half.

Sesquic/tave (s. from sesqui, and ctave) A proportion of nine to eight.

Sesquiped/al (adj. from sesqui, and pedal) Containing one foot and a half.

Sesquiped/al (s. from the adj.) One of a low stature.

Sesquipedal/ian (adj. from sesquipedal) Containing one foot and a half.

Ses/quiplicate (adj. from sesqui, and plicate) Having a ratio of two to one.

Sesquiquad/rate (s. from sesqui, and quadratus) A ratio in which any two of the heavenly bodies four signs and a half distant from each other.

SESQUICUAR/TA (s. from the Lat. sesqui, and quartus) The ratio of five to four.

Sesquiquar/tile (s. from sesqui, and quartile) An angle which any two of the heavenly bodies are four signs and a half distant from each other.

SESQUICUIN/TILE (s. in astronomy) That aspect in which any two of the heavenly bodies are three signs and a half distant from each other.

Ses/quiseventh (s. from sesqui, and seventh) The ratio of eight to seven.

Ses/quixth (s. from sesqui, and sixth) The ratio of seven to six.

Ses/quitenth (s. from sesqui, and tenth) The ratio of eleven to ten.

SESQUITER/TIA (s. from the Lat. sesqui, and tertius) The ratio of four to three.

Sesquiter/tian (adj. from sesquitertia) Having the ratio of four to three.

Sesquiter/tional (adj. from sesquitertia) Having the ratio of four to three.

SESQUITER/ZA (s. from sesquitertia) The ratio of four to three.

Sesquian/cia (s. from sesqui, and uncia) One ounce and a half.

Ses/s (v. t. from assess) To assess.

Ses/sa (v. int. imp. obsolete) Peace, be quiet. Shakespeare.

Ses/say (v. int. imp. obsolete) Peace, be still.

Ses/sed (p. from sels) Assessed.

SES/SILE (adj. from the Lat. sessilis) Dwarf, low.

Ses/sing (p. a. from sels) Assessing.

S E T

S (s. with physicians) A low flat tumor, a pustule in the lipox which lies flat with a dent in the middle.
SE (s. from the Lat. sedeo to sit) The act of sitting, meeting of the justices to preserve the peace and order business, an assembly of senators or magistrates, place for which an assembly sits without intermission or recess.
SE (s. third person, obsolete) Seeft. Chaucer.
SECE (s. from the Lat. sefertium) A Roman silver any thing which contained two integers and a sum of money containing about eight pounds bill and five pence halfpenny sterling. Addis.
SETIA (s. from sefertium) An ancient weight being two pounds and a half. Phillips.
SETIUM (s. from the Lat.) The sefterce, the sum money mentioned under that article. Scott.
SETIUS (s. from the Lat.) A Roman coin in value about seven farthings. Scott.
SE (s. in poetry) A stanza of six lines. Cole.
SELO (s. in music) The sextuple.
SE (s. from the Sax. settan) To place, to put, to in any situation, to put into any condition; to determine, to establish; to fit to music, to with notes; to plant, to sow; to regulate, to ate; to intersperse, to mark; to value, to estimate; to offer a wager; to embarrass, to perplex; for a price, to offer to sale; to oppose, to place; to bring to an edge, to adjust for any work. about, to apply to. To set against, to oppose, to in rhetorical opposition. To set apart, to neglect to appropriate to some particular purpose. To side, to reject, to abrogate. To set by, to regard, to reject, to omit for the present. To set to, to register, to put down in writing; to fix, to fish. To set forth, to raise, to send out; to arrange, to place in order; to shew, to exhibit, to expose. To set forward, to advance, to promote. To set to put in a way to begin. To set off, to decorate, to orn, to recommend. To set on, to animate, to ate; to attack, to assault; to employ, to fix the tion, to determine. To set out, to assign, to al- to publish, to shew, to display; to adorn, to em- to shew, to prove. To set up, to erect, to to raise, to exalt; to place in view, to place in to advance, to raise by the vane; to begin trade. int.) To fall below the horizon, to get out of to go, to pass; to plant, to fix in the ground; come fixed, to become solid; to fit to music; to a journey, to begin a business; to catch birds a setting dog; to apply one's self. To set about, gin, to fall to. To set in, to fix in a particular To set on, to begin; to make an attack. To set to begin, to begin a journey, to begin in life. To to apply one's self. To set up, to begin trade, gin a project, to profess publickly. To set upon, gin, to attack.

SE (s. pret. of the verb) Did set.
SE (s. from the verb) Placed, fixed, determined, placed ground, exposed, offered to sale.
SE (s. from the verb) Regular, formal.
SE (s. from the verb) A number of things suited to each a number of persons joined in any design, a liv- ant put into the ground; a wager at dice, a game.
SE (s. pret. obsolete) Did sit. Chaucer.
SETOUS (adj. from the Lat. seta a bristle) Bristly, with strong hairs.
SETEUM (s. from the Lat. setaceus bristly) A seton, of of issue made by putting a twist of hair through of the skin.
SETIUM (s. in botany) The medlar.
SET (s. from set, and bolt) An iron pin used to close joints of timber work.
SE (s. int. pret. obsolete) Did sit. Chaucer.
SE (s. a different spelling) The seton. Boyer.
SE (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
SE (s. from the Heb. signifying placed) A man's name.
SE (s. t. third person, obsolete) Seeth. Chaucer.
SE (s. obsolete) Seethed, boiled. Chaucer.
SE (s. obsolete) Since. Chaucer.
SE (s. t. third person) Seeth, did see. Chaucer.
SE (s. obsolete) Seethed, boiled. Chaucer.
SE (s. adv. obsolete) Since. Chaucer.
SE (s. from Seth, in church history) One of a set in second century, who paid divine worship to Seth, supposed to have been created by a third divinity perfect than Cain and Abel.
SE (s. in the history of insects) The bristletail.
SE (s. from the French) A measure containing six bushels.
SE (adj. from the Lat. seta a bristle, and gero

S E V

SE (s. to bear) Bearing bristles, set with bristles. Coll.
SET/ON (s. from the Lat. seta, a bristle) A kind of issue made by drawing a twist of hair through a part of the skin.
Set/ron (adj. obsolete) Bright in colour, having a citron colour. Chaucer.
Sette (v. t. an old spelling) To set. Chaucer.
Sette' (s. a different spelling) A settee, a ship with two masts. Dict. of Arts.
Settee' (s. from set) A long seat with a back to it.
Settee' (s. a sea term) A ship with two masts.
Settee'/bed (s. from settee, and bed) A bed which turns up in the form of a settee.
Set/tele (s. obsolete) A young plant. Chaucer.
Set/ter (s. from set) One that sets, a dog that hunts and stops at the game, one who finds out persons to be plundered; a seton.
Set/terwort (s. in botany) A kind of hellebore.
Set/tin (v. t. obsolete) To set, to put. Chaucer.
Set/ting (p. a. from set) Placing, putting.
Set/tingdog (s. from setting, and dog) A dog that hunts and stops or lies down at the game.
SET/TLE (s. from the Sax. setol) A seat, a bench with a back.
Set/tle (v. t. from the sub.) To place, to fix, to fix after fluctuation or disturbance, to calm, to compose, to establish, to confirm, to make close, to make compact.
Set/tle (v. int.) To subside, to fall as dregs to the bottom, to fix one's self, to fix in life, to rest, to repose, to grow calm, to crack as work that sinks, to make a jointure on a wife.
SET/TLE (s.) A town in Yorkshire; it has a market on Tuesday, and is 238 miles from London.
Set/tle (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Settle, made at Settle.
Set/tlebed (s. from settle, and bed) A bed that turns up in form of a settle.
Set/tled (p. from settle) Fixed, established, composed, calmed.
Set/tledness (s. from settled) The state of being settled, a settlement. King Charles.
Set/tlement (s. from settle) The act of settling, the state of being settled; a jointure granted to a wife; possession, a right of residence in a parish; a colony, the place where a colony is established; dregs, recement.
Set/ting (p. a. from settle) Placing, fixing, calming, composing, making a settlement.
Set/ting (s. from the part.) The act of making a settle- ment; that which is settled; dregs, sediment; a settle- ment; the method of taking birds with a setting dog; the withdrawal of any of the heavenly bodies below the horizon.
Set/tinge (s. obsolete) A young plant. Chaucer.
Set/tum (s. a different spelling) The seton. Phillips.
Set/wall (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
Set/wort (s. in botany) The name of an herb, the bear- foot.
Sev'ant (adj. a local word) Even, well done, having equal goodness throughout.
Sev'antly (adv. from sev'ant, an old word) With even- ness, well, honestly.
SEVEN (adj. from the Sax. seofen) Four and three, one more than six.
Sev'en (s. from the adj. put absolutely) Seven persons, seven things; the number six and one.
Sev'enfold (adv. from seven, and fold) Seven times.
Sev'enfold (adj. from the adv.) Repeated seven times, having seven folds.
Sev'ennight (s. from seven, and night) The space of a week, the time intervening between any one day of the week to that of the same denomination in the week following.
SEVENOAKS (s.) A town in Kent; it has a market on Saturday, and is 23 miles from London.
Sev'enoaks (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Sevenoaks, made at Sevenoaks.
Sev'enscore (adj. from seven, and score) Twenty seven times repeated, one hundred and forty.
Sev'enscore (s. from the adj.) The number twenty seven times repeated, one hundred and forty persons, one hundred and forty things.
SEVENTEEN (adj. from the Sax. seofontyne) Seven and ten, seven added to ten.
Sev'enteen (s. from the adj.) The number seven and ten; seventeen persons, seventeen things.
Sev'enteenth (adj. from seventeen) Next in order to the sixteenth.
Sev'enteenth (s. from the adj.) The next in order to the sixteenth; one part in seventeen.
Sev'enth (adj. from seven) Next in order to the sixth.
Sev'enth (s. from the adj.) The next in order to the sixth one part in seven.

Sev'enthly

Sev'enthly (adv. from seventh) In the seventh place.
Sev'entieth (adj. from seventy) Next to the sixty-ninth.
Sev'entieth (s. from the adj.) The next to the sixty-ninth, one part in seventy.
SEV'ENTY (adj. from the Sax. sefontie) Ten seven times repeated, sixty and ten.
Sev'enty (s. from the adj.) The number consisting of sixty and ten, seventy persons, seventy things; the seventy interpreters who translated the Old Testament into the Greek language.
SE'VER (v. t. from the Lat. separo to separate) To part by violence, to part by chymical process, to disjoin, to keep distinct.
Se'ver (v. int.) To make a separation, to make a distinction; with from and between: as, "Better from me thou sever not." "To know how to sever between the use and the abuse of things."
Sev'eral (adj. from sever) Different, distinct, single, particular; divers, many.
Sev'eral (s. from the adj.) A state of separation, a partition; a particular person, a particular thing; an inclosed ground, a separate place.
Sev'erally (adv. from sever) Distinctly, separately.
Sev'erality (s. from sever) A state of separation.
Sev'erance (s. from sever) A separation, a partition. Car.
SEVE'RE (adj. from the Lat. severus) Hard, rigorous, austere, morose, cruel, inexorable, strict, exact, close, concise, painful, afflictive.
Seve'rely (adv. from severe) Cruelly, horridly, painfully, with severity.
Seve'rer (adj. comp. of severe) Severe in a greater degree.
Seve'rest (adj. sup. of severe) Severe in the greatest degree.
Seve'rian (s. from Severus) A follower of Severus who forbid marriage and the eating of flesh.
Seve'rity (s. from severe) Rigor, austerity, cruelty, extent of punishment; strictness, rigid accuracy.
SEVERN (s. in geography) The name of a large navigable river; it takes its rise in Montgomeryshire, runs by Shrewsbury, Worcester, and Gloucester, and empties itself into the Bristol channel.
SEVE'RUS (s.) A man's name, the head of a sect who forbid marriage and the eating of flesh.
SEVIDICAL (adj. from the Lat. sevis ferce, and dico to say) Speaking fiercely, using cruel language. Cole.
Sevil'ioun (s. an obsolete spelling) A civilian. Chaucer.
Se'vith (v. t. third person, obsolete) Followeth. Chaucer.
SEVO'CA'TION (s. from the Lat. seorsum apart, and voco to call) The act of calling aside. Johnson.
SE'VUM (s. in anatomy, from the Lat.) Sewet.
SEUTOMAL'ACHE (s. in botany) The spinage.
SEW (v. t. from the Lat. suo) To join by threads drawn by a needle, to join by sewing. "To sew up," to inclose by sewing.
Sew (v. int.) To use the needle in sewing.
Sew (v. t. from sewer) To drain, to drain by means of a sewer.
Sew (adj. a local word) Dry, having no milk.
Sew (s. from the adj. local) A cow that gives no milk. Sc.
Sew (v. t. from sue) To follow. Spenser.
Sewe (v. t. obsolete) To follow; to sow. Chaucer.
Sewe (s. obsolete) Salve. Chaucer.
Sewe (p. from the verb, obsolete) Sown. Chaucer.
Sew'ed (p. from sew) Joined by threads passed with a needle, inclosed by sewing; drained, drained by means of a sewer.
Sew'ed (adj. a seaterm) Being dry, left without sufficient water to float.
Se'wel (s. an old hunting word) Something set to keep out deer. Cole.
SEW'ER (s. from the French, issuer) A shore, a passage for water to run through.
SEW'ER (s. from the old French, assieoir to sit down) An officer who serves up a feast.
Sew'er (s. from sew) One that sews. Chaucer.
Sew'es (s. obsolete) Soups, broths. Chaucer.
SEW'ET (s. from the Lat. sebum) The fat on the kidney of a beast.
Sew'in (v. t. obsolete) To follow. Chaucer.
Sew'ing (p. a. from sew) Joining by threads passed with a needle; following.
Sew'ing (s. from the part.) The act of joining with a needle and thread, that which is joined by a needle and thread.
Sew'ingneedle (s. from sewing, and needle) A needle used in sewing.
Sew'ingichool (s. from sewing, and school) A school where girls are taught to sew.
Sew'ingthread (s. from sewing, and thread) Thread used in sewing.

Sew'ingwork (s. from sewing, and work) Work by a seamstress, plain work.
SEX (s. from the Lat. sexus) The property distinguishing between the male and the female; woman's way of emphasis.
SEXACES'SES (s. in Roman antiquity) A coin worth sixty asses.
SEXAG'ECUPLE (adj. in arithmetic) Having the proportion of sixty to one.
SEX'AGENARY (adj. from the Lat. sexagenarius) Sixty years; proceeding by a division of sixties.
Sex'agenary (s. from the adj.) A sexagesimal fraction.
SEXAGES'IMA (s. from the Lat.) The second before Lent.
Sexages'imal (adj. from sexagesima) Numbered by sixties.
Sexages'imal (s. from the adj.) A fraction having the nominator distinguished by a sexagecuple ratio.
SEX'ANGLE (s. from the Lat. sex fix, and angulus a gle) A plain figure with six sides and angles.
Sex'angled (adj. from sexangle) Having six angles.
Sexan'gular (adj. from sexangle) Having six angles.
Sexan'gularly (adv. from sexangular) With six angles.
SEXEN'NIAL (adj. from the Lat. sex fix and annus) Lasting six years, done every sixth year.
SEX'TAIN (s. from the Lat. sex fix) A stanza of six lines.
SEX'TAN (s. from the Lat. sex fix) The sixth part of a circle.
SEX'TANS (s. from the Lat.) A weight of two and the sixth part of a pound.
SEXTA'RIOUS (s. from the Lat.) A Roman measure containing one pound and eight ounces.
Sex'tary (s. from the Lat. sex fix) A pint and a half.
Sex'tary (s.) A sacrifice, a vestry.
SEX'TILE (s. from the Lat. sextilis) The aspect in which any two of the heavenly bodies are sixty days distant.
Sex'tile (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to that which includes sixty degrees, including sixty days.
SEX'TILIS (s. from the Lat.) The month of August.
Sex'ton (s. from sacristan) An under officer of the church the person whose business it is to dig the graves.
Sex'tonship (s. from sexton) The office of a sexton.
Sex'try (s. an old word) The vestry of a church.
SEX'TULA (s. from the Lat.) The sixth part of an ounce.
SEX'TUM (s. with the papists) The title of the volume of the canon law.
SEX'TUPLE (s. from the Lat. sextuplus) Sixfold.
SEXUALIS'TÆ (s. with botanists) Those who distinguish plants by the difference of sex or parts of generation.
Seye (v. t. obsolete) To say.
Seyll (v. t. obsolete) To sail.
Seyne (v. t. obsolete) To say.
Seyng (adj. obsolete) Seeing, seeming.
Seyn'tur (s. obsolete) A girdle, a belt.
Sey'so (s. in old records) A season of the year, time.
SCRAFF'IT (s. in painting) A kind of scratchwork.
SHA'ALBIM (s. from the Heb. signifying one that the heart) The name of a place.
SHA'ARAIM (s. from the Heb.) The name of a city.
SHA'ASHGAZ (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.
SHAB (s. the derivation is not noted) A disease in sheep, a kind of itch which makes the wool fall out.
Shab (v. int. from the sub. a low word) To play tricks.
Shab'bier (adj. comp. of shabby) Shabby in a greater degree.
Shab'biest (adj. sup. of shabby) Shabby in the greatest degree.
Shab'bily (adv. from shabby) Meanly, paltrily.
Shab'biness (s. from shabby) Meanness, paltriness.
Shab'bing (p. a. from shab, a low word) Playing tricks.
Shab'by (adj. from shab) Mean, paltry.
Shack (s. an old word) The liberty of winter pasturing.
Shack'ing (adj. from shack) Belonging to winter pasturing; belonging to the season in which cattle are at large.
Shack'ingtime (s. from shacking, and time) The time when hogs are turned out to feed on mast.
SHACK'LE (v. t. from the Dutch, shaekelen) To bind, to enslave.
Shackle (s. mostly used in the plural) A fetter.
Shack'lebolts (s. from shackle, and bolts) Shackles.
Shack'led (p. from shackle) Bound, fettered, enslaved.

les (s. plu. from the verb.) Fetters, chains for prisoners; a kind of rings on board a ship to lift up the masts or fasten the ports.

Shackling (p. a. from shackle) Binding, putting on shackles.

Shackles (s. a different spelling) Chackshires, long shackles. Pbhillips.

Shad (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish.

Shadow (s. obsolete) A shadow, a shade. Chaucer.

Shadow (s. from the Sax. scadu) A shadow, a kind of cloud cast by intercepting the light; darkness, obscurity, dark place; the obscurity of a grove or thick wood; a figure formed upon any surface corresponding to the body that intercepts the light; a screen, an umbrella, something worn to keep off the rays of the sun; a shelter, a protection; a colour, the dark parts of a picture, a gradation of light; the soul in a separate state.

Shade (v. t. from the sub.) To cover with a shadow, to overspread, to shelter, to hide, to work with different gradations of colours, to paint in obscure colours.

Shaded (p. from shade) Covered with a shadow, overcast, sheltered from the sun, protected, marked with different gradations of colours, drawn in shades.

Shadier (adj. comp. of shady) Shady in a greater degree.

Shiest (adj. sup. of shady) Shady in the greatest degree.

Shine (s. from shady) The state of being shady.

Shining (p. a. from shade) Covering with shade, marked with different gradations of colours.

Shinings (s. from the part.) The different gradation of colours.

Shin (s. from shade) A shade; the representation of a thing by which the light is intercepted; the dark part of a picture, a faint representation; that which is perceived only by the sight, a ghost; an inseparable companion; a type; protection, shelter.

Shin (v. t. from the sub.) To cover with a shade, to darken, to render cool by intercepting the light or to paint in obscure colours, to mark with various gradations of colours, to represent imperfectly; a screen, to shelter.

Showered (p. from shadow) Covered with a shadow, represented imperfectly.

Showering (p. a. from shadow) Covering with a shadow, faintly representing.

Showy (adj. from shadow) Shady, gloomy, typical, faintly representing, unsubstantial; dark, opaque.

Shratch (s. from the Heb. signifying tender) A man's name.

Shady (adj. from shade) Affording shade, full of shade, shaded from the glare of light.

Sha (s. in old records) A sheaf, a bundle of arrows.

Sham (s. a local word) The measure of the fist with the thumb extended, six inches. Cole.

Shaft (s. from the Sax. sceft) An arrow, a missile weapon; any thing straight, the spire of a church; one of the poles by which a cart or waggon is drawn; a narrow perpendicular passage into a mine.

Shaftment (s. a local word) The measure of the fist and thumb extended, six inches. Pbhillips.

Shafmet (s. a different spelling) The shaftment. Cole.

Shaftsbury (s.) A town in Dorsetshire; it has a market on Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 102 miles from London.

Shafsbury (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Shaftsbury, made at Shaftsbury.

Shag (s. from the Sax. sceaga) Rough hair, a kind of hair or fluff with pile.

Shag (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird, a kind of raven.

Shag (s. a different spelling) A shag. DiEt. of Arts.

Shagged (adj. from shag) Rugged, hairy.

Shaggier (adj. from shaggy) Shaggy in a greater degree.

Shaggiest (adj. sup. of shaggy) Shaggy in the greatest degree.

Shaggy (adj. from shag) Rough, hairy.

Shagmaker (s. from shag, and maker) One who makes shags.

Shagmanufacter (s. from shag, and manufacturer) One who manufactures shags.

Shagreen (s. an incorrect spelling) Shagrin, a kind of skin.

Shagreen (v. t. an incorrect spelling) To chagrin, to irritate. Johnson.

Shagweaver (s. from shag, and weaver) One that weaves shags.

Shag (v. int. a low word) To walk sideways. Johnson.

Shagging (p. a. from shail) Walking sideways.

Shake (v. t. from the Sax. sceacan) To put into a quick vibrating motion, to agitate; to make to totter, to throw off by shaking; to weaken, to distress, to make afraid. To shake hands, to express friendship by taking each other by the hand. To shake off, to free from, to get rid of.

Shake (v. int.) To totter, to tremble, to discover terror.

Shake (s. from the verb) A concussion, a vibratory motion; a kind of thrill in music; a flaw in timber.

Shaker (s. from shake) One that shakes, that which shakes.

Shaketime (s. a local word) The time when mast is ripe. Pbhillips.

Shakill (s. an old word) A shackle, a fetter. Chaucer.

Shaking (p. a. from shake) Having a tumultuous motion, quaking, agitating.

Shaking (s. from the part.) A tumultuous motion.

Shakles (s. a sea term) The rings by which the ports are shut, the rings by which the bilbows are fastened.

Shale (s. from shell) A husk. Shakespeare.

SHALIM (s. from the Heb.) The name of a country. 1 Sa.

SHALISHA (s. from the Heb.) The name of a country. 1 Sam.

SHALL (v. t. obsolete, from the Sax. sceal) To owe, to be under obligation to. Chaucer.

Shall (v. int. from the foregoing, a sign of the future tense) To be hereafter able to, to be hereafter determined to, to be hereafter permitted to.

Shallons (s. not so common a word) Shalloons. Bailey.

SHALLOON (s. in commerce) A kind of stuff much used in linings.

Shalloop (s. a sea term) A kind of ship, a shallop. DiEt. of Arts.

SHALLOP (s. from the French chaloupe) A boat with two masts.

Shallow (adj. from shoal, and low) Having the bottom at no great distance from the surface, opposed to deep; empty, silly.

Shallow (s. from the adj.) A shoal, a place where the water is not deep.

Shallowbrained (adj. from shallow, and brain) Foolish, empty, defective in understanding.

Shallowier (adj. comp. of shallow) Shallow in a greater degree.

Shallowest (adj. sup. of shallow) Shallow in the greatest degree.

Shallowly (adv. from shallow) With little depth; with little understanding.

Shallowness (s. from shallow) Want of depth, want of thought.

Shallowpated (adj. from shallow, and pate) Having little discernment, silly.

Shallowwitted (adj. from shallow, and wit) Deficient in understanding, silly.

SHALLUM (s. from the Heb. signifying perfect) A man's name.

SHALM (s. from the German) A kind of musical pipe; a piftery.

SHALMAN (s. from the Heb. signifying peaceable) A man's name. Hof. 10.

SHALMANE'ZER (s. from the Heb. signifying the violation of peace) A man's name.

Shalmies (s. obsolete) A piftery, a kind of harp. Chau.

Shalons (s. obsolete) Blankets. Chaucer.

SHALOT (s. in botany) A kind of small onion.

Shalt (v. int. second person of shail) Mayest hereafter, must hereafter.

SHAM (v. t. from the Brit. shamnic to cheat, a low word) To trick, to delude with false pretences, to obtrude by fraud.

Sham (s. from the verb) A trick, a fraud, a delusion.

Sham (adj. from the verb) False, counterfeit, pretended.

SHAMA'DE (s. from the French chamade) The beat of a drum for a parley, the chamade. Scott.

SHAM'BLE (s. with miners) A kind of mole or landing place in a mine.

SHAM'BLES (s. of uncertain derivation) A butchery, the place where meat is killed or sold.

Shambling (adj. from shamble) Moving awkwardly. Dr.

Shambling (s. from the adj.) An awkward gait. Smith.

SHAME (s. from the Sax. sceam) The consciousness of lost reputation, the passion discovered by blushes, confusion of face; disgrace, ignominy, reproach; the cause of disgrace.

Shame (v. t. from the sub.) To put out of countenance, to make ashamed; to reproach, to disgrace.

Shame (v. int.) To be ashamed.

Shamed (p. from shame) Made ashamed.

Shamefaced (adj. from shame, and face) Bashful, modest, easily put out of countenance.

S H A

Sha'mefacedly (adv. from shamefaced) Bashfully, modestly.
 Sha'mefacedness (s. from shamefaced) Bashfulness, modesty.
 Sha'meful (adj. from shame) Disgraceful, infamous, reproachful.
 Sha'mefully (adv. from shameful) In a shameful manner, with infamy.
 Sha'meless (adj. from shame) Void of shame, impudent, immodest.
 Sha'meleisly (adv. from shameless) Impiously, audaciously.
 Sha'melefulness (s. from shameless) The want of shame, immodesty.
 SHAMEL/LE (s. in old records) The shambles.
 SHAM/GAR (s. from the Heb. signifying a stranger) A man's name.
 SHAM/HUTH (s. from the Heb. signifying desolation) A man's name.
 SHAM/IR (s. from the Heb. signifying a prison) The name of a city. Josh.
 SHAM/MAH (s. from the Heb. signifying loss) A man's name.
 Sham'med (p. from sham) Tricked, defrauded; with into: as, "Shammed into conviction." L'Estrange.
 Sham'ming (p. a. from sham, a low word) Tricking, defrauding by pretences.
 SHAM/MOAH (s. from the Heb. signifying one obeyed) A man's name.
 Sham'my (s. from shamois) A kind of leather.
 Sham'my (adj. from the sub.) Made of shammy, belonging to the shamois.
 Sham'myleather (s. from shammy, and leather) The leather prepared from the skin of the shamois.
 SHAM/OIS (s. in zoology, but not so correct a spelling) The chamois, a kind of goat. Shakespeare.
 Sham'oy (s. a different spelling) Shammy. Phillips.
 Sham'oyleather (s. not so common a spelling) Shammy, shammyleather. Phillips.
 Sham'oys (s. a different spelling) The chamois. Phillips.
 SHAMPIN'ION (s. in botany, not so common a spelling) A kind of mushroom, a champignon. Phillips.
 Sham/rack (s. in the Irish dialect) The three leaved grass.
 SHAM/SHEER (s. from the Persian) A kind of cimeter.
 Shan (s. a local word) Shamefacedness. Bailey.
 Shan'dy (adj. a local word) Wild. Bailey.
 SHANK (s. from the Sax. sceanca) The middle joint of the leg, that part which reaches from the knee to the ankle, the bone of the leg; the long part of any instrument.
 Shank'ed (adj. from shank) Having a shank.
 SHANK'ER (s. from the French chancre) A venereal excrecence.
 Shank'painter (s. a sea term) A short rope and chain which fastens the shank of the anchor to the side of the ship.
 SHAN/NON (s.) One of the largest rivers in Ireland.
 Shap (s. an old word) Fate, destiny. Bailey.
 SHAPE (v. t. from the Sax. scyppan) To form, to mould, to cast; to image, to conceive; to make, to create; but this sense is nearly obsolete.
 Shape (s. from the verb) A form, an external appearance, the mould of the body, something moulded into form, an idea, a pattern; a fashion, a manner.
 Sha'ped (p. from shape) Formed, moulded, fashioned.
 Sha'pelets (adj. from shape) Wanting proportion of parts, wanting regularity of form.
 Sha'peliche (adj. obsolete) Likely. Chaucer.
 Sha'pelier (adj. comp. from shapely) Shapely in a greater degree.
 Sha'peliest (adj. sup. of shapely) Shapely in the greatest degree.
 Sha'peiness (s. from shapely) Beauty, proportion of parts.
 Sha'pely (adj. from shape) Formed with proportion, having a proper form.
 Sha'pen (p. from shape) Formed, moulded.
 Sha'pismith (s. a burlesque word) One who undertakes to improve the form of the body.
 SHA'PHAN (s. from the Heb. signifying a rabbit) A man's name.
 SHA'PHAT (s. from the Heb. signifying a judge) A man's name.
 Sha'ping (p. a. from shape) Forming, moulding, framing.
 Shap'ournet (s. in heraldry, a different spelling) The chapournet, a kind of cap, a little hood.
 SHA'RAI (s. from the Heb. signifying my lord) A man's name.
 SHARD (s. from the Dutch scheard) A fragment of an earthen vessel, a broken piece of earthen ware; a piece in a fence.

S H A

 Shard (s. in botany, from chard) The name of a plant.
 SHARD (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish.
 Shard'born (adj. from shard, and born) Produced among shards.
 Shard'ed (adj. from shard) Secured among shards; having a crusted wing, sealed.
 SHARE (v. t. from the Sax. scearan) To divide, to part amongst many; to partake with others, to cut, to separate, to share.
 Share (v. int.) To have a part, to have a portion with: as, "To share with me."
 Share (s. from the verb) A part, a dividend, an allotment.
 SHARE (s. from the Sax. scear) That part of the plough that cuts the ground, the iron that throws up the furrow.
 Sha'rebone (s. in anatomy) The bone that divides the trunk from the thighs.
 Sha'red (p. from share) Divided, parted amongst many.
 Sha'rer (s. from share) One that shares, a partner, a divider.
 Sha'ring (p. a. from share) Dividing, parceling out, partaking with others.
 Shares (s. an old word) Streams of water, rills. Bailey.
 Sha'rewort (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
 SHARE/ZER (s. from the Heb. signifying a treasurer) A man's name.
 SHARK (s. probably from the Sax. scearan to cut in pieces) A voracious sea-fish; a greedy artful fellow; a traitor, a fraud.
 Shark (v. t. from the sub.) To pick up with eagerness.
 Shark (v. int.) To play the petty thief, cheating, tricking.
 Shark'ing (p. a. from shark) Playing the petty thief, cheating, tricking.
 Shar'nebund (s. an old word in the history of insects) The beetle.
 SHA'RON (s. from the Heb. signifying a song) The name of a city; the name of a country.
 SHARP (adj. from the Sax. scearp) Keen, piercing, having a keen edge, terminating in a point; acute, quick of sight, quick of apprehension; attentive, vigilant; subtle, nice, shrill, piercing to the ear; acid; severe, harsh; cruel, rigid; eager, hungry, fierce, ardent; acrid, biting; emaciated, lean.
 Sharp (s. from the adj.) A pointed weapon, a sword; a needle with a sharper point than common; an acute sound, a mark or note in music to sharpen the note.
 Sharp (v. t. from the adj.) To sharpen, to make keen.
 Sharp (v. int.) To play thievish tricks.
 Sharp'ed (p. from sharp) Made sharp.
 Sharp'en (v. t. from sharp) To make keen, to sharpen, to bring to a point, to raise a note in music to quicken.
 Sharp'ened (p. from sharpen) Made sharp.
 Sharp'ening (p. a. from sharpen) Making sharp.
 Sharp'ening (s. from the part.) The act of making sharp that which is made sharp.
 Sharp'eningcorn (s. from sharpen, and corn) The sharp corn.
 Sharp'er (s. from sharp) A petty thief, a cheat, a traitor, a fellow.
 Sharp'er (adj. comp. of sharp) Sharp in a greater degree.
 Sharp'est (adj. sup. of sharp) Sharp in the greatest degree.
 Sharp'ing (p. a. from sharp) Making sharp, sharpening.
 Sharp'ing (s. from the part.) The act of making sharp that which is made sharp.
 Sharp'ingcorn (s. from sharpening, and corn) A custom of gift of corn at Christmas to the smith for sharpening the plough share.
 Sharp'ling (s. in ichthyology) A genus of fishes, the terosteus.
 Sharp'ly (adj. from sharp) With keenness, with severity, with quickness, with acuteness, with pain.
 Sharp'ness (s. from sharp) Keenness, sourness, severity, quickness, acuteness, painfulness.
 Sharp'set (adj. from sharp, and set) Eager, keen of fire.
 Sharp'sighted (adj. from sharp, and sight) Having quick sight.
 Sharp'vifaged (adj. from sharp, and visage) Having sharp countenance.
 Sharp'witted (adj. from sharp, and wit) Ready of acute.
 Shash (s. a different spelling) A fash, a kind of belt.

men of which the Turkish turbans are made. Bailey.
SHAK (s. from the Heb. signifying a linen bag) A man's name.
S'ETER (s. in philology) The sacred book which contains the religion of the Banians.
S'ETRAM (s. a different spelling) The shafter.
S'ETER (v. t. from the Dutch schetteren) To break once into many pieces; to dissipate.
S'ETER (v. int.) To fall into pieces.
S'ETER (s. from the verb) A small broken piece.
S'ETERBRAIN (s. from shatter, and brain, a low or droll word) One careless or inattentive, a giddy girl.
S'ETERBRAINED (adj. from shatter, and brain, a droll word) Inattentive, careless, giddy.
S'ETERED (p. from shatter) Broken in many pieces.
S'ETERING (p. a. from shatter) Breaking into many pieces at once.
S'ETERING (s. from the part.) The act of breaking into many pieces at once, the pieces of any thing shattered.
S'ETERPATE (s. from shatter, and pate, a droll word) A shatterbrain.
S'ETERPATED (adj. from shatterpate) Inattentive, giddy.
S'ETERWIT (s. from shatter, and wit, a droll word) A shatterbrain, an inattentive young fellow, a giddy girl.
S'ETERWITTED (adj. from shatterwit) Inattentive, careless, giddy.
S'ETERY (adj. from shatter) Disunited, loose of texture. Woodward.
S'ETALDRIES (s. obsolete) Feats of chevalry. Bailey.
S'AVE (v. t. from the Sax. sceafan) To pare off with a razor, to pare close to the surface, to skin over, to cut in thin slices, to strip, to pillage.
S'AVED (p. from shave) Shaven.
S'VEGRAIS (s. in botany) The horsetail.
S'VEH (s. from the Heb.) The name of a place. Gen.
S'VELING (s. from shave) A man shaved, a friar, a young fellow in contempt.
S'VEN (p. from shave) Shaved, pared off.
S'VEY (s. from shave) One that shaves, one closely attentive to his own interest, a plunderer.
S'VING (p. a. from shave) Shaving close with a razor, cutting off in thin slices, stripping.
S'VING (s. from the part.) A thin slice pared off, the act of taking off the beard with a razor.
S'AUL (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.
S'VALITE (s. from Shaul) A descendant of Shaul.
S'AW (s. an old word, from the Sax. scua) A thicket, a small wood.
S'AWBANDER (s. from the Persian) A great officer, a viceroys.
S'AWFOWL (s. from shaw, and fowl) An artificial fowl made to shoot at.
S'AWL (s. a local word) A kind of shovel used in winnowing corn. Cole.
S'AWM (s. from the Teutonic schawme) A cornet, a hautboy.
S'E (pron. from the Sax. seo) A female spoken of before, a woman, the woman spoken of before.
S'E (s. from the pron.) A woman, woman in slight contempt. "The cruelest she alive."
S'EAD (v. t. a local word) To distinguish. Bailey.
S'EADING (s. from shead) A division in the life of Man; anything.
S'EAF (s. from the Sax. seaf) A bundle of corn bound together after reaping; any bundle or collection as of arrows.
S'EAL (v. t. not so common a spelling) To shell, to separate the parts.
S'EAL'D (p. from sheal) Shelled. Shakespeare.
S'EAL'ING (p. a. from sheal) Shelling.
S'EAL'TIEL (s. from the Heb. signifying one who has asked of God) A man's name.
S'EAR (v. t. from the Sax. scearan) To clip, to cut between two blades, to cut.
S'EAR (s. from the verb) A year as applied to the age of a sheep determined by the shearing. Mortimer.
S'EARD (s. from the Sax. scard) A sherd, a fragment of an earthen vessel.
S'EARED (p. from shear) Shorn.
S'EARER (s. from shear) One that shears, a sheepshearer.
S'EARGRAIS (s. in botany) A kind of herb, the horsetail.
S'EAR'HOOK (s. a sea term) A kind of grappling iron.
S'EAR'JASHUB (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.
S'EARING (p. a. from shear) Cutting with shears.
S'EARING (s. from the part.) The act of cutting with shears.
S'EARMAN (s. from shear, and man) A man that shears, a man that shears the nap of cloth.
S'EARS (s. plu. of shear) An instrument to cut consisting of two blades passing close on each other.

Shear/shank (s. a sea term) A kind of running knot.
Shear/water (s. in ornithology) The name of a water fowl.
Sheat (s. a sea term) The rope bent to the clew of the sail.
Sheat (s. a local word) A young pig, a young pig put up to fatten.
Sheat (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish.
Sheat/anchor (s. from sheat, and anchor) The largest anchor in the ship.
Sheat/cable (s. from sheat, and cable) The largest cable in a ship.
SHEATH (s. from the Sax. scæthe) The case of any thing, the scabbard.
Sheath (v. t. from the sub.) To inclose in a scabbard, to shut up in a case, to fit with a scabbard, to preserve by covering.
Sheathe (v. t. the more common spelling) To sheath, to inclose in a scabbard.
Sheath'ed (p. from sheathe) Inclosed in a scabbard, inclosed in a case, covered by sheathing, fitted with a sheath.
Sheath'fish (s. in ichthyology) A kind of delicate muscle.
Sheath'ing (p. a. from sheathe) Inclosing in a scabbard, furnishing with a sheath.
Sheath'ing (s. from the part.) The act of covering with a sheath, that which defends as a sheath or case.
Sheath'winged (adj. from sheath, and winged) Having hard cases folded over the wings as in the beetle kind.
Sheath'y (s. from sheath) Forming a sheath.
Sheave (s. a sea term) A wheel fixed in a channel or block, the moveable part of a pulley.
Sheaves (s. plu. of sheaf) More than one sheaf.
SHE'BA, SHE'BAH (s. from the Heb. signifying captivity) The name of a country.
SHEBANIAH (s. from the Heb. signifying recalled of the Lord) A man's name.
SHEB'NA (s. from the Heb. signifying one that refteth) A man's name.
SHE'CHEM (s. from the Heb. signifying a part) The name of a man; the name of a city.
She'chemite (s. from Shechem) A descendant of Shechem, an inhabitant of Shechem.
SHECK'LATON (s. the derivation is not noted) A kind of gilded leather. Spenser.
Sheck'le (s. an incorrect spelling) The shekel. Camden.
SHED (v. t. from the Sax. scedan) To pour out, to spill; to scatter, to let fall.
Shed (v. int.) To let fall its parts as a flower.
Shed (s. supposed to be from shate) A slight temporary covering, a roof set up on posts without walls.
Shed (v. t. pret.) Did shed.
Shed (p. from the verb) Poured out, spilt, dropped, scattered.
Shed'der (s. from shed) One who sheds, a spiller.
Shed'ding (p. a. from shed) Pouring out, spilling.
Shed'ding (s. from the part.) The act of pouring out, the act of spilling.
Shede (v. int. obsolete) To shed, to fall off, to drop its parts. Chaucer.
SHEDE'UR (s. from the Heb. signifying a field) A man's name.
Sheed (v. int. an old word) To depart. Bailey.
Sheen (adj. obsolete) Bright, glittering. Milton.
Sheen (s. from the adj. obsolete) Brightness, splendor. Mil.
Sheen'y (adj. from sheen, obsolete) Bright, shining. Mil.
SHEEP (s. from the Sax. sceap) A well known animal that bears wool; more than one of those animals, a silly fellow. Ainsworth.
Sheep (adj. from the sub. much used in composition) Belonging to sheep, suited to sheep.
Sheep'bite (v. int. from sheep, and bite) To practise petty thefts.
Sheep'biter (s. from sheepbite) A petty thief.
Sheep'biting (p. a. from sheepbite) Practising petty theft. Shakespeare.
Sheep'cot (s. from sheep, and cote) A little inclosure for sheep.
Sheep'cote (s. a different spelling) A sheepcot, a small inclosure for sheep.
Sheep'fold (s. from sheep, and fold) A fold for sheep, the place in which sheep are inclosed.
Sheep'hook (s. from sheep, and hook) The shepherds crook. Dryden.
Sheep'ish (adj. from sheep) Bashful, over modest, timorous to a fault.
Sheep'ishly (adv. from sheepish) In a sheepish manner.
Sheep'ishness (s. from sheepish) The state or quality of being sheepish.
Sheep'master (s. from sheep, and master) An owner of sheep.

S H E

Sheep/pen (s. from sheep, and pen) An inclosure for sheep.

Sheeps/eye (s. from sheep, and eye) A modest diffident look, the look of a lover on his mistress.

Sheep/shank (s. from sheep, and shank, a sea term) A kind of knot or hitch to shorten a rope.

Sheeps/head (s. from sheep, and head) The name of a fish; a blockhead, a silly fellow.

Sheep/shearer (s. from sheep, and shearer) One that shears sheep.

Sheep/shearing (s. from sheep, and shearing) The act of shearing sheep; the entertainment at the shearing of the sheep.

Sheep/shears (s. from sheep, and shears) The shears with which sheep are shorn.

Sheep/sheerer (s. not so common a spelling) A sheepshearer.

Sheep/sheering (s. not so common a spelling) A sheepshearing.

Sheep/sheers (s. not so common a spelling) Sheepshears.

Sheep/walk (s. from sheep, and walk) A pasture for sheep.

SHEER (adj. from the Sax. seyr) Pure, clean, unmingled.

Sheer (adv. from the adj.) At once, clean, quick, with a sudden motion.

Sheer (v. t. not so common or correct a spelling) To shear.

Sheer (v. int. a sea term) To steal away, to make off, to deviate from the course.

Sheer (s. a sea term) The longitudinal curve of a ship's side.

Sheer'ed (p. from sheer, but not so common a word) Sheared, shorn.

Sheer'er (s. from sheer, but not so common) A shearer.

Sheer'ing (p. a. from sheer, but not so common) Shearing.

Sheer'ing (p. a. a sea term) Making off, deviating from the right course.

Sheer'ing (s. from the part.) The act of shearing; the act of making off, a departure from the right course.

Sheers (s. a sea term) An engine to hoist in or displace the lower mast.

Sheers (s. plu. not so common) Shears; any thing in the form of shears; wings. Spenser.

Sheet (s. from the Sax. sceat) A broad large piece of linen, the linen of a bed; as much paper as is made in one piece, a single complication of paper in a book; any thing thin and expanded.

Sheet (s. a sea term) A rope bent to the clew of the sail, a sheet rope.

Sheet (v. t. from the sub.) To furnish with sheets, to unfold, to cover as with a sheet.

Sheet/anchor (s. from sheet, and anchor) The largest anchor in a ship.

Sheeted (p. from sheet) Furnished with sheets, folded in a sheet.

Sheet'ing (p. a. from sheet) Furnishing with sheets, folding in a sheet.

Sheet'ing (s. from the part.) The act of furnishing with sheets, the linen of which sheets are made.

Sheet/rope (s. from sheet, and rope, a sea term) The rope fastened to the clew of the sail.

Sheeve (s. a sea term) A shiver.

Sheev'er (s. a different spelling) A shiver. Phillips.

Sheff (s. an old spelling) A sheaf. Chaucer.

SHEF/FIELD (s.) A town in the west riding of Yorkshire, famous for the manufacture of cutlery ware; it has a market on Tuesday, and is 159 miles from London.

Shef'field (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Sheffield, made at Sheffield.

SHEF/FORD (s.) A town in Bedfordshire; it has a market on Friday, and is 42 miles from London.

Sheff'ord (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Shefford, made at Shefford.

SHEF/FNAL (s.) A town in Shropshire; it has a market on Friday, and is 135 miles from London.

Shef'nal (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Shefnal, made at Shefnal.

SHEIK (s. with the Mabometans) The iman of a mosque in Egypt.

SHEIK/BELLET (s. in Turkey) The chief magistrate in a town or city.

SHEILDS (s.) A port town in the Bishoprick of Durham situate at the mouth of the river Tyne.

SHE/KEL (s. from the Heb.) A Jewish coin in value about two shillings and sixpence.

She'kle (s. not so correct a spelling) The shekel. Phillips.

SHE/LAH (s. from the Heb. signifying one that breaks) A man's name.

She/lanite (s. from Shelah) A descendent of Shelah.

Sheld (s. an old spelling) A shield.

Sheld (v. t. obsolete) To shield. Chaucer.

S H E

Shel'daple (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird, the chaffinch.

Shel/drake (s. in ornithology) The name of a water fowl.

SHELEMI/AH (s. from the Heb. signifying the peace of the Lord) A man's name.

SHE/LEPH (s. from the Heb. signifying one that draws out) A man's name.

SHELF (s. from the Sax. scylf) A board fastened against a wall in a position to place any thing on it, a horizontal board so fixed as to place any thing on it at some distance from the ground; a bank in the sea, a rock or ridge under shallow water.

Shelfs (s. plu. not much used) Shelves. Dryden.

Shelf'y (adj. from shelf) Full of rocks, full of dangerous shallows; rocky, having rocks near the surface of the earth.

SHELL (s. from the Sax. scyll) The hard covering of any thing, an external crust; the outward part of a house, a superficial part; a musical instrument with the poets as supposing the first to have been made of shell.

Shell (v. t. from the sub.) To take out of the shell, to strip off the shell.

Shell (v. int.) To fall off as broken shells, to cast the shell.

Shell (v. int. obsolete) Shall. Chaucer.

Shell/duck (s. in ornithology) A kind of wild duck.

Shell'ed (p. from shell) Taken out of the shell, deprived of the shell.

Shell'fish (s. from shell, and fish) A fish covered with shell.

Shell'ing (p. a. from shell) Taking off the shell, depriving of the shell.

Shell'ing (s. from the part.) The act of taking off the shell, the casting of the shell.

Shell'y (adj. from shell) Abounding with shells, consisting of shells.

SHE/LOMITH (s. from the Heb. signifying my place) The name of a woman.

SHEL/TER (s. perhaps from the Sax. scyld a shield) A cover from any external injury or violence, the state of being sheltered, a defence, a protector.

Shel'ter (v. t. from the sub.) To cover from external violence, to screen from notice; to betake to cover, to defend, to protect.

Shel'ter (v. int.) To take shelter, to give shelter.

Shel'tered (p. from shelter) Covered, defended, protected.

Shel'terer (s. from shelter) One that shelters.

Shel'tering (p. a. from shelter) Covering, defending, protecting.

Shel'terless (adj. from shelter) Having no shelter, having no home.

Shel'tie (s. from Shetland) A small but strong kind of horse bred in Scotland.

Shelve (s. not so correct a spelling) A shelf.

Shelves (s. plu. of shelf) More than one shelf.

Shel'ving (adj. from shelf) Sloping, having declivity.

Shel'vingness (s. from shelving) The state of being shelving, a declivity.

SHELUM/EL (s. from the Heb. signifying the peace of God) A man's name.

Shel'vy (adj. from shelf) Shallow, rocky, full of banks.

SHEM (s. from the Heb. signifying renown) A man's name.

SHEMAI/AH (s. from the Heb. signifying obedient to the Lord) A man's name.

SHEMARI/AH (s. from the Heb. signifying the protection of God) A man's name.

SHE/MEBER (s. from the Heb. signifying same) A man's name.

SHE/MER (s. from the Heb. signifying a guardian) A man's name.

SHEMI/DA (s. from the Heb. signifying knowledge) A man's name.

Shemi'daite (s. from Shemida) A descendent of Shemida.

SHEM/INITH (s. from the Heb. signifying the eighth kind of music, a musical instrument).

SHEMIR/AMOTH (s. from the Heb. signifying the heights of the heavens) A man's name.

SHEN (s. from the Heb. signifying a tooth) The name of a place.

SHEND (v. t. obsolete, from the Sax. scendan) To spoil, to ruin, to disgrace, to blame; to overpower, to crush.

Shend (p. obsolete) Shent.

Shend'in (v. t. obsolete) To spoil, to trouble.

Shene (adj. obsolete) Bright, shining.

S H E

er (s.) A small salmon spawned before the spawning season has reached the sea. Bailey.
 ER (s. from the Heb. signifying a dim light) The light of a country. Bailey.
 (p. from shend obsolete) Ruined, spoiled, disgraced, crushed, overpowered. Shakespeare.
 (s. a local word) A gelded pig. Bailey.
 (s. an old spelling) Sheep. Chaucer.
 (s. an old word) A sheepcote. Bailey.
 (s. an old word) Simple, peaceful. Bailey.
 SHIPPAH (s. from the Heb. signifying the judgment of the Lord) A man's name.
 HERD (s. from the Sax. scap a sheep, and hynd a swain) One who tends sheep in the pasture; a swain, a lover; a pastor, one who has the care of a religious society.
 (s. from shepherd) A female who has the care of sheep; a rural lass.
 (adj. from shepherd) Resembling a shepherd, rural, rustic. Sidney.
 (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
 (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
 (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
 (s. in botany) The shepherdspouch.
 (s. in botany) The teasel, a species of
 (s. from shepherd) The office of a shepherd. Robinson.
 (s. obsolete) Sheep. Chaucer.
 (s. in geography) An island in the mouth of the Medway. Bailey.
 (s. an old word) A shepherd.
 (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
 (s. from the Arabic sharbat) The juice of lemons or oranges mixed with water and sugar.
 (s. from the Sax. sceard) The fragment of an ear of wheat.
 (s.) A fort in the north west part of the county of Shropshire.
 (s.) A town in Dorsetshire: it has a market on Monday and Saturday, and is 117 miles from London.
 (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Sherborn, at Sherborn.
 (s.) A town in the west riding of Yorkshire: it has a market on Saturday, and is 181 miles from London.
 (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Sherburn, at Sherburn.
 (v. t. an old spelling) To shear. Chaucer.
 (p. obsolete) Shorn. Chaucer.
 (s. an incorrect spelling) A sheriff. Phil.
 (s. an incorrect spelling) A sheriff. Pope.
 (s. from the Sax. scyre a shire, and reve a ward) An officer in each county intrusted with the execution of the laws.
 (s. from sheriff) The office or jurisdiction of a sheriff.
 (s. from sheriff) A sheriff's office.
 (s. from sheriff, and tooth) An ancient term of lands for the service of providing an entertainment for the sheriff.
 (s. from sheriff) The office or jurisdiction of a sheriff.
 (s. not so correct a spelling) One that shears, a shaver. Bailey.
 (s. a different spelling) Sherry. Shakespeare.
 (s. from sherris, and sack) Sherry. Shakespeare.
 (s. from Sheres, a town in Spain) A kind of Spanish wine.
 (s. from sherry, and sack) Sherry. Chaucer.
 (s. an old spelling) A shirt. Chaucer.
 (s. from the Heb. signifying a linen bag) The name of a city. Jeremiah.
 (s. from the Heb. signifying the joy of the Lord) A man's name.
 (adj. an old spelling) Shut. Chaucer.
 (v. t. obsolete) To shoot. Chaucer.
 (s. from the Heb.) A man's name. Ex.
 (adj. obsolete) Shut. Chaucer.
 (v. t. an old word) To shoot out. Bailey.
 (s. from the Heb. signifying vanity) A man's name.
 (v. t. the third person, obsolete) Sheweth. Ch.
 (v. t. from the Sax. scewan) To show, to exhibit.
 (from the verb) A show, an appearance, a public view.
 (s. from shew, and bread) The bread which was given by divine appointment in the Jewish temple.

S H I

Shew'ed (p. from shew) Shown, shewn, exposed to public view.
 Shew'ing (p. a. from shew) Showing, exhibiting to public view.
 Shew'ing (s. from the part.) The act of exposing to public view, an exhibition. Luke 1.
 Shewn (p. from shew) Shewed, exposed to view.
 Shewt (s. in farriery) A disease in beasts in which they cast up blood at the mouth.
 SHIB'BOLETH (s. from the Heb. signifying a current of water, the word proposed by Jephtha to distinguish the Gileadites from the Ephraimites, who pronounced the sh like s) The criterion of a party, the cant of a party.
 SHI'CRON (s. from the Heb. signifying drunkenness) The name of a city. Josbua 15.
 SHIDE (s. from the Sax. sceadan to divide) A board, a segment, a cutting. Skinner.
 SHIELD (s. from the Sax. scyld) A buckler, a broad piece of defensive armour; a defence, a protection; one that protects.
 Shield (v. t. from the sub.) To cover with a shield, to defend, to protect, to keep off.
 Shield'ed (p. from shield) Defended by a shield, protected.
 Shield'ing (p. a. from shield) Covering with a shield, protecting, defending.
 Shi'er (adj. comp. of shy) Shy in a greater degree.
 Shi'est (adj. sup. of shy) Shy in the greatest degree.
 SHIEVE (v. int. a sea term) To fall astern.
 SHIFT (s. of doubtful etymology) An expedient to get rid of a difficulty, an indirect expedient; a last recourse; a fraud, a trick, an evasion; the linen worn by women under the rest of the cloaths, a smock.
 Shift (v. t. from the sub.) To change, to alter; to move from place to place; to put off, to put out of the way by some expedient; to change cloaths, to dress in fresh cloaths.
 Shift (v. int.) To change, to change place, to put on fresh linen, to practice indirect methods, to provide some expedient for safety. To shift off, to defer, to evade.
 Shift (v. t. obsolete) To divide, to distribute, to bestow. Chaucer.
 Shift'able (adj. from shift) Capable of being shifted. Sh.
 Shift'ed (p. from shift) Changed, altered, accommodated with clean linen.
 Shift'er (s. from shift) One who plays tricks, one who uses artifice, one who shifts any thing.
 Shift'ing (p. a. from shift) Changing, altering, using expedients; changing cloaths, putting on fresh linen.
 Shift'ing (s. from the part.) The act of changing the position, a change of place, the act of putting on fresh linen; a partition of lands among coheirs.
 Shift'less (adj. from shift) Having no shift, wanting expedients.
 SHIGGA'ON (s. from the Heb. signifying to cry) A title of a psalm, an irregular ode.
 SHI'ITES (s. with the Mahometans) The followers of Aly supposed to be the successor of Mahomet. Chaucer.
 Shild (s. obsolete) A shield. Chaucer.
 Shild (v. t. an old spelling) To shield. Chaucer.
 Shill (adj. an old spelling) Shrill. Chaucer.
 SHIL'LEM (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.
 Shillemite (s. from Shillemm) A descendant of Shillemm.
 SHIL'LING (s. from the Sax. scylling) A silver coin of twelvepence value, the twentieth part of a pound sterling.
 Shillishall'li (adv. a corrupt reduplication of shall I) With hesitation, with suspense. "I do not stand shillishall'li." Shakespeare.
 SHI'LOAH (s. a different spelling) Siloah, Siloam.
 SHI'LOH (s. from the Heb. signifying sent) The Messiah, the Saviour.
 SHI'LOH (s. from the Heb. signifying peace) The name of a city.
 Shi'lonite (s. from Shiloh) An inhabitant of Shiloh.
 Shi'ly (adv. from shy) With shyness.
 SHIM'EAH (s. from the Heb. signifying one that obeys) A man's name.
 SHIM'EI (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.
 Shim'ering (adj. obsolete) Glimmering. Chaucer.
 Shim'per (v. int. a local word) To shine. Bailey.
 SHIM'RON (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.
 Shim'ronite (s. from Shimron) A descendant of Shimron.
 SHIM'SAI (s. from the Heb. signifying my son) A man's name.
 SHIN (s. from the Sax. scina) The forepart of the leg.
 Shi'nande (adj. obsolete) Shining. Chaucer.
 SHI'NAR (s. from the Heb. signifying the change of the city) The name of a country.
 SHINE

SHI

SHINE (v. int. from the Sax. seinan) To glitter, to send forth brightness, to appear splendid, to make a beautiful appearance, to be eminent; to be propitious.

Shine (s. from the verb) Brightness, splendor; fair weather.

Shi'nefs (s. from shy) Reservedness, unfociableness.

SHIN'GLE (s. from the German, schindal) A thin board to cover houses; a kind of slate.

SHIN'GLES (s. plu. from the Lat. cingulum a girdle) A kind of harpes that spreads itself round the loins; a kind of tetter.

Shi'ning (p. a. from shine) Sending forth splendor, glittering, making a beautiful appearance.

Shi'ning (s. from the part.) The act of emitting splendor, brightness.

Shi'ningness (s. from shining) Brightness, splendor. Sc.

Shi'ny (adj. a poetical word, from shine) Bright, splendid, luminous.

SHIP (s. from the Sax. scip) A vessel made to pass over the sea with sails.

Ship (v. t. from the sub.) To put into a ship, to transport in a ship.

Ship (adj. from the sub. much used in composition) Belonging to a ship, fitted to a ship.

Ship/board (s. from ship, and board) The state of being in a ship; the plank of a ship. On shipboard, in a ship, on board a ship.

Ship/boy (s. from ship, and boy) A boy that serves in a ship.

Ship/builder (s. from ship, and builder) One who is employed in building ships.

SHIP/RAH (s. from the Heb.) The name of a woman.

Ship/in (s. obsolete) A sheep pen. Chaucer.

Ship/ladder (s. from ship, and ladder) A ladder in a ship.

Ship/man (s. from ship, and man) A sailor, a seaman.

Ship/master (s. from ship, and master) The master of a ship.

Ship/mate (s. from ship, and mate) One who serves in the same ship.

Ship/money (s. from ship, and money) An arbitrary tax formerly levied on port towns for fitting out ships.

Ship/ped (p. from ship) Put into a ship.

Ship/pen (s. a local word) A cowhouse. Phillips.

Ship/per (s. from ship) The master of a ship.

Ship/ping (p. a. from ship) Putting on board a ship; taking on board a ship.

Ship/ping (s. from the part.) The act of putting on board a ship; ships, vessels of navigation; passage in a ship.

Ship/shapen (adj. from ship, and shape) Unfightly, built straight up after the bearing.

SHIP/STON (s.) A town in Worcestershire; it has a market on Friday, and is 84 miles from London.

Ship/ston (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Shipston, made at Shipston.

Ship/ton (adj. from Shiptonmallet) Belonging to Shiptonmallet, made at Shiptonmallet.

SHIP/TONMALLET (s.) A town in Somersetshire; it has a market on Friday, and is 115 miles from London.

Ship/wreck (s. from ship, and wreck) The destruction of a ship, the parts of a shattered ship; destruction, miscarriage.

Ship/wreck (v. t. from the sub.) To destroy by dashing on rocks or shallows; to destroy.

Ship/wrecked (p. from shipwreck) Destroyed on rocks or shoals, dashed to pieces, destroyed.

Ship/wrecking (p. a. from shipwreck) Destroying by shipwreck, beating to pieces, destroying.

Ship/wright (s. from ship, and wright) A ship builder.

SHIRE (s. from the Sax. shiran to divide) A division of the kingdom, a county, the jurisdiction of a sheriff.

Shire (s. obsolete) The meeting of the county, the affizes. Chaucer.

Shi'reclerk (s. from shire, and clerk) The under sheriff, the clerk of the county court.

Shire'gereve (s. from shire, and gereve, obsolete) A sheriff. Cb.

Shi'remote (s. from shire, and mote) The county court, an assembly of the shire on any extraordinary occasion.

Shirk (s. from shark) A lurking, tricking fellow. Scott.

Shirk'ing (adj. from shirk) Lying on the catch. Scott.

SHIRT (s. from the Sax. scyre) The under linen garment worn by men.

Shirt (v. t. from the sub.) To cloath in a shirt, to furnish with a shirt.

Shirt'ed (p. from shirt) Furnished with a shirt, cloathed in a shirt.

SHO

Shirt'ing (p. a. from shirt) Furnishing with a clothing with a shirt.

Shirt'ing (adj. from the part. a colloquial word) Shirts, accommodate to shirts.

Shirt'ing (s. from the part.) The act of furnishing a shirt; linen for shirts.

Shirt'less (adj. from shirt) Destitute of a shirt, without a shirt.

SHI'SHAK (s. from the Heb. signifying the gift) A man's name.

Shit (v. int. pret. of shite) Did shite.

Shit (adj. obsolete) Shut.

SHITE (v. int. from the Sax. scitan) To void the excrements.

Shit'ing (p. a. from shite) Voiding excrements.

SHIT'TAH (s. a different spelling) The shittim.

Shitte (adj. obsolete) Shut.

Shit'ten (p. from shite) Fouled with excrements.

Shit'tenly (adv. from shitten, a low colloquial) Meanly, pitifully.

SHIT'TIM (s.) A precious kind of wood grown in Arabia.

Shit'timwood (s. from Shittim, and wood) A kind of wood growing in Arabia.

Shit'ting (adj. obsolete) Shutting up.

Shit'tlecock (s. not so common a spelling) A shuffling cork tailed with feathers to be driven one to another with battledoors.

SHIVE (s. from the Dutch schyve) A slice of a thin splinter, a lamina.

SHIVER (v. int. from the German schawren) To tremble, to shudder as with cold.

Shiv'er (s. from the verb) A tremor, a shaking.

Shiv'er (v. t. from shive) To shatter, to break many parts by an act of violence.

Shiv'er (v. int.) To fall at once into many pieces.

Shiv'er (s. from the verb) A fragment of many which any thing is broken.

Shiv'er (s. a sea term) A sheave, the wheel block.

Shiv'ered (p. from shiver) Broken into small pieces.

Shiv'ering (p. a. from shiver) Breaking into pieces; quaking, trembling; falling into small hanging loose.

Shiv'ering (s. from the part.) The act of breaking small pieces, the tremor occasioned by a freezing cold; the state of a sail when it hangs loose in the wind.

Shiv'ery (adj. from shiver) Loose of contexture, falling into pieces.

Shoad (s. with miners) That part of the ore found separate from the load or leading vein.

Shoad'stone (s. from shoad, and stone) A small fragment of ore made smooth by the action of water passing over it.

SHOAL (s. from the Sax. scole) A multitude, a throng; a shallow, a bank.

Shoal (v. int. from the sub.) To throng, to crowd, to become shallow; to grow shallow.

Shoal (adj. from the sub.) Shallow, obstructed by shoals.

Shoal'inefs (s. from shoaly) Shallowness, the being shoaly.

Shoal'ing (p. a. from shoal) Crowding, thronging.

Shoal'y (adj. from shoal) Full of shoals, abundant in shallows.

Shoar (s. a different spelling) A shore, a prop.

Shoar (v. t. from the sub. not so common a spelling) To prop.

Shoar'ed (p. from shoar) Shored, propped.

Shoar'ing (p. a. from shoar) Shoring, propping.

SHO'BAB (s. from the Heb. signifying returned) A name.

SHO'BACH (s. from the Heb. signifying chains) A name.

SHOCK (v. t. from the Dutch schocken) To shock, to offend, to disgust.

Shock (s. from the verb) A violent concussion, an offence, an impression of disgust.

SHOCK (s. from the Dutch schocke) A pile of sheaves.

Shock (v. t. from the sub.) To pile up sheaves.

Shock (v. int.) To build up a pile of sheaves.

Shock (s. from shag) A rough dog.

Shock (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to a rough dog.

Shock'ed (p. from shock) Shook by violence, disgusted; piled up as sheaves of corn.

Shock'ing (p. a. from shock) Shaking with giving a disgust, giving great offence; giving sheaves of corn.

Shod (v. t. pret. of shoe) Did shoe.

from shoe) Furnished with shoes, covered at bottom.

obsolete) A head, a head of hair. Ch.

an obsolete spelling) Shod. Cole.

(s. an old spelling) A shoulder.

(s. from the Sax. iceo) The cover of the foot.

(s. t. from the sub.) To put a cover on the foot; to put up a shoe.

(s. from shoe, and black) One that blacks

(s. from shoe, and boy) A boy that cleans

(s. from shoe, and buckle) A buckle with a shoe is bound to the foot.

(p. from shoe) Fitted with a shoe, accompanied with shoes, covered at the bottom, shod. Job.

(s. from shoe, and horn) A shoeing horn, a to put up a shoe.

(p. a. from shoe) Fitting with shoes, covering bottom.

(s. from the part.) The act of fitting with the expence of shoes.

(s. from shoeing, and box) The box which is the smith's materia's for shoeing.

(s. from shoeing, and hammer) The hammer used by a smith in shoeing a horse.

(s. from shoeing, and horn) A horn to aid the putting on of a shoe; any thing used as an in contempt.

(s. from shoe, and latchet) A shoe tye.

(s. from shoe, and maker) One whose trade is to make shoes.

(s. from shoe, and making) The trade or making shoes.

(s. from shoe, and strap) A shoe string.

(s. from shoe, and string) A string to tie a

(s. from shoe, and tye) A string or ribband which the shoe is tied.

(s. t. obsolete) To push. Ch.

(s. obsolete, from the verb) Pushed. Ch.

(s. from shock) A concussion. Dryden.

(s. t. from the sub.) To shake, to agitate with a impulse.

(s. a different spelling) A shog. Phillips.

(p. from shog) Agitated with a sudden im-

(p. a. from shog) Shaking with a sudden im-

(not so common a spelling) A shoal; a company; a shoal.

(s. from shoaly) The state of being shoaly, shoals. Scott.

(s. a sea term) The descent of the ground under water near the shore. Phillips.

(adj. from shoal) Shoaly, full of shoals. Scott.

(s. a local word) Shame, harm. Chaucer.

(v. int. the pret. of shine) Shined, did shine.

(p. from shine) Illuminated by the beams of the other luminous body. Johnson.

(s. obsolete) Shoes. Chaucer.

(v. t. obsolete) To shun. Chaucer.

(s. a local word) The hulls of oats. Bailey.

(v. t. pret. of shake) Did shake.

(s. obsolete) Shoes. Chaucer.

(v. t. from the Sax. sceatan) To discharge from or gun, to discharge any thing so as to make it with violence, to let off, to strike with shot; to push forward, to pass through with swiftness; to new parts as a vegetable.

(v. int.) To perform the act of shooting, to germinate, to grow; to form itself into any shape; to separate, to get out; to pass on as an arrow, to swiftness, to give a quick pain.

(s. from the verb) The act of shooting, the act of shooting; a branch issuing from the main stock.

(s. from shoot) One that shoots, a gunner.

(p. a. from shoot) Emitting, sending forth, quickly, germinating, giving a sudden pain.

(s. from the part.) The act of emitting as a blow or gun, a swift motion, a sudden pain.

(s. with printers) The instrument used to set up the pages in the chase or frame.

(s. from the Sax. sceap a magazine) A place where goods are sold, a room in which manufactures are made.

(s. int. a cant word, from the sub.) To frequent

(s. obsolete) Shaped, prepared. Chaucer.

(s. from shop, and board) The board or bench on which any work is done.

(s. from shop, and book) The book in which a shopkeeper enters his goods sold.

(s. from shop, and boy) A boy who serves in a shop.

(s. from shop, and cloth) A cloth used to clean the counter in a shop.

(s. from shop, and door) The door that leads into a shop.

(adj. obsolete) Shaped, prepared. Chaucer.

(adj. obsolete) Shaped. Chaucer.

(s. from shop, and keeper) One that keeps a shop, a trader who sells his goods in a shop.

(s. from shop, and keep) The act or state of keeping a shop, the business of a shopkeeper.

(s. from shop, and lift) A shoplifter. Cole.

(s. from shop, and lifter) One who under a pretence of buying takes an opportunity of stealing goods in a shop.

(adj. from shop, and lifting) Stealing goods out of a shop.

(s. from the adj.) The practice or crime of a shoplifter.

(s. from shop, and maid) A shopwoman.

(s. from shop, and man) A man that serves in a shop; a petty trader.

(s. plu. of shopman) More than one shopman.

(adj. from shop) Furnished with a shop, put into a shop.

(p. a. from shop) Frequenting shops, putting into a shop.

(s. from shop, and scissors) Scissors used in a shop.

(s. from shop, and shears) Shears used in a shop.

(s. from shop, and thread) The thread used to bind up goods in a shop.

(s. from shop, and window) The window of a shop.

(s. from shop, and woman) A woman who serves in a shop.

(s. plu. of shopwoman) More than one shopwoman.

(s. from shore) A duty paid for goods brought on shore.

(s. from the Sax. score) The coast of the sea, the bank of a river; a fewer, a drain.

(s. from the Dutch schooren) A buttress, a support of a building.

(v. t. from the sub.) To prop, to support; to set on shore; but this sense is not in use. Shakespeare.

(v. t. pret. of hear) Did hear.

(p. from shore) Propped, supported.

(s. an old word) The office or jurisdiction of a sheriff. Cole.

(s.) A borough town in Suffex; it has a market on Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 57 miles from London.

(adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Shoreham, made at Shoreham.

(adj. from shore) Having no shore.

(s. from shear) The felt or skin of a sheep shorn.

(p. a. from shore) Propping, supporting.

(p. from shear) Sheared.

(adj. from the Sax. sceort) Deficient in length, deficient in space, deficient in duration; repeated in quick successions, returning in quick succession, imperfect, defective, inadequate to the end; narrow, contracted, defective in quantity; brittle, friable.

(adv. from the adj. mostly used in composition) With deficiency in length, with short duration.

(s. from the adj.) A summary account.

(adj. from short, and arm) Having short arms.

(adj. from short, and back) Having a short back.

(adj. from short, and beak) Having a short beak.

(adj. from short, and bill) Having a short bill.

(adj. from short, and body) Having a short body.

(v. t. from short) To make short, to contract, to abbreviate; to confine, to hinder from progression, to cut off, to defeat, to lop.

(adj. from short, and enduring) Enduring for a short season.

Shortened

SHO

Short'ened (p. from shorten) Made short, contracted, abbreviated, cut off, defeated.

Short'ening (p. a. from shorten) Making short, contracting, cutting off.

Short'ening (s. from the part.) The act of making short, a contraction, the act of cutting off.

Short'er (adj. comp. of short) Short in a greater degree.

Short'est (adj. sup. of short) Short in the greatest degree.

Short'faced (adj. from short, and face) Having a short face.

Short'fingered (adj. from short, and fingered) Having short fingers.

Short'footed (adj. from short, and foot) Having short feet.

Short'hand (s. from short, and hand) A method of writing in compendious characters, the art of writing in characters or contractions.

Short'legged (adj. from short, and leg) Having short legs.

Short'lived (adj. from short, and life) Living but a short time, continuing but a little while.

Short'ly (adv. from short) In a little time, soon; in a few words, briefly.

Short'necked (adj. from short, and neck) Having a short neck.

Short'nefs (s. from short) The state of being short.

Short'nofed (adj. from short, and nose) Having a short nose.

Short'rib (s. from short, and rib) One of the bastard ribs, one of the ribs below the sternum.

Short'sighted (adj. from short, and sight) Unable to see far; incapable of deep discernment.

Short'sightednefs (s. from shortsighted) A defect of sight occasioned by a too great convexity of the eye; a defect of intellectual discernment.

Short'waited (adj. from short, and waist) Having a short body, having a short waist.

Short'winded (adj. from short, and wind) Short breathed, asthmatic, breathing too quick.

Short'winged (adj. from short, and winged) Having short wings.

Sho'ry (adj. from shore) Lying near the shore. Burnet.

SHO'SHANNIM (s. from the Heb. signifying six) A hexachord.

Shot (s. from shoot) The act of shooting, the flight of any thing shot; the charge of a gun, a ball for the charge of a gun, that which is discharged from a gun or other instrument.

SHOT (s. from the French, escot) A reckoning, a sum charged.

Shot (adj. obsolete) Shut. Chaucer.

Shot (v. t. pret. of shoot) Did shoot.

Shot (p. from shoot) Discharged from a gun or other instrument, put forth.

Shote (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish.

Shot'free (adj. from shot, and free) Clear of the reckoning, exempted from paying a share.

Shot'fir (s. obsolete) A shooter; the yew.

Shot'ten (adj. from shoot) Cleared of the spawn, having ejected the spawn; curdled, turned to curds and whey.

SHOVE (v. t. from the Sax. scufan) To push by main strength, to push, to rush against, to drive a boat or vessel by a pole reaching to the bottom of the water.

Shove (v. int.) To push forward, to move in a boat by heaving at a pole reaching to the bottom.

Shove (s. from the verb) The act of shoving, a push.

Shoved (p. from shove) Pushed, moved forward by a push.

SHOV'EL (s. from the Sax. scoff) An instrument consisting of a long handle and broad blade, a kind of spade.

Shov'el (v. t. from the sub.) To throw or heap up with a shovel, to gather in great quantities.

Shov'elard (s. a different spelling) The shoveller, a kind of pelican.

Shov'elboard (s. from shovel, and board) A long board on which flat pieces of metal are driven to a mark; the game determined by driving flat pieces of metal on a long board to a mark.

Shov'eled (p. from shovel) Thrown up by a shovel.

Shov'eler (s. a different spelling) The shoveller, the spoonbill. D. of A.

Shov'eler (s. from shovel) One that shovels.

Shov'eling (p. a. from shovel) Throwing up with a shovel, heaping together.

Shov'eller (s. in ornithology) The spoonbill, a kind of pelican.

SHO

Sho'ven (p. from shove) Shoved, pushed, violence.

Shoufe (p. obsolete) Shoven.

Should (v. int. sign of the potential mode) To be to, to be necessary to, to happen to; is; but this is not used of late.

SHOUL'DER (s. from the Sax. sculdre) The joint connects the arm to the body; the upper part of the back; the upper part of the fore leg in beasts; the upper part of the arm, a prominence; a support, an embolus of strength.

Shoul'der (v. t. from the sub.) To push with violence to put on the shoulders.

Shoul'derbelt (s. from shoulder, and belt) The belt comes across the shoulder.

Shoul'derblade (s. from shoulder, and blade) The blade of the bone of the shoulder.

Shoul'derbone (s. from shoulder, and bone) The bone of the shoulder.

Shoul'derclapper (s. from shoulder, and clapper) who affects familiarity, one that does mischievously.

Shoul'dered (p. from shoulder) Pushed with violence.

Shoul'deredhead (s. from shouldered, and head) A kind of arrow.

Shoul'derhead (s. in archery) A kind of arrow.

Shoul'dering (p. a. from shoulder) Pushing with violent violence: making a shoulder.

Shoul'dering (s. from the part.) The act of pushing with insolent violence; the part of any thing which is made in the form of a shoulder, a prominence, a kind of outwork in fortification.

Shoul'deringpiece (s. in building) A kind of bracket.

Shoul'derknot (s. from shoulder, and knot) A knot of ribband or lace worn on the shoulder.

Shoul'derpight (s. in farriery) A disease or swelling in the shoulder of a horse.

Shoul'derpinched (adj. from shoulder, and pinched) Pinched on the shoulder.

Shoul'derpincht (adj. a different spelling) Shoulder pinched.

Shoul'derpitched (adj. in farriery) Having the shoulder displaced.

Shoul'derslip (s. from shoulder, and slip) A dislocation of the shoulder.

Shoul'derslipped (adj. from shoulderslip) Having the shoulder dislocated.

Shoul'dersplait (s. in farriery) A wrench in the shoulder by which it is parted from the breast.

Shoul'dersplaiting (s. in farriery) The shoulder wrench in which the shoulder of a horse is parted from the breast.

Shoul'dersplaiting (s. in farriery) The shoulder wrench in which the shoulder bone is partly separated from the breast.

Shoul'dertorn (adj. from shoulder, and torn) Having the shoulderbone partly separated from the breast.

Shoul'derwrench (s. from shoulder, and wrench) A wrench in the shoulder.

Shoun (s. obsolete) A fight, an onset.

SHOUT (v. int. the derivation is not noted) To shout, to triumph, to proclaim with shouts.

Shout (v. t. not much used) To receive with shouts.

Shout (s. from the verb) A burst of triumph, a shout by way of triumph or exhortation.

Shout'ed (p. from shout, not much used) Received with shouts.

Shout'er (s. from shout) One who shouts.

Shout'ing (p. a. from shout) Proclaiming with shouts.

Shout'ing (s. from the part.) The act of shouting, with shouts, an exclamation of triumph or exhortation.

SHOW (v. t. from the Sax. scawen) To show, to exhibit to view; to prove, to make evident; to show to proclaim; to offer, to afford; to explain, to tell; to paint, to print.

Show (v. int.) To appear, to look, to have appearance.

Show (s. from the verb) A spectacle, something to view for money; a superficial appearance, a did appearance, a mere appearance; a representative action.

Show'bread (s. a different spelling) The shewbread.

Showe (s. an old spelling) A shoe.

Show'ed (p. from show) Shewed, shown.

Show'el (s. a local word) A blind for a cow.

SHOW'ER (s. from the Dutch scheure) A light

S H R

all of rain, any thing that falls thick as rain; a eral distribution.
 er (v. t. from the sub.) To wet with rain; to ur down; to distribute liberally.
 er (v. int.) To be showery.
 er (s. from show) One that shows.
 er (s. from shower) Poured down as rain,
 ered (p. from shower) Poured down as rain, entfully distributed.
 erineis (s. from showery) The state of being Scott.
 owery.
 uring (p. a. from shower) Pouring down as rain, entfully distributing.
 ury (adj. from shower) Rainy.
 yhe (s. an obsolete spelling) A shock, a rough Shakespeare.
 ier (adj. comp. of showy) Showy in a greater de-
 ee.
 iest (adj. sup. of showy) Showy in the greatest de-
 ee.
 ily (adv. from showy) In a showy manner. Job.
 inefs (s. from showy) The state of being Johnson.
 ith (adj. from show) Splendid, gaudy, showy.
 l (adj. an incorrect spelling) Shallow, near the Cole.
 ling (s. from show) The declivity of the ground
 der water near the shore. n (v. t. pret. of show) Did show. n (p. from show) Shewed.
 y (adj. from show) Gaudy, splendid, ostenta-us.
 k (v. t. pret. of shrink) Did shrink.
 e (s. a local word) A place baited with chaff to en-ba Phillips.
 ping (adj. an old word) Scraping. Bailey.
 d (s. a different spelling) A shred. Bailey.
 D (v. t. from the Sax. screadan) To cut into small ces as cloth.
 d (s. from the verb) A small piece cut off, a fragnt.
 d (v. t. pret. from the verb) Did shred, did cut in all pieces.
 d (p. from the verb) Cut in small pieces.
 d'neis (s. an obsolete spelling) Wickedness, shrewd-Cb.
 EW (s. from the German schreyen) A peevish, eful clamorous woman; a vile fellow, a villain,
 this sense is now become obsolete.
 w (v. t. obsolete) To beshrew. Cb.
 w (adj. from shrew) Having the qualities of a ew, fly, cunning, bad, ill-omened; painful, pinch-dangerous. Shakespeare.
 wde (s. obsolete) A wicked fellow, a wicked son. Cbaucer.
 w'er (adj. comp. of shrewd) Shrewd in a greater
 ree.
 w'est (adj. sup. of shrewd) Shrewd in the greatest
 ree.
 w'dly (adv. from shrewd) Mischievously, vexaously; with strong suspicion.
 w'dneis (s. from shrewd) Archness, cunning; penance, mischievousness.
 ve (s. obsolete) A wicked villain.
 w'ed (p. from shrew, but not used) Beshrewed.
 w'ish (adj. from shrew) Having the qualities of a ew, froward, petulant, clamorous.
 w'ishly (adv. from shrewish) Petulantly, peevish-clamorously.
 w'ishness (s. from shrewish) Frowardness, petu-ce, clamorousness.
 w'mice (s. plu. of shrewmouse) More than one w'mouse.
 w'mouse (s. in zoology) A kind of mouse the bite which was heretofore supposed to be venomous.
 WSBURY (s.) A large borough town, the capiof Shropshire; it has a market on Wednesday, rday, and Saturday, sends two members to par-
 ment, and is 159 miles from London.
 wsbury (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Shrewsy, made at Shrewsbury.
 EK (s. from the Danish skrieg) the inarticulate of anguish or horror.
 e (v. int. from the sub.) To scream, to utter the articulate cry of anguish or horror.
 ing (p. a. from shriek) Screaming, uttering the articulate cry of anguish or horror.
 ing (s. from the part.) The inarticulate cry of uish or horror.
 ality (s. an old spelling) Sheriffalty. Phillips.

S H R

SHRIFT (s. from the Sax. scift, but not used of late)
 Confession to a priest. Rord.
 Shright (v. int. p. et. of shriek) Shrieked. Stenfer.
 Shrike (v. int. a different spelling) To shriek. Phillips.
 SHRILL (adj. supposed to be from the sound) Giving a piercing tremulous sound, high in sound.
 Shril (v. int. from the adj.) To give a sharp tremulous sound.
 Shril'er (adj. comp. of shrill) Shril in a greater degree.
 Shril'est (adj. sup. of shrill) Shril in the greatest degree.
 Shril'ing (p. a. from shrill) Uttering a piercing tremulous sound, uttering a high sound.
 Shril'neis (s. from shrill) The state or quality of being shrill.
 Shril'y (adv. from shrill) With a shrill noise.
 SHRIMP (s. from the German schrumpe) A small crus-taceous fish; a dwarf, a little man in contempt.
 SHRINE (s. from the Lat. scrinium) A case in which something sacred is repositied, a small kind of temple;
 the temple of a heathen divinity; a place set apart for divine worship as used by later poets.
 Shrin'ed (adj. from shrine) Inshrined. Milton.
 SHRINK (v. int. from the Sax. scrincan) To contract itself, to draw together by some internal power; to withdraw as from danger, to fall back, to express fear, to discover horror.
 Shrink (v. t.) To make to shrink.
 Shrink (s. from the verb) A contraction of the body for fear, a contraction into less compass.
 Shrink'er (s. from shrink) One who shrinks.
 SHRITE (s. in ornithology) The mistletoethrush.
 Shriv'alty (s. not to correct a spelling) A sheriffalty. Job.
 SHRIVE (v. t. from the Sax. scrifan) To hear a confession, to confess. Sb.
 Shriv'ed (p. from shrive, but not used of late) Confessed.
 SHRIV'EL (v. int. from the Dutch scrimpalen) To contract itself into wrinkles.
 Shriv'el (v. t.) To contract, to draw up in wrinkles.
 Shriv'eled (p. from shrivel) Contracted, drawn up in wrinkles.
 Shriv'eling (p. a. from shrivel) Contracting, drawing up in wrinkles.
 Shriv'eling (s. from the part.) The act of drawing up in wrinkles, a contraction in wrinkles.
 Shriv'en (v. t. obsolete) To shrive, to confess. Cb.
 Shriv'er (s. obsolete) A confessor. Sb.
 Shriv'ing (p. a. from shrive) Confessing. Sb.
 Shriv'ing (s. from the part.) The act of confession to a priest, a confession. Spenser.
 Shroff (adj. obsolete) Confessed. Cb.
 SHROP/SHIRE (s.) One of the inland counties of England; it contains fifteen market towns, and one hundred and seventy parishes, which are divided into fifteen hundreds; the air is reckoned salubrious, and the soil in some parts fruitful; it produces coal in great abundance, and sends twelve members to parliament, two for the county, and two for each of the boroughs, Shrewsbury, Bridgenorth, Ludlow, Wen-lock and Bishopscastle.
 Shrop'shire (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the county of Salop; produced in the county of Salop.
 SHROUD (s. from the Sax. scrud) A shelter, a cover;
 a winding-sheet, the drefs of the dead.
 Shroud (v. t. from the sub.) To shelter, to cover from dangers, to defend, to protect, to cover, to conceal;
 to drefs for the grave, to drefs in a winding sheet.
 Shroud (v. int.) To harbour, to take shelter; with with or within; as, "Or shroud within these limits."
 Shroud'ed (p. from shroud) Covered, protected from danger; dressed for the grave, clothed in a shroud.
 Shroud'ing (p. a. from shroud) Covering, protecting from danger, dresting for the grave.
 Shrouds (s. plu. a sea term) The sail ropes, the great ropes which come down on both sides of the masts.
 Shrove (v. t. pret. of thrive) Did confess. Johnson.
 Shrov'mouse (s. a different spelling) A shrewmouse. Bailey.
 Shrovefun'day (s. from shrove, and Sunday) The quinquagesima, the Sunday before Lent.
 Shrove'tide (s. from shrove, and tide) The day before Ashwednesday or Lent in which the people went to confession, the time of confession.
 Shrovetuesday (s. from shrove, and Tuesday) The Tuesday before Lent.
 Shrov'ing (s. from shrove) The act of confessing

- to a priest after the manner of the papists, a confession. Tuffer.
- Shrowd (s. a different spelling) A shroud.
- Shrowd (v. t. a different spelling) To shroud; to lop the branches of trees.
- Shrowd'ed (p. from shrowd, a different spelling) Shrouded; lopped as a tree of its branches.
- Shrowd'ing (p. a. from shrowd, a different spelling) Shrouding; lopping the branches.
- Shrowd'ing (s. from the part.) The act of cutting off the branches.
- Shrowds (s. plu. a sea term, and different spelling) The shrouds, the strong ropes on each side of the mast.
- SHRUB (s. from the Sax. scribbe) A woody plant less than a tree, a bush, a small tree.
- Shrub (s. a cant word) Spirits, acid, and sugar mixed together.
- Shrub'bier (adj. comp. of shrubby) Shrubby in a greater degree.
- Shrub'bieft (adj. sup. of shrubby) Shrubby in the greatest degree.
- Shrub'biness (s. from shrubby) The state or quality of being shrubby.
- Shrub'by (adj. from shrub) Full of shrubs, bushy, resembling a shrub.
- SHRUG (v. int. from the Dutch schrieken to tremble) To express horror, to express dissatisfaction by the motion of the shoulders or body.
- Shrug (v. t.) To contract, to draw up.
- Shrug (s. from the verb) A motion of the shoulders usually expressive of dislike or aversion.
- Shrug'ging (p. a. from shrug) Expressing horror or dislike by a shrug, contracting, drawing up as the shoulders.
- Shrug'ging (s. from the part.) The motion of the shoulders expressing dislike or aversion, a shrug.
- Shrunk (v. t. pret. of shrink) Shrank, did shrink.
- Shrunk (p. from shrink) Contracted, drawn up into a less compass.
- Shrunk'en (p. from shrink) Shrunk, contracted, drawn up into a less compass.
- SHU'AH (s. from the Heb. signifying a pit) A man's name.
- SHU'AL (s. from the Heb. signifying a tox) The name of a country. I Sam. Bailey.
- Shuck (s. a local word) A husk, a shell.
- SHUD'DER (v. int. from the Dutch schudden) To quake, to quake with fear, to tremble with fear or aversion; with at: as, "I shuddered at the name."
- Shud'der (s. from the verb) A tremulous motion of the body through fear or aversion, a tremor.
- Shud'dering (p. a. from shudder) Trembling through fear or aversion.
- Shud'dering (s. from the part.) A tremor, a tremulous motion of the flesh through fear or dislike.
- SHUF'FLE (v. t. from the Sax. lyfeling) To throw into disorder, to agitate; to remove with some artifice or fraud; to form tumultuously; to change the position of cards in a pack.
- Shuffle (v. int.) To play mean tricks, to put the cards into a different order in the pack; to struggle, to shift; to move with an irregular gait.
- Shuffle (s. from the verb) A trick, an artifice; the act of putting things into disorder, the act of throwing any thing confusedly together.
- Shuffleboard (s. from shuffle, and board) Shovelboard, a kind of play with flat pieces of metal on a long board.
- Shufflecap (s. from shuffle, and cap) A play in which money is shaken in a hat.
- Shuffled (p. from shuffle) Thrown into disorder, moved by artifice or fraud, formed tumultuously, changed as the position of cards in a pack.
- Shuffler (s. from shuffle) One that shuffles.
- Shuffling (p. a. from shuffle) Throwing into confusion, moving by artifice, tricking; changing the position, moving with an irregular gait.
- Shuffling (s. from the part.) The act of throwing into confusion; a trick, an artifice, an irregular gait.
- Shufflingly (adv. from shuffling) In a shuffling manner, with an irregular gait.
- SHU'HAM (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.
- Shu'hamite (s. from Shuham) A descendant of Shuham.
- Shu'hite (s. from Shuah) A descendant of Shuah.
- SHU'LAMITE (s. from the Heb. signifying peaceable) An appellation supposed to be applied to the bride or church. Canticlet.
- Shullen (v. int. obsolete) Shall. Cole.
- SHUN (v. t. from the Sax. ascunian) To avoid, to decline, to endeavour to escape.
- Shun (v. t. a local word) To shove, to push. Cole.
- Shu'namite (s. from Shunem) A native of Shunem.
- Shun'ed (p. not so analogical a spelling) Shunned.
- SHU'NEM (s. from the Heb. signifying their charge) The name of a place in the land of Canaan.
- SHU'NI (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.
- Shu'nite (s. from Shuni) A descendant of Shuni.
- Shun'less (adj. from shun) Unavoidable, inevitable.
- Shun'ned (p. from shun) Avoided, declined.
- Shun'ning (p. a. from shun) Avoiding, declining.
- Shunt (v. int. a local word) To give a sudden start.
- Shunt (v. t. a local word) To shove, to push.
- Shunt'ing (p. a. a local word, from shunt) Giving a sudden start; shoving, pushing with a sudden motion.
- SHU'PHAM (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.
- Shu'phamite (s. from Shupham) A descendant of Shupham.
- SHUR (s. from the Heb. signifying a wall) The name of a wilderness.
- SHU'SHAN (s. from the Heb. signifying a rose) A city in Persia.
- SHUSHANE'DUTH (s. from the Heb.) A kind of instrument.
- SHUT (v. t. from the Sax. scitten) To close, to include, to confine, to prohibit, to bar, to exclude; to contract; To shut out, to exclude, to deny admission. To shut in, to inclose, to conclude.
- Shut (v. int.) To close itself, to become closed.
- Shut (s. from the verb) A small shutter, a small door; close; the act of shutting.
- Shut (s. a local word) A young pig put up to fatten, a young store pig.
- Shut (v. t. pret. of the verb) Did shut.
- Shut (p. from the verb) Closed, barred, confined.
- Shut'alhite (s. from Shuthelah) A descendant of Shuthelah.
- SHU'THELAH (s. from the Heb. signifying a plant) A man's name.
- Shut'ter (s. from shut) One that shuts, a little cover, the door that shuts up a window.
- Shut'ting (p. a. from shut) Closing, barring, confining.
- SHUT'TLE (s. from the Islandick) The instrument with which the weaver shoots the cross threads.
- Shut'tlecock (s. a different spelling) A shuttlecock, a stick with feathers and driven backwards and forwards with battledores; the diversion of driving a cock tailed with feathers backwards and forwards with battledores.
- SHY (adj. from the Dutch, schowe) Reserved, kept at a distance; suspicious, jealous.
- Shy'mar (s. a different spelling) A fimar.
- Shy'ness (s. a different spelling) Shiness.
- SI (s.) The seventh note in the scale of music as used by some authors, ut, re, mi, fa, sol, la, si.
- SIAGONAG'RA (s. from the Greek σιαγονη the jaw, and αγρα a seizure) The gout in the jaw.
- SI'AM (s. in geography) A kingdom in India, the capital of that kingdom.
- Siame'se (adj. from Siam) Belonging to Siam.
- Siame'se (s. from the adj.) A native of Siam, the people of Siam.
- SIB (s. obsolete, from the Sax.) Kindred.
- Sib (adj. from the sub.) Relating, having kindred.
- SIBAL'DIA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
- Sibbe (s. obsolete) Kindred.
- Sib'bered (s. a local word) The bans of matrimony.
- Sib'beredge (s. a local word) The bans of matrimony.
- Sib'ed (adj. a local word) Related, having kin.
- SIB'E'RIA (s. in geography) The most northern country of Asia.
- Sibe'rian (adj. from Siberia) Belonging to Siberia, produced in Siberia, imported from Siberia.
- Sibe'rian (s. from the adj.) A native of Siberia.
- SIB'MAH (s. from the Heb. signifying conversion) The name of a country famous for wines.
- SIB'ILANT (adj. from the Lat. sibilio to hiss) Hissing.
- Sibila'tion (s. from sibilant) A hissing.
- SIB'YL (s. probably from Sibylla, in Pagan mythology) One of a number of women, some reckon ten, were supposed to have been endowed with a prophetic prophecy, and to have foretold the revolutions and fates of kingdoms, and some of them to have predicted many things in Greek verse relative to the Greeks.
- SIB'YLL (s.) A woman's name.
- SIBYL'LA (s. in heathen mythology) The daughter of Dardanus, a famous prophetess of antiquity; a man's name.
- SIBYL'LA (s.) The Sibyls.
- Sibyl'line (adj. from Sibyl) Belonging to the Sibyls, posed by the Sibyls.
- SICAM'BRI (s.) An ancient people of Spain who to Italy and being expelled from thence settled Sicily.

AMORE (s. in botany, from the Lat. ficamorus) The name of a tree.

amore (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the ficamore, made of ficamore.

amoretree (s. from ficamore, and tree) The ficamore.

ANI (s. in ancient geography) A people of Spain, the Cambri.

CANEIOUS (adj. from the Lat. ficcus, but not used) Dry, having no springs.

CATE (v. t. from the Lat. ficco to dry) To make dry, to dry.

cated (p. from ficcate) Dried, made dry.

cating (p. a. from ficcate) Drying, making dry.

cation (s. from ficcate) The act of drying.

CIFIC (adj. from the Lat. ficcus dry, and facio to make) Making dry, causing dryness.

ffical (adj. from ficcific) Dry, causing dryness.

ity (s. from ficcate) Dryness, want of moisture.

(s. from fix) The fix at dice.

ace (s. from fice, and ace) A particular method of play or game at dice; the fix and the ace.

ELICA, SICE'LION (s. in botany) The name of an herb.

point (s. from fice, and point) The fix, the sixth point at backgammon.

(s. an old word) A current of water, a water furrow.

(adj. an old spelling) Such.

HA (s. in botany) The wild carrot.

HERUS (s. in ancient history) The priest of Hercules and husband of Dido.

HEM (s.) The name of a place.

etum (s. in old records) A small current of water usually dried up in the summer, a water furrow.

ian (adj. from Sicily) Belonging to Sicily.

ian (s. from the adj.) A native of Sicily; a kind of music.

LICUM (s. from the Lat.) The fourth part of an ounce.

LICUS (s. a different spelling) The scillicum.

ILY (s. in geography) An island in the Mediterranean; it is the largest of all the Italian islands and famous for the volcano of mount Aetna.

(adj. from the Sax. icac) Afflicted with disease, in the stomach; corrupted, disgusted; with of: as, Sick of the fever.

(v. int. not used) To sicken.

ed (v. int. pret.) Grew sick.

en (v. int. from sick) To grow sick, to fall into disease; to grow weak, to decay; to be fatiate, to filled with disgust.

en (v. t.) To make sick, to weaken, to impair.

ened (p. from sicken) Made sick, impaired, distressed.

ening (p. a. from sicken) Growing sick.

er (adj. comp. of sick) Sick in a greater degree.

ER (adj. from the Dutch faker, but now grown obsolete) Sure, certain, firm.

er (adv. from the adj. obsolete) Surely, certainly.

erly (adv. obsolete from sicker) Surely, certainly.

est (adj. sup. of sick) Sick in the greatest degree.

LE (s. from the Sax. ficol) A kind of reaping hook, a hook to cut corn with an indented edge.

leman (s. from fickle, and man) A reaper, one who reaps with a fickle.

lemen (s. plu.) More than one fickleman.

er (s. from fickle) A reaper, one who cuts corn with a fickle.

ier (adj. comp. of sickly) Sickly in a greater degree.

iest (adj. sup. of sickly) Sickly in the greatest degree.

like (adv. a local word) In such a manner.

lines (s. from sickly) The state of being sickly.

ly (adj. from sick) Somewhat disordered, faint, weak, languid.

ness (s. from sick) The state of being sick; a disease, a malady, a disorder in the organs of digestion.

(s. a different spelling) The shekel.

US (s. from the Lat.) The shekel.

ANIA (s. in zoology) A genus of insects; the groundworm.

OIDES (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the figs.

SI'CYOS (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

SI'DA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

SIDE (s. from the Sax.) That part of an animal which is fortified by the ribs, that part of a body which is opposed to another part; a margin, an edge; any kind of local respect, the right or left; a party, a faction.

Side (adj. from the sub.) Lateral, oblique, pertaining to a side.

Side (v. int. from the sub.) To take a party, to engage in a faction; with with, or against: as, "He sided with the enemy." Sometimes with in: as, "All side in parties."

Side (adj. a local word) Long; proud.

Si'deboard (s. from side, and board) A side table.

Si'debox (s. from side, and box) A seat for ladies on the side of the theatre.

Si'defly (s. from side, and fly) The name of an insect.

Si'delay (s. from side, and lay, in hunting) A fresh set of dogs to be laid in on the scent.

Si'deling (s. a local word) A balk, a strip of green between ploughed lands.

Si'delong (adj. from side, and long) Lateral, obliquely, longitudinal.

Si'delong (adv. from the adj.) Laterally, obliquely, sidewise.

SI'DER (s. a different spelling) Cider, drink made of apples.

SID'ERAL (adj. from the Lat. sidus a star) Starry, astral, belonging to the stars.

SID'ERATED (adj. from the Lat. sidus a star) Blasted by the stars, planet struck.

Sideration (s. from siderated) A blast, a sudden deprivation of sense and motion; an apoplexy.

SIDERE'AN (adj. from the Lat. sidus a star) Sideral.

SID'ERITES (s. in natural history) A stone resembling iron; the loadstone.

SID'ERITIS (s. in botany) The name of a plant, ironwort.

SIDERO'MANCY (s. from the Greek σιδερος iron, and μαντεια magic) Divination by means of red hot iron.

SIDEROPE'CILOS (s. in natural history) A precious stone resembling iron with a variety of spots.

SIDEROPYL'UM (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

SID'EROS (s. in natural history) Iron.

Si'defaddle (s. from side, and faddle) A faddle for ladies to ride on horseback.

Si'defman (s. from sides, and man) An assistant to a church warden.

Si'demen (s. plu.) The vestry, the paymasters of the parish assembled to assist the parish officers.

Si'deway (adv. from side, and way) Laterally, on one side, with the side foremost.

Si'dewise (adv. from side, and wife) In the direction of the side, laterally.

Sidlin'gi (s. in old records) The balks between ploughed lands.

SI'DON (s. from the Heb. signifying fishing) The name of a man; the name of a city.

Sid'y (adj. a local word) Surly, pettish.

Sie (v. t. obsolete) To see.

Sie (v. t. pret.) Saw, did see.

Sie (v. int. obsolete) To fall.

Sie (s. obsolete) A kind of medicated wine.

SIEFAL'BUM (s. in medicine) A collyrium, a remedy for the eyes.

SIEGE (s. from the French) The act of besetting a fortified town; a continued endeavour to gain possession; a feat, a fool, the fundament; but these last senses are now grown obsolete.

Siege (v. t. from the sub. but not used) To besiege, to attack a fortified town in military form.

Sieg'ed (p. from siege, but not used) Besieged.

Sieve (s. from sift) A boulder, a sifter, an utensil to separate the finer parts of any thing from the coarser.

SIEUR (s. from the French) A title of respect, master.

SIFT (v. t. from the Sax. siftan) To separate by a sieve to separate, to part; to examine, to try.

Sift'ed (p. from sift) Separated by a sieve, parted, examined with strictness.

Sift'er (s. from sift) One who sifts.

Sift'ing (p. a. from sift) Separating by a sieve, separating, examining with strictness.

Sift'ing (s. from the part.) The act of separating by a sieve, a separation, a strict examination; that which is separated by the sieve.

Sig (s. a local word) Urine, stale urine.

SIGA'LION (s. in heathen mythology) The Egyptian god of silence.

SIG

SIG'ARD (s. from the Sax.) A man's name.
SIG'BERT (s. from the Sax.) A man's name.
Sig'ele (s. an old word) A necklace. Col.
SIGESBE'CKIA (s. in botany) A genus or class of plants.
SIGH (s. from the Sax. (sian)) An audible emission of the breath in grief or sadness.
Sigh (v. int. from the sub.) To emit the breath audibly after long repression as in grief or sadness.
Sigh (v. t. obsolete) To see. Chaucer.
Sigh (v. t. pret. obsolete) Saw, did see. Chaucer.
Sigh (v. t. but not used) To lament, to mourn. Prior.
Sigh'ing (p. a. from sigh) Emitting the breath so as to be heard as in grief or sadness.
SIGHT (s. from the Dutch sight) The sense of seeing, perception by the eye, the act of seeing, the eye, the instrument of seeing; open view, a situation where nothing obstructs the eye; notice, knowledge; a spectacle, a show; a small hole or aperture to look through, any thing to guide the eye.
Sight (v. int. pret. obsolete) Sighed, did sigh. Chau.
Sight'ed (adj. from sight, chiefly used in composition) Seeing in a particular manner.
Sight'full (adj. from sight, obsolete) Visible. Chaucer.
Sight'fulness (s. from sightful) Clearness of sight. Sidney.
Sight'less (adj. from sight) Blind, void of sight; unsightly, unpleasant to the eye.
Sight'lier (adj. comp. of sightly) Sightly in a greater degree.
Sight'liest (adj. sup. of sightly) Slightly in the greatest degree.
Sight'liness (s. from sightly) The state of being sightly, an agreeable appearance to the eye.
Sight'ly (adj. from sight) Pleasing to the eye, striking to the view.
Sig'il (s. from sigillum) A seal. Dryden.
Sig'illar (adj. from sigil) Belonging to a seal. Col.
SIGILLARIA (s. in Roman antiquity) A festival at which seals or other nicknacks were lent to particular friends.
SIGILLATATER'RA (s. in natural history) A kind of bole, lemnian earth.
Sig'illative (adj. from sigillum) Belonging to a seal, apt to seal. Col.
SIGIL'LUM (s. from the Lat.) A seal.
SIG'NONO'H (s. from the Heb. signifying a variable tune) A kind of musical instrument.
SIG'ISMUND (s. from the Sax.) A man's name.
SIGISMUN'DA (s.) A woman's name.
SIG'LA (s. from the Lat.) Short notes, characters, initial letters.
Sig'les (s. from sigla) Short notes, initial letters.
SIGN (s. from the Lat. signum) A token, a mark by which any thing is known; a picture hung at a door, a monument, a memorial; a note of remembrance, an ensign; a symbol, a typical representation; a signature, a name written, the mark for a name; a constellation in the zodiac; a wonder, a miracle.
Sign (v. t. from the sub.) To mark, to betoken, to ratify by the signature of a name.
SIG'NA (s. plu. from the Lat.) Ensigns, banners.
SIG'NACLE (s. from the signaculum) A seal, a sign. Co.
Sig'nal (adj. from sign) R-markable, eminent, worthy to be remembered.
Sig'nal (s. from the adj.) Notice given by a sign, a sign which gives notice.
Signal'ity (s. from signal) The state or quality of being remarkable. Brown.
Sig'nalize (v. t. from signal) To render eminent, to make remarkable.
Sig'nalized (p. from signalize) Rendered famous, made remarkable.
Sig'nalizing (p. a. from signalize) Rendering famous, making remarkable.
Sig'nally (adv. from signal) In a signal manner.
SIGNA'TION (s. from the Lat. signo to sign) A sign given, the act of giving a sign. Brown.
Sig'natory (adj. from sign) Belonging to a seal, used in sealing. Scott.
SIG'NATURE (s. from the Lat. signo to sign) A stamp, a mark; a name written; a letter or mark to distinguish one thing from another; a sign, a type, a token.
Sig'naturist (s. from signature) One who holds the doctrine of signatures, one fond of types and figures. Br.
Signe (v. t. obsolete) To assign, to appoint. Chaucer.
Sig'net (s. from sign) A small seal, a seal usually fixed in a ring.
Sig'netring (s. from signet, and ring) A ring with a signet or little seal fixed in it. Lyfse.
SIG'NIFER (s. from the Lat. signum a sign, and fero to bear) The zodiac so called from the twelve signs; a standardbearer, an ensign, a cornet. Phillips.

SIL

Signif'erous (adj. from signifer) Bearing an ensign. Co.
Signif'iance (s. obsolete) Signification. Chaucer.
Signif'icance (s. from significant) The power of signifying, force, energy, importance; import, meaning.
Signif'icancy (s. from significance) Significance, the state of being significant.
Signif'icant (adj. from signify) Expressive of something more than the external mark, standing as a sign for something more than commonly expressive; important, momentous; but this is rather a low or droll sense of the word.
Signif'icantly (adv. from significant) With signif'icancy, with force of expression.
Signif'icantness (s. from significant) The state of being significant.
Signif'ication (s. from signify) The act of making known by words or signs; the import, the meaning expressed by word or sign.
Signif'icative (adj. from signify) Signifying by an external sign, expressive, forcible.
Signif'icatory (s. from signify) That which signifies, that which betokens.
Sig'nified (p. from signify) Declared by some token or sign, made known.
SIG'NIFY (v. t. from the Lat. signum a sign, and facio to make) To declare by some token or sign, to mean, to express; to import, to avail; to make known.
Sig'nify (v. int.) To express meaning.
Sig'nifying (p. a. from signify) Declaring by tokens or signs, meaning, expressing with force.
Sig'ning (p. a. from sign) Marking with a sign, ratifying by the signature of a name.
Sig'ning (s. from the part.) The act of confirming by the signature of a name.
Sig'nior (s. a different spelling) A seignior. Phillips.
SIG'NIORY (s. from the Italian signoria) A lordship, a dominion.
Signman'ual (s. from sign, and manual) The signature of the king written with his own hand; a name written with a person's own hand.
Sign'post (s. from sign, and post) The post on which a sign hangs.
SIG'NUM (s. from the Lat.) A sign, a symptom.
SIG'WARD (s. from the Sax.) A man's name.
SIHON (s. from the Heb. signifying the end) A man's name.
SI'HOR (s. from the Heb. signifying black) The river Nile.
Sike (adj. obsolete) Such. Spenser.
Sike (adj. obsolete) Seek. Chaucer.
Sike (v. t. an old spelling) To seek, to sigh. Chaucer.
Sik'er (adv. an old word) Sure, surely. Spenser.
Sik'er (adj. obsolete) Sure, firm, certain, safe. Chaucer.
Sik'erd (adj. an old word) Allied. Col.
Sik'erde (p. obsolete) Made sure, confirmed.
Sik'erness (s. obsolete) Security, safety.
Sikes (s. plu. obsolete) Sighs. Chaucer.
Sik'in (v. t. obsolete) To seek, to sigh. Chaucer.
Sik'ir (adj. obsolete) Siker, sure. Chaucer.
Sik'irness (s. obsolete, from sikir) Sikeriness, security, safety. Chaucer.
Sik'ith (v. t. third person sing. obsolete) Maketh sick. Ch.
Sik'ker (adj. obsolete) Sure, certain. Chaucer.
Sik're (adj. obsolete) Sure, certain. Chaucer.
SILAS (s.) A man's name.
Sile (adv. obsolete) Seldom. Chaucer.
SILE (s. from the Sax. fyl) Filth, filth that sinks to the bottom. Scott.
Sile (v. int. from the sub. a local word) To sink, to fall to the bottom. Baileys.
Sil'ence (s. from silent) The state of holding one's peace; taciturnity; stillness, secrecy.
Sil'ence (v. t. from the sub.) To still, to make one hold one's peace.
Sil'ence (v. int. used only in the imperative mode) Be silent.
Sil'enced (p. from silence) Put to silence.
Sil'encing (p. a. from silence) Putting to silence.
SILE'NI (s. in the mythology of the poets) Old satyrs, a kind of sylvan gods supposed to be half men and half heads.
SIL'ENT (adj. from the Lat. filens) Mute, dumb, refraining from speech; still, making no noise; wanting efficacy.
Sil'entary (s. from silent) A gentleman usher, one who is to take care that proper silence be kept.
Sil'ently (adv. from silent) Without speech, without noise, without mention. Sil'entness.

S I L

SILENTNESS (s. from silent) The state or quality of being silent.

SILENUS (s. in the mythology of the poets) The supposed foster-father and tutor of Bacchus.

SILVER (s. in botany) The ligusticum; the fescle; an oser.

SILVER (s. a different spelling) The celery, the name of a herb.

SILVIA (s. in geography) A dutchy in Germany subject to the king of Prussia.

SILVIA (s. in commerce, from the foregoing) A kind of thin linen cloth.

SILVIA (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Silesia, produced in Silesia.

SILVIAN (adj. from Silesia) Belonging to Silesia.

SILVIAN (s. from the adj.) A native of Silesia.

SILVEX (s. in natural history) The flint.

SILVEX (pron. obsolete) Self. Chaucer.

SILVICIOUS (adj. from filix) Flinty, consisting of flints.

SILICIA (s. in botany) The scænegreek; an herb that grows among flints.

SILICIOUS (adj. not so correct a spelling) Cilicious, made of hair. Brown.

SILICULOSÆ (s. in botany) Plants which produce the fruit in husks.

SILICULOSE (adj. from the Lat. silicula a little husk) Husky, full of husks.

SILIGINOUS (adj. from filigo) Siliginose. Bailey.

SILIGINOSE (adj. f. om filigo) Made of fine wheat.

SILIGO (s. in botany) The fine kind of wheat of which the whitest bread is made.

SILINESS (s. obsolete) Happiness. Chaucer.

SILIQUA (s. in botany) A husk, a pod, the seed vessel of the pulse kind.

SILIQUA (s. with gold refiners) A carat, the sixth part of a scruple.

SILICULOSÆ (s. in botany) The pepperwort.

SILICULOSÆ (s. in botany) Plants which produce the fruit in pods.

SILICULOSÆ (adj. from filiqua) Having a pod, having a seed vessel.

SILICULOSÆ (adj. from filiqua) Having a pod, having a capsule.

SILK (s. from the Sax. seolc) The soft fine thread produced by the bombyx; the stuff made of the thread produced by the bombyx or silkworm.

SILKEN (adj. from silk) Consisting of silk, made of silk; dressed in silk; soft, tender.

SILKGRASS (s. in botany) A curious plant with fibrous leaves.

SILKIER (adj. comp. of silky) Silky in a greater degree.

SILKIER (adj. sup. of silky) Silky in the greatest degree.

SILKMERCE (s. from silk, and mercer) A dealer in silks.

SILKTHROWER (s. from silk, and thrower) One whose business is to throw silk so as to render it fit for use.

SILKTHROWER (s. from silk, and throw) One who throws silk, one who winds silk and renders it fit for use.

SILKWEAVER (s. from silk, and weaver) One whose trade is to weave silks.

SILKWORM (s. from silk, and worm) The bombyx, the worm that produces silk.

SILKY (adj. from silk) Made of silk, like silk; soft, pliant.

SIL (s. from the Sax. syl) The timber or stone at the foot of a door or window.

SILLABUB (s. of uncertain derivation) A mixture of milk warm from the cow with vinegar, sugar and spices.

SIL (s. from the Greek σιλλος a species of ridicule) Pieces of comic poetry.

SILLABUB (s. a different spelling) A fillabub.

SILLY (adj. comp. of silly) Silly in a greater degree.

SILLY (adj. sup. of silly) Silly in the greatest degree.

SILLY (adv. from silly) In a silly manner.

SILLYNESS (s. from silly) The state or quality of being silly.

SILLOGRAPHER (s. from the Greek σιλλος a species of comic poetry, and γραφω to write) A writer of comic poetry.

SILLOGRAPHIST (s. from the Greek, as in the foregoing article) A sillographer, a writer of comic poetry.

SILUN (s. in fortification) An elevation of earth in the middle of a moat.

SILUN (s. in husbandry) A balk, a ridge or strip of green between ploughed lands.

SILLY (adj. from the German seleg) Harmless, innocent; weak, helpless; foolish, trifling.

SILLYHOW (s. of doubtful derivation) The membrane that covers the head of a child in the womb.

SILLO (s. from the Lat.) One that has a nose crooked upwards, one that has a snout nose; one that has hanging eyebrows.

S I M

SILLOAH (s. from the Heb. signifying sent) The name of a famous pool at Jerusalem.

SILLOAM (s. a different spelling) The pool of Siloah.

SILLOE (s. from the Heb.) A part or division in the city of Jerusalem.

SILPH (s. a different spelling) A sylph. Phillips.

SILPHIUM (s. in botany) The laserwort.

SILVAN (adj. from the Lat. silva a wood) Woody, full of woods.

SILVANUS (s.) A man's name.

SILVER (s. from the Sax. seolfer) A white fine hard metal next in weight to gold; money coined of silver; any thing of soft splendour.

SILVER (adj. from the sub.) Made of silver, producing silver, white like silver, having a pale lustre; smooth, soft of voice, soft in sound.

SILVER (v. t. from the sub.) To cover with silver, to gild with silver; to adorn with soft lustre.

SILVERBEATER (s. from silver, and beater) One that beats silver into thin leaves for gilding.

SILVERBUSH (s. in botany) The name of a rare plant.

SILVERED (p. from silver) Gilded with silver, adorned with soft lustre, made white like silver.

SILVERHAFT (adj. from silver, and haft) Having the haft of silver.

SILVERING (s. from the part.) The act of covering with silver, the silver laid on in gilding.

SILVERING (p. a. from silver) Gilding with silver, making white like silver.

SILVERLING (s. from silver) A piece of silver coin.

SILVERLY (adv. from silver) With the appearance of silver.

SILVERSMITH (s. from silver, and smith) A smith that works in silver.

SILVERSHAFTED (adj. from silver, and shafted) Bearing silver shafts, carrying silver arrows.

SILVERICKNESS (s. a cant word, with lawyers) The feigned sickness of a lawyer who has been feed not to plead.

SILVERICKNESS (s. a cant word) The silverickness.

SILVERPOONHEAD (s. in archery) The head of an arrow resembling the head of an old silver spoon.

SILVERSTREAMING (adj. from silver, and streaming) Sending forth a soft lustre like silver.

SILVERWEET (adj. from silver, and sweet) Sounding sweet like silver.

SILVERTHISTLE (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

SILVERTREE (s. in botany) The eugenia.

SILVERWEED (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the silver thistle.

SILVERY (adj. from silver) Powdered with silver.

SILVESTER (s.) A man's name.

SILVESTERS (s. in commerce) A kind of grain used in dyeing scarlet.

SILVESTROUS (adj. from the Lat. silvester, but not much used) Abounding with woods. Cole.

SILURES (s. in geography) The old inhabitants of South Wales.

SILURIST (s. from Silures) One of the ancient inhabitants of South Wales.

SILURUS (s. in ichthyology) The shad.

SIMA (s. in architecture) The cymatium.

SIMAISE (s. from simatium) The cymatium.

SIMAR (s. from the French simarre) A lady's robe. Dryden.

SIMARE (s. a different spelling) A simar. Bailey.

SIMARR (s. a different spelling) The simar. Phillips.

SIMATIUM (s. in architecture, a different spelling) The cymatium. Dict. of Arts.

SIM'EON (s. from the Heb. signifying one that obeys) A man's name; one of the tribes of Israel.

SIMEONITE (s. from Simeon) A descendant of Simeon.

SIMEETER (s. a different spelling) A cimeter. Phillips.

SIMIA (s. in zoology) The monkey.

SIMILA, SIMILAGO (s. from the Lat.) Fine flower, meal.

SIMILACION (s. an old word) Dissimulation. Chaucer.

SIMILAR (adj. from the Lat. similis like) Having likeness, having the parts in proportion.

SIMILARITY (s. from similar) The state of being similar, likeness.

SIMILARY (adj. from similar) Similar. Johnson.

SIMILE (s. from the Lat.) A comparison by which any thing is illustrated.

SIMILINESS (s. obsolete) Seemliness, decency in behaviour. Chaucer.

SIMILITIVE (adj. from simile) Expressing similitude. Sc.

SIMILITUDE (s. from simile) Likeness, resemblance; comparison, simile.

SIMILITUDINARY (adj. from similitude) Comprizing similitude. Scott.

SIMITAR

SIN

SIN

Sim'itar (s. a different spelling) A cimiter, a kind of crooked sword.

SIM'NEL (s. from the low Lat. simnelus) A kind of sweet cake made at Christmas.

SI'MON (s. from the Heb. signifying one that obeys) A man's name.

Simo'niac (s. from Simon Magus, who thought that the gift of miracles might be bought with money) One who buys or sells preferments in the church.

Simoni'acal (adj. from Simon) Guilty of buying or selling preferments in the church.

Simo'nian (s. from Simon, in church history) One of the sect founded by Simon Magus.

SIMON'IDES (s.) A man's name; an ancient Greek poet.

Sim'onish (s. from Simon) One guilty of Simony.

Sim'onry (s. from Simon Magus) The crime of buying or selling church preferments.

Simos'ity (s. from simous) The circumstance of having the nose crooked or bent upwards. Bailey.

SI'MOUS (adj. from the Lat. simo to make flat) Having a flat nose, having a snub nose. Cole.

SIM'PER (v. int. of doubtful derivation) To smile foolishly, to look pleasant.

Sim'per (s. from the verb) A silly kind of smile, a smile.

Sim'pering (p. a. from simper) Smiling foolishly, smiling.

Sim'pering (s. from the part.) The act of smiling foolishly, a kind of smile.

Simpho'nia (s. a different spelling) Symphonia. Bailey.

Sim'pily (adv. obsolete) Simply, modestly. Chaucer.

SIM'PLE (adj. from the Lat. simplex) Plain, artless, sincere, harmless; single, uncompounded; silly, wanting cunning.

Sim'ple (s. from the adj.) A single ingredient, a drug, an herb.

Sim'ple (v. int.) To gather simples.

SIM'PLEFY (v. t. from the Lat. simplex simple, and facio to make) To make simple; to take away the cure of souls from a benefice.

Sim'pleying (p. a. from simplefy) Taking away the cure of souls from a benefice.

Sim'pleying (s. from the part.) The act of taking away the cure of souls from a benefice.

Sim'pleness (s. from simple) The state or quality of being simple.

Sim'pler (s. from simple) One that gathers herbs; a simplist.

Sim'pler (adj. comp. of simple) Simple in a greater degree.

Sim'ples (s. obsolete) Simplicity, folly. Johnson.

Sim'pleffe (s. obsolete) Simplicity, folly. Spenser.

Sim'plest (adj. sup. of simple) Simple in the greatest degree.

Sim'pleton (s. from simple, a low word) A silly mortal, a trifler.

Simplic'ia (s. with physicians) Medicines uncompounded.

Simplic'ity (s. from simple) Plainness, artlessness; plainness in dress and manner; the state of being uncompounded; weakness, silliness.

Sim'pling (p. a. from simple) Going into the fields to gather herbs.

Sim'pling (s. from the part.) The act of wandering in the fields to gather herbs.

Sim'plist (s. from simple) One skilled in simples.

SIMPLUDA'RIA (s. from the Lat. simplex simple, and ludo to play) A kind of funeral honour paid to the deceased by dancing and leaping.

Sim'ply (adv. from simple) Without art, without addition, merely, solely, foolishly, sillily.

Simp'son (s. a local word) The name of an herb, the groundfel.

SIM'RON (s. from the Heb.) The name of a man.

Sim'ronite (s. from Simron) A descendant of Simron.

SIM'ULACRE (s. from the Lat. simulacrum) An image. Ba.

SIM'ULAR (s. from the Lat. simulo to liken) One that counterfeits. Shakespeare.

SIM'ULATE (v. t. from the Lat. simulo) To feign, to counterfeit. Bailey.

Sim'ulated (p. from simulate, not much used) Feigned, counterfeited.

Sim'ulating (p. a. from simulate) Feigning, counterfeiting.

Simula'tion (s. from simu'ate) Hypocrisy, a mere pretence.

SIMULTA'NEOUS (adj. from the Lat. simultaneous) Acting together, existing at the same time. Glanville.

SIN (s. from the Sax. syn) A transgression of the laws of God, a wilful transgression of divine laws; an habitual negligence of religion; a propitiation for sin; a notorious sinner. Shakespeare.

Sin (v. int. from the sub.) To violate the laws of God, to offend against right.

SIN (s. from the Heb. signifying a bush) The name of a place, the name of a wilderness.

Sin (adv. obsolete) Since.

SI'NAI (s. from the Heb. signifying a bush) The name of a wilderness, the name of a mountain on the borders of Canaan.

SIN'API (s. in botany) Mustard, senniseed.

SIN'APIS (s. in botany) The mustard.

Sin'apism (s. from sinapis) A cataplasm in which chief ingredient is mustardseed pulverized.

SINAPIS'TRUM (s. in botany) The cleome, the name of a plant.

Sin'born (adj. from sin, and born) Sprung from sin.

SINCE (adv. from the Sax. sithe) Because that, from time that, before this, ago; at a time intervening between some past time and the present.

SINCE'RE (adj. from the Lat. sine without, and wax) Pure, unmingled, honest, uncorrupt; uninjured. Dryden.

Since'rely (adv. from sincere) With sincerity.

Sincere'ness (s. from sincere) Sincerity.

Sincere'rer (adj. comp. of sincere) Sincere in a greater degree.

Sincere'st (adj. sup. of sincere) Sincere in the greatest degree.

Sincer'ity (s. from sincere) Sincereness, the state of being sincere.

SIN'CIPUT (s. in anatomy) The fore part of the head, extending from the forehead to the coronal suture.

SIN'DI (s. in geography) The European Scythians.

Sin'dic (s. a different spelling) A syndic, a governor.

SIN'DON (s. from the Lat.) Fine linen; a fold; a wrapper of linen.

SINE (s. from the Lat. sinus) The line drawn from the extremity of the arch of a circle till it falls at right angles on the radius extended to the other extremity of the arch.

SIN'ECURE (s. from the Lat. sine without, and cure) An office which has a revenue without any employment; an ecclesiastical benefice without cure of souls.

SIN'EWE (s. from the Sax. sensue) A tendon, a ligament, a muscle, a nerve; any thing that gives strength or compactness.

Sin'ew (v. t. from the sub. but not used) To knit as sinews. Shakespeare.

Sin'ewed (p. from sinew) Furnished with sinews, made strong.

Sin'ewiness (s. from sinewy) The state or quality of being sinewy.

Sin'ewshrinking (s. from sinew, and shrink) A disease of horses.

Sin'ewshrunken (adj. from sinew, and shrink) Having the sinews contracted, having the two sinews under the belly contracted by hard riding.

Sin'ewy (adj. from sinew) Consisting of sinews, strong, nervous, forcible.

Sin'ful (adj. from sin) Full of sin, guilty of sin; wicked, void of religion.

Sin'fully (adv. from sinful) In a sinful manner, impiously, wickedly.

Sin'fulness (s. from sinful) The state of being sinful.

SING (v. int. from the Sax. singan) To form the voice to melody, to articulate musically; to utter sounds inarticulately, to make a small shrill noise, relate as in poetry.

Sing (v. t.) To relate in song, to relate in poetry, celebrate, to utter harmoniously.

Singca'nter (s. not used) A singing man.

SINGE (v. t. from the Sax. sangan) To burn slightly, scorch.

Sin'ged (p. from singe) Burnt slightly, scorched.

Sing'ing (p. a. from singe) Scorching, burning slightly.

Sing'er (s. from sing) One that sings, one skilled in singing.

Sin'geries (s. not used) Apish tricks.

Sing'id (p. obsolete) Singed.

Sing'ing (p. a. from sing) Modulating the voice to melody, making a small shrill noise.

Sing'ing (s. from the part.) The act of modulating the voice to melody, the melody of the voice; the melodious voice of fingers; a small shrill voice.

Sing'ing-book (s. from singing, and book) A book of tunes.

Sing'ing-master (s. from singing, and master) One who teaches to sing.

SIN'GLE (adj. from the Lat. singulus) Standing alone, individual, particular, simple, uncompounded; having no companion, unmarried; having but one on side.

SINGLE (v. t. from the adj.) To choose out from others, to take alone, to separate, to sequester.
SINGLE (p. from single) Chosen out from others, separated, sequestered.
SINGLENESS (s. from single) The state of being single, simplicity.
SINGLING (p. a. from single) Separating, choosing out from others.
SINGLY (adv. from single) Individually, particularly, without a partner, honestly, sincerely.
SINGULAR (adj. from the Lat. singularis) Single, expressing only one; particular, unexampled, uncommon.
SINGULARITY (s. from singular) The state or quality of being singular.
SINGULARIZE (v. t. from singular) To make singular.
SINGULARIZED (p. from singularize) Made singular.
SINGULARIZING (p. a. from singularize) Making singular.
SINGULARLY (adv. from singular) In a particular manner.
SINGULAR (adj. obsolete) Singular. Ch.
SINGULT (s. from singultus) A sigh. Spenser.
SINGULTUS (s. from the Lat.) The hiccup, a kind of convulsive motion of the midriff.
SINGULAR (adj. with mathematicians) Belonging to a particular kind of quadrant, distinguishing a quadrant chiefly used at sea to determine a ship's course.
SINISTER (adj. from the Lat.) Left, being on the left hand; unlucky, inauspicious; bad, perverse, unfair.
SINISTERLY (s. from sinister) The state of being sinister. Cole.
SINISTERS (s. from sinister) The state of being sinister.
SINISTRI (s. in church history) A religious sect so called because they held the left hand in abhorrence, and made conscience of not receiving any thing with it.
SINISTROUS (adj. from sinister) Absurd, perverse, wrong. Bentley.
SINISTROUSLY (adv. from sinister) With a tendency to the left, perversely, absurdly. Brown.
SINK (v. int. from the Sax. sinken) To go to the bottom, to fall gradually, to enter into; to become lower, to decline, to decay, to tend to ruin.
SINK (v. t.) To put under water; to depress, to degrade; to dig, to make by digging; to lessen, to diminish; to make to decline, to bring to decay.
SINK (s. from the verb) A drain to carry off foul water; a place where filth and corruption is gathered.
SINKING (p. a. from sink) Sending to the bottom, falling gradually, diminishing; making to sink, bringing to decay, depressing.
SINKING (s. from the part.) The act of tending to the bottom, a depression, a failure of spirits.
SINKLESS (adj. from sink) Void of sin, exempt from sin.
SINKLESS (s. from sinkless) An exemption from sin.
SINKER (s. from sink) One who has sinned, a wicked person, an offender, a criminal.
SINKNET (s. a sea term) A line of rope yarn to be bound about any thing to keep it from fretting.
SINKING (p. a. from sink) Committing sin, offending.
SINKING (s. from sink) The act of committing sin.
SINKING (s. from sink, and offering) An expiation, an offering for sin.
SINK (s.) A man's name; a crafty perjured man. Virgil.
SINK (s. a scientific word) The white glewy substance of the joints. Phillips.
SINK (s. a law term) A writ of association by which it is provided, that if all cannot attend, any two or more may dispatch the business.
SINK (s. in natural history) The sinople, a species of red earth.
SINK (adj. from sinoper) Consisting of sinoper, having the likeness of sinoper. Cole.
SINK (s. in natural history) The sinoper, a kind of red earth used by painters.
SINK (s. in heraldry) The green colour in coats of arms.
SINK (v. t. from the Lat. sinuo) To bend in and out. Johnson.
SINK (p. from sinuate, in botany) Deeply cut about the edges in several long segments as the leaf of the oak.
SINKING (p. a. from sinuate) Bending in and out.
SINK (s. from sinuous) The state of being sinuous; a series of turns in an arch.
SINK (adj. from sinus) Bending in and out.
SINK (s. from sinuous) The state of being sinuous.

SINUS (s. from the Lat.) A bay of the sea, a gulph, an opening of the land; a fold, an opening; a wound that runs obliquely under an apparently sound part; any hollow part into which the entrance is but small. Milton.
SIN/WORM (s. from sin, and worm) A vile wicked person.
SIN/ON (s. a different spelling) Zion, the name of a hill in Jerusalem; the church.
SIP (v. t. from the Sax. sipan) To drink by small draughts, to drink in small quantities.
SIP (v. int.) To drink a small quantity.
SIP (s. from the verb) A small draught, as much as the mouth will hold.
SIPH/AK (s. from the Arabic) The rim of the belly which joins to the cawl. Cole.
SIP/HER (s. an old spelling) A cypher. Chaucer.
SIP/HON (s. from the Greek) A crooked pipe through which liquors are conveyed.
SIPHONANTHE/MUM (s. in botany) The siphonanthus.
SIPHONANTHUS (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
SIP/ped (p. from sip) Drunk in small draughts.
SIP/per (s. from sip) One that sips.
SIP/pet (s. from sip) A small sop.
SIP/ping (p. a. from sip) Drinking in small draughts.
SIP/ping (s. from the part.) The act of taking in small draughts, a sip.
SIP/QUIS (s. from the Lat. si quis, and quis any one) A bill set up in some public place to proclaim the loss of any thing in a university.
SIR (s. from the Lat. senior) The title of a knight or baronet, a title of respect to men; a man. "In the election of a sir so rare." Shakespeare.
SIRE (s. from the French) A father; a title given to the king of France; the male of beasts having young.
SIR/EN (s. in heathen mythology, from the Lat.) A supposed goddess or monster of the sea who enticed men by singing and then devoured them; a mischievous enticer.
SIR/ea (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the firen, like a firen.
SIR/ical (adj. from firen) Belonging to a firen. Cole.
SIR/enize (v. int. from firen) To play the firen. Cole.
SIR/enizing (p. a. from firenize) Acting the part of a firen.
SIR/IASIS (s. from the Greek) An inflammation of the brain occasioned by the excessive heat of the sun.
SIR/inge (s. a different spelling) A syringe, a squirt.
SIR/ION (s. from the Heb. signifying a breakfast) Hermon, the name of a country. Deut.
SIR/IUS (s. in astronomy) The great dog star, the largest of all the fixed stars.
SIR/loin (s. from sir and loin) A loin of beef which it is said one of our kings knighted in a fit of good humour.
SIR/name (s. from fire, and name) The family name.
SIR/name (v. t. from the sub.) To give the name of a family, to give an additional name.
SIR/named (p. from sirname) Distinguished by a new name, distinguished by the name of a family.
SIR/naming (p. a. from sirname) Giving the name of a family, giving a new name.
SIR/oc (s. from sirocco) The south east wind very unhealthy in Italy.
SIROC/CO (s. from the Italian) The syrian wind, the south east wind.
SIR/ONE (s. in surgery) A little push in the palm of the hand or sole of the foot with a little worm in it.
SIR/op (s. not so common a spelling) A sirup. Milton.
SIR/rah (s. from sir, and ha!) A compellation of insult and reproach. "Come hither sirrah, no begone."
SIR/UP (s. from the Arabic) The juice of vegetables boiled with sugar.
SIR/oped (adj. from sirup) Sweet like sirup.
SIR/upy (adj. from sirup) Resembling sirup.
SIS/AM/NOS (s.) A man's name, an unjust judge who was dead alive as a punishment for bribery.
SIS/ARUM (s. in botany) The fum.
SISE (s. a contraction for) An affize. Johnson.
SISE (s. not so common a spelling) A size; a fix. Chaucer.
SISE (s. a different but correct spelling) Size, bulk. Johnson.
SISEN/NA (s.) A man's name, an ancient Roman historian.
SIS/ERA (s. from the Heb.) A man's name.
SIS/KIN (s. in ornithology) The green finch.
SIS/ON (s. in botany) A genus of plants, bishopsweed.
SIS/our (s. obsolete) A jurymen. Chaucer.
SIS/TER (s. from the Sax. sweoster) A woman born of the same

S I T

- same parent, the correlative to a brother; a woman in the same office, a woman of the same religious profession: "Sister in law," the sister of a husband or wife.
- Sis/terfruits (s. from sister, and fruit) Fruits of the same kind. Pope.
- Sis/terhood (s. from sister) The office or duty of a sister, a number of women of the same order; a set of sisters.
- Sis/terly (adv. from sister) Like a sister, becoming a sister.
- Sis/tern (s. obsolete) Sisters, the fates. Chaucer.
- Sis/terplaintiff (s. from sister, and plaintiff) A woman joined with another as plaintiff.
- SIS/TRUM (s. in antiquity) A kind of musical instrument used by the priests of Isis and Osiris.
- SITUN/CH (s. in geography) The ancient inhabitants of Lancashire, and some neighbouring counties.
- SISYM'BRIUM (s. in botany) The watercress, a genus of plants.
- SISYPHUS (s. in the mythology of the poets) The son of Æolus, who was a notorious robber; he was slain by Theseus, and his supposed punishment in hell is to roll a great stone to the top of a high mountain, which by its own weight immediately returns to the bottom with incredible swiftness, by which means the labour is renewed, and punishment rendered perpetual.
- SISYRIN'CHIUM (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
- SIT (v. int. from the Sax. sittan) To rest on the buttocks, to perch, to be in a state of rest; to be in any local position, to settle, to abide; to brood, to incubate; to be placed in order to be painted; to be in an assembly as a member. "To sit down," to settle, to fix an abode, to rest; to be satisfied; to begin a siege. "To sit out," to stay to the last, to begin a journey. "To sit up," to rise from lying to sitting, to watch, to watch all night.
- Sit (v. t.) To keep the seat, to place on a seat.
- Sit (v. t. obsolete) To suit, to become. Chaucer.
- SIT'TARCH (s. from the Greek, σιτος corn, and αρχη to suffice) A surveyor. Cole.
- SITE (s. from the Lat. situs) A situation, a local position; posture; but this is judged improper. "In melancholy site." Thomson.
- Sit'fast (s. from sit and fast) A hard knob on a horse's back.
- Sith (adv. obsolete) Since. Shakespeare.
- Sith (s. obsolete) Time. Chaucer.
- Sith/cundman (s. an old word) The head man of a town. Scott.
- Sithe (adv. obsolete) Since, afterwards. Chaucer.
- SITHE (s. the most simple and correct spelling from the Sax. sithe) The instrument of mowing, a scythe.
- Sith'en (adv. obsolete) Since, afterwards. Chaucer.
- Sith'ence (adv. obsolete) Since. Spenser.
- Sithes (s. plu. obsolete) Times. Spenser.
- Sith'in (adv. obsolete) Since. Chaucer.
- Sith'nefs (adv. obsolete) Since. Chaucer.
- SIT'TIBUND (adj. from the Lat. sitio to be thirsty, and abundo, to abound) Very thirsty. Bailey.
- Sitic'ulous (adj. not used) Very thirsty. Bailey.
- SIT'IENT (adj. from the Lat. sitio, to be thirsty) Thirsting. Cole.
- SIT'TISMORBO'SA (s. with physicians, from the Lat. sitis thirst, and morbosus diseased) A disease occasioned by an extreme hot and acrid constitution of the body.
- SITON'ES (s. in ancient geography) The people of Norway and Lapland.
- SITOPH'YLAX (s. from the Greek σιτος corn, and φυλασσω to keep) A Grecian magistrate who was to prevent the ingrossing of provisions.
- SIT'TA (s. in ornithology) The nuthatch, the name of a bird.
- Sitt'ande (p. obsolete) Sitting. Chaucer.
- Sitte (p. obsolete) Set, sitting. Chaucer.
- Sit'ten (p. from sit, but not much used) Sat, seated.
- Sit'ter (s. from sit) One that sits, a bird that incubates.
- Sit'ting (p. a. from sit) Resting on the buttocks, perching; brooding, placing in a seat, keeping a seat, meeting at an assembly to do business.
- Sitting (s. from the part.) The posture of resting on a seat, the act of resting on a seat; the time for which one sits without rising, the time at which one sits to a painter; the meeting of an assembly to do business, a course of unremitted study; the time a bird sits on the eggs, an incubation.
- SIT'UATE (adj. from the Lat. situs placed) Placed, placed in respect to surrounding objects.
- Sit'uated (adj. from situate, but not so common a word) Situate.
- Situation (s. from situate) A position, a local respect; condition, state.

S K A

- SIT'US (s. from the Lat.) The situation of lines and faces in geometry.
- SI'VAN (s. in ancient chronology) The Babylonian name of the third month among the Jews answering to the moon of our May.
- Sive (s. a different spelling) A sieve.
- SI'UM (s. in botany) The water parsnep; a genus of plants.
- SIX (adj. from the Lat. sex) Three and three, five and one.
- Six (s. from the adj.) The number six, six persons, things, six parts.
- SIX'AIN (s. from the Lat. sexagena) An ancient order of battle composed of six battalions.
- Six'fold (adj. from six, and fold) Repeated six times, doubled six times.
- Six'pence (s. from six, and pence) A silver coin in value half a shilling.
- Six'penny (adj. from six, and penny) Worth sixpence, valued at sixpence.
- Six'score (adj. from six, and score) Twenty six times repeated, one hundred and twenty.
- Six'score (s. from the adj.) The number one hundred and twenty, sixscore persons, sixscore things.
- Six'teen (adj. from six and ten) Fifteen and one, and six.
- Six'teen (s. from the adj.) The number six and ten, sixteen persons, sixteen things.
- Six'teenth (adj. from sixteen) Next in order above fifteen.
- Six'teenth (s. from the adj.) The next in order above fifteen, the sixteenth part.
- Six'teenthly (adv. from sixteen) In the sixteenth place.
- Sixth (adj. from six) Next in order to five.
- Sixth (s. from the adj.) The next in order to the fifth, the sixth part, an interval in music.
- Sixth'ly (adv. from sixth) In the sixth place.
- Six'tieth (adj. from sixty) Next in order to the fifth.
- Six'tieth (s. from the adj.) The next to the fifty ninth, the sixtieth part.
- Six'ty (adj. from six) Ten six times repeated, forty and twenty.
- Six'ty (s. from the adj.) The number ten six times repeated, sixty persons, sixty things.
- SIZE (s. from the Lat. insisa) Bulk, comparative magnitude; a figurative bulk, a condition; a kind of viscosity.
- Size (v. t. from the sub.) To adjust, to arrange according to size, to settle, to fix; to cover with glutinous matter.
- Size (v. int.) To take up victuals at trust in the university of Cambridge.
- Si'zeable (adj. from size) Proportionably bulky, having a reasonable bulk.
- Si'zeableness (s. from sizeable) The state or quality of being sizeable.
- Si'zed (p. from size) Adjusted, arranged according to size; covered over with size.
- Si'zel (s. from size) The remains of a silver bar after pieces have been cut out of it for coining.
- Si'zely (adj. a local word) Nice, proud, coy.
- Si'zer (s. from size) A student of a certain rank in the universities.
- Si'zers (s. a different spelling) Scissors.
- Sizie'me (s. at piquet) A sequence of six cards.
- Si'zier (adj. comp. of Sizzy) Sizzy in a greater degree.
- Si'zief (adj. sup. of Sizzy) Sizzy in the greatest degree.
- Si'ziness (s. from Sizzy) The state or quality of being Sizzy.
- Si'zing (p. a. from size) Adjusting, arranging according to size; covering with size; taking up victuals on trust in the university of Cambridge.
- Si'zing (s. from the part.) The act or process of covering with size.
- Si'zy (adj. from size) Viscous, glutinous.
- Siz'ygy (s. a different spelling) The syzygy, the conjunction or opposition of a planet with the sun.
- Siz'zing (s. a local word) Barm.
- SKAD'DLE (s. from the Sax. scathnefe) Hurt, damage.
- Skad'dle (adj. from the sub.) Ravenous, mischievous.
- SKAD'DONS (s. probably from the Sax. sceadda) The embryos of bees.
- Skaf'fant (s. obsolete) A kind of warlike engine, a kind of cover for the men employed in making intrenchments.
- SKAIN (s. from the French, escaigne) A knot of three wound and doubled; a kind of Irish sword.
- Skain (v. t. from the sub.) To wind and make up three in knots or small parcels.

skain'ed (p. from skain) Made up in skains.

skain'ing (p. a. from skain) Making up in skains.

skain'ing (s. from the part.) The act of making up threads in skains.

skains/mate (s. from skain and mate) A messmate. Shak.

SKAITE (s. in ichthyology) The variegated raja.

skale (s. obsolete) A scab.

Chaucer.

skari (v. t. a sea term) To join by letting one piece of timber into another.

skarfed (p. a sea term from skarf) Joined by having the timbers let one into another.

skar'fing (p. a. a sea term from skarf) Joining by letting the timbers one into another.

skar'fing (s. a different spelling) Scarfing, a method of joining one piece of wood to another.

Cole.

skar'moch (s. an old spelling) A skirmish.

Cole.

skatch (v. t. a local word) To stop the wheel of a carriage by putting something under it.

Phillips.

skatch'ed (p. from skatch, a local word) Stopped as the wheel of a cart or waggon by having something put under it.

skatch'ing (p. a. from skatch, a local word) Stopping the wheel of a carriage by putting something under it.

SKATE (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish.

skate (s. perhaps from the foregoing) A kind of shoe armed with iron to slide over the ice.

skate (v. int. from the sub.) To slide on the ice with skates.

skath'y (adj. a local word) Ravenous, mischievous. Ba.

skat'ing (p. a. from skate) Sliding on the ice with skates.

skat'ing (s. from the part.) The art or act of sliding on the ice with skates.

skel (s. a local word) A shallow kind of tub used in brewing.

Bailey.

KEAN (s. from the Sax. fagene) A short sword, a knife.

Bacon.

sked (s. a sea term) A skid, a long compassing piece of timber suited to the curvature of a ship's side.

sket (s. a sea term) A kind of long scoop to throw water about the deck and sides of a ship.

keg (s. in botany) A kind of wild plum.

keg (s. a sea term) The small flaring part of a keel which stands a little without the sternpost.

keg'ger (s. in ichthyology) A young falmon which never grows to any size on account of the weakness of the parent fish.

keg'gertrout (s. in ichthyology) A kind of falmon.

kein (s. a different spelling) A skain, a knot of thread.

kein (v. t. a different spelling) To skain.

kein'ed (p. from skain) Skained.

kein'ing (p. a. from skain) Skaining.

skel'eta (s. in old records) A small bell for a church or steeple.

KEL/ETON (s. from the Greek, κελετος) The bones of an animal preserved and put together by wires as near as can be in their natural position; the compages of the principal parts; in droll style, a very thin person.

kel'lard (adj. a local word) Warped, cast, become crooked.

Bailey.

KEL/LET (s. supposed to be from the French, ecuelle a porringer) A small vessel with feet for boiling.

KEL/LUM (s. from the German, skelm) A villain, a scoundrel.

Skinner.

KEP (s. from the Sax scopphen) A kind of basket narrow at bottom and wide at the top, the cell of a honeycomb as retained in the Scotch dialect.

kepe (s. a different spelling) A skep, a kind of basket.

Bailey.

KEP/TIC (adj. from the Greek, κερτομαι to look round about) Doubtful, pretending to universal doubt.

kep'tic (s. from the adj.) One who doubts, one who pretends to doubt of every thing.

kep'tical (adj. from skeptic) Doubtful, pretending to universal doubt.

kep'tically (adv. from skeptical) In a skeptical manner, with universal doubt.

kep'ticism (s. from skeptic) Universal doubt, a pretence to universal doubt.

kere (v. t. obsolete) To scour.

Chaucer.

kere (v. int. obsolete) To glide, to move swiftly. Shakes.

KETCH (s. from the Lat. schedula) An outline, a rough draught, a first plan.

etch (v. t. from the Lat.) To draw, to mark out the first lines.

etch (v. int.) To draw the out line.

etch'ed (p. from sketch) Marked out as a rough draught, drawn in a rough manner.

Sketch'ing (p. la. from sketch) Drawing the outlines marking out in a rough manner.

Sketch'ing (s. from the part.) The act of drawing the outlines of any thing.

Sket'loe (s. a local word) Lofs, harm, prejudice, wrong.

Bailey.

Skew (v. int. from askew) To look sidewise, to squint, to leer.

Skew'er (s. from askew) A slender pin of wood or iron used to keep meat in form.

Skew'er (v. t. from the sub.) To fasten with skewers.

Skew'ered (p. from skewer) Fastened with a skewer.

Skew'ering (p. a. from skewer) Fastening with a skewer.

Bailey.

Skewn (s. obsolete) A short sword, a knife.

Skid (s. a sea term) A long compassing piece of timber suited to the curvature of a ship's side.

Skid (v. t. a local word) To stop the wheel of a carriage by putting something under it.

SKIE (s. in geography) One of the principal of the western islands of Scotland.

SKIFF (s. from the Lat. scapha) A small light boat.

Skil'ful (adj. from skill) Versed, knowing, having skill, dexterous.

Skil'fully (adv. from skilful) With skill, with dexterity.

Skil'fulness (s. from skilful) Dexterity, art, ability.

SKILL (s. from the Islandick) A particular art, the knowledge of a particular art, dexterity in art.

Skill (v. int. from the sub.) To have knowledge in, to have dexterity; with of: "All that could skill of instruments."

2 Chron.

Skill (v. int. obsolete) To differ, to have weight one way or other. "It skills not much when he began the war."

Bacon.

Skil'led (p. from skill) Indued with knowledge, well acquainted with.

Skil'less (adj. from skill, but not used) Wanting skill.

Shakespeare.

Skil'let (s. a different spelling) A skellet, a small vessel with legs for boiling over the fire.

Johnson.

Skilt (s. perhaps from skill) An artist, one skilled in any art.

Cleveland.

Skim (v. t. from scum) To clear off from the upper part, to pass a vessel a little below the surface, to take away by skimming, to pass on the surface.

Skim (v. int.) To glide along, to pass against the surface.

Skim'bleskamble (adv. a cant word) In a wild wandering manner.

Skim'bleskamble (adj. from the adv.) Wandering, wild, desultory.

Shakespeare.

Skime (v. int. a local word) To squint.

Bailey.

Skim'med (p. from skim) Cleared by skimming, taken off by skimming.

Skin'mer (s. from skim) A shallow vessel with which the surface or scum of any thing is taken off.

Skin'milk (s. from skim, and milk) Milk which has been skimmed.

Skim'ming (p. a. from skim) Taking off the surface, passing near the surface.

Skim'ming (s. from skim) The act of taking off the surface, that which is taken off by the skimmer.

SKIN (s. from the Danish kind) The natural ligament or covering of the flesh; a hide, a pelt; the body, the person.

Skin (v. t. from the sub.) To flay, to strip off the hide, to cover, to cover as with skin, to make skin to grow.

Skin (v. int.) To gather skin, to heal as a wound.

SKINK (s. from the Sax. scene, but now grown obsolete) Drink; pottage.

Bacon.

Skink (v. int. obsolete, from the sub.) To serve drink.

Job.

Skinke (v. int. obsolete) To fill or pour out drink.

Ch.

Skink'er (s. from skink) One that pours out drink.

Ben. Johnson.

Skin'ned (p. from skin) Covered with skin.

Skin'ned (adj. from the part.) Hard, callous.

Sharp.

Skin'ner (s. from skin) A dealer in skins, one that deals in sheepskins.

Skin'nier (adj. comp. of skinny) Skinny in a greater degree.

Skin'niest (adj. sup. of skinny) Skinny in the greatest degree.

Skin'iness (s. from skinny) The state or quality of being skinny.

Skin'ning (p. a. from skin) Flaying, stripping off the skin; covering with a skin, peeling; dealing in skins.

Skin'ning (s. from the part.) The act of taking off the skin, the trade of a skinner; the new skin covering a wound.

SKU

Skin'ny (adj. from skin) Consisting of skin, wanting flesh.
Skip (v. int. perhaps from scape) To fetch quick bounds, to bound lightly, to pass by quick leaps; to pass without noise.
SKIP (v. t. from the French esquiper) To miss, to pass without touching.
Skip (s. from the verb) A quick bound, a light leap.
Skip/jack (s. from skip, and jack) An upstart.
Skip/kennel (s. from skip, and kennel) A footboy, a lackey.
Skip/ped (p. from skip) Missed, passed without touching.
Skip/pel (s. a local word) A piece, or part. Cole.
SKIP/PER (s. from the Dutch schipper) A shipmaster, a shipboy, a sailor.
Skip/pet (s. perhaps from skip) A small boat. Spenser.
Skip/ping (p. a. from skip) Bounding, passing with light leaps, missing, passing without touching.
Skip/ping (s. from the part.) The act of passing with light leaps.
Skip/pound (s. a sea term) The dividend of a last of corn in the lading of a ship.
SKIP/TON (s.) A town in the west riding of Yorkshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 223 miles from London.
Skip/ton (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Skipton, made at Skipton.
Skir (v. int. obsolete) To glide, to move swiftly. Bail.
SKIR/MISH (v. int. from the French escarmoucher) To fight loosely, to fight in small parties.
Skir/mish (s. from the verb) A slight engagement, a contest between the smaller parties of an army.
Skirmi/ther (s. from skirmish) One that skirmishes.
Skir/mishing (p. a. from skirmish) Fighting loosely, fighting in small parties.
SKIRR, SKIRRE (v. t. perhaps from the Sax. scir pure) To scour, to ramble over in order to clear. Sb.
Skirre (v. int.) To scour, to run in haste. Shakespeare.
Skir/red (p. from skir, but now grown obsolete) Scoured.
SKIRR/ET (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
Skir/root (s. from skirret, and root) The root of the skirret.
Skir/ing (p. a. from skirre, but now grown obsolete) Scouring.
SKIRT (s. from the Swedish skiort) The loose edge of a garment, that part of a garment that hangs loose below the waist; an edge, a margin, a border.
Skirt (v. t. from the sub.) To border, to run along the edge of any thing.
Skirt'ed (p. from skirt) Edged, bordered, having skirts.
Skirt'ing (p. a. from skirt) Furnishing with a skirt or border.
Skirt'ing (s. from the part.) The act of furnishing with a skirt or border; a border.
SKIT (s. probably from the Sax. scyttan to shoot) A caprice, a whim; a kind of jest, a lampoon.
Skit/tish (adj. from skit) Shy, easily frightened; wanton, volatile; changeable, fickle.
Skit/tishly (adv. from skittish) Wantonly, uncertainly.
Skit/tishness (s. from skittish) Wantonneis, fickleness.
Skleir (s. an old word) A scarf. Bailey.
Sklen/der (adj. an old spelling) Slender. Chaucer.
Sklere, Skle'ren (v. t. obsolete) To cover. Chaucer.
Skonce (s. a different spelling) A sponce, the head. Care.
Skor/clith (v. t. third person obsolete) Scorcheth. Cb.
Skore (v. t. obsolete) To scour, to scourge. Chaucer.
Skream (v. int. not so common a spelling) To scream. Sc.
Skream'ing (p. a. from skream, not so common a spelling) Screaming.
Skream'ing (s. from the part.) A screaming.
SKREEN (s. from the French escran) A coarse kind of sieve; a shelter, a concealment; that by which the sun or wind is kept off.
Skreen (v. t. from the sub.) To sift, to separate the smaller from the larger parts; to keep off light or weather; to shelter, to protect.
Skreen'ed (p. from skreen) Sifted, separated by a screen; sheltered from light or weather, protected.
Skreen'ing (p. a. from skreen) Sifting, separating by a screen; sheltering from light or weather; protecting.
Skreen'ing (s. from the part.) The act of sifting, the act of defending.
Skrew (adj. a local word) Surly, dogged. Bailey.
Skip/pe (s. an old spelling) A scrip, a satchel. Chaucer.
Skriv/inere (s. an old spelling) A scrivener, a writer. Cb.
Skry (v. int. an old word) To cry. Cole.
Skue (v. int. a different spelling) To skew, to go side wise. Scott.
Skue (adj. from the verb) Oblique, sidelong.
Skulk (v. int. a different spelling) To sculk, to lurk. Dryd.

SLA

Skulk'ing (p. a. from skulk) Sculking, hiding, lurking.
SKULL (s. from the Islandick skiola a head) The bone that incloses the brain, the bone of the head.
SKULL (s. from the Sax. sceole) A shoal, a company of fishes.
Skull/cap (s. from skull, and cap) A head piece.
Skull/cap (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
Skup/er (s. a sea term, and different spelling) The scupper, a channel for the water to pass off the deck through the sides of the ship. Bailey.
Skup/perhole (s. a different spelling) A scupperhole.
Skute (s. a sea term) A large boat, a long kind of barge.
SKY (s. from the Danish) The regions which surround the earth; the heaven; the weather.
Sky'colour (s. from sky, and colour) The colour that resembles that of the sky, a light blue.
Sky'coloured (adj. from skycolour) Having a colour like that of the clear sky.
Sky'dyed (adj. from sky, and dyed) Coloured like the sky.
Sky'ed (adj. from sky) Surrounded by the sky, "O'er the skyed mountain." T. Brown.
Sky'ish (adj. from sky) Approaching to the sky, resembling the sky.
Sky'lark (s. in ornithology, from sky, and lark) A lark that mounts high in the air and sings.
Sky/light (s. from sky, and light) A window placed in the ceiling of a room.
Sky/rocket (s. from sky, and rocket) A kind of fireworks which flies high in the air.
SLAB (s. from the Dutch slabberen to slabber) A puddle, a wet dirty place; a plane or table of stone, a marble table; the first uneven board cut out of a piece of timber.
Slab (adj. from the sub.) Thick, viscous, wet, floody.
Slab/ber (v. t. from slab) To smear with spittle, to spill, to shed.
Slab/ber (v. int.) To drivel.
Slab/bered (p. from slabber) Smeared with spittle, shed, spilled.
Slab/berer (s. from slabber) One that slabbers.
Slab/bering (p. a. from slabber) Smearing with spittle, spilling, shedding.
Slab/bier (adj. comp. of slabby) Slabby in a greater degree.
Slab/bering (s. from the part.) The act of spilling.
Slab/biest (adj. sup. of slabby) Slabby in the greatest degree.
Slab/by (adj. from slab) Thick, viscous, wet, floody.
Slab/line (s. a sea term) A small rope passing up behind the sail.
SLACK (adj. from the Sax. sleac) Loose, having little or no tension; remiss, negligent; relaxed, weak.
Slack (v. int. from the adj.) To slacken, to neglect, to lose the power of cohesion, to abate, to languish, to flag.
Slack (v. t. from the adj.) To slacken, to loosen, to relax, to remit; to ease, to mitigate; to neglect, to repress; to destroy the power of cohesion.
Slack (s. from the verb) Small coal, coal broken into small pieces.
Slack'ed (p. from slack) Loosened, relaxed; mitigated; unbent; repressed; crumbled, deprived of the power of cohesion.
Slack'en (v. t. from slack) To loosen, to relax, to ease, to mitigate, to relieve, to unbend; to crumble, to deprive of the power of cohesion.
Slack'en (v. int.) To be remiss, to be negligent, to languish, to abate, to lose the power of cohesion.
Slack'ened (p. from slacken) Loosened, relaxed, mitigated, repressed, deprived of the power of cohesion.
Slack'ening (p. a. from slacken) Slackening, loosening, mitigating, repressing, crumbling.
Slack'er (adj. comp. of slack) Slack in a greater degree.
Slack'est (adj. sup. of slack) Slack in the greatest degree.
Slack'ing (p. a. from slack) Slackening, loosening, mitigating, repressing, depriving of the power of cohesion.
Slack'ly (adv. from slack) Loosely, negligently, remissly.
Slack'ness (s. from slack) Looseness, remissness, negligence, inattention.
Slack'water (s. a sea term) The interval between the ebb and reflux of the tide.
Slade (s. in old records) A long flat piece of ground lying low and wet.
Slaen (v. t. obsolete) To slay, to kill.
SLAG (s. the derivation is not noted) Dross, the refuse of metal.

S L A

slay (s. with weavers) The slay.
slain (p. from slay) Killed, put to death.
slake (v. t. from slack) To quench, to extinguish; to throw water on lime in order to slack it.
slake (v. int.) To grow less tense, to become relaxed.
slake (adj. obsolete) Slack, slow. Chaucer.
slaked (p. from slake) Quenched, extinguished.
slaking (p. a. from slake) Quenching, extinguishing.
slaking (s. from the part.) The act of allaying thirst.
slam (s. with card players) The winning of all the tricks.
slam (s. in the allum works) A substance produced in calcining allum.
slam (v. t. from the sub.) To beat by winning all the tricks in a hand of cards; to crush, to slaughter; to shut a door with violence.
slam (s. a local word) Tall and thin. Scott.
slammed (p. from slam) Beaten without winning one trick.
slamming (p. a. from slam) Winning all the tricks in a hand of cards; crushing, slaughtering.
slander (s. from the Lat. scandalum) False invective, disgrace, reproach.
slander (v. t. from the sub.) To censure falsely, to belie.
slandered (p. from slander) Censured falsely, belied.
slanderer (s. from slander) One who slanders.
slandering (p. a. from slander) Censuring falsely, belying.
slandorous (adj. from slander) Using slander, containing slander.
slandorously (adv. from slanderous) With slander, with calumny.
slandorousness (s. from slanderous) The state or quality of being reproachful. Scott.
slang (v. t. pret. of sling) Did sling.
slank (s. in botany) A kind of sea weed.
slank (adj. a local word) Slim, slender. Scott.
slant (adj. from the Dutch slanghe a serpent) Oblique, running sidelong.
slanter (adj. comp. of slant) Slant in a greater degree.
slantest (adj. sup. of slant) Slant in the greatest degree.
slanting (adj. from slant) Oblique.
slantly (adv. from slant) Obliquely, in an oblique direction.
slantwise (adv. from slant, and wise) Slantly, obliquely.
slap (s. from the German schlap) A blow, a blow with the hand open.
slap (v. t. from the sub.) To strike as with the hand open.
slap (adv. from the sub.) With a sudden and violent blow.
slapdash (adv. from slap, and dash, a droll word) At once, with a sudden motion.
slape (adj. a local word) Slippery. Bailey.
slapeale (adj. a local word) Pale ale, simple or unmedicated ale. Bailey.
slapel (s. a local word) A piece, a fæst. Bailey.
slapped (p. from slap) Struck with the flat of the hand.
slapping (p. a. from slap) Striking as with the flat of the hand.
slapping (s. from the part.) The act of striking with the flat of the hand.
SLASH (v. t. from the Islandick slasa) To cut, to lash.
slash (v. int.) To strike as with a sword at random.
slash (s. from the verb) A cut, a wound made by cutting, a cut in cloth.
slashed (p. from slash) Cut, lashed.
slashing (p. a. from slash) Cutting, lashing. slashing (s. from the part.) The act of cutting without mercy, the act of lashing.
slat (s. a local word) A sheet. Cole.
SLATCH (s. a sea term) The middle part of a rope that hangs down loose; a transitory breeze of wind.
slate (s. from slit) A gray fossil stone used to cover houses or to write upon.
slate (v. t. from the sub.) To cover with slate.
slated (p. from slate) Covered with slate.
slater (s. from slate) One who covers houses with slate.
slating (p. a. from slate) Covering with slate.
slating (s. from the part.) The act of covering with slate, a covering of slate.
slatton (adj. a local word) Cast, dashed against. Cole.
SLATTERN (s. from the Swedish, slatti) A woman negligent of dress.

S L E

Slatternly (adj. from slattern) Negligent in dress, inelegant in dress.
Slaty (adj. from slate) Having the nature of slate.
Slave (s. supposed to be from Slavi) One sold to a master, one sold to labour, one who has lost the privilege of freedom; a dependant, one who is under the direction of another.
Slave (v. int. from the sub.) To drudge, to toil.
Slaver (s. from saliva) Spittle, drivel.
Slaver (v. t. from the sub.) To smear with spittle.
Slaver (v. int.) To emit spittle.
Slavered (p. from slaver) Smeared with spittle.
Slaverer (s. from slaver) A driveler, one who cannot hold his spittle.
Slavering (p. a. from slaver) Emitting spittle, driveling.
Slavering (s. from the part.) The act of driveling.
Slavery (s. from slave) The condition of a slave, servitude; hard labour.
SLAUGHTER (v. t. from the Sax. slagan) To slay, to kill with the sword, to massacre.
Slaughter (s. from the verb) Massacre, destruction by the sword.
Slaughtered (p. from slaughter) Killed, massacred.
Slaughterhouse (s. from slaughter, and house) The house in which beasts are killed for the shambles.
Slaughtering (p. a. from slaughter) Killing, putting to death by the sword, massacring.
Slaughtering (s. from the part.) The act of killing.
Slaughterman (s. from slaughter, and man) One employed in killing meat for the shambles.
Slaughtorous (adj. from slaughter) Destructive, murderous.
SLA'VI (s. in ancient geography) The old inhabitants of Slavonia who were conquered and sold for slaves by the Venetians.
Slavish (adj. from slave) Servile, mean, becoming a slave.
Slavishly (adv. from slavish) servilely, meanly.
Slavishness (s. from slavish) Servility, meanness.
Slawn (s. obsolete) A costard. Chaucer.
Slawe (p. obsolete) Slain. Chaucer.
SLAY (v. t. from the Sax. slaan) To kill, to butcher, to put to death.
Slay (s. with weavers) An instrument belonging to the loom, that part with which the work is clofed.
Slayer (s. from slay) One that slays; a murderer.
Slaying (p. a. from slay) Killing.
Slaying (s. from the part.) The act of killing.
Slea (v. t. obsolete) To slay, to kill. Chaucer.
SLEAFORD (s.) A town in Lincolnshire; it has a market on Monday, and is 115 miles from London.
Sleaford (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Sleaford, made at Sleaford.
Sleak (v. int. a local word) To put out the tongue as in scorn. Bailey.
Sleary (s. obsolete) A slayer. Chaucer.
Sleafy (s. in commerce) A thin kind of holland, a thin kind of linen imported from Silesia.
SLEAVE (v. t. of doubtful etymology) To untwist, to reduce silk or thread to its original fibres. Ainsw.
Sleave (s. from the verb) Silk or thread reduced to its original fibres. Drayton.
Sleaved (p. from sleeve) Untwisted, reduced to its original fibres.
Sleaving (p. a. from sleeve) Untwisting, reducing thread or silk to its original fibres.
Sleaving (s. from the part.) The act of reducing to original fibres, that which is reduced to original fibres.
Sleazier (adj. comp. of sleazy) Sleazy in a greater degree.
Sleaziest (adj. sup. of sleazy) Sleazy in the greatest degree.
Sleaziness (s. from sleazy) The state or quality of being sleazy.
Sleazy (adj. perhaps from sleigh) Weak, wanting substance.
Sleck (s. a local word) Slack, small coals.
Sleck (v. t. from slake) To quench, to allay thirst. Bai.
SLED (s. from the Danish slæd, but not so common a word) A sledge, a carriage drawn without wheels.
Sledged (adj. from sled) Mounted on a sledge.
Sledge (s. from sled) A carriage drawn without wheels; a carriage with very low wheels.
SLEDGE (s. from the Sax. slæig) A large heavy hammer.
SLEEK (adj. from the Dutch slaych) Smooth, glossy.
Sleek (v. t. from the sub.) To make smooth and even, to render soft and easy.
Sleeked (p. from sleek) Made smooth, made soft.
Sleek'er (adj. comp. of sleek) Sleek in a greater degree.
Sleek'est (adj. sup. of sleek) Sleek in the greatest degree. Sleek.

S L E

sleek/ing (p. a. from sleek) Making smooth, making soft.
Sleek/ly (adv. from sleek) Smoothly, glossily.
Sleek/ness (s. from sleek) The state or quality of being sleek.
SLEEP (v. int. from the Sax. sleepan) To take rest by a suspension of the mental powers, to rest, to be motionless; to live thoughtlessly, to be inattentive; to die, to be dead.
Sleep (s. from the verb) Suspension of the mental powers, slumber, repose, rest; death.
Sleeper (s. from sleep) One that sleeps, one who is not awake; a lazy inactive drone; that which lies dormant, a piece of timber lying on the ground to support a floor; one of the knees or timbers in a ship.
Sleeper (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish.
Sleepier (adj. comp. of sleepy) Sleepy in a greater degree.
Sleepiest (adj. sup. of sleepy) Sleepy in the greatest degree.
Sleepily (adv. from sleepy) In a sleepy manner.
Sleepiness (s. from sleepy) A disposition to sleep, drowsiness.
Sleeping (p. a. from sleep) Taking rest in sleep, lying in a state of inaction.
Sleeping (s. from the part.) The act of taking rest in sleep.
Sleepless (adj. from sleep) Void of sleep, wanting sleep.
Sleepy (adj. from sleep) Drowsy, disposed to sleep, causing sleep, sluggish.
Sleepyevil (s. from sleepy, and evil) A disease incident to cattle.
Sleer (v. int. a local word) To peep at, to leer. Scott.
SLEET (s. perhaps from the Danish sleet) Snow intermixed with rain.
Sleet (v. int. from the sub.) To snow in small particles mixed with rain.
Sleethe (v. t. obsolete) Slayeth. Cb.
Sleetiness (s. from sleety) The state or quality of being sleety. Scott.
Sleeting (p. a. from sleet) Falling in snow mixed with rain.
Sleety (adj. from sleet) Bringing sleet.
SLEEVE (s. from the Sax. slif) That part of a garment which covers the arm. "To laugh in the sleeve," to laugh in secret. "To hang on the sleeve," to make dependent. "To pin on the sleeve," to be wholly dependent on another.
Sleeve (s. a local word) A skain, a knot of flk.
Sleeve (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish.
Sleeve (v. t. from the sub.) To put sleeves into a garment.
Sleeveband (s. from sleeve, and band) The band of the sleeve.
Sleevebutton (s. from sleeve, and button) A button for the sleeve.
Sleeved (p. from sleeve) Furnished with sleeves.
Sleeveknut (s. from sleeve, and knot) A knot of ribband worn on the sleeve.
Sleeveless (adj. from sleeve) Wanting sleeves, having no sleeves; wanting propriety, wanting solidity.
Sleeving (p. a. from sleeve) Furnishing with sleeves.
SLEIGHT (s. from the Islandick slagd) Cunning, artifice, trick.
Sleine (s. supposed to have been first misprinted from seine) A seine, a large kind of dragnet.
Sleke (adj. obsolete) Slack, slow. Cbaucer.
Sleke (v. t. obsolete) To slake, to slacken. Cb.
Slen, Slene (v. t. obsolete) To slay. Cb.
SLEN'DER (adj. from the Dutch slinder) Thin, small in bulk compared with the length, small in the waist, having a fine shape, slight, weak, sparing, scantily supplied.
Slen'derer (adj. comp. of slender) Slender in a greater degree.
Slen'derest (adj. sup. of slender) Slender in the greatest degree.
Slen'derly (adv. from slender) Slightly, meanly; without bulk.
Slen'derness (s. from slender) Thinness, want of bulk, slowness, want of plenty.
Slepe (s. an old spelling) Sleep. Cbaucer.
Slepe (v. int. an old spelling) To sleep. Cb.
Slepe (p. obsolete) Slept; causing sleep. Cb.
Slepin (v. int. obsolete) To sleep. Cb.
Slept (v. int. pret. of sleep) Did sleep.
Slet, Slete (s. an old spelling) Sleet, snow and rain mixed together. Cb.
Slete (v. int. a local word) To set on a dog. Cole.
Slethe (v. t. third person) Slayeth. Cb.
Sleeveless (adj. obsolete) Lifeless, idle. Cb.

S L I

Slew (v. t. pret. of slay) Did slay.
Sley (s. a different spelling) A slay, that part of a loom which strikes up the work.
Sley (v. t. from the sub.) To part the threads, to twist into threads.
Slev'ed (p. from sley) Parted in the sley; twisted a thread.
Sley'ing (p. a. from sley) Parting the threads; twisting the threads.
SLICE (s. from the Sax. slite) A broad piece cut off; peel, a spatula.
Slice (v. t. from the sub.) To cut into broad pieces, to cut off, to cut into parts, to cut, to divide.
Sliced (p. from slice) Cut into flat pieces, cut, divided.
Slicing (p. a. from slice) Cutting into flat pieces, cutting, dividing.
Slicing (s. from the part.) The act of cutting into slices.
SLICK (adj. from the Dutch slikt) Sleek, smooth. Br.
Slick'en (v. t. from slick) To make smooth.
Slick'ened (p. from slicken) Made smooth.
Slick'ening (p. a. from slicken) Making smooth.
Slick'er (adj. comp. of slick) Slick in a greater degree.
Slick'est (adj. sup. of slick) Slick in the greatest degree.
Slick'ness (s. from slick) Smoothness.
Slid (v. t. pret. of slide) Did slide.
Slidden (p. from slide) Gone back by an easy and progressive motion, put in by degrees.
SLID'DER (v. int. from the Dutch slideran) To slide to slide with interruptions.
Slid'der (adj. from the verb) Slippery, falling. Br.
SLIDE (v. int. from the Sax. sliden) To slip, to glide, to pass on smoothly; to move without changing the feet; to pass unnoticed; to pass gradually from good to bad; to move upon the ice by a single impulse to fall by error.
Slide (v. t.) To put on imperceptibly, to move by degrees.
Slide (s. from the verb) A smooth and easy passage, a flow, an even course; a place to slide on; a part of an instrument or machine to be pulled in and out.
Slid'er (s. from slide) One that slides; the part of an instrument that slides.
Slid'er (adj. obsolete) Slippery. Cb.
Slid'ing (p. a. from slide) Slipping, passing on smoothly, moving slowly, to pass without difficulty, passing from good to bad, falling by error.
Slid'ing (s. from the part.) The act of passing on smoothly, the act of moving imperceptibly.
Slid'ir (adj. obsolete) Slippery. Cb.
Slye (adj. an old spelling) Sly, cunning. Cb.
Sligh (adj. an incorrect spelling) Sly.
Slightly (adv. an incorrect spelling) Slyly. Urry.
SLIGHT (adj. from the Dutch slicht) Small, inconsiderable; unimportant; weak, slender; negligent, trifling.
Slight (s. from the adj.) A neglect, a contempt, an act of scorn, a slight, an artifice; but this is not judged proper.
Slight (v. t. from the sub.) To neglect, to disregard, to overthrow, to throw carelessly. "To slight over," to perform carelessly. "These men will but slight over." Bacon.
Slight'ed (p. from slight) Neglected, disregarded, treated with contempt.
Slight'er (s. from slight) One that slights.
Slight'er (adj. comp. of slight) Slight in a greater degree.
Slight'est (adj. sup. of slight) Slight in the greatest degree.
Slight'ing (p. a. from slight) Disregarding, treating with neglect, performing carelessly.
Slight'ing (s. from the part.) The act of treating with neglect.
Slight'ingly (adv. from slighting) With neglect, with scorn.
Slight'ly (adv. from slight) Negligently, without respect; scornfully, contemptuously; weakly, without due force; without due care.
Slight'ly (adv. obsolete) Slyly, craftily; prudently. Cb.
SLIGO (s.) An inland county of Ireland in the province of Connaught.
Sli'ly (adv. from sly) Cunningly, with craft.
Slim (adj. a cant word) Slender, thin of shape. Addison.
SLIME (s. from the Sax. slim) Viscous mire, glutinous matter.
Slim gutted (adj. from slim, and gutted) Slim in the belly. L'Estrange.
Slim'ier (adj. comp. of slimy) Slimy in a greater degree.
Slim'iest (adj. sup. of slimy) Slimy in the greatest degree. Slim'iest slime (s. from slimy) The state or quality of being slimy.

S L I

slime (s. from slime) The muting of a hawk when it comes entire.
slimmer (adj. comp. of slim, a cant or droll word) Slim in a greater degree.
slimpest (adj. sup. of slim, a cant or droll word) Slim in the greatest degree.
slimy (adj. from slime) Abounding with slime; viscous, glutinous.
slings (s. from fly) A designing artifice, low cunning.
SLING (v. t. from the Sax. sligan) To throw by means of a sling; to cast; to hang loosely by a string, to move by means of a rope.
slingshot (s. from the verb) A kind of missile weapon, a contrivance to throw by a strap; a throw, a cast; a kind of hanging bandage.
slinger (s. from sling) One that slings.
slinging (p. a. from sling) Throwing with a sling, moving by means of a rope.
slingshot (s. from the part.) The act of throwing with a sling, the method of moving any thing by means of a rope.
SLINK (v. int. from the Sax. slingan) To sneak, to steal out of the way.
slunk (v. t.) To cast the young, to miscarry as beasts.
slunk (s. from the verb) The young of a beast brought forth before the time, a casting.
slinking (p. a. from slink) Casting, bringing forth young before the time; sneaking, stealing away.
slinking (s. from the part.) The act of bringing forth young as beasts before the time; the act of stealing away to avoid being seen.
SLIDE (v. int. from the Sax. slipan) To slide, to move or go out of place, to glide, to pass on with an easy motion; to sneak, to slink; to fall into errors, to fall into faults; to escape, to fall out of remembrance.
slid (v. t.) To convey away secretly, to lose by negligence; to escape from, to leave slyly; to let loose, to throw off any thing that holds; to skim, to pass over negligently; to strip twigs from the main body of a plant; to dislocate, to put out of joint.
slid (s. from the verb) A false step, the act of slipping; an error, a mistake; an escape, a desertion; a long narrow piece; a kind of declining wharf for the landing of goods; a leash or string in which a dog is held; a twig torn from the main body of a plant.
slid (s. from slip, and board) A board made to slide on grooves.
slid (s. from slip, and knot) A knot with a bow, a knot that will slip.
slid (p. from slip) Conveyed away in a clandestine manner, let loose, torn as a twig from the body of a plant, passed over negligently; put out of joint.
slipper (s. from slip) A shoe without buckle or tye.
slippery (adj. obsolete) Slippery, apt to slide. Spenser.
slippery (s. from slippery) The state or quality of being slippery; uncertainty.
slippery (adj. from slip) Smooth, glib; uncertain, changeable; hard to hold, hard to keep; initable, untruthful, unchaste.
slipping (p. a. from slip) Sliding, moving out of place, sliding with an easy motion; conveying away with a kind of sleight; withdrawing in a clandestine manner; letting loose, getting loose from any tye or bandage; rending a twig from the body of a plant; putting out of joint.
slipping (s. from the part.) The act of sliding, the act of letting loose, the act of getting loose, the act of rending a twig from the main body of a plant; a dislocation.
slip (adj. obsolete) Slippery.
slip (adj. from slip) Slippery. Flayer.
slid (adj. from slip, and shod) Having the shoes barely slipped on.
slip (s. from slop, a low or droll word) Bad liquor, slops.
slid (v. int. pret. of slip) Did slip.
slid (v. t. pret. of slip) Slipped, did slip.
slid (p. from slip) Slipped.
slid (s. a droll word) A flash. Shakespeare.
slid (v. t. from the Sax. slitan) To cut lengthwise.
slid (v. t. pret. of the foregoing) Did cut lengthwise.
slid (p. from the verb) Cut lengthwise.
slid (s. from the verb) A long cut, a narrow opening.
slid (adj. obsolete) Slippery. Chaucer.
slid (p. a. from slit) Cutting longitudinally.
slid (s. from the part.) The act of cutting lengthwise; that which is cut lengthwise.

S L O

SLIVE (v. t. from the Sax. slivan) To split, to divide lengthwise.
slive (v. int.) To creep, to go about in a drowsy manner. Scott.
slive (s. from the verb) A sliver. Chaucer.
slived (p. from slive) Slit, divided lengthwise.
sliver (v. t. from slive) To slive, to split.
sliver (s. from the verb) A piece cut off. Shakespeare.
slivered (p. from sliver) Slived, split.
slivering (p. a. not much used from sliver) Cutting off in broad pieces, splitting.
sliverly (adj. a local word) Subtly, crafty, knavish. Ba.
sliving (p. a. from slive) Splitting, dividing lengthwise.
SLO (v. t. obsolete) To slay. Chaucer.
SLOA'NA, SLOAN'CA (s. in botany) A genus or class of plants.
SLOAT (s.) One of the under timbers which support the bottom of a cart.
SLOATH (s. not so common a spelling) The sloth. Dict. of Arts.
SLOATH (s. not so common a spelling) Sloth, laziness.
SLOBBER (v. t. supposed to be from the Brit. glavoeris) To spill upon, to slaver.
Slobber (v. int.) To spill.
Slobber (s. from the verb) Liquor spilled, slaver.
Slobbered (p. from slobber) Spilled, slavered.
Slobbering (p. a. from slobber) Spilling, slaving.
SLOCK (v. t. from the Swedish) To slake, to quench. Job.
Slock (v. t. a local word) To entice away; to inveigle away another man's servant.
Slock'd (p. from slock, a local word) Slacked, quenched; enticed, inveigled away.
Slock'en (adj. an old word) Softened, sodden. Bailey.
Slock'er (s. from slock) One that entices away another man's servant.
Slocking (p. a. from slock, a local word) Slaking, quenching; enticing, enticing away another man's servant.
Slock'iter (s. from slock) One that entices away another man's servant. Phillips.
SLOE (s. from the Sax. sla) The black thorn, a kind of plum-tree, the fruit of the tree, a kind of wild plum.
Sloe/worm (s. an incorrect spelling) The slowworm, a kind of viper. Scott.
Sloefordie (s. an old spelling) Sloth. Chaucer.
Sloefbringis (s. an obsolete spelling) Slumberings. Ch.
Slong (p. obsolete) Slung. Chaucer.
Sloop (s. from shallop) A small kind of ship.
SLOP (s. from the Sax. mostly used in the plu.) Loose breeches, trousers.
Slop (v. t. supposed to be from lap) To drink up coarsely and greedily; to dash with water or other liquor.
Slop (s. from the verb) Mean liquor, spoon meat; a kind of nauseous medical liquor.
Slop (adj. with artificers) Loose, having much play.
SLOPE (adj. of uncertain etymology) Oblique, having declivity.
Slope (s. from the adj.) A declivity, an oblique direction.
Slope (adv. from the adj.) Obliquely, out of the perpendicular.
Slope (v. t. from the adj.) To form to declivity, to direct obliquely.
Slope (v. int.) To take an oblique direction.
Sloped (p. from slope) Formed to declivity, directed obliquely.
Slo'peneis (s. from slope) Declivity, obliquity.
Slopewise (adv. from slope, and wife) Obliquely, with declivity.
Sloping (p. a. from slope) Forming to declivity, taking an oblique direction.
Sloping (s. from the part.) The act of forming obliquely, that which is formed obliquely.
Slopingly (adv. from sloping) Obliquely, with declivity.
Slopingness (s. from sloping) Obliquity, declivity.
Slop'pe (s. an old spelling) Slops, loose breeches. Ch.
Slop'ped (p. from slop) Drunk up with greediness, dashed with water or other liquor, treated with slops.
Slop'pier (adj. comp. of sloppy) Sloppy in a greater degree.
Slop'piest (adj. sup. of sloppy) Sloppy in the greatest degree.
Sloppy (adj. from slop) Wet, miry.
SLOT (v. t. from the Dutch, slughen) To strike hard, to clash hard, to slam the door. Johnson.
SLOT (s. a hunting term from the Islandick, slod) The track of a deer.

Slate

Slote (s. a local word) The broad step of a ladder, the broad step of a gate.

SLOTH (s. from the Sax. slæwþ) Slowness, laziness, idleness.

SLOTH (s. in zoology) The bradypus; it is reckoned one of the slowest of quadrupeds, and lives chiefly on the tops of trees.

Slothful (adj. from sloth) Idle, sluggish, lazy, dull, indolent.

Slothfully (adv. from slothful) With sloth.

Slothfulness (s. from slothful) Laziness, sluggishness, indolence.

Slot'ten (p. from slot, obsolete) Struck hard, clashed hard.

Slot'tish (adj. obsolete) Sluttish, slovenly. Chaucer.

SLOUCH (s. from the Danish, slott stupid) A down cast look, a depression of the head, an uncouth gait; a man who looks heavy, a clown.

Slouch (v. int. from the sub.) To have a down cast look, to walk with an awkward gait.

Slouch'ing (p. a. from slouch) Hanging down the head, walking with an awkward gait.

Slouch'ing (s. from the part.) An awkward gait.

SLOVEN (s. from the Brit. slyan shabby) A man dirtily dressed, a man indecently negligent of dress and appearances.

Slowliness (s. from sloven) Indecent neglect of dress and cleanliness.

Slowlly (adj. from sloven) Negligent of dress, indecently dirty.

Slowlly (adv. from the adj.) In a negligent or inelegant manner.

Slowlenny (s. from sloven) Dirtiness, want of neatness.

SLOUGH (s. from the Sax. slog) A deep miry place, a hole full of dirt; the cast skin of a snake or viper; the part that separates from a foul fore.

Slough (s. a hunting term) The lodge of a wild boar.

Slough (v. t. obsolete) Slew, did slay. Chaucer.

Slought (s. a hunting term) A company of bears. D. of A.

Slough'y (adj. from slough) Full of sloughs, miry, boggy.

SLOUTH (s. a hunting term) A company of some sorts of wild beasts as bears.

Slouth (s. a different spelling) A slough, the cast skin of a snake or viper.

Slouth'hound (s. a different spelling) A slouthhound, a little hound, a kind of hound remarkable for its quick sense of smelling.

SLOW (adj. from the Sax. slaw) Tardy in moving, wanting quickness of motion; coming by degrees, late; dull, inactive; dull of apprehension, heavy in wit; with to, in, and of: as, "Slow to wrath." "Slow of speech." "Slow in motion."

Slow (v. int. from the adj. but not used) To delay, to procrastinate. Shakespeare.

Slow (adv. from the adj. chiefly used in composition) Slowly.

Slow (s. not so common a spelling) A sloe. Mortimer.

Slowe (s. obsolete) A slough. Chaucer.

Slowe (p. obsolete) Slain. Chaucer.

Slowcir'cling (adj. from slow, and circling) Moving round slowly.

Slowcree'ping (adj. from slow, and creeping) Creeping slowly.

Slowed (p. from slow, but not used) Delayed. Shakespeare.

Slowendav'ouring (adj. from slow, and endeavour) Endeavouring to be slow.

Slow'er (adj. comp. of slow) Slow in a greater degree.

Slow'est (adj. sup. of slow) Slow in the greatest degree.

Slowly (adv. from slow) With slowness.

Slowlness (s. from slow) The state or quality of being slow; procrastination, deliberation.

Slow'paced (adj. from slow, and paced) Slow in motion.

Slow'pacing (adj. from slow, and pacing) Moving slowly.

Slow'worm (s. from slow, and worm) The blind worm, a small kind of viper very slow in its motion.

Slub'ber (v. t. perhaps from lubber) To perform lazily, to stain, to daub; to cover coarsely, to cover carelessly.

Slub'berdegul'ion (s. a cant word) A paltry dirty wretch. Hudibras.

Slub'bered (p. from slubber) Done imperfectly, daubed over, covered carelessly.

Slub'bering (p. a. from slubber) Doing imperfectly, daubing over, covering carelessly.

Slab'bering (s. from the part.) The act of doing any thing in a careless slovenly manner.

Sluce (s. a different spelling) A sluice. Phillips.

Sludge (s. from slough) Mire, dirt mixed with water.

Slue (v. t. a sea term) To turn any cylindrical body or piece of timber about without taking it out of its place, to move a mast in its cap.

Slue (v. t. pret. obsolete of slay) Did slay.

Slu'ed (p. a sea term) Moved round without altering position as a mast in its cap.

SLUG (s. from the Dutch slock a glutton) A drone, a sleepy fellow; a kind of slow creeping snail; a derance, an obstruction.

SLUG (s. from the Sax. sleep the head of a hammer) cylindrical or oval piece of metal shot from a gun.

Slug (v. int. from the sub.) To lie idle, to play the drone to move slowly.

Slug'gard (s. from slug) An inactive lazy fellow, a drone.

Slug'gardie (s. obsolete) Sloth, laziness. Chaucer.

Slug'gardize (v. t. from sluggard) To make idle, make droneish.

Slug'gardized (p. from sluggardize) Made idle, droneish.

Slug'gardizing (p. a. from sluggardize) Making idle, making droneish.

Slug'ging (p. a. from slug) Lying idle, moving slowly.

Slug'gish (adj. from slug) Dull, drowsy, insipid, inactive.

Slug'gisher (adj. comp. of sluggish) Sluggish in a greater degree.

Slug'gihest (s. from sluggish) Sluggish in the greatest degree.

Slug'gishly (adv. from sluggish) Lazily, dully, inertly.

Slug'gishness (s. from sluggish) The state or quality of being sluggish.

Slug'nail (s. from slug, and snail) A small kind of snail without a shell.

SLUICE (s. from the Dutch sluyse) A water gate, floodgate, a vent for water, a lock on a navigable river.

Sluice (v. t. from the sub.) To emit by floodgates.

Sluic'ed (p. from sluice) Emitted as by floodgates.

Sluicy (adj. from sluice) Falling in streams as from a sluice.

Slu'ing (p. a. from slue, a sea term) Moving round without altering the position as a mast or boom in socket.

SLUMBER (v. int. from the Sax. slumeran) To sleep slightly, to repose; to be in a state of soporific.

Slumber (v. t.) To lay to sleep, to stupify.

Slumber (s. from the verb) Light sleep, repose.

Slumbered (p. from slumber) Laid to sleep.

Slumbering (p. a. from slumber) Sleeping lightly, posing, laying to sleep.

Slumbering (s. from the part.) The act of sleeping lightly, a light sleep.

Slumberous (s. from slumber) Causing sleep, inviting sleep, sleepy, hardly awake.

Slumbery (adj. from slumber) Slumberous.

Slump (v. int. a local word) To slip into a dirty place to sink at once into dirt.

Slump'ing (p. a. a local word, from slump) Sinking once into dirt.

Slung (v. t. pret. of sling) Did sling.

Slung (p. from sling) Thrown from a sling, moved by a rope, hung in ropes.

Slunk (v. t. pret. of slink) Did slink.

Slunk (p. from slink) Gone into privacy, withdrawn from sight; concealed as conscious of weakness or guilt.

SLUR (v. t. from the Dutch slooring nasy) To sully, to cheat; to foil, to pass lightly, to balk.

Slur (v. t.) To pass in the same breath from one note to another in singing.

Slur (s. from the verb) A slight disgrace, a slight reproach; a trick, a cheat; a tie in music, a movement on the same syllable from one note to another.

Slur'ed (p. from slur) Sullied, contaminated, affected with slight disgrace; passed lightly, tricked, cheated by a tie in music, moved on the same syllable from one note to another.

Slur'ing (p. a. from slur) Sullying, contaminating, passing lightly, affecting with slight disgrace; joining by a tie in music, moving on the same syllable from one note to another in singing.

Slur'ing (s. from the part.) The act of affecting with slight disgrace, the act of passing on the same syllable from one note to another.

SLUT (s. from the Dutch sladde) A dirty woman, term of slight contempt for a woman.

Sluth'ound (s.) A kind of Scotch dog remarkable for its quickness of smelling.

Slut'tery (s. from slut) The qualities of a slut.

Slut'tish (adj. from slut) Dirty, resembling a slut.

Slut'tisher (adj. comp. of sluttish) Sluttish in a greater degree.

Slut'tishest (adj. sup. of sluttish) Sluttish in the greatest degree.

Slut'tily (adv. from sluttish) In a sluttish manner.

smells (s. from flutlish) The state or quality of being flutlish.

smelly (adj. from the Sax. slith) Meanly artful, cunning; eggh.

smoots (s. a low or droll word) A seemingly silly but amusing fellow.

smily (adv. from fly) Slily, with mean artifice. Johns.

smack (v. int. from the Sax. smæckan) To have a taste, to have a tincture; with of: as, "All ages smack of wit." To make a noise by the separation of the lips after a taste; to kiss loud.

smack (v. t.) To make a noise with a whip, to strike with a whip; to kiss.

smack (s. from the verb) A taste, a flavour; a small quantity, just enough for a taste; the noise of the whip, a stroke of the whip; a loud kiss.

smack (s. a sea term, from the Sax. smacca) A small smacked (p. from smack) Struck with a smart found-blow, struck with a whip; kissed so as to be heard.

smacker (s. from smack) A loud kiss; a smart founding smacking (s. from smack) A longing desire. Scott.

smacking (p. a. from smack) Making a smart noise, making a noise with a whip, striking with a smart founding blow; making a noise with the lips as in kissing; giving a loud kiss.

smacking (s. from the part.) The act of making a noise with the lips, the noise of the lips as in tasting, the act of kissing so as to be heard, the report of a loud kiss, the noise of the whip.

smacking (s. a cant word) A coachman. Bailey.

smack (s. in old records) A smack, a little ship.

smalle (adj. an obsolete spelling) Smallish. Chaucer.

smalle (adj. from the Sax.) Little in quantity, little of smalle (s. from the adj.) The little or narrow part of any smalle (s. obsolete) A fine. Chaucer.

smalle (s. in botany) The name of a plant, a species of parsley.

smalle (s. from small, and coal) Little coals to light

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

smalle (s. from small, and craft) A little vessel, small

SMATCH (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird.

smatter (v. int. from smack) To have a slight taste,

smatter (v. int. from smack) To have a slight taste, smatterer (s. from smatter) One who has a slight or susmattering (p. a. from smatter) Having a slight or su-

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

smattering (s. from the adj.) A superficial acquaintance

SMI'LAX (s. in the mythology of the poets) A beautiful damsel who died for love, and was said to have been transformed into the plant bearing that name.

SMILE (v. int. from the Dutch smuylen) To contract the face with pleasure, to express gladness by the countenance; to look joyous, to be favourable, to be propitious; to express slight contempt; with at: as, "He smiles at her folly."

Smile (s. from the verb) A slight contraction of the face tending to a laugh, a look of pleasure, a look of favour.

Smiling (p. a. from smile) Slightly contracting the face, expressing pleasure by the countenance, favouring, dealing propitiously.

Smiling (s. from the part.) The act of expressing pleasure by the countenance, a pleasing look.

Smilingly (adv. from smiling) With a smile.

Smilt (v. int. from smelt) To turn to pulp as corn over wetted. Mortimer.

Smilting (p. a. from smile) Turning to pulp as corn over wetted.

SMIN'THEAN (adj. from the Greek σμινθεος a rat) Belonging to Apollo who delivered a Grecian colony from rats and mice, with which they had been remarkably infested; rat killing, fatal to rats.

Smirch (v. t. from murk) To cloud, to soil.

Smirched (p. from smirch) Daubed, soiled, clouded.

Smirching (p. a. from smirch) Daubing, soiling, clouding.

Smired (adj. an old word) Smeared, anointed. Phil.

SMIRIS (s. in natural history) The emery.

Smirk (adj. a different spelling) Smerk, nice, smart. Spem.

Smirk (v. int. a different spelling) To smirk, to smile wantonly.

Smirking (p. a. from smirk) Smiling wantonly; gay, smart. Swift.

Smit (p. from smite) Struck, affected, chastened, killed, destroyed.

SMITE (v. t. from the Sax. smitan) To strike, to reach with a stroke; to blast, to afflict; to kill, to destroy.

Smite (v. int.) To collide, to strike one against another.

Smiter (s. from smite) One who smites; a cant word for the arm.

SMITH (s. from the Sax.) One who forges with a hammer, one who works in metal; one that makes any thing, one that effects.

Smithcraft (s. from smith, and craft) The act of a smith.

Smithery (s. from smith) The shop of a smith.

Smithing (s. from smith) The act of a smith.

Smithy (s. from smith) A smithery. Dryden.

Smitting (p. a. from smite) Striking, blasting, killing.

Smitting (s. from the part.) The act of striking.

Smitting (adj. a local word) Infectious. Bailey.

Smittingline (s. a sea term) A small rope used to loose the mizen sail without striking the yard.

SMITT (s. in natural history) A fine sort of clay used in marking sheep. Woodward.

Smitten (p. from smite) Struck, blasted, killed; with of, and with: as, "Smitten of God." "Smitten with amazement."

Smoak (s. an incorrect spelling) Smoke.

SMOCK (s. from the Sax. smock) The under linen garment worn by women.

Smock (adj. from the sub. a droll word, sometimes used in composition) Belonging to a woman, like a woman.

Smockfaced (adj. from smock, and face) Palefaced, like a maid.

SMOKE (s. from the Sax. smoc) The footy exhalation from any thing burning; the steam that arises from any thing warm, the steam arising from an animal much heated.

Smoke (v. int. from the sub.) To emit a footy exhalation from heat, to emit steam through heat; to move with great swiftness; to burn, to be kindled; to smelt, to be burnt out; to draw the fumes of tobacco; to suffer, to be punished; with for: as, "He shall smoke for it."

Smoke (v. t.) To scent with smoke, to dry in smoke; to smelt out, to find out; to sneer at, to ridicule. To smoke a pipe, to draw the fumes of burning tobacco through a pipe. To smoke tobacco, to draw the fumes of tobacco through a pipe.

Smoked (p. from smoke) Scented by smoke, dried in smoke; found out, smelt out; sneered at, ridiculed; consumed as tobacco in smoking.

Smokedried (p. from smokedry) Dried in the smoke.

Smokedry (v. t. from smoke, and dry) To dry in the smoke.

Smokedrying (p. a. from smokedry) Drying in the smoke.

Smo'kefarthing (s. from smoke, and farthing) An offering at Whitfuntide when a procession was made to the cathedral or mother church.

Smo'kejack (s. from smoke, and jack) A machine turning the spit by the smoke or draft of air in chimney.

Smo'keless (adj. from smoke) Having no smoke.

Smo'ker (s. from smoke) One that smokes tobacco, that dries any thing in smoke.

Smo'kepenny (s. from smoke, and penny) The fine silver.

Smo'kesilver (s. from smoke, and silver) Money paid ancient times instead of tithe wood.

Smo'kier (adj. comp. of smoky) Smoky in a greater degree.

Smo'kiest (adj. sup. of smoky) Smoky in the greatest degree.

Smo'kiness (s. from smoky) The state or quality of being smoky.

Smo'king (p. a. from smoke) Emitting smoke, emitting fumes; treating with ridicule; finding out, smelt out; drying with smoke, affecting with smoke; drying the fumes of tobacco.

Smo'king (s. from the part.) The act of affecting with smoke, the act of treating with ridicule; the emission of smoke; the act of drawing the fumes of tobacco.

Smo'king (adj. from the part.) Used in smoking tobacco, appropriated to smoking.

Smo'keless (adj. obsolete) Quite naked, having no smoke.

Smo'ky (adj. from smoke) Noisom with smoke, emitting smoke, having the appearance or nature of smoke.

Smoo'ged (adj. not used) Smoked. Shakespeare.

SMOOTH (adj. from the Sax. smooth) Even, level, having no asperities; flowing, soft, equal in pace; sweet, adulatory.

Smooth (v. t. from the adj.) To level, to make even; to work into a soft uniform mass; to make easy, to make flowing; to calm, to mollify; to liate, to ease; to flatter.

Smooth (adv. from the adj. used in composition) Smoothly.

Smoothed (p. from smooth) Made even, planed, soft, mitigated.

Smoothen (v. t. from smooth, a bad word) To smooth.

Smoothened (p. from smoothen, a bad word) Smoothed.

Smooth'er (adj. comp. of smooth) Smooth in a greater degree.

Smoothest (adj. sup. of smooth) Smooth in the greatest degree.

Smoothfaced (adj. from smooth, and face) Having smooth face, having a soft look, mild in appearance.

Smoothgliding (adj. from smooth, and gliding) Gliding smoothly, moving with an easy motion.

Smoothgrained (adj. from smooth, and grain) Having smooth grain.

Smoothhaired (adj. from smooth, and hair) Having smooth hair, having fine hair.

Smoothing (p. a. from smooth) Making smooth.

Smoothing (s. from the part.) The act of making smooth.

Smoothingplane (s. from smoothing, and plane) A short plane.

Smoothly (adv. from smooth) With smoothness.

Smoothness (s. from smooth) Evenness, softness, smoothness of numbers, gentleness of speech.

Smoothpaced (adj. from smooth, and pace) Advancing with an even pace.

Smoothshaven (adj. from smooth, and shaven) Shaven close.

Smoothsliding (adj. from smooth, and sliding) Moving without stop.

Smoothspeeched (adj. from smooth, and speech) Uttering softness of speech.

Smoothtongued (adj. from smooth, and tongue) Uttering smooth speech, flattering.

Smopple (adj. a local word) Brittle.

Smote (v. t. pret. of smite) Did smite.

Smoterlich (adj. obsolete) Painted, set off with cosmetics.

Smoterlick (adj. a different spelling) Painted, set off with cosmetics.

SMOTHER (v. t. from the Sax. smoran) To smother with smoke, to suffocate for want of air; to suppress.

Smother (s. from the verb) Smoke, thick dust; a suppression.

Smother (v. int.) To smoke without vent; to be close.

Smothered (p. from smother) Suffocated, suppressed.

othering (p. a. from smother) Suffocating, suppressing.
 SOULDER (v. int. from the Sax. smoran, but not used) To burn without vent.
 SOULDERING (p. a. from smoulder) Burning without vent.
 SOULDERING (adj. from smoulder) Burning and smoking without vent.
 SOULDRY (adj. from smoulder) Burning without vent.
 SMUG (adj. from the Dutch smucken to dress) Nice, spruce, dressed up with an affectation of neatness without elegance.
 SMUGGER (adj. comp. of smug) Smug in a greater degree.
 SMUGGERY (adj. sup. of smug) Smug in the greatest degree.
 SMUGGLE (v. t. from the Dutch smokkelen) To import without paying the duty, to export without paying custom.
 SMUGGLED (p. from smuggle) Imported or exported without paying the customs.
 SMUGGLER (s. from smuggle) One who imports or exports goods without paying the customs; one that deals in contraband or smuggled goods.
 SMUGGLING (p. a. from smuggle) Importing or exporting goods without paying the duty.
 SMUGGLING (s. from the adj.) The act of defrauding the customs.
 SMUGLY (adv. from smug) Sprucely, neatly.
 SMUGGLES (s. from smug) Spruceness, neatness without elegance.
 Soot (s. from the Sax. smitta) Soot, coal, a spot made with foot or coal; a must on corn, a mildew; obsecration.
 Soot (v. t. from the sub.) To stain with coal or foot; to smut with mildew.
 Soot (v. int.) To gather must.
 Soot (v. t. from smut) To smut, to black with soot.
 Soot (p. from smutch) Blacked with coal.
 Soot (p. a. from smutch) Blacking with foot or coal.
 Soot (p. from smut) Marked with foot or coal, lined, polluted: with with: as, "Smuted with the soil of Albeism."
 Soot (adj. comp. of smutty) Smutty in a greater degree.
 Soot (adj. sup. of smutty) Smutty in the greatest degree.
 Soot (adv. from smutty) With smut, with obscenity.
 Soot (s. from smutty) The state or quality of being smutty.
 Soot (p. a. from smut) Marking with foot or coal, soiling; gathering smut.
 Soot (s. from the part.) The act of marking with smut.
 Soot (adj. from smut) Black with foot or coal, tainted with mildew, obscene, immodest.
 Soot (s.) A city and port of Asiatic Turkey.
 Soot (s. in botany) The loveage, a genus of plants.
 Soot (v. t. third person, obsolete) Forgets as a snail.
 Soot (v. t. obsolete) To snatch.
 Soot (s. from snatch) A share, a part taken by common: "Do, and we go snacks."
 Soot (s. a local word) A kind of hair for a case.
 Soot (s. in ichthyology) The name of a fish.
 Soot (s. from the Dutch snavel the nose) A side which crosses the nose; a kind of bit for a horse.
 Soot (v. t. from the sub.) To bridle, to hold in a rein; to manage.
 Soot (v. int. a local word) To speak through the nose.
 Soot (p. from snaffle) Bridled; held in a bridle; held, managed.
 Soot (p. a. from snaffle) Bridling, holding with a rein, managing; speaking through the nose.
 Soot (s. from the part.) The act of bridling, the act of speaking through the nose.
 Soot (s. the derivation is not known) A knot, a protuberance; a tooth, a tooth left by itself and standing beyond the rest.
 Soot (adj. from snag) Full of snags, rugged.
 Soot (adj. comp. of snaggy) Snaggy in a greater degree.
 Soot (adj. sup. of snaggy) Snaggy in the greatest degree.
 Soot (v. t. from snag, a local word) To make impressions on any thing with the teeth.

Snag'gled (p. from snaggle, a local word) Impressed with the marks of teeth.
 Snag'gletoothed (adj. from snag, and tooth) Having teeth standing out.
 Snag'gling (p. a. from snaggle, a local word) Impressed with the teeth.
 Snag'gling (s. from the part.) An impression made by the action of the teeth.
 Snag'gy (adj. from snag) Full of snags, full of short teeth.
 SNAIL (s. from the Sax. snoegl) A slimy animal which feeds on vegetables and is remarkable for the slowness of its motion; a drone, a lazy sluggish person. Sh.
 Snail/clover (s. in botany) The name of an herb.
 Snail/shell (s. from snail, and shell) The house or shell of a snail.
 Snail/trefoil (s. in botany) The snailclover.
 SNAITH (s.) A town in the west riding of Yorkshire; it has a market on Friday, and is 174 miles from London.
 Snaith (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Snaith, made at Snaith.
 SNAKE (s. from the Sax. snaca) A serpent of the oviparous kind whose bite is said to be harmless: In poetry, a serpent, a viper. "A snake in the grass," a fly designing person.
 Snakeater (s. in ornithology) The name of a bird.
 Snake'root (s. in botany and medicine) The name of a plant, a species of birthwort.
 Snake'shead (s. in botany) The name of a plant, a kind of iris.
 Snake'stone (s. from snake, and stone) One of the ammonites.
 Snake'weed (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
 Snake'wood (s. in pharmacy) A kind of wood brought from the east and sometimes used in medicine.
 Snake'y (adj. from snake) Belonging to a snake, resembling a snake, serpentine; having serpents.
 Snake'yheaded (adj. from snake, and headed) Having a head like a snake, having heads like those of snakes.
 SNAP (v. t. from the Dutch snappen) To break short, to break at once; to strike with a short sharp noise; to bite, to catch suddenly; to chide, to treat with sharp language.
 Snap (v. int.) To fall asunder, to break at once; to catch at with eagerness.
 Snap (s. from the verb) The act of breaking with a quick motion; the sound of any thing broken at once; a quick eager bite, a catch.
 Snap/dragon (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
 Snap'pance (s. a local word) A firelock. Bailey.
 Snap'ped (p. from snap) Broken short, caught at, treated with sharp language.
 Snap'per (s. from snap) One that snaps.
 Snap'ping (p. a. from snap) Breaking short, falling asunder, catching at, treating with sharp language.
 Snap'ping (s. from the part.) The act of breaking short, the sound of any thing broken short; the act of treating with sharp language.
 Snap'pish (adj. from snap) Eager to bite, peevish, sharp in reply.
 Snap'pishly (adv. from snappish) In a snappish manner.
 Snap'pishness (s. from snappish) Peevishness, tartness.
 SNAP'SACK (s. from the Swedish snapeack) A soldiers' wallet, a soldiers' bag.
 Snapt (v. t. pret. of snap) Did snap.
 Snapt (p. from snap) Snapped.
 SNARE (s. from the Swedish snara) A gin, a net, any thing set to catch an animal; any thing by which one is entangled.
 Snare (v. t. from the sub.) To intrap, to intangle; to prune timber trees. Bailey.
 Snare'd (p. from snare) Insnared, caught as in a snare, pruned as a tree.
 Snare'ing (p. a. from snare) Insnaring, catching as in a snare; pruned as a tree.
 SNARL (v. int. from the Dutch snarren) To growl as an angry animal; to speak roughly.
 Snarl (v. t. not much used) To intangle as threads, to embarrass.
 Snarl'ed (p. from snarl) Intangled, embarrassed. D. of R.
 Snarl'er (s. from snarl) One who snarls, a growling four fellow.
 Snarl'ing (p. a. from snarl) Growling, speaking roughly, entangling, embarrassing.
 Snarl'ing (s. from the part.) The act of growling as an animal in anger, the growl of an animal: a rough and sharp reply.

Snare (adj. from snare) Apt to ensnare, insidious.
Snuff (s. obsolete) The snuff of a candle. Bacon.
Snuff (s. a local word) The snuff of a candle. Bailey.
Snatch (v. t. from the Dutch snacken) To seize hastily: to transport or carry suddenly.
Snatch (v. int.) To bite, to catch eagerly.
Snatch (s. from the verb) A hasty catch; a fit of passion; a broken part, a short fit; a quib, an evasive answer.
Snatch/block (s. from snatch, and block, a sea term) A kind of pulley.
Snatched (p. from snatch) Seized hastily; rapt, transported.
Snatcher (s. from snatch) One that snatches, one that takes any thing in haste.
Snatching (p. a. from snatch) Seizing hastily, biting at any thing with eagerness.
Snatching (s. from snatch) The act of seizing hastily.
Snatchingly (adv. from snatching) Hastily, with sudden interruptions.
Snathe (v. t. a local word) To prune trees. Bailey.
Snead (s. a local word) The handle of a fith.
SNEAK (v. int. from the Sax. inican) To creep sily, to come and go as though afraid to be seen; to crouch, to behave with meanness and servility.
Sneaker (s. from sneak) One that sneaks.
SNEAK/ER (s. the derivation is not noted) A large vessel of drink. Spectator.
Sneaking (p. a. from sneak) Creeping sily, moving about as though afraid to be seen, crouching, behaving with meanness.
Sneaking (s. from the part.) The act of creeping about sily, an act of meanness and servility.
Sneakingly (adv. from sneaking) In a sneaking manner, with meanness, with servility.
Sneakingness (s. from sneaking) Meanness, servility.
Sneaks/by (s. obsolete) A sneakup. Scott.
Sneak'up (s. from sneak, obsolete) A cowardly creeping; insidious scoundrel. Shakespeare.
Sneap (v. t. perhaps from snib) To check, to reprimand, to nip. Johnson.
Sneap (s. from the verb) A check, a reprimand. Sb.
Sneaped (p. from sneap, but not used) Checked, reprimanded.
Sneaping (p. a. from sneap) Checking, reprimanding.
Sneath (s. a different spelling) A snead, the handle of a fith.
Sneb (v. t. from snib) To check. To chide. Spenser.
Snebbe (v. t. obsolete) To chide, to reprimand. Cb.
Sneb'bed (p. from sneb, but not used) Checked, reprimanded.
Sneb'bing (p. a. from sneb, but not used) Checking, reprimanding.
Snee (v. int. a local word) To abound with, to have in abundance. Bailey.
Snee (s. a cant word) A knife. "Snick and snee," a combat with knives.
Sneed (s. a different spelling) A snead, the handle of a fith.
Sneeling (p. a. from snee, a local word) Abounding with, having in abundance.
SNEER (v. int. the derivation is not obvious) To shew contempt, to insinuate contempt by the manner of expression, to utter with grimace, to discover awkward mirth; with at: as, "They sneered at every word."
Sneer (s. from the verb) A look of ridicule, a look of contempt, an expression of scorn.
Sneered (p. from sneer) Treated with ridicule, treated with scorn: with at; as, "I could not be content to be a little sneered at."
Sneering (p. a. from sneer) Looking with contempt, treating with contemptuous ridicule.
Sneering (s. from the part.) An act of contemptuous ridicule.
SNEEZE (v. int. from the Sax. niesan) To emit wind by a kind of convulsive catch through the nose.
Sneeze (s. from the verb) An audible emission of wind through the nose.
Snee'zewort (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
Snee'zing (p. a. from sneeze) Emitting wind by a kind of convulsive catch through the nose.
Sneez'ing (s. from the part.) The act of emitting wind by a convulsive catch through the nose, the noise heard in sneezing.
SNEL (adj. obsolete, from the Sax.) Presently, quickly. Chaucer.
Snele, Snell (adv. obsolete) Presently, quickly. Cb.
Snelle (v. int. an old spelling) To sneeze. Cb.

SNET (s. a hunting term) The fat of deer.
Snete (s. a different spelling) Snet, the fat of deer.
SNET'SHAM (s.) A town in Norfolk; it has a market on Friday, and is 108 miles from London.
Snet'sham (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Snet'sham made at Snet'sham.
Sne'ver (adj. a local word) Slender.
Snew (v. int. the old pret. of snow) Did snow, snowed.
Snew'ed (v. int. pret. obsolete) Snowed, abounded.
SNIB (v. t. from the Danish snibbe) To check, to chide.
Snibb (v. t. obsolete) To chide, to rebuke.
Snib'bed (p. from snib, but not used) Checked, reprimanded.
Snib'bing (p. a. from snib, but not used) Checking, reprimanding.
Snick (s. a cant word) A knife. "Snick and snee," a combat with knives.
Snick (s. from the foregoing) A small snip or cut as in hair of a beast.
SNICK/ER (v. int. the etymology is uncertain) To laugh foolishly, to laugh wantonly, to laugh contemptuously.
Snicker'ing (p. a. from snicker) Laughing wantonly, laughing silyly.
Snicker'ing (s. from the part.) A sily kind of laugh.
Snicker'snee (s. from snicker, and snee) A long knife.
Snie (v. int. a local word) To abound with, to be run with.
Snig'ger (v. int. of uncertain derivation) To laugh silyly.
Snig'gering (p. a. from snigger) Laughing silyly.
Snig'gering (s. from the part.) A sily kind of laugh.
Snig'gle (v. int. of uncertain derivation) To fish for by putting a bait to the holes in which they conceal themselves.
Snig'gling (p. a. from sniggle) Fishing for eels by putting a bait to their holes.
Snig'gling (s. from the part.) The method of fishing for eels by putting a bait to the holes in which they conceal themselves.
Snit'ches (v. t. a local word, third person) Sees.
SNIP (v. t. from the Dutch snippen) To cut at once with scissors.
Snip (s. from the verb) A single cut with scissors; a snip; a share, a snack. L'Estr.
SNIPPE (s. from the Sax. snite) A delicate little with a long bill; a fool, a blockhead.
Snipped (p. from snip) Cut at once as with scissors.
Snip'per (s. from snip) One that snips.
Snip'pet (s. from snip) A small part, a share.
Snip'nap (s. from snip, and snap) A tart dialogue.
Snitch, Snitch'el (s. a local word) A slight toss or flip.
SNITE (s. a different spelling, from the Sax. snite) A snipe.
SNITE (v. t. from the Sax. snitan) To blow the nose.
Snit'ed (p. from snite, not used of late) Blown the nose.
Snit'he'wind (s. a local word) A cutting wind.
Snit'ing (p. a. from snite) Blowing the nose.
Snit'ing (s. in falconry) A kind of sneezing as to a hawk.
Snit'le (v. t. an old word) To cut, to nip.
SNIV'EL (s. from the German snivel) The emission of charge of the nose.
Snivel (v. int. from the sub.) To run at the nose as children.
Sniv'eler (s. from snivel) One that snivels, one that cries.
Sniv'eling (p. a. from snivel) Running at the nose as a child.
Sniv'eling (s. from the part.) The running of the nose as of crying as a child.
Sniv'eller (s. from snivel, but not so analogical as sniv'eler) One that snivels.
Sniv'elling (p. a. not so analogical) Sniveling.
Sniv'elly (adj. from snivel) Running at the nose, ing, pitiful.
SNOD (s. from the Sax. snot, but now obsolete) A net, a hair lace.
Snod (adj. a local word) Neat, handsome.
Snodde (s. in old records) A smooth roll or of thread.
Snod'ly (adv. a local word) Neatly, handsomely.
Snog'malt (s. a local word) Malt free from husk.
Snook (v. int. a local word) To lurk, to lie in bush.
SNORE (v. int. from the Dutch snoreken) To snore hard through the nose as in sleep.

(s. from the verb) The noise made through the nose in sleep.
ring (p. a. from snore) Breathing hard through the nose as in sleep, lying fast asleep.
ring (s. from snore) The noise made through the nose in sleep.
RT (v. int. from the Dutch snorcken) To blow through the nose as a high mettled horse.
ring (p. a. from snort) Blowing through the nose as a high mettled horse.
ring (s. from the part.) The noise made by blowing through the nose as a high mettled horse.
RT (s. from the Sax. snote) The viscous discharge from the nose.
ter (s. a sea term) The wreath or collar of the sprit.
tier (adj. comp. of snotty) Snotty in a greater degree.
stief (adj. sup. of snotty) Snotty in the greatest degree.
ty (adj. from snot) Full of snot.
stynofed (adj. from snotty, and nose) Having a snotty nose.
UT (s. from the Dutch snuyt) The nose of a beast; the nose or end of any hollow pipe; the nose in contempt.
stufed (adj. from snout) Having a snout.
stufair (adj. an old word, from snout, and fair) Painted, set off with cosmetics. Urry.
IV (s. from the Sax. snaw) The small fleecy drops of rain frozen before they fall to the ground.
W (v. int. from the sub.) To fall in fleecy frozen drops.
W (v. t.) To scatter like snow, to produce in plenty.
W (s. a sea term) A large two masted ship.
Wapple (s.) A kind of apple.
Wball (s. from snow, and ball) A quantity of snow rolled up in a lump.
Wbroth (s. from snow, and broth) Very cold liquor; kind of fleet.
Wdrop (s. in botany) A small early white flower, the Blanthus.
Wdroptree (s. in botany) The chionanthus.
Wled (p. from snow) Scattered like snow.
Wing (p. a. from snow) Falling in snow.
Wwhite (adj. from snow, and white) White as snow.
Wwy (adj. from snow) White like snow, abounding with snow.
W (s. from the Dutch sniebbe a nose) A jag, a knot of wood.
W (v. t. from the sub.) To check, to reprimand, to rebuke.
W (v. int.) To fob.
Wob (s. an old spelling) A snub. Spenser.
Wobled (p. from snub) Checked, nipped.
Wobling (p. a. from snub) Checking, reprimanding, nipping, fobbing.
Wobling (s. from the part.) A reprimand, a check; a rebuke.
Wnosed (adj. from snub, and nose) Having a flat nose, having the nose turned upwards.
WGE (v. int. from the Danish sniger) To lie idle, to loiter; to walk with downward looks.
Wge (s. from the verb) A down looking person.
WFF (s. from the Dutch snuff) That part of the candle that appears rather above the flame, a candle nearly burnt out; powder taken by the nose; resentment, resentment expressed by tossing up the nose.
WFF (v. t. from the Dutch snuffen) To draw in with the breath, to smell; to crop the candle.
W (v. int.) To draw breathe by the nose, to snort; to snuff in contempt.
Wbox (s. from snuff, and box) A box to carry snuff.
Wted (p. from snuff) Drawn in with the air, scented, puffed as a candle.
Wrs (s. from snuff) The instrument with which the candle is snuffed.
Wing (p. a. from snuff) Drawing with the breath, snuffing; cropping the candle; expressing resentment.
Wing (s. from the part.) The act of drawing with the breath, the act of cropping the snuff of a candle, the act of expressing resentment.
WPLE (v. int. from the Dutch snuffelan) To speak through the nose, to breathe hard through the nose.
Wing (p. a. from snuff) Speaking through the nose, breathing hard through the nose.
Wing (s. from the part.) The act of speaking through the nose, the act of breathing hard through the nose.

Snuffmaker (s. from snuff, and maker) One who makes snuff.
Snufftaker (s. from snuff, and taker) One who takes snuff.
Snufftaking (s. from snuff, and take) The act or practice of taking snuff.
SNUG (v. int. from the Dutch sniger) To lie close, to snudge.
Snug (adj. from the verb) Close, free from inconvenience, concealed; foolishly close.
Snugger (adj. comp. of snug) Snug in a greater degree.
Snuggest (adj. sup. of snug) Snug in the greatest degree.
Snug'ging (p. a. from snug) Lying close, snudging.
Snug'gle (v. int. from snug) To lie close, to lie warm.
Snug'gle (v. t.) To receive into the bosom, to receive into a snug place.
Snug'gled (p. from snuggle) Received into the bosom, received into a snug place.
Snug'gling (p. a. from snuggle) Lying close together, receiving into a snug place.
Snugg'ling (s. from the part.) The act of receiving into the bosom, the act of lying close.
Snurl (s. a local word) A cold in the head. Cole.
Snush (s. a local word) Snuff. Bailey.
Snutnosed (adj. perhaps from snot, and nose) Having a flat nose. Scott.
Snyffith (v. int. obsolete) Snuffeth. Chaucer.
SO (adv. from the Sax. swa) In such a manner, in like manner, to such a degree; in the same manner, in the same degree; thus, in this manner; on these terms, on this condition; at this point, at this time; in comparison, by comparison: "So much as," however much. "So then," therefore, thus it is that.
SO (conj.) Well, supposing it thus; provided that; therefore.
SO (s. from the Egyptian) A measure of grain; the name of a man. 2 Kings.
So (s. a local word) A large tub with two ears to be carried on a staff. Bailey.
Soa (s. a local word) A tub with two ears to be carried on a staff between two. Bailey.
SOAK (v. int. from the Sax. soecian) To lie steeped in moisture, to enter gradually as by the pores; to drink intemperately.
Soak (v. t.) To moisten, to steep, to drench; to drain, to exhaust. Wotton.
Soaked (p. from soak) Steeped, drenched.
Soaking (p. a. from soak) Steeping, entering by degrees into the pores; drenching, drinking immoderately.
Soaking (s. from the part.) The act of steeping, the act of drinking immoderately.
Soal (s. not so common a spelling) A sole, the name of a fish. Dict. of Arts.
Soal'fish (s. not so common a spelling) The sole. Dict. of A.
Soam, Soame (s. a local word) A horse load. Phillips.
SOAP (s. from the Lat. sôpa) A well known substance used in washing cloaths made of the lie of vegetable ashes and any fat or unctuous matter.
Soap (v. t. from the sub.) To rub any thing with soap.
Soap'ashes (s. from soap, and ashes) The substance that remains after the soapboiler has drawn his lie.
Soap'boiler (s. from soap, and boiler) One that makes soap.
Soap'boiling (adj. from soap and boil) Making soap, boiling soap; used in boiling soap, belonging to the art of making soap.
Soap'boiling (s. from the adj.) The art or mystery of making soap.
Soap'earth (s. in natural history) A kind of fuller's earth.
Soaped (p. from soap) Rubbed with soap.
Soap'ery (s. from soap) The place where soap is made.
Soap'ier (adj. comp. of soapy) Soapy in a greater degree.
Soap'iest (adj. sup. of soapy) Soapy in the greatest degree.
Soaping (p. a. from soap) Rubbing with soap.
Soaping (s. from the part.) The act of rubbing with soap.
Soap'lee (s. from soap, and lee) The liquor which remains after the soap is boiled.
Soap'lie (s. from soap, and lie) The lie used in making soap.
Soap'rack (s. in natural history) The soapearth.
Soap'tuds (s. from soap, and tuds) The water impregnated with soap in which cloaths are washed.
Soap'wort (s. in botany) A species of campion.
Soap'y (adj. from soap) Like soap, covered with soap.
SOAR (v. int. from the Italian, sorace) To fly aloft, to rise high; to mount intellectually, to tower with the mind.

Soar (s. from the verb) A towering flight. Milton.
Soar'age (s. from soar, and age) The first year of a hawk.
Soar'hawk (s. from soar, and hawk) A hawk of the first year, a hawk before it has first renewed its feathers.
Soar'ing (p. a. from soar) Mounting high, flying aloft.
Soar'ing (s. from the part.) The act of mounting aloft.
SOAVE (adj. from the Italian) Sweet, agreeable to the ear.
Soa'vement (adv. in music) Sweetly, agreeably to the ear.
SOB (v. int. from the Sax. seob complaining) To heave with sorrow, to sigh with convulsion.
Sob (s. from the verb) A convulsive sigh, the act of respiration interrupted by sorrow.
Sob (v. t. a cant word) To wet, to soak with wet.
Sobb'ed (p. from sob) Soaked, drenched in wet. Mort.
Sobb'ing (p. a. from sob) Heaving a convulsive sigh; soaking.
Sobb'ing (p. a. from sob) The act of heaving a convulsive sigh, a convulsive sigh repeated.
SO'BER (adj. from the Lat. sobrius) Temperate, moderate in the use of liquors, not intoxicated with liquor; calm, dispassionate, right in the intellect; serious, grave.
So'ber (v. t. from the adj.) To bring to the proper exercise of reason. Pope.
So'bered (p. from the verb) Made sober.
So'berer (adj. comp. of sober) Sober in a greater degree.
So'berest (adj. sup. of sober) Sober in the greatest degree.
So'berly (adv. from sober) Temperately, moderately, calmly, coolly.
So'berness (s. from sober) Temperance, calmness, coolness.
So'berlike (adv. obsolete) Soberly, gravely. Chaucer.
So'berly (adv. an obsolete spelling) Soberly. Chaucer.
Sobri'ety (s. from sober) Temperance, soberness, calmness, coolness, seriousness, gravity.
SOC (s. a law term, from the French, soc a ploughshare) Jurisdiction, power, privilege; duty, services due from tenants to their lord; toll taken at a mill.
SO'CA (s. a law term) A lordship, a privileged place.
So'cage (s. from soc) An ancient tenure by which the tenants were obliged to cultivate the lands of their lord.
So'cager (s. from socage) A tenant who held in socage.
SOC'CUS (s. in antiquity) A kind of high shoe worn by comedians.
SOC'HIS (s.) A man's name, an Egyptian king who raised four obelisks in honour of the sun.
Sociability (s. from sociable) Sociableness.
SO'CIABLE (adj. from the Lat. socius a companion) Inclined to company, ready to unite for general interest, fit to be conjoined; friendly, familiar.
So'ciableness (s. from sociable) The state of being sociable.
So'ciably (adv. from sociable) In a sociable manner.
SO'CIAL (adj. from the Lat. socius a companion) Relating to society, inclined to society, confining in union or conversation with others.
So'cially (adv. from social, but not much used) In a social manner.
So'cialness (s. from social) The state of being social.
Society (s. from social) The union of many in one general interest, community; company, converse; partnership, union on equal terms.
Socin'ian (adj. from Socinus) Belonging to the doctrine of Socinus.
Socin'ian (s. from the adj.) One who follows or embraces the peculiar doctrines of Socinus.
Socin'ianism (s. from Socinian) The doctrine of Socinus who denied the proper divinity and atonement of Jesus Christ.
SOCINUS (s.) A man's name; the head of a sect in the sixth century who denied the divinity and satisfaction of Christ.
SOCK (s. from the Sax. soce) Something worn between the foot and the shoe; the high shoe of the ancient comedians.
Sock (v. t. a low word) To beat. Scott.
SOCK (s. a local word, from the French, soc) A ploughshare. Bailey.
Sock'age (s. a different spelling) Sockage. D. H. of Arts.
SOCK'ET (s. from the French, fouchette) A hollow that receives something inserted; the receptacle of the eye.
Sock'etchisel (s. from socket, and chisel) A chisel with a socket to receive the handle.
Sock'man (s. a different spelling) A socman, a foccager.
Sock'men (s. plu.) More than one socman.
SOOLE (s. in architecture) A flat square member forming the base or lower part of a pedestal.

Soc'man (s. from soc, and man) One who holds a foccage.
Soc'men (s. plu.) More than one socman.
SOC'NA (s. from the Sax. foca) A privilege, a franchise.
SOC'OH (s. from the Heb. signifying tents) The name of a city. J. B. 10.
Soc'ome (s. an old law term) A custom by which the tenants were obliged to grind their corn at the lord's mill.
Soc'ord (adj. a local word) Idle.
Soc'ord (s. a local word) Idleness.
Soc'our (s. an old spelling) Succour. Chaucer.
SOCQUE (s. from the French) A kind of clog or pattern worn by friars.
SOCRATES (s.) A man's name, a famous Athenian philosopher.
Socratic (adj. from Socrates) Belonging to the philosophy and religion taught by Socrates.
SOD (s. from the Dutch soed) A turf, a clod.
Sod (v. t. pret. of seethe) Did seethe.
SO'DA (s. with physicians) A distempered heat of the stomach; a terrible pain of the head.
Sod'ainliche (adv. obsolete) Suddenly. Chaucer.
Sodalitous (adj. from sodality) Pertaining to society.
SODALITY (s. from the Lat. sodalis a companion) Society, fellowship, fraternity.
SOD'BURY (s.) A town in Gloucestershire; it has market on Thursday, and is 111 miles from London.
Sod'bury (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Sodbury made at Sodbury.
Sod'den (v. from sod) Boiled, seethed.
Sod'denwitted (adj.) From sodden, and wit) Soft, deficient in wit. Shakespeare.
Sod'der (s. a different spelling) Soder, metallic cement.
Sod'der (v. t. from the sub.) To soder.
Sod'dered (p. from soder) Sodered.
Sod'dering (p. a. from soder) Sodering.
Sod'denly (adv. an old spelling) Suddenly. Chaucer.
SOD'ER (v. t. from the Dutch soderen) To join with some metallic matter.
Sod'er (s. from the verb) A metallic cement, that with which any metal is sodered.
Sod'ered (p. from soder) Joined together by some metallic cement.
Sod'ering (p. a. from soder) Joining with metallic cement.
Sod'ering (s. from the part.) The act of joining with metallic cement, that part which is joined by a metallic cement.
SO'DI (s. from the Heb. signifying my secret) A man's name.
SOD'OM (s. from the Heb. signifying their secret) The name of a city famous for its overthrow by fire from heaven.
Sod'omapple (s. from Sodom, and apple) A fabulous fruit said to be fair to the eye but full of dust and smoke within.
Sod'omite (s. from Sodom) An inhabitant of Sodom; one guilty of sodomy.
Sodomitical (adj. from sodomite) Pertaining to sodomy; guilty of sodomy.
Sodomiticalness (s. from sodomitical) The guilt of sodomy.
Sodomitish (adj. from Sodom) Belonging to Sodom.
Sod'omy (s. from Sodom) The sin of sodomy, the natural sin of buggery.
SO'FA (s. the derivation is not noted) A splendid seat covered with carpets.
SO'FEL (s. in Turkey) One of a kind of puritanical among the Mussulmen.
SO'FIT (s. in architecture) A plafoond, the under face of an architrave, the lacunar, the drip. Di. of Arch.
So'fita (s. from soffit) The soffit. Di. of Arch.
Sofficente (adj. an old spelling) Sufficient. Chaucer.
SO'FIT, SO'FITO (s. a different spelling) The soffit.
SOFT (adj. from the Sax.) Void of hardness, having no nels; smooth, easy; facile, flexible; mild, gentle; civil, compliant; placid, still; effeminate, too nervous; weak, simple; gentle, low in sound; tender, rous; wanting force.
Soft (v. int. used only imperatively) Hold, stop. "Soft my muse."
Soft'en (v. t. from soft) To make soft.
Soft'en (v. int.) To grow less hard.
Soft'ened (p. from soften) Made soft.
Soft'ening (p. a. from soften) Making soft.
Soft'ening (s. from the part.) The act of making soft.
Soft'er (adj. comp. of soft) Soft in a greater degree.
Soft'est (adj. sup. of soft) Soft in the greatest degree. Sp.

SOL

SOL

SOL (adj. from soft) Somewhat soft.
SOL (adv. from soft) With softness.
SOL (s. from soften) One that softens, that which softens.
SOL (s. from soft) The state or quality of being soft, mildness, civility, effeminacy, pusillanimity.
SOL (adj. obsolete) Subject, liable to. Chaucer.
SOL (s. in music) A song, a melody referring to some particular subject, the song to which the music is adapted; a kind of fugue.
SOL (s.) A town in Cambridgeshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 70 miles from London.
SOL (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Soham, made at Soham.
SOL (interj. from so, and ho) Implying a call from a distance.
SOL (s. obsolete) Care, diligence. Chaucer.
SOL (v. t. from the Sax. filian) To foul, to dirt; to dung, to manure.
SOL (s. from the verb) Dirt, pollution, foulness.
SOL (s. from the Lat. solum) The ground, the earth in which any thing grows; land, country, dung, compost.
SOL (adj. from soil, and bound) Having the surface made hard by continued rains.
SOL (v. t. obsolete) To abolve. Chaucer.
SOL (s. from soil) Foulness. Bacon.
SOL (s. from soil) A stain, a pollution. Shakespeare.
SOL (adj. from soil) Dirty, foul.
SOL (s. obsolete) A stay, an abode, a residence.
SOL (v. int. from the French sojourner, nearly out of use) To reside for a time.
SOL (s. from the verb, sometimes accented on the last syllable) A temporary residence. Milton.
SOL (s. from sojourner) One that sojourns, one who resides for a time.
SOL (p. a. from sojourner) Residing but for a time.
SOL (s. from the part.) The act of residing but for a time.
SOL (v. int. used in giving the royal assent, from the French) Let it be, be it so.
SOL (s. a different spelling) Soc, jurisdiction, power, privilege.
SOL (s. a different spelling) Soc, privilege; lordship. Dict. of Arts.
SOL (v. t. a different spelling) To soak. Scott.
SOL (s. from soke, and man) One who holds in socage.
SOL (s. from sokeman) Socage.
SOL (s. plu.) More than one sokeman, tenants holding by socage. Bailey.
SOL (s. an old word) Trade, dealing. Phillips.
SOL (s. from soke) A soaker, a toper.
SOL (s. from soke, and reeve) The rent gatherer in the soke. Chaucer.
SOL (s. obsolete) Slacked.
SOL (s. from skil) The custom to a mill.
SOL (p. a. obsolete) Slacking, skilking. Chaucer.
SOL (adv. from ioking, obsolete) Gently, leisurely. Chaucer.
SOL (s. from the Lat.) The sun. With chymists, gold.
SOL (s. in music) The name of one of the notes in sol-fa.
SOL (s.) Sou, a French coin made of copper and silver, the twentieth part of a livre.
SOL (s. from the Lat. solatium) Comfort, pleasure, recreation.
SOL (v. t. from the sub.) To comfort, to cheer; to amuse.
SOL (v. int.) To take comfort. Shakespeare.
SOL (p. from solace) Comforted, cheered, recreat d.
SOL (s. in Turkey) The footguards of the Grand Signior.
SOL (p. a. from solace) Comforting, cheering, recreating.
SOL (s. in anatomy) One of the muscles which extend the foot.
SOL (s. with carriers) A disease incident to hares, a kind of dry scab in the bent of the ham.
SOL (s. in botany) The rivinia.
SOL (s. in botany) The nightshade, a genus of plants.
SOL (adj. from sol the sun) Belonging to the sun, born under the influence of the sun, measured by the sun, med with the sun.
SOL (s. from the adj.) An upper room, a solarium.

SOLARIS (s. in anatomy) The solæus.
SOLARIUM (s. in old records) An upper room, a garret.
SOLARIUM (s. from the Lat.) A sun dial; a walk exposed to the sun, a terrace walk.
SOLARY (adj. from solar) Belonging to the sun, solar. Br.
SOLARY (s. from the adj.) A solarium, a fundial.
SOLAS (s. an old spelling) Solace, comfort. Chaucer.
SOLD (v. t. pret. of tell) Did tell.
SOLD (p. from sell) Exchanged for a price, alienated for a valuable consideration.
SOLD (s. obsolete) Military pay, warlike entertainment. Sp.
SOLDAN (s. from sultan) The emperor of the Turks, the sultan. Milton.
SOLDANEL (s. in botany, from foldanella) The name of a plant.
SOLDANELLA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.
SOLDIER (v. t. not so common a spelling, from the Italian soldare) To foder.
SOLDIER (s. from the verb, not so common a spelling) Soder.
SOLDIER (p. from folder) Sodered.
SOLDIERER (s. from folder) One that foders.
SOLDIERING (p. a. from folder) Sodering.
SOLDIERING (s. from the part.) The act of fodering, the part fodered.
SOLDIER (s. from the Lat. solidus the pay of a soldier) One who performs military service for pay; a warrior; a common man in a regiment.
SOLDIERLIKE (adj. from soldier, and like) Like a soldier, martial, warlike.
SOLDIERLY (adj. from soldier) Martial, warlike.
SOLDIERSHIP (s. from soldier) A military character, behaviour suited to a soldier.
SOLDIERY (s. from soldier) A body of military men, the army; soldiery, military skill.
SOLDURRI (s. in antiquity) A kind of military clients or dependants on great men.
SOLE (s. from the Lat. solum the ground) The bottom of the foot, the foot, the bottom of a shoe; that part of any thing which touches the ground.
SOLE (s. in ichthyology) The name of a delicate sea fish.
SOLE (v. t. from the sub.) To furnish with new soles.
SOLE (adj. from the Lat. solus) Alone, single. In law, unmarried.
SOLE (s. a sea term) The lower side of a gun port.
SOLE (s. in ichthyology) The sole.
SOLE (s. in antiquity) A kind of slippers.
SOLICITED (adj. from sole) Furnished with shoes, shod.
SOLICISM (s. from the Greek σολισμός) A barbarism, an impropriety in language, an improper mixture of language.
SOLID (p. from sole) Furnished with new soles.
SOLIGRAVE (s. an old word) February. Cole.
SOLINE (adj. obsolete) Solitary, alone. Chaucer.
SOLLEY (adv. from sole) Only, singly.
SOLEM (adj. from the Lat. solemn) Religiously grave, awful, strikingly serious; grave, affectedly serious.
SOLEMNER (adj. comp. of solemn) Solemn in a greater degree.
SOLEMNESS (s. from solemn) The state or quality of being solemn. Wotton.
SOLEMNEST (adj. sup. of solemn) Solemn in the greatest degree.
SOLEMNITY (s. from solemn) Religious gravity, an awful or religious ceremony, a manner of acting with awful seriousness, awful grandeur, gravity, affected gravity.
SOLEMNIZATION (s. from solemnize) A celebration, the act of solemnizing.
SOLEMNIZE (v. t. from solemn) To dignify by solemnities, to perform religiously.
SOLEMNIZED (p. from solemnize) Performed with religious solemnities.
SOLEMNIZING (p. a. from solemnize) Performing with religious solemnities.
SOLEMNIZING (s. from the part.) The act of performing with religious solemnities.
SOLEMNLY (adv. from solemn) With solemnity, in a solemn manner.
SOLEMPNE (adj. obsolete) Solemn. Chaucer.
SOLEMPNELY (adv. obsolete) Solemnly. Chaucer.
SOLLEN (s. from the Greek) A kind of frame in which a broken leg is set.
SOLLEN (s. in ichthyology) The razorfish, a shellfish resembling a razor.
SOLERE (s. an old spelling) A solar, an upper room. Chaucer.
SOLETAN (s. from sole, and tenant) One who holds in his own right.
SOLEVATION (s. not used) The act of lifting up. Cole.
SOLFA (v. t. from sol, and fa) To call over the notes of a tune by their proper names.
SOLFAED (p. from solfa) Called over as the notes of a tune by

SOL

SOM

by their proper names so as to distinguish the places of the semitones.

Solfa'ing (p. a. from solfa) Calling over the notes of a tune so as to distinguish the proper places of the half notes.

Solfa'ing (s. from the part.) The method of calling over the notes of a tune so as to determine the proper places of the semitones.

Solfe' (v. t. a different spelling) To solfa. Cole.

SOLICIT (v. t. from the Lat. sollicito) To intreat, to intreat with earnestness; to implore, to ask; to summon, to awake, to excite; to attempt, to endeavour to obtain; to disturb, to disquiet. Milton.

Solicitation (s. from sollicit) Importunity, an excitement, an invitation.

Solicited (p. from sollicit) Importuned, intreated, importuned, excited.

Soliciting (p. a. from sollicit) Importuning, intreating, inviting.

Soliciting (s. from the part.) the act of importuning.

Solicitor (s. from sollicit) One who intreats for another; one who acts the part of an attorney in courts of judicature.

Sollicitous (adj. from sollicit) Anxious, careful, concerned; with about, of, and for: as, "Be not solicitous about that matter." "We are not solicitous of the opinions and censures of men." "He was solicitous for his advice."

Solicitously (adv. from solicitous) With solicitude, with anxiety.

Solicitouness (s. from solicitous) The state of being solicitous. Scott.

Solici'tress (s. from sollicitor) A female who solicits for another.

Sollicitude (s. from sollicit) Anxiety, carefulness.

SOLID (adj. from the Lat. solidus) Compact, dense, having consistence, having solidity, full of matter, having no hollowness; strong, firm; real, true, substantial; grave, profound.

Solid (s. from the adi. in philosophy and mathematics) A body whose parts are connected so as not to give way on a slight impression; a figure or body which hath three dimensions, or length, breadth and thickness.

Solid (s. mostly used in the p.u. with physicians) That part of an animal body which contains the fluids.

SOLIDA'GO (s. in botany) The golden rod, a genus of plants.

Solidation (s. from solid) The act of making solid. Sc.

Solider (adj. comp. of solid) Solid in a greater degree.

Solideft (adj. sup. of solid) Solid in the greatest degree.

Solidity (s. from solid) Firmness, hardness, fulness of matter; the dimensions, the solid content; truth, certainty; gravity, appearance of ferociousness.

Solidly (adv. from solid) Firmly, densely, compactly; truly, really, on good grounds.

Solidness (s. from solid) Solidity.

SOLIDO (s. a law term) A bond or obligation for the whole.

SOLIDUM (s. from the Lat.) The whole, the full amount.

SOLIDUN'GULOUS (adj. from the Lat. solidus solid, and ungula a hoof) Having the hoof entire, having no division in the hoof.

SOLIDUS (s. from the Lat.) An entire or whole piece of coin.

SOLIFID'IAN (s. from the Lat. solus alone, and fides faith) One who holds that faith only is necessary to justification.

Solifidianism (s. from solifidian) The doctrine of the solifidians, the doctrine of justification by faith alone.

SOLIFUGA (s. a different spelling) The solifuge.

SOLIFUGE (s. from the Lat. sol the sun, and fugio to fly) A venomous insect found in the silvermines of Sardinia.

SOLILOQUY (s. from the Lat. solus alone, and loquer to speak) A discourse made by one alone to himself.

Solling (p. a. from sole) Furnishing with new soles.

Solling (s. from the part.) The act of putting new soles on shoes.

SOLIPED, SOLIPEDE' (s. from the Lat. solus whole, and pes a foot) An animal whose hoof or foot is entire.

SOLIFUGA (s. from the Lat. sol the sun, and pingo to prick) The solifuge, a kind of pismire so called because it stings most vehemently in the heat of the sun.

SOLISE'QUIOUS (s. from the Lat. sol the sun, and sequor to follow) Following the sun. Cole.

SOLISTIME (s. from the Lat. solistimum) A kind of augury derived from the manner in which chickens dropped the corn from their bills in greedily feeding. Cole.

SOLITAIRE (s. from the French) An ornament for the neck; a recluse, an hermit.

Solita'neous (adj. not used) Solitary.

Solita'neously (adv. from solitary) In solitude, without company.

Solitariness (s. from solitary) Solitude, habitual retirement.

SOLITARY (adj. from the Lat. solitarius) Living alone, retired from company; single; gloomy, dismal.

Solitary (s. from the adj.) An hermit, one that lives alone.

Solitaryworm (s. from solitary, and worm) A worm in the bowels which extends the whole length of the intestines.

SOLITAURIL'IA (s. from the Lat.) The sacrifices offered by the censors every five years when they numbered and taxed the people.

SOLITUDE (s. from the Lat. solitudo) The state of being alone, lonely life; a lonely place, a desert.

SOLIVA'GANT (adj. from the Lat. solus alone, and vagari to wander) Wandering alone, solitary.

Soliva'gous (adj. from solivagant) Wandering alone, roaming about in a solitary manner.

Sollar (s. from solarium) An upper room, a garret.

SOLLIC'ITO (s. from the Italian) Grief, sorrow.

SOLLO (s. from the Italian) A tune performed by a single voice or instrument.

SOL'CEISM (s. a different spelling) A solecism, an impropriety of language.

Solæcis'mical (adj. from solæcism) Belonging to a solecism.

SOL'CEOPH'ANES (s. from the Greek) A seeming impropriety in language.

SOL'OMON (s. from the Heb. signifying peaceable) A man's name.

Sol'omonsleaf (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

Sol'omonsseal (s. in botany) The name of a plant.

SOL'STICE (s. from the Lat. sol the sun, and sto to stand) The point in the ecliptic which recedes most of all from the equinoctial, the tropical point, the longest day in summer or the shortest in winter.

Solstit'ial (adj. from solstice) Belonging to the solstice, happening at the solstice.

SOL'ON (s.) The name of a man, one of the wise men of Greece.

SOL'VABLE (adj. from the Lat. solvo to pay, but not correct a feeling) solvible, capable of being solved, capable of being paid.

Solvableness (s. from solvable) The state of being able to pay.

Solubility (s. from soluble) The state of being soluble.

SOLUBLE (adj. from the Lat. solubilis) Capable of dissolution, capable of having the parts dissolved.

SOLVE (v. t. from the Lat. solvo) To clear, to explain, to render intelligible.

Solved (p. from solve) Cleared, explained, rendered intelligible.

Solvency (s. from solvent) Ability to pay.

SOLVENT (adj. from the Lat. solvo to clear) Having dissolving power; able to perform contracts, able to pay debts.

Solving (p. a. from solve) Clearing, explaining, rendering intelligible.

Solving (s. from the part.) The act of resolving, a solution.

Solundgoose (s. in ornithology) A kind of goose.

Solution (s. from solve) A disjunction of parts, a separation; matter dissolved, that which contains nothing dissolved; the resolution of a doubt, the removal of an intellectual difficulty.

Solutive (adj. from solve) Causing a solution, relaxing.

Solving (s. obsolete) Sense, the sense of feeling. Chaucer.

Solmar (s. an old spelling) The summer.

SOMAT'IC (adj. from the Greek σωμα a body) Corporeal, real, belonging to a body.

Somat'ical (adj. from somatic) Corporeal, substantial.

SOMATOL'OGY (s. from the Greek σωμα a body, and λογος a description) The doctrine of material substances.

Som'dell (adv. obsolete) Somewhat, in some measure.

SOME (adj. from the Sax. som) Indeterminate in number, indeterminate in quantity, more or less; indeterminate as to which; uncertain, not exactly terminated.

Some (adv. from the adj.) Nearly, there about, "a village of some eighty houses." But this use and construction of the word are now grown obsolete.

me (s. from the adj.) Certain persons, certain people, a part. "Not in the neighbouring moon as some have dreamed."

me/body (s. from some, and body) A single person, a person indiscriminate, an individual; a person of consideration, a person of some importance.

me/deal (adv. obsolete) In some degree.

me/how (adv. from some, and how) In one way or other.

me/fault (s. from summer a beam, and fault a leap) A leap in which a person throws himself from a beam and turns over his head.

me/rieth (s. a corrupt spelling) The somerfault. Johnson.

OMERSET (s.) Somerethshire, one of the counties of England. "In the county of Somerset."

OMERSETSHIRE (s. from Somerset, and shire) One of the western counties of England; it is a large and rich shire, affording great plenty of corn and cattle, lead, coal, and more of the lapis calaminaris than any other county; it contains three cities, thirty market towns, and three hundred and eighty five parishes, and sends eighteen members to parliament, two for the county, two for each of the cities Bristol, Bath, and Wells, and the boroughs Taunton, Bridgewater, Ilchester, Milbourn-port, and Minehead.

om'erletshire (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the county of Somerset, produced in the county of Somerset.

OM'ERTON (s.) A town formerly the capital of Somerethshire; it has a market on Tuesday, and is 127 miles from London.

om'erton (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Somerton, made at Somerton.

ome'thing (s. from some, and thing) A thing indetermined, a matter indetermined; a small matter, a small space, a part.

ome'thing (adv. from the Lat.) In some degree. "He was something discouraged." Temple.

ome'time (s. from some, and time) An indeterminate space of time.

ome'time (adv. from the sub.) Once, formerly.

ome'times (adv. from sometime) Now and then, at one time or another.

ome'what (s. from some, and what) Something, a part greater or less.

ome'what (adv. from the sub.) In some degree.

ome'where (adv. from some, and where) In one place or other, in some undetermined place.

ome'while (adv. from some, and while, but now grown obsolete) Once, for some time.

ome'whilone (s. obsolete) Some one. Bailey.

om'ir (s. an old spelling) The summer. Chaucer.

om'me (s. an old spelling) A sum. Chaucer.

om'mons (s. a different spelling) A summons. Phillips.

OMNAM'BULI (s. from the Lat. fomnus sleep, and ambulo to walk) Persons who walk in their sleep.

omnam'bulo (s. from fomnabuli) One who walks in his sleep.

OMNIC'ULOUS (adj. from the Lat. fomniculosus) Drowsy, sleepy. Scott.

OMNIF'ERA (s. from the Lat. fomnus sleep, and fero to bring) Opiates.

OMNIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. fomnus sleep, and fero to bring) Producing sleep, causing sleep.

OMNIF'IC (adj. from the Lat. fomnus sleep, and facio to make) Causing sleep.

OMNIFUGOUS (adj. from the Lat. fomnus sleep, and fugo to fly) Driving away sleep.

OMINOLENCE (s. from the Lat. fomnolentia) An inclination to sleep, sleepiness.

om'nolency (s. from fomnolence) An inclination to sleep.

OMNOLEN'TIA (s. with physicians, from the Lat.) A morbid drowsiness, an inclination to sleep.

OMNUS (s. from the Lat.) Sleep; the supposed God of sleep.

OMPHOS (s. in botany) A kind of wild gourd.

om'pne (v. t. obsolete) To summon. Chaucer.

om'pneur (s. obsolete) An apparitor. Chaucer.

SON (s. from the Sax. suna) A male begotten of one, a male born of one, the correlative of a father or mother; a male dependant; the native of a country; the compellation of an old to a young man; the second person in the Godhead; the produce of any thing; one distinguished by his adherence to any particular cause, party or affection. "A son of liberty." "The son of pride."

ONA (s. from the Italian) A sound considered as the object of music.

ON'ABLE (adj. from the Lat. sono to sound) Capable of being founded. Scott.

ONATA (s. from sona) A musical composition performed by instruments only.

SON'CHILES (s. in botany) A kind of hawkweed.

SON'CHOS (s. in botany) The sowthille.

SON'CHUS (s. in botany) A genus of plants, the sowthistle.

Sond, Sonde (s. an old spelling) Sand; a message, something sent. Chaucer.

Sond'id (p. obsolete) Sanded, gravelled. Chaucer.

Sond'in (v. t. obsolete) To send. Chaucer.

Sone (s. an old spelling) A son, the sun. Chaucer.

Sone (adv. an old spelling) Soon. Chaucer.

Son'eneffe (s. obsolete) Noise, sound. Chaucer.

Son'esse (s. an old word) Noise. Cole.

Son'ful (s. a local word) A handful of corn. Bailey.

SONG (s. from the Sax. gefungen) A ballad, a poem to be modulated with the voice; a poem, a lay; poetry, poesy; the notes of birds, a tune, any thing modulated by the voice. An old song, a trifle.

Song'edest (v. int. pret. second person sing. obsolete) Didst sing. Chaucer.

Song'ish (adj. from song) Containing songs. Dryden.

Son'gle (s. a local word) A handful of gleaned corn.

Song'ler (s. from song) A singer, a singer with slight contempt.

SONIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. sonus a sound, and fero to bring) Producing sound. Derham.

Son'inlaw (s. from son, in, and law) One married to one's daughter.

So'nir (adv. obsolete) Sooner. Chaucer.

Son'ken (p. obsolete) Sunk.

SON'NA (s.) A book of Mahometan traditions held sacred by the Mussulmen.

SON'NAH (s.) The sonna. Scott.

Sonne (s. obsolete) A son, the sun. Chaucer.

SON'NET (s. from the Italian sonnetto) A short poem, a small kind of poem.

Sonneteer (s. from sonnet) A writer of sonnets, a small poet, a poet in contempt.

Son'nihe (adj. obsolete) Yellow, resembling the sun-shine. Chaucer.

Son'nites (s. from sonna) Those among the Mahometans who adhere to the traditions of the Sonna.

SONORIFIC (adj. from the Lat. sonorus sounding, and facio to make) Producing sound.

SONO'ROUS (adj. from the Lat. sono to sound) Sounding loud, founding full, high sounding, magnificent of sound.

Sono'rously (adv. from sonorous) With high sound, with magnificent sound.

Sono'roushels (s. from sonorous) The state or quality of being sonorous.

Son'ship (s. from son) The character of a son, the state of being a son, filiation.

Son'tage (s. an old word) A tax of forty shillings on every knight's fee; coarse cloth for making bags.

Son'tick (adj. an old word) Hurtful. Bailey.

Son'tirel (s. an old word) A shining lock of hair. Cole.

Sool (s. a local word) Anything eaten with bread. Bar.

SOON (adv. from the Sax. sona) Shortly, speedily, shortly after any assignable time; early, before any time supposed; readily, willingly. Soon as, immediately, at the very time.

Soon (adj. from the adv.) Speedy, quick. "A soon and prosperous issue." Sidney.

Soon'er (adv. comp. of soon) In a shorter space of time; with greater willingness.

Soon'er (adj. comp. of soon, but not much used) Soon, speedy, done in less time.

Soo'nest (adv. sup. of soon) In the shortest time.

Soo'nest (adj. sup. of soon) Speediest, done in the least time; but this perhaps is improper.

Soon'ly (adv. from soon) Speedily, quickly. More.

Soop (s. not so correct a spelling) Soup, a kind of portage.

Soop'berry (s. in botany) The name of a plant. Miller.

SOOT (s. from the Sax. sot) Condensed smoke, the black substance which gathers in a chimney.

Soot (v. t. from the sub.) To cover with soot, to soil with soot.

Soote (adj. obsolete) Sweet. Spenser.

Soote (adv. obsolete) Sweetly. Spenser.

Soot'ed (p. from soot) Covered with soot, manured with soot, soiled with soot.

Soot'erkin (s. from soot) A fabulous and false birth supposed to be produced by the Dutch women from sitting over their stoves. Scott.

SOOTH (s. from the Sax. soth, but now grown obsolete) Truth, reality. Shakespeare.

Sooth (adj. from the sub.) Pleasing, delightful.

SOOTH (v. t. from the Sax. geothian) To please, to calm, to soften, to flatter; to gratify.

Sooth'ed

Sooth'ed (p. from sooth) Pleased, calmed, flattered, gratified.

Sooth'er (s. from sooth) One who soothes.

Sooth'er (adj. comp. of sooth) Sooth in a greater degree.

Sooth'est (adj. sup. of sooth) Sooth in the greatest degree.

Soothing (p. a. from sooth) Pleasing, calming, flattering, gratifying.

Soothing (s. from the part.) The act of appeasing.

Sooth'lich (adv. obsolete) Truly.

Sooth'lay (v. int. from sooth, and lay) To predict, to foretell.

Sooth'fayer (s. from soothlay) A prognosticator, one who pretends to foretell future events.

Sooth'faying (p. a. from soothlay) Predicting, foretelling.

Sooth'faying (s. from the part.) The act or practice of foretelling future events.

Soot'ier (adj. comp. of sooty) Sooty in a greater degree.

Soot'iest (adj. sup. of sooty) Sooty in the greatest degree.

Soot'iness (s. from sooty) The state or quality of being sooty.

Soot'ing (p. a. from foot) Covering with foot, soiling with foot.

Soot'y (adj. from foot) Consisting of foot, producing foot; dark, black, dusky.

SOP (s. from the Sax.) Any thing steeped in liquor to be eaten; any thing to pacify.

Sop (v. t. from the sub.) To steep in liquor.

SOPATER (s. from the Greek σωπατορ, and πατερ a father) A man's name.

Sope (s. not so common a spelling) Soap.

Sope (v. t. not so common a spelling) To soap.

Sope (v. int. obsolete) To sup.

Sopped (p. from sope, but not so common a spelling) Soaped.

Sop'per (s. an old spelling) Supper.

Sop'pewort (s. in botany, a different spelling) The soapwort.

SOPH (s. from the Lat. sophia) A student who has been two years at the university.

Soph'eme (s. obsolete) A sophism.

SOPHI (s. from the Persian) The emperor of Persia.

SOPHIA (s.) The name of a woman.

SOPHIA (s. in botany) The flaxweed.

SOPHISM (s. from the Greek σοφισμα) A fallacious argument, a subtlety.

Soph'isms (s. obsolete) Sophisms.

SOPHIST (s. from the Greek σοφιστης) A professor of philosophy; a sophist, one who handles fallacious arguments.

Soph'ister (s. from sophist) One who uses fallacious arguments, a cunning subtle disputant; a professor of philosophy, a sophist; but this sense is now grown obsolete.

Sophistical (adj. from sophist) Fallaciously subtle, logically deceitful.

Sophistically (adv. from sophistical) With sophistry.

Sophisticane's (s. from sophistical) The state or quality of being sophistical.

Sophisticate (v. t. from sophist) To adulterate, to corrupt with something spurious.

Sophisticate (p. from the verb) Sophisticated.

Sophisticated (p. from sophisticate) Adulterated, mixed with something spurious.

Sophisticating (p. a. from sophisticate) Adulterating, mixing with something spurious.

Sophisticating (s. from the part.) An adulteration, the act of mixing with something spurious.

Sophistication (s. from sophisticate) An adulteration, a base or spurious mixture.

Sophisticator (s. from sophisticate) One that sophisticates.

Soph'istry (s. from sophist) A fallacious way of reasoning, a deceitful argumentation.

SOPHOCLES (s.) A man's name, a famous tragic poet.

SOPHORA (s. in botany) A genus of plants.

SOPH RON (s.) A man's name.

SOPHRONES TERES (s. in anatomy) The teeth that appear after a person comes to years of discretion.

SOPHRO NIA (s.) The name of a woman.

SOPHY (s. from Sophi) The sophi.

SOPHY (s.) The name of a woman.

Sop'ier (adj. comp. of sop, but not so common a spelling) Soapier.

Sop'iest (adj. sup. of sop) Soapiest.

Sop'iness (s. from sop) The state of being covered with soap, the state of abounding with soap.

SOP'IED (adj. from the Lat. sopitus) Laid to sleep.

SOP'ITIVE (adj. from the Lat. sopitivus) Causing sleep.

Sop'le (adj. obsolete) Supple, flexible.

SOPORAL (adj. in anatomy) Carotid, belonging to the carotid arteries so called because if tied up the patient immediately goes to sleep.

SOPORATE (v. t. from the Lat. soporo) To lay to sleep.

Soporated (p. from soporate) Laid to sleep.

Soporating (p. a. from soporate) Laying to sleep.

Soporative (adj. from soporate) Causing sleep.

SOPORIFEROUS (adj. from the Lat. sopor sleep, and fero to bring) Productive of sleep, causing sleep.

Soporiferousness (s. from soporiferous) The power or quality of producing sleep.

SOPORIFIC (adj. from the Lat. sopor sleep, and facio to make) Causing sleep.

Soporific (s. from the adj.) An opiate, a medicine causing sleep.

SOPOROUS (adj. from the Lat. sopor sleep) Sleepy.

Sop'ped (p. from sop) Steened in liquor.

Sop'per (s. from sop) One that sops, one that sleeps anything in liquor.

Sop'ping (p. a. from sop) Steeping in liquor.

Sop'ping (s. from the part.) The act of steeping in liquor.

Sop'y (s. from sope) Covered with soap; having the qualities of soap.

Sor (s. in falconry) A forehawk.

SORB (s. in botany) The servitree; the fruit of the servitree.

Sorb'annie (s. from sorb, and apple) The fruit of the servitree.

SOR/BILE (adj. from the Lat. sorbeo to sup) Capable of being sopped up.

SORBITION (s. from the Lat. sorbeo to sup) The act of sopping, the act of drinking up.

SORBONNE (s. from the French) A famous university at Paris.

Sor'bonnique (s. from Sorbonne) An act of divinity so called because kept in the hall of the Sorbonne.

Sor'bonnist (s. from Sorbonne) A member of the Sorbonne.

Sorb'ree (s. in botany) The servitree, the sorbus.

SOR/BUS (s. in botany) The servitree, a genus of plants.

SOR/CERER (s. from the French sorcier) A conjurer, a magician.

Sor'cerers (s. from sorcerer) An enchantress, a female magician.

Sorcery (s. from sorcerer) Magic, enchantment, conjuration, witchcraft.

Sord (s. a local word, from sward) Turf, grassy ground.

Sord (adj. an old word) Having a reddish colour, sorrel.

Sorde (adj. obsolete) Sorrel.

SORDES (s. from the Lat.) Foulness, dregs; the foulness that proceeds from a wound.

SORDET (s. from the Italian sordina) A small pipe put into the mouth of a trumpet.

SORDID (adj. from the Lat. sordidus) Foul, gross, filthy; mean, vile, base; misgardedly, covetous.

Sordidate (v. t. from sordid) To soil, to render sordid.

Sordidly (adv. from sordid) In a sordid manner.

Sordidness (s. from sordid) Meanness, baseness, dirtiness, covetousness.

SOR/DINE (s. from the Italian sordina) A small pipe put into the mouth of a trumpet to soften the sound.

SORE (s. from the Sax. ior) A tender place, a place excoriated, an ulcer.

Sore (adj. from the sub.) Tender to touch, violent with pain; grievous to be born; criminal; but this sense is now obsolete.

Sore (adv. from the adj.) Sorely, with painful violence.

SORE (s. from the French saur) A buck of the fourth year.

Sor'rage (s. in falconry) The first year of a hawk.

Sor'rhawk (s. in falconry) A hawk of the first year.

Sor'rhon (s. in the ancient customs of Scotland and Ireland) A kind of servile tenure in consequence of which the lord with his followers claimed a right to revel and live at free cost on the tenants at his pleasure.

Sor'el (s. from iore) A buck of the third year.

Sor'ely (adv. from iore) With a great degree of pain, with dangerous or afflictive violence.

Sor'eness (s. from iore) The state of being sore, the tenderness of a wound or hurt.

SOR'REX (s. in zoology) The shrewmouse.

SOR/GUM (s. in botany) A kind of millet, the boleus.

Sor'ie (adj. an old spelling) Sorry.

Sor'ing (s. a hunting term) The footing of a hare in the field.

SOR/ITES (s. from the Greek) A heap, an argument in rhetoric.

rhetoric in which one proposition or argument is accumulated on another.

SO'RIANT (adj. from sorites) Having several propositions accumulated on each other.

SO'RIANT (adj. from the Lat. sororians) Beginning to have the breasts protuberant.

SOR'iation (s. from sororiant) The state of being sororiant.

SOR'ICIDE (s. from the Lat. soror a sister, and cædo to kill) The crime of murdering a sister; one that murders a sister.

SOR'ITY (s. from the Lat. soror a sister, but not used) Interhood. Cole.

SOW'dest (v. int. second pers. sing. obsolete) Didst lament. Chaucer.

SOW'dest (v. int. obsolete) Didst lament. Chaucer.

SOW'age (s. in husbandry) The blades of green wheat or barley.

SOW'ance (s. in farriery) A disease or sore in horses.

SOW'ancewater (s. from sorance, and water) A solution of vitriol and some other ingredients in vinegar.

SOW'EL (s. in botany, from the Sax. fure) The name of a plant, a kind of dock, a four dock.

SOW'el (adj. in the manage) Reddish, having a colour tending to red.

SOW'elcolour (s. from sorrel, and colour) A reddish colour, a colour tending to red.

SOW'ier (adj. comp. of sorry) Sorry in a greater degree.

SOW'iest (adj. sup. of sorry) Sorry in the greatest degree.

SOW'ily (adv. from sorry) Meanly, poorly, despicably.

SOW'iness (s. from sorry) Meanness, wretchedness.

SOW'ROW (s. from the Sax. sorg) Grief, pain, sadness.

SOW'row (v. int. from the sub.) To grieve, to be sad, to be dejected.

SOW'rowed (adj. from sorrow, but not used) Attended with sorrow. Shakespeare.

SOW'rowful (adj. from sorrow) Full of sorrow, expressing sorrow; deeply serious; but this sense is now become obsolete. I Sam.

SOW'rowfully (adv. from sorrowful) In a sorrowful manner.

SOW'rowfulness (s. from sorrowful) The state of being sorrowful, grief of heart.

SOW'RY (adj. from the Sax. sorg) Grieved for something past, affected with a slight degree of sorrow or something past.

SOW'RY (adj. from the Islandick, four filth) Mean, worthless, vexatious.

SOW'ryness (s. from sorry) Meanness, pauperiness. Scott.

SOW'ry (s. from the Lat.) Lot, chance; principal money. Old Records.

SOW'ry (s. from the Lat. sortior, to take by lot) A kind, a species, a manner, a form of action; a class, an order; company, a knot of people; a rank, a condition.

SOW'ry (s. from sortes, obsolete) A lot, a part. Shakespeare.

SOW'ry (s. from sortes) A set, a pair. Milton.

SOW'ry (v. t. from the sub.) To separate into proper classes, to reduce to order, to cull, to choose.

SOW'ry (v. int.) To join with others of the same species, to consort; to suit, to fit; to terminate, to issue.

SOW'ry (adj. from sort, but not used) Belonging to a sort or species. Locke.

SOW'ry (s. from sort) Agreement, suitability.

SOW'ry (p. from sort) Separated into proper classes, reduced to order.

SOW'ry (s. plu. from the Lat.) Lots, the method of dealing dubious cases by lots.

SOW'ry (adj. obsolete) Allotted. Chaucer.

SOW'ry (s. from the Lat. sortilegium) The act or practice of drawing lots.

SOW'ry (s. from sortilege) The act or practice of drawing lots. Cole.

SOW'ry (p. a. from sort) Separating into proper classes, reducing to order.

SOW'ry (s. from the part.) The act of separating into proper classes, the act of reducing to order.

SOW'ry (s. in commerce) A kind of cloths.

SOW'ry (s. from the Lat. sortior to cast lots) The act of casting lots.

SOW'ry (s. from sortes) One that casteth lots. Cole.

SOW'ry (s. from sort) The act of sorting, a distribution, parcel of several sorts, a parcel or quantity of goods proper sorts.

SOW'ry (s. obsolete) Sorrow. Chaucer.

SOW'ry (s. in natural history) A mineral, a kind of crystal.

SOW'ry (s. in heathen mythology) The name of an idol worshiped by the Elians.

SOW'ry (s. in music) A rest equal to the time of a crochet.

SOS'PITA (s. in heathen mythology) One of the names of Juho.

SOS'PITAL (adj. from the Lat. sospes safe) Wholesome, safe.

SOSPITA'tion (s. from sospital) The act of keeping with safety. Cole.

SOS (v. int. a local word) To fall at once into a chair, to sit lazily on a chair.

SOS'THENES (s.) A man's name. Acts.

SOS'TRATUS (s.) A man's name, a famous architect who built the Egyptian Pharos.

SOS'TRUM (s. from the Greek, sow to cure) The fee given to a physician for curing a Patient. Phillips.

SOT (s. from the Sax.) A man given to drunkenness; a blockhead, a dull ignorant fellow.

Sot (v. t. from the sub.) To besot, to stupify.

Sot (v. int.) To tippie so as to stupify.

SOT'A'DES (s.) A man's name; a Cretan poet.

Sote (adj. obsolete) Sweet. Chaucer.

Sotell (adj. an old spelling) Subtile. Chaucer.

Sotilly (adv. obsolete) Subtily, cunningly. Chaucer.

SOTE'RIA (s. in antiquity) A sacrifice offered to the gods for deliverance from danger.

Soth (s. obsolete) Truth. Chaucer.

Soth (s. obsolete) True. Chaucer.

Soth'ale (s. in old customs) An entertainment made by the bailiff of a hundred.

Sothe (s. obsolete) Truth. Chaucer.

Sothe (adj. obsolete) True. Chaucer.

Soth'erne (adj. an old spelling) Southern. Chaucer.

Soth'fast (adj. obsolete) True. Chaucer.

Soth'fastness (s. obsolete) Truth. Chaucer.

Soth'ir (adj. obsolete) Truer. Chaucer.

Soth'ness (s. obsolete) Truth. Chaucer.

Soth'fow (s. obsolete) Veracity. Chaucer.

So'tille (s. obsolete) Subtily. Chaucer.

So'till (adj. an old spelling) Subtile. Chaucer.

Sot'ted (p. from sot) Besotted, stupified.

Sot'tid (p. obsolete) Besotted. Chaucer.

Sot'tish (adj. from sot) Dull, stupid; insatuated, senseless; drunken, dull with intemperance.

Sot'tishy (adv. from sot'tish) Stupidly, senselessly.

Sot'tishness (s. from sot'tish) Dulness, stupidity.

SOU (s. from the French) A sol, a French coin.

Sou'ble (adj. obsolete) Supple, tractable. Chaucer.

SOUCE (s. from the Dutch, souce salt) A sort of pickle; the flesh of hogs pickled.

Souce (v. t. from souce) To put into pickle, to pickle in salt and water.

Sou'ced (p. from souce) Preserved or cured in souce.

Sou'cing (p. a. from souce) Putting into pickle, preserving in pickle.

Sou'cing (s. from the part.) The act or process of pickling in souce.

Sou'don (s. an old spelling) The sultan. Chaucer.

Sou'donneis (s. obsolete) The sultana. Chaucer.

Sov'eraign (adj. an old spelling) Sovereign. Phillips.

Sov'eraign (s. an old spelling) A sovereign.

Sov'eraignty (s. an old spelling) Sovereignty. Phillips.

SOV'ERAIN (adj. from the French) Sovereign. Chau.

Sov'erainness (s. obsolete) Sovereignty. Chaucer.

SOV'ERIGN (adj. from the French, souveraine) Supreme in power, supremely efficacious.

Sov'ereign (s. from the adj.) A supreme lord.

Sov'ereignly (adv. from sovereign) Supremely, in the highest degree.

Sov'ereigns (s. from sovereign) Sovereignty. Scott.

Sov'ereignty (s. from sovereign) Supremacy; the highest degree of excellence.

SOUGH (s. from the French, fous) A subterraneous drain.

Sough/pit (s. from sough, and pit) A subterraneous drain, a trench for a subterraneous drain. Woodward.

Sought (v. t. pret. of seek) Did seek.

Sought (p. from seek) Searched for as lost, inquired after, intreated, desired.

Sou'ir (adj. an old spelling) Sour. Chaucer.

Souke (v. t. an old spelling) To suck, to consume. Ch.

Souk'ing (p. a. obsolete) Sucking. Chaucer.

Sou'kle (adj. obsolete) Poor, wretched. Chaucer.

SOUL (s. from the Sax. fowel) The spirit of man; the vital spirit; the interior power, the principal part; an active power, the power of the mind; a human being, an intelligent being.

Soul (adj. from the sub. used in composition) Belonging to the soul.

Soulcheer'ing (adj. from soul, and cheering) Cheering the soul.

Soulcomf'orting (adj. from soul, and comf'orting) Affording comfort to the soul.

S O U

Soul's concern (s. from soul, and concern) A matter that respects the soul.
Soule (adj. obsolete) Alone. Chaucer.
Souled (adj. from soul) Furnished with a soul, furnished with a mind.
Soul's foot (s. an old word) Money anciently paid to the priest on opening a grave. Scott.
Soul's le's (adj. from soul) Mean, low, spiritless.
Souk (adj. an old word) Wretched. Bailey.
Soul'mais (s. from soul, and mais) All Souls day.
Soul'mass cakes (s. from soul'mais, and cakes) Cakes formerly given to the poor on All Souls day.
Soulreviving (adj. from soul, and reviving) Reviving the soul.
Soul's seat (s. an old word) A legacy given to a parish priest in lieu of any tithes which might have been forgotten.
Soul's cot (s. from soul, and cot) Something paid for the requiem of a soul with the papists.
Soul's hot (s. from soul, and hot) The soul's cot.
Soul's trouble (s. from soul, and trouble) Trouble of mind, a concern about the soul.
SOUND (adj. from the Sax. fund) Healthy, whole, free from disease; right, free from error; stout, strong; firm, valid; fast, profound.
Sound (adv. from the adj.) Surely, heartily, soundly.
SOUND (s. from the French, sonde) A shallow part of the sea, a part of the sea that may be sounded; a probe, an instrument to search a deep wound.
SOUND (s. in ichthyology) The scuttlesh.
SOUND (s. from the Lat. sonus) A noise, any thing audible; mere empty noise.
Sound (v. t. from the sub.) To search with a plummet, to try for the bottom; to try, to examine.
Sound (v. int.) To try with the sounding line.
SOUND (v. int. from the Lat. sono) To emit a noise, to shew by likeness of sound.
Sound (v. t.) To make any thing to send forth a sound, to play on, to be taken by a sound, to celebrate by sound.
Sound/board (s. from sound, and board) A board to propagate the sound in an organ.
Sound'e (v. t. obsolete) To make sound. Chaucer.
Sound'ed (p. from sound) Searched to the bottom, tried as to depth; examined, sifted; made to sound, celebrated in sound, distinguished by sound.
Sound'er (s. a hunting term) A company or herd of swine.
Sound'er (adj. comp. of sound) Sound in a greater degree.
Sound'est (adj. sup. of sound) Sound in the greatest degree.
Sound'ing (p. a. from sound) Trying with a plummet, searching for the bottom; trying, examining; giving a sound, making a noise, celebrating in sound, distinguishing by sound; having a magnificent sound.
Sound'ing (s. from the part.) The act of emitting a sound, the sound emitted; the depth of the water.
Sound'ingboard (s. from sounding, and board) The canopy of a pulpit.
Sound'ingline (s. from sounding, and line) The line with which the depth of water is measured.
Sound'ly (adv. from sound) Healthily, heartily; stoutly, strongly; truly, rightly; fast, closely.
Sound'ness (s. from sound) Health, freedom from disease; truth, freedom from error; strength, solidity.
Soune (s. an old spelling) A sound. Chaucer.
Soun'treis (s. obsolete) Hair shining as the sun. Chaucer.
SOUP (s. from the French, soupe) A strong decoction of flesh for the table, strong broth.
Soupe, Soup'in (v. an old spelling) To keep. Chaucer.
Sou'pir (s. an obsolete spelling) A supper. Chaucer.
Sou'ple (adj. an old spelling) Supple, pliant. Chaucer.
SOUR (adj. from the Sax. sur) Pungent, acid, austere; harsh of temper, crabbed, morose; afflictive, painful; expressing discontent.
Sour (s. from the adj.) An acid substance, any thing four.
Sour (v. t. from the adj.) To make acid, to make harsh, to make uneasy, to make discontented.
Sour (v. int.) To become acid, to grow peevish, to become crabbed.
Source (s. from the French) A spring, a fountain; an origin, a first cause; the first producer.
Sourd (adj. an old word) Deaf. Cole.
Sourd (s. obsolete) A founder, a company of wild boars. Co.
Sourde (v. int. obsolete) To spring, to proceed. Chaucer.
Sour'det (s. an old spelling) The forget. Cole.
Sour'ed (p. from four) Made four, made crabbed.
Sour'er (adj. comp. of four) Sour in a greater degree.
Sour'est (adj. sup. of four) Sour in the greatest degree.
Sour'ing (p. a. from four) Making four.

S O U

SOUR'IS (s. in the manage) A cartilage in the nostrils of a horse which enables him to snort.
Sour'ish (adj. from four) Somewhat four, tending to four.
Sour'ly (adv. from four) With sourness.
Sour'ness (s. from four) Acidity, acrimony, asperity.
Sours (s. an old spelling) A source. Chaucer.
Sour'sop (s. in botany) The name of a plant, the fruit of the plant, the custard apple.
SOUS (s. from the French) A French penny.
SOUSCE (s. in cookery) A kind of jelly made of hog's feet and ears boiled in water. Pollard.
SOUSE (s. from the Dutch, sout) Pickle made of anything parboiled and kept in salt pickle.
Soufe (v. t. from the sub.) To boil soft and steep in liquor; to throw into water in a droll sense.
Soufe (v. int.) To fail as a bird on its prey.
Soufe (v. t.) To strike with a sudden violence as a bird on its prey.
Soufe (adv. a droll word) With sudden violence.
Soufed (p. from soufe) Preserved in salt pickle, thrown over head and ears in water.
Sous'ing (p. a. from soufe) Boiling soft and putting into salt pickle; throwing into water; striking with sudden violence.
Sous'ing (s. from the part.) The act or process of pickling in soufe.
SOUSTE'NCE (adj. in heraldry) Having a small part the chief beneath of a different tincture.
Sout'age (s. an old word) A kind of coarse cloth for bags, a tax of forty shillings heretofore paid on every knight's fee.
SOU'TERRAIN (s. from the French) A grotto, a cave in the ground. Arbutnot.
SOUTH (s. from the Sax. suth) The point of the heavens opposite to the north, that part or line in the heavens which the sun passes at noon; the southern regions of the globe; the wind that blows from the south.
South (adj. from the sub.) Southern, belonging to the meridian.
South (adv. from the adj.) Towards the south, from the south.
SOUTH'AM (s.) A town in Warwickshire; it has a market on Monday, and is 83 miles from London.
South'am (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Southam, made at Southam.
SOUTHAMPT'ON (s.) A large port and borough town in Hampshire; it has a market on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, sends two members to parliament, and is 78 miles from London.
SOUTHAMPT'ON (s. from the foregoing) Hants. "The county of Southampton."
Southampt'on (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Southampton, made at Southampton, imported at Southampton.
South'bo's (s. an old word) Underwood in a forest.
Southea't (adj. from south, and east) Lying between the south and the east, blowing from the point between the south and the east.
Southea't (s. from the adj.) The point of the heavens between the south and the east, the parts that lie between the south and the east.
South'erliness (s. from southerly) The state or quality of lying towards the south.
Southerly (adj. from south, the th is sounded flat) Longing to the south, coming from the south, towards the south.
South'e'n (adj. from south, the th is sounded flat) Longing to the south, coming from the south, towards the south.
Southernwood (s. in botany, the th is sounded flat) The name of a plant.
South'ing (s. from south, the th is sounded flat) The act of going to the south, a tendency to the south.
South'ly (adv. obsolete) Softly.
South'most (adj. from south, and most) Lying farthest towards the south.
South'saw (s. an old word) A true saying.
South'say (s. an improper spelling) A soothsay, a prediction.
South'say (v. int. an improper spelling) To soothsay, to predict.
South'sayer (s. an improper spelling) A soothsayer.
South'saying (p. a. from southsay, an incorrect spelling) Soothsaying, predicting.
South'vicant (s. an old word) The under sheriff.
South'ward (adv. from south, and ward) Towards the south.
SOUTH'WARK (s.) A large borough of Surrey; it is a suburb of London from which it is divided by the river.

S P A

river Thames, it sends two members to parliament.
 Southwark (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to the borough of Southwark, made in the borough of Southwark.
 Southwell (s.) A town in Nottinghamshire; it has a market on Saturday, and is 136 miles from London.
 Southwell (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Southwell, made at Southwell.
 Southwester (adj. from south, and west) Lying between the south and west, blowing from between the south and west.
 Southwester (s. from the adj.) To point between the south and west.
 Southwold (s.) A town in Suffolk; it has a market on Thursday, and is 103 miles from London.
 Southwold (adj. from the sub.) Belonging to Southwold, made at Southwold.
 Sow (s. an old word) A cobbler. Chaucer.
 Souvenance (s. from the French) The memory, the retentive faculty, the remembrance.
 Sow (s. from the Sax. sorgan, the sow is founded like an) A female pig, the female of a boar; an oblong lump of lead or other metal in its first state from the ore; the name of an insect, the millipede.
 Sow (v. t. from the Sax. sawan, the sow is pronounced like o) To scatter in the ground, to scatter seed in order to grow; to spread, to propagate; to impregnate with seed.
 Sow (v. int.) To scatter seed.
 Sow (v. t. from sew) To sew, to tack together with thread.
 Sowbacked (adj. from sow, and backed) Having a back like a pig.
 Sowbread (s. in botany) The name of a plant.
 Sowce (v. t. not so common a spelling) To souce, to throw into the water. L'Estrange.
